

---

Need more proof?

Protecting Fish on the Skagit

The Skagit River Project Fisheries Program has five major components: managing flows; acquiring, protecting, and enhancing important fish habitat; research; and monitoring spawning salmon populations.

Managing Flows

The historical spawning grounds for Skagit salmon are located downstream of the dams, below a natural fish migration barrier. However, if flows are not carefully managed the dams can