

John Haile Note

Walt Isaac. Posted on: America Online (using WAOL 1.0a) Walter-m, It has taken a while, but we've come up with something that we can live with that, I think, gets us to where you were suggesting Wednesday. Look it over and give me a call Friday mornnig. Sorry I missed you Thursday-m, but I was hung up in meetings on candidate endorsements. We've got primary elections here in two weeks. My -mother job keeps getting in the way. Anyway, here's what has been drafted: (c) TINS agrees to provide -mTINS' Local News Application to NOD on a continuous basis for a period beginning with the launch of TINS Loca-ml News on the News Service and ending one (1) year after the Mass Date or Dec. 31, 1997, whichever is earlier-m. TINS may terminate this Agreement earlier upon 180 days' advance written notice certifying that TINS has d-metermined in good faith that it will no longer be involved in the interactive video news business in the Orla-mndo/Daytona/Melbourne DMA for a period beginning upon TINS' notification of termination and ending one year a-mfter the Mass Date or December 31, 1997, whichever is earlier. (d) If TINS does not cease its involve-mmment in the interactive video news business in the Orlando/Daytona/Melbourne DMA, TINS may terminate this agr-meement anytime upon 180 day's advance written notice to NOD after either of the following: one year after the-m mass date, or December 31, 1997. This addresses your concern that we should be obligated t-mo provide you a news service so long as we choose to offer such broadband services. It also gives you a littl-me on the prospective side, saying that we couldn't offer a service to a competing system during that time if -mwe left the FSN during those three years. I would note, too, that since the overall contract runs from the ti-mme it is signed, this provision carries you very close to the halfway point. The one thing that migh-mt still some clarification is how we would deal with our AOL system. I guess it's possible AOL could have vid-meo capabilities during that period, though it certainly is taking them a long time just to get the new graphi-mcs user interface. Give me a call Friday morning, then you can get on with enjoying a long weekend o-mut of the office. I had tried calling you back again later in the afternoon at a 516 area code number but got-D no answer. My number: 407-420-5195. john haile
