Hello --

I am writing to follow up on a conversation I had with your office earlier today by phone. I submitted this FOIA request on October 9, 2013. More than six months have passed and I have yet to receive a single document.

I was told that the responsive documents are in the "last stages of review" and that they would be produced to me "as soon as possible." Given how my FOIA request has been handled thus far, these assurances ring hollow. I will appreciate if you can provide me with a firm date by which I can expect to receive these documents.

If I do not receive all responsive documents by May 9, 2014, I will be referring this matter to an attorney for potential litigation. Thank you for your attention to this, and I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Regards,
