Pearl Necklace Chosen by Bride As Only Ornament

A single strand of pearls, which was a gift to her from the groom, formed the only ornament worn last evening by Miss Mary Ethel Robinson, when she became the bride of James Harry Brice at Moreland Avenue Baptist church. Dr. T. T. Davis read the marriage service at 7:30 o'clock.

Mrs. W. L. Archer, soloist, and Mrs. J. H. McEachern, organist, presented a musical program. Adorning the rostrum was an arrangement of white chrysanthemums and gladioli posed against a background of palms and woodwardia ferns. Branched candelabra, which bore lighted white tapers, flanked the floral arrangement.

The usher-groomsman were J. D. Harp, Charles Shimp, J. M. Robinson and Lewis Robinson. Serving as best man was W. H. Davis.

Mrs. Flora Davis, the matron of honor, wore a blue taffeta gown fashioned with a bouffant skirt. She carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums tied with pink ribbon. The bridesmaids, Misses Rose Cooper, Oplee Lee Cooper, Gladys Carter and Mrs. Mildred Wigginton, wore dusty pink taffeta models styled like the maid of honor's. Their flowers were yellow chrysanthemums.

The lovely young bride was given in marriage by her father, J. O. Robinson. Lustrous bluish satin styled with a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves, and a bouffant skirt, which extended to form a train, fashioned the bride's wedding attire. A tiara of orange blossoms and seed pearls caught the tulle veil to the bride's hair. Bride's roses, orchids and swainsona fashioned the bride's bouquet.

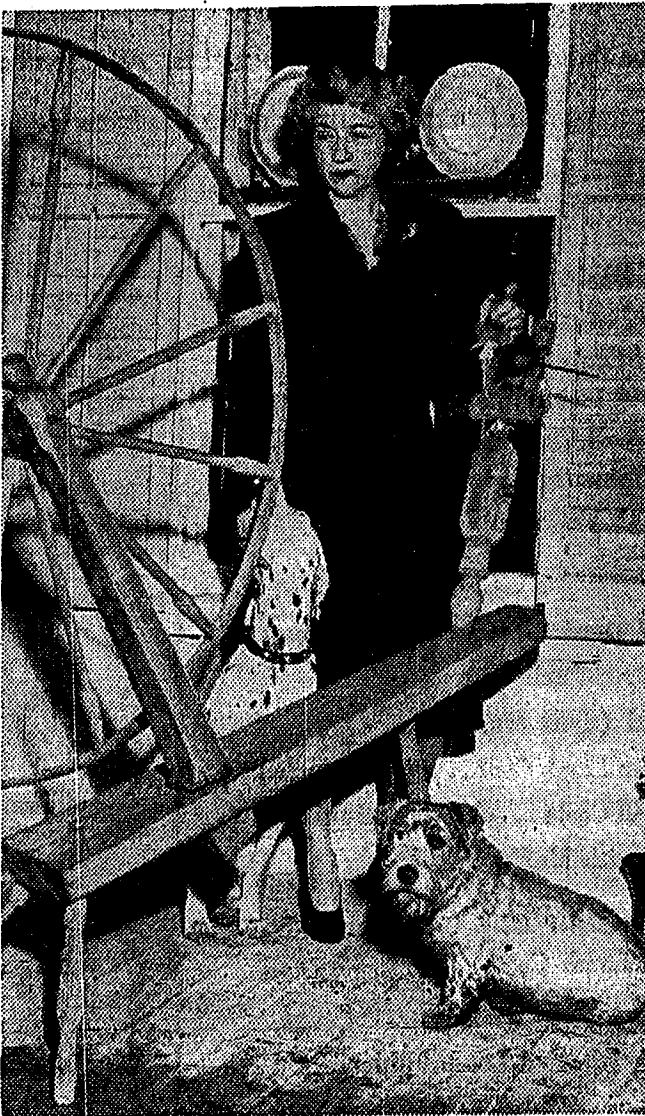

Mr. and Mrs. Robinson entertained at a reception at their home following the ceremony. Mrs. Robinson received her guests wearing wine crepe accented by a shoulder cluster of talisman roses. Mrs. J. K. Brice, the groom's mother, wore defense blue crepe offset by a shoulder spray of pink roses.

Assisting in entertaining were Mesdames J. K. Brice, Bertie Newnam, V. W. Thompson and Miss Ann Love. A profusion of white chrysanthemums adorned the interior of the Robinson home. The bride's table was lace covered with a lace cloth and centered with a tiered wedding cake encircled with bride's roses. On each side were placed candelabra holding burning white tapers.

During the evening Mr. Brice and his wife departed for a wedding trip to the south. Mrs. Brice traveled in a defense blue suit with which she wore a matching top coat trimmed with grey wolf fur. A shoulder cluster of orchids completed her attire. Upon their return to the city the bride and groom will reside at 978 Delaware avenue, S. E.

Navy Wives' Club.

The Navy Wives' Club meets on Friday with Mrs. E. L. Weber at 8 o'clock at her home, 5 Etowah drive, Brookhaven.

Here is the little whitewashed house on the Campbellton road in which Mrs. Campbell McKenna placed her collection of treasured antiques, and where she will dispose of farm products for the tenants on her 2,000-acre farm. The picture of the real Aunt Fanny Williams, for whom the cabin is named, appears at the upper right. She has been in the employ of Mrs. McKenna's family more than 57 years and is a famous colored cook. Many of the delicacies prepared by Aunt Fanny are on sale, as are the antiques adorning every room. Mrs. McKenna and her dogs, Piccadilly and Laddie, are pictured below at the right, standing on the front porch of "Aunt Fanny's Cabin." Mrs. McKenna, assisted by Miss Nan du Bignon, will manage the project, which will be opened today.

Antiques and Farm Products Are in 'Aunt Fanny's Cabin'

By BESSIE S. STAFFORD. The sign reads "Aunt Fanny's Cabin," and it hangs on the porch of a whitewashed house on Campbell road near Smyrna. The antebellum house belongs to Mrs. Campbell McKenna, who has stocked it with her collection of antiques, conserves, and all kinds of farm products.

Aunt Fanny Williams, for whom the cabin is named, is a famous colored mammy who has been in Mrs. McKenna's family for more than 57 years. She was employed by her father, the late Orme Campbell, before he married her mother, and she nursed Mrs. McKenna and her brother, Orme Campbell. There is naught that Aunt Fanny does not know about the culinary art. Her delicious jellies, preserves and canned fruits are on sale in the cabin.

The smiling face of Aunt Fanny is reproduced on the lithographed post cards announcing the opening of the cabin today. Her famous vegetable soup, goulash and ginger bread will be served all during the winter at a nominal cost.

Mrs. McKenna's generous gesture is incorporated in the sale of farm products raised and made by tenants on her 2,000-acre farm, in order to provide a market for products that heretofore have not found a market. One tenant has notified her she will have 12 dozen eggs to sell every week. Country-grown chickens, ducks, turkeys, hams and country-made sausage, molasses and cornmeal will be offered the buying public.

Reflects Mrs. McKenna's Ideas. The cabin was decorated under the supervision of Mrs. McKenna and reflects her original ideas. Two bright red doors open on the front porch into the room, and defense blue blinds hang at the windows of the cabin. Maple cupboards are set against the blue walls in the living room, and yellow-flowered chintz curtains the windows. Glass shelves are filled with antique glassware and priceless bric-a-brac. Ruby glass lamps adorn the maple tables and a log fire burns in the old-fashioned fireplace.

Yellow and purple hues predominate in the bedroom designated as Miss Nan du Bignon's room. She will direct her splendid efforts toward helping Mrs. McKenna manage the worthwhile project, and they will donate 5 per cent of the sales to some war work charity.

Maple chairs, a buffet, and table dress up the dining room, where the walls are papered in antebellum scenes. Green paint trims the windows and doors, and maple cabinet shelves hold antique china dishes. Historic Kennesaw mountain lifts its majestic head in the distance, and is glimpsed through the dining room windows. Strawberries Painted on Walls.

Luscious red strawberries with blue leaves have been painted by Mrs. Sam Slicer on the yellow walls in the kitchen. The strawberry motif is repeated on the glazed blue chintz curtains, and Victory blue linoleum covers the floor. A white enameled frigidaire and stove are ready for usage, and yellow shelves trimmed with blue paint add an effective note to the walls.

Although Aunt Fanny is 70 years old, her age does not deter her from bustling around the kitchen and popping corn in the fireplace. She daily indulges in Coca-Cola, the soft drink for which Atlanta is internationally known. She always wears a printed calico dress, a big white apron, and a white bandana is wrapped around her head.

Whitewashed Fence. A whitewashed fence encloses the land on which "Aunt Fanny's Cabin" stands across the road from Argyle, the country home of Mrs. McKenna on the Campbell road. The dirt road leading to the cabin branches off to the left of the road upon which motorists detoured before the Marietta highway was completed. Mrs. McKenna and Miss du Bignon will greet the public next Wednesday, and every day thereafter, at "Aunt Fanny's Cabin," on the Campbell road.

Miss Collins Weds Michael Scherer In Miami, Fla.

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 26. — The marriage of Miss Christine Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Collins, of Miami, formerly of McDonough, Ga., to Michael Scherer, son of Phillip Scherer, of Miami, and the late Mrs. Scherer, was solemnized here recently at 7:30 in Holy Trinity Lutheran church, with Rev. Daniel Iverson officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Sergeant Benjamin T. Collins, of Camp Blanding. She wore white mousseline de soie posed over satin made with a narrow Peter Pan collar, shirred yoke outlined in a ruffle, and a circular skirt extending into a train. Her fingertip tulle veil fell from a tiara of orange blossoms. She carried white chrysanthemums.

Mrs. William C. Mount, matron of honor, wore periwinkle blue marquisette made on similar lines without a train. Her shoulder-length veil was caught to her head by a tiara of French violets. She carried bronze chrysanthemums. Miss Carol Bolduc and Miss Kathryn McDonald, bridesmaids, were dressed identically, using the same headdress and carried yellow chrysanthemums.

Walter Kelly was Mr. Scherer's best man. E. B. Leatherman and Willard Goodman were ushers. Earl Rhinehart sang vocal selections.

Mrs. Collins, mother of the bride, wore yellow and brown print with brown accessories, and her flowers were talisman roses. A reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. McDonald, at 1202 Granada boulevard in Coral Gables, Fla. Presiding at the punch bowl were Mrs. A. L. Boyer, Mrs. John R. Lake, sister of the bride, and Mrs. J. W. Goodman. In charge of the bride's book were Misses Janie Carson and Doris Birt.

Mr. Scherer is called Miami's favorite athletic son, being outstanding as a football star while attending Miami High school. He continued his athletic career at the University of Miami, and belongs to the Epsilon Pi fraternity. He plays baseball with the New York Giants and is better known as "Lefty."

Mrs. Scherer is descended from pioneer families of Henry and Spalding counties, her mother being the former Miss Myrtle Clements, of McDonough, her father, the son of the late Dr. and Mrs. T. J. Collins, of Griffin. She is a graduate of Miami High school and holds a responsible position with the Southern Bell Telephone Company.
