

The University House, Cal Poly San Luis Obispo, current residence of President and Mrs. Jeff Armstrong; built in 1928. Photographer: [Trevor Povah]

Existing tile entry, wood stair railing and panoramic framed photos are complemented with new cherry and maple flooring, a new entry piece and area landscape scenes by local artists. Photographer: [Trevor Povah]

Existing lounge chairs and coffee table are enhanced with a beautiful octagonal area rug, to create an intimate seating area. Furnishings are minimal as this room is often cleared for group functions. Photographer: [Trevor Povah]

Open to the remodeled kitchen, the family room's new furnishings create a warm, inviting atmosphere with several seating areas for the President's family and university functions. Existing barstools were reupholstered in a charming Mission style fabric. Photographer: [Trevor Povah]

New lighting and existing barstools, reupholstered in a charming Mission style fabric, help tie in the kitchen's contemporary maple cabinetry and granite counters with the era of the architecture. Photographer: [Trevor Povah]

The original redwood ceilings, existing shades, dining table and built-in provide a spacious dining room for large groups. New Parsons style chairs and table decor add color and flavor. Photographer: [Trevor Povah]

The President's home office is outfitted with a new wall unit, desk and a colorful area rug to tie in existing leather lounge chairs. Photographer: [Trevor Povah]