IACP Cancels All In-Person Events...For 2nd Year in a Row

Due to Hurricane Ida and the devastating impact on the city of New Orleans, the IACP Conference cancelled all in-person events and transitioned the show online. The conference ran Sept 11-14.

"We recognize that this news is disappointing," organizers wrote in part. "Like all of you, we were looking forward to convening in person, networking, and learning together."

Last year, IACP had to make a similar move and transition the entire conference online due to the COVID pandemic. IACP 2022 is scheduled to take place Oct 15-18, in Dallas Texas. While IACP moved from in-person to online due to weather, a few shows are still feeling the effects of COVID. The New York Auto Show cancelled their 2021 event, due to the rise in COVID-19 Delta variant cases and stricter public-health measures put in place in New York City...and the NRA cancelled its annual meeting in Houston, TX due to COVID-19, citing a sharp rise in the Delta variant that was overwhelming hospitals and ICU's throughout Texas. Read more news...

GM Warns of Challenging Q3 Bigger Production Impact From Chip Shortage

General Motors predicts a challenging third quarter and said that its vehicle sales and production volumes would take a bigger-than-expected hit in the second half. GM's CFO, Paul Jacobson, recently told analysts at an RBC Capital Markets conference that because of the ongoing global shortage of semiconductor chips, the automaker's second-half vehicle sales and production would be down 200,000 units (largely in the third quarter). Stellantis announced that the global shortage of semiconductors will keep production of the Jeep Cherokee and Chrysler minivans down for 2 weeks in September, effecting its plants in Belvidere, Illinois and Windsor, Ontario. Ford also announced production cuts tied to the semiconductor shortage. For one week in September, Ford's Dearborn Truck Plant, which makes the F-150 pickup truck, will operate on only one shift and Ford's Kansas City Assembly Plant, in Missouri, will experience delays. The industry has been experiencing a global shortage of the chips, used in a variety of car parts, since early this year. The chips are also used in small electronics and as more workers and children stayed home from work and school last year during the pandemic, demand for personal electronics, such as laptops, rose and created a shortage of chips. Automakers have had to either temporarily idle production or build vehicles just shy of all the parts to await chip parts to finish production and ship the vehicles to showrooms. Read more news...

Ford Adds Jobs To Increase Production of Electric F-150 Pickup

Ford is increasing production capacity for its upcoming F-150 Lightning pickup as it begins building prototypes of the electric pickup. The Detroit automaker said it is investing an additional $250 million and adding 450 jobs across three Michigan facilities, including the Rouge Electric Vehicle Center that's building the truck to increase annual production capacity for the vehicle to 80,000 units. Ford has now invested about $950 million in production of a hybrid version of the truck and the electric F-150, which is scheduled to go on sale next spring starting at about $40,000. Production and reservations for the F-150 Lightning are being closely watched by investors and industry analysts as a barometer for consumer acceptance of electric vehicles, specifically pickups. Read more news...

Greetings,

See below for grant funding and training opportunities.

Please note, the SAFLEO (Suicide Prevention) Executive Leadership Training organized by the U.S. Attorneys Office still has 24 open spots out of 45. Through meetings MANY communities expressed how much officer health and wellness training is needed in this District. This is a pilot course and we are very lucky to be receiving two courses – not just one – only for Northern Illinois communities. If the course is filled it will give us a good leg to stand on when we request future trainings. Remember, the course is only for executive leadership and includes self-paced modules which start this Monday September 20th – so if you want to take the course register today. You will have the option to choose from one of two live roundtables to end the course, hosted on October 5 and 8 both from 2-4PM CST.

As always, please reach out anytime. More training coming soon.

Policing and Policy

DOJ To Review Enforcement Of Civil Rights Protections In Law Enforcement Grants

The New York Times (9/16, Benner) reports that the US Justice Department (DOJ) “will review how it enforces prohibitions on racial discrimination by law enforcement agencies that receive federal funding, according to a department memo.” Under President Biden, the DOJ “has made civil rights enforcement a priority, opening investigations into allegations of systemic racial discrimination by police forces in Minneapolis, Louisville, Ky., and Phoenix as well as the state prisons in Georgia.”

Minneapolis Officers To Be Trained On How To Intervene With Colleagues Using Excessive Force

The Minneapolis Star Tribune (9/16, Furst, Jany) reports, “Minneapolis police are launching a departmentwide training program designed to show officers how to intervene when one of their own is using excessive force, more than one year after George Floyd was murdered by an officer in the presence of three other cops..” The program, “adopted by about 180 police departments across the United States, is called ABLE – short for Active Bystandership for Law Enforcement – and can help transform the culture of a department, advocates say. ‘One of the things that active bystandership teaches officers is how to step in and have hard conversations with officers when they are doing the wrong thing,’ said Prof. Christy Lopez, co-director of the Innovative Policing Program at Georgetown University Law School in Washington, DC, which sponsors ABLE. ‘Sometimes that wrong thing is using too much force or arresting someone that shouldn’t be arrested.’”

Police In Vancouver, BC To Crack Down On Crime In Business District

CTV News (CAN) (9/16) reports, “Officers say an increased presence in Vancouver’s downtown core prompted by a rise in crime will not be focused on residents of the area who are experiencing homelessness.” The Vancouver Police Department “says it plans to redeploy officers to the area ‘in response to commercial crime and disorder in the business district.’ Those crimes include things like window breaks. VPD says these incidents have gone up 100 per cent downtown between June and mid-September this year compared to last.” CTV News adds, “The department made a similar move earlier in the pandemic following an increase in property crime when businesses were shuttered.”

San Antonio, Texas Lawmakers Approve Boost To Police Budget

The San Antonio Express-News (9/16, Huddleston) reports that the San Antonio, Texas City Council “passed a $3.1 billion spending plan Thursday for fiscal 2022” and that “a 3.2 percent increase in the city’s police budget has been criticized by some residents and a few council members.” But City Manager Erik Walsh “said the overall public safety budget, at nearly $860 million, is 63.5 percent of the general fund – the lowest it’s been since the city set a threshold of 66 percent seven years ago.”

Establishing a culture of wellness and support for officers and their families can help them thrive on and off the job. The IACP and U.S. Department of Justice's COPS Office have released a new podcast series on family wellness, as a part of the IACP’s Serve.Protect.Lead. podcast series and the COPS Office podcast series, The Beat. The five-episode series features discussions with law enforcement, family members, and subject matter experts about healthy sleep habits, family communication skills, financial wellness, suicide prevention, and family resilience. Listen to the series on IACPlearn.

Cocaine Seized During Anti-Violence Operation In Texas

The Dallas Morning News (9/16, Smith) reports the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives and the FBI participated in a law enforcement operation that “resulted in at least 47 arrests.” Operation Pegasus, which aimed “to curb gun violence in” Dallas’ Pleasant Grove area, also resulted in the seizure of guns and “bulk quantities of cocaine.”

DOJ To Review Enforcement Of Civil Rights Protections In Law Enforcement Grants

The New York Times (9/16, Benner) reports that the US Justice Department (DOJ) “will review how it enforces prohibitions on racial discrimination by law enforcement agencies that receive federal funding, according to a department memo.” Under President Biden, the DOJ “has made civil rights enforcement a priority, opening investigations into allegations of systemic racial discrimination by police forces in Minneapolis, Louisville, Ky., and Phoenix as well as the state prisons in Georgia.”

Minneapolis Officers To Be Trained On How To Intervene With Colleagues Using Excessive Force

The Minneapolis Star Tribune (9/16, Furst, Jany) reports, “Minneapolis police are launching a departmentwide training program designed to show officers how to intervene when one of their own is using excessive force, more than one year after George Floyd was murdered by an officer in the presence of three other cops..” The program, “adopted by about 180 police departments across the United States, is called ABLE – short for Active Bystandership for Law Enforcement – and can help transform the culture of a department, advocates say. ‘One of the things that active bystandership teaches officers is how to step in and have hard conversations with officers when they are doing the wrong thing,’ said Prof. Christy Lopez, co-director of the Innovative Policing Program at Georgetown University Law School in Washington, DC, which sponsors ABLE. ‘Sometimes that wrong thing is using too much force or arresting someone that shouldn’t be arrested.’”

Police In Vancouver, BC To Crack Down On Crime In Business District

CTV News (CAN) (9/16) reports, “Officers say an increased presence in Vancouver’s downtown core prompted by a rise in crime will not be focused on residents of the area who are experiencing homelessness.” The Vancouver Police Department “says it plans to redeploy officers to the area ‘in response to commercial crime and disorder in the business district.’ Those crimes include things like window breaks. VPD says these incidents have gone up 100 per cent downtown between June and mid-September this year compared to last.” CTV News adds, “The department made a similar move earlier in the pandemic following an increase in property crime when businesses were shuttered.”

San Antonio, Texas Lawmakers Approve Boost To Police Budget

The San Antonio Express-News (9/16, Huddleston) reports that the San Antonio, Texas City Council “passed a $3.1 billion spending plan Thursday for fiscal 2022” and that “a 3.2 percent increase in the city’s police budget has been criticized by some residents and a few council members.” But City Manager Erik Walsh “said the overall public safety budget, at nearly $860 million, is 63.5 percent of the general fund – the lowest it’s been since the city set a threshold of 66 percent seven years ago.”

Establishing a culture of wellness and support for officers and their families can help them thrive on and off the job. The IACP and U.S. Department of Justice's COPS Office have released a new podcast series on family wellness, as a part of the IACP’s Serve.Protect.Lead. podcast series and the COPS Office podcast series, The Beat. The five-episode series features discussions with law enforcement, family members, and subject matter experts about healthy sleep habits, family communication skills, financial wellness, suicide prevention, and family resilience. ILACP member sought on new state Domestic Violence Fatality Review Committee

The Illinois Chiefs have been asked to submit a person to serve on the new Domestic Violence Fatality Review Committee. We understand these are the duties and time commitment:

The duties of the statewide committee will be to develop policies and procedures for creating regionally based domestic violence fatality review teams and to produce an annual report with recommendations to the legislature and to the governor. The goal is to make recommendations for systems changes to reduce domestic violence-related homicide. Perhaps in the next six months, the state steering committee will meet monthly and then move to quarterly as its work is developed. The first meeting likely will be in person in Springfield, and then there will be a combination of virtual and in-person meetings over time.

We expect the work to begin soon. Anyone interested in serving on this committee to represent ILACP should send a brief email to President Mitchell R. Davis III and Executive Director Ed Wojcicki – mdavis@villageofhazelcrest.org and ed@ilchiefs.org.

Thousands Of LAPD Employees Plan To Seek COVID-19 Vaccination Exemptions

The Washington Post (9/15, Bella) reports approximately 3,000 Los Angeles Police Department “employees are expected to seek either religious or medical exemptions ahead of the city’s Oct. 5 deadline for municipal employees to be vaccinated” against COVID-19. The “majority of them are filing for religious exemptions.”

Omaha Police Issue More Than 800 Citations During Unlicensed Vehicle Investigation

The Omaha (NE) World-Herald (9/15) reports Omaha police “issued more than 800 citations during an investigation into unlicensed vehicles across the city” conducted between August 4 and September 10. Fifth Circuit Says Biden Administration Can Likely Limit Immigration Arrests

Reuters (9/15, Wiessner) reports that the 5th Circuit Court of Appeals on Wednesday “said the Biden administration could continue to limit who can be arrested by U.S. immigration agents pending the outcome of its appeal of a federal judge’s ruling that blocked a memo outlining new enforcement priorities.” The court “said the judge in Texas in an August decision was likely wrong that federal law limits the discretion immigration authorities have to decide who should be arrested and placed into deportation proceedings,” and it “issued a stay blocking the judge’s decision from taking effect while the government’s appeal is pending.” Reuters adds, “February guidance from U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) instructs agents to focus enforcement efforts on immigrants deemed national security or public safety threats and those who entered the United States after Nov. 1, 2020.”

US Capitol Police Requests National Guard Assistance If Needed During Sept. 18 Protest

Reuters (9/15, Cowan) reports the US Capitol Police on Wednesday “said it has asked the Pentagon to provide National Guard troops to help protect the Capitol on Sept. 18 during a scheduled protest if they are needed.” In a statement, the department said it “has asked the Department of Defense for the ability to receive National Guard support should the need arise on September 18.” A large group is expected “at the Capitol on Saturday to protest the arrests and criminal charges against some 600 people in connection with the Jan. 6 riot.”

Security, Crime, and Drugs

FBI Working To Raise Hate Crime Awareness In North Carolina

The AP (9/15) reports the FBI’s Charlotte office is “launching a campaign across North Carolina to raise awareness about federal hate crimes and to encourage people to report them.” The office released a statement Monday saying the campaign “is part of a nationwide effort coordinated through FBI headquarters in Washington, DC. The national campaign includes billboards, social media, gas station pump ads, and radio, television, and bus advertisements.”

Australian Man Surrenders 30 Years After Escaping From Prison

The AP (9/15) reports Darko Desic, a 64-year-old Australian man, “walked into a Sydney police station to give himself up almost 30 years after he used a hacksaw blade and bolt cutters to escape from prison, police said on Wednesday.” Desic “decided to go back to prison because Sydney’s COVID-19 lockdown made him jobless and homeless.”

Opioid Vaccine Trials Begin As New CDC Data Show Opioid Deaths Climbed Sharply In 2020

WebMD (9/15) reports according to a new CDC report, “opioid-related drug overdose deaths in the United States exploded to an estimated record high of 69,031 people in 2020, topping the 49,860 deaths logged in 2019,” with most of the deaths linked to “synthetic opioids such as fentanyl.” Meanwhile, “researchers are studying a possible bridge to successful recovery: A vaccine that could blunt the drugs’ ability to cause harm. The first such vaccines are now entering clinical trials, raising hopes of adding another tool to the anti-addiction armamentarium. “

Nineteen Arrested In Texas Drug Raid

KRGV-TV Harlingen, TX (9/15) reports, “Federal, state and local law enforcement on Wednesday arrested 19 people while executing multiple search warrants in South Texas,” seizing “more than $500,000 in property and cash, marijuana and weapons during the multi-agency raid, according to McAllen Drug Enforcement Administration Special Agent in Charge Richard Sanchez.”

Indiana State Troopers Find Substantial Amount Of Fentanyl During Traffic Stop

The Clinton County (IN) Daily News (9/15, Hartman) reports an Indiana State Police Trooper stopped a vehicle “for following another vehicle too closely” on Monday, leading “to the discovery of 15.8 pounds of what are believed to be Fentanyl laced pills and 4.4 pounds of pure Fentanyl hidden under the rear passenger seat. 39 year old Felix Becerra Aguilera of California was the driver and sole occupant of the vehicle, he was arrested on preliminary drug charges and transported to the Hancock County Jail.” The AP (9/15) also covers this story.

Paris Terror Attack Defendant Says Assault Retaliation For French Bombing Of Islamic State

The AP (9/15, Hinnant) reports Salah Abdeslam, the “key defendant” in the trials related to the 2015 Paris terror attack, “said Wednesday the coordinated killings were in retaliation for French airstrikes on the Islamic State group, calling the deaths of 130 innocent people ‘nothing personal’ as he acknowledged his role for the first time.” Abdeslam “is the only survivor of that cell” that launched the wave of attacks, as his suicide vest malfunctioned.

Technology

Use Of Commercial Phone Data By Law Enforcement Stirs Surveillance Debate

The Wall Street Journal (9/15, Tau, Subscription Publication) reports on the controversial use by law enforcement of commercial services that provide access to location data of phones drawn from mobile apps. These techniques, called open-source intelligence by practitioners and warrantless surveillance by critics, have become the subject of a national debate about government tracking through data brokers without the consent of a judge.

Leaders,

For the second year in a row, the in-person portion of the IACP conference was canceled, and the event held virtually. While it was disappointing for the Police1 team not to be able to attend the conference and meet many of our authors who were speaking at IACP 2021, we have been busy viewing online sessions to report back on the latest policing best practices transforming communities nationwide.

Our coverage so far has reviewed:

- How police adapted incident response plans to the protests of 2020
- How Raleigh Police Department successfully collaborated with social workers
- How agencies can protect against the digital targeting of law enforcement

In addition, IACP speakers shared summaries of their presentations on creating evidence-based recruitment videos, using digital forensics to gain drug intelligence and what the data shows about police suicide.

Stay safe,

FEATURED CONTENT How to establish community TRUST By Chief Nick Borges

I strongly believe that community partnership is by far the most successful crime reduction tool we have. But to develop a healthy relationship with all members of the community, police agencies must first earn the trust of their communities.

Establishing community trust first begins with input from stakeholders, accounting for and responding to each neighborhood's unique cultural and socio-economic dynamics. The acronym TRUST identifies several critical components that are designed to strengthen law enforcement's relationship with our communities.

Building trust requires:

T - Transparency

R - Receptiveness

U - Unity

S - Service

T - Training

Here are examples of the TRUST model in action that you can incorporate within your department.

Transparency

A TRUST program should invite civilian community leaders or citizens to participate in the oral board phase of the selection process for hiring new officers. This allows for community members to see and interact with potential police officer candidates, as well as learn what their department is looking for in a police officer. It empowers community members by including them in determining who is selected to police their neighborhoods.

Police departments should also invite community members to public demonstrations of new equipment and practices such as what to do during a traffic stop. Citizen police academies allow for your organization to meet with community members on a regular basis and inform them on various aspects of how and why we operate. I would suggest agencies consider academies with alternate languages that are appropriate to each jurisdiction.

Finally, we must be transparent with our police policies through sharing information on social media and other outlets. We do not need to compromise officer safety by sharing procedural tactics, but general orders are important to share with the public.

Police1 resource: How to set up a community outreach event to review police policy

Receptiveness

We can never adequately serve our community unless we understand their perceptions. To be receptive is to be open-minded and willing to listen to other points of view. This can be accomplished through quarterly, bi-annual, or annual listening sessions. Listening sessions can be hosted at a community center, faith-based facility, school, or any other neutral location that is welcoming to your respective community. These can also be done virtually.

These sessions should be exactly what is in the title: listening. It is the community's opportunity to have a voice on any topic, concern, idea, or complaint they choose. The role of the police is to hear them. I have found these sessions to be very useful in making minor changes that have major positive impacts for our community. I am confident it will do the same for you.

Police1 resource: 6 steps to hosting an effective community meeting

Unity

To truly endorse and inspire our positive non-enforcement interaction, we should start by reviewing and restructuring our performance evaluations. While nearly every agency uses a different evaluation system, I can say we fail to emphasize non-enforcement activity during performance reviews. Why not fully embrace and encourage concepts through performance reviews so staff can discern exactly what they are required to accomplish? For starters, evaluation criteria could encourage and monitor positive non-enforcement interaction such as:

- Regular business contacts and positive, non-enforcement interaction.
- Participation in community-based projects, outreach, and/or other activity related to enhancing community relations.

To further unite your organization with your community, embrace a volunteer program. Consider coordinating with schools in your district. Many high schools require students to achieve a certain amount of community service hours to graduate. Volunteer programs within your agency can assist them while simultaneously establishing healthy relationships. Another program that provides a platform to interact with our youth is the Police Activities League (PAL). The PAL program allows for staff to become involved with coaching and mentoring the youth in a variety of sporting activities.

The Boston police department invested in an ice cream van to bring ice cream to underserved communities. My agency took this idea and established a caravan-style vehicle that drives through our community and hands out healthy food snacks, sports equipment and school supplies to our youth. These actions not only serve as community outreach for our youth, but they also send a powerful message that our police promote healthy living, positive activities and higher education.

Uniting with our youth, parents and schools should be a priority. Several years ago, my community experienced a spike in gang violence. Our officers reached out to the families of those impacted by gang violence, ex-gang members and community leaders. Together, we held a peace summit at the local schools. It was very impactful and enhanced relational building between our staff and all involved. Partnering with those who have made changes in their lives and want to help others is a powerful experience that we should embrace. Creating a peace summit with local experts brings the community together.

Shift projects are another way to inspire patrol teams to engage in opportunities to unite with the community to resolve problems. Each patrol shift should identify a community-based shift project at the beginning of each shift rotation with a focus on one of the following:

- A charity that benefits a group or individual within our community.
- Youth outreach (coaching, mentorship, presentations, etc.).
- Community problem-solving and/or criminal activity resolution.
- Community partnership program.

This platform makes officers feel heard and creates an environment of participation and even a little healthy competition among shifts. It is okay to have some fun, so long as we are working to enhance public safety and relationships. Shift projects allow for our line-level experts to think outside of the box and develop creative community policing measures that administrators often overlook.

Police1 resource: How to police from the heart in your community

Service

When appropriate, police personnel should follow up with victims and/or citizens that come to us for assistance to see how they are doing and determine if there is anything else we can do to assist.

It is also critical that we facilitate unfiltered feedback on how we are doing, which can be obtained through companies that provide survey services, free online surveys, or community meetings. I often receive follow-up surveys for services I engage in, yet this is not required in the law enforcement profession. This should be a professional standard for all agencies. We need to hear from our communities how they perceive our performance. Just like you see the “How is my driving?” stickers on the back of a public sector company vehicle we should have a similar sticker on our squad cars that asks, “How is my policing?” with a phone number to the watch commander’s office.

Finally, we often forget that celebrating our employees and citizenry are significant motivators. People appreciate acknowledgment for doing good things. Establish quarterly employee recognition awards for actions taken by your staff when they have positive impacts on your department and community. We know this is a motivator and encourages others to engage in similar actions. You could also extend the recognition and award your citizens for actions that also contribute to a safe and healthy community.

Police1 resource: How citizen surveys improve community engagement with police

Training

Community relations training should be incorporated into your FTO programs so new police officers can begin their careers with a solid foundation in community-oriented policing. FTOs cover a broad spectrum of topics to pave a path of success for our police officers and the earlier we train, the easier it will be to maintain the culture years later.

We should include scenario-based training focusing on treating people with dignity and respect, being neutral and transparent in decision-making, conveying trustworthy motives, and being receptive during contacts. In addition, part of the FTO program should include meeting members of our community, as it relates to self-initiated activity.

We need to shape a culture of getting to know people in positive encounters at the earliest stages of policing as possible.

Police1 resource: 6 ways beat officers can make a difference through community policing

Conclusion

Law enforcement cannot effectively address public safety problems alone. To be successful, we must philosophically change our approach and incorporate authentic community policing throughout all levels of our organizations. I believe community policing is defined as a partnership between police and the community, working together to solve problems and enhance public safety by way of building trusting relationships. We must not lose focus of that. Following the TRUST model is one way to transform your law enforcement organization into a fully unified, community policing agency.

Co-responder models in policing: Better serving communities

By Dean M. Esserman

Over the last 30 years, a growing number of agencies have increasingly adopted police-mental health collaboration (PMHC) programs, also known as co-responder models, to provide an enhanced response to victims of crime or people in the throes of an emotional or behavioral health crisis.

Utilizing this model, law enforcement and mental health clinicians respond to these calls for service together, providing an improved and immediate response to crisis situations by conducting a more accurate needs assessment on scene for the person in distress, and connecting them and their families to community-based resources.

A victim's journey does not end with a 9-1-1 call

While co-responding is certainly not new, it is an essential piece of the puzzle when it comes to working with victims of crimes.

The journey of a victim does not end with a simple 9-1-1 call, in fact, it is only the beginning of what may be a long journey toward recovery. As law enforcement and community leaders, it is our responsibility to ensure that our efforts are not limited to a law enforcement response but rather include holistic victim services and support.

My first experience with PMHC programs came in 1992 when I was part of a team that built a partnership between the New Haven Police Department and the Yale Child Study Center that focused on children exposed to violence. This collaboration led to the creation of the Child Development/Community Policing Program, in which law enforcement officers and clinicians established training and orientation sessions for one another and worked to establish and implement joint protocols. Eventually, the partnership evolved into responding together to calls for service. The work we did in New Haven was later recognized by the White House, which designated the Yale Child Study Center as the National Center for Children Exposed to Violence.

Go Team partnership

In 2003, serving as Providence Police Chief, I received a call from Family Service of Rhode Island (FSRI) CEO Margaret Holland McDuff who asked if I would be interested in working with them to address the needs of children exposed to trauma and violence. I arranged for a team of clinicians from FSRI along with a team of Providence police officers to travel to New Haven as guests of the Yale Child Study Center for a week. Upon their return, the Providence team built a collaborative model, which came to fruition in 2004, with the implementation of the Go Team Partnership program.

As part of the Go Team, we worked to ensure that we were serving victims of crime more fully. From the initial response call, the team provided immediate assistance, referrals and continued support. The co-responder model was successfully adopted in Providence and grew to include court proceedings, financial assistance, and emotional support.

Over the course of the last 17 years, Go Team has taken a life of its own. It has created a better service model for victims in need and fostered better relationships with the public, strengthened trust and bonds between law enforcement and survivors, and raised awareness about co-responder model programs across the country.

“Communities and local leaders can use the model to develop a crisis continuum of care that results in the reduction of harm, arrests, and use of jails and emergency departments and that promotes the development of and access to quality mental and substance use disorder treatment and services,” writes Ashley Krider and Regina Huerter of Policy Research Inc. and Kirby Gaherty and Andrew Moore, National League of Cities.

Sometimes a joint response is needed

Police officers touch families every day – and to see officers as only enforcers of the law truly misses the point of what officers can and should do to help their communities and what, in fact, communities need from them. From lost or truant children to landlord-tenant disputes; from family disputes to emotionally disturbed individuals needing assistance in a moment of crisis; from victims of home burglaries to a child assaulted on his or her way back home, police officers are called as an agency of last resort.

Officers respond to an array of needs from the community. Whether they are new officers on the beat or veteran officers, police officers often work alone or side by side with another officer; however, at times, we must acknowledge that the partner they truly need does not actually need to wear a police uniform. Frequently, a different set of skills and training are what is called for – and that is where co-responder models can assist.

In New Haven, Connecticut and Providence, Rhode Island, this realization has been acted upon. And not just with a new number to call for requesting assistance or making referrals, but rather a joint response with a social worker or a mental health clinician working side by side in a police car and responding as a team to calls for service.

Much of the work does not end with the taking of a police report or the arrest of an offender, but also must extend to the victim and quite possibly, their families. The continuum of care is launched at the moment of crisis and not as a follow-up to a referral from some weeks later. To do this, both law enforcement agencies must continue to train police officers on mental healthcare and child development needs, and clinicians must undergo a similar orientation on law enforcement and policing before being ready to work together as co-responders.

With this partnership at hand, we can truly begin to more fully protect and serve our communities – cops and social workers can be natural partners in serving communities.

KRGV-TV Harlingen, TX (9/15) reports, “Federal, state and local law enforcement on Wednesday arrested 19 people while executing multiple search warrants in South Texas,” seizing “more than $500,000 in property and cash, marijuana and weapons during the multi-agency raid, according to McAllen Drug Enforcement Administration Special Agent in Charge Richard Sanchez.”

Indiana State Troopers Find Substantial Amount Of Fentanyl During Traffic Stop

The Clinton County (IN) Daily News (9/15, Hartman) reports an Indiana State Police Trooper stopped a vehicle “for following another vehicle too closely” on Monday, leading “to the discovery of 15.8 pounds of what are believed to be Fentanyl laced pills and 4.4 pounds of pure Fentanyl

hidden under the rear passenger seat. 39 year old Felix Becerra Aguilera of California was the driver and sole occupant of the vehicle, he was arrested on preliminary drug charges and transported to the Hancock County Jail.” The AP (9/15) also covers this story.

Paris Terror Attack Defendant Says Assault Retaliation For French Bombing Of Islamic State

The AP (9/15, Hinnant) reports Salah Abdeslam, the “key defendant” in the trials related to the 2015 Paris terror attack, “said Wednesday the coordinated killings were in retaliation for French airstrikes on the Islamic State group, calling the deaths of 130 innocent people ‘nothing personal’ as he acknowledged his role for the first time.” Abdeslam “is the only survivor of that cell” that launched the wave of attacks, as his suicide vest malfunctioned.

Technology

Use Of Commercial Phone Data By Law Enforcement Stirs Surveillance Debate

The Wall Street Journal (9/15, Tau, Subscription Publication) reports on the controversial use by law enforcement of commercial services that provide access to location data of phones drawn from mobile apps. These techniques, called open-source intelligence by practitioners and warrantless surveillance by critics, have become the subject of a national debate about government tracking through data brokers without the consent of a judge.

Policing and Policy

New Policy Bans No-Knock Entries, Chokeholds By DOJ Law Enforcement Agencies

Politico (9/14, Rafford) reports that on Tuesday, the Justice Department “announced a ban on carotid restraints, chokeholds and ‘no-knock’ entries for its law enforcement agencies unless the use of deadly force is authorized.” Politico explains that the “new directive applies only to law enforcement overseen by the department, including the FBI, Drug Enforcement Agency and U.S. Marshals Service. The policy does not apply to immigration enforcement agencies, which are overseen by the Department of Homeland Security, nor does it apply to state and local law enforcement.” AG Garland said, “Building trust and confidence between law enforcement and the public we serve is central to our mission at the Justice Department. ... The limitations implemented today on the use of ‘chokeholds,’ ‘carotid restraints’ and ‘no-knock’ warrants, combined with our recent expansion of body-worn cameras to DOJ’s federal agents, are among the important steps the department is taking to improve law enforcement safety and accountability.”

Judge Strikes Down Language In Minneapolis Ballot Measure Proposing Police Overhaul

Axios (9/14, Saric) reports that on Tuesday, a “judge...struck down the proposed new wording for a ballot measure that seeks to replace the Minneapolis Police Department with a new agency.” Axios explains the “new wording would give the 13-member city council more say in the proposed department’s policies.” However, a lawsuit challenged “the level of detail required to be included in the question to give voters context but without injecting bias for or against.” Now, the judge’s decision “throws the proposed charter amendment into crisis as early voting and absentee voting for November’s elections begin Friday.”

White House: Law Enforcement In “Heightened State Of Alert” Ahead Of “Justice For J6” Rally

The Hill (9/14, Chalfant) reports that White House Principal Deputy Press Secretary Karine Jean-Pierre on Tuesday “said that federal and local law enforcement agencies are in a ‘heightened state of alert’ ahead of Saturday’s expected rally in Washington, D.C., of supporters of the pro-Trump insurrectionists who attacked the U.S. Capitol in January.” Jean-Pierre “told reporters...that officials hope the demonstrations will be ‘peaceful’ but federal agencies are prepared to assist U.S. Capitol Police and other agencies if necessary.”

The Hill (9/14, Schnell) reports that according to an official at the Department of Homeland Security, “roughly 700 people are expected to attend the ‘Justice for J6’ rally on Saturday,” and the Washington Post (9/14) reports DC officials “are worried that those who do attend may bring firearms illegally, setting up the potential for clashes in an area expected to be bustling on Saturday with crowds at multiple events: the annual H Street festival in Northeast that typically attracts thousands; a Howard University football game at Audi Field in Southwest; a baseball game at Nationals Park; and a Harry Styles concert at Capital One Arena downtown.”

Memo Indicates DHS Restricted Access To Open-Source Intelligence About “Election Related Threats” Leading Up To Jan. 6 Capitol Riot. “A few months before rioters stormed the US Capitol, the Department of Homeland Security restricted the flow of open-source intelligence reports about ‘election-related threats’ to law enforcement, citing First Amendment concerns, according to documents reviewed by” CNN (9/14, Cohen), which reports the disclosures “not only add to a growing concerns about intelligence gathering, but they also raise questions about a key staffer on the committee investigating the insurrection and his previous role in determining how threat information that came from public sources, was shared with law enforcement prior to the Capitol attack.”

Pittsburgh Police Patrols Boosted At Churches After Threats

The Sewickley (PA) Patch (9/14, Heyt) reports from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, “The FBI and Pittsburgh police are investigating phone threats to harm congregants at a Pittsburgh church Sunday.” The Patch adds, “While an investigation city Bureau of Public Safety described as ‘very active and ongoing,’ continues, police have added extra patrols and are taking additional precautions around the threatened churches and other city houses of worship. ‘Pittsburgh Public Safety takes all threats of violence or terrorism extremely seriously,’ Public Safety Director Wendell Hissrich said Tuesday. ‘Pittsburgh Police intelligence unit detectives are working closely with our federal partners within FBI Pittsburgh, sharing information and intelligence to determine the origin of the threats.’”

Tennessee Lawmakers Consider Cash Bail Reform

The Tennessean (9/14, Yu) reports, “Tennessee lawmakers are looking to fine-tune the state’s cash bail system – one that some say is effective but others consider burdensome on the state’s working poor.” The Tennessean adds, “For two days, legislators heard from criminal justice reform advocates, district attorneys, local officials, judges, sheriffs and representatives from the bail industry as they brainstormed legislative ideas. Reformers highlighted the state’s rising jail population and the high cost to taxpayers in detaining Tennesseans for nonviolent crimes before trial – some of whom are ultimately acquitted – and pleaded with lawmakers to develop custom risk assessment for each defendant and save cash bail as a last resort,” but “opponents to bail reform argue that, while there is room for improvements, doing away with the current bail system, which they consider effective, would risk letting loose offenders, contribute to higher crime rates and eventually add costs to local law enforcement for re-arrests.”

Police In Scotland Cracking Down On Drugged Drivers

The Daily Record (UK) (9/14, Carroll) reports, “Police have revealed they arrested almost half of Scots motorists during a campaign to tackle drug drivers.” According to the Daily Record, “Officers say they conducted 109 roadside drug screening tests across the country as part of the campaign, which ran from August 23 to 29 this year. 42 drivers were found to have a positive test. Blood samples were subsequently obtained from those arrested and sent for further analysis.

Superintendent Simon Bradshaw said: ‘Despite roadside drug testing being in place for almost two years and our continued efforts to raise awareness of the dangers associated with taking drugs and driving, our officers continue to detect drug driving offences far too regularly. Driving after taking drugs can have serious or even fatal consequences, impacting not only the driver but all those involved including family and friends.’”

Chicago Mayor Proposes Targeting Gang Members For Fines, Civil Forfeiture

The Chicago Tribune (9/14, Gorner, Sweeney, Pratt) reports, “Under pressure to crack down on Chicago’s homicide problem, Mayor Lori Lightfoot introduced an ordinance Tuesday that would slap gang members with fines and give police the authority to seize their property if they’re known to be behind street violence.” According to the Tribune, the proposal, dubbed the “Victims’ Justice Ordinance,” “could allow judges or court officers to impose fines as high as $10,000 for each offense and seize ‘any property that is directly or indirectly used or intended for use in any manner to facilitate street gang-related activity.’ It also calls for the seizure of any property that gangs obtained through illegal means such as drug-dealing or other crimes.”

French President Seeks Greater Transparency About Police Wrongdoing

The AP (9/14, Corbet) reports from Paris, “French President Emmanuel Macron announced measures to make the police more transparent about wrongdoings, including the publication of internal investigation reports and the creation of a parliamentary monitoring body, in efforts to improve public confidence eroded by scandals in recent years. ‘When there are misconducts, they must lead to sanctions. When there are problems, they must get a response,’ Macron said. ‘We have nothing to fear from a greater transparency.’” Macron “said international investigation reports about allegations of police abuse and misconduct will now be made public. They must lead to ‘clear decisions’ about officers and organization issues, he added.”

Security, Crime, and Drugs

US Charges Reputed New York Mobsters With Extortion, Racketeering

The Wall Street Journal (9/14, Fanelli, Subscription Publication) reports that the reputed head of the Colombo crime family and nine alleged members and associates of the family were arrested on Tuesday on fraud and racketeering charges involving loan-sharking, money-laundering and the shakedown of a union. The New York Times (9/14, O'Brien) reports, "For two decades, the leadership of the Colombo crime family extorted a Queens labor union, federal prosecutors said – an effort that continued unabated even as members of the mob clan cycled through prison, the family's notorious longtime boss died, and as federal law enforcement closed in," and "over time, what began as a Colombo captain's shakedown of a union leader, complete with expletive-laced threats of violence, expanded into a cottage industry, prosecutors said, as the Colombo organization assumed control of contracting and union business, with side operations in phony construction certificates, marijuana trafficking and loan-sharking." The indictment "accuses the Colombo family of orchestrating a two-decade scheme to extort an unnamed labor union that represented construction workers, using threats of violence to secure payments and arrange contracts that would benefit the crime family."

Man Arrested For Trying To Sneak Suboxone Into Indiana Jail Under Eye Patch

The AP (9/14) reports, "A man faces a misdemeanor drug possession charge after authorities said he tried to smuggle a drug used to treat opioid addiction into a northwestern Indiana jail in an eye patch." A body scanner revealed the man "had a lighter pinned inside his pants, police said. Police also said he kept reaching for the eye patch taped to his face and resisted when officers attempted to inspect the patch. They found a small amount of suboxone wrapped in plastic and taped inside the patch."

The Sewickley (PA) Patch (9/14, Heyt) reports from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, “The FBI and Pittsburgh police are investigating phone threats to harm congregants at a Pittsburgh church Sunday.” The Patch adds, “While an investigation city Bureau of Public Safety described as ‘very active and ongoing,’ continues, police have added extra patrols and are taking additional precautions around the threatened churches and other city houses of worship. ‘Pittsburgh Public Safety takes all threats of violence or terrorism extremely seriously,’ Public Safety Director Wendell Hissrich said Tuesday. ‘Pittsburgh Police intelligence unit detectives are working closely with our federal partners within FBI Pittsburgh, sharing information and intelligence to determine the origin of the threats.’”

Tennessee Lawmakers Consider Cash Bail Reform

The Tennessean (9/14, Yu) reports, “Tennessee lawmakers are looking to fine-tune the state’s cash bail system – one that some say is effective but others consider burdensome on the state’s working poor.” The Tennessean adds, “For two days, legislators heard from criminal justice reform advocates, district attorneys, local officials, judges, sheriffs and representatives from the bail industry as they brainstormed legislative ideas. Reformers highlighted the state’s rising jail population and the high cost to taxpayers in detaining Tennesseans for nonviolent crimes before trial – some of whom are ultimately acquitted – and pleaded with lawmakers to develop custom risk assessment for each defendant and save cash bail as a last resort,” but “opponents to bail reform argue that, while there is room for improvements, doing away with the current bail system, which they consider effective, would risk letting loose offenders, contribute to higher crime rates and eventually add costs to local law enforcement for re-arrests.”

Police In Scotland Cracking Down On Drugged Drivers

The Daily Record (UK) (9/14, Carroll) reports, “Police have revealed they arrested almost half of Scots motorists during a campaign to tackle drug drivers.” According to the Daily Record, “Officers say they conducted 109 roadside drug screening tests across the country as part of the campaign, which ran from August 23 to 29 this year. 42 drivers were found to have a positive test. Blood samples were subsequently obtained from those arrested and sent for further analysis.

Superintendent Simon Bradshaw said: ‘Despite roadside drug testing being in place for almost two years and our continued efforts to raise awareness of the dangers associated with taking drugs and driving, our officers continue to detect drug driving offences far too regularly. Driving after taking drugs can have serious or even fatal consequences, impacting not only the driver but all those involved including family and friends.’”

Chicago Mayor Proposes Targeting Gang Members For Fines, Civil Forfeiture

The Chicago Tribune (9/14, Gerner, Sweeney, Pratt) reports, “Under pressure to crack down on Chicago’s homicide problem, Mayor Lori Lightfoot introduced an ordinance Tuesday that would slap gang members with fines and give police the authority to seize their property if they’re known to be behind street violence.” According to the Tribune, the proposal, dubbed the “Victims’ Justice Ordinance,” “could allow judges or court officers to impose fines as high as $10,000 for each offense and seize ‘any property that is directly or indirectly used or intended for use in any manner to facilitate street gang-related activity.’ It also calls for the seizure of any property that gangs obtained through illegal means such as drug-dealing or other crimes.”

French President Seeks Greater Transparency About Police Wrongdoing

The AP (9/14, Corbet) reports from Paris, “French President Emmanuel Macron announced measures to make the police more transparent about wrongdoings, including the publication of internal investigation reports and the creation of a parliamentary monitoring body, in efforts to improve public confidence eroded by scandals in recent years. ‘When there are misconducts, they must lead to sanctions. When there are problems, they must get a response,’ Macron said. ‘We have nothing to fear from a greater transparency.’” Macron “said international investigation reports about allegations of police abuse and misconduct will now be made public. They must lead to ‘clear decisions’ about officers and organization issues, he added.”

US Charges Reputed New York Mobsters With Extortion, Racketeering

The Wall Street Journal (9/14, Fanelli, Subscription Publication) reports that the reputed head of the Colombo crime family and nine alleged members and associates of the family were arrested

on Tuesday on fraud and racketeering charges involving loan-sharking, money-laundering and the shakedown of a union. The New York Times (9/14, O'Brien) reports, "For two decades, the leadership of the Colombo crime family extorted a Queens labor union, federal prosecutors said – an effort that continued unabated even as members of the mob clan cycled through prison, the family's notorious longtime boss died, and as federal law enforcement closed in," and "over time, what began as a Colombo captain's shakedown of a union leader, complete with expletive-laced threats of violence, expanded into a cottage industry, prosecutors said, as the Colombo organization assumed control of contracting and union business, with side operations in phony construction certificates, marijuana trafficking and loan-sharking." The indictment "accuses the Colombo family of orchestrating a two-decade scheme to extort an unnamed labor union that represented construction workers, using threats of violence to secure payments and arrange contracts that would benefit the crime family."

Man Arrested For Trying To Sneak Suboxone Into Indiana Jail Under Eye Patch

The AP (9/14) reports, "A man faces a misdemeanor drug possession charge after authorities said he tried to smuggle a drug used to treat opioid addiction into a northwestern Indiana jail in an eye patch." A body scanner revealed the man "had a lighter pinned inside his pants, police said. Police also said he kept reaching for the eye patch taped to his face and resisted when officers attempted to inspect the patch. They found a small amount of suboxone wrapped in plastic and taped inside the patch."

Policing and Policy

New Policy Bans No-Knock Entries, Chokeholds By DOJ Law Enforcement Agencies

Politico (9/14, Rafford) reports that on Tuesday, the Justice Department “announced a ban on carotid restraints, chokeholds and ‘no-knock’ entries for its law enforcement agencies unless the use of deadly force is authorized.” Politico explains that the “new directive applies only to law enforcement overseen by the department, including the FBI, Drug Enforcement Agency and U.S. Marshals Service. The policy does not apply to immigration enforcement agencies, which are overseen by the Department of Homeland Security, nor does it apply to state and local law enforcement.” AG Garland said, “Building trust and confidence between law enforcement and the public we serve is central to our mission at the Justice Department. ... The limitations implemented today on the use of ‘chokeholds,’ ‘carotid restraints’ and ‘no-knock’ warrants, combined with our recent expansion of body-worn cameras to DOJ’s federal agents, are among the important steps the department is taking to improve law enforcement safety and accountability.”

Judge Strikes Down Language In Minneapolis Ballot Measure Proposing Police Overhaul

Axios (9/14, Saric) reports that on Tuesday, a “judge...struck down the proposed new wording for a ballot measure that seeks to replace the Minneapolis Police Department with a new agency.” Axios explains the “new wording would give the 13-member city council more say in the proposed department’s policies.” However, a lawsuit challenged “the level of detail required to be included in the question to give voters context but without injecting bias for or against.” Now, the judge’s decision “throws the proposed charter amendment into crisis as early voting and absentee voting for November’s elections begin Friday.”

White House: Law Enforcement In “Heightened State Of Alert” Ahead Of “Justice For J6” Rally

The Hill (9/14, Chalfant) reports that White House Principal Deputy Press Secretary Karine Jean-Pierre on Tuesday “said that federal and local law enforcement agencies are in a ‘heightened state of alert’ ahead of Saturday’s expected rally in Washington, D.C., of supporters of the pro-Trump insurrectionists who attacked the U.S. Capitol in January.” Jean-Pierre “told reporters...that officials hope the demonstrations will be ‘peaceful’ but federal agencies are prepared to assist U.S. Capitol Police and other agencies if necessary.”

The Hill (9/14, Schnell) reports that according to an official at the Department of Homeland Security, “roughly 700 people are expected to attend the ‘Justice for J6’ rally on Saturday,” and the Washington Post (9/14) reports DC officials “are worried that those who do attend may bring firearms illegally, setting up the potential for clashes in an area expected to be bustling on Saturday with crowds at multiple events: the annual H Street festival in Northeast that typically attracts thousands; a Howard University football game at Audi Field in Southwest; a baseball game at Nationals Park; and a Harry Styles concert at Capital One Arena downtown.”

Memo Indicates DHS Restricted Access To Open-Source Intelligence About “Election Related Threats” Leading Up To Jan. 6 Capitol Riot. “A few months before rioters stormed the US Capitol, the Department of Homeland Security restricted the flow of open-source intelligence reports about ‘election-related threats’ to law enforcement, citing First Amendment concerns, according to documents reviewed by” CNN (9/14, Cohen), which reports the disclosures “not only add to a growing concerns about intelligence gathering, but they also raise questions about a key staffer on the committee investigating the insurrection and his previous role in determining how threat information that came from public sources, was shared with law enforcement prior to the Capitol attack.”

Pittsburgh Police Patrols Boosted At Churches After Threats

The Sewickley (PA) Patch (9/14, Heyt) reports from Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, “The FBI and Pittsburgh police are investigating phone threats to harm congregants at a Pittsburgh church Sunday.” The Patch adds, “While an investigation city Bureau of Public Safety described as ‘very active and ongoing,’ continues, police have added extra patrols and are taking additional precautions around the threatened churches and other city houses of worship. ‘Pittsburgh Public Safety takes all threats of violence or terrorism extremely seriously,’ Public Safety Director Wendell Hissrich said Tuesday. ‘Pittsburgh Police intelligence unit detectives are working closely with our federal partners within FBI Pittsburgh, sharing information and intelligence to determine the origin of the threats.’”

Policing and Policy

US Attorney General Garland: DOJ Increasing Oversight Of Police-Reform Monitors

The Washington Post (9/12) reports that Attorney General Garland on Monday “unveiled new rules governing federal monitors responsible for overseeing police reforms in local jurisdictions, including setting limits on the watchdogs’ tenure and budgets and requiring them to undergo more training.” The Post adds Garland “announced the changes during an online speech to the International Association of Chiefs of Police, culminating a four-month Justice Department review aimed at bolstering public confidence in federal efforts to rein in unconstitutional and abusive policing.”

Reuters (9/13, Lynch) reports that the new rules “impose annual budget caps on monitors to prevent them from running up taxpayer costs for their services, bar monitors from ‘double-dipping’ by serving on more than one monitoring team at a time, and require more training. They also limit the length of service of monitors and require an assessment of their performance to ensure their effectiveness.” According to Reuters, “President Joe Biden has vowed to address what he has called U.S. systemic racism.”

Police In Scotland Prepare For Big Deployment During October UN Climate Change Conference

BBC News (9/13, Cowan) reports, “Armed police will be visible like never before in Scotland when world leaders arrive in Glasgow for COP26 at the end of October.” According to BBC News, “The UN climate change conference is expected to see the biggest ever deployment of armed officers in Scotland. Police Scotland has 500 officers trained to use guns and they will be joined by many others from around the UK. The force will not give an exact number for how many will be on duty during Cop26 but one former chief constable has suggested it could be about 1,000. Operation Urram (Gaelic for respect) will see a total of 10,000 officers deployed on each day of the two-week conference, which takes place at the Scottish Exhibition Campus between 31 October and 12

November. It is one of the largest mobilisations of police ever to take place in the UK.”

Minnesota Judge Halts New Use-Of-Force Standards Amid Lawsuit

The Minneapolis Star Tribune (9/14, Montemayor) reports, “A Ramsey County judge on Monday hit pause on Minnesota’s new police use of force standards amid a legal challenge filed by several law enforcement lobbying groups. ‘The public policy implications are severe, and it is imperative that we get this right,’ Judge Leonardo Castro wrote in an order suspending new provisions that the Legislature passed months after George Floyd’s death in 2020.” The Star Tribune adds that four law enforcement groups “sued Gov. Tim Walz and the state of Minnesota in July after failing to persuade the Legislature to push back a deadline for training officers on the new requirements. The plaintiffs said that the new use of force standards unconstitutionally compel officers to forfeit their rights to refuse to testify against themselves in deadly force cases.”

Dallas, Texas Sees Decline In Violent Crime

The Dallas Morning News (9/13, Smith) reports, “Dallas Police Chief Eddie García voiced confidence in his crime-reduction plan on Monday as murders and robberies trended down across the city during the first half of the year while aggravated assaults were slightly higher than last year.” Violent crime, “which includes murders, robberies and aggravated assaults,” was “down about 6.3% across Dallas from January to July this year compared with the same period in 2020. Police recorded 5,054 violent crimes during that time this year, which compares with 5,392 in 2020. There were 118 murders, which is three less than in 2020, according to department numbers.” The findings “marked the end of the first 90-day implementation of García’s plan, which focused on increased police visibility in 47 small geographic areas – or grids – where violent crime is prevalent across Dallas.”

Michigan Legislator Introduces Bill To Decriminalize Psilocybin, Mescaline

Forbes (9/13, Herrington) reports Michigan state Sen. Jeff Irwin (D) has introduced legislation to decriminalize psilocybin and mescaline “in a bid to make them available for therapeutic use while closing a chapter on the failed War on Drugs. Under the legislation, Senate Bill 631, possession and use of psychedelics including psilocybin and mescaline would be ‘exempt from criminal prosecution in certain circumstances.’” Under the bill “psychedelic drugs produced by entheogenic plants and fungi including psilocybin, DMT, ibogaine, mescaline and psilocyn, would be decriminalized, although commercial production and sales would still be illegal.”

South Dakota Legislature Rejects Portions Of Governor’s Medical Marijuana Proposal, Approves Majority Of Plan

The AP (9/13, Groves) reports the South Dakota legislature “rejected a handful of rules proposals governing medical marijuana from Gov. Kristi Noem’s administration but approved the bulk of the program.” The Rules Review Committee “effectively told the Department of Health to try again on a number of controversial rule proposals. The rules they rejected included proposals that would have limited the amount of high-potency marijuana that patients could possess, required medical practitioners to write a recommendation for patients who wanted to grow more than three cannabis plants, and defined a list of conditions that would qualify for a medical marijuana recommendation.”

Security, Crime, and Drugs

Police In Grand Forks, North Dakota, Warn Of Dangerous Opiate

The AP (9/13) reports the police department in Grand Forks, North Dakota, “has issued a warning about a powerful illegal opiate making the rounds locally. Officers said they responded to numerous narcotics-related drug overdoses Saturday evening, including a death. Police say illegal drug users ingested what they believed to be heroin and began overdosing.”

Japanese Officials Warn Of Possible Attacks In Southeast Asia

The AP (9/13) reports, “Japan’s Foreign Ministry urged its citizens on Monday to stay away from religious facilities and crowds in six Southeast Asian nations, warning of a possible attack. The ministry said it had obtained information that ‘there are increased risks such as suicide bombings.’” The AP adds, “The warning applies to Japanese citizens in Indonesia, the Philippines, Singapore, Malaysia, Thailand and Myanmar. The advisory was met with puzzlement in several of those nations, which said they had no knowledge of such a threat, or details from Japan as to the source of its information. Tanee Sangrat, spokesman for Thailand’s Foreign Ministry, said Japan had not revealed the origin of the warning and that the Japanese Embassy had no further details other than to say it was ‘not specific to Thailand.’”

House Sergeant-At-Arms Briefs Congressional Leaders On Sept. 18 Rally

Roll Call (9/13, Marquette) reports House Sergeant-at-Arms William Walker on Monday briefed House Speaker Pelosi, House Minority Leader McCarthy, Senate Majority Leader Schumer, Senate Minority Leader McConnell, and Capitol Police Chief Thomas Manger “ahead of the Justice for J6 rally to support imprisoned pro-Trump rioters who stormed the Capitol on Jan. 6.” Walker said he is “reasonably concerned” about the rally, but said the briefing “was ‘outstanding’ and all participants were attentive.”

The Hill (9/13, Lillis, Wong) reports Capitol Police “have installed temporary high-tech security cameras to allow them a vaster view of the Capitol complex,” while a Capitol security board on Monday “approved a plan to reinstall a seven-foot fence around the main Capitol building, which had stood for months after January’s deadly assault,” and “said it has issued an emergency declaration, which will allow Capitol Police to deputize outside law enforcement as ‘special’ Capitol Police officers on Saturday.”

The AP (9/13, Mascaro) reports the upcoming rally and the “brazen rhetoric” that has precluded it “is the latest attempt to explain away the horrific assault and obscure what played out for all the world to see: rioters loyal to the then-president storming the building, battling police and trying to stop Congress from certifying the election of Democrat Joe Biden.” The AP adds that “the attempted whitewashing of the Jan. 6 attack threatens to further divide an already polarized nation that finds itself drifting from what had been common facts and a shared commitment to civic order toward an unsettling new normal.”

Capitol Police Arrest California Man With Knives Outside Of DNC Headquarters. Politico (9/13, Niedzwiadek) reports US Capitol Police on Monday announced officers “arrested a

California man on weapons charges after finding multiple illegal knives in a pickup adorned with white supremacist iconography near the Democratic National Committee's Capitol Hill headquarters." Politico says Capitol Police "said...44-year-old Donald Craighead was charged with possession of prohibited weapons after a patrolling Special Operations Division officer noticed that the Dodge Dakota did not have a visible license plate and pulled the driver over around midnight." Politico adds Capitol Police "said that the officer then spotted a bayonet and machete, both of which are types of knives that are illegal in Washington, D.C., inside the truck," and "also said that Craighead espoused white supremacist rhetoric while he was pulled over."

Colombian Nationals Plead Guilty In "Narco-Submarine" Case

The New York Daily News (9/13, Matthews) reports, "Six Columbian nationals have pleaded guilty in federal court to conspiracy to use 'narco-submarines' to smuggle more than 19,000 kgs of cocaine to the Sinola Cartel." Federal prosecutors say "the defendants were part of a criminal organization that built and maintained narco-submarines which were used to send cocaine from Columbia into the Pacific Ocean where it was collected by members of the Sinola Cartel near Oaxaca, Mexico."

Report Examines Impact Race, Trauma Has On Opioid Overdose Deaths In Philadelphia

The Philadelphia Inquirer (9/13, Gantz) reports the city of Philadelphia has released a report indicating that "racism, childhood trauma, and the COVID-19 pandemic have dramatically affected opioid overdose deaths in Philadelphia, and must be considered as part of the city Health Department's efforts to curtail rising overdose deaths." The report, dubbed "OD Stat," summarizes "findings of a panel of public health experts who reviewed in depth 22 individual overdose death cases in an effort to identify and address gaps in services. Though a small sample of the 1,214 people who died of an overdose in Philadelphia in 2020, the findings provide valuable insight to the experience of individuals in active addiction."

Studies Find 9/11 First Responders Face Higher Cancer Risk 20 Years Later

HealthDay (9/13, Norton) reports, "Twenty years on, responders to the World Trade Center attacks in New York City are showing increased risks of certain cancers, two new studies confirm." According to HealthDay, "Researchers found higher-than-average rates of prostate cancer among firefighters, medics and other workers who toiled at the disaster site on and after Sept. 11, 2001," and "compared with firefighters from other major U.S. cities, those exposed to the 9/11 disaster had higher risks of both prostate and thyroid cancers." HealthDay adds, "It's been known that World Trade Center rescue and recovery workers have above-average rates of certain cancers," but "the new studies help clarify the picture further, experts said. 'We were not expecting the latency period to be that short,' said senior researcher Charles Hall, a professor at Albert Einstein College of Medicine in New York City."

Policing and Policy

US Attorney General Garland: DOJ Increasing Oversight Of Police-Reform Monitors

The Washington Post (9/12) reports that Attorney General Garland on Monday “unveiled new rules governing federal monitors responsible for overseeing police reforms in local jurisdictions, including setting limits on the watchdogs’ tenure and budgets and requiring them to undergo more training.” The Post adds Garland “announced the changes during an online speech to the International Association of Chiefs of Police, culminating a four-month Justice Department review aimed at bolstering public confidence in federal efforts to rein in unconstitutional and abusive policing.”

Reuters (9/13, Lynch) reports that the new rules “impose annual budget caps on monitors to prevent them from running up taxpayer costs for their services, bar monitors from ‘double-dipping’ by serving on more than one monitoring team at a time, and require more training. They also limit the length of service of monitors and require an assessment of their performance to ensure their effectiveness.” According to Reuters, “President Joe Biden has vowed to address what he has called U.S. systemic racism.”

Police In Scotland Prepare For Big Deployment During October UN Climate Change Conference

BBC News (9/13, Cowan) reports, “Armed police will be visible like never before in Scotland when world leaders arrive in Glasgow for COP26 at the end of October.” According to BBC News, “The UN climate change conference is expected to see the biggest ever deployment of armed officers in Scotland. Police Scotland has 500 officers trained to use guns and they will be joined by many others from around the UK. The force will not give an exact number for how many will be on duty during Cop26 but one former chief constable has suggested it could be about 1,000. Operation Urram (Gaelic for respect) will see a total of 10,000 officers deployed on each day of the two-week conference, which takes place at the Scottish Exhibition Campus between 31 October and 12

November. It is one of the largest mobilisations of police ever to take place in the UK.”

Minnesota Judge Halts New Use-Of-Force Standards Amid Lawsuit

The Minneapolis Star Tribune (9/14, Montemayor) reports, “A Ramsey County judge on Monday hit pause on Minnesota’s new police use of force standards amid a legal challenge filed by several law enforcement lobbying groups. ‘The public policy implications are severe, and it is imperative that we get this right,’ Judge Leonardo Castro wrote in an order suspending new provisions that the Legislature passed months after George Floyd’s death in 2020.” The Star Tribune adds that four law enforcement groups “sued Gov. Tim Walz and the state of Minnesota in July after failing to persuade the Legislature to push back a deadline for training officers on the new requirements. The plaintiffs said that the new use of force standards unconstitutionally compel officers to forfeit their rights to refuse to testify against themselves in deadly force cases.”

Dallas, Texas Sees Decline In Violent Crime

The Dallas Morning News (9/13, Smith) reports, “Dallas Police Chief Eddie García voiced confidence in his crime-reduction plan on Monday as murders and robberies trended down across the city during the first half of the year while aggravated assaults were slightly higher than last year.” Violent crime, “which includes murders, robberies and aggravated assaults,” was “down about 6.3% across Dallas from January to July this year compared with the same period in 2020. Police recorded 5,054 violent crimes during that time this year, which compares with 5,392 in 2020. There were 118 murders, which is three less than in 2020, according to department numbers.” The findings “marked the end of the first 90-day implementation of García’s plan, which focused on increased police visibility in 47 small geographic areas – or grids – where violent crime is prevalent across Dallas.”

Michigan Legislator Introduces Bill To Decriminalize Psilocybin, Mescaline

Forbes (9/13, Herrington) reports Michigan state Sen. Jeff Irwin (D) has introduced legislation to decriminalize psilocybin and mescaline “in a bid to make them available for therapeutic use while closing a chapter on the failed War on Drugs. Under the legislation, Senate Bill 631, possession and use of psychedelics including psilocybin and mescaline would be ‘exempt from criminal prosecution in certain circumstances.’” Under the bill “psychedelic drugs produced by entheogenic plants and fungi including psilocybin, DMT, ibogaine, mescaline and psilocyn, would be decriminalized, although commercial production and sales would still be illegal.”

South Dakota Legislature Rejects Portions Of Governor’s Medical Marijuana Proposal, Approves Majority Of Plan

The AP (9/13, Groves) reports the South Dakota legislature “rejected a handful of rules proposals governing medical marijuana from Gov. Kristi Noem’s administration but approved the bulk of the program.” The Rules Review Committee “effectively told the Department of Health to try again on a number of controversial rule proposals. The rules they rejected included proposals that would have limited the amount of high-potency marijuana that patients could possess, required medical practitioners to write a recommendation for patients who wanted to grow more than three cannabis plants, and defined a list of conditions that would qualify for a medical marijuana

recommendation.”

Security, Crime, and Drugs

Police In Grand Forks, North Dakota, Warn Of Dangerous Opiate

The AP (9/13) reports the police department in Grand Forks, North Dakota, “has issued a warning about a powerful illegal opiate making the rounds locally. Officers said they responded to numerous narcotics-related drug overdoses Saturday evening, including a death. Police say illegal drug users ingested what they believed to be heroin and began overdosing.”

Japanese Officials Warn Of Possible Attacks In Southeast Asia

The AP (9/13) reports, “Japan’s Foreign Ministry urged its citizens on Monday to stay away from religious facilities and crowds in six Southeast Asian nations, warning of a possible attack. The ministry said it had obtained information that ‘there are increased risks such as suicide bombings.’” The AP adds, “The warning applies to Japanese citizens in Indonesia, the Philippines, Singapore, Malaysia, Thailand and Myanmar. The advisory was met with puzzlement in several of those nations, which said they had no knowledge of such a threat, or details from Japan as to the source of its information. Tanee Sangrat, spokesman for Thailand’s Foreign Ministry, said Japan had not revealed the origin of the warning and that the Japanese Embassy had no further details other than to say it was ‘not specific to Thailand.’”

House Sergeant-At-Arms Briefs Congressional Leaders On Sept. 18 Rally

Roll Call (9/13, Marquette) reports House Sergeant-at-Arms William Walker on Monday briefed House Speaker Pelosi, House Minority Leader McCarthy, Senate Majority Leader Schumer, Senate Minority Leader McConnell, and Capitol Police Chief Thomas Manger “ahead of the Justice for J6 rally to support imprisoned pro-Trump rioters who stormed the Capitol on Jan. 6.” Walker said he is “reasonably concerned” about the rally, but said the briefing “was ‘outstanding’ and all participants were attentive.”

The Hill (9/13, Lillis, Wong) reports Capitol Police “have installed temporary high-tech security cameras to allow them a vaster view of the Capitol complex,” while a Capitol security board on Monday “approved a plan to reinstall a seven-foot fence around the main Capitol building, which had stood for months after January’s deadly assault,” and “said it has issued an emergency declaration, which will allow Capitol Police to deputize outside law enforcement as ‘special’ Capitol Police officers on Saturday.”

The AP (9/13, Mascaro) reports the upcoming rally and the “brazen rhetoric” that has precluded it “is the latest attempt to explain away the horrific assault and obscure what played out for all the world to see: rioters loyal to the then-president storming the building, battling police and trying to stop Congress from certifying the election of Democrat Joe Biden.” The AP adds that “the attempted whitewashing of the Jan. 6 attack threatens to further divide an already polarized nation that finds itself drifting from what had been common facts and a shared commitment to civic order toward an unsettling new normal.”

Capitol Police Arrest California Man With Knives Outside Of DNC Headquarters. Politico (9/13, Niedzwiadek) reports US Capitol Police on Monday announced officers “arrested a

California man on weapons charges after finding multiple illegal knives in a pickup adorned with white supremacist iconography near the Democratic National Committee's Capitol Hill headquarters." Politico says Capitol Police "said...44-year-old Donald Craighead was charged with possession of prohibited weapons after a patrolling Special Operations Division officer noticed that the Dodge Dakota did not have a visible license plate and pulled the driver over around midnight." Politico adds Capitol Police "said that the officer then spotted a bayonet and machete, both of which are types of knives that are illegal in Washington, D.C., inside the truck," and "also said that Craighead espoused white supremacist rhetoric while he was pulled over."

Colombian Nationals Plead Guilty In "Narco-Submarine" Case

The New York Daily News (9/13, Matthews) reports, "Six Columbian nationals have pleaded guilty in federal court to conspiracy to use 'narco-submarines' to smuggle more than 19,000 kgs of cocaine to the Sinola Cartel." Federal prosecutors say "the defendants were part of a criminal organization that built and maintained narco-submarines which were used to send cocaine from Columbia into the Pacific Ocean where it was collected by members of the Sinola Cartel near Oaxaca, Mexico."

Report Examines Impact Race, Trauma Has On Opioid Overdose Deaths In Philadelphia

The Philadelphia Inquirer (9/13, Gantz) reports the city of Philadelphia has released a report indicating that "racism, childhood trauma, and the COVID-19 pandemic have dramatically affected opioid overdose deaths in Philadelphia, and must be considered as part of the city Health Department's efforts to curtail rising overdose deaths." The report, dubbed "OD Stat," summarizes "findings of a panel of public health experts who reviewed in depth 22 individual overdose death cases in an effort to identify and address gaps in services. Though a small sample of the 1,214 people who died of an overdose in Philadelphia in 2020, the findings provide valuable insight to the experience of individuals in active addiction."

Studies Find 9/11 First Responders Face Higher Cancer Risk 20 Years Later

HealthDay (9/13, Norton) reports, "Twenty years on, responders to the World Trade Center attacks in New York City are showing increased risks of certain cancers, two new studies confirm." According to HealthDay, "Researchers found higher-than-average rates of prostate cancer among firefighters, medics and other workers who toiled at the disaster site on and after Sept. 11, 2001," and "compared with firefighters from other major U.S. cities, those exposed to the 9/11 disaster had higher risks of both prostate and thyroid cancers." HealthDay adds, "It's been known that World Trade Center rescue and recovery workers have above-average rates of certain cancers," but "the new studies help clarify the picture further, experts said. 'We were not expecting the latency period to be that short,' said senior researcher Charles Hall, a professor at Albert Einstein College of Medicine in New York City."

FINAL CHANCE TO RESPOND:

Your opinions needed on new 2021 ILACP Membership Survey

So much has changed since we did our most recent Membership Survey just two years ago, in 2019.

To prepare for our Annual Planning Meeting on September 30, we are asking all members to let us know what it is important to you now by completing a new 2021 Membership Survey. Our Board of Officers and committee chairs will analyze what you tell us, and we will share with all members the results of the survey and our response to them as we plan for 2022 and beyond.

It will take you less than 10 minutes to complete this, and your perspective is vital at this time.

Please click here to complete the survey. Your privacy is assured; we will release only the aggregated results.

If you have questions or concerns about this, don't hesitate to contact me.

New York Police Intel Strategies Employed After 9/11 Now Used To Fight Everyday Crime

CNN (9/11, Morales) reports, "In the aftermath of 9/11, New York City law enforcement officials developed a strategy designed to gain intelligence and develop technology to prevent any more attacks. Twenty years and hundreds of millions of dollars later, those same strategies and technological advancements are used to solve crimes." According to CNN, "The NYPD has made significant technological changes since the destruction of the World Trade Center, adding more cameras, installing license plate readers at points of entry as well as in police cars, and giving their officers smart phones that have access to records and information, officials said. These advances, among others, were developed using federal funding. Since 2017, the NYPD has spent over $300 million each year on intelligence and counterterrorism, according to the city's independent budget office. The department's anti-terror tools also are being used to solve more run-of-the-mill crimes." Six Los Angeles Police Department Employees Sue City Over Vaccination Mandate

The Los Angeles Times (9/12, Rector) reports that six Los Angeles Police Department employees "filed a federal lawsuit challenging the city's mandate that all L.A. employees be vaccinated against COVID-19." The lawsuit, "filed Saturday in U.S. District Court in Los Angeles, claims the mandate violates the employees' constitutional rights to privacy and due process, and asks the court to provide immediate and permanent relief from the requirement." The LAPD employees "suing include individuals 'who could not assert a medical or religious exemption' to the vaccine requirement, as well as individuals who have 'experienced and recovered from COVID-19' and have natural antibodies to fight the virus, the complaint states."

New York Governor Signs Law To Expand Pool Of First Responders

Newsday (NY) (9/11) reports that New York Gov. Kathy Hochul “signed into law three pieces of legislation on the anniversary of Sept. 11, 2001, all designed to expand the pool of people considered first responders during the terrorist attacks and make it easier for them to apply for benefits online. She also proposed legislation that would allow New York National Guard members to qualify as veterans under state law.” Newsday adds, “One of the new laws she signed expressly defined the first responder category to include 911 operators, EMS dispatchers and others working in similar jobs as defined by local government regulations. Another signed measure allows for first responders to apply for benefits online through their relevant retirement systems,” while “a third expands the definition of a World Trade Center responder to include any person who is currently a member of a public retirement system, regardless of whether the employee was a participant of the retirement system at that time of the attacks, subject to certain time limitations.”

California Lawmakers May End Arrests For Loitering For Prostitution

The AP (9/11, Thompson) reports, “Police in California would no longer be able to arrest anyone for loitering with the intent to engage in prostitution under a bill approved by state lawmakers on Friday amid debate over whether the move would help or harm sex trafficking victims,” but “Sen. Scott Wiener then used a procedural move to withhold the bill from the governor’s consideration until next year.” The delay until January “gives supporters ‘more time to make the case about why this civil rights bill is good policy that should be signed into law and why this discriminatory loitering crime goes against California values and needs to be repealed,’ Wiener’s office said in a statement.” Wiener “argued that the crime too often depends on an officer’s perception and results in disproportionate arrests of transgender, Black and Latino women.”

Florida Teens Arrested For Alleged Mass School Shooting Plot

The Wall Street Journal (9/10, Calfas, Subscription Publication) reports Lee County, Florida officials have arrested two teens for allegedly plotting a mass school shooting. A sheriff’s department investigation revealed the two were devising a plan and studying the 1999 shooting at Columbine High School.

Fentanyl Has Come To The Mountain West, Driving Overdoses

KPCW-FM reports, “Fatal drug overdoses are skyrocketing, driven by synthetic opioids like fentanyl,” which “has made it to the Mountain West.” Steve Kotecki, who is with the Drug Enforcement Administration’s Denver office, said, “Down in Mexico, it’s manufactured in a garage or a warehouse or something else down there by the cartels, is manufactured and then smuggled up through the southwest border.” While “Mexican cartels like fentanyl because it’s cheap and powerful,” it’s hard to mix in a way that’s safe; “the DEA says about a quarter of fentanyl pills they seized had enough of the substance to kill.”

Alleged Leaders Of Oregon Motorcycle Gang Arrested

The Walla Walla (WA) Union-Bulletin (9/12, Maynes) reports that, in “a massive law enforcement operation” that included the Drug Enforcement Administration, on Thursday two Oregon, men, including a corrections officer in Walla Walla, “were arrested for allegedly being involved in violent crimes connected to a nationwide biker gang.” Charles Montgomery and Dustin Wendelin, , who worked at the Washington State Penitentiary in Walla Walla, are “alleged to be local leaders of an outlaw motorcycle gang called the Pagan’s 1%.”

The Seattle Times (9/10) reported the Walla Walla County Sheriff’s Office “collaborated on the investigation for several months with the Spalding County Sheriff’s Office in Griffin, Georgia, as well as with federal law enforcement partners.”

Authorities Seize $81 Million Worth Of Drugs In Remote San Diego County

The Palm Springs (CA) Desert Sun (9/12) reports the San Diego Sheriff’s Department announced that over $81 million worth of drugs “from a property in Warner Springs early Friday. ... Authorities suspect the drugs were destined for unlicensed Southern California marijuana dispensaries.”

The San Diego Union-Tribune (9/11) reports investigators “found hazardous materials that they said are used to process THC and which can contaminate local ground water supply and streams.” The county’s hazmat team and Drug Enforcement Administration experts “were called to remove the hazardous substances.”

Subject: Master FTO Training File

DC Romano,

I have attached the master copy of the FTO training schedule that I maintain on my desktop. As you know, we are going through a mass hiring with a dearth of Field Trainers. Many of the best FTOs have been transferred or promoted in recent years, as they deserved. This, combined with putting 4 people through field training and potentially a fifth to replace Officer Zawilla, has lead me to seek to utilize Officer Zagorski for a period of time to assist with training our new hires to expedite the training process.

In October and November many field trainers have scheduled time off (Balsamo, Beyer, Galas, and Brines all have significant time off during this month). During this scheduled time off, ANTONIO, CORDERO, SIGARROSTEGUI, BODUCH, and MJs replacement will all be in training at the same time .

Commander Alexopoulos presented a potential schedule to your office for a proposed training schedule. He contacted me and explained that you would like to see the master schedule to see if there were other training options. Unfortunately you can see there are no good alternative options.

Without using Officer Zagorski, the trainees will be bouncing around between shifts, grids, FTOs, or have their training times significantly extended due to riding with officers who cannot complete

DORs.

Please let me know your thoughts.

Thanks,

Timothy Naleway | Sergeant

2378. Master FTO Training File

From: Naleway, Timothy <tmn@vniles.com>
To: Romano, Joseph <jpr@vniles.com>
Cc: Boba, Michael <mdb@vniles.com>, Alexopoulos, George <gda@vniles.com>
Sent Date: Sep 10, 2021 19:46:19
Subject: Master FTO Training File
Attachment: image001.jpg
image002.jpg
Master.xls

DC Romano,

I have attached the master copy of the FTO training schedule that I maintain on my desktop. As you know, we are going through a mass hiring with a dearth of Field Trainers. Many of the best FTOs have been transferred or promoted in recent years, as they deserved. This, combined with putting 4 people through field training and potentially a fifth to replace Officer Zawilla, has lead me to seek to utilize Officer Zagorski for a period of time to assist with training our new hires to expedite the training process.

In October and November many field trainers have scheduled time off (Balsamo, Beyer, Galas, and Brines all have significant time off during this month). During this scheduled time off, ANTONIO, CORDERO, SIGARROSTEGUI, BODUCH, and MJs replacement will all be in training at the same time .

Commander Alexopoulos presented a potential schedule to your office for a proposed training schedule. He contacted me and explained that you would like to see the master schedule to see if there were other training options. Unfortunately you can see there are no good alternative options.

Without using Officer Zagorski, the trainees will be bouncing around between shifts, grids, FTOs, or have their training times significantly extended due to riding with officers who cannot complete DORs.

Please let me know your thoughts.

Thanks,

Timothy Naleway | Sergeant

Hadley,

Do you want me to let IT know since you are named in the suit? If yes, who is the IT person again that I need to talk to? Does Police have its own IT person? Does it all fall under one department?

Policing and Policy

California Lawmakers Approve Rules On Breath-Restricting Police Holds

The AP (9/9, Thompson) reports, "California would bar police from using certain face-down holds that have led to multiple unintended deaths under a measure headed to Gov. Gavin Newsom on Thursday." The bill "expands on the state's ban on chokeholds in the wake of George Floyd's murder by a Minneapolis policeman. The Assembly gave final approval on a 50-15 vote. The measure by Democratic Assemblyman Mike Gipson, a former police officer himself, would prohibit police from using techniques that create a substantial risk of what's known as 'positional asphyxia,' which "include putting suspects face down, then pressing down on their backs with hands, elbows or knees to gain control." The bill "defines the hold as placing a person in a way that compresses their airway and reduces their ability to breathe. That includes putting body weight on a restrained person's neck, torso, or back."

Federal Judge Blocks Enforcement Of Florida "Anti-Riot" Law

USA Today (9/9, Kennedy) reports, "A federal judge Thursday blocked enforcement of Florida Gov. Ron DeSantis' so-called anti-riot law, which opponents have said is riddled with constitutional defects." US District Judge Mark Walker "agreed with arguments made by several civil rights organizations pushing to stop the law." DeSantis "proposed the measure after weeks of protests by Black Lives Matter supporters last summer" and "signed the anti-riot bill into law" in April. USA Today adds, "Civil rights organizations argued that the law is unconstitutional because its sweeping language could be used against people who are peacefully protesting. The judge agreed, saying in his order that the law is a threat to the constitutional rights of Americans. Its 'vagueness permits those in power to weaponize its enforcement against any group who wishes to express any message that the government disapproves of,' he wrote."

Authorities: Demand For Ontario Police-Mental Health Collaboration Far Exceeds Capacity

CBC (CAN) (9/9, Duhatschek) reports on a sharp increase in demand for the “Integrated Mobile Police and Crisis Team (IMPACT) in Waterloo region – a partnership that sends clinicians to help police officers with mental health calls. Between April 1 and June 30 this year, IMPACT was dispatched 364 times, which marks an increase of 42 per cent compared to the first quarter of the year.” Canadian Mental Health Association Waterloo Wellington Director of Services Jeff Stanlick “said IMPACT staffers have seen people’s mental health needs becoming more complicated.” The article quotes Stanlick saying, “Some of the top presentations this year include relationship conflict, alcohol, substance abuse, anxiety, depression and agitation. Where we may have seen a presentation with one or two concerns, we’re beginning to see them with more.”

Nebraska Officials Debate Increasing Penalties For Dealing Fentanyl

KMTV-TV Omaha, NE (9/9, Sanderford) reports on an uptick in deaths from fentanyl overdoses in Nebraska, saying the substance “killed more than 6 in 10 of the 92,000 Americans lost last year to overdoses, the DEA says. About a hundred of those lives were lost in Omaha, Omaha Fire Department records from 2020 show. As recently as 2016, local overdose deaths were less than half that number, 42.” Sgt. Dave Bianchi, “who leads the day shift narcotics unit for the Omaha Police Department,” is among “several in local law enforcement and politicians who’ve told 3 News Now Investigators that they want Nebraska law to get tougher on the people dealing fentanyl illegally.”

There is still time to register for the virtual conference. IACP 2021 will showcase over 100 on-demand training sessions discussing current topics affecting the policing profession, as well as live sessions to honor the 20th Anniversary of 9/11 and dig into specific topics like critical incidents, wellness, and counter-terrorism. Three-Month Operation Nets 158 Arrests In Alabama

Alabama Live (9/9) reports, “A three-month operation aimed at taking violent criminals off the streets in western Jefferson County led to 156 arrests – including 12 for homicides – and the seizure of 47 guns. The initiative was the second phase of Operation Python, which was first carried out in 2017.” Moreover, authorities seized “2.2 kilograms of illegal drugs, as well as $20,000.” The investigation was conducted by several state and local agencies including the DEA.

CBP Agents Seize Large Cache Of Fentanyl Bound From Memphis To Houston

KJAC-TV Port Arthur, TX (9/7) reports Customs and Border Protection agents seized a “huge” shipment of fentanyl in Memphis that was bound for Houston. “According to the CBP, the 2.85 kilos of fentanyl hidden in wooden boxes was enough to potentially kill hundreds of thousands of people. ‘This might seem like a small seizure from a little handicraft gift box,’ said Acting Area Port Director Benjamin Canfield in Memphis. ‘But if we look at those DEA numbers, this had the potential to overdose or kill 1.425 million people. That’s a lot of poison to be shipped to a residence in southeast Houston.’”

Western New York Drug Ring Crackdown Yields 12 Arrests

Niagara (NY) Gazette (9/9) reports, “Three Niagara Falls men were among 12 arrests made in the crackdown on a drug trafficking operation that law enforcement officials said brought cocaine from Puerto Rico to Western New York. New York Attorney General Letitia James and Special Agent in Charge Ray Donovan of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration’s (DEA) New York Division said the investigation led to the seizure of approximately 7.5 kilograms of cocaine with an estimated street value of more than $500,000, as well as more than $123,000 in cash.” Operation Cataracts was a year-long investigation which “brought together the resources of state, federal, and local law enforcement agents led by Attorney General James’ Organized Crime Task Force (OCTF), in partnership with the DEA’s Buffalo District Office, the U.S. Postal Inspection Service, Niagara Falls Police Department, and the Erie County Sheriff’s Narcotics Unit.”

Technology

Police In Cincinnati Use Drone To Find Wanted Man On Rooftop

WXYZ-TV Detroit (9/9) reports, “Cincinnati police made their first-ever drone-assisted arrest on Sept. 3, using eyes in the sky to locate a suspect who had eluded police on foot.” According to WXYZ-TV, “Officers were looking for a man with multiple felony warrants for his arrest. Police knew he had entered a Peete Street building in the city’s Over-the-Rhine neighborhood, but their search had been fruitless – that is, until Sgt. Eric Franz flew a drone six stories into the air. The suspect was on the roof, lying down to avoid being spotted from the street.” Franz “said drone technology is another tool police use to monitor traffic, get a birds-eye view of SWAT incidents and monitor crowds at large outdoor events. It’s a smaller, more maneuverable answer to the traditional police helicopter.”

DEA Warns Of New Tactic Used In Fraud Scams

KTSM-TV El Paso, TX (9/9, Castillo) reports from El Paso, Texas, “For almost a year, the Drug Enforcement Administration has been warning the public about phone calls from scammers posing as DEA employees trying to defraud victims. Scammers are now using new tactics.” The DEA “said because it started a national campaign to inform the public regarding these scam calls, many of scammers have turned their attention to a new potential target. Medical doctors have become targets. ‘Here in the El Paso Division, we have received some calls from doctors and doctor offices questioning if these calls are legitimate. And we are here to tell you they are not,’ said Carlos Briano, the Public Information Officer for the DEA El Paso division. The DEA said these scammers call a doctor or a doctor’s office, sometimes falsifying the number on the caller ID to appear as a legitimate DEA phone number.”

Authorities: Demand For Ontario Police-Mental Health Collaboration Far Exceeds Capacity

CBC (CAN) (9/9, Duhatschek) reports on a sharp increase in demand for the “Integrated Mobile Police and Crisis Team (IMPACT) in Waterloo region – a partnership that sends clinicians to help police officers with mental health calls. Between April 1 and June 30 this year, IMPACT was dispatched 364 times, which marks an increase of 42 per cent compared to the first quarter of the year.” Canadian Mental Health Association Waterloo Wellington Director of Services Jeff Stanlick “said IMPACT staffers have seen people’s mental health needs becoming more complicated.” The article quotes Stanlick saying, “Some of the top presentations this year include relationship conflict, alcohol, substance abuse, anxiety, depression and agitation. Where we may have seen a presentation with one or two concerns, we’re beginning to see them with more.”

Nebraska Officials Debate Increasing Penalties For Dealing Fentanyl

KMTV-TV Omaha, NE (9/9, Sanderford) reports on an uptick in deaths from fentanyl overdoses in Nebraska, saying the substance “killed more than 6 in 10 of the 92,000 Americans lost last year to overdoses, the DEA says. About a hundred of those lives were lost in Omaha, Omaha Fire Department records from 2020 show. As recently as 2016, local overdose deaths were less than half that number, 42.” Sgt. Dave Bianchi, “who leads the day shift narcotics unit for the Omaha Police Department,” is among “several in local law enforcement and politicians who’ve told 3 News Now Investigators that they want Nebraska law to get tougher on the people dealing fentanyl illegally.”

There is still time to register for the virtual conference. IACP 2021 will showcase over 100 on-demand training sessions discussing current topics affecting the policing profession, as well as live sessions to honor the 20th Anniversary of 9/11 and dig into specific topics like critical incidents, wellness, and counter-terrorism. For more information, check out the conference website: www.theiacpconference.org.

Three-Month Operation Nets 158 Arrests In Alabama

Alabama Live (9/9) reports, “A three-month operation aimed at taking violent criminals off the streets in western Jefferson County led to 156 arrests – including 12 for homicides – and the seizure of 47 guns. The initiative was the second phase of Operation Python, which was first carried out in 2017.” Moreover, authorities seized “2.2 kilograms of illegal drugs, as well as $20,000.” The investigation was conducted by several state and local agencies including the DEA.

CBP Agents Seize Large Cache Of Fentanyl Bound From Memphis To Houston

KJAC-TV Port Arthur, TX (9/7) reports Customs and Border Protection agents seized a “huge” shipment of fentanyl in Memphis that was bound for Houston. “According to the CBP, the 2.85 kilos of fentanyl hidden in wooden boxes was enough to potentially kill hundreds of thousands of people. ‘This might seem like a small seizure from a little handicraft gift box,’ said Acting Area Port Director Benjamin Canfield in Memphis. ‘But if we look at those DEA numbers, this had the potential to overdose or kill 1.425 million people. That’s a lot of poison to be shipped to a residence in southeast Houston.’”

Western New York Drug Ring Crackdown Yields 12 Arrests

Niagara (NY) Gazette (9/9) reports, “Three Niagara Falls men were among 12 arrests made in the crackdown on a drug trafficking operation that law enforcement officials said brought cocaine from Puerto Rico to Western New York. New York Attorney General Letitia James and Special Agent in Charge Ray Donovan of the U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration’s (DEA) New York Division said the investigation led to the seizure of approximately 7.5 kilograms of cocaine with an estimated street value of more than $500,000, as well as more than $123,000 in cash.” Operation Cataracts was a year-long investigation which “brought together the resources of state, federal, and local law enforcement agents led by Attorney General James’ Organized Crime Task Force (OCTF), in partnership with the DEA’s Buffalo District Office, the U.S. Postal Inspection Service, Niagara Falls Police Department, and the Erie County Sheriff’s Narcotics Unit.”

Technology

Police In Cincinnati Use Drone To Find Wanted Man On Rooftop

WXYZ-TV Detroit (9/9) reports, “Cincinnati police made their first-ever drone-assisted arrest on Sept. 3, using eyes in the sky to locate a suspect who had eluded police on foot.” According to WXYZ-TV, “Officers were looking for a man with multiple felony warrants for his arrest. Police knew he had entered a Peete Street building in the city’s Over-the-Rhine neighborhood, but their search had been fruitless – that is, until Sgt. Eric Franz flew a drone six stories into the air. The suspect was on the roof, lying down to avoid being spotted from the street.” Franz “said drone technology is another tool police use to monitor traffic, get a birds-eye view of SWAT incidents and monitor crowds at large outdoor events. It’s a smaller, more maneuverable answer to the traditional police helicopter.”

DEA Warns Of New Tactic Used In Fraud Scams

KTSM-TV El Paso, TX (9/9, Castillo) reports from El Paso, Texas, “For almost a year, the Drug Enforcement Administration has been warning the public about phone calls from scammers posing as DEA employees trying to defraud victims. Scammers are now using new tactics.” The DEA “said because it started a national campaign to inform the public regarding these scam calls, many of scammers have turned their attention to a new potential target. Medical doctors have become targets. ‘Here in the El Paso Division, we have received some calls from doctors and doctor offices questioning if these calls are legitimate. And we are here to tell you they are not,’ said Carlos Briano, the Public Information Officer for the DEA El Paso division. The DEA said these scammers call a doctor or a doctor’s office, sometimes falsifying the number on the caller ID to appear as a legitimate DEA phone number.”

Chief Feld,

Missing the International Chief of Police (IACP) Expo this year? Us too! We were sad to learn the IACP would not go forward this year however, our hearts are with the Families and First Responders in New Orleans coping with the post-hurricane effects in the region.

In lieu of physically being present at the IACP this year, we would like to invite you to a live webinar next week on Tuesday, 14 September at 1:00 PM EST. The goal is to provide a brief summary of wellbeing and resilience training interventions, to provide information on the scientific benefits of training in organizations and to teach a skill designed to help First Responders learn to regulate their emotional and physical reactions to negative events both at home and on the job.

Terry Brazil and I have been training classes together for more than 10 years alongside a host of professionals in the field including Former Army Chief of Staff George Casey Jr., Former U.S. Army Deputy Surgeon General for Force Protection and Prisoner of War Rhonda Cornum PhD, MD and U.S. Air Force Resilience Program Developer, Dr. Jill Antonishak, PhD. Their extensive experience includes core programs with the U.S. Air Force, U.S. Customs and Border Protection, U.S. Navy Special Warfare, Municipal Police Departments, Departments of Correction, South Australian Health and Medical Research Institute and many other private and civic institutions. We hope you can join us for this free webinar on Tuesday, September 14th at 1:00 PM EST. Registration is required and space is limited so please respond early.

Registration Link: https://us06web.zoom.us/webinar/register/WN_AFQ7pX-bRAy9jEkve_Lfng or by clicking on the Flyer Image.

We have also attached the .pdf flyer to this email. The link for registration inside is clickable so please forward to any First Responder personnel you think may have additional interest.

Thank you and we are looking forward to having you there!

Chris,

Can you see the below attachment and provide me the same data for our ILEAP Assessors?

I need data for 2019, 2020, and 2021 year-to-date (or first 6 months of 2021, whichever you have) for: pursuits, use of force, complaints and internals, UCR Part 1, calls for service, grievances. I have attached a part of another ILEAP agency final report showing what I am looking for. In the area of pursuits, there is a lot of analysis, if you don't need to have all this information, just the number of pursuits per year (19, 20, 21 ytd) and if they were within policy will be sufficient.

Thanks Bob, this is really helpful.

Here is a list of most of the information I will need for my final report, and data for you to gather.

I need data for 2019, 2020, and 2021 year-to-date (or first 6 months of 2021, whichever you have) for: pursuits, use of force, complaints and internals, UCR Part 1, calls for service, grievances. In the area of pursuits, there is a lot of analysis, if you don't need to have all this information, just the number of pursuits per year (19, 20, 21 ytd) and if they were within policy will be sufficient.

I also need the following: electronic copy of your ILEAP press release/public notice, authorized and current strength (sworn), and sworn data on the total number of women and minority officers, and number of women and minorities in command (sgt and above).

Finally, in our secure work area, we will be looking for the ILEAP files, labor contracts, recent IAP or major event plans, Emergency or EOC manual or plans, Internet access, phone for public call-in, pens and paper, and refreshments.

Let me know if you have any questions!

Message from our endorsed candidate for IACP VP: Chief Doug Shoemaker; voting is Sept. 13

ILACP has endorsed Chief Doug Shoemaker for 5th Vice President of the International Association of Chiefs of Police. The election will take place electronically on Monday, September 13. You must be registered to attend the virtual conference to be eligible to vote, as the in-person conference was cancelled due to Hurricane Ida.

Chief Shoemaker sends this message to Illinois:

ILACP members:

Chief Doug Shoemaker here. I have had the distinct pleasure of meeting with so many of you over the last ten months and learning about your why -- why you joined the profession, why you love it still, and why you are forging ahead to build the best path forward for law enforcement.

In my time campaigning for the position of IACP 5th Vice President, I have learned how steadfast you are -- and how you align -- with the core values that have fueled my hope to be elected -- collaboration and communication, solid training for our officers, and a true care and consideration for our women and men so they are healthy not just physically, but mentally as well.

So many of you acutely know the uncertainties, frustrations and concerns that have been at the forefront of our profession over the last year and a half. Many of us have made and succeeded in repeated efforts to engage with communities, connect with stakeholders, and collaborate on next steps so that we can all be our best not just in service to our communities, but as protectors of the world around us.

I am so thankful to have been endorsed by your state association to help us lead that effort ever forward, together, as the IACP 5th Vice President. I am grateful for your state's support in this campaign, and as partners in building out next steps.

I humbly ask for your vote, and for your support, on Monday, September 13 to be your next IACP Vice President. I believe we can do incredible things together. I believe in you, and I believe in this profession.

In partnership,

ILACP members:

Chief Doug Shoemaker here. I have had the distinct pleasure of meeting with so many of you over the last ten months and learning about your why -- why you joined the profession, why you love it still, and why you are forging ahead to build the best path forward for law enforcement.

In my time campaigning for the position of IACP 5th Vice President, I have learned how steadfast you are -- and how you align -- with the core values that have fueled my hope to be elected -- collaboration and communication, solid training for our officers, and a true care and consideration for our women and men so they are healthy not just physically, but mentally as well.

So many of you acutely know the uncertainties, frustrations and concerns that have been at the forefront of our profession over the last year and a half. Many of us have made and succeeded in repeated efforts to engage with communities, connect with stakeholders, and collaborate on next steps so that we can all be our best not just in service to our communities, but as protectors of the world around us.

I am so thankful to have been endorsed by your state association to help us lead that effort ever forward, together, as the IACP 5th Vice President. I am grateful for your state's support in this campaign, and as partners in building out next steps.

I humbly ask for your vote, and for your support, on Monday, September 13 to be your next IACP Vice President. I believe we can do incredible things together. I believe in you, and I believe in this profession.

In partnership,

Doug

Chris,

Can you see the below attachment and provide me the same data for our ILEAP Assessors?

I need data for 2019, 2020, and 2021 year-to-date (or first 6 months of 2021, whichever you have) for: pursuits, use of force, complaints and internals, UCR Part 1, calls for service, grievances. I have attached a part of another ILEAP agency final report showing what I am looking for. In the area of pursuits, there is a lot of analysis, if you don't need to have all this information, just the number of pursuits per year (19, 20, 21 ytd) and if they were within policy will be sufficient.

Thanks Bob, this is really helpful.

Here is a list of most of the information I will need for my final report, and data for you to gather.

I need data for 2019, 2020, and 2021 year-to-date (or first 6 months of 2021, whichever you have) for: pursuits, use of force, complaints and internals, UCR Part 1, calls for service, grievances. In the area of pursuits, there is a lot of analysis, if you don't need to have all this information, just the number of pursuits per year (19, 20, 21 ytd) and if they were within policy will be sufficient.

I also need the following: electronic copy of your ILEAP press release/public notice, authorized and current strength (sworn), and sworn data on the total number of women and minority officers, and number of women and minorities in command (sgt and above).

Finally, in our secure work area, we will be looking for the ILEAP files, labor contracts, recent IAP or major event plans, Emergency or EOC manual or plans, Internet access, phone for public call-in, pens and paper, and refreshments.

Let me know if you have any questions!

Subject: Re: Niles File review

Thanks Bob, this is really helpful.

Here is a list of most of the information I will need for my final report, and data for you to gather.

I need data for 2019, 2020, and 2021 year-to-date (or first 6 months of 2021, whichever you have) for: pursuits, use of force, complaints and internals, UCR Part 1, calls for service, grievances. I have attached a part of another ILEAP agency final report showing what I am looking for. In the area of pursuits, there is a lot of analysis, if you don't need to have all this information, just the number of pursuits per year (19, 20, 21 ytd) and if they were within policy will be sufficient.

I also need the following: electronic copy of your ILEAP press release/public notice, authorized and current strength (sworn), and sworn data on the total number of women and minority officers, and number of women and minorities in command (sgt and above).

Finally, in our secure work area, we will be looking for the ILEAP files, labor contracts, recent IAP or major event plans, Emergency or EOC manual or plans, Internet access, phone for public call-in, pens and paper, and refreshments.

Let me know if you have any questions!

Holly

San Antonio, Texas Officers May Soon Receive Four Weeks Of Parental Leave

The San Antonio Express-News (9/8, Eaton) reports, "San Antonio police officers, regardless of gender, could soon be entitled to four weeks of paid leave to bond with a new child as part of a proposal being hashed out by city and police union officials." The family leave proposal "would also apply to officers who adopt a child. It marks a considerable shift in how the department handles time off for new parents. Currently, police officers must use sick or personal leave or take unpaid time off under the Family and Medical Leave Act. Under the proposed plan, which both parties tentatively agreed to, officers will have up to four weeks of paid leave at 100 percent of their salary — in addition to personal leave, if they so choose. It's similar to a policy the city began offering civilian employees in 2016."

Warren Police Department To Host Open House Sunday

The Macomb (MI) Daily (9/8, Smiley) reports that the police and fire departments in Warren, Michigan "will host their annual open house Sept. 12, 12-4- p.m. at the Warren Police Department headquarters." The "family-friendly event" will feature "emergency vehicle displays, building tours, and a fire obstacle course. There will be live demonstrations from the K9 squad, evidence technicians, HAZ-MAT rescues, and mock vehicle extractions." The Daily adds that "members of the FBI, Drug Enforcement Administration, Michigan State Police, and police Bomb Squad will be on hand to talk with attendees."

Portland, Oregon Mayor Says City Cannot Make Officers Get COVID Vaccines

The Oregonian (9/8, Cavanaugh) reports that Portland, Oregon Mayor Ted Wheeler "said Wednesday that state law prohibits Portland from making police officers get vaccinated against COVID-19 despite a new city mandate that requires municipal workers do so if they wish to keep their jobs. 'I am disappointed that we can't hold all of our city employees to the same vaccine requirement,' Wheeler told The Oregonian/OregonLive in an emailed statement. 'I still am strongly encouraging police officers to get vaccinated.'" The Oregonian adds, "Under Oregon law, cops are exempt from mandatory vaccinations unless there's a federal or state law, regulation or rule that requires them. Wheeler said the city believed that a vaccine requirement for state health care workers imposed last month by Gov. Kate Brown was broad enough to include Portland police officers, who require some medical training."

California Lawmakers Approve Bill To Weed Out Bad Law Enforcement Officers

The AP (9/8, Thompson) reports, "California lawmakers on Wednesday sent Gov. Gavin Newsom legislation to end the careers of bad law enforcement officers, a year after an earlier effort died without a final vote." According to the AP, "The measure aims to keep troubled officers from jumping from one job to another by creating a mandatory new state license, or certification, that could be permanently revoked. The final softened version of the legislation also allows for suspending the license as a lesser punishment and includes other safeguards like requiring a two-thirds vote for decertification."

Maine Advocates Say Bystanders Must Become More Active In Face Of Rising Hate Crimes

The Portland (ME) Press Herald (9/8, McNemey) reports that in Maine on Tuesday, the "New England Arab American Organization came together with the advocacy group Prevention Action Change at Saint Joseph's College in Standish...to teach participants how to safely intervene when witnessing acts of hate, many of which NEAAO said are targeted at members of the Arab community around as the nation marked the 20th anniversary of the 9/11 terrorist attacks." The Press Herald says the training comes as new data from the FBI "shows that hate crimes in Maine rose sharply in 2020 ... In Maine, the number of bias-motivated crimes spiked to 83 incidents in 2020 ... Black people were targeted most frequently, with 32 reported incidents" and GLBT Mainers "were the second most targeted group, accounting for 29 incidents." The Press Herald adds, "The 83 incidents in 2020 surpass the total number of reported hate crimes in Maine during 2017, 2018 and 2019 combined."

Reuters (9/8, Clifford) reports a man and two women "were arrested and charged with stealing the identities of seven victims of the Surfside condominium collapse near Miami Beach this summer and attempting to obtain credit cards in their names, a Florida prosecutor said on Wednesday." Betsy Alejandra Cacho-Medina, Kimberly Michelle Johnson, and Rodney Choute face "multiple counts of identity theft and fraud, Miami-Dade State Attorney Katherine Fernandez Rundle said at a news conference." The suspects are accused "of taking the personal identification of five people who died or two who survived the collapse of the Champlain Towers South tower in June."

Police Planning To Re-Install Fence Around Capitol Ahead Of Rally

The AP (9/8, Tucker, Balsamo, Mascaro) reports, “Law enforcement officials concerned by the prospect for violence at a rally in the nation’s capital next week are planning to reinstall protective fencing that surrounded the US Capitol for months after the Jan. 6 insurrection there, according to a person familiar with the discussions.” The AP adds, “Though no specific measures have been announced, House Speaker Nancy Pelosi hinted during her weekly press conference Wednesday at extra safety precautions for the Sept. 18 rally by saying: ‘We intend to have the integrity of the Capitol be intact.’ Briefings for lawmakers, including congressional leaders, are expected in coming days.” According to the AP, “A security plan that is being finalized calls for a fenced perimeter on the streets immediately surrounding the Capitol building and the Supreme Court, though not around the congressional office buildings nearby, said the person, who spoke to The Associated Press on condition of anonymity ahead of an official announcement.”

Violent Language Ramps Up Online Ahead Of Rally. Roll Call (9/8, Marquette) reports, “As Capitol Police Chief J. Thomas Manger prepares to brief congressional leaders on a potentially violent rally scheduled for Sept. 18, an internal department assessment reveals more violent online discussion around the event and increased attendance numbers for the demonstration.” According to Roll Call, “The intelligence assessment, dated Sept. 7, notes that in recent days, the department and partner agencies have found more violent online talk surrounding the #JusticeForJ6 rally, organized by Look Ahead America. A discussion thread on the far-right site 4chan includes calls to ‘do justice’ against ‘local jews and corrupted officials.’ It also says the demonstration should be used as a vehicle to participate in violent acts against local ‘Jewish centers and Liberal churches’ while law enforcement is distracted.”

Three More Plead Guilty In Massive Narcotics, Money Laundering Case Involving Mexican Cartel

The Cincinnati Enquirer (9/8, Grasha) reports that in Cincinnati this week, “three more of the 39 defendants” charged in connection with “a massive drug trafficking and money laundering case that has been tied to a Mexican cartel” entered guilty pleas in federal court. The Enquirer explains that Carl Rena Gilbert pleaded guilty to a drug conspiracy charge; Jose Toquillas-Felix “admitted maintaining a stash house;” and Brady Cunningham pleaded guilty to purchasing cocaine. The three men’s pleas bring the total convictions in the case so far to seven. The Enquirer says the case “stretches from Cincinnati to Wisconsin to Las Vegas” and “involves more than $3 million in drug money.” Investigators also “suspected a link between the drug organization and the Sinaloa Cartel.” The Enquirer adds the investigation into the case has been public since November 2019 – when the Drug Enforcement Administration raided Tri-State Jewelers, one of the businesses accused of laundering money for the drug ring.

KCBD-TV Lubbock, TX (9/8, Stegall) reports that a “news conference on Wednesday afternoon was held to discuss the results of operation ‘Taste the Rainbow,’ a large-scale drug and gun trafficking investigation in Lubbock.” As a result of the multi-agency operation, “40 defendants are being charged with a ‘vast array of federal crimes,’ but primarily distribution of methamphetamine, unlawful possession of firearms, and conspiracy to commit those crimes. Many of them face decades long sentences.” KCBD adds, “The FBI, US Attorney’s Office, DPS, ATF, DEA, US Marshal, Homeland Security, Lubbock Police and Lubbock County Sheriff’s Office were all involved in the operation. They were targeting the overall leadership of gangs and criminal enterprises that drive violence in American communities” with an objective of making “a significant impact on violent crime in Lubbock.”

KAMC-TV Lubbock, TX (9/8) also reports.

Raid Operation In Florida Leads To Fentanyl Seizure, Two Arrests

The fentanyl was allegedly found in a Palm Coast home that is owned by Brian Pirraglia, according to the Newsweek article, which says Pirraglia and a tenant in that home, Michael Connelly, “were both arrested on various drug paraphernalia charges.” The arrests prompted Flagler County Sheriff Rick Staly to say, “Between these two poison peddlers, they had enough fentanyl to kill 481,000 people, which is more than the population of Flagler and St. Johns County combined.”

Police Chief In Vermont Issues Warning After Recent Overdoses

The AP (9/8) reports that Barre, Vermont police Chief Timothy Bombardier “issued a warning on Wednesday following six drug overdoses, including three fatal ones, in central Vermont over the last several weeks.” According to the AP, “Police have found blue pressed pills at some of the scenes,” Chief Bombardier “said in a news release. The suspects are accused "of taking the personal identification of five people who died or two who survived the collapse of the Champlain Towers South tower in June."

Police Planning To Re-Install Fence Around Capitol Ahead Of Rally

The AP (9/8, Tucker, Balsamo, Mascaro) reports, “Law enforcement officials concerned by the prospect for violence at a rally in the nation’s capital next week are planning to reinstall protective fencing that surrounded the US Capitol for months after the Jan. 6 insurrection there, according to a person familiar with the discussions.” The AP adds, “Though no specific measures have been announced, House Speaker Nancy Pelosi hinted during her weekly press conference Wednesday at extra safety precautions for the Sept. 18 rally by saying: ‘We intend to have the integrity of the Capitol be intact.’ Briefings for lawmakers, including congressional leaders, are expected in coming days.” According to the AP, “A security plan that is being finalized calls for a fenced perimeter on the streets immediately surrounding the Capitol building and the Supreme Court, though not around the congressional office buildings nearby, said the person, who spoke to The Associated Press on condition of anonymity ahead of an official announcement.”

Violent Language Ramps Up Online Ahead Of Rally. Roll Call (9/8, Marquette) reports, “As Capitol Police Chief J. Thomas Manger prepares to brief congressional leaders on a potentially violent rally scheduled for Sept. 18, an internal department assessment reveals more violent online discussion around the event and increased attendance numbers for the demonstration.” According to Roll Call, “The intelligence assessment, dated Sept. 7, notes that in recent days, the department and partner agencies have found more violent online talk surrounding the #JusticeForJ6 rally, organized by Look Ahead America. A discussion thread on the far-right site 4chan includes calls to ‘do justice’ against ‘local jews and corrupted officials.’ It also says the demonstration should be used as a vehicle to participate in violent acts against local ‘Jewish centers and Liberal churches’ while law enforcement is distracted.”

Three More Plead Guilty In Massive Narcotics, Money Laundering Case Involving Mexican Cartel

The Cincinnati Enquirer (9/8, Grasha) reports that in Cincinnati this week, “three more of the 39 defendants” charged in connection with “a massive drug trafficking and money laundering case that has been tied to a Mexican cartel” entered guilty pleas in federal court. The Enquirer explains that Carl Rena Gilbert pleaded guilty to a drug conspiracy charge; Jose Toquillas-Felix “admitted maintaining a stash house;” and Brady Cunningham pleaded guilty to purchasing cocaine. The three men’s pleas bring the total convictions in the case so far to seven. The Enquirer says the case “stretches from Cincinnati to Wisconsin to Las Vegas” and “involves more than $3 million in drug money.” Investigators also “suspected a link between the drug organization and the Sinaloa Cartel.” The Enquirer adds the investigation into the case has been public since November 2019 – when the Drug Enforcement Administration raided Tri-State Jewelers, one of the businesses accused of laundering money for the drug ring.

“Operation Taste The Rainbow” In Texas Leads To Drug, Gun Charges Against 40 Defendants

KCBD-TV Lubbock, TX (9/8, Stegall) reports that a “news conference on Wednesday afternoon was held to discuss the results of operation ‘Taste the Rainbow,’ a large-scale drug and gun trafficking investigation in Lubbock.” As a result of the multi-agency operation, “40 defendants are being charged with a ‘vast array of federal crimes,’ but primarily distribution of methamphetamine, unlawful possession of firearms, and conspiracy to commit those crimes. Many of them face decades long sentences.” KCBD adds, “The FBI, US Attorney’s Office, DPS, ATF, DEA, US Marshal, Homeland Security, Lubbock Police and Lubbock County Sheriff’s Office were all involved in the operation. They were targeting the overall leadership of gangs and criminal enterprises that drive violence in American communities” with an objective of making “a significant impact on violent crime in Lubbock.”

KAMC-TV Lubbock, TX (9/8) also reports.

Raid Operation In Florida Leads To Fentanyl Seizure, Two Arrests

Newsweek (9/8, Santora) reports a Flagler County Sheriff’s Office raid operation in Florida led to the seizure of “916 grams” of illicit fentanyl. The fentanyl was allegedly found in a Palm Coast home that is owned by Brian Pirraglia, according to the Newsweek article, which says Pirraglia and a tenant in that home, Michael Connelly, “were both arrested on various drug paraphernalia charges.” The arrests prompted Flagler County Sheriff Rick Staly to say, “Between these two poison peddlers, they had enough fentanyl to kill 481,000 people, which is more than the population of Flagler and St. Johns County combined.”

Police Chief In Vermont Issues Warning After Recent Overdoses

The AP (9/8) reports that Barre, Vermont police Chief Timothy Bombardier “issued a warning on Wednesday following six drug overdoses, including three fatal ones, in central Vermont over the last several weeks.” According to the AP, “Police have found blue pressed pills at some of the scenes,” Chief Bombardier “said in a news release. The pills, along with other unknown drugs, are being distributed in the central Vermont area, he said. ‘There appears to be a strong batch of illegal drugs in the area,’ he said.”

Los Angeles Police Officers Directed To Monitor Media Information On Civilian Interviewees

The Hill (9/8) reports, “Los Angeles Police Department officers have been directed to take down social media information for every civilian they interview in the field, according to public information documents released by the Brennan Center for Justice.” According to The Hill, “Documents obtained by the Brennan Center reveal that the agency instructed officers to collect social media account information including from Twitter, Facebook and Instagram, for anyone they interview in-person using field interview reports.” The Hill adds, “In a 2015 memo obtained by the Center, then-LAPD Chief Charlie Beck tells officers that the field interview cards had been updated to include social media information. ‘The “additional info” box of the Field Interview (FI) Report...has been revised to include social media and email account information,’ Beck wrote.”

Implicit Bias- 1.5 hours of Ethics CLE CLE Credit Pending

Date & Time: 12:30-2:00pm, PST; October 22nd, 2021

BIO of Presenter: Scott L Wyatt is the 16th president of Southern Utah University located in Cedar City, Utah. Wyatt is committed to ensuring a college degree is affordable and accessible for all students. As such, he has partnered with faculty and staff to develop nationally-recognized innovations in experiential learning, general education, and internship programming. Under his leadership, SUU has led student enrollment growth among all of Utah's universities. Prior to his appointment as president of SUU, Scott served as president of Snow College, was a partner in a Logan, Utah law firm, served as a member of the Utah House of Representatives, and as the Cache County Attorney. He earned a J.D. from the University of Utah and a B.S. from Utah State University, with a dual major in Philosophy and Economics. Scott is married to Kathy Wyatt; they have four children and four grandchildren. In his spare time, he enjoys reading, nature photography, backpacking, and climbing the world's most beautiful mountains.

Course Description: In his presentation, university president and former prosecutor Scott Wyatt gives an overview of implicit bias -- what it is, how we can recognize it in ourselves, and practical steps we can take to combat bias in our work and our lives. When it comes to investigation and case review, the attitudes or stereotypes that affect our understanding, actions, and decisions in an unconscious manner. Explicit Bias Refers to: Attitudes and beliefs we have about a person or group on a conscious level. A burgeoning field of scholarship suggests that unequal racial, gender, and other outcomes may be partially explained by the implicit, or unconscious, bias held by many of us, particularly key decision-makers, law enforcement, prosecutors, etc., have the ability to impact and affect many people's lives. It is important that we ethically handle these cases, and it is essential that we understand their own implicit biases and how they affect these cases. This training will focus on how these unconscious biases take root in our brains, and then strategies aimed at ameliorating the effects of implicit bias, personally and in case review.

This training will walk prosecutors through HGN as evidence of impairment, the case law about HGN as evidence of impairment, and how to talk about and use this evidence in trial. What can your officers say/not say. How does Baity apply? Does Quaale apply? I second that, only us have access to our files. I get mention in their reports if I assisted, but nothing in my end to add to theirs. The only time that I add in their records if I do a hotline call to DCFS, Dept. of Aging, etc. I also keep minimum details in our files.

 THIS IS AN EXTERNAL EMAIL *****

We at Winnetka and Highland Park have similar documentation. We have our own clinical files accessible to only social worker. It's all electronic and in a social work drive with restricted access. There's a template I use for entries including date, incident/report number, type of incident - following is my documentation. I keep it to the point, nothing subjective just matter of fact -

At a prior employment- we would have a mental health law attorney do presentation every 2 years to help keep everyone fresh up to par with the law and keeping mindful to the record keeping process should records be subpoenaed. We had inmates/detainees/parolees & victims of crimes as clients.

In Winnetka, they have had a social worker for now 40 years and have not had to release any social work records. Highland Park has had a social worker for 8 years- also has not had to release any records.

Hello friends and colleagues,

I really wish I had been able to listen to this presentation, but I was on maternity leave and missed it. I am being asked to find out a bit more information from all of you wonderful APSS members. Can you all please tell me if you keep any documentation related to victims/clients that you meet with, and why? I'd love to hear from most, even if it's a quick yes or no. Our boss is considering having us write some type of report/supplement and I'm really concerned for confidentiality. Please share your thoughts if you have a minute.

Thank you kindly,

Natalia

WARNING: External Email: Exercise Caution

Good afternoon, APSS!

As promised, attached you will find Matt Cohen's powerpoint for this morning's discussion. We sure covered a lot of ground in a short amount of time! For those of you who missed my introduction (or couldn't hear us clearly): Matt Cohen is the founder of Matt Cohen and Associates and is well known for his work in special education and mental health law. He is the primary or collaborating author of several amendments to the mental health and special education laws of Illinois and has worked on legislation at the federal level and state level. Matt has lectured all over the country on many special education and mental health law topics. In addition to these accomplishments, Matt served as President of the Board of Directors of the national Children and Adults with Attention Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorders (CHADD) organization. He was the chair of the nationally unique Illinois Attorney General's Special Education Advisory Committee for over 30 years. He was a founding board member of the Council of Parent Attorneys and Advocates (COPAA), the national special education advocacy organization, and continues to serve on the Board.

While engaged in private law practice continuously since 1981, Matt served as the Executive Director and Corporate Counsel of a large psychiatric services corporation from 1985 to 1990. Matt received his law degree from the University of Minnesota (1981) and his bachelor's degree from Grinnell College (1977). He currently provides consultation services and can be reached at mdcspedlaw@gmail.com.

I have also attached Chief Holmer's memo regarding the SAFE-T Act and the ILACP powerpoint on the Act for your review. As we discussed, Carol Stream has, for now, taken this approach to the July 1, 2021 mandate for reporting mental health contacts with our police officers:

Starting on July 1st, some of the mandates coming from the SAFE-T Act (HB 3653) come on-line. The mandate I'd like to bring to your attention is the Mental Health Crises Reporting requirement.

Per the house bill, agencies must make a monthly report to the Illinois State Police that includes “any incident where law enforcement officers are dispatched to deal with a person experiencing a mental health crisis or incident, the number of incidents, the level of law enforcement response to each incident (how many officers respond), and the outcome of each incident.”

The trailer bill states that a “mental health crisis” is when a person’s behavior puts them at risk of hurting themselves or others or prevents them from being able to care for themselves.

Any call for service that meets the above definition must have an FBR report completed, and the report must have the “Crisis Intervention CIT” box checked. By doing so, the stat can be accurately tracked through WebRMS and reported to ISP.

I hope you find this information useful. I’m sure we will all have more questions as time passes and more direction is given.

Best wishes for a peaceful weekend,

Eileen

We at Winnetka and Highland Park have similar documentation. We have our own clinical files accessible to only social worker. It's all electronic and in a social work drive with restricted access. There's a template I use for entries including date, incident/report number, type of incident - following is my documentation. I keep it to the point, nothing subjective just matter of fact - At a prior employment- we would have a mental health law attorney do presentation every 2 years to help keep everyone fresh up to par with the law and keeping mindful to the record keeping process should records be subpoenaed. Hello friends and colleagues,

I really wish I had been able to listen to this presentation, but I was on maternity leave and missed it. I am being asked to find out a bit more information from all of you wonderful APSS members. Can you all please tell me if you keep any documentation related to victims/clients that you meet with, and why? I'd love to hear from most, even if it's a quick yes or no. Our boss is considering having us write some type of report/supplement and I'm really concerned for confidentiality. Please share your thoughts if you have a minute.

Thank you kindly,

Natalia

Subject: RE: APSS General Meeting Today 7/9/21

WARNING: External Email: Exercise Caution

Good afternoon, APSS!

As promised, attached you will find Matt Cohen's powerpoint for this morning's discussion. We sure covered a lot of ground in a short amount of time! For those of you who missed my introduction (or couldn't hear us clearly): Matt Cohen is the founder of Matt Cohen and Associates and is well known for his work in special education and mental health law. He is the primary or collaborating author of several amendments to the mental health and special education laws of Illinois and has worked on legislation at the federal level and state level. Matt has lectured all over the country on many special education and mental health law topics. In addition to these accomplishments, Matt served as President of the Board of Directors of the national Children and Adults with Attention Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorders (CHADD) organization. He was the chair of the nationally unique Illinois Attorney General's Special Education Advisory Committee for over 30 years. He was a founding board member of the Council of Parent Attorneys and Advocates (COPAA), the national special education advocacy organization, and continues to serve on the Board.

While engaged in private law practice continuously since 1981, Matt served as the Executive Director and Corporate Counsel of a large psychiatric services corporation from 1985 to 1990. Matt received his law degree from the University of Minnesota (1981) and his bachelor's degree from Grinnell College (1977). He currently provides consultation services and can be reached at mdcspedlaw@gmail.com.

I have also attached Chief Holmer's memo regarding the SAFE-T Act and the ILACP powerpoint on the Act for your review. As we discussed, Carol Stream has, for now, taken this approach to the July 1, 2021 mandate for reporting mental health contacts with our police officers:

Starting on July 1st, some of the mandates coming from the SAFE-T Act (HB 3653) come on-line. The mandate I'd like to bring to your attention is the Mental Health Crises Reporting requirement.

Per the house bill, agencies must make a monthly report to the Illinois State Police that includes "any incident where law enforcement officers are dispatched to deal with a person experiencing a mental health crisis or incident, the number of incidents, the level of law enforcement response to each incident (how many officers respond), and the outcome of each incident."

The trailer bill states that a "mental health crisis" is when a person's behavior puts them at risk of hurting themselves or others or prevents them from being able to care for themselves.

Any call for service that meets the above definition must have an FBR report completed, and the report must have the "Crisis Intervention CIT" box checked. By doing so, the stat can be accurately tracked through WebRMS and reported to ISP.

I hope you find this information useful. I'm sure we will all have more questions as time passes and more direction is given.

Best wishes for a peaceful weekend,

Eileen

Hi Kelly,

I acknowledged all the policy user acknowledgements I had and the 3 DTB's from August, however Robert is having trouble getting my assigned September DTB's to show up for me. Right now I just have 6 DTB's for October regarding Conducted Energy Devices but he told me not to do those. I know he was having trouble with the August DTB's initially as well and I didn't realize he eventually got those working so I'm sorry for the delay on the August DTB's. I'll keep checking Lexipol for the September DTB's, hopefully he can get those working.

Hi Kelly,

I acknowledged all the policy user acknowledgements I had and the 3 DTB's from August, however Robert is having trouble getting my assigned September DTB's to show up for me. Right now I just have 6 DTB's for October regarding Conducted Energy Devices but he told me not to do those. I know he was having trouble with the August DTB's initially as well and I didn't realize he eventually got those working so I'm sorry for the delay on the August DTB's. I'll keep checking Lexipol for the September DTB's, hopefully he can get those working.

I second that, I'd also love to hear what others are doing, especially since we're new here in Wheaton and still trying to navigate the documentation piece.

Hello friends and colleagues,

I really wish I had been able to listen to this presentation, but I was on maternity leave and missed it. I am being asked to find out a bit more information from all of you wonderful APSS members. Can you all please tell me if you keep any documentation related to victims/clients that you meet with, and why? I'd love to hear from most, even if it's a quick yes or no. Our boss is considering having us write some type of report/supplement and I'm really concerned for confidentiality. Please share your thoughts if you have a minute.

Thank you kindly,

Natalia

Subject: RE: APSS General Meeting Today 7/9/21

WARNING: External Email: Exercise Caution

Good afternoon, APSS!

As promised, attached you will find Matt Cohen's powerpoint for this morning's discussion. We sure covered a lot of ground in a short amount of time! For those of you who missed my introduction (or couldn't hear us clearly): Matt Cohen is the founder of Matt Cohen and Associates and is well known for his work in special education and mental health law. He is the primary or collaborating author of several amendments to the mental health and special education laws of Illinois and has worked on legislation at the federal level and state level. Matt has lectured all over the country on many special education and mental health law topics. In addition to these accomplishments, Matt served as President of the Board of Directors of the national Children and Adults with Attention Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorders (CHADD) organization. He was the chair of the nationally unique Illinois Attorney General's Special Education Advisory Committee for over 30 years. He was a founding board member of the Council of Parent Attorneys and Advocates (COPAA), the national special education advocacy organization, and continues to serve on the Board.

While engaged in private law practice continuously since 1981, Matt served as the Executive Director and Corporate Counsel of a large psychiatric services corporation from 1985 to 1990. Matt received his law degree from the University of Minnesota (1981) and his bachelor's degree from Grinnell College (1977). He currently provides consultation services and can be reached at mdcspedlaw@gmail.com.

I have also attached Chief Holmer's memo regarding the SAFE-T Act and the ILACP powerpoint on the Act for your review. As we discussed, Carol Stream has, for now, taken this approach to the July 1, 2021 mandate for reporting mental health contacts with our police officers:

Starting on July 1st, some of the mandates coming from the SAFE-T Act (HB 3653) come on-line. The mandate I'd like to bring to your attention is the Mental Health Crises Reporting requirement.

Per the house bill, agencies must make a monthly report to the Illinois State Police that includes "any incident where law enforcement officers are dispatched to deal with a person experiencing a mental health crisis or incident, the number of incidents, the level of law enforcement response to each incident (how many officers respond), and the outcome of each incident."

The trailer bill states that a "mental health crisis" is when a person's behavior puts them at risk of hurting themselves or others or prevents them from being able to care for themselves.

Any call for service that meets the above definition must have an FBR report completed, and the report must have the "Crisis Intervention CIT" box checked. By doing so, the stat can be accurately tracked through WebRMS and reported to ISP.

I hope you find this information useful. I'm sure we will all have more questions as time passes and more direction is given.

Best wishes for a peaceful weekend,

Eileen

Hello friends and colleagues,

I really wish I had been able to listen to this presentation, but I was on maternity leave and missed it. I am being asked to find out a bit more information from all of you wonderful APSS members. Can you all please tell me if you keep any documentation related to victims/clients that you meet with, and why? I'd love to hear from most, even if it's a quick yes or no. Our boss is considering having us write some type of report/supplement and I'm really concerned for confidentiality. Please share your thoughts if you have a minute.

Thank you kindly,

Natalia

How to better prepare your community for an emergency

When an emergency strikes your community, it can cause devastating effects on many levels, including financially, economically, and socially. The best way to protect lives and communities is by planning and preparing as best you can with a rock-solid city disaster management plan.

You can tap into many online resources to walk you through all four phases of emergency management, such as Ready.gov, FEMA's Pre-Disaster Recovery Planning Guide for Local Governments, International City/County Management Association's Disaster Recovery, and FEMA's Community Recovery Management Toolkit.

But for a quick jumpstart of your government emergency planning efforts, review the following key elements first.

1. Regularly meet and review your plan.
2. Conduct a risk assessment.
3. Define clear roles and responsibilities.
4. Communicate to all departments
5. Engage the public in your planning.
6. Make long-term recovery part of your plan.
7. Emergency training.

DHS Chief Says There Are No Credible Threats Ahead Of 9/11 Anniversary

CBS News (9/7, Freiman) reports as the effort to resettle those who escaped Afghanistan during the US military withdrawal, "there are now more than 46,000 Afghan refugees in the United States, according to law enforcement sources" and over "a dozen of them have shown up on terror watch lists, the sources said." However, Homeland Security Secretary Alejandro Mayorkas "said the US has protocols to remove anyone brought to the country who later turns out to be a threat." CBS quotes Mayorkas saying, "We screen and vet individuals before they board a plane to the United States. ... An individual who does not satisfy our screening and vetting protocols is not admitted to the United States. And if in fact, we learn information subsequently, we place those individuals in removal proceedings so that they are set to leave the United States as swiftly as possible."

DC, Federal Police Brace For Upcoming Rally In Support Of Capitol Siege Defendants

USA Today (9/7, Phillips, Johnson) reports that Washington, DC "and federal police officials are bracing for a right-wing rally that's meant to advance the false narrative that the hundreds of defendants charged in the Jan. 6 Capitol attack were targeted for political reasons." The Washington Metropolitan Police Department "said it will have an 'increased presence' around the city on Sept. 18, when a group organized by a former Trump campaign staffer plans to gather on Capitol grounds. Capitol Police Chief Tom Manger said the agency is 'closely monitoring' plans for Sept. 18." According to USA Today, "Police agencies declined to share specific details about their preparation plans," but "law enforcement experts say the failure to predict and prevent the violence on Jan. 6 means officials should prepare for the worst this time around."

California Law Would Ban Prison Cooperation With ICE

Reuters (9/7, Trotta) reports California lawmakers are sending a "proposal to bar California prison authorities from handing people over to ICE" to Gov. Gavin Newsom's desk. The Vision Act, "which has been criticized by law enforcement groups, would even ban identifying those eligible for deportation.”

No Plans For Arming More Officers In Scotland

BBC News (9/7) reports, “Police Scotland has said it has no plans to arm more officers despite a survey suggesting more than half would like to have a handgun.” According to BBC News, “The force said it had ‘no plans to move away from being an unarmed service’ with ‘armed capability’.” BBC News adds, “The Scottish Police Federation (SPF) asked officers to rank what extra equipment they wanted to carry. Carrying a Taser was the top choice, with 84% of respondents wanting to be equipped with one. The same percentage of officers said that they would also like a body-worn camera. About 53% indicated that they wanted to have a handgun – while nearly 47% responded ‘I don’t want this at all’.”

Protests Disrupt Traffic Before German Auto Show

The AP (9/7) reports, “Environmental activists protesting car culture disrupted traffic on several highways around Munich before the opening Tuesday of a leading auto show in the German city.” According to the AP, “Demonstrators unfurled banners with slogans such as ‘Block IAA,’ in some cases abseiling from highway bridges to do so, news agency dpa reported. At one location, they pasted over a highway sign with the words ‘Smash Car Lobby & Industry.’ Police and fire service officers ended the protests, and the affected stretches of autobahn were reopened by lunchtime. More protests are expected on Friday, though organizers haven’t specified what exactly they plan to do.”

DEA Asking Parents To Have Drug Danger Conversations With Their Kids

An online WKXW-FM Trenton, NJ (9/7, Ursillo) article says, “With schools returning to full in-person classes this week in New Jersey,” the DEA “is asking parents to speak to their children about the dangers of drug use,” especially counterfeit pills that may contain illicit fentanyl. The article quotes DEA New Jersey Special Agent in Charge Susan Gibson, who stated, “The earlier that we can get this information to kids, the more” likely it is “that they will make better and possibly life-saving choices in the future.”

CBP Agents In Tennessee Seize Fentanyl That Was Headed For Houston

An online KHOU-TV Houston (9/7, Homer) article says US Customs and Border Protection (CBP) agents in Tennessee seized “enough to potentially kill hundreds of thousands of people.” The fentanyl, shipped from Mexico in wooden boxes that were bound for Houston, “was discovered...at a Memphis port hub.” The article highlights that according to the website DEA.gov, “drug dealers have been mixing fentanyl with other drugs,” which increases “the likelihood of a fatal interaction.”

The WMC-TV Memphis, TN (9/7, Gunn) website and Newsweek (9/7, Impelli) also cover this story.

Lawmakers Push Bills To Require Infrastructure Operators To Report Cyberattacks

Roll Call (9/7, Ratnam) reports that “Congress is moving to compel companies that operate critical infrastructure to inform federal officials of cyberattacks after years of relying on a patchy – and voluntary – reporting system that often left U.S. agencies in the dark.” Roll Call explains, “Some lawmakers want banks, oil and gas companies, tech providers, utilities and others to tell” the Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency (CISA) – the country’s “top” cybersecurity agency – when an attack takes place. A bipartisan draft bill in the House would give CISA “authority to require reporting from companies across various sectors within 72 hours of finding a breach.” A similar measure was introduced in the Senate in July. Roll Call adds that lawmakers’ efforts to mandate cyberattack reporting “comes after two major incidents” earlier this year: “the strike by Russian spies” against SolarWinds, a “supplier of network management software,” and the ransomware attack on Colonial Pipeline, “which supplies gasoline along the East Coast.”

White House Releases “Zero-Trust” Strategy For Cybersecurity

In a round-up of cybersecurity news, Politico (9/7, Geller) reports the White House “is releasing for public comment a draft version of its strategy for implementing ‘zero trust’ principles across federal networks.” Politico explains the Biden Administration “sees zero-trust networking – in which a computer system is designed with the assumption that hackers have already gained access and must be constantly challenged and impeded – as key to its security overhaul of decades-old networks, and its new strategy will require a raft of actions to lock down software applications, limit users’ access to data and protect network traffic from prying eyes.” Politico says that among “the 18 steps required by the end of fiscal 2024: Every agency will have to use one ‘single sign-on’ service to let employees access all of its applications; ditch multi-factor authentication systems...that are susceptible to phishing attacks; and eliminate archaic password policies requiring special characters and regular password changes.”

Poll: Americans Increasingly Skeptical Of Government Surveillance

The AP (9/7, Tucker, Fingerhut) reports a new poll AP-NORC Center for Public Affairs Research “shows that support for surveillance tools aimed at monitoring conversations taking place outside the country, once seen as vital in the fight against attacks, has dipped in the last decade.” Forty-six percent of Americans “say they oppose the U.S. government responding to threats against the nation by reading emails sent between people outside of the U.S. without a warrant, as permitted under law for purposes of foreign intelligence collection. That’s compared to just 27% who are in favor. In an AP-NORC poll conducted one decade ago, more favored than opposed the practice, 47% to 30%.”

DHS Chief Says There Are No Credible Threats Ahead Of 9/11 Anniversary

CBS News (9/7, Freiman) reports as the effort to resettle those who escaped Afghanistan during the US military withdrawal, "there are now more than 46,000 Afghan refugees in the United States, according to law enforcement sources" and over "a dozen of them have shown up on terror watch lists, the sources said." However, Homeland Security Secretary Alejandro Mayorkas "said the US has protocols to remove anyone brought to the country who later turns out to be a threat." CBS quotes Mayorkas saying, "We screen and vet individuals before they board a plane to the United States. ... An individual who does not satisfy our screening and vetting protocols is not admitted to the United States. And if in fact, we learn information subsequently, we place those individuals in removal proceedings so that they are set to leave the United States as swiftly as possible."

DC, Federal Police Brace For Upcoming Rally In Support Of Capitol Siege Defendants

USA Today (9/7, Phillips, Johnson) reports that Washington, DC "and federal police officials are bracing for a right-wing rally that's meant to advance the false narrative that the hundreds of defendants charged in the Jan. 6 Capitol attack were targeted for political reasons." The Washington Metropolitan Police Department "said it will have an 'increased presence' around the city on Sept. 18, when a group organized by a former Trump campaign staffer plans to gather on Capitol grounds. Capitol Police Chief Tom Manger said the agency is 'closely monitoring' plans for Sept. 18." According to USA Today, "Police agencies declined to share specific details about their preparation plans," but "law enforcement experts say the failure to predict and prevent the violence on Jan. 6 means officials should prepare for the worst this time around."

California Law Would Ban Prison Cooperation With ICE

Reuters (9/7, Trotta) reports California lawmakers are sending a "proposal to bar California prison authorities from handing people over to ICE" to Gov. Gavin Newsom's desk. The Vision Act, "which has been criticized by law enforcement groups, would even ban identifying those eligible

for deportation.”

C.O.P.S. National Conference on Law Enforcement Wellness &Trauma

C.O.P.S. is disappointed that we are not able to connect with our law enforcement family at the IACP Conference this month. Our thoughts go out to all impacted by Hurricane Ida, as well as all first responders working around the clock to help others. Thank you for your service.

There is still a chance for the law enforcement community to connect! Have you registered for the C.O.P.S. National Conference on Law Enforcement Wellness &Trauma yet?

This conference is for active and retired law enforcement, peer support, counselors, police chaplains, and spouses/significant others to attend this weekend of healing, education, networking, and entertainment.

Below is some highlighted special guests that are well known in the law enforcement community.

We've also included the conference agenda so you can get a better idea of what awaits you!

We look forward to welcoming you!

Thanks Bob, this is really helpful.

Here is a list of most of the information I will need for my final report, and data for you to gather.

I need data for 2019, 2020, and 2021 year-to-date (or first 6 months of 2021, whichever you have) for: pursuits, use of force, complaints and internals, UCR Part 1, calls for service, grievances. I have attached a part of another ILEAP agency final report showing what I am looking for. In the area of pursuits, there is a lot of analysis, if you don't need to have all this information, just the number of pursuits per year (19, 20, 21 ytd) and if they were within policy will be sufficient.

I also need the following: electronic copy of your ILEAP press release/public notice, authorized and current strength (sworn), and sworn data on the total number of women and minority officers, and number of women and minorities in command (sgt and above).

Finally, in our secure work area, we will be looking for the ILEAP files, labor contracts, recent IAP or major event plans, Emergency or EOC manual or plans, Internet access, phone for public call-in, pens and paper, and refreshments.

Let me know if you have any questions!

Holly

Holly and Jeff,

Attached are our electronic copies requested and I will have the file corrections ready for you both upon your arrival. If there is anything else please let me know.

- Community and Agency history
- CEO Profile
- Population and Demographics
- Type of Government (including the names of local elected and appointed executive and legislative officials)
- Department's Organizational Chart
- Number of full-time, part-time, civilian, and volunteers, if applicable
- Mission, Value, or Goal Statements, if any
- Crime and calls for service*
- Traffic Stop Data*

- Bias-based Policing Complaints, Vehicle Pursuits, Grievances, Use of Force, and Formal Citizen Complaints*
- Significant Cases, Events and Programs

Morning Bob,

1. Attached is my File Review notes. I trust you'll be able to make corrections / fixes before we get there. I'll ship your files back tomorrow. I'll email you a receipt for reimbursement when I get to Niles next month. No rush.

1. Also attached is my Biography for use in internal introductions or press releases about the Call in session. DC Nearing should be sending hers along soon.
1. Holly and I will need electronic copies of the Community and Agency History, CEO profile, Department Roster, Org Chart, mission, values, goal statements, traffic stop data, and all the other stuff you prepared for us for the file review.

Let me know if I need to clarify anything.

Thanks Bob, this is really helpful.

Here is a list of most of the information I will need for my final report, and data for you to gather.

I need data for 2019, 2020, and 2021 year-to-date (or first 6 months of 2021, whichever you have) for: pursuits, use of force, complaints and internals, UCR Part 1, calls for service, grievances. I have attached a part of another ILEAP agency final report showing what I am looking for. In the area of pursuits, there is a lot of analysis, if you don't need to have all this information, just the number of pursuits per year (19, 20, 21 ytd) and if they were within policy will be sufficient.

I also need the following: electronic copy of your ILEAP press release/public notice, authorized and current strength (sworn), and sworn data on the total number of women and minority officers, and number of women and minorities in command (sgt and above).

Finally, in our secure work area, we will be looking for the ILEAP files, labor contracts, recent IAP or major event plans, Emergency or EOC manual or plans, Internet access, phone for public call-in, pens and paper, and refreshments.

Let me know if you have any questions!

Holly

Illinois' Voice of Professional Law Enforcement

Special Alert | September 7, 2021

REMINDER: Illinois Chiefs create ILEAP partnership with PowerDMS; virtual training set for tomorrow

There have been some recent changes to the Illinois Law Enforcement Accreditation Program that we want everyone to be made aware of. The ILACP Executive Board on Aug. 18, 2021, approved the establishment of a new partnership with PowerDMS.

This will require all Illinois agencies seeking ILEAP accreditation to utilize the PowerDMS accreditation tools, and it will provide a future discount in the annual fee of up to 35% for ILEAP agencies currently using PowerDMS.

To improve program consistency and efficiency, we worked closely with PowerDMS to negotiate discounted pricing on the PowerDMS accreditation tool.

We will be requiring all agencies to utilize PowerDMS for their accreditation files as follows:

- All agencies that apply for ILEAP accreditation after September 1, 2021, must also sign up for PowerDMS before they begin the process with the ILEAP Coordinator to formally pursue ILEAP accreditation.
- Agencies that have applied for ILEAP but not yet received accreditation should utilize PowerDMS as soon as possible, but no later than January 1, 2022. They must be fully using PowerDMS in order to achieve ILEAP accreditation.
- Agencies that are already accredited by ILEAP but not yet utilizing PowerDMS must make the transition to PowerDMS no later than January 1, 2023. The ILACP executive director will give some consideration to agencies claiming a hardship and unable to make the transition by that date.

Why is it being required?

Having everyone use the same software system will help create consistency and reduce costs for the program and for agencies. PowerDMS will eliminate the need for paper and printing costs and will allow for remote file review, cutting down on onsite days.

Additionally, the use of PowerDMS has been shown to reduce the time it takes an agency to build and maintain files by 50% or more. Ultimately, we see this as an opportunity to make achieving and maintaining accreditation easier and less cost prohibitive for every agency.

What will it cost my agency?

- Agencies with fewer than 50 employees will pay PowerDMS $550 per year.
- Agencies with more than 50 employees will pay PowerDMS $650 per year.

Next Steps

We understand this may come as a surprise to some agencies, so we want to make this transition as smooth as possible. Here are a few things that are important to know:

1. If you are already using PowerDMS for your accreditation, you will see a price decrease at your next renewal.
2. If you aren't yet using PowerDMS, and to gain access to PowerDMS, you will need to do the following:
 1. Visit <https://simplify.powerdms.com/accred-custom-quote> and complete the form
 2. Receive a quote from PowerDMS.
 3. Sign the quote and send it back.
 4. Receive access to PowerDMS within 48 hours of sending back the signed quote.
 5. Pay your invoice within 30 days of the signed quote

PowerDMS is going to offer a FREE virtual training on Wednesday, Sept. 8, from 9:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. CDT. This will be a virtual learning environment to explore your PowerDMS site features, learn how to set up your agency's site, subscribe to your standards manual, and start your first PowerDMS ILEAP Assessment.

To participate, you must let us know you will be attending. CLICK HERE to register. This information is available on the ILACP website here.

Policing and Policy

California Legislators Approve Measure To Decertify Law Enforcement Personnel For Serious Misconduct

The Los Angeles Times (9/3) reports that California police officers could lose “their license to carry a badge if they engage in serious misconduct, including excessive force, racial bias and dishonesty, under legislation approved Friday by the state Assembly after an emotional debate.” The measure received Assembly approval on a mainly “party-line vote of 46-18 and next goes back to the Senate, which had passed the bill before it was amended.” State Sen. Steven Bradford (D) “said his legislation is needed to prevent police officers who are fired, resign or are disciplined for misconduct from moving to another law enforcement agency and continuing to carry a badge and gun.” Said Bradford, “California is able to revoke the certification or licenses of bad doctors, lawyers and even barbers, but is unable to decertify police officers who have broken the law and violated the public trust,” adding, “This is all about treating people fairly and holding those who don’t accountable.”

The San Francisco Chronicle (9/3, Koseff) reports the Assembly passed the measure “two days after taking amendments to raise the threshold for when officers would lose their licenses and changing the composition of an advisory board that would weigh in on those decisions.”

Perpetrators Of Gun Violence In DC Making Use Of Device That Enables Guns To Discharge At Fully Automatic

The Washington Post (9/4) reports, “As the District reels from deadly gun violence, authorities say assailants have found a new way to boost their firepower by using small, illegal devices that turn semiautomatic handguns and rifles into rapid-fire machine guns.” The devices, known as “auto sears,” are fitted within the firearms, “can be purchased on the Internet or made on 3-D printers,” and enable firearms to discharge “up to 1,200 bullets a minute.” The Post adds, “Police say guns equipped with the aftermarket add-ons have been recovered across the District and elsewhere.” DC Police Commander Ramey Kyle said, “I think everybody in our department is very concerned about it.” He continued, “The guns out on the street are already dangerous, and now you have weapons that can be fired at fully automatic.”

Security, Crime, and Drugs

D.C. Officials Have Made Little Progress Curbing City’s Climbing Homicide Rate

The Washington Post (9/5) reports a shooting in Northwest Washington Saturday that “killed three people and wounded three more...frustrated city leaders who have expressed outrage all year at the continuing violence but have made little progress curbing the District’s escalating homicide count.” Homicides “are up 15 percent in the District compared to this time in 2020, which ended with a 16-year high. Police attributed many of the killings to disputes involving rival street crews.”

South Africa Sees Rise In Vigilante Killings Amid Civil Unrest

The New York Times (9/4, A1, Eligon, Mji) reports South Africa “was convulsed this summer by some of its worst civil unrest since the end of apartheid,” sparked by “the imprisonment of former President Jacob Zuma for refusing to appear before a corruption inquiry.” However, the Times adds, “government officials have been alarmed by a dynamic that, they say, dangerously undermines the social order: dozens of vigilante killings by ordinary citizens.” The Times says “the vigilantism was especially pronounced in Phoenix,” as the “country’s police minister said that 36 people there – 33 of them Black – were killed in what some officials are calling a massacre.”

Algerian Authorities Arrest 27 Suspected MAK Members After Attacks

Reuters (9/6) reports Algeria “has arrested 27 suspected members of a separatist group that the government has declared a terrorist organisation, after an attack in two northern towns, police said on Monday.” Police said the 27 were “suspected of belonging to MAK, a group that seeks independence for the Berber-speaking Kabylie region.” A police statement “said the attacks and the arrests took place in the northern towns of Kherrata and Beni Ourtilane in the past 48 hours but gave no further details.”

Tennessee Authorities Say Baby Yoda Doll Was Full Of Fentanyl Pills Disguised As Painkillers

McClatchy (9/6, Kenney) reports, “A Michigan man accused of trying to sell fentanyl pills found hidden inside a popular Star Wars toy is back in jail on drug charges, Tennessee authorities say.” Zave Garry, 34, “was arrested Aug. 27 on charges of possession of Schedule II and Schedule VI drugs, according to the Rutherford County Sheriff’s Office. Garry, who is from Detroit, also faces a misdemeanor charge of unlawful possession of drug paraphernalia. Deputies said he was found with 176 fentanyl pills “pressed and stamped” to look like 30 mg tablets of Roxicodone, a brand name of the painkiller oxycodone. The drugs were found wrapped in clear baggies and stashed inside a Baby Yoda doll. ‘These non-pharmaceutically produced pills are a true danger to the user due in part to inconsistent production methods along with the inherent dangers of Fentanyl,’ Rutherford County Sheriff’s Capt. Britt Reed said in a statement.”

Virginia Sheriff Says Counterfeit Pills Caused Two Fatal Overdoses

The AP (9/5) reports, “A Northern Virginia sheriff is warning that counterfeit pills have led to two overdoses.” The Loudoun County Sheriff’s Office “sent a warning Sunday that its detectives have been investigating two deaths that are believed to involve painkiller pills that were likely counterfeit. Both cases are pending toxicology. The sheriff’s office said that street-level pills are often laced with fentanyl and other agents that can be harmful. ‘Any counterfeit prescription pills purchased online or on the streets may contain Fentanyl or other cutting agents. These substances, when added to the counterfeit pills, can easily and quickly cause death,’ said Loudoun County Sheriff Mike Chapman.”

Police Say Illegal Gun Purchases Fueling Chicago Violence

CBS News (9/6, De Mar) reports, “Authorities are cracking down on so-called ‘straw purchases’ that have helped fuel gun violence in Chicago this year.” CBS News adds, “There have been more than 2,300 shootings in Chicago this year. During Labor Day weekend, five people were killed and dozens others were wounded following a spate of gun violence, CBS Chicago reported. Authorities have said straw purchases – when a third party buys a weapon on behalf of another person – have contributed to the increase in shootings across the city.”

California Legislators Approve Measure To Decertify Law Enforcement Personnel For Serious Misconduct

The Los Angeles Times (9/3) reports that California police officers could lose “their license to carry a badge if they engage in serious misconduct, including excessive force, racial bias and dishonesty, under legislation approved Friday by the state Assembly after an emotional debate.” The measure received Assembly approval on a mainly “party-line vote of 46-18 and next goes back to the Senate, which had passed the bill before it was amended.” State Sen. Steven Bradford (D) “said his legislation is needed to prevent police officers who are fired, resign or are disciplined for misconduct from moving to another law enforcement agency and continuing to carry a badge and gun.” Said Bradford, “California is able to revoke the certification or licenses of bad doctors, lawyers and even barbers, but is unable to decertify police officers who have broken the law and violated the public trust,” adding, “This is all about treating people fairly and holding those who don’t accountable.”

The San Francisco Chronicle (9/3, Koseff) reports the Assembly passed the measure “two days after taking amendments to raise the threshold for when officers would lose their licenses and changing the composition of an advisory board that would weigh in on those decisions.”

Perpetrators Of Gun Violence In DC Making Use Of Device That Enables Guns To Discharge At Fully Automatic

The Washington Post (9/4) reports, “As the District reels from deadly gun violence, authorities say assailants have found a new way to boost their firepower by using small, illegal devices that turn semiautomatic handguns and rifles into rapid-fire machine guns.” The devices, known as “auto sears,” are fitted within the firearms, “can be purchased on the Internet or made on 3-D printers,” and enable firearms to discharge “up to 1,200 bullets a minute.” The Post adds, “Police say guns equipped with the aftermarket add-ons have been recovered across the District and elsewhere.” DC Police Commander Ramey Kyle said, “I think everybody in our department is very concerned about it.” He continued, “The guns out on the street are already dangerous, and now you have weapons that can be fired at fully automatic.”

Security, Crime, and Drugs

D.C. Officials Have Made Little Progress Curbing City’s Climbing Homicide Rate

The Washington Post (9/5) reports a shooting in Northwest Washington Saturday that “killed three people and wounded three more...frustrated city leaders who have expressed outrage all year at the continuing violence but have made little progress curbing the District’s escalating homicide count.” Homicides “are up 15 percent in the District compared to this time in 2020, which ended with a 16-year high. Police attributed many of the killings to disputes involving rival street crews.”

South Africa Sees Rise In Vigilante Killings Amid Civil Unrest

The New York Times (9/4, A1, Eligon, Mji) reports South Africa “was convulsed this summer by some of its worst civil unrest since the end of apartheid,” sparked by “the imprisonment of former President Jacob Zuma for refusing to appear before a corruption inquiry.” However, the Times adds, “government officials have been alarmed by a dynamic that, they say, dangerously undermines the social order: dozens of vigilante killings by ordinary citizens.” The Times says “the vigilantism was especially pronounced in Phoenix,” as the “country’s police minister said that 36 people there – 33 of them Black – were killed in what some officials are calling a massacre.”

Algerian Authorities Arrest 27 Suspected MAK Members After Attacks

Reuters (9/6) reports Algeria “has arrested 27 suspected members of a separatist group that the government has declared a terrorist organisation, after an attack in two northern towns, police said on Monday.” Police said the 27 were “suspected of belonging to MAK, a group that seeks independence for the Berber-speaking Kabylie region.” A police statement “said the attacks and the arrests took place in the northern towns of Kherrata and Beni Ourtilane in the past 48 hours but gave no further details.”

2518. Special Alert: New ILEAP partnership with PowerDMS; virtual training set for Sept. 8

Illinois' Voice of Professional Law Enforcement

Special Alert | September 6, 2021

REMINDER: Illinois Chiefs create ILEAP partnership with PowerDMS; virtual training set for Sept. 8

There have been some recent changes to the Illinois Law Enforcement Accreditation Program that we want everyone to be made aware of. The ILACP Executive Board on Aug. 18, 2021, approved the establishment of a new partnership with PowerDMS.

This will require all Illinois agencies seeking ILEAP accreditation to utilize the PowerDMS accreditation tools, and it will provide a future discount in the annual fee of up to 35% for ILEAP agencies currently using PowerDMS.

To improve program consistency and efficiency, we worked closely with PowerDMS to negotiate discounted pricing on the PowerDMS accreditation tool.

We will be requiring all agencies to utilize PowerDMS for their accreditation files as follows:

- All agencies that apply for ILEAP accreditation after September 1, 2021, must also sign up for PowerDMS before they begin the process with the ILEAP Coordinator to formally pursue ILEAP accreditation.
- Agencies that have applied for ILEAP but not yet received accreditation should utilize PowerDMS as soon as possible, but no later than January 1, 2022. They must be fully using PowerDMS in order to achieve ILEAP accreditation.
- Agencies that are already accredited by ILEAP but not yet utilizing PowerDMS must make the transition to PowerDMS no later than January 1, 2023. The ILACP executive director will give some consideration to agencies claiming a hardship and unable to make the transition by that date.

Why is it being required?

Having everyone use the same software system will help create consistency and reduce costs for the program and for agencies. PowerDMS will eliminate the need for paper and printing costs and will allow for remote file review, cutting down on onsite days.

Additionally, the use of PowerDMS has been shown to reduce the time it takes an agency to build and maintain files by 50% or more. Ultimately, we see this as an opportunity to make achieving and maintaining accreditation easier and less cost prohibitive for every agency.

What will it cost my agency?

- Agencies with fewer than 50 employees will pay PowerDMS $550 per year.
- Agencies with more than 50 employees will pay PowerDMS $650 per year.

Next Steps

We understand this may come as a surprise to some agencies, so we want to make this transition as smooth as possible. Here are a few things that are important to know:

1. If you are already using PowerDMS for your accreditation, you will see a price decrease at your next renewal.
2. If you aren't yet using PowerDMS, and to gain access to PowerDMS, you will need to do the following:
 1. Visit <https://simplify.powerdms.com/accred-custom-quote> and complete the form
 2. Receive a quote from PowerDMS.
 3. Sign the quote and send it back.
 4. Receive access to PowerDMS within 48 hours of sending back the signed quote.
 5. Pay your invoice within 30 days of the signed quote

PowerDMS is going to offer a FREE virtual training on Wednesday, Sept. 8, from 9:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. CDT. This will be a virtual learning environment to explore your PowerDMS site features, learn how to set up your agency's site, subscribe to your standards manual, and start your first PowerDMS ILEAP Assessment.

To participate, you must let us know you will be attending. CLICK HERE to register. This information is available on the ILACP website here.

- Agencies that have applied for ILEAP but not yet received accreditation should utilize PowerDMS as soon as possible, but no later than January 1, 2022. They must be fully using PowerDMS in order to achieve ILEAP accreditation.
- Agencies that are already accredited by ILEAP but not yet utilizing PowerDMS must make the transition to PowerDMS no later than January 1, 2023. The ILACP executive director will give some consideration to agencies claiming a hardship and unable to make the transition by that date.

Why is it being required?

Having everyone use the same software system will help create consistency and reduce costs for the program and for agencies. PowerDMS will eliminate the need for paper and printing costs and will allow for remote file review, cutting down on onsite days.

Additionally, the use of PowerDMS has been shown to reduce the time it takes an agency to build and maintain files by 50% or more. Ultimately, we see this as an opportunity to make achieving and maintaining accreditation easier and less cost prohibitive for every agency.

What will it cost my agency?

- Agencies with fewer than 50 employees will pay PowerDMS $550 per year.
- Agencies with more than 50 employees will pay PowerDMS $650 per year.

Next Steps

We understand this may come as a surprise to some agencies, so we want to make this transition as smooth as possible. Here are a few things that are important to know:

1. If you are already using PowerDMS for your accreditation, you will see a price decrease at your next renewal.
2. If you aren't yet using PowerDMS, and to gain access to PowerDMS, you will need to do the following:
 1. Visit <https://simplify.powerdms.com/accred-custom-quote> and complete the form
 2. Receive a quote from PowerDMS.
 3. Sign the quote and send it back.
 4. Receive access to PowerDMS within 48 hours of sending back the signed quote.
 5. Pay your invoice within 30 days of the signed quote

PowerDMS is going to offer a FREE virtual training on Wednesday, Sept. 8, from 9:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. CDT. This will be a virtual learning environment to explore your PowerDMS site features, learn how to set up your agency's site, subscribe to your standards manual, and start your first PowerDMS ILEAP Assessment.

To participate, you must let us know you will be attending. CLICK HERE to register. This information is available on the ILACP website here.

North Carolina Governor Signs Police Reforms Into Law

The AP (9/2, Robertson) reports from Raleigh, North Carolina, "A bipartisan police reform package was signed into law Thursday by North Carolina Gov. Roy Cooper, emphasizing success of enacting provisions from a task force he commissioned following George Floyd's murder over panel recommendations left out." According to the AP, "Backers of the legislation, which received near unanimous approval from the General Assembly, say it will rid departments of derelict officers and give mental health assistance to others on the force. Law enforcement groups and state House members also made recommendations contained within the new law." The new law "creates a public database to determine whether an officer's certification has been suspended or revoked. The state also will develop a confidential database that contains 'critical incident information' about when an officer has been involved in a case resulting in death or serious injury."

California Bill Would Restrict Police Use Of Rubber Bullets At Protests

The AP (9/2, Beam, Thompson) reports, "California would restrict the use of rubber bullets and chemical irritants during protests under legislation advanced Thursday in the wake of last year's widespread public demonstrations over racial injustice. A similar bill died last year." The bill "would set statewide standards for using the weapons that advocates say sometimes harmed peaceful protesters. Police say they are needed to prevent violence and are often better than the alternatives." The bill would "bar law enforcement agencies from using kinetic projectiles, chemical agents or tear gas to break up peaceful demonstration, and prohibit police from aiming rubber bullets, beanbags and foam rounds at anyone's head, neck or other vital areas," and "would also require training officers to use the less-lethal weapons only when someone is at risk of death or serious injury, or 'to bring an objectively dangerous and unlawful situation safely and effectively under control.”

Rise In South Carolina Hate Crimes Dismays Victim Advocates

WOLO-TV Columbia, SC (9/2, Olson) reports from Columbia, South Carolina, “One advocacy group claims there was an alarming increase in the number of hate crimes in South Carolina. According to the Anti-Defamation League, FBI hate crimes data shows a 93% increase in crimes based on factors such as race, religion, and sexual orientation.” WOLO-TV adds, “A spokesperson for the group says the statistics show the growing need for a hate crime law in South Carolina. ‘The past few years have seen a tremendous surge in hate crimes across the South, but the spike in hate crimes in South Carolina is an important indicator of need in the state,’ stated Allison Padilla-Goodman, ADL (Anti-Defamation League) Southern Division Vice President.”

Report: Pandemic, Fentanyl Led To Record Number Of Deadly Overdoses

Spectrum News 1 Louisville (KY) (9/2, Moody) reports from Frankfort, Kentucky, “Kentucky’s opioid crisis worsened during the COVID-19 pandemic, claiming 1,964 Kentuckians’ lives in 2020, a 49% increase from 2019. The Kentucky Office of Drug Control Policy, which compiled the data in the agency’s 2020 Overdose Fatality Report, called substance misuse ‘one of the most critical public health and safety issues facing Kentucky.’ ‘I expected to see the increase because I’ve seen it firsthand,’ said Matt Brown, Senior Vice President of Administration at Addiction Recovery Care (ARC), an organization that offers residential and outpatient treatment options across its network of more than 30 addiction treatment centers in Eastern and Central Kentucky. ‘We’ve not even been able to go a week at a time almost it seems like without knowing of someone who lost the fight against addiction.’”

International Overdose Awareness Day Event Held In Danville, Kentucky

In online coverage, WTVQ-TV Lexington, KY (9/2, Rogers) reports an International Overdose Awareness Day event was recently held in Danville, Kentucky. The event was organized “to remember victims of fatal overdoses, discuss ways to prevent overdose deaths, and celebrate treatment and recovery initiatives.”

Oklahoma Authorities Bust Illegal Marijuana Grow

The Daily Ardmoreite (OK) (9/2, Short) reports, “Earlier this week, the Carter County Sheriff’s Office along with the Dickson Police Department, Chickasaw Lighthorse Police and the Oklahoma Bureau of Narcotics seized and destroyed approximately 1,200 marijuana plants from a suspected illegal grow in Dickson.” Carter County Sheriff Chris Bryant “said an investigation into the suspected illegal operation began two months ago – but ultimately could have been avoided had the operators obtained the proper licensing – and led to the arrest of four men and one woman. ‘All they had to do is pay the license fee to the state,’ Bryant said. ‘We wouldn’t have teamed up with the other agencies, came in and cut their plants down and incinerated them (marijuana plants).’ Bryant said the seized plants were moved off location and incinerated.”

Technology

Dallas, Texas School District Data Breach May Have Exposed Information Of Students, Staff

The Dallas Morning News (9/2, Donaldson, Richmond) reports, "The personal information and Social Security numbers of Dallas ISD students, alumni and staff may have been exposed in a data breach discovered last month." The Morning News adds, "While DISD officials don't believe the stolen information has been shared or sold, they can't be '100 percent certain' until further forensic analysis has been completed. DISD officials contacted federal law enforcement authorities and assigned an IT team and forensic consultants to address vulnerabilities exploited during the breach." Data exposed in the breach "may include names, addresses, phone numbers, Social Security numbers, dates of birth, dates of employment, salary information and reasons for ending employment of current and former employees."

New Jersey Police Use Facial Recognition To Arrest Man For Upskirting

The New Jersey Star-Ledger (9/2, Roman) reports, "A Brick man charged last month with recording upskirt videos of a woman at a ShopRite has been charged with five additional similar incidents after police used facial recognition technology to scan other surveillance video, authorities said Thursday." Donald Sheridan, 62, "was previously charged with upskirting at a ShopRite in Kohl's Plaza in Brick on Aug. 17. He had been observed by a witness 'positioning himself to hold his cell phone under the victim's dress,' Brick police said in a statement. Police charged Sheridan...with invasion of privacy after reviewing surveillance footage and speaking with witnesses." Investigators "reviewed ShopRite's video surveillance and found seven other times Sheridan upskirted customers at the supermarket between July 30 and Aug. 16, police said."

Rise In South Carolina Hate Crimes Dismays Victim Advocates

WOLO-TV Columbia, SC (9/2, Olson) reports from Columbia, South Carolina, “One advocacy group claims there was an alarming increase in the number of hate crimes in South Carolina. According to the Anti-Defamation League, FBI hate crimes data shows a 93% increase in crimes based on factors such as race, religion, and sexual orientation.” WOLO-TV adds, “A spokesperson for the group says the statistics show the growing need for a hate crime law in South Carolina. ‘The past few years have seen a tremendous surge in hate crimes across the South, but the spike in hate crimes in South Carolina is an important indicator of need in the state,’ stated Allison Padilla-Goodman, ADL (Anti-Defamation League) Southern Division Vice President.”

Report: Pandemic, Fentanyl Led To Record Number Of Deadly Overdoses

Spectrum News 1 Louisville (KY) (9/2, Moody) reports from Frankfort, Kentucky, “Kentucky’s opioid crisis worsened during the COVID-19 pandemic, claiming 1,964 Kentuckians’ lives in 2020, a 49% increase from 2019. The Kentucky Office of Drug Control Policy, which compiled the data in the agency’s 2020 Overdose Fatality Report, called substance misuse ‘one of the most critical public health and safety issues facing Kentucky.’ ‘I expected to see the increase because I’ve seen it firsthand,’ said Matt Brown, Senior Vice President of Administration at Addiction Recovery Care (ARC), an organization that offers residential and outpatient treatment options across its network of more than 30 addiction treatment centers in Eastern and Central Kentucky. ‘We’ve not even been able to go a week at a time almost it seems like without knowing of someone who lost the fight against addiction.’”

International Overdose Awareness Day Event Held In Danville, Kentucky

In online coverage, WTVQ-TV Lexington, KY (9/2, Rogers) reports an International Overdose Awareness Day event was recently held in Danville, Kentucky. The event was organized “to remember victims of fatal overdoses, discuss ways to prevent overdose deaths, and celebrate treatment and recovery initiatives.”

Oklahoma Authorities Bust Illegal Marijuana Grow

The Daily Ardmoreite (OK) (9/2, Short) reports, “Earlier this week, the Carter County Sheriff’s Office along with the Dickson Police Department, Chickasaw Lighthorse Police and the Oklahoma Bureau of Narcotics seized and destroyed approximately 1,200 marijuana plants from a suspected illegal grow in Dickson.” Carter County Sheriff Chris Bryant “said an investigation into the suspected illegal operation began two months ago – but ultimately could have been avoided had the operators obtained the proper licensing – and led to the arrest of four men and one woman. ‘All they had to do is pay the license fee to the state,’ Bryant said. ‘We wouldn’t have teamed up with the other agencies, came in and cut their plants down and incinerated them (marijuana plants).’ Bryant said the seized plants were moved off location and incinerated.”

Dallas, Texas School District Data Breach May Have Exposed Information Of Students, Staff

The Dallas Morning News (9/2, Donaldson, Richmond) reports, “The personal information and Social Security numbers of Dallas ISD students, alumni and staff may have been exposed in a data breach discovered last month.” The Morning News adds, “While DISD officials don’t believe the stolen information has been shared or sold, they can’t be ‘100 percent certain’ until further forensic analysis has been completed. DISD officials contacted federal law enforcement authorities and assigned an IT team and forensic consultants to address vulnerabilities exploited during the breach.” Data exposed in the breach “may include names, addresses, phone numbers, Social Security numbers, dates of birth, dates of employment, salary information and reasons for ending employment of current and former employees.”

New Jersey Police Use Facial Recognition To Arrest Man For Upskirting

The New Jersey Star-Ledger (9/2, Roman) reports, “A Brick man charged last month with recording upskirt videos of a woman at a ShopRite has been charged with five additional similar incidents after police used facial recognition technology to scan other surveillance video, authorities said Thursday.” Donald Sheridan, 62, “was previously charged with upskirting at a ShopRite in Kohl’s Plaza in Brick on Aug. 17. He had been observed by a witness ‘positioning himself to hold his cell phone under the victim’s dress,’ Brick police said in a statement. Police charged Sheridan...with invasion of privacy after reviewing surveillance footage and speaking with witnesses.” Investigators “reviewed ShopRite’s video surveillance and found seven other times Sheridan upskirted customers at the supermarket between July 30 and Aug. 16, police said.”

North Carolina Governor Signs Police Reforms Into Law

The AP (9/2, Robertson) reports from Raleigh, North Carolina, "A bipartisan police reform package was signed into law Thursday by North Carolina Gov. Roy Cooper, emphasizing success of enacting provisions from a task force he commissioned following George Floyd's murder over panel recommendations left out." According to the AP, "Backers of the legislation, which received near unanimous approval from the General Assembly, say it will rid departments of derelict officers and give mental health assistance to others on the force. Law enforcement groups and state House members also made recommendations contained within the new law." The new law "creates a public database to determine whether an officer's certification has been suspended or revoked. The state also will develop a confidential database that contains 'critical incident information' about when an officer has been involved in a case resulting in death or serious injury."

California Bill Would Restrict Police Use Of Rubber Bullets At Protests

The AP (9/2, Beam, Thompson) reports, "California would restrict the use of rubber bullets and chemical irritants during protests under legislation advanced Thursday in the wake of last year's widespread public demonstrations over racial injustice. A similar bill died last year." The bill "would set statewide standards for using the weapons that advocates say sometimes harmed peaceful protesters. Police say they are needed to prevent violence and are often better than the alternatives." The bill would "bar law enforcement agencies from using kinetic projectiles, chemical agents or tear gas to break up peaceful demonstration, and prohibit police from aiming rubber bullets, beanbags and foam rounds at anyone's head, neck or other vital areas," and "would also require training officers to use the less-lethal weapons only when someone as at risk of death or serious injury, or 'to bring an objectively dangerous and unlawful situation safely and effectively

under control.”

September 02, 2021

Good morning and welcome to September.

IACP has canceled its live event. New Orleans is still without power. Schools across our nation are back in session. And we mark the 20th anniversary of the terrorist attacks that occurred on Sept. 11, 2001. COVID lingers as an ongoing public health concern. So what's a chief or sheriff to do? Continue to lead from the front. IACP should be offering some good online content. Support your SROs and school functions. Enforce the school bus safety laws. Hold a remembrance/memorial to mark Nine Eleven.

Stay safe!! -Lt. Frank Borelli

September 02, 2021

Good morning and welcome to September.

IACP has canceled its live event. New Orleans is still without power. Schools across our nation are back in session. And we mark the 20th anniversary of the terrorist attacks that occurred on Sept. 11, 2001. COVID lingers as an ongoing public health concern. So what's a chief or sheriff to do? Continue to lead from the front. IACP should be offering some good online content. Support your SROs and school functions. Enforce the school bus safety laws. Hold a remembrance/memorial to mark Nine Eleven.

Stay safe!! -Lt. Frank Borelli

San Francisco Initiative Will Pay People Not To Shoot Others

Newsweek (9/1, Stanton) reports, "A new program in San Francisco will pay people at high risk of shooting someone not to pull the trigger to help alleviate rising gun violence in the city." According to Newsweek, "The Dream Keeper Fellowship is set to launch in October and pay 10 individuals $300 each month to not be involved in shootings, Sheryl Davis, executive director of the Human Rights Commission, told Newsweek in an interview Tuesday." Newsweek reports Davis "explained that the program is not 'transactional,' but will rather focus on making investments in communities most impacted by violence. 'It's not necessarily as cut and dry as folks may think. It's not as transactional as, 'Here's a few dollars so that you don't do something bad,' but it really is about how you help us improve public safety in the neighborhood,' she said. Participants will be paired with life coaches from the city's Street Violence Intervention Program and will be considered 'community ambassadors' who work to prevent violence. They will work on their professional, personal, and community development and will be thought of as 'partners' in engaging community members and decreasing violence."

First Federal Agents Now Wearing Body Cameras

The AP (9/1, Balsamo) reports, "The Justice Department has identified the first set of federal agents to wear body cameras under a new policy that reversed a yearslong ban, Attorney General Merrick Garland said Wednesday." The AP adds, "The agents, who work for the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives in Phoenix and Detroit, will wear the cameras for pre-planned operations like arrests and searches. It is the first step under a Justice Department policy enacted earlier this year that requires all of its federal agents to wear body cameras when executing arrest warrants or searching buildings. The program is being slowly phased in." According to the AP, "Last October, the Justice Department formalized a new policy to allow local officers to wear body cameras during joint operations, which had reversed a policy that had strained its relationship with some law enforcement agencies."

The AP story was picked up by the Washington Post (9/1), the San Francisco Chronicle (9/2, Balsamo), the St. Louis Post-Dispatch (9/1, Balsamo), and some other well-known media outlets.

USA Today (9/1, Rouan) reports, "Agents operating out of the Phoenix and Detroit field offices for the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives became the first federal agents to wear body cameras, according to a news release. Some agents with the FBI, the Drug Enforcement Administration and the US Marshals Service will begin wearing cameras 'over the course of the next several weeks.'" USA Today adds, "In June, a report from the Justice Department's Office of the Inspector General found the agency 'generally unprepared' to roll out its own program. Though the department spent $115 million over the past decade for state, local and tribal law enforcement to build their own body camera programs, according to the report, it did not have one of its own."

The Hill (9/1, Schnell) reports, "The Wednesday announcement comes after Deputy Attorney General Lisa Monaco revealed in June that federal law enforcement agencies would have to come up with a plan to enforce the use of body cameras within the next 30 days. 'Law enforcement is at its most effective when there is accountability and trust between law enforcement and the community,' Attorney General Merrick Garland said in a statement on Wednesday. 'That is why we have expanded our body worn camera program to our federal agents, to promote transparency and confidence, not only with the communities we serve and protect, but also among our state, local and Tribal law enforcement partners who work alongside our federal agents each day,' he added." Newsweek (9/1, Ellen Cagnassola) also reports.

Traffic Stop Of Ex-Marine Over Cash Raises Concerns About Asset Forfeiture Authority

The Washington Post (9/1, Zapotosky) reports Stephen Lara, an former Marine, was pulled over by a Nevada state trooper who said he was "stopping the smuggling of illegal drugs, weapons and currency as they crossed the state." Lara "readily admitted he had 'a lot' of cash in his car," and "police searched the vehicle, pulling nearly $87,000 in a zip-top bag from Lara's trunk and insisting a drug-sniffing dog had detected something on the cash." Police "found no drugs, and Lara, 39, was charged with no crime," but "police left with his money, calling a Drug Enforcement Administration agent to coordinate an 'adoption,' which allows federal authorities to seize cash or property they suspect is connected to criminal activity without levying criminal charges." According to the Post, "advocates say the case shows how the federal government abuses its asset forfeiture authority, by requiring those whose property is taken to prove their innocence to get it back."

CVS, Other Retailers Doing More To Fight Organized Crime Thefts In Their Stores

The Wall Street Journal (9/1, Ballhaus, Ramachandran, Subscription Publication) reports on how CVS and other major retailers fight organized criminal schemes to conduct large-scale theft in their stores over time. CVS Organized Retail Crime Director Ben Dugan works to disrupt attempts of coordinated theft at CVS stores, and he also heads the trade association Coalition of Law Enforcement and Retail, which estimates organized retail theft is responsible for approximately $45 billion in losses annually for retailers, an increase from $30 billion in annual losses a decade ago. Target, Ulta Beauty, and TJX also are among the retailers that have increased their anti-theft efforts.

New El Paso FBI SAC Touts Cooperative Approach In Fighting Drug Cartels

KXAN-TV Austin, TX (9/1, Resendiz) reports from El Paso, Texas that Jeffrey R. Downey, the new special agent in charge of the FBI's El Paso Field Office, "showers praise on this friendly, low-crime community which nonetheless happens to be in one of the busiest corridors for drugs, migrants, weapons, and illegal cash on the US-Mexico border. Two drug cartels – Juarez and Sinaloa – and four major gangs operate across the border and are involved in the trafficking of dangerous synthetic drugs, murder, kidnapping and migrant smuggling. 'We've been very aggressive in investigating narcotics trafficking and the cartels across the border. We do that here at the FBI, but we do that in partnership with our local, state and federal partners,' he said. 'That will continue as it has in the past.'" KXAN-TV adds, "The crime and national security threat posed by the cartels – who smuggle any drug including the potentially deadly fentanyl as well as unvetted foreigners from all over the globe – is such that the only way to combat it is through extreme interagency coordination."

Police In Spain Announce 107 Arrests In July Marijuana Raids

The AP (9/1) reports from Madrid, "More than 100 people were arrested when police in Spain busted an illegal drug ring this summer, Europol said Wednesday." According to the AP, "The European policing authority said that the arrests occurred on July 13 when Spanish police, in collaboration with police from Germany and Albania, detained 107 individuals during 42 raids in Barcelona and three smaller cities in Spain's northeast. The people were arrested on suspicion of forming a group of "mainly of Albanian-speaking criminals" who grew and trafficked marijuana. They included Albanians, Spaniards, Greeks and Slovaks, Europol said." The AP adds, "Police allege that the network illegally grew marijuana in Spain and smuggled it to other European countries for sale."

Law Enforcement Operation Nets 13 Arrests For Drugs, Guns In South Carolina

WBTW-TV Florence-Myrtle Beach, SC (9/1, Laudenslager) reports from Charleston, South Carolina, "A multi-agency team of state and local law enforcement officers on Wednesday announced that charges have been brought against 13 individuals as part of a months-long investigation. 'Operation Cash Out' brought together the FBI, Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms, and Explosives, Department of Homeland Security, South Carolina Law Enforcement Division, Charleston Police Department, North Charleston Police Department, Charleston County Sheriff's Office, Summerville Police Department, Berkeley County Sheriff's Office, Dorchester

County Sheriff's Office, Mount Pleasant Police Department, Charleston County Aviation Authority Police Department, and the 9th Circuit Solicitor's Office." WBTW-TV reports that "according to Acting US Attorney for the District of South Carolina, M. Rhett Dehart, nine of the 13 individuals were taken into custody 'for their roles in an alleged drug trafficking conspiracy that operated in the Charleston area.'"

North Dakota Overdose Deaths Increased By Nearly 50% In 2020

The Forum of Fargo-Moorhead (ND) (9/1, Jahfetson). reports from Dickinson, North Dakota, "The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention compiled death certificates for drug overdoses in 2020 and estimated over 93,000 occurred, translating to approximately 11 deaths per hour across the United States for every day of 2020. In North Dakota, drug-related deaths soared to a nearly 50% increase over 2019's numbers with 118 people dead, according to the North Dakota Department of Health." The report "is alarming health professionals who cite that fewer than 7,200 total overdose deaths were reported in 1970 at the height of the heroin epidemic; and fewer than 9,000 deaths were reported in 1988 at the height of the crack epidemic — marking the opioid epidemic as the single largest in United States history."

Advocates Say Relaxed Methadone Rules During Pandemic Can Help Maintain Recovery

The Philadelphia Inquirer (9/1, Whelan) reports, "Methadone has long been a gold-standard treatment for opioid addiction. But government regulations mean that many patients have to organize their lives around getting and taking it, no matter how well they are doing, a new study has found." The pandemic "made it unsafe for people to queue up daily at methadone clinics, so rules were relaxed to allow patients to take doses home just like other prescriptions. And, advocates say, the change helped people maintain recovery and ought to become permanent."

FBI: Anyone Flying Drones Near Maine Airshow Will Be Prosecuted

The Brunswick (ME) Times Record (9/1, Carter) reports, "The FBI says it will prosecute anyone who flies drones or other aircraft within five miles of the Great State of Maine Airshow at Brunswick Landing this weekend." The Times Record reports that "while a no-fly zone is routine for the annual event and there have been no issues at past air shows, Brunswick Police Chief Scott Stewart said, adding that his department is trying to get the word out due to the popularity of personal drones used for photography and video. 'The FBI has been working directly with Brunswick PD in planning the security/safety for the Air Show and stated that they will prosecute those that choose to not follow the no-fly restriction,' Stewart said. The no-fly zone issued by the Federal Aviation Administration will be in effect from 11:45 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Sept 2. and between 12 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. Sept. 3-5."

USA Today adds, "In June, a report from the Justice Department's Office of the Inspector General found the agency 'generally unprepared' to roll out its own program. Though the department spent $115 million over the past decade for state, local and tribal law enforcement to build their own body camera programs, according to the report, it did not have one of its own."

The Hill (9/1, Schnell) reports, "The Wednesday announcement comes after Deputy Attorney General Lisa Monaco revealed in June that federal law enforcement agencies would have to come up with a plan to enforce the use of body cameras within the next 30 days. 'Law enforcement is at its most effective when there is accountability and trust between law enforcement and the community,' Attorney General Merrick Garland said in a statement on Wednesday. 'That is why we have expanded our body worn camera program to our federal agents, to promote transparency and confidence, not only with the communities we serve and protect, but also among our state, local and Tribal law enforcement partners who work alongside our federal agents each day,' he added." Newsweek (9/1, Ellen Cagnassola) also reports.

Traffic Stop Of Ex-Marine Over Cash Raises Concerns About Asset Forfeiture Authority

The Washington Post (9/1, Zapotosky) reports Stephen Lara, an former Marine, was pulled over by a Nevada state trooper who said he was "stopping the smuggling of illegal drugs, weapons and currency as they crossed the state." Lara "readily admitted he had 'a lot' of cash in his car," and "police searched the vehicle, pulling nearly $87,000 in a zip-top bag from Lara's trunk and insisting a drug-sniffing dog had detected something on the cash." Police "found no drugs, and Lara, 39, was charged with no crime," but "police left with his money, calling a Drug Enforcement Administration agent to coordinate an 'adoption,' which allows federal authorities to seize cash or property they suspect is connected to criminal activity without levying criminal charges." According to the Post, "advocates say the case shows how the federal government abuses its asset forfeiture authority, by requiring those whose property is taken to prove their innocence to get it back."

CVS, Other Retailers Doing More To Fight Organized Crime Thefts In Their Stores

The Wall Street Journal (9/1, Ballhaus, Ramachandran, Subscription Publication) reports on how CVS and other major retailers fight organized criminal schemes to conduct large-scale theft in their stores over time. CVS Organized Retail Crime Director Ben Dugan works to disrupt attempts of coordinated theft at CVS stores, and he also heads the trade association Coalition of Law Enforcement and Retail, which estimates organized retail theft is responsible for approximately $45 billion in losses annually for retailers, an increase from $30 billion in annual losses a decade ago. Target, Ulta Beauty, and TJX also are among the retailers that have increased their anti-theft efforts.

New El Paso FBI SAC Touts Cooperative Approach In Fighting Drug Cartels

KXAN-TV Austin, TX (9/1, Resendiz) reports from El Paso, Texas that Jeffrey R. Downey, the new special agent in charge of the FBI's El Paso Field Office, "showers praise on this friendly, low-crime community which nonetheless happens to be in one of the busiest corridors for drugs, migrants, weapons, and illegal cash on the US-Mexico border. Two drug cartels – Juarez and Sinaloa – and four major gangs operate across the border and are involved in the trafficking of dangerous synthetic drugs, murder, kidnapping and migrant smuggling. 'We've been very aggressive in investigating narcotics trafficking and the cartels across the border. We do that here at the FBI, but we do that in partnership with our local, state and federal partners,' he said. 'That will continue as it has in the past.'" KXAN-TV adds, "The crime and national security threat posed by the cartels – who smuggle any drug including the potentially deadly fentanyl as well as unvetted foreigners from all over the globe – is such that the only way to combat it is through extreme interagency coordination."

Police In Spain Announce 107 Arrests In July Marijuana Raids

The AP (9/1) reports from Madrid, "More than 100 people were arrested when police in Spain busted an illegal drug ring this summer, Europol said Wednesday." According to the AP, "The European policing authority said that the arrests occurred on July 13 when Spanish police, in collaboration with police from Germany and Albania, detained 107 individuals during 42 raids in Barcelona and three smaller cities in Spain's northeast. The people were arrested on suspicion of forming a group of "mainly of Albanian-speaking criminals" who grew and trafficked marijuana. They included Albanians, Spaniards, Greeks and Slovaks, Europol said." The AP adds, "Police allege that the network illegally grew marijuana in Spain and smuggled it to other European countries for sale."

Law Enforcement Operation Nets 13 Arrests For Drugs, Guns In South Carolina

WBTW-TV Florence-Myrtle Beach, SC (9/1, Laudenslager) reports from Charleston, South Carolina, "A multi-agency team of state and local law enforcement officers on Wednesday announced that charges have been brought against 13 individuals as part of a months-long investigation. 'Operation Cash Out' brought together the FBI, Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms, and Explosives, Department of Homeland Security, South Carolina Law Enforcement Division, Charleston Police Department, North Charleston Police Department, Charleston County Sheriff's Office, Summerville Police Department, Berkeley County Sheriff's Office, Dorchester

County Sheriff's Office, Mount Pleasant Police Department, Charleston County Aviation Authority Police Department, and the 9th Circuit Solicitor's Office." WBTW-TV reports that "according to Acting US Attorney for the District of South Carolina, M. Rhett Dehart, nine of the 13 individuals were taken into custody 'for their roles in an alleged drug trafficking conspiracy that operated in the Charleston area.'"

North Dakota Overdose Deaths Increased By Nearly 50% In 2020

The Forum of Fargo-Moorhead (ND) (9/1, Jahfetson). reports from Dickinson, North Dakota, "The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention compiled death certificates for drug overdoses in 2020 and estimated over 93,000 occurred, translating to approximately 11 deaths per hour across the United States for every day of 2020. In North Dakota, drug-related deaths soared to a nearly 50% increase over 2019's numbers with 118 people dead, according to the North Dakota Department of Health." The report "is alarming health professionals who cite that fewer than 7,200 total overdose deaths were reported in 1970 at the height of the heroin epidemic; and fewer than 9,000 deaths were reported in 1988 at the height of the crack epidemic — marking the opioid epidemic as the single largest in United States history."

Advocates Say Relaxed Methadone Rules During Pandemic Can Help Maintain Recovery

The Philadelphia Inquirer (9/1, Whelan) reports, "Methadone has long been a gold-standard treatment for opioid addiction. But government regulations mean that many patients have to organize their lives around getting and taking it, no matter how well they are doing, a new study has found." The pandemic "made it unsafe for people to queue up daily at methadone clinics, so rules were relaxed to allow patients to take doses home just like other prescriptions. And, advocates say, the change helped people maintain recovery and ought to become permanent."

FBI: Anyone Flying Drones Near Maine Airshow Will Be Prosecuted

The Brunswick (ME) Times Record (9/1, Carter) reports, "The FBI says it will prosecute anyone who flies drones or other aircraft within five miles of the Great State of Maine Airshow at Brunswick Landing this weekend." The Times Record reports that "while a no-fly zone is routine for the annual event and there have been no issues at past air shows, Brunswick Police Chief Scott Stewart said, adding that his department is trying to get the word out due to the popularity of personal drones used for photography and video. 'The FBI has been working directly with Brunswick PD in planning the security/safety for the Air Show and stated that they will prosecute those that choose to not follow the no-fly restriction,' Stewart said. The no-fly zone issued by the Federal Aviation Administration will be in effect from 11:45 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Sept 2. and between 12 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. Sept. 3-5."

2566. Status of IACP 2021 Annual Conference

Status of IACP 2021 Annual Conference

Problem viewing this email? Click here for our online version.

As promised, we have another update on the IACP 2021 Annual Conference and Exposition.

Given Hurricane Ida's impact on the gulf coast of the United States, and specifically the devastation in, and around, New Orleans, it is necessary to cancel the in-person portion of the Annual Conference.

The City of New Orleans, and the State of Louisiana, have been declared federal disaster areas and the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services has declared that a public health emergency exists in Louisiana. These realities, coupled with the fact that the New Orleans Police Department is wholly focused on protecting the health, safety, and welfare of the residents of New Orleans, made holding a conference the size and magnitude of IACP 2021 impracticable.

We recognize that this news is disappointing. Like all of you, we were looking forward to convening in person, networking, and learning together. However, we are pleased to say that the IACP 2021 virtual event will continue as planned. (Please note: all events will now be on Eastern Daylight Time (EDT)).

The below FAQ will provide information on registration, hotel reservations and other conference related questions.

As always, IACP will provide additional updates as more information becomes available. In the meantime, we appreciate your understanding and patience when contacting us.

IACP 2021 FAQ

What happens to my registration for IACP 2021?

Current online only registrations remain intact.

Full conference in-person registrants have three options:

1. Transfer to the online conference and be refunded the difference in price.
2. Transfer the registration fee to 2022 conference.
3. Receive a full refund.

Registrants will receive an email to make their choice in the next few days.

Registrations for Family Members/Spouses will be refunded in full automatically.

What about my hotel reservation?

Any hotel reservations booked through IACP's Official Housing Company (OnPeak), will be automatically cancelled and no cancellation fees will be assessed. You will receive an email notification of this cancellation in the coming days to the email address on file.

If you have booked hotel reservations through another source other than IACP's Official Housing Company, airline tickets, or other travel accommodations related to your attendance at the event you will need to work directly with the entity used to book to request a cancellation.

Will my division, committee or section still be meeting?

Yes, you may access your committee, section, or division meeting through the online event platform.

How do I access the online event platform?

Confirmation emails with a link to the online event platform will be sent to all online attendees no later than September 10, 2021. If you do not receive your email, please contact:

annualconference@theIACP.org

What workshops will be available?

The 9/11 Memorial Ceremony, both General Assemblies, multiple Speaker Series sessions, and over 100 On-Demand workshops will be available on the event platform.

How will IACP Elections be handled?

Active and Life members of the Association who joined on or before June 30, 2021, AND who are registered for the IACP 2021 virtual meeting will have the opportunity to vote remotely for candidates for the Office of 5th Vice President and on a proposed amendment to the IACP Constitution.

Voting will be held from 8:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. (EDT) on Monday, September 13, 2021. On the 13th, eligible voters will receive an e-mail from vote@simplyvoting.com that will include a link to the IACP 2021 voting site.

Please note – virtual attendees must register no later than 12:00 p.m. EDT on September 13th in order to be able to cast a vote in the IACP 2021 elections.

Once the polls have closed and the results have been verified, results will be e-mailed to all IACP members.

Will there be exhibiting companies?

The online event will not feature virtual exhibitors.

What does this mean for other events that are held in conjunction with the IACP Annual Conference?

The IACP Annual Conference and Exposition is separate from other events. Our cancellation of the in-person meeting should not be taken as an indication of other group decisions/events.

Assisted Patrol Will Not Attend IACP This Month, But Will Still Have a Free Drawing
We are VERY disappointed to announce that Assisted Patrol will not exhibit at IACP in New Orleans this month. However, we still plan to have a remote drawing for free Assisted Patrol leases.

We WILL proceed with our give away, however the drawing will remote after the shows ends.

Our drawing will consist of one first prize of one free 6 month Assisted Patrol lease and two second place prizes of one free 3 month Assisted Patrol lease. You can register until September 14th by clicking on the link below.

Our decision was difficult because we want more law enforcement agencies to see the power and results of our great Assisted Patrol technology. Ask our our customers and they will tell you how our system performance amazes them. With COVID cases continuing to rise and now the hurricane, we felt it was best to not exhibit at this year's show. We plan to sign up to exhibit at the next IACP show.

Good luck with the drawing. We hope to see you in Dallas in 2022 and share success stories.

Illinois' Voice of Professional Law Enforcement

Special Alert | September 1, 2021 Illinois Chiefs create ILEAP partnership with PowerDMS; virtual training set for Sept. 8

There have been some recent changes to the Illinois Law Enforcement Accreditation Program that we want everyone to be made aware of. The ILACP Executive Board on Aug. 18, 2021, approved the establishment of a new partnership with PowerDMS.

This will require all Illinois agencies seeking ILEAP accreditation to utilize the PowerDMS accreditation tools, and it will provide a future discount in the annual fee of up to 35% for ILEAP agencies currently using PowerDMS.

To improve program consistency and efficiency, we worked closely with PowerDMS to negotiate discounted pricing on the PowerDMS accreditation tool.

We will be requiring all agencies to utilize PowerDMS for their accreditation files as follows:

- All agencies that apply for ILEAP accreditation after September 1, 2021, must also sign up for PowerDMS before they begin the process with the ILEAP Coordinator to formally pursue ILEAP accreditation.
- Agencies that have applied for ILEAP but not yet received accreditation should utilize PowerDMS as soon as possible, but no later than January 1, 2022. They must be fully using PowerDMS in order to achieve ILEAP accreditation.
- Agencies that are already accredited by ILEAP but not yet utilizing PowerDMS must make the transition to PowerDMS no later than January 1, 2023. The ILACP executive director will give some consideration to agencies claiming a hardship and unable to make the transition by that date.

Why is it being required?

Having everyone use the same software system will help create consistency and reduce costs for the program and for agencies. PowerDMS will eliminate the need for paper and printing costs and will allow for remote file review, cutting down on onsite days.

Additionally, the use of PowerDMS has been shown to reduce the time it takes an agency to build and maintain files by 50% or more. Ultimately, we see this as an opportunity to make achieving and maintaining accreditation easier and less cost prohibitive for every agency.

What will it cost my agency?

- Agencies with fewer than 50 employees will pay PowerDMS $550 per year.
- Agencies with more than 50 employees will pay PowerDMS $650 per year.

Next Steps

We understand this may come as a surprise to some agencies, so we want to make this transition as smooth as possible. Here are a few things that are important to know:

1. If you are already using PowerDMS for your accreditation, you will see a price decrease at your next renewal.
2. If you aren't yet using PowerDMS, and to gain access to PowerDMS, you will need to do the following:
 1. Visit <https://simplify.powerdms.com/accred-custom-quote> and complete the form
 2. Receive a quote from PowerDMS.
 3. Sign the quote and send it back.
 4. Receive access to PowerDMS within 48 hours of sending back the signed quote.
 5. Pay your invoice within 30 days of the signed quote

PowerDMS is going to offer a FREE virtual training on Wednesday, Sept. 8, from 9:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. CDT. This will be a virtual learning environment to explore your PowerDMS site features, learn how to set up your agency's site, subscribe to your standards manual, and start your first PowerDMS ILEAP Assessment.

Policing and Policy

Minnesota Judge Promises To Rule Quickly In Review Of New Deadly Force Restrictions

The AP (8/31) reports that a Minnesota judge “has promised a ruling soon on whether to suspend Minnesota’s new stricter standard on when police can use deadly force.” The AP explains that the Minnesota Legislature “raised the bar on officers to justify in specific terms how their actions involving lethal force were necessary.” Several police groups have sued “to get the law tossed out or at least suspended until more officers can be trained on the new expectations.” On Monday, Judge Leonardo Castro “heard arguments...over whether officers have had enough time to adapt to the requirements, which took effect March 1.”

Law Enforcement Organizations Partner With Faith &Blue In Largest Community Outreach Project In US History

Fox News (8/30, Pagonos) reports that major law enforcement organizations “at the international, federal, state and local levels are partnering with social change group Faith &Blue for its annual weekend of activities as part of the ‘largest nationwide police-community initiative.’” Fox adds that leaders “from the National Faith &Blue Weekend announced Tuesday their plans to make history in partnering with ‘every major national law enforcement’ group in hosting its second-annual national event from Oct. 8 through Oct. 11.”

Bill Enhancing Riot Penalties Heads To North Carolina Governor

The AP (8/31, Anderson) reports that legislation “cracking down on violent protests that critics argue could stifle free speech is heading to North Carolina’s governor.” The AP explains that the proposal from North Carolina House Speaker Tim Moore (R) “was fueled by rioting and looting he saw take place in Raleigh last year” during protests related to the death of George Floyd in Minneapolis police custody. The bill “passed the House on Tuesday by a vote of 63-41” and now goes to Gov. Roy Cooper (D), “who has previously expressed concerns with the measure.”

New Mexico To Consider Bail Reform Amid Surge In Violent Crime

The AP (8/31, Gallagher) reports that while past “legislative efforts” to reform New Mexico’s bail law by prosecutors and police groups “have fallen short,” they now enjoy support from “an important ally” in Gov. Michelle Lujan Grisham (D), “who says she wants to see changes in the state’s pretrial detention system.” The AP explains that under the current system, “to have a defendant charged with a violent felony held prior to trial, prosecutors must show the accused represents a danger to the community – and that there are no conditions of release that will protect the community.” However, Lujan Grisham “said she wants to shift the burden of proof so that people charged with violent offenses are required to show they can safely be released.”

Hennepin County, Minnesota Embedding Social Workers In Police Agencies

The AP (8/31) reports from Minneapolis, Minnesota, “Hennepin County announced Tuesday that it plans to have social workers embedded in 21 police departments countywide by early 2022.” The county “has been operating its embedded social worker program since 2019, and is adding seven new departments to its list of participating agencies. The social workers do not go out with police on 911 calls, but if there are concerns that someone is experiencing mental health or substance abuse issues, a responding officer can send a referral to a social worker, who then works on ways to get that person the resources and help they need.” The AP adds, “The expansion comes as police departments nationwide are trying to find more effective ways to respond to calls involving people in crisis. The county says its program is part of a larger effort to improve emergency responses and divert people from the criminal justice system to hospitals or other services when appropriate.”

Security, Crime, and Drugs

Reward Offered In Connection With Fentanyl Trafficking Investigation

The AP (8/31, Kolpack) reports the US State Department is offering a financial reward that could go as high as five million dollars “for information leading to the arrest or conviction of...Chinese national” Jian Zhang, who is “suspected of leading an international fentanyl trafficking operation.” The overdose death of an 18-year-old in North Dakota prompted an investigation of that operation, according to the AP report.

Indiana Man Charged With Selling Fentanyl That Led To Overdose

The Evansville (IN) Courier & Press (8/31, Elias) reports, “Local officials are using recent arrests in connection with deadly drug overdoses to drive home the increasing severity of drug abuse in the community as fentanyl, a powerful opioid, becomes more prevalent.” According to the Courier & Press, “At a Tuesday morning press conference, authorities announced the arrest of Todd D. Gardner, 25, on charges of dealing in a substance resulting in death for reportedly selling what police say was a fentanyl-laced pill that led to the fatal overdose of a man in April. Another man was arrested in a similar case last week. Gene Hoover, 44, was arrested and charged in connection with the Aug. 19 death of a man who reportedly bought heroin and fentanyl from Hoover the day he fatally overdosed. 'In dealing with these overdoses this year, has become evident that we're just going to destroy last year's numbers,' Vanderburgh County Coroner Steve Lockyear said."

Forty-Seven Indicted After Pennsylvania "Drug Pipeline" Dismantled

KDKA-TV Pittsburgh (8/31) reports nearly 50 people are "facing charges after authorities dismantled a drug pipeline from California to western Pennsylvania." Forty-seven people have been charged "with narcotics trafficking, money laundering and firearms violations in six separate" but related indictments after "Operation Return To Sender." The takedown was a joint effort "between multiple law enforcement agencies like the DEA, Homeland Security Investigations, state police and Pittsburgh Police."

WSJournal Analysis: Countering Terror Threats In Afghanistan Will Now Be Far More Difficult

A Wall Street Journal (8/31, Strobel, Lubold, Gordon, Subscription Publication) analysis states that while the President and his aides have said that the US can deal with terror threats in Afghanistan from "over the horizon," counterterrorism and intelligence officials say that it will be significantly harder and less effective than the White House has suggested.

Technology

Montana Law Enforcement Readies Tech For DUI Enforcement In Legal Marijuana Era

The Missoula Current (MT) (8/31, Valley) reports that the Montana Highway Patrol is "already gearing up" for new challenges in enforcing impaired driving laws when "the state's new recreational marijuana law" takes effect in January. The Current explains, "High tech machines at the Montana State Crime Lab in Missoula screen blood for a specific classification of drug, pinpoint what that drug is such as meth or opioids or marijuana. Another machine then measures the level of drug in a blood sample." The Current says the crime lab "in Missoula reports marijuana, meth and alcohol are the things most often popping up on DUI drug tests." The lab currently employs "eight full time toxicologists but asked the Montana Legislature for four more over the course of the next two fiscal years in perpetration an anticipated demand for testing."

Policing and Policy

Minnesota Judge Promises To Rule Quickly In Review Of New Deadly Force Restrictions

The AP (8/31) reports that a Minnesota judge “has promised a ruling soon on whether to suspend Minnesota’s new stricter standard on when police can use deadly force.” The AP explains that the Minnesota Legislature “raised the bar on officers to justify in specific terms how their actions involving lethal force were necessary.” Several police groups have sued “to get the law tossed out or at least suspended until more officers can be trained on the new expectations.” On Monday, Judge Leonardo Castro “heard arguments...over whether officers have had enough time to adapt to the requirements, which took effect March 1.”

Law Enforcement Organizations Partner With Faith &Blue In Largest Community Outreach Project In US History

Fox News (8/30, Pagonos) reports that major law enforcement organizations “at the international, federal, state and local levels are partnering with social change group Faith &Blue for its annual weekend of activities as part of the ‘largest nationwide police-community initiative.’” Fox adds that leaders “from the National Faith &Blue Weekend announced Tuesday their plans to make history in partnering with ‘every major national law enforcement’ group in hosting its second-annual national event from Oct. 8 through Oct. 11.”

Bill Enhancing Riot Penalties Heads To North Carolina Governor

The AP (8/31, Anderson) reports that legislation “cracking down on violent protests that critics argue could stifle free speech is heading to North Carolina’s governor.” The AP explains that the proposal from North Carolina House Speaker Tim Moore (R) “was fueled by rioting and looting he saw take place in Raleigh last year” during protests related to the death of George Floyd in Minneapolis police custody. The bill “passed the House on Tuesday by a vote of 63-41” and now goes to Gov. Roy Cooper (D), “who has previously expressed concerns with the measure.”

New Mexico To Consider Bail Reform Amid Surge In Violent Crime

The AP (8/31, Gallagher) reports that while past “legislative efforts” to reform New Mexico’s bail law by prosecutors and police groups “have fallen short,” they now enjoy support from “an important ally” in Gov. Michelle Lujan Grisham (D), “who says she wants to see changes in the state’s pretrial detention system.” The AP explains that under the current system, “to have a defendant charged with a violent felony held prior to trial, prosecutors must show the accused represents a danger to the community – and that there are no conditions of release that will protect the community.” However, Lujan Grisham “said she wants to shift the burden of proof so that people charged with violent offenses are required to show they can safely be released.”

Hennepin County, Minnesota Embedding Social Workers In Police Agencies

The AP (8/31) reports from Minneapolis, Minnesota, “Hennepin County announced Tuesday that it plans to have social workers embedded in 21 police departments countywide by early 2022.”

The county “has been operating its embedded social worker program since 2019, and is adding seven new departments to its list of participating agencies. The social workers do not go out with police on 911 calls, but if there are concerns that someone is experiencing mental health or substance abuse issues, a responding officer can send a referral to a social worker, who then works on ways to get that person the resources and help they need.” The AP adds, “The expansion comes as police departments nationwide are trying to find more effective ways to respond to calls involving people in crisis. The county says its program is part of a larger effort to improve emergency responses and divert people from the criminal justice system to hospitals or other services when appropriate.”

Security, Crime, and Drugs

Reward Offered In Connection With Fentanyl Trafficking Investigation

The AP (8/31, Kolpack) reports the US State Department is offering a financial reward that could go as high as five million dollars “for information leading to the arrest or conviction of...Chinese national” Jian Zhang, who is “suspected of leading an international fentanyl trafficking operation.” The overdose death of an 18-year-old in North Dakota prompted an investigation of that operation, according to the AP report.

Indiana Man Charged With Selling Fentanyl That Led To Overdose

The Evansville (IN) Courier & Press (8/31, Elias) reports, “Local officials are using recent arrests in connection with deadly drug overdoses to drive home the increasing severity of drug abuse in the community as fentanyl, a powerful opioid, becomes more prevalent.” According to the Courier & Press, “At a Tuesday morning press conference, authorities announced the arrest of Todd D. Gardner, 25, on charges of dealing in a substance resulting in death for reportedly selling what police say was a fentanyl-laced pill that led to the fatal overdose of a man in April. Another man was arrested in a similar case last week. Gene Hoover, 44, was arrested and charged in connection with the Aug. 19 death of a man who reportedly bought heroin and fentanyl from Hoover the day he fatally overdosed. 'In dealing with these overdoses this year, has become evident that we're just going to destroy last year's numbers,' Vanderburgh County Coroner Steve Lockyear said."

Forty-Seven Indicted After Pennsylvania "Drug Pipeline" Dismantled

KDKA-TV Pittsburgh (8/31) reports nearly 50 people are "facing charges after authorities dismantled a drug pipeline from California to western Pennsylvania." Forty-seven people have been charged "with narcotics trafficking, money laundering and firearms violations in six separate" but related indictments after "Operation Return To Sender." The takedown was a joint effort "between multiple law enforcement agencies like the DEA, Homeland Security Investigations, state police and Pittsburgh Police."

WSJournal Analysis: Countering Terror Threats In Afghanistan Will Now Be Far More Difficult

A Wall Street Journal (8/31, Strobel, Lubold, Gordon, Subscription Publication) analysis states that while the President and his aides have said that the US can deal with terror threats in Afghanistan from "over the horizon," counterterrorism and intelligence officials say that it will be significantly harder and less effective than the White House has suggested.

Technology

Montana Law Enforcement Readies Tech For DUI Enforcement In Legal Marijuana Era

The Missoula Current (MT) (8/31, Valley) reports that the Montana Highway Patrol is "already gearing up" for new challenges in enforcing impaired driving laws when "the state's new recreational marijuana law" takes effect in January. The Current explains, "High tech machines at the Montana State Crime Lab in Missoula screen blood for a specific classification of drug, pinpoint what that drug is such as meth or opioids or marijuana. Another machine then measures the level of drug in a blood sample." The Current says the crime lab "in Missoula reports marijuana, meth and alcohol are the things most often popping up on DUI drug tests." The lab currently employs "eight full time toxicologists but asked the Montana Legislature for four more over the course of the next two fiscal years in perpetration an anticipated demand for testing."
