Dear FOIA Officer,

I submit this request pursuant to the Freedom of Information Act (“FOIA”), 5 U.S.C. § 552, to the Department of Defense (DOD) for records from the Saddam Hussein Regime collection of the former Conflict Records Research Center.

Background

In 2010, the Conflict Records Research Center (CRRC) was established at National Defense University to fulfill the Secretary of Defense’s intent to enable research into records captured by U.S. and coalition forces abroad. The goal was to support such research with “complete and rigid adherence to academic freedom and integrity.” The CRRC’s mission was to facilitate the use of captured records by researchers both within and outside the government. Following its establishment, CRRC staff oversaw the translation and digital archiving of declassified records captured by US or coalition forces in Iraq, Afghanistan and elsewhere, and made them available to journalists and scholars.

Among the declassified records held by CRRC was a particular set referred to as the Saddam Hussein Regime collection. These digital records are of two types. There are thousands of pages of documents describing activities of the Saddam Hussein Regime in Iraq before 2003. Secondly, there are thousands of hours of audio files containing recorded conversations of regime leaders.

CRRC historians translated from Arabic into English, created transcripts, and made available to researchers approximately two hundred hours of these audio files. Each file is identified by a thirteendigit alphanumeric code. In many of the conversations released, CRRC researchers identified Saddam Hussein as a participant in the discussions. In 2011, two CRRC historians and an outside scholar, Mark E. Stout of Johns Hopkins University, published a book containing annotated excerpts of these audio transcripts. The book is entitled The Saddam Tapes: The Inner Workings of a Tyrant's Regime, 1978-2001; it was published by Cambridge University Press in 2011. The book contains excerpted raw transcripts from the CRRC collection. (See Exhibit A, attached).

In 2015, the CRRC closed because of budgetary issues. There remains a WordPress site containing some but by no means all of the Center's materials. The site, for example, contains 28 transcripts of translated and declassified conversations where Saddam Hussein is a participant: <https://conflictreports.wordpress.com>. Included on that WordPress site contains a Saddam Hussein Collection index with alphanumeric codes of published, translated documents and transcripts of audio recordings. (See Exhibit B, attached).

Initially the Department of Defense sought to transfer the CRRC records to an independent university but was unable to decide on a way forward. Eventually, the full archive of CRRC's digital records were removed to an office under the supervision of the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Strategy, Plans and Capabilities, where the records remain today, unavailable to the researchers and journalists they were intended to serve.

Requested Records

Pursuant to FOIA, I request copies of the following:

- 1) All English language transcripts from the CRRC's Saddam Hussein Regime collection corresponding to the alphanumeric codes attached as Appendix A;
- 2) All Arabic language transcripts from the CRRC's Saddam Hussein Regime corresponding to the codes attached as Appendix A;

- 3) All digital audio files corresponding to the English and Arabic language transcripts listed in Appendix A.

Please search all records systems, databases, offices, and other repositories that could contain responsive records, including the office of the Assistant Secretary of Defense for Strategy, Plans and Capabilities, which sponsored CRRC in the first instance and now holds its records.

Fee Benefit and Fee Waiver Requested

As a representative of the news media – I am the Dean of the Graduate School of Journalism at Columbia University, a staff writer at The New Yorker, and a Penguin Press author of nonfiction books – I request a fee benefit which would require me to pay only for the direct cost of duplication after the first 100 pages of responsive records. 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(4)(A)(ii)(II). I regularly research, write and publish magazine articles and books about American foreign policy and government activities. I intend to analyze and disseminate information obtained through this Request to the general public via my work as a writer and author.

In the event that records responsive to this Request exceed 100 pages, I am willing to pay up to $200.00 in duplication fees. Please inform me if fees will exceed that amount before proceeding.

I also seek a fee waiver pursuant to 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(4)(A)(iii) because disclosure of these records is “likely to contribute significantly to public understanding of the operations or activities of the government and is not primarily in the commercial interest of the requester.” Id.; see also 32 C.F.R. § 16.10. As noted above, in this case, the government itself previously released the records because it believed their dissemination would contribute significantly to public understanding about the kinds of totalitarian or authoritarian regimes that affect U.S. government decision-making and operations. The records were withdrawn not because of any contrary consideration, but for budgetary reasons. As an author who writes regularly about America’s conflicts with fragile and authoritarian states, I intend to use the information in these records help the public understand the origins of U.S. conflict in Iraq, the intelligence failures regarding Saddam Hussein’s WMD programs, and other matters of continuing importance to the public and the government. These records are being sought for dissemination to the public through multiple publishing and communication channels.

Conclusion

If this request is denied in whole or part, I ask that you justify all deletions by reference to specific exemptions of the act and include an explanation of why the Department of Defense “reasonably foresees that disclosure would harm an interest protected” by the particular exemption. 5 U.S.C. § 5552(a)(8).

If you have any questions regarding this request, please do not hesitate to email me at stevecollny@gmail.com.

Sincerely,

Steve Coll

Ali: Some have suggested that we pollute it [the Kuwaiti sewer system] with chemical material. I, frankly, did not agree to that, because as you know, such pollution requires a great deal to prepare for how we will sanitize, how we will clean, and then I do not know when [inaudible, possibly "the rain?"] will come down, and the possibility that it will wash it down, and thus its efficacy will almost be nil. Consequently, this will hurt us at sea, especially if it is used in larger quantities than what was previously determined, or more than expected. We will start dry runs and efficient and swift practices from the 10th, Your Excellency Mr. President, until the 14th. We did not start with the citizens as they are scared from the beginning. We do not want to scare the citizens, as I fear that this will negatively affect the fighters' morale when they see the fear and reaction of citizens. So we decided to wait a period of two weeks. I mean, this period is for us, for the fighters, so we can begin the first dry run or the first practice to vaccinate our comrades and our troops. And then the following days, oh, frankly, the other four days, we decided to give the last two days as a rest for the soldiers, I mean for the fighters. This way they are prepared for the night of the 15th.

Ali: The other comment, Your Excellency, is what is happening in Baghdad with regard to civil defense awareness. There is an explanation about the effects of atomic, nuclear bombs, its efficacy, what does it do, how many people will it kill and how many people will it decimate. All of this awareness is frightening the people and instilling fear. The professors who come and lecture at the ministries, at the schools, at other places, they present details of this war or this bomb. We do not have to do that; we only have to provide awareness about preventive measures of such bombs. But when we keep discussing the effects of these bombs [speaker laughs]. Honestly, Sir, we drive them crazy.

The other comment, perhaps our brothers at civil defense are not paying sufficient attention to it, and this is that the evacuation usually takes place to the north and not to the south. I am sure they know, but as you know, north Baghdad is hindered by the Dijla River, those who come from al-Tharthar.<sup>61</sup> And we only have one bridge; if that bridge is hit, all of Baghdad will be at a standstill. We have to acquire a group of bridges and we have to quickly mount bridge heads now, so that whenever the need exists to erect them, we could do so. This matter worries me a lot. I am concerned with the right side of the Dijla River, not its left. I fear that it will be completely severed, then the exodus will take place toward the south and heading to the south, if it is in the direction of chemical attack and I mean, the contamination, this is a dangerous state.

<sup>60</sup> SH-SHTP-A-001-042, "Saddam and the Revolutionary Command Council Discussing the Iraqi Invasion of Kuwait and the Expected US Attack," 29 December 1990. For more information on Iraq's plans and exercises to evacuate Baghdad in the event of coalition WMD strikes, see *SH-PDWN-D-001-248, "Correspondence between Presidential Diwan and Other Iraqi Authorities Discussing Emergency Evacuation Plans for Iraqi Cities in the Event of an Attack Using Weapons of Mass Destruction," 29 December 1990.

But this, this fear factor, I urge you to stop it. I wonder why were we educated, all of this hoopla about the effects of nuclear and atomic attack. These are scare tactics. It frightens the children, it frightens their parents, it frightens the fighter . . .

Izzat: Your Excellency Mr. President, what Comrade Ali has stated regarding the timing of the mass attack is correct. It is true that it has caused a state of fear in society. I mean, this could create such a state. Even now, such a state of fear exists among some troops. Some of the troops are suffering from an unbalanced state with regard to their thinking about how to deal with the war. We cannot segregate the society from the soldiers in the war front. If the society is in a state of fear, it will affect the fighters, and I agree with what Comrade Ali has stated, they go to their –

Saddam: Families.

Izzat: Families, so worried about this state and they hear that their families will be in this miserable state, being subjected to bombing, high temperature, poisoning, and other effects. They will be demoralized. So I suggest, and I support Comrade Ali, that explanation shall be limited to prevention only.

Saddam: Comrade [Izzat], give me leeway to speak frankly with you, at this moment of ours. He who does not want to contribute in raising the morale, I urge him not to contribute in the lowering of morale. It is not right that I speak in this manner at the Command level, but let me be frank with you. What are we, a bunch of kids? . . .

The civil defense has brought us back, at least in Baghdad, to a period when public opinion was agitated, like when we were engaged with Iran. Why did this happen? I have said from the beginning, Comrade Izzat, I swear on your moustache to pay attention to civil defense.<sup>62</sup> Isn't that so?<sup>63</sup> I had a hunch that civil defense would not be up to par. So why, why is this happening? Our people are united. Excellent. Its morale is high, and if you spoil the population, you might as well throw it away in the garbage. Is this the way to preserve our people's morale? What is wrong with you? Don't you listen to the people? What is this? Are the people considered a burden on us? Should we treat the people like robots? I have only scared you once throughout my entire life before a war and I have rectified my action in the manner of which you already know, when I scared you and told you that we will be hit by atomic bombs.

One time you say we want Kuwait, and after that if something happens like this rumor, then you adopt another opinion. I asked you, "Are you ready?" And you responded, "Yes we are ready," and then I rectified my [scare tactic] action, and I told you to erase all that I had said . . . We did not agree, Comrade Izzat, that this is the correct approach for evacuation. Comrade Izzat, you supervise evacuation. I told you that evacuation, we are not the ones who will evacuate people. I said that at the Command meeting.

<sup>63</sup> Iraq apparently began evacuating key cities very shortly after invading Kuwait. According to an Iraqi transcript of a 6 October meeting between Saddam and Soviet envoy Yevgeny Primakov, Saddam expressed concern to the Soviet envoy that it would be problematic for Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait under U.S. pressure. He argued that Iraq's leaders could not claim that they were surprised by the strong U.S. reaction, as the Iraqi people "will say no; your assessment was correct, because we know you evacuated the cities of Baghdad, al-Basra, and Salah ad Din [the Iraqi governorate containing Tikrit] in anticipation of an American nuclear attack; your assessment was for a situation that is more difficult than war." Saddam added, "What would be our answer then?" See SH-PDWN-D-000-533, "Saddam Meeting with a Soviet Delegation," 6 October 1990.

Izzat: The written plan -

Saddam: But - no problem - after the plan, I told you, Comrade Izzat, that evacuation should be carried out by citizens acquainting themselves with the countryside. And you told me that this will facilitate many things for us, and will make evacuation very smooth. And Comrade Sa'd, you also spoke.

Sa'd:<sup>64</sup> [Inaudible voices in the background] You informed me and told me do not [inaudible] but do not inform them.

Saddam: But tell them -

Sa'd: And we applied this to a section of Baghdad.

Saddam: And this will make me comfortable, those who want to go can go, and those who do not want to go, do not have to go. Fine. With regard to evacuation, this war is not with Iran, not even with Israel, because Israel relies on American satellites for the purposes of photographing us, and sometimes the Americans cooperate with them, and other times they do not. This is based on existing policies. Right now, when we have identified six areas designated for evacuation, are these areas known or not known? Well, which one is better for these human masses: to be bombed in tents, or to be bombed while they are in their houses?

Male 5: If they intend to attack them?

Saddam: If they intend to attack them directly, they will bomb them while they are in their tents.

Male 5: Easier -

Saddam: . . . Is transferring [evacuating] two million people our goal? The mission is preserving the morale of those two million people after we have completed the evacuation. I place emphasis on having the Iraqi remain in his home to maintain his high morale. This will be better than moving him through a practice [evacuation]. If the Iraqi loses his morale, he is defeated. Perhaps I may not venture into war, but it is possible that I will win the war without fighting; this is possible, even if you give it one percent, one per thousand, and this is still a valid possibility. However, if the Iraqi loses his morale, I lose the war before fighting.

Now do you see how this phenomenon yields opposite results? So now I am not satisfied with the morale of the citizens of Baghdad. Namely, I am not satisfied with civil defense measures that contribute to such low morale.

Izzat: [Inaudible.]

Saddam: Why, Comrade Izzat, what is happening with us? Didn't we say when we were discussing the evacuation plan, that every citizen should befriend a rural citizen,
