RE: Public Health Announcement on COVID-19 Response

The omicron variant is now the dominant COVID-19 strain in the United States, and it is the most contagious of any COVID-19 variant yet, causing new infections to rise to levels that surpass any prior surge that we have experienced thus far. According to the CDC, this massive surge may reach its peak in January or April of 2022. The symptoms associated with omicron are similar to an upper respiratory infection. Testing is a critical tool for identifying the disease. Masking, isolating, and quarantining are also critical tools for stopping the spread of the disease. Out of an abundance of caution, the December order is being renewed for the month of January with a few changes reflecting new CDC guidance. Further updates to align future health order(s) with the evolving legal landscape are under advisement.

Overall, Health Order 29 contains almost no required measures, except for a notice requirement about rental assistance to tenants facing eviction and a mask requirement for schools that are covered by the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA). In addition, the Shelby County Health Department remains present and available to provide public health guidance on any matter related to the COVID-19 pandemic as well as the many other public health challenges existing now or that arise in the future.

As in previous Health Orders, the Department highly recommends that businesses continue to require masks in indoor, public settings and continue to require quarantine and isolation measures pursuant to CDC guidance. Masks and isolation protocols are required in schools that are covered by the ADA as a result of a recent federal court order issued by the United States District Court for the Western District of Tennessee. Masks and isolation protocols are highly recommended in schools that are not covered by the ADA. That a school is not legally required by court order to require masks in indoor spaces does not mean that it should not do so, especially during the rise of the most infectious variant, omicron, that we have faced yet. The Department considers in-person learning a vital component of education and pediatric health, and taking these simple measures makes our schools safe for children, teachers, employees, and visitors.

Anyone anywhere in Shelby County who tests positive for COVID-19 or who is a close-contact with a person who has tested positive should follow CDC guidance on how to isolate or quarantine. Please see below for the most up-to-date and complete guidance.

Shelby County Buildings that house individuals, including the Walter Bailey Criminal Justice Complex, the Shelby County Division of Corrections and Detention Facilities, shall follow all safety precautions as stated in any executive order by Mayor Lee Harris.

Lessors of Residential Properties

HUD and its PHA and private landlord partners have been taking steps to mitigate the impact of COVID-19 as each state reopens its economies. Keeping people in their homes and out of crowded or congregate settings — like homeless shelters — is a key step in helping to stop the spread of COVID-19. The best option for all is for renters to pay (or be able to pay) their rent.

Tenants and landlords may submit applications for the COVID-19 Emergency Rental & Utility Assistance Program: www.home901.org/covid-resources/.

The displacement of COVID-19 positive citizens from their homes pursuant to a writ of possession, upon the filing of eviction proceedings, without notice of available assistance by the local health department is precluded.

All inhabitants, present and/or readily available, of the dwelling which is the subject of eviction proceedings must be provided informational resources for rental assistance, food and housing instability, employment, and general health from the Shelby County Health Department and Shelby County Division of Community Services to further mitigate the secondary effects of the COVID-19 pandemic. Property owners, landlords, or their hired agents must distribute the following notice concurrently with the service of process of a Forcible Entry and Detainer Action (or Summons and Complaint) to any individual against

- 1) This notice has been provided to the tenant(s) or resident(s) of the subject premises either with the service of process of the eviction notice or at least two weeks before execution of a writ of possession, whichever is shorter. An example of proof of notice that can be used can be found here: www.shelbytnhealth.com/AssistanceNotice; and

Courts and clerks who assist in FED action may also provide information about the notice requirement to private process servers. The failure to provide this notice may result in temporarily halting a private process server's authority to participate in executions of writs of possession for impeding the Health Department's obligation to protect public health.
