Patrick was found like this on St. Patrick's day, in New Jersey, at the end of a trash chute in a 22 story building, by a city worker right before Patrick was to be taken by the trash truck. He was rescued, the purported owner has been charged, and the story of his rehabilitation is on a facebook page, The Patrick Miracle. Maybe his story can inspire others to identify cruelty.

Ever wondered what all of those confusing-- often misleading--labels on eggs and meat products really mean? Such as 'natural', 'cage free', 'organic', etc...See www.humanesociety.org/labels that 'natural' means nothing as far as the animal's welfare, and United Egg Producers Certified is the egg industry's voluntary program which allows battery cage suffering for chickens. Humane doesn't have to cost much more.

I continue to be shamed that when I married Pam, I turned her away from "vegetarianism" – I DO try to limit my "meat" intake – my father ONLY eats stuff via the ground and sea. "Hummmm, an idea....."
March 15 at 9:15pm

Della Woods Lindquist Hi, David...I'm not a vegetarian..but also don't eat a lot of meat, I just want the ones which are used for our food to have a life which is not of suffering. If each of us paid attention to where the food comes from and not just mindlessly put the cheapest thing in our basket, we'd make a huge difference. Some of the big, bad farms are trying to pass a law making it illegal to take pictures of their farm without their permission..I took action on this USDA rule by commenting. It does make a difference.

Most towns and cities in Texas now use the more humane approach. For some strange reason, Garland is the only city of this size which still uses the carbon monoxide gassing chamber. While legal--it is not a humane death for the animals. People have been trying to get them to change for a long time.

My gosh! How can this be legal?

August 13, 2010 at 8:42am

Della Woods Lindquist It is legal, because there are no regulations or it is hard to enforce, and the greed of disreputable breeders is beyond belief. Puppies are cash crops like corn or wheat...no thought to the living thing underneath the dollar signs...If the consumer demand was not there, the bad breeders would not be there...it's about letting the public know. The pretty pictures on the internet are not telling the true story..Sigh.

Everything is ready for our trip to the Cayman Islands. You may want to bring a cooler of food since there is a kitchen. I think you can bring anything that won't spoil. Last trip we even had evaporated milk, chicken and steak (there are several grills there).

I can hardly wait..so, Steven and I will be going to the Caymans at some undisclosed time in the near future...but anyone even thinking of robbing our home while we are gone needs to know we have an ex-Marine pet sittier and a 5-dog crew of K-9 security. Dels. We are staying at the Courtyard Marriott in Sugarland (which I think is by the airport but I am not sure). We will get more organized as we get closer to the time. So you got to meet Emmylou Harris. What a hoot. Did Steven spill coffee on her as a way to get her attention or was he just so star struck?? I got to watch her do a concert from backstage in Vail back in the early 80's. Man do I feel old now.

I am so glad that you are available in September. I am not sure if we are dancing both days or if all of our dances will be on Saturday or Sunday. We should know before the competition. I am so psyched to be able to see you. It will make this trip totally awesome even if we bomb in the competition. Hopefully we will be amazing--knock on wood and use my own head. I have to go and represent the white chicks as well as the over thirty crowd. What kind of surgery are you having in June? I am still trying to get my hubby to spring for a tummy tuck, boob lift but...with the economy the way it is groceries and bills take precedence.

Delacita Bonita--I finally got the scoop for my whirlwind Texas trip. We are dancing at the Stafford Centre on the 4th and 5th of September. After the big dance competition we will be hanging out in Houston on the 6th and flying out on the 7th. Let me know if we can work something out. I know that the great state of Texas is larger than life so we Coloradans may be overwhelmed with all of the excitement.
