Attorneys for Petitioner/Defendant

Petitioner Cyber Ninjas, Inc. (“CNI”) hereby files this Petition for Special Action from the trial court’s January 6, 2022, Minute Entry in this matter, entered on January 11, 2022, in which it issued an order of sanctions of $50,000 a day for CNI’s alleged non-compliance with its August 24 Order. (Appendix (“App.”) at 30.)

This Petition was previously filed on November 23, 2021, along with an Application to stay an August 24th Order issued by the trial court. On December 1, 2021, this Court ordered that “CNI may therefore assert any pertinent objections [to production of documents] in the Superior Court and, if necessary, seek appropriate review in the Court of Appeals.” (See January 6, 2022, Supreme Court Order, App. at 33). On January 5, the Court denied the Petition for Review “without prejudice to raising these issues on appeal when the case before the superior court is final.” (See Id., App. at 34).

On January 6th, the trial court held a contempt hearing at which it disregarded this Court’s order as merely an order “denying review” and treated its own August order as final in all respects. (See App. at 30.) The trial court issued sanctions of $50,000 a day for alleged non-compliance with the August Order and in doing so it denied/disregarded CNI’s arguments that none of the documents sought – consisting of company emails and company financial records – were “owned by, created by, or even relied on by the government.” CNI also argued that the company was insolvent and had no remaining employees, and that the Senate refused to handle the substantial costs of production. (See “CNI’s Response to Motion for Contempt” dated January 5, 2022 App. at 36). Clearly in disregarding these objections, the trial court decided that its order was “final.” CNI filed an emergency request for this Court to intervene, but this Court noted that the contempt order was not strictly before it and invited a new special action (in its Order dated January 6th).

In the intervening two months, CNI filed a Motion to Disqualify the trial court judge for bias and prejudice based on the discovery that he was reading the news/conducting extrajudicial investigations and also made extensive political contributions to advocacy groups that were opposed specifically to CNI’s audit as well as to the GOP and President Trump in general. (See January 12, 2022, Motion to Disqualify, App. at 48). Shortly after the Motion to Disqualify was filed, another judge decided to sua sponte consolidate CNI’s case with the case before him, which resulted in the removal of the judge who issued the September 6th order (and strictly rendered the Motion to Disqualify moot). CNI asked the new judge to certify the January 6th Order as final to facilitate appeal, but he declined to do so in a March 4th Order. CNI also asked the new judge to vacate the order, but he declined to do so. (See March 3, 2022 Minute Entry, App at 98). CNI therefore remains subject to the trial court’s January 6th Order. It has no other equally plain, speedy, or adequate remedy by appeal, other than to bring the matter to this Court.

It is proper that the Supreme Court hear this Petition, as opposed to the Court of Appeals, because these issues have already been briefed in the Petition to this Court and little advantage would be achieved by another level of intermediate appellate review. Further, CNI is no longer a going concern and is unable to afford its representation. And, of course, the trial court judge's outrageous order of "$50,000 a day" sanctions remains in effect. (See App. at 31). In such exceptional circumstances, a petition for special action is properly sought from this Court. See State Bar Committee Comment to 2020 Amendments to Rule 8, Rules of Procedure for Special Actions; see also State ex rel. Neely v. Sherrill In & For County of Pima, 168 Ariz. 469, 471 n.1 (1991)(referencing same).

What follows is the same Petition for Review that was presented to this Court on November 23rd, with three additional issues arising out of the contempt order itself. These new issues are listed under Section 3(A) below and discussed in the new Section 6, as well as the subsequent orders from the new judge declining to disturb the prior rulings and in fact reinforcing the Court of Appeals' decision that any document related to government work is a public record, regardless of whether the government owns or even possesses it. (The trial court believes that under the Court of Appeals' decision, "the issue of ownership or actual possession [is] irrelevant." (See March 3, 2022 Minute Entry, App. at 98). If the Court accepts jurisdiction on the original issues raised in the November 23rd Order and grants

Petitioner relief, then the issues arising out of the contempt order on January 6th are moot.

1. The issues that were decided by the Court of Appeals that the petitioner is presenting for Supreme Court review.

- A. Can a non-public body or officer be sued under A.R.S. § 39-121.02, which provides only for “special actions against the officer or a public body,” after a person is denied access to “public records and other matters in the custody of any officer”? (And where A.R.S. § 39-121.01(A)(1) defines an “officer” as “any person elected or appointed to hold any elective or appointive office of any public body and any chief administrative officer, head, director, superintendent or chairman of any public body”?)
- B. Can documents that a public body or officer does not own, create, and or have custody over, such as emails on a private server, be considered “public records and other matters in the custody of any officer” under Arizona Public Records Law, A.R.S. § 39-101, et seq.?
- C. Does “public record” mean any record with a “substantial nexus” to government activity, regardless of whether the government actually owns or has custody of it?
- D. Can any “custodian” of records, including a government employee or private contractor, be subject to a lawsuit under A.R.S. § 39-121.02? Or is just the “officer in custody” of records, meaning the chief “officer” of a public body pursuant to A.R.S. §§ 39-121, 39-121.01(A), and 39-121.02?

E. Can attorneys' fees be awarded against a private body under A.R.S. § 39-121.02(B)?

2. Additional issues presented to, but not decided by, the Court of Appeals that the Supreme Court may need to decide if it grants review.

A. None.

3. Additional Issues Arising out of the Contempt Order

A. Should the Order be vacated due to the Judge's Bias and Prejudice?

B. Even if it were otherwise legally-appropriate, was the sanction punitive in nature and therefore improper?

C. Must a private contractor like Petitioner be made to bear the expenses of the production of its records?

4. The facts material to consideration of the issues presented to the Supreme Court for review, with appropriate references to the record on appeal.

The Arizona Senate (the "Senate") hired CNI, a private corporation formed under the laws of Florida, to prepare an audit report regarding voting equipment used and ballots cast in Maricopa County in the 2020 general election. (See Arizona Court of Appeals November 9, 2021 Decision, App. at 102, ¶ 2). Respondent Phoenix Newspapers, Inc. ("PNI") sent a request to CNI to inspect documents relating to the audit under public records law. (Id., ¶ 3). Because CNI is not a public officer or a public body, it declined the request. PNI then filed a statutory special action against CNI, the Senate, and Senate officials. CNI moved to dismiss the Complaint on the grounds that CNI is not a public officer or a public body, inter alia, (the “Motion”). (Id., App. at 102-103, ¶ 4). The trial court denied the Motion, finding that CNI holds public office. CNI filed a special action appealing from that decision, and the Court of Appeals accepted jurisdiction because “the issues raised in the petition are pure questions of law and are of statewide importance.” (Id., App. at 103, ¶ 6).

On appeal, CNI again argued that it is not a public officer or a public body. (See Petition for Special Action dated August 31, 2021, App. at 109). PNI argued that CNI is a public officer or a public body; and in the alternative that CNI is a “custodian” and that “custodians” are subject to suit. (See Phoenix Newspaper Inc.’s September 20, 2021 Response to Special Action App. at 292). PNI also claimed for the first time on appeal that CNI had “admitted” that CNI had public records, which CNI denied; and CNI pointedly argued in its Reply that its records are not public as a matter of law because the government does not own or control them, much less rely on or even have access to them. (See Cyber Ninja’s Reply to Petition for Special Action, App. at 339). To deem CNI’s records, such as its own internal emails regarding performance of its contract or related matters, or its emails/contracts with its own subcontractors, to be “public records” defies common sense and the plain language of the statute.

First, the Court of Appeals erroneously determined that “custodians” of records are subject to being sued. This decision not only contradicts the plain wording of the statute, but it opens up every state employee or contractor to being sued under public-records statutes, which was clearly never the intent of these statutes. Second, the Court of Appeals erroneously decided that all “documents relating to the audit are public records,” irrespective of whether the government actually owns them, much less possesses them. (See Arizona Court of Appeals’ November 9, 2021 Decision, App. at 104, ¶9). Even though the Court of Appeals accepted jurisdiction because this case presents issues of “statewide importance” and “pure questions of law,” the Court of Appeals incongruously decided that CNI was a proper party only “under the unusual facts of this case” – without even specifying what those “unusual facts” might be. (Id., App. at 106, ¶ 17). And in a transparent effort to avoid review by this Court, the Court of Appeals declared that its ruling would not apply to “businesses that contract with the government to provide ordinary goods or services” – just CNI, apparently – even though that distinction has neither a legal nor factual basis. Further, it would subject any contractor or government employee who works in elections to being sued for their private records, since none of them provide “ordinary goods or services” and they are “custodians” of records that “relate” to their government work.

The Court of Appeals’ decision that a private company can be sued for private documents simply because those documents relate to government work, is far beyond the realm of what is statutorily permitted under the public-records statute. It also defies common sense: private company's documents are not and cannot be public documents. The Court of Appeals' definition of "public record" captures documents that the government clearly has no right or reason to have or see, like private documents regarding a company's costs of performance, financing, thoughts on its government contract or other matters. As things stand, the Court of Appeals' order is so outrageous that it violates the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments and Arizona constitutional privacy clause, because it effectively compels a private company to produce documents to the government which the government does not own and has no right to see. No government employee or contractor expects this when they sign up for government work, and it is utterly without a genuine basis in law.

Further, the practical consequence of the Court of Appeals' decision is that CNI is now receiving records requests from members of the public and the Maricopa County Attorney, who are expressly citing the Court of Appeals' decision. (See November 10, 2021 and November 19, 2021 letters, App. at 353 and 356, respectively). It is axiomatic that CNI does not have a taxpayer-funded public records department, and it does not have a taxpayer-funded lawyer in the form of the Attorney General's Office. It is a private company that simply cannot deal with this logistically and financially. The award of fees and costs against it just adds to the burden and impossibility of dealing with future public records requests and suits like this. (It also lacks any genuine statutory support, as discussed below.) The Court of Appeals' decision is clearly erroneous but also has far-reaching and chilling consequences for state contractors and employees. Thus, this Court should accept review.

5. The reasons the petition should be granted

No Arizona law decision controls the point of law in question, and important issues of law have been incorrectly decided. These issues are also of statewide importance and pure questions of law. Further, CNI has no other adequate and equally speedy relief. It is being compelled to produce private documents that are not "public records" by any statutory or even rational definition, which is of a constitutional dimension because these are private records being produced to the government. This infringes on persons' right to privacy under the Arizona Constitution and the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendment rights to be free from unreasonable search-and-seizure.

The plain language of the public records statutes unambiguously provides that an action for denial of access to public records can only be filed against an "officer or a public body" who has "denied access" to public records in the "custody of any officer". A.R.S. §§ 39-121.02(A), 39-121 (emphasis added). The Court of Appeals' answer to this was to insert a word into A.R.S. § 39-121.02(A) that is not there. The A.R.S. § 39-121.02(A) actually states:

Any person who has requested to examine or copy public records pursuant to this article, and who has been denied access to or the right to copy such records, may appeal the denial through a special action in the superior court, pursuant to the rules of procedure for special actions against the officer or public body.

(Emphasis added). The Court of Appeals' decision misquoted the statute by stating that the person denied access “may appeal the [custodian's] denial through a special action in the superior court...” (See November 9, 2021, Court of Appeals Decision, App. at 105, ¶16). The Court of Appeals capriciously inserted the word “custodian” into the statute.

The Court of Appeals' fallacious argument that any “custodian” of public records can be sued, and that “custodian” means any person, public or private, who purportedly has records relating to government work is contrary to the plain language of the statutes. The word “custodian,” which is used only in A.R.S. §§ 39-121.01 and 39-121.03, distinctly refers to the “officer in custody” of records under A.R.S. § 39-121, to whom record requests are made. This is consistent with the language in the public records statutes, which provide that only public officers or public bodies may be sued, and “[p]ublic records and other matters in the custody of any officer” shall be open to inspection. A.R.S. §§ 39-121.02(A), 39-131 (emphasis added). Under the Court of Appeals' interpretation, members of the public can now sue any government employee or contractor under public and to being hold them personally responsible for their fees as well, as the Court of Appeals did here.

The Court of Appeals' citation to the Rules of Special Action and Rule 19 of the Rules of Civil Procedure (governing joinder) does not provide a substantive basis for a lawsuit by a member of the public against CNI, and certainly no basis for an award of fees against CNI. The Court of Appeals also provided no explanation for why "in [CNI]'s absence, the court cannot accord complete relief among existing parties." CNI's documents are clearly not in the "custody of any public officer" and its participation is not needed. Further, the Court of Appeals' reasoning here is so terrifyingly broad that any member of the public could sue any government employee or contractor for purportedly having public records and sue them under this interpretation of the statutes and Ariz. R. Civ. P. 19, rendering the "against the officer or public body" language in A.R.S. § 39-121.02(A) completely nugatory.

The Court of Appeals' argument that CNI must be treated differently because it allegedly does not provide "ordinary goods or services" is legally and factually baseless.¹ There is no authority which supports holding a private company liable under the public records statutes (including for fees) turns on whether they provide “ordinary services.” It is obvious that the Court of Appeals was trying to arbitrarily justify applying a different rule of law to CNI – in contravention to the basic idea that justice is blind, and that laws are supposed to be neutrally applied regardless of who is in front of the court. Such a “rule” is also dangerous, confusing, and unpredictable – what is “unusual” about CNI’s services as an auditor? Is it because CNI audited an election, which is not “ordinary” and is “an important” government function? In which case, isn’t the contractor who makes the vote-tabulation machines now subject to public records requests and suits (and fee awards), because the government has “entirely outsourced” the “important” government function of counting ballots? Or the election auditor that the county hired? And all election auditors in the future?

The Court of Appeals argues that the government “entirely outsourced” a government function. It is apodictic that whenever the government hires a private contractor, it is “entirely outsourcing” something – that is the definition of a private contractor. And whether something is “important” or “unique” is at once arbitrary and true of every government function—they are all important and unique because the government itself is important and unique. Even the examples that the Court of the ballot investigation was conducted by the judiciary (not oversight) committee; but it also totally legally irrelevant, for the reasons discussed herein.

Appeals gives of “entirely outsourced” – construction companies and office-supply vendors—could be characterized as important and unique in the same way that CNI has been here. The construction company that built the Court of Appeals’ building engaged in an “important” undertaking that was “unique,” since there is only one. Or the office-supply vendor who provides the legal notepads for jurors – surely that is an “important” and “unique” undertaking. The Court of Appeals made its rule up out of whole cloth in a thinly veiled effort to stop this Court from reviewing its decision, by trying to make it seem as if this case turns on unique or unusual facts which it clearly does not. What we are dealing with here is an obvious but nevertheless far-reaching misapplication of a basic law, the law of public records, which threatens every contractor and employee in this state.

This Court has previously held that documents which the State does not own must not be produced in response to a public records request—even in cases where the State is in possession of the records, which is not the case here. In the seminal case of Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Cmty. v. Rogers, 168 Ariz. 531, 534, 815 P.2d 900, 903 (1991), this Court addressed whether records that belong to non-governmental or private bodies may be considered “public records,” relying heavily on federal FOIA law. See also Church of Scientology v. Phoenix Police Dep’t, 122 Ariz. 338, 340, 594 P.2d 1034, 1036 (App. 1979) (FOIA offers guidance to Arizona courts in construing Arizona public records statute). This Court noted that federal courts have “uniformly held that an agency must control a record before it is subject to disclosure”; and “[t]he control test is helpful in analyzing our statute, which also exempts private information from disclosure even when it is held by a government agency.” Id., 168 Ariz. at 541, 815 P.2d at 910. “An agency has control over the documents when they have come into the agency’s possession in the legitimate conduct of its official duties.” Id., 168 Ariz. at 541-42, 815 P.2d at 910-11 (quoting U.S. Dep’t of Just. v. Tax Analysts, 492 U.S. 136, 145 (1989))(quotation marks omitted). Where documents are not in control of the government, they were not generated by the government, they never entered the government’s files, and they were not used by the government for any purpose, then they are not “public records.” Id., 168 Ariz. at 542, 815 P.2d at 911 (citing Kissinger v. Repts. Comm. for Freedom of the Press, 445 U.S. 136, 157 (1980)).

The Respondent newspaper failed to allege that CNI has exclusive possession of any document that the Senate controls, generates, or that even entered the Senate’s files, much less that the Senate used for any purpose. What we are talking about are emails and contract that CNI has with its own private contractors, its own private subcontracts, and the like. Under CNI’s contract with the Senate, the only document that the Senate was entitled to have and control is the final audit report that CNI agreed to prepare, which has now been completed and produced to the Senate and undisputedly a public record because the Senate owns and possess it.

But CNI's own records are not public records simply because they may relate to that audit report, which is what the Court of Appeals erroneously found here. Further, in Salt River, the Arizona Supreme Court cited with approval (several times) two FOIA decisions that squarely address the kind of issues at bar: Forsham v. Harris, 445 U.S. 169 (1980) and Ciba-Geigy Corp. v. Mathews, 428 F.Supp. 523, 532 (S.D.N.Y.1977) (discussed immediately below).

In Forsham v. Harris, 445 U.S. 169 (1980), the United States Supreme Court considered a FOIA request for the raw data underlying a study conducted by a private medical research organization. Although a federal agency funded the study, the data was generated and possessed by the private company, and it never passed into the hands of the federal agency. The United States Supreme Court found the fact that the study was financially supported by a FOIA-covered government agency did not transform the data into "agency records"; nor did the agency's right of access to the materials under federal regulations change the result. The United States Supreme Court explained that "FOIA applies to records which have been in fact obtained, and not to records which merely could have been obtained." Id., 445 U.S. at 186 (emphasis in original). In denying the FOIA claim, the United States Supreme Court explained that federal funds do not convert a private organization into an "agency" for purposes of the FOIA without "extensive, detailed, and virtually day-to-day supervision" by the agency of the private organization. Id., 445

U.S. at 180. Of course, nothing of the sort has been alleged here; and in general, the notion that “Cyber Ninjas Inc.” is so intertwined with the government as to be a “government agency” is meritless. Ultimately, the Supreme Court held that “[w]ith due regard for the policies and language of the FOIA, we conclude that data generated by a privately controlled organization which has received grant funds from an agency ... but which data has not at any time been obtained by the agency, are not ‘agency records’ accessible under the FOIA. Without first establishing that the agency has created or obtained the document, the agency’s reliance on or use of the document is similarly irrelevant.” Id., 445 U.S. at 170. Again, the case at bar contains no allegation that CNI holds any records that were generated by the Senate, or that CNI exclusively holds any records created by the Senate; and while there has also been no allegation that the Senate “relied on” CNI’s records, such an allegation would be “irrelevant” anyway. Id.

The other closely-related FOIA decision discussed by this Court in Salt River (Ciba–Geigy Corp. v. Matthews) is very much on-point. It concerned a private group of researchers (called the “UGDP”) who applied for and received federal grants to conduct diabetes studies. Ciba, 428 F.Supp. at 532. Under federal regulations, the UGDP was required to submit interim and final reports to the government and to allow the government “access” to their raw data; but the Ciba court noted that the government customarily relied on the UGDP’s reports rather than accessing the underlying data. The plaintiff questioned “the manner in which the UGDP [handled its own] raw data,” as well as “the accuracy of the results reported,” so the plaintiff made a FOIA request for the UGDP’s underlying data and claimed that the data was a public record (or “agency record,” in FOIA parlance). Id., 428 F. Supp. at 526. On a familiar note, the plaintiff made three arguments: first, that the UGDP was a “de facto federal agency and that its records are therefore agency records”; second, that “even if the UGDP is not a federal agency in itself, it nevertheless served as an extension of a federal agency” (essentially an “agent” argument); and third, that even if those arguments failed then the “disclosure of [UGDP’s] records may still be compelled if those records can be characterized as Government agency records.” Id., 428 F. Supp. at 526.

The Ciba court rejected all three arguments. First the court held that even though the UGDP received public funding, it was not an “agency.” Id. To reach this decision the court looked at obvious factors like “whether the organization has the authority in law to perform the decision-making functions of a federal agency and whether its organizational structure and daily operations are subject to substantial federal control.” Id., 428 F. Supp. at 527. With respect to the plaintiff’s other two arguments, the court disposed of them by finding that the plaintiff had not proven that “the records were either Government-owned or subject to substantial Government control or use. In other words, it must appear that there was significant Government involvement with the records themselves in order to deem them agency records.” Id., 428 F. Supp. at 529. The Ciba court held “that federal funding, regardless of amount, [was] not sufficient to vest the underlying raw data of the UGDP research with a public character. To hold otherwise at a time when public monies flow to numerous private endeavors would surely have a chilling effect on [them]...” Id., 428 F. Supp. at 530. The Ciba court also found that “Government access to and reliance upon” the data did not mean that the government owned or “controlled” it. Id. The Ciba court logically explained that “[a]lthough the federal defendants have access to the underlying data, there is no evidence that they have used it to exercise regular dominion and control over the raw data.” Id., 428 F. Supp. at 530–31. “Mere access without ownership and mere reliance without control will not suffice to convert the UGDP data into agency data.” Id. “Just as the Government cannot be compelled to obtain possession of documents not under its control or furnish an opinion when none is written, it should not be compelled to acquire data it neither referred to directly nor relied upon in making decisions.” Id., 428 F. Supp. at 531. “The distinction between direct reliance, in whole or in part, upon a summary report and direct reliance (via usage or control) on supporting documentation is necessary to preserve a salutary balance between the public’s right to be informed of the grounds for Government decision-making and the protection of private interests.” Id., 428 F. Supp. at 532.

In other words, while the Senate has received CNI’s report—which is undisputedly a public record—the Senate does not own or control CNI’s company records even though its records may relate to the final audit report (and even if, in some sense, the Senate has “relied” on CNI’s records because the records support the final audit report. According to the United States Supreme Court, this is “irrelevant.”) For example, PNI has asked for all of CNI’s communications regarding this audit, including subcontractors specifically. This would include things like CNI’s internal emails discussing issues with its ability to perform under the contract, discussing its relationship with the Senate, and evaluating the performance of its own subcontractors or issues with their performance, etc. In PNI’s universe, CNI must not only produce such emails to the Senate but must make them public. Not only is this patently unfair, but it runs against common sense and is legally baseless. The foregoing are not “public records” by any stretch of the imagination, nor do they meet any intellectually honest legal definition.

Finally, the award of attorneys’ fees against CNI not only demonstrates how unfair and impossible it will be for CNI to deal with these kinds of requests and suits in the future, but it also lacks a genuine statutory basis. The Court of Appeals’ reasoning on this point (as expressed in the case of Arpaio v. Citizen Pub. Co., 221 Ariz. 130, 211 P.3d 8 (App. 2008)) seems to be that although the statute expressly says that only public officers and public bodies can be sued (A.R.S. § 39– 121.02(A)), the statute does not repeat the same language in the subsection that immediately follows it regarding attorneys' fees (A.R.S. § 39–121.02(B)). The subsection regarding attorneys' fees (A.R.S. § 39–121.02(B)) must be read in conjunction with the previous subsection regarding who can be sued (A.R.S. § 39–121.02(A)) to say that fees awards are authorized only against the public body or public officer. This is consistent with the general rule that fees may only be awarded where expressly authorized by statute and the general public policy here of not overburdening government employees and especially contractors who do not have “free” lawyers in the Attorney General’s Office or taxpayer-funded public-records/legal budgets. Also, whereas the Arpaio case involved claims for declaratory judgment that were asserted against a public officer (Arpaio), this case involves only unfounded public-records claims against a private entity—CNI.

The bottom line here is that CNI is clearly not a proper party to be sued under the public records statute; none of the records at issue are public records because the Government does not own much less possess them, and the Court of Appeals’ decision opens up every single contractor and employee of the government to being sued. None of this makes any legal or practical sense and there is no way that any state contractor could reasonably deal with any of this. The Court must grant review because of the obvious and far-reaching issues involved in this case, inter alia.

6. Additional Argument Arising out of the Contempt Order (and Subsequent Orders)

The judge's sanction of $50,000 was clearly punitive in nature and therefore improper in a civil contempt proceeding. The Plaintiff had asked for sanctions of only $1,000 to $2,000 a day; the $50,000 number was equal to the entire amount of money that the Senate paid CNI for its contract. The judge also ordered it sua sponte with zero advance warning to CNI of the basis for his order or of the amount that was in his head. The amount was clearly intended to be punitive and not remedial; and of course in awarding it the lower court violated basic guarantees of due process, much less the level of due process and burden of proof required for a punitive criminal sanction. Further, and as explained in the Motion to Disqualify, the judge decided on the $50,000 based on news reports claiming that CNI had taken in "millions of dollars," which he failed to disclose to the parties – much less disclose that he had read – or to give the parties any opportunity to rebut the report(s) before basing his contempt decision on them.² See e.g. Riley v. Superior Ct. In & For Cochise Cty., 124 Ariz. 498, 500, 605 P.2d 900, 902 (Ct. App. 1979)(discussing constitutional due process requirements and standard of proof for criminal contempt); Stoddard v. Donahoe, 224 Ariz. 152, 155, 228 P.3d 144, 147

² Of course, if the judge had disclosed that, then CNI would have responded at the minimum with an explanation of how "profit" works – i.e. that simply because CNI collected and then paid out millions in dollars for the cost an audit does not mean that CNI made money.

(App. 2010)(discussing that criminal contempt is distinguished by the nature of the sanctions imposed in light of the totality of the surrounding circumstances and nature of the proceedings). The judge’s other conduct during the hearing (“smiling” about a previous motion to disqualify him, by his own admission) also raised grave concerns about whether the contempt order was in fact based on a prior motion to disqualify him, in direct violation of A.R.S. § 12-410 (providing that a judge may not retaliate against a party for filing a motion to disqualify by finding them in contempt). Finally, in the days following the hearing, CNI discovered that the judge had been reading the news/conducting extrajudicial investigations and that he had made extensive and improper political contributions that were not disclosed to the parties, including to group(s) that are active in opposing the audit. This alone warrants vacating his order, pursuant to cases like Kay S. v. Mark S., 213 Ariz. 373, 380, 142 P.3d 249, 256 (Ct. App. 2006), as amended (Nov. 9, 2006)(discussing when a judgment should be vacated or reconsidered due to the reasonable perception of judicial impropriety); see also Ariz. R. Sup.Ct. 81, Canon 2 (Commentary (Canon 2A)(1993)). By ordering sanctions, the judge not only summarily ignored/denied CNI’s arguments regarding the government’s lack of ownership, possession and use of the records but also denied CNI’s argument that it cannot process the Plaintiff's records request due to its volume³ and that the Senate must bear that expense. Even if CNI were subject to public-records law and even if its company records actually were public records, the government (i.e. the Senate) should be compelled to bear the substantial expense of document review and production. As it stands, CNI is in a legal "purgatory" that was clearly never within the contemplation of public-records law, where it is being treated as a taxpayer-funded public agency even though it is totally unfunded, and its records are being treated as government records even though the government has never owned, possessed, or even used them.

Finally, in Orders dated March 2nd and March 4th, the judge who sua sponte consolidated the cases below (mooting out the Motion to Disqualify) issued orders in which he declined to disturb the prior judge's rulings. In the Orders, he ³ CNI contends that due to the breadth of the Plaintiff's records request (and Plaintiff's proposed keyword search), it cannot respond to Plaintiff's request without manually culling through tens of thousands of emails, at an estimated expense of tens of thousands of dollars. And if CNI simply produced all of the emails in the company system – whether related to the Senate contract or not – then it would violate CNI's nondisclosure agreements on other unrelated work, as this was not its only contract and its emails of course relate to other company work. Efforts to narrow down the scope of the Plaintiff's request also failed, because the Plaintiff and the lower court simply hold the attitude that the government should not charge for processing records requests, and that CNI is the government (which it is not). The Senate is also unwilling to help; in fact failed to pay the $100K balance of CNI's $150K contract and then declared that it will simply produce to the public any further disclosures made to it by CNI, without any further review (except at most a keyword search of its own to e.g. filter out attorney-client emails).

specifically found “the issue of ownership or actual possession irrelevant” and that CNI’s contract with the Senate – which specifically provided that CNI’s own records were its own⁴ – “carries no weight.” The judge reinforced the Court of Appeals’ decision that any documents “with a substantial nexus to the audit” are “public records,” even if not owned or possessed by the Senate. The trial court judge further noted that CNI’s contract with the Senate contains clauses related to “data retention” and the duty to provide “reasonable cooperation” to the other party in the event that they are subject to a claim regarding the Agreement (or actions taken pursuant to the agreement), and that as part of those clauses CNI agreed to make documents available to the Senate if and as “reasonably necessary” for the defense of third-party claims. Of course, it is circuitous (and therefore “unreasonable”) for a court to apply this clause to render all of CNI’s records public, simply because someone sued alleging that they are public—much less to order the Senate to obtain them and make them public records—but that appears to be exactly the lower court’s intent. Moreover, even if applicable, these provisions of the the contract would at most grant the Senate a right to access CNI’s records – not ownership or possession of them. “Government access to and reliance upon information” do “not signify Government ownership or control of such information.” Ciba-Geigy Corp., 428 F. Supp. at 530. “Mere access without ownership and mere reliance without control will not suffice to convert [private] data into agency data.” Id. The public records statute simply does not grant individual members of the public the right to sue government agencies (much less private companies) and force them to obtain ownership or possession of records (much less private records) that they do not already have or own. The public record statute merely grants members of the public the right to “walk into” a government office and inspect what is already there – and even then, members of the public cannot inspect things that the government does not own (but happens to possess), as this Court already decided in Salt River. Not only is this far beyond the scope of the public-records statute, but it also implicates a clear separation-of-powers problem when the court orders the executive or legislative branch to obtain possession or ownership of something, as well as Fourth and Fourteenth Amendment concerns since the “something” happens to belong to a private entity. In Nichols v. United States, 325 F. Supp. 130, 135 (D. Kan. 1971), aff’d, 460 F.2d 671 (10th Cir. 1972), the court found that it lacked the authority to even command one branch of the government to obtain documents from another branch under public records law, much less to command the government to obtain private records. This is in accord with decisions like N. L. R. B. v. Sears, Roebuck & Co., 421 U.S. 132, 95 S. Ct. 1504, 44 L. Ed. 2d 29 (1975), holding that the government cannot be required to produce or create documents in response to a FOIA request; because in the same way that public-records law does not grant members of the public a right to force the government to create records, it does not grant them a right to compel ownership or possession either. This is especially true when such ownership or possession is not grounded in any genuine or reasonable interpretation of contract or property law, as is the case here.⁵

7. If the party claims attorneys’ fees on appeal or in connection with a petition or cross-petition for review, the party must include the information required by Rule 21(a).

None.

⁵ So as not to waive other issues under the contract: the “sharing of defense materials” clause in Section 18.5 also only applies to claims regarding the Agreement or a party’s actions taken pursuant to the Agreement; but the Senate’s obligations (vel non) under public-records law exist independent of the Agreement and arise under A.R.S. §§ 39-121 et seq. Further, the materials are clearly not needed for the “defense” of any claim by the Senate per se, but rather the materials themselves are being sought by the plaintiffs as a prayer for relief on the claim. Section 18.5 also requires “reasonable cooperation” with the Senate on the sharing of defense materials only if it is at no expense to CNI. The wide-ranging requests for production of documents at issue here are not undertakings without expense, and therefore no obligation under Section 18.5 is triggered. Finally, Section 15.4 – which similarly provides for the sharing of defense materials when either party’s indemnity duties are triggered – does not apply because the indemnity clause is narrowly limited to claims inapplicable here, namely claims for bodily injury; breach of contract; or certain intellectual-property claims.

RESPECTFULLY SUBMITTED March 7, 2022.

O R D E R

On January 6, 2022, Cyber Ninjas Inc., ("CNI") filed an "Emergency Application for Stay/Motion for Enforcement of This Court's Order."

On December 1, 2021, the Court issued an Order en banc denying CNI's stay request and indicating "CNI may therefore assert any pertinent objections in the Superior Court and, if necessary, seek appropriate review in the Court of Appeals." This order pertained to CNI's request to stay the production of documents to the Senate and, in conjunction with the Senate, to produce privilege logs and present documents for in camera review in the ongoing proceedings.

The Court's January 5, 2022 denial of CNI's Petition for Review was without prejudice to raising these issues on appeal when the case before the superior court is final.

The Court takes no position on any pending contempt proceedings that are not before the Court. However, this Court's orders should not be interpreted to prohibit CNI from seeking appropriate relief in the Court of Appeals from any trial court order. Therefore, upon consideration of the Court en banc,

IT IS ORDERED denying the Emergency Application for Stay without prejudice to seeking relief in the Court of Appeals from any superior court order as appropriate under the Rules of Procedure for Special Actions or as a proper appeal.

DATED this 6th day of January, 2022.

Case No.: LC2021-00180-001

CNI'S RESPONSE TO MOTION FOR CONTEMPT

(Assigned to Judge John H. Hannah Jr.)

Cyber Ninjas, Inc. ("CNI") hereby responds to Phoenix Newspapers, Inc.'s ("PNI's") latest Motion for Contempt.

1 This is the fourth time¹ that PNI has accused CNI of contempt as this case works its way
2 through the appellate courts and remains subject to appellate-court orders and jurisdiction
3 (pursuant to basic and fundamental due process rights that should be afforded to every litigant).
4 Most recently (on December 1st), the Arizona Supreme Court issued an en banc Order which 5 provides, in relevant part:

6 CNI contends that “its records are not public as a matter of law because the government
7 does not own or control them, much less rely on or even have access to them.” CNI objects 8 to producing “its own internal emails regarding performance of its contract or related 9 matters.” CNI challenges the Court of Appeals’ finding[:] “To the extent Cyber Ninjas is 10 in sole possession of audit-related public records because of its contract with the Senate, 11 cyber Ninjas has become the custodian of those records under the PRL. And as to those 12 records, Cyber Ninjas has assumed the obligations the PRL assigns to a ‘custodian’ of 13 public records.”

14 Respondent PNI filed a response to the Application for Stay pointing out that under the 15 superior court order, CNI is not required to produce documents directly to PNI but is 16 instead required to produce documents to the Senate and, in conjunction with the Senate,
17 may confer regarding which public records, if any “should be withheld based on a 18 purported privilege or for any other legal reason.” CNI may therefore assert any pertinent 19 objections in the Superior Court and, if necessary, seek appropriate review in the Court of 20 Appeals.

21 (Emphasis added, internal citations omitted.)

22 Because the Supreme Court has chosen to clarify CNI’s present obligations in this matter—
23 en banc, no less – this Court must again conduct itself in such a way as not to “interfere with the 24 jurisdiction or orders of the appellate court.” 4 C.J.S. Appeal and Error § 509; see also Castillo v.
25 Indus. Comm’n, 21 Ariz. App. 465, 467, 520 P.2d 1142, 1144 (1974)(an appellate proceeding for 26 the review of incidental or interlocutory orders divests the Court of jurisdiction “with respect to 27 matters directly involved in, or the subject of, the appellate proceeding”). The Supreme Court has 28 ordered that CNI “may confer with the Senate” regarding records that CNI is withholding and the reasons therefor, and assert its objections in this Court—which is exactly what it has done. On ¹ For the record, CNI did respond to the latest (third) motion for contempt orally during the last hearing. The Court decided to hold a hearing on the third motion before the time to file a written response had even come up, which it is doing again here. The Court also denied request(s) to order the parties to meet and confer regarding further disputes.

1 December 16, 2021, CNI sent a letter to the Senate listing individual categories of records that it
2 is withholding, even using this Court’s broad definition of “substantial nexus” as essentially
3 anything related to the audit in any way, and the reasons therefor. The letter is attached Exhibit
4 “A” hereto and incorporated as if set forth herein. Several categories were identified that do not
5 (and have never) existed, so CNI has nothing to withhold. Otherwise, the basis for withholding
6 included that the records are privately-owned; and because CNI is not a taxpayer-funded agency
7 with the ability to search and/or review its records “for free” (nor does it have a “free” lawyer in 8 the form of the Attorney General’s Office),² CNI gave estimated fees for searching, reviewing 9 and editing (redacting) each category. Of note, recently (within the last month) the Senate refused
10 to pay the $100,000 balance on CNI’s ($150,000) contract, or to pay for/reimburse its ongoing 11 legal fees in this or any other matter. Even the federal government charges substantial search-and-
12 review fees for records production; and requiring CNI to do so without compensation amounts to
14 City of Phoenix, 228 Ariz. 393, 397, 267 P.3d 1185, 1189 (Ct. App. 2011); see also Hodai v. City
15 of Tucson, 239 Ariz. 34, 43, 365 P.3d 959, 968 (Ct. App. 2016); London v. Broderick, 206 Ariz.
16 490, ¶ 9, 80 P.3d 769, 772 (2003); Arpaio v. Davis, 221 Ariz. 116, ¶¶ 21–22, 210 P.3d 1287, 1292

18 ² Defendant has argued that its private records are not public records since its very first filing in 19 the case, even under the accelerated briefing schedule that this Court ordered. From pages 5 and 20 6 of CNI’s Response to Plaintiff’s Application for Order to Show Cause:

21 Given the broadness of Plaintiff’s requests (especially the request for “all financial 22 records” and all communications with subcontractors and the Senate, etc.), 23 Defendant also asserts a privacy interest in its own private records and 24 communications, which are not “public records.” Public records do not include 25 documents “of a purely private or personal nature.” Griffis v. Pinal Cty., 215 Ariz.
26 1, 4, 156 P.3d 418, 421 (2007)....

27 ... Defendants can only hope to identify generally the issues of fact at this stage.
28 But they include...whether any given document is of a purely private or confidential nature...

[In conclusion,] Defendant objects that Plaintiff’s requests must be denied because...they call for privileged and purely private documents.

1 (App.2009). Undersigned counsel attempted to discuss and resolve this issue with both Plaintiffs’
2 counsel and the Senate’s counsel weeks ago, but the Senate’s unwillingness to pay –coupled with 3 what seems to be Plaintiffs’ impression of this Court’s eagerness to hear motions for contempt –
4 frustrated counsel’s attempts to resolve the matter.

5 Undersigned counsel reminds the Court of a pending motion to withdraw because CNI has 6 not paid legal fees. The Court’s latest Order issued Thursday January 30th has been transmitted to 7 Cyber Ninjas’ former CEO. Undersigned counsel understands that CNI is preparing to file for 8 bankruptcy.

9 Finally, as of 11:44 AM today (half an hour ago as of this writing on January 5), the 10 Supreme Court issued a Minute Entry which states:

11 ORDERED: Petition for Special Action, or in the Alternative Petition for Review =
12 DENIED without prejudice to raising these issues on appeal when the case before 13 the superior court is final.

14 (Emphasis added.)

15 In light of this and the December 1st Order, it is apparent that the Supreme Court expects 16 this Court to clearly and finally rule (with Rule 54(b) language, presumably) on CNI’s reasons for 17 withholding individual categories of documents – including CNI’s objection that the documents
18 are privately-owned and burdensome to produce without being paid. This serves to create a clean
19 record for appeal and/or frankly a clean order for CNI to follow. In the Supreme Court’s eyes, to 20 date this Court has strictly just ordered a “privilege log” (of sorts) for any documents that CNI
21 withholds from the Senate (listing “any...legal reason” for withholding). CNI has complied with 22 this order and is in compliance with all court orders to date. If the Court decides to deny its 23 objections and issue a final judgment to that effect then there is at once a “final” ruling in the eyes
24 of the Supreme Court and a clean order for CNI to follow and/or appeal.

Re: Superior Court Case No. LC2021-000180-001; Court of Appeals Case No. 1
CA-SA 21-0173; Arizona Supreme Court Case No. CV-21-0281-PR

Cyber Ninjas, Inc. ("CNI") is in receipt of the Order dated December 1, 2021 by the Arizona Supreme Court in the above-numbered Petition. The Order states in relevant part: "...under the [August 24, 2021] superior court order, CNI is not required to produce documents directly to PNI but is instead required to produce documents to the Senate and, in conjunction with the Senate, may confer regarding which public records, if any 'should be withheld based on a purported privilege or for any other legal [sic] reason.' CNI may therefore assert any pertinent objections in the Superior Court and, if necessary, seek appropriate review in the Court of Appeals." The Supreme Court's Order does not address the requirement vel non for CNI to produce a "privilege log."

CNI is also in receipt of Judge Hannah's Minute Entry dated November 30, 2021 which ordered "that the Cyber Ninjas immediately begin complying with the court's previous order to produce what has been termed a 'privilege log,' though that is a bit of a misnomer because the log must enumerate and describe not only records for which a privilege is claimed but also audit related records that Cyber Ninjas contends are not public records...." Judge Hannah's Order also stated that "the process of disclosing to PNI those records that Cyber Ninjas deems to be public records must proceed immediately, along with the process of creating the privilege log."

CNI believes that any order for it to produce documents directly to PNI has been effectively stayed/overruled by the Arizona Supreme Court. However, this issue is presently moot, because CNI has no documents to produce to either the Senate or to PNI. In a good-faith effort to weave together these competing orders from the superior court and Supreme Court, and to comply with all of them as best it can, CNI hereby produces a "privilege log" which enumerates and describes the records that it is withholding. The records described were (1) requested by the Plaintiff in its public records request; and (2) are related to the audit. Since the Plaintiff's requests appear to have been limited to documents related to the audit, these two categories are simply merged into documents that the Plaintiff has requested. For each subcategory of records that Plaintiff has requested, CNI describes why it is withholding the records.

Finally, CNI acknowledges that this log contains general subcategories of documents and does not list each and every document within the category. CNI simply does not have the money to make a more detailed log. The Senate has failed and refused to pay CNI for the balance of CNI’s contract, which came due and amounted to $100,000. And as the Senate indicated during the last hearing, the Senate has no intention of paying CNI anything further – including reimbursing CNI’s legal costs in this matter, CNI’s costs to produce records, or CNI’s costs related to producing detailed logs. CNI receives no taxpayer funding to comply with records requests, nor does CNI have a “free” lawyer in the form of the Arizona Attorney General’s Office to provide counsel on such requests. CNI is an insolvent private company and the requested records are all clearly private records. The idea that CNI has a legal obligation to respond to public records requests from the public – seeking what are clearly private documents that the government does not even own – continues to be transparently erroneous not just as a legal matter but as a practical and economic one. If someone wants to pay CNI to do more work on this then that certainly helps but presently all parties are refusing to do so and the Court is indicating no genuine intent to make anyone do so. The Court has no right to compel CNI to work for the government or for others for free, in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment, much less to compel CNI to produce private documents to a public body without probable cause in violation of the 4th and 14th Amendments and the privacy clause of the Arizona Constitution, inter alia.

Please note below the anticipated cost of production for each requested item, which is based on typical rates for FOIA production costs. Even if the public records statutes applied to CNI, then CNI is entitled to such costs because it is not a public officer or body and therefore entitled to decide its own rates. The government and the courts have no right to force any particular rate on CNI, much less to force it do work for free. In addition all of the following items are subject to the general objection that the names of volunteers and other staff is private and must be kept private because CNI promised this to them, as well as because of the security risk in “doxxing” them and the fact that there is zero legitimate public interest in that information (much less any of the private documents and information listed below) that would outweigh these concerns or other including the burden of production. Because CNI is not being paid to review these items in even more detail, it reserves the right to assert more particular objections to each specific item if and when it is ever paid to compile such a list. All previous objections including those asserted in its July 27, 2021 filing are re-asserted herein.

MOTION TO DISQUALIFY

Judge John H. Hannah Jr.)

...

1 Pursuant to Rule 42.2, Cyber Ninjas, Inc. (“CNI”) hereby moves to disqualify judicial officer
2 John Hannah from this action for cause, based on information discovered during a January 6th, 2022
3 hearing as well as in public-records searches conducted by undersigned counsel the following day and 4 the weekend of January 8th.

5 Relevant Ethical Rules

6 Rule 2.9(A) and Rule 2.9(C) governing ex parte communications and extrajudicial
7 investigations are implicated, as well as Rules governing political activities by a judge including but 8 not limited to 1.2, 2.11, 2.3, 2.4, 3.1, and 4.1 of the Arizona Code of Judicial Conduct (referred to 9 herein as the “ACJC” or “Canon”).

10 General Factual Background

11 What follows is a general factual background. The facts that undersigned counsel recently 12 discovered, and which directly give rise to the instant Motion, are contained in the next section.

13 CNI is registered as a for-profit Florida corporation.¹ In 2021, the Arizona Senate contracted 14 CNI to produce an audit report regarding the 2020 election. CNI’s former CEO is named Douglas 15 Logan. In the instant action, Plaintiff Phoenix Newspapers Inc. dba The Arizona Republic sued CNI, 16 originally contending that CNI was a public agency subject to public records law and seeking various 17 audit-related documents belonging to CNI. The suit was filed on June 30, 2021.

18 At the beginning of this suit, CNI moved to disqualify Judge John Hannah for cause. The 19 grounds were that before being assigned to this action, Judge Hannah had made a sua sponte negative
20 comment about the Senate audit in an unrelated case to which CNI was not a party, Case No. CV2020-
21 014553. In that case, the Arizona Republican Party had asked Judge Hannah to order that Maricopa 22 County redo its post-election “hand-count” of ballots, based on a violation of the statutory process for 23 performing the hand-count. In general, the Judge’s orders and conduct in that case showed an 24 unacceptable degree of intemperance. In a lengthy ruling, he claimed that he was being “gas-lighted,”
25 called the Republican Party’s arguments “sophistry,” and sanctioned the Republican Party and its

27 ¹ This Motion is supported by the Declaration of John D. Wilenchik, Esq. attached hereto (the “Declaration”).

1 undersigned counsel in a decision that remains under appeal.³ At no time did Judge Hannah disclose
2 any actual or potential conflict or bias with respect to him serving as the judicial officer on the case.
3 CNI’s prior Motion to Disqualify was denied on the grounds that “[t]he matters alleged in the 4 Motion—including Judge Hannah’s ruling in prior litigation—do not show bias and prejudice that 5 would disqualify Judge Hannah from ruling in this public records matter.” A request to disqualify him
6 without cause that was made as part of the same Motion was also denied. CNI chose not to appeal the 7 motion to disqualify for cause.

8 Subsequently, Judge Hannah strongly signaled to all parties in the initial hearings on this matter
9 that he would be granting the Plaintiff’s claims. He signed a lengthy Order that Plaintiff’s counsel
10 wrote and first presented him with immediately before a hearing that he scheduled only weeks after 11 service of the suit, granting Plaintiff’s claims. In part, Judge Hannah ruled that CNI is a public 12 agency/officer. On appeal, the Court of Appeals declined to adopt Judge Hannah’s reasoning but 13 accepted a new argument that was independently raised by the Plaintiff on appeal. CNI appealed the 14 decision to the Arizona Supreme Court, which subsequently issued a series of en banc orders
15 including an order acknowledging that the Order Judge Hannah signed (and from which CNI 16 appealed) expressly allowed for CNI to withhold documents; and therefore “CNI may...assert any 17 pertinent objections [under which documents are being withheld] in the Superior Court and, if 18 necessary, seek appropriate review in the Court of Appeals.” On January 5th, the Supreme Court

20 ³ The negative comment about the audit was contained in footnote 3 of his final Ruling in the case: “The Court is aware 21 that Judge Thomason has affirmed the authority of State Senate officials to compel Maricopa County to produce the 22 materials associated with the 2020 election, including tabulation devices, software and ballots, for the avowed purposes
23 of ‘assessing electoral integrity’ and ‘examining potential reforms to the electoral process’ and apparently also ‘to 24 determine if the result of the Arizona election was correct and to see if there was a further basis to challenge the election
25 outcome.’ Maricopa County v. Fann, Maricopa County Superior Court No. CV2020-016840, Order entered
26 02/25/2021. This Court, like Judge Thomason, expresses no view on the wisdom of that endeavor. It is enough to note
27 that the appropriate forum in which to advocate more exacting scrutiny of the electoral process is the legislature, not 28 the courts.” Judge Hannah made this comment sua sponte, as no party had raised the Senate audit or Judge Thomason’s ruling(s) in the case. Judge Hannah’s language – including describing the purposes of the audit as “avowed” and “apparent[.]” – expressed skepticism of the audit, and there was no reason to mention the “wisdom” of the “endeavor” other than to express doubt about whether it was wise. The comment also strongly indicated that Judge Hannah felt a personal political interest in these matters and was independently investigating/reading news reports about them, as the Senate audit was not raised by any party and was not involved in the case.

1 denied CNI's petition for review "without prejudice to raising these issues on appeal when the case
2 before the superior court is final."

3 Despite these strong indications that the Supreme Court believed CNI was still entitled to raise
4 objections to production of documents until Judge Hannah issued a final order, Judge Hannah went
5 ahead and set an evidentiary hearing on January 6th at which he found CNI in contempt and began
6 fining it $50,000 a day for alleged noncompliance with his Order(s). He declined to enter a final order
7 or rule on CNI's objections before finding it in contempt. The Judge set the hearing for January 6th
8 without consulting anyone's calendars, suggesting that it was a deliberate choice of date.⁴

9 At the beginning of the January 6th hearing, Judge Hannah made a comment that "I do not 10 believe I've had a more important case in 16 years I've been on the bench, because this case goes to 11 the legitimacy of the process that creates the government that I serve."⁵ Given the objectively narrow 12 public-records issues in this case, counsel interpreted this comment to be of a political nature. The 13 issues before Judge Hannah are primarily whether CNI's private records – consisting almost entirely 14 of the company's privately-owned emails/communications – are "public records," and who is going
15 to pay for the cost of searching/editing/producing them on its behalf. During the hearing, counsel 16 argued in part that the records were not government-owned but also that the company lacked the 17 money to pay for records review because the Senate failed to pay the $100K balance of its $150K
18 contract; the review would cost around $60K; and the company is in debt and laid off all of its 19 employees. (Unlike an actual public agency that is genuinely subject to public records requests, CNI 20 is not taxpayer-funded.) Judge Hannah's response was to sanction CNI $50K a day for non-
21 production, which showed no genuine intent to address these issues. The fine was also fifty times
22 what the Plaintiff requested, and equal to the entire amount of money that CNI had received under its 23 contract with the Senate.

24 Specific Factual Basis for Motion

25 During the January 6th hearing, Judge Hannah asked undersigned counsel sua sponte about 26 ⁴ See Declaration, paragraph 18.

27 ⁵ See hearing audio at the 6:47 mark (six minutes, 47 seconds in), found at <https://bit.ly/3Fhc9Z1>

1 whether CNI's former CEO Douglas Logan had appeared for a January 5th deposition that was noticed
2 by the Plaintiff in another action. (American Oversight v. Senate et al., CV2021008265, the "A.O.
3 case.") That Notice of Deposition, including the date of the deposition, was not part of the record in 4 this case, and had not been mentioned by any party to this case. (Normally in state court, a Notice of 5 Deposition is not a part of the record at all.) However, on December 16th, the Plaintiff in that case
6 ("American Oversight") issued a press release about the date of the deposition,⁵ which was reported
7 on by news media including the Plaintiff in this case (The Arizona Republic).⁶ Undersigned counsel
8 asked Judge Hannah how he knew about the deposition, and whether he had been reading news about 9 the case. This was an important and proper question, because the canon of judicial ethics provides that 10 judicial officers are to promptly notify parties of ex parte communications and "shall not investigate
11 facts in a matter independently"; and in the event that a judge receives or considers factual information
12 that is outside of the record and/or ex parte, then the judge must also identify the source and substance
13 of the information and give the parties an opportunity to respond. ACJC 2.9(A)(1)(b); 2.9(A)(3); 14 2.9(B), (C). Judge Hannah hesitated for some time before responding: "Um...the uh, record in another 15 case is, uh, subject to judicial notice." A link to the audio of this exchange is at <https://bit.ly/3fcLpyr>.
16 (The exchange occurs at one hour, twenty-four minutes and twenty-five seconds [1:24:25] into the 17 full audio of the hearing.) Later in the same hearing, Judge Hannah also stated:

18 The Court is aware from the record in this case that Cyber Ninjas agreed to 19 undertake this work for $150,000. The Court is also aware from the record that 20 Cyber Ninjas took in several million dollars from various sources that it says helped pay for this task.

21 (See audio recording starting at 1:52:30; in particular 1:52:43 – 1:53:35 quoted above.) Judge
22 Hannah then stated that he was awarding sanctions of $50,000 based on this information, because he
23 felt that Cyber Ninjas had received "several million dollars" and therefore anything less than $50,000
24 would be "grossly insufficient."

25 Undersigned counsel and his staff have diligently searched the record in this case for any 26

27 ⁵<https://bit.ly/3K15uG2>

28 ⁶<https://bit.ly/3r7amRb>

1 allegation that “Cyber Ninjas took in several million dollars from various sources” and have been
2 unable to find it. This was however also reported on by The Arizona Republic, in a news story dated
3 November 2, 2021.⁸ Judge Hannah did not identify the source or substance of this information before
4 using it to make his findings in direct support of contempt, nor did he give CNI an opportunity to 5 respond before doing so.

6 Out of candor to the Court—and after an intense and costly search of the record not just in this
7 matter, but also the American Oversight case—it appears that the Plaintiff in the American Oversight
8 case filed a lengthy (41 page) Objection to undersigned counsel’s motion for withdrawal in that matter
9 on December 27th; and in a footnote, it mentioned the allegation that CNI had received millions of 10 dollars. American Oversight also attached a copy of its Notice of Deposition to the Objection, all of 11 which was filed with Judge Kemp but not Judge Hannah. If this was Judge Hannah’s source of the 12 information—a footnote/exhibit to an objection to a motion to withdraw filed in another case over the 13 holidays—then at the minimum he needed to disclose this and give the parties an opportunity to 14 respond before using it as a basis to rule. Instead, he refused to identify the source or substance of the 15 information, even when questioned about it.

16 Earlier during the same hearing,⁹ Judge Hannah also openly commented on CNI’s prior motion
17 to disqualify him.¹⁰ Judge Hannah made comments indicating he thought CNI’s defenses (which are 18 essentially that CNI is not a public “officer” or “public agency” under public records law; that private 19 records in a private company are not public records; and that CNI lacks the money to review and 20 produce them) were in bad faith and groundless, and he broadly signaled that he intends to sanction it

22 ⁸ <https://bit.ly/3FkY4cW>

23 ⁹ Undersigned counsel promptly requested a transcript of the January 6th hearing but was informed on Monday January
24 10th that an expedited transcript will not be available for another 10 (ten) days, i.e. until January 24th. (The transcript
25 order has been placed.) In the meantime, Judge Hannah set another hearing for Friday January 21st at which he indicated
26 that he intends to consider issuing additional “personal” sanctions of some kind. In the interests of justice, CNI must 27 therefore file this Motion without an official transcript. Relevant portions have been excerpted from the audio and are 28 linked herein, and a recording of the entire hearing is available through this link: <https://bit.ly/3fcLpyr>.

29 ¹⁰ Judge Hannah’s decision to sua sponte comment on the Motion to Disqualify filed six months earlier is troubling for 30 a number of reasons. Among them is that A.R.S. § 12-410 provides that a judge may not retaliate against a party for 31 filing a motion to disqualify through a finding of contempt.

1 and its counsel for even raising them. Undersigned counsel noted for the record that Judge Hannah
2 was smiling during counsel's argument. In response, Judge Hannah stated that he was smiling because 3 "I'm thinking of the accusations against me that you made in the motion to recuse me for cause that 4 you did not appeal, which you did not appeal the denial [of], where you said that I'm biased against 5 conservatives and on information and belief a Democrat. I smile every time I think about it because 6 I'm not a Democrat." (A link to this audio is at <https://bit.ly/3KdTfWO>. It occurs 12 minutes, thirty-
7 one seconds into the full hearing audio.) Undersigned counsel pointed out that Judge Hannah did not 8 deny having a bias against conservatives and the hearing moved on.

9 On the following day (January 7th), undersigned counsel first received information¹¹ that Judge
10 Hannah has made 18 separate contributions to political candidates and PAC's at the federal level alone
11 in between October 2017 and September 2020. This is an unusual level of political activity for most 12 people, much less a superior court judge. In fact out of the one hundred sixty-one (161) sitting 13 Maricopa County Superior Court judges and commissioners, only six (excluding Judge Hannah) have 14 made any reported federal political contributions since 2011. He was also one of only four 15 judges/commissioners to contribute to a presidential campaign in 2020. (To the best of undersigned
16 counsel's knowledge, none of the four judges who contributed to a presidential campaign presided
17 over a case concerning the 2020 election other than Judge Hannah.) Since 2011, Judge Hannah has 18 made more than three times the number of federal political contributions as the rest of the entire sitting 19 superior court bench combined, eighteen (18) times more on average than any judge who did 20 contribute (with the exception of one judge who has been assigned only to the criminal bench in her
21 entire tenure on the court). This is both in terms of frequency and total amount.¹² His contributions 22 averaged around $100.00 each and were made through "ActBlue," which describes itself as "a
23 powerful online fundraising platform for Democratic candidates up and down the ballot, progressive

25 ¹¹ See Exhibit 1 to Exhibit "A" hereto, Declaration of John D. Wilenchik, Esq. The information is federal public record and can also be downloaded/accessed through: <https://bit.ly/3qkxfSg>.

26 ¹² See Exhibit A hereto, Declaration. Except for the one criminal-court judge (and Judge Hannah), there are only four 27 judges since 2011 who have contributed to federal political campaigns or organizations as reported by the FEC. They contributed a total of only 5 times and in the total combined amount of $502.50. Hannah has contributed eighteen (18) 28 times in the total amount of either $1,680 or $3,930 (the $2,250 discrepancy is explained below).

1 organizations, and nonprofits.”¹³ All of the contributions were to Democratic candidates/candidate
2 committees or to Democratic/progressive Political Actions Committees. Several of the contributions
3 are cause for very serious concern in this case, including because of the Judge’s lack of disclosure.

4 On October 15, 2018, Judge Hannah contributed $50.00 to a group called “One Nation
5 United,” whose website still shows a count-down to the 2020 election that says at the top: “We must 6 stop Donald Trump and the GOP. They are hellbent on transforming this country into a place none of 7 us would want to live.”¹⁴ Undersigned counsel has confirmed that, as of October 15, 2018, the website
8 contained the same language at the top of the website, just below the “Make a Contribution” button.
9 (See Exhibit 2 to Declaration for screenshot.)¹⁵ Since the 2016 election,¹⁶ the “Our Mission” portion 10 of the website has stated:

11 The flood of money into ad campaigns and right wing media groups like FOX News
12 has shifted views of Americans so far to the right, that a candidate like Donald Trump 13 was acceptable to a wide group of voters due to the near constant exposure to ads and 14 pseudo-news reports that present a false narrative to the public... Their only advantage
15 is the sheer amount of dollars they can throw at advertising and paid media pundits.
16 Unfortunately this was a winning strategy and Trump won the election. Republican-aligned PAC advertising and opinion positioning strategies are outdated. We will bring the fight to them on their own block, city or state to hold back the onslaught of massive Republican-aligned ad spending.

17 (See Exhibit 3 to Declaration, screenshot.) In other words, aside from being aggressively anti-Trump
18 and anti-GOP, the group’s specific “mission” is to promote media and news reports/advertising that 19 are also anti-Trump and anti-GOP.

20 On September 28, 2019, Judge Hannah contributed $100 to a group named “Fair Fight, Inc.
21 PAC” founded by Georgia Democrat Stacey Abrams. The website for “Fair Fight” states that statement as of 2019 (after the election) is Exhibit 3. As of October 2018 (when Judge Hannah contributed), it is likely statement was there as of September 2019. In any event, the content of the two statements is substantively the same.

(Compare Exhibit 3 to Exhibit 9.)

1 “insidious efforts to make voting more difficult” are “undermin[ing] our democracy” (“Fair Fight,
 2 Inc. PAC”).¹⁷ As of August 13, 2019, the group’s website claimed that the 2018 elections were
 3 “rife...were irregularities”; and an August 7, 2019 press release read in part: “[n]ow, as elections draw
 4 closer, Republicans are running scared because they know as well as we do just how out of touch they 5 are with the voters they represent.”¹⁸ On May 14, 2021 (a month and a half before this suit was filed),
 6 “Fair Fight” issued a lengthy press release calling CNI’s audit “dangerous” and “discredited,” and 7 claiming that the audit was “being led by conspiracy theorists and insurrectionists.”¹⁹ (After the audit
 8 reached its conclusion in September of last year, the same group published an update to their website
 9 which simply stated without comment, “Republican Review of Arizona Fails to Show Stolen
 10 Election.”²⁰) The last press release from the group’s CEO prior to Judge Hannah’s contribution (dated 11 July 29, 2019, three months prior to his contribution) claimed that as the result of the group’s 12 “litigation, activism, and advocacy,” it had defeated a voting-machine company which it characterized 13 as having “shielded itself from public records requests.” (July 29, 2019 Press Release.)²¹ Of note, in 14 the same release the group also praised the government for selecting Dominion voting machines,
 15 which it claimed were selected due to the group’s “litigation, activism and advocacy.” The instant suit
 16 is also a public-records action against a private elections vendor (CNI); and CNI’s audit was intended 17 in part to assess the integrity of Dominion voting machines (as reflected by the exhibits to the 18 Complaint, inter alia; this was also heavily reported by news media).²²

19 On September 19, 2020 – less than two months before being assigned to the Republican Party
 20 case – Judge Hannah made another $100 contribution to “Movement Voter PAC.” Since at least 21 September 18, 2020, this group’s website has stated: “We were deeply dismayed by the broader 22 outcome of the 2016 election... We organize for the long game.... We are only getting started... [W]e

1 can build lasting power and make the 2020s a progressive decade.”²³ Since February 27, 2021 – weeks
2 before Judge Hannah’s final ruling awarding sanctions in the Republican Party case against the
3 Republican Party (dated March 15, 2021), and just four months before he was assigned to this case
4 (on June 30, 2021) – the group’s website has shown a “report” on the 2020 election entitled “What 5 the Movement [Voter Project] Won in 2020.” The report thanks the group’s “partners” in Arizona for 6 “Biden’s margin of victory in Arizona” and for “flipping the Presidential race by 10,457 votes.” The 7 report also generally calls the 2020 election “a game-changing victory, giving Democrats a narrow
8 trifecta to pass legislation and appoint judges but it was also a near-death experience. We defeated
9 Trump by a hair. While the Biden-Harris ticket won the popular vote by more than 6 million votes, 10 we won the electoral college by less than 43,000 votes across three states: Arizona, Georgia, and 11 Wisconsin. That’s an even narrower margin than the 77,000 votes Trump won by in 2016. MVP’s
12 local grassroots partners won this election...Biden’s margin of victory in Arizona was 10,457
13 votes..... Make no mistake — without MVP’s partners in these three states, Trump would be president
14 for the next four years.” “Winning Arizona in 2020 was a battle more than a decade in the making.
15 MVP is going to double down on this crucial sunbelt battleground.” “The Presidential race and the 16 electoral college in 2024 are likely to be tough... [We may be] exposed to Republican trifectas
17 controlling elections in advance of 2024 — a terrifying prospect. It looks the GOP is going to run a 18 permanent smear campaign for the next four years and use every dirty trick possible to get revenge in 19 2022 and 2024. In short, we have our work cut out for us... We have to assume that Trump and the 20 other side are going to upgrade their tactics. MVP is already making early investments to strengthen 21 our local grassroots partners for the battles to come... There’s a lot of analysis and evaluation still to 22 do on the 2020 election.... We are doubling down and going even bigger over the next four years.”²⁴

23 Over the course of 2019 and leading up to the 2020 election, Judge Hannah made at least three 24 contributions totaling $250 to Warren for President, Inc. (on May 15, 2019; June 7, 2019; and $100 25 in December 2019). In the two months before the November 2020 election, he contributed to

1 Democratic Senate candidates in Alabama, Montana, Maine, South Carolina, and Iowa. (See 2 contributions to Steve Bullock, Sara Gideon, Jaime Harrison, Doug Jones, and Theresa Greenfield on 3 September 19, 2020.) Finally, the FEC website reports a $2,500 contribution to “Sinema for Arizona”
4 in 2017 for the primary election. This would have been in excess of half the federal limit for the 5 primary, and therefore a direct violation of Canon 4.1. But in candor to the Court, this amount could 6 have been a typo because the link to the associated “pdf” record indicates only a $250 contribution.

7 Legal Analysis and Argument

8 Judge Hannah made no disclosures with respect to any of these matters during the case with 9 the Republican Party or in this one. In his own words, this case involves a Republican Senate-led audit 10 “for the avowed purposes of ‘assessing electoral integrity’ and ‘examining potential reforms to the 11 electoral process’ and apparently also ‘to determine if the result of the Arizona election was correct
12 and to see if there was a further basis to challenge the election outcome.’”²⁵ The instant suit was also 13 filed by a newspaper, The Arizona Republic. Judge Hannah actively contributed to a group whose 14 primary message is that “Donald Trump and the GOP” “are hellbent on transforming this country into 15 a place none of us would want to live” and whose avowed purpose is to “stop them” by promoting 16 anti-Trump and anti-GOP news media and advertising; another group whose purpose is to oppose 17 Republican elections-integrity efforts including the audit that is the subject of this case, and which 18 promotes litigation against election vendors that “shield” themselves against public record requests;
19 and another group that was “deeply dismayed” by Trump’s victory in 2016 and called the 2020
20 election a “near death experience” because “[w]e defeated Trump by a hair” in Arizona, vowing to 21 “double down” on efforts to defeat what it characterizes as GOP “smear campaigns” and “dirty 22 trick[s].”

23 While this goes a long way toward explaining Judge Hannah’s intemperate behavior in these 24 cases, it also creates an inexcusable appearance of impropriety as well as an apparent cause for 25 disclosure and recusal in these matters, which Judge Hannah has neglected and/or improperly

27 ²⁵ See Exhibit to earlier Motion, 12-21-20 Ruling by John Hannah in Case No. CV2020-014553.

1 disregarded. “Any circumstances that objectively lead to the conclusion that the judge’s impartiality
2 might reasonably be questioned calls for disqualification.” Kay S. v. Mark S., 213 Ariz. 373, 379-380,
3 142 P.3d 249, 255-256 (Ct. App. 2006), as amended (Nov. 9, 2006); see also McElhanon v. Hing, 151
4 Ariz. 403, 411, 728 P.2d 273, 281 (1986), cert. denied, 481 U.S. 1030 (1987)(“Although we do not
5 conclude that the judge was actually biased against defendant or defense counsel, that is immaterial.
6 The judge should have been disqualified based on the appearance of partiality”). Even when there is 7 no actual bias, justice must appear fair. McElhanon, 151 Ariz. at 411, 728 P.2d at 281(citing inter alia
8 In re Murchison, 349 U.S. 133 (1955)). “This objective standard extends beyond the judge’s personal
9 belief that his impartiality is not impaired.” Id. “The test for appearance of impropriety is whether the 10 conduct would create in reasonable minds a perception that the judge’s ability to carry out judicial 11 responsibilities with impartiality is impaired.” Id., quoting Ariz. R. Sup.Ct. 81, Canon 2 (Commentary
12 (Canon 2A) (1993)(internal quotation marks and ellipses omitted). To avoid appearances of 13 impropriety, judges have obligations of disclosure and candor, including disclosing any reason why 14 they might be perceived as biased on the case (or that they actually are), and any sources of 15 information outside the evidence that has been presented to them, as well as giving parties the 16 opportunity to rebut such evidence.

17 Judge Hannah’s undisclosed history of heavily-activist political contributions clearly warrants
18 recusal in this case, due to at the minimum the objective appearance of impropriety. Canon 1.2
19 provides that “[a] judge shall act at all times in a manner that promotes public confidence in the 20 independence, integrity, and impartiality of the judiciary, and shall avoid impropriety and the 21 appearance of impropriety.” Canon 2.11 provides that “[a] judge shall disqualify himself or herself in 22 any proceeding in which the judge’s impartiality might reasonably be questioned, including but not
23 limited to the following circumstances: [t]he judge has a personal bias or prejudice concerning a party
24 or a party’s lawyer, or personal knowledge of facts that are in dispute in the proceeding.” Every other 25 member of the superior-court bench that undersigned counsel has ever encountered is extremely 26 cautious about this, and in general about avoiding the appearance of impropriety on cases – not just 27

1 in “political” cases like this, but certainly including them. For example, when a case filed by the 2 Republican Party last year was assigned to Judge Coury, he made prompt disclosure of the fact that
3 he was subject to a political campaign by the Democratic Party and he offered to recuse. In general,
4 our superior court bench is replete with judges of honor, integrity and temperance. There is no reason
5 why CNI or any other litigant must continue to face a judge whose partiality and fairness can and 6 should be reasonably questioned.

7 Canon 3.1 provides that “when engaging in extrajudicial activities, a judge shall not: (A)
8 participate in activities that will interfere with the proper performance of the judge’s judicial duties;
9 (B) participate in activities that will lead to frequent disqualification of the judge; (C) participate in 10 activities that would appear to a reasonable person to undermine the judge’s independence, integrity, 11 or impartiality or demean the judicial office...” Judicial Ethics Advisory Committee Advisory 12 Opinion (“Advisory Opinion” or “A.O.”) 96-04 ²⁶ notes that extrajudicial involvement with 13 organizations “dedicated to particular causes” or that are “active in promoting specific points of view”
14 “may give the appearance of favoritism and raise a question as to the judge’s ability to preside fairly
15 over certain cases.” “As we noted in Opinion 95-02, [o]ne of the central themes of the Code of Judicial 16 Conduct is that judges must perform their duties independently and impartially and cannot participate 17 in any activity that might suggest the appearance of favoritism or call into question the integrity of the 18 judiciary. See Canons 1A, 2A, 2B, 4A(1), 4C(4), 4C(4)(a), 4C(4)(b) and 5.” (Internal quotation marks 19 omitted.) Advisory Opinion 18-06 (issued on December 14, 2018)²⁷ relatedly states that while “[t]he 20 Judicial Code and the Employee Code encourage judges and judicial employees to participate in 21 appropriate extrajudicial activities,” both codes contain “restrictions on such activities. They also 22 make clear that judges and judicial employees should expect to be the subject of public scrutiny that 23 might be viewed as burdensome if applied to other citizens, and must accept the restrictions imposed
24 by their respective codes of conduct.” (Internal quotation marks omitted.) Advisory Opinion 18-06
25 specifically addressed whether it is appropriate for judges or judicial employees to participate in

1 “marches, rallies or protests”: “by way of example...the ‘Women’s Marches’...and a recent ‘March
2 for Science.’” Even for seemingly apolitical activities like a “March for Science,” the Advisory 3 Opinion warns that the propriety of a judge’s involvement “is a fact-intensive inquiry that ultimately 4 must be decided on a case-by-case basis.” Of “particular relevance” to the inquiry is whether 5 participation “would appear to a reasonable person to undermine the judge’s independence, integrity,
6 or impartiality,” to which “[a]n objective standard applies. It is not sufficient that the judge personally
7 is convinced of his or her abiding independence and impartiality. In making this assessment, judges
8 should assume their participation will be scrutinized and publicized, and they must consider the public
9 perception should they be depicted in reports of the event, including in press coverage or on social
10 media.” “In assessing the propriety of participation, judges should examine not only the official title
11 of an event, but also its stated mission, as well as its sponsors and organizers.” For example, the 12 Massachusetts Supreme Court issued an Advisory Opinion against judges participating in the 2017
13 “Women’s March on Washington,” because of the “unmistakable political overtones of the event, as 14 well as public statements by organizers of the march suggesting the event’s purpose was to send a 15 bold message to the new administration on their first day in office.” (A.O. 18-06, internal quotation 16 marks omitted; quoting Massachusetts Supreme Court CJE Opinion No. 2016-10.) A.O. 18-06 also 17 discusses a New York Advisory Opinion which concluded that judges should not attend a “March for 18 Science” if “its organizers become involved in or suggest they will become involved in litigation
19 related to the March’s agenda, advocate for or against the election or appointment of specific 20 individuals to public office, or become the subject of public controversy.” In general, A.O. 18-06 notes 21 that judges have more leeway when engaging in extrajudicial activities that are not overtly political 22 or that are “related to the law, the legal system, or the administration of justice”; but that for political 23 activities, “more rigorous restrictions apply.” As another example, A.O. 18-06 suggests that a judge
24 attending an “Immigration March” is problematic for a number of reasons including if “one of the 25 organizers frequently appears in litigation”; and a judge must consider questions such as whether “a 26 judge’s participation in such a march [could] lead a reasonable person to question that judge’s

1 impartiality when presiding over a state court proceeding involving an individual's immigration status
2 or other immigration-related issues? And how would the independence of the judicial branch be
3 perceived should a photograph of a participating judge appear in the newspaper alongside protesters
4 carrying signs supporting or opposing political candidates or organizations?" Finally, A.O. 18-06
5 addresses the propriety of a judge participating in extrajudicial activities at all; but once a judge
6 decides to engage in such activities—and especially activities of an overtly political nature—then
7 whether he should preside over overtly political cases is another question entirely. In other words,
8 even if it is proper for a judge to engage in a given extrajudicial activity, then this does not mean that 9 it proper for a judge to actually preside over a case in which his partiality could be reasonably
10 questioned as the result of the activity, much less to neglect or disregard his obligations of disclosure
11 in the matter. The Comment to Canon 4.1 provides that judges “must, to the greatest extent possible, 12 be free and appear to be free from political influence and political pressure.” (Emphasis added.) While 13 Judge Hannah's apparent decision to exploit Canon 4.1(A)(4) to the fullest – including contributing 14 18 times more often than any other judicial officer (bar one), and three times more than 159 combined
15 – might not raise issues in other kinds of litigation, his decision to contribute to the particular groups
16 discussed above – not to mention the frequency/volume of his contributions — create a clear
17 appearance of impropriety in matters such as this and the Republican Party matter. If the conduct of 18 every single other judge and commissioner in Maricopa County over the last ten years is a “bar” for 19 what constitutes proper judicial conduct, or for the level of political activity that is acceptable for any 20 judge much less one who chooses to preside over political cases, then the answer to whether there is 21 an unacceptable appearance of impropriety in this case is clear. This is even without considering Judge
22 Hannah's history of intemperance in these matters, or at the minimum the appearance of improper
23 conduct with respect to extrajudicial investigations/reading the news. But the problem is certainly 24 compounded by those things, as well as the fact that the media are parties to this litigation and that the 25 case is overtly political in nature. The Comment to Canon 3 provides that “[a]n independent judiciary
26 requires that judges decide cases according to the law and facts, without regard to whether particular

1 laws or litigants are popular or unpopular with the public, the media...Confidence in the judiciary is
2 eroded if judicial decision making is perceived to be subject to inappropriate outside influences.”
3 Canon 2.4 provides that “[a] judge shall not be swayed by partisan interests, public clamor...A judge
4 shall not permit...political...or other interests or relationships to influence the judge’s judicial conduct
5 or judgment. A judge shall not convey or permit others to convey the impression that any person or 6 organization is in a position to influence the judge.” Canon 2.3 provides that “[a] judge shall not, in 7 the performance of judicial duties, by words or conduct manifest bias or prejudice, or engage in 8 harassment, including but not limited to bias, prejudice, or harassment based upon...political 9 affiliation.” This includes “verbal or physical conduct that denigrates or shows hostility or aversion
10 toward a person on bases such as...political affiliation.” (Comment 3 to Canon 2.3.) Comments 1 and 11 2 to Canon 2.3 provide that “[a] judge who manifests bias or prejudice in a proceeding impairs the 12 fairness of the proceeding and brings the judiciary into disrepute. Examples of manifestations of bias
13 or prejudice include but are not limited to epithets; slurs; demeaning nicknames...threatening, 14 intimidating, or hostile acts.... Facial expressions and body language may convey to parties and 15 lawyers in the proceeding, jurors, the media, and others an appearance of bias or prejudice. A judge
16 must avoid conduct that may reasonably be perceived as prejudiced or biased.” Judge Hannah’s 17 history of intemperance and slurs (“sophistry,” “gas-lighting”), and even improper facial 18 expressions/body language (“smiling” about the prior motion to disqualify him), objectively and 19 improperly convey bias and prejudice, which in this case is clearly on the basis of political affiliation.
20 This is to say nothing of Judge Hannah’s more substantive conduct in these matters, including his 21 decision to hold a contempt hearing on January 6th, to make political statement(s) in the hearing, and 22 willingness to threaten and issue personal sanctions and punitive contempt without due process.

23 There is a reasonable appearance that Judge Hannah has been going out of his way to search
24 for information that has not been presented to him and using it against the Defendant, without either
25 disclosing or giving the parties an opportunity to respond to it; and/or he is reading the news about 26 CNI. This is of particularly serious concern because the Plaintiff in this case is a media organization

1 (Phoenix Newspapers Inc. dba The Arizona Republic); and the newspaper's sources of information
2 included the American Oversight group, which sued CNI in a separate lawsuit that is pending before
3 Judge Kemp. Under these singular circumstances, reading any news or extrajudicial statements about
4 CNI constitutes not only an improper independent investigation of facts and evidence under Canon
5 2.9(C) but also an improper consideration of ex parte communications in the more traditional sense
6 under Canon 2.9(A). In A.O. 97-11, the Supreme Court Judicial Ethics Advisory Committee
7 considered the propriety of a court looking at a police report in a pending case, where the report had 8 not been introduced into evidence or otherwise placed into the record by any party before the court.
9 The Committee concluded that it was ethically improper, citing the Canon against extrajudicial
10 investigations and ex parte communications, inter alia (Canon 3). "...[F]acts are to be determined on 11 the basis of evidence presented in court within the adversary process so that each side can present its 12 version of the facts. Moreover, even where a judge is not sitting as a fact-finder, he or she should not 13 obtain extrajudicial knowledge of facts, because that knowledge could unfairly influence the judge's
14 rulings and other actions in the case." (Quoted from A.O. 97-11, internal quotation marks omitted.)
15 The fact that police reports are "public records which are available for inspection and copying by any 16 person" does not change this result. Id. Finally, even when judges are allowed to consider police
17 reports because the law expressly provides for it (e.g. in presentencing hearings), A.O. 97-11 notes
18 that the defendant must ethically still be furnished with a copy of the report, and given a reasonable
19 time and opportunity to respond to it, before the judge uses it to rule. In this case, news reports are 20 generally similar to police reports in that they are both widely available to the public—but as A.O.
21 97-11 notes, this does not change the result. And if the source of Judge Hannah's information was not
22 the news but rather the footnote/exhibit(s) to the Objection to Withdrawal in the American Oversight
23 case, then his conduct remains improper because that evidence was not presented to him.²⁸ Canon

24 ²⁸At best, the "evidence" was presented to another judicial officer (Judge Kemp) by the plaintiff in another case, in 25 a very obscure way (as a footnote to an objection to counsel's withdrawal). Of note: the filings in the American
26 Oversight are clearly ex parte as to the Plaintiff here. But there are also issues about whether the Objection filed
27 in that case was ex parte as to CNI, since the it was not served on CNI but rather on undersigned counsel; and 28 undersigned counsel has never made/intended to make a general appearance in the American Oversight case.
(Counsel appeared some time ago in the case only to request leave to file an amicus brief on behalf of CNI, which

1 2.9(C) provides that a judge “shall not investigate facts in a matter independently, and shall consider
2 only the evidence presented and any facts that may properly be judicially noticed.” (Emphasis added.)
3 The “judicial notice” exception does not apply because “[t]he rules of evidence allow the court to take
4 judicial notice of the contents and disposition of a file, that the case exists and that allegations were 5 made, but the court may not take notice of the truth or falsity of specific allegations except as 6 established by final judgment.” Matter of Pima Cty. Mental Health No. MH-959-10-85, 149 Ariz. 7, 7 9, 716 P.2d 68, 70 (Ct. App. 1986). The evidence in question was not established by a final judgment,
8 but Judge Hannah nevertheless used it for its truth or falsity (and he did not claim to be taking judicial 9 notice in any event). Finally, regardless of whether or how severely Judge Hannah violated the 10 prohibition on extrajudicial investigations, he still held an obligation to disclose the source and 11 substance of the information and to give the parties an opportunity to rebut it before making it the 12 basis for his ruling, which he failed and refused to do even when asked. The obvious problem is that 13 in failing to abide by these duties, Judge Hannah has furthered the reasonable impression that he is 14 biased and going out of his way to find evidence against the Defendant(s) on these matters, and 15 considering facts and information that Defendant(s) will never know of or have any opportunity to 16 rebut.

17 Conclusion

18 Judges who behave according to the Canon and with integrity will typically recuse at the 19 slightest notion of improper conduct or actual bias, and at the minimum they will disclose issues of 20 ethical concern. When judges fail to do so, they risk stepping outside their anticipated roles as neutral
21 and respected decision-makers and into the role of opposing counsel which imperils our entire system
22 of justice. They become adversaries who serve to inflame disputes rather than help to resolve them.
23 And the public’s worst fears about judges are encouraged if not proven right. For the foregoing
24 reasons, CNI respectfully moves the Court to re-assign this action to another judicial officer.

I, John D. Wilenchik, hereby make this declaration based on my own personal knowledge:

1 1. The Motion to Disqualify (“Motion”), filed concurrently herewith and incorporated as 2 if set forth herein, is true and correct to the best of my knowledge, information and 3 belief.

4 2. I have reviewed audio of January 6th hearing and typed up the following accurate
5 transcription of an exchange in between myself and Judge Hannah:

6 Q. [Hannah] Was he [Douglas Logan] deposed yesterday in the A.O. [American 7 Oversight] case?

8 A. [Wilenchik] Um, he was not, no.

9 Q. Did he appear?

10 A. How are you are aware of that case your Honor – how are you aware of the fact 11 that there was that deposition? Have you been reading the news on this?

12 Q. Um...the uh, record in another case is, uh, subject to judicial notice.

13 A. That’s not part of the record your Honor, that was a notice of Deposition. That 14 was publicly reported on, so I take it you’ve read the news.

15 Q. OK. Go ahead, Mr. Hoffman.

16 The exchange occurs at 1:24:25 (one hour, twenty-four minutes and twenty-five 17 seconds) into the audio of the hearing, which can be found at: <https://bit.ly/3fcLpyr>

18 3. I have reviewed audio of January 6th hearing and typed up the following accurate
19 transcription of a statement made by Judge Hannah:

20 The Court is aware from the record in this case that Cyber Ninjas agreed to 21 undertake this work for $150,000. The Court is also aware from the record
22 that Cyber Ninjas took in several million dollars from various sources that it
23 says helped pay for this task.

24 The statements occur at 1:52:43 – 1:53:35 of the audio.

25 4. On November 7, 2022, I first learned of the Federal Elections Commission political-26 contribution information for John Hannah as described in the Motion. A true and 27 accurate summary of the information, which is public record, is attached as Exhibit “1”
28 hereto and also accessible through https://www.fec.gov/data/receipts/individual-contributions/?contributor_name=john+hannah&contributor_state=AZ.

5. On January 8, 2022, I conducted a search of Maricopa County Superior Court judges and commissioners for whom federal political contributions were reported to the FEC as far back as 2011. I conducted the search through the “FEC.gov” website by inputting

1 the names of all one hundred sixty-one (161) Maricopa County Judges and 2 Commissioners as listed on the Maricopa County Superior Court website,
3 <http://www.superiorcourt.maricopa.gov/JudicialBiographies/index.asp>. I searched for 4 “Judge” in the occupation title; and for “Report Time Period” I selected 2011 – 2022.
5 For “Receipt Date Range” I selected 01/01/2007 to 12/31/2022.

- 6 6. The results showed seven Maricopa County Superior Court judges or commissioners 7 with reported contributions to federal political campaigns or organizations since 2011.
- 8 7. By far the most frequent contributions were by John Hannah, and another judge who 9 has been assigned only to the criminal bench since 2015.
- 10 8. On October 15, 2018 Judge Hannah contributed $50.00 to a group called “One Nation
11 United,” whose website still shows a count-down to the 2020 election and says: “We 12 must stop Donald Trump and the GOP. They are hellbent on transforming this country
13 into a place none of us would want to live.” I looked up this site on the Internet Archive 14 Wayback Machine website, and this statement has been prominently displayed on the 15 website since at least August 15, 2018:
16 <https://web.archive.org/web/20180815220336/https://onenationunited.com/>. I also 17 confirmed that the “Mission” language on the website quoted in the Motion to 18 Disqualify has appeared on the website since the at least the dates stated in the Motion, 19 by using the Internet Archive Wayback Machine. True and accurate screenshots of the 20 donation page and Mission page (as archived by the Wayback Machine) are attached
21 as Exhibits 2, 3 and 9 hereto.
- 22 9. On September 28, 2019, Judge Hannah contributed $100 to a group named “Fair Fight, 23 Inc. PAC.” Its website (and other online sources) reflect that it was founded by Georgia
24 Democrat Stacey Abrams. Its website claims that “insidious efforts to make voting 25 more difficult” are “undermin[ing] our democracy” (“Fair Fight, Inc. PAC”). On May 26 14, 2021 (a month and a half before this suit was filed), “Fair Fight” issued a lengthy 27 press release calling CNI’s audit “dangerous” and “discredited,” and claiming that the 28 audit was “being led by conspiracy theorists and insurrectionists.” Exhibit 8 hereto is a

1 true and accurate screenshot that I took on January 10, 2021.¹ After the audit reached
2 its conclusion, the same group apparently published a one-line update to its website
3 which says “Republican Review of Arizona Fails to Show Stolen Election” but contains 4 no further comment.

5 10. As of August 13, 2019, the website claimed that 2018 elections were “rife...were 6 irregularities”; and an August 7, 2019 press release read in part: “[n]ow, as elections
7 draw closer, Republicans are running scared because they know as well as we do just 8 how out of touch they are with the voters they represent.” A true and accurate copy of 9 the website as of that date, which I obtained from the Internet Archive Wayback
10 Machine,² is attached as Exhibit 7 hereto.

11 11. According to the group’s online press release archives, the last press release from the 12 group’s CEO before Judge Hannah’s contribution (dated July 29, 2019, three months 13 prior) read:

14 Make no mistake that it was a result of the hard work of litigation, activism, and 15 advocacy that the state has chosen Dominion over ES&S for the largest purchase of 16 voting machines in American history. ES&S has infiltrated Georgia government, 17 bribed politicians, shielded itself from public records requests, and failed in state
18 after state, and, because of our and our allies’ months-long efforts to expose this 19 corruption, the choice by the state is not as bad as it could have been....

20 It is currently located at <https://fairfight.com/statement-from-fair-fight-ceo-lauren-groh-wargo/>. A true and accurate screenshot is attached as Exhibit 4 hereto.

21 12. It was widely reported that CNI’s audit included assessing the integrity of Dominion 22 machines. CNI’s Statement of Work included references to Dominion machines in 23 several places and was made public/reported on as early as April 1, 2021.

24 13. The instant suit is also a public-records action against a private elections vendor (CNI).

1 14. On September 19, 2020 – less than two months before being assigned to the Republican
2 Party case – Judge Hannah made another $100 contribution to “Movement Voter PAC.”
3 Since at least September 18, 2020 (one day before he contributed), that group’s website
4 has stated: “We were deeply dismayed by the broader outcome of the 2016
5 election...We organize for the long game....We are only getting started...[W]e can 6 build lasting power and make the 2020s a progressive decade.” (See Exhibit 5 hereto,
7 a true and accurate screenshot of the “Wayback Machine” archive for the website as of 8 September 18, 2020.)³ Since February 27, 2021 – weeks before Judge Hannah’s final 9 ruling awarding sanctions in the Republican Party case (dated March 15, 2021) and four 10 months before he was assigned to the instant action (June 30, 2021) – the group’s
11 website has shown a “report” on the 2020 election entitled “What the Movement [Voter
12 Project] Won in 2020” which specifically thanks its “partners” in Arizona for “Biden’s
13 margin of victory in Arizona” and “flipping the Presidential race by 10,457 votes.” It 14 also generally called the 2020 election “a game-changing victory, giving Democrats a 15 narrow trifecta to pass legislation and appoint judges but it was also a near-death 16 experience. We defeated Trump by a hair. While the Biden-Harris ticket won the 17 popular vote by more than 6 million votes, we won the electoral college by less than 18 43,000 votes across three states: Arizona, Georgia, and Wisconsin. That’s an even 19 narrower margin than the 77,000 votes Trump won by in 2016. MVP’s local grassroots 20 partners won this election. ...Biden’s margin of victory in Arizona was 10,457 votes.
21 Our partners in Georgia and Wisconsin contacted voters on a comparable scale.... Make 22 no mistake — without MVP’s partners in these three states, Trump would be president
23 for the next four years.” “Winning Arizona in 2020 was a battle more than a decade in 24 the making. MVP is going to double down on this crucial sunbelt battleground.” “The 25 Presidential race and the electoral college in 2024 are likely to be tough... [We may be]
26 exposed to Republican trifectas controlling elections in advance of 2024 — a terrifying

28 ³ <https://web.archive.org/web/20200918175423/https://movement.vote/about/>

1 prospect. It looks the GOP is going to run a permanent smear campaign for the next
2 four years and use every dirty trick possible to get revenge in 2022 and 2024. In short,
3 we have our work cut out for us... We have to assume that Trump and the other side are 4 going to upgrade their tactics. MVP is already making early investments to strengthen 5 our local grassroots partners for the battles to come... There's a lot of analysis and 6 evaluation still to do on the 2020 election.... We are doubling down and going even 7 bigger over the next four years." A true and accurate screenshot of this website as it
8 was on February 27, 2021 is attached as Exhibit 6 hereto (from the "Wayback
9 Machine").⁴

10 15. In the two months before the November 2020 election, John Hannah contributed to 11 Democratic Senate candidates in Alabama, Montana, Maine, South Carolina, and Iowa.
12 (See contributions to Steve Bullock, Sara Gideon, Jaime Harrison, Doug Jones, and 13 Theresa Greenfield on September 19, 2020.) The FEC website also reports a $2,500
14 contribution to "Sinema for Arizona" in 2017 for the primary election, which would 15 have been in excess of the limits permitted by Canon 4.1. However, I believe that 16 amount could have been a typo because the associated "pdf" record indicates only a 17 $250 contribution.

18 16. There were only four Judges who contributed to a candidate or candidate committee for 19 President of the United States in the 2020 cycle, and one of them was John Hannah. To 20 my knowledge, none of the others presided over a case related to the 2020 presidential 21 election.

22 17. Judge Hannah made no disclosures with respect to any of these matters during any 23 litigation in which he and I have been involved, or any other litigation to my knowledge.

24 18. With the exception of a judge who has sat only in criminal court, Judge Hannah has 25 made three times as much in political contributions, and more than three times as 26 frequently, as the entire superior court bench combined since at least 2011. His

28 ⁴ <https://web.archive.org/web/20210227163706/https://movement.vote/2020-report/>

1 contributions were around eighteen times higher and more frequent than the average
2 contribution (by all judges and commissioners other than him and the criminal-court 3 judge).

4 19. My staff promptly requested a transcript of the January 6th hearing (on January 7th). On 5 January 10th, we were informed that a transcript is not available (even on an expedited
6 basis) until January 24th. The order has been placed.

7 20. I believe that Judge Hannah set a hearing on January 6th for an improper political 8 purpose. Namely, he intended to issue a contempt finding on the same day as the 9 protests that occurred on January 6, 2021. This belief is based on several things
10 including that he did not consult anyone's calendar for the date of the hearing; he made 11 what I interpreted to be sua sponte political statements at the beginning of the hearing;
12 and he ruled from the bench finding my client in contempt without ruling on its 13 objections and issuing a final order, per the en banc orders of the Arizona Supreme 14 Court. The nature of his sanction was also punitive; my client had effectively asked for 15 around $60K to review, search and edit the records being requested since my client was 16 never paid by the Senate for the $100K balance of their contract; CNI is in debt; and it 17 does not receive taxpayer funding to handle public records requests (as is normal for an 18 actual public agency). The judge responded by sanctioning them $50K a day, which 19 was clearly not even intended to remedy the problem. The fine was also fifty times what 20 the Plaintiff requested and equal to the entire amount of money that CNI received from 21 its contract with the Senate.

22 21. In general, I have experienced the most transparent and aggressive bias and prejudice
23 in Judge Hannah's court that I have ever experienced in any court in my entire career.
24 Had Judge Hannah chosen to disclose his clear personal bias and interest in these 25 matters, or the nature and frequency of his political contributions or extrajudicial
26 investigations, then I would have promptly moved to disqualify him due to at the 27 minimum an objective appearance of impropriety, not to mention his actual bias and 28 prejudice on the case.

1 22. The public needs confidence in these or any other proceedings. Judge Hannah's
2 behavior is exactly what everyone fears about the judicial system. I am proud to say
3 that I have not personally experienced this kind of behavior from any other judge on 4 this bench. Our superior court judges otherwise act with restraint and integrity.

5 I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct to the best of my 6 knowledge and belief.

7 DATED: January 11, 2022.

The groundwork for the next election starts now.

We must stop Donald Trump and the GOP. They are hellbent on transforming this country into a place none of us would want to live. At just six months into the Trump administration we were already facing a nuclear showdown with North Korea. We must act decisively right now, so we can win all the seats we need in the midterm to get the Senate and House majority back and put an end to Trump and the GOP's destructive agenda.

Our Mission

One Nation United was founded to win back seats in congress so we can get America back on-track to creating laws and policies that benefit the people.

Since the 2010 Citizen United decision, republican-aligned Super PACs have raised hundreds of millions of dollars to fund false and negative campaigns against Democratic House and Senate candidates along with an unprecedented campaign to dishonor and malign President Obama. The overwhelming amount of republican-aligned TV advertising in 2010 was devastating to many House and Senate candidates.

This flood of money into ad campaigns and right wing media groups like FOX News has shifted views of Americans so far to the right, that a candidate like Donald Trump was acceptable to a wide group of voters due to the near constant exposure to ads and pseudo-news reports that present a false narrative to the public. Unfortunately this was a winning strategy and Trump won the election.

Republican-aligned PAC advertising and opinion positioning strategies are outdated. Their only advantage is the sheer amount of dollars they can throw at advertising and paid media pundits. One Nation United uses only the most impactful methods to engage voters and get the message and strategy out to defend the most vulnerable Democratic House and Senate candidates. We will bring the fight to them on their own block, city or state to hold back the onslaught of massive Republican-aligned ad spending.

Statement from Fair Fight CEO Lauren Groh-Wargo

History & Success

In early 2016, we spent six months consulting with more than fifty experts to develop an initial list of local movement groups organizing in communities across the country. During 2016, we invested in four small New Hampshire organizations who contacted 85,000 voters in communities being overlooked by national groups because they didn't historically vote at as high a rate. This led to increased voter turnout, especially among communities who aren't as likely to show up to the polls, in an election that was won by Democratic Senator Maggie Hassan by just 1,027 votes.

We were deeply dismayed by the broader outcome of the 2016 election, but we did not stop organizing. In Alabama's special Senate election in 2017, MVP played an especially unique role in seeding, helping to incubate, and funding two major locally-driven, Black-led GOTV efforts: Woke Vote and Black Voters Matter Fund (which in turn supported 35 groups in 17 counties). These groups drove historic black turnout in Alabama.

We organize for the long game. MVP-supported groups like New Virginia Majority have been building power in Virginia for years – and in 2019 they helped Virginia Democrats win state elections across the board. Democrats now have trifecta control in a state that was controlled by Republicans just six years ago. This has already translated to key policy victories including automatic voter registration, same-day voter registration, a 30% increase in the VA minimum wage, in-state tuition for undocumented and refugee college students, prohibitions on discrimination by public health insurance providers based on gender identity or transgender status, ban the box legislation, and several new laws strengthening environmental protections.

These are just some of our successes. In addition to driving electoral victories, MVP has been the first funder to seed or incubate more than 30 gap-filling organizations in key states. This includes groups like North Dakota Native Vote, Lancaster Stands Up (Pennsylvania), Florida Student Power Network, and Faith Organizers Alliance (the major African-American voter engagement group in Nevada).

We are only getting started. By making long-term investments in groups organizing their communities and turning out voters, we can build lasting power and make the 2020s a progressive decade.

What The Movement Won In 2020

The 2020 election was a game-changing victory, giving Democrats a narrow trifecta to pass legislation and appoint judges, but it was also a near-death experience. We defeated Trump by a hair. While the Biden-Harris ticket won the popular vote by more than 6 million votes, we won the electoral college by less than 43,000 votes across three states: Arizona, Georgia, and Wisconsin. That's an even narrower margin than the 77,000 votes Trump won by in 2016.

MVP's local grassroots partners won this election. Our partners in Arizona alone made more than 30 million voter contact attempts. Biden's margin of victory in Arizona was 10,457 votes. Our partners in Georgia and Wisconsin contacted voters on a comparable scale, with winning margins of 12,670 and 20,565 respectively. Make no mistake — without MVP's partners in these three states, Trump would be president for the next four years. And without the extraordinary double Senate win in Georgia thanks to the heroic work of Black organizers, governing would be next to impossible.

There is nothing small about these achievements. We are eternally grateful to MVP's local partners, who delivered more than the margin of victory. And we should all be proud of ourselves for helping. For the rest of our lives. We saved our country.

On the other hand, we almost lost. We underperformed down ballot. And we have a tough road ahead in 2022 and 2024, more than most people realize. But despite the painful losses, we had so many local victories worth celebrating. On this page, you can find some of our favorite highlights, photos, videos, and takeaways from our grassroots partners.

But first, some stats about our work:

ARIZONA

Our partners in Arizona made more than 30 million voter contacts (1.6 million doors, 20 million calls, and 7 million texts yielding 1.2 million commitments on the C4 side alone). In addition to flipping the Presidential race by 10,457 votes, and helping flip a Senate race, they also flipped a State House and a State Senate seat, coming three seats shy of flipping both chambers! Arizona also elected the first Latina to win a statewide office, who will now be serving on the AZ Corporation Commission, which regulates utilities including fossil fuels and renewable energy.

We supported our partners to expand beyond their core Latinx voting base in Maricopa County. MVP helped seed several new organizations led by Black, Native, APIA, and rural organizers across the state and helped drive these communities to record turnout. The Navajo Nation saw a voter turnout increase of 25%, even as they were devastated by COVID. Their work has made Arizona one of our most amazing success stories.

Winning Arizona in 2020 was a battle more than a decade in the making. MVP is going to double down on this crucial sunbelt battleground, which will feature a competitive Governor's race and a Senate rematch in 2022.

Looking Ahead

Having analyzed the landscape, we anticipate the next two election cycles will be tougher than most people seem to realize. The House is an uphill battle for the next decade and we're likely to lose about five seats with reapportionment and redistricting alone. That's not even factoring in the likely headwinds of the 2022 midterms. The President's party has lost House seats in 37 of the past 40 midterms, losing 33 seats on average. The Senate map is even worse — by far our biggest problem. It will be hard for Democrats to even hold the 50 seats we have for the next decade and 2021 gerrymandering will be almost as bad as before. The Presidential race and the electoral college in 2024 are likely to be tough. And if the 2022 midterms wipe away Democratic Governors and Secretaries of State in key swing states, it will leave us exposed to Republican trifectas controlling elections in advance of 2024 — a terrifying prospect. It looks the GOP is going to run a permanent smear campaign for the next four years and use every dirty trick possible to get revenge in 2022 and 2024. In short, we have our work cut out for us.

MVP is hitting the ground running in 2021. We are making four-year commitments to invest big and early in all of the critical 2022 and 2024 battlegrounds — House, Senate, Presidential, and strategic down ballot races. We have to assume that Trump and the other side are going to upgrade their tactics. MVP is already making early investments to strengthen our local grassroots partners for the battles to come, from South Florida to South Texas, from North Philly to Northern Wisconsin, from East Detroit to Eastern North Carolina, from Orange County to the Navajo Nation.

There's a lot of analysis and evaluation still to do on the 2020 election. But we do know this — when we invest early and deeply and holistically enough in community-led power building, we can move the needle over time. MVP talent scouts emerging local partners who know their communities. And we support them to grow and succeed against all odds. MVP's model works. Thank you so much for being our partner in this work. We are doubling down and going even bigger over the next four years. Please think big and let us know how you want to be involved!

Fair Fight PAC, Democratic Party of Georgia Launch Legislative Victory Fund

August 7, 2019

ATLANTA – Today, Fair Fight PAC, founded by former Georgia House Democratic Leader Stacey Abrams, and the Democratic Party of Georgia announced the launch of the Legislative Victory Fund, a multi-million dollar effort to capture the majority in the Georgia House of Representatives and win additional seats in the Georgia Senate. “Georgia Democrats’ ability to fight for a vibrant economy and quality health care depends on the number of seats we control in the General Assembly,” said Abrams. “It was an honor to work with 2018 legislative candidates across Georgia to engage and inspire voters in record numbers, with success across the state. The Legislative Victory Fund will work to protect these incumbents and continue to expand the Democratic caucus in both the House and Senate, with an eye on a House majority.” The Legislative Victory Fund will be a dedicated campaign arm of the Democratic Party of Georgia focused on legislative races. “Republicans under the Gold Dome showed their true colors this past legislative session by passing a forced pregnancy bill, jeopardizing Georgia’s economy and ignoring job creators, and wasting taxpayer dollars while failing to expand health care coverage,” said Democratic Party of Georgia Chair Nikema Williams, a state senator. “Now, as elections draw closer, Republicans are running scared because they know as well as we do just how out of touch they are with the voters they represent.” Leading the Legislative Victory Fund will be Craig Walters, the former Field and Targeting Director of the House Democratic Caucus and a leader in the field effort of Abrams’ historic 2018 gubernatorial campaign. A lifelong Georgian, Walters is a native of McDonough, Georgia and a graduate of Berry College. During Abrams’ seven years as House Democratic Leader, Democrats prevented a Republican supermajority and steadily gained seats. With Abrams at the top of the Democrats’ ticket in 2018 and a slate of tremendous candidates running across the state, Georgia Democrats captured fourteen House seats and two Senate seats that were previously under Republican

ICYMI: Startling On-The-Ground Report Exposes "Dangerous" and Discredited Maricopa County, Arizona "Audit"

May 14, 2021

Voting rights experts "raising alarms" over the process, saying "there's no audit or even recount process that looks like this"

A new on-the-ground report from The Guardian lays out the "dangerous" so-called "audit" underway in Maricopa County, Arizona being led by conspiracy theorists and insurrectionists as part of their attempts to overturn the certified results of the last election and continue pushing the Big Lie. This GOP-backed "audit" singling out a heavily Democratic county with large numbers of voters of color already has elections experts "raising alarms" over inconsistencies and a process that "wouldn't tell the auditors anything."

As the Washington Post previously reported, "More than five months after the 2020 presidential election, and after numerous failed attempts to overturn the results, former president Donald Trump has seized on a new avenue to try to call the outcome into question: a hand recount of 2.1 million ballots cast in Arizona's largest county." This "audit" is not supported by or conducted by state or county election officials, who have already done their job to fairly count, audit, and certify the election results. Arizona's Electoral Votes were properly cast for Joe Biden and Kamala Harris more than four months ago — and nothing under Arizona law at the time authorized this so-

Our Mission

Our Nation United was founded by experienced marketing, psychology, and advertising strategists to win, House and Senate races for Democratic candidates.

Since the 2010 Citizen United decision, republican-aligned Super PACs have raised hundreds of millions of dollars to fund false and negative campaigns against Democratic House and Senate candidates along with an unprecedented campaign to dishonor and malign President Obama. The overwhelming amount of republican-aligned TV advertising in 2010 was devastating to many House and Senate candidates.

This flood of money into ad campaigns has shifted views of Americans so far to the right, that a candidate like Donald Trump is now acceptable to a wide group of voters due to the near constant exposure of ads the present a false narrative to the public.

Luckily, (like their outdated policies) Republican-aligned PAC advertising and opinion positioning strategies are just as outdated. Their only advantage is the sheer amount of dollars they can throw at advertising and paid media pundits. Our Nation United uses only the most impactful methods to engage voters and get the message and strategy out to defend the most vulnerable Democratic House and Senate candidates. We will bring the fight to them on their own block, city or state to hold back the onslaught of massive Republican-aligned ad spending.

MINUTE ENTRY

The Court has reviewed Cyber Ninjas, Inc.'s ("CNI") Motion for Entry of Judgment, Senate Defendants' Objection, Phoenix Newspapers, Inc.'s ("PNI") and Kathy Tulumello's Opposition and CNI's Reply.

SUPERIOR COURT OF ARIZONA
MARICOPA COUNTY

CV2021-008265

First, CNI asserts that motions ruled on by the Honorable John Hannah should be vacated or reconsidered based upon alleged improprieties as outlined in CNI's Motion to Disqualify Judge Hannah. This motion was denied as moot and has no bearing on this Court's ruling on this issue.

Second, the proposed order regarding CNI and Senate Defendants meet and confer as to which records are to be disclosed is inconsistent with the Arizona Public Records Law's ("PRL") requirement for prompt action by a custodian of records to the entity requesting the records. CNI's records are the Senate's records since CNI is the agent and custodian of those records and the Senate is obligated to disclose the records to PNI if they are not otherwise privileged. Cyber Ninjas, Inc. v. Hannah, No. 1 CA-SA 21-0173, 2021 Ariz. App. Unpub. LEXIS 1107, at ¶ 17 (Nov. 9, 2021). CNI is a custodian of the Senate's public records and properly joined as a party in PNI's special action. The records in question are no less public records and CNI is properly joined as a party in PNI's special action. The records in question are no less public records simply because they are in the possession of a third party, CNI. Fann v. Kemp, No. 1 CA-SA 21-0141, 2021 Ariz. App. Unpub. LEXIS 834, ¶ 23 (Aug. 19, 2021).

Third, CNI states it seeks this Judgment for appellate review of the issue of whether the public records are subject to the PRL even if they are in the sole possession of CNI. This issue has been thoroughly litigated and the Court of Appeals has rejected the argument that CNI's records are not public records because the government does not possess or own them. Hannah, at ¶ 9. CNI's position that there is no dispute that the government does not own these records is clearly misplaced. These records are by law public records to be disclosed pursuant to the PRL. The issues raised by CNI in the motion have been clearly and unequivocally ruled upon.

Fourth, prior orders by Judge Hannah are not considered moot as contemplated by the Proposed Judgment. Nor would the Proposed Judgment apply to the American Oversight ("AO") action. The same issues outlined above and clearly litigated through higher courts would again be raised by CNI. The Proposed Order would not be final.

The Proposed Judgment also effectively prohibits Senate Defendants from disclosing certain records that may come into its possession which is not consistent with the mandates of the PRL. The Court, however, is not overly concerned with Senate Defendants' and CNI's complaints that review of these records is time consuming and an economic burden. Senate Defendants hired CNI to perform this audit and both must live with the consequences of this endeavor. Senate Defendants and CNI, on their own, created this situation and the public should not be deprived of the right to see what their government has done in reviewing the 2020 Maricopa County elections. The public has a right to know regardless of the burden on these two entities.

This Court has substantial discretion under Rule 54(b), Ariz. R. Civ. P. to decline to certify a judgment under Rule 54(b). Cont'l Cas v. Superior Court, 130 Ariz. 189, 191 (1981). The purposes and rationale for entering a Rule 54(b) Judgment would not be satisfied by the Proposed Judgment. The Motion for Entry of Judgment is denied.

MEMORANDUM DECISION

Judge Maria Elena Cruz delivered the decision of the Court, in which Acting Presiding Judge David B. Gass and Judge Randall M. Howe joined.

C R U Z, Judge:

¶1 Petitioner Cyber Ninjas, Inc. (“Cyber Ninjas”) seeks relief from the superior court’s order denying its motion to dismiss the special action complaint filed against it by Phoenix Newspapers, Inc. and Kathy Tulumello (collectively “PNI”). For the following reasons, we accept jurisdiction but deny relief.

FACTUAL AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

¶2 The Arizona Senate initiated an audit of voting equipment used and ballots cast in Maricopa County in the 2020 general election, and it retained Cyber Ninjas, a private corporation, to serve as its primary vendor for that audit. Cyber Ninjas then hired multiple private companies to assist it in the audit.

¶3 In June 2021, the Arizona Republic, published by Phoenix Newspapers, Inc., served a request on Cyber Ninjas to inspect documents relating to the audit. The newspaper asserted the documents were public records subject to inspection under Arizona’s Public Records Law (“PRL”), Chapter 1 of Title 39, Arizona Revised Statutes (“A.R.S”). Cyber Ninjas did not produce any records to the Arizona Republic in response to its request.

¶4 PNI then filed a statutory special action under the PRL against Cyber Ninjas, the Senate, Senate President Karen Fann and other Senate

CYBER NINJAS v. HON. HANNAH, et al.
Decision of the Court

officials. Cyber Ninjas moved to dismiss the complaint, which the superior court denied. Citing A.R.S. § 39-121.02, the court ordered Cyber Ninjas to produce copies of public records related to the audit in its possession, custody, or control. Cyber Ninjas then petitioned for special action seeking relief from: (1) the superior court’s denial of its motion to dismiss and (2) the order to produce any public records directly to PNI. At Cyber Ninjas’ request, we temporarily stayed the superior court’s order that it produce all documents directly to PNI.¹

SPECIAL ACTION JURISDICTION

¶5 Special action review is generally appropriate if a party has no “equally plain, speedy, and adequate remedy by appeal.” Ariz. R.P. Spec. Act. 1(a); see generally Sw. Gas Corp. v. Irwin, 229 Ariz. 198, 201, ¶¶ 5-7 (App. 2012). Our decision to accept special action jurisdiction is discretionary and is “appropriate in matters of statewide importance, issues of first impression, cases involving purely legal questions, or issues that are likely to arise again.” State v. Superior Court (Landeros), 203 Ariz. 46, 47, ¶ 4 (App. 2002).

¶6 Here, the issues raised in the petition are pure questions of law and are of statewide importance. Accordingly, we accept special action jurisdiction.

DISCUSSION

¶7 This case presents a question of statutory interpretation, which we review de novo. McHale v. McHale, 210 Ariz. 194, 196, ¶ 7 (App. 2005).

¶8 The PRL requires “[a]ll officers and public bodies” to “maintain all records . . . reasonably necessary or appropriate to maintain an accurate knowledge of their official activities and of any of their activities that are supported by monies from this state or any political subdivision of this state.” A.R.S. § 39-121.01(B). Arizona law imposes additional duties on those responsible for public records. For example, “[e]ach public body shall be responsible for the preservation, maintenance and care of that body’s public records, and each officer shall be responsible for the preservation, maintenance and care of that officer’s public records.” Each public body also has a duty “to carefully secure, protect and preserve public records from deterioration, mutilation, loss or destruction” A.R.S. § 39-121.01(C).

¹ The Senate is not a party to this special action proceeding from the superior court’s ruling against Cyber Ninjas. We note that, as a consequence of our ruling in Fann v. Kemp, 1 CA-SA 21-0141, 2021 WL 3674157 (Ariz. App. Aug. 19, 2021) (mem. decision), the Senate has formally asked Cyber Ninjas to produce to the Senate certain documents relating to the audit that remain in Cyber Ninjas’ possession. Per the parties’ agreement, we ordered Cyber Ninjas to promptly begin processing the Senate’s request to disclose those documents to the Senate for it to review on an ongoing basis.

CYBER NINJAS v. HON. HANNAH, et al.
Decision of the Court

¶9 We recently addressed a request for audit documents made to the Arizona Senate under the PRL. Fann, 1 CA-SA 21-0141, at *4-5, ¶¶ 23-25. In that case, we rejected the Senate’s contention that records relating to the audit that remain in Cyber Ninjas’ possession are not subject to the PRL and we ruled the Senate must obtain from Cyber Ninjas any records that were requested under the PRL. Id. at ¶¶ 21-25 (holding Cyber Ninjas was the Senate’s agent in performing an “important legislative function”). To be clear, and because Cyber Ninjas continues to argue to the contrary, we reiterate our holding in Fann that documents relating to the audit are public records subject to the PRL even if they are in the possession of Cyber Ninjas rather than the Senate. Id. at *4, ¶ 23.

¶10 Cyber Ninjas also argues it cannot be subject to suit under the PRL because it is not a public entity, an issue that, as PNI acknowledges, was not before this court in Fann. In support of the superior court’s ruling, PNI first argues Cyber Ninjas is subject to suit under the PRL because it is an “officer” of the Senate or a “public body.” We disagree.

¶11 Section 39-121.01(A) defines “Officer” and “Public body” as follows:

- A. In this article, unless the context otherwise requires:
 1. “Officer” means any person elected or appointed to hold any elective or appointive office of any public body and any chief administrative officer, head, director, superintendent or chairman of any public body.
 2. “Public body” means this state, any county, city, town, school district, political subdivision or tax-supported district in this state, any branch, department, board, bureau, commission, council or committee of the foregoing, and any public organization or agency, supported in whole or in part by monies from this state

CYBER NINJAS v. HON. HANNAH, et al.
Decision of the Court

or any political subdivision of this state, or expending monies provided by this state or any political subdivision of this state.

A.R.S. § 39-121.01(A)(1), (2).

¶12 Cyber Ninjas has performed a public function in undertaking the audit and was paid with public funds to do so. Nevertheless, although the Senate delegated its legislative responsibilities with respect to the audit to Cyber Ninjas, Cyber Ninjas is not a “public body” or “officer” as the PRL defines those terms. Neither definition in A.R.S. § 39-121.01 encompasses a private contractor, and Cyber Ninjas cannot fairly be characterized as either. See supra ¶ 11.

¶13 PNI also argues it may obtain relief against Cyber Ninjas under the PRL because Cyber Ninjas is the sole “custodian” of documents that are public records subject to disclosure under the PRL. We agree.

¶14 As PNI contends, the PRL requires a “custodian” of public records to “promptly furnish” requested records. A.R.S. § 39-121.01(D)(1). Although the PRL does not define “custodian,” that word commonly means “[a] person or institution that has charge or custody (of a child, property, papers, or other valuables),” or “[s]omeone who carries, maintains, processes, receives, or stores a digital asset.” Black’s Law Dictionary 483 (11th ed. 2019). “Custody” means “[t]he care and control of a thing or person for inspection, preservation, or security.” Id.; W. Valley View Inc. v. Maricopa Cnty. Sheriff’s Office, 216 Ariz. 225, 229, ¶ 16 (App. 2007).

¶15 To the extent Cyber Ninjas is in sole possession of audit-related public records because of its contract with the Senate, Cyber Ninjas has become the custodian of those records under the PRL. And as to those records, Cyber Ninjas has assumed the obligations the PRL assigns to a “custodian” of public records. Under the PRL, a person seeking public records must make its request to the “custodian” of the records. A.R.S. § 39-121.01(D)(1). “Access to a public record is deemed denied if a custodian fails to promptly respond to a request for production of a public record.” A.R.S. § 39-121.01(E).

¶16 In the event a custodian of public records refuses a request for those records, the person denied access “may appeal the [custodian’s] denial through a special action in the superior court, pursuant to the rules of procedure for special actions against the officer or public body.” A.R.S. § 39-121.02(A). As noted, PNI’s special action complaint also properly named the Senate and various Senate officials. Although the PRL does not specify that a suit for damages may be brought against a custodian of public records, see A.R.S. § 39-121.02(C), in these circumstances, nothing prevents a party from joining a custodian of records as a party to a statutory special action under the PRL. See Ariz. R.P. Spec. Act. 2(a)(1), (b) (court may order joinder of persons² other than the “body, officer or person against whom relief is sought.”). See also Arpaio v. Citizen Publ’g Co., 221 Ariz. 130, 133, ¶ 10 n.4 (App. 2008); Gerow v. Covill, 192 Ariz. 9, 14, ¶ 21 (App. 1998) (citing Ariz. R. Civ. P. 19(a)(1)(A) (where feasible, joinder may be required of a person “if, in that person’s absence, the court cannot accord complete relief among existing parties.”)).

CYBER NINJAS v. HON. HANNAH, et al.
Decision of the Court

¶17 Here, Cyber Ninjas was properly joined as a necessary party in PNI’s special action because, even though it is a private company, as a contractor and agent of the Senate, it is alleged to be the sole custodian of records pertaining to the audit that are subject to disclosure under the PRL. In other words, joinder of Cyber Ninjas is necessary only because the Senate does not have the public records that are in Cyber Ninjas’ custody. Under the unusual facts of this case, the custodian necessarily must be joined. Cyber Ninjas would not be a necessary party if it had turned over the public records requested by the Senate – it is a necessary party by its own actions.

¶18 To hold otherwise would circumvent the PRL’s purpose, which “exists to allow citizens to be informed about what their government is up to.” Scottsdale Unified Sch. Dist. 48 of Maricopa Cnty. v. KPNX Broad. Co., 191 Ariz. 297, 302-03, ¶ 21 (1998) (citation and internal quotation marks omitted). We noted in Fann that “[t]he requested records are no less public records simply because they are in the possession of a third party, Cyber Ninjas.” 1 CA-SA 21-0141, at *4, ¶ 23. In Forum Publishing Co. v. City of Fargo, 391 N.W.2d 169 (N.D. 1986), the city of Fargo contracted a consulting firm to assist in the search of a new city chief of police. Id. at 170. A publishing company obtained a writ of mandamus from the District Court ordering the city to deliver applications and records disclosing the names and qualifications of applicants. Id. The city appealed. Id. In affirming the issuance of the writ of mandamus the North Dakota Supreme Court aptly observed:

We do not believe the open-record law can be circumvented by the delegation of a public duty to a third party, and these documents are not any less a public record simply because they were in possession of PDI. . . . [The] purpose of the open-

² Section 1-215(29) defines “person” as “a corporation, company, partnership, firm, association or society, as well as a natural person.”

CYBER NINJAS v. HON. HANNAH, et al.
Decision of the Court

record law would be thwarted if we were to hold that documents so closely connected with public business but in the possession of an agent or independent contractor of the public entity are not public records.

Id. at 172.

¶19 Cyber Ninjas argues that the logic of the superior court's order would open the files of all government contractors to public inspection. We need not decide the extent to which the PRL applies to businesses that contract with the government to provide ordinary goods or services that government regularly purchases for the public. Contrary to Cyber Ninjas' contention, our ruling does not mean that construction companies and office-supply vendors will have to rush to establish new "public records" departments. "Only documents with a substantial nexus to government activities qualify as public records." Lake v. City of Phoenix, 222 Ariz. 547, 549, ¶ 8 (2009) (citation and internal quotation marks omitted). Here, the Senate's decision to undertake the audit was premised on its oversight authority, an important legislative function, which it then entirely outsourced to Cyber Ninjas and its subvendors. Nothing in the superior court's order or in this decision imposes obligations under the PRL on contractors that provide ordinary goods or services to the government.

¶20 In sum, the superior court did not err in determining that PNI properly joined Cyber Ninjas, the custodian of audit records subject to the PRL, when it filed a statutory special action to compel disclosure of those records. As noted above, we understand the Senate has asked Cyber Ninjas to turn over to the Senate certain documents related to the audit. To the extent Cyber Ninjas fails to deliver to the Senate any audit documents requested by PNI, it must "promptly furnish" those records directly to PNI. See A.R.S. § 39-121.01(D)(1). As the superior court ordered, the Senate and Cyber Ninjas may confer about which public records in the possession, custody, or control of either party should be withheld based on a purported privilege or for any other legal reason.

¶21 PNI requests attorneys' fees and costs incurred in responding to the petition under A.R.S. §§ 39-121.02(B), 12-341, -342, and Ariz. R.P. Spec. Act. 4(g). Because PNI has substantially prevailed, we award it its reasonable costs and attorneys' fees upon compliance with ARCAP 21 and Ariz. R.P. Spec. Act. 4(g).

CYBER NINJAS v. HON. HANNAH, et al.
Decision of the Court

CONCLUSION

¶22 For the foregoing reasons we accept jurisdiction, deny relief and lift the stay of proceedings previously issued regarding the superior court's August 24, 2021 order.

Rules

Ariz. R. Civ. App. P. 2114

INTRODUCTION

Defendant Cyber Ninjas, Inc. (“Petitioner,” “Defendant,” or “CNI”), by and through undersigned counsel, hereby files this Petition for Special Action appealing from the lower court’s order filed on August 24, 2021 (hereinafter referred to as the “Order,” Exhibit 1 hereto), requiring CNI to produce around sixty thousand (60,000) documents by today (technically – the Order has been stayed, as explained immediately below).

The Arizona Supreme Court has effectively stayed enforcement of the Order;¹ but that stay may terminate as soon as September 14, 2021. Cyber Ninjas therefore reserves the right to file a “backup” Motion to Stay as part of this proceeding, to the extent necessary (i.e., in the event that this proceeding is not concluded before September 14).

Because of the immediacy of the lower court’s orders—and also because the issue of whether a mere private contractor can be deemed a “public officer or public body,” with the responsibility to receive and respond to public records requests, is clearly of statewide importance—Cyber Ninjas asks the Court to take jurisdiction over this special action.

1. Background

¹ The Order itself provides that it is stayed with respect to CNI, so long as the Arizona Supreme Court’s stay (of another order, in another matter) remains in effect (Arizona Supreme Court Case No. CV-21-0197-PR. The order in that case required the Senate to request/obtain documents from CNI and is presently on appeal.) On August 24, the Arizona Supreme Court extended that stay through at least September 14, 2021. (See Appendix, hereinafter “App.,” at 171)

By the admission of all parties, Cyber Ninjas, Inc. is a private corporation that was contracted by the Senate. (See paragraph 8 of the Complaint: “Defendant/Real Party in Interest Cyber Ninjas, Inc., a corporation organized under the laws of the state of Florida, was engaged by the Arizona Senate to conduct the Senate’s audit of ballots in Maricopa County in the 2020 election.”) (App. 22)

On June 2, 2021, CNI received a demand from the Arizona Republic for an “inspection of public records,” which alleged without basis that CNI was a “public officer[]” or “public bod[y]” and therefore responsible for receiving/responding to a public records request made under A.R.S. §§ 39-121 et seq. By the admission of all parties, CNI is a private contractor for the Senate (and it owes contractual duties of confidentiality to the Senate). Accordingly, CNI did not produce any records to the Arizona Republic in response to the request.

The publisher of the Republic (Phoenix Newspapers, Inc., or “PNI”) then sued CNI under the public records law, again alleging that CNI is a public officer or public body. CNI filed a Motion to Dismiss, which was fully briefed. (App. at 119, 126, and 162)

The case was assigned to Judge John Hannah—who, in another case that was unrelated to CNI or the Senate’s audit, made a snide comment on the record about the “wisdom” of the audit. As soon as the case was assigned to Hannah, CNI promptly moved to disqualify and remove him (both for cause and without cause), which remains on appeal with the Arizona Supreme Court (and is set for conference on Sep. 14th, CV-21-0185-PR). In the meantime, Hannah summarily denied CNI’s Motion to Dismiss and signed a proposed order that PNI submitted to him immediately before an August 23rd hearing, ordering CNI to produce around 60,000 records to PNI within less than a week (by August 31st). (Exhibit 1.) While Hannah’s order contained no reasoning, Hannah made comments during the August 23rd hearing indicating that he believed that CNI was in some kind of “joint venture” with the Senate. Finally, the only claim that PNI brought against CNI in the case was for wrongful denial of access to public records pursuant to A.R.S. §§ 39-121 et seq., in which PNI alleged that: “In accordance with A.R.S. §§ 39-121 and -121.01(B), Defendant Cyber Ninjas Inc., as a ‘public officer’ and/or ‘public body’ by virtue of its performing a core governmental function funded in part by state taxpayer dollars, was required to maintain these Public Records and make them available for inspection and copying promptly upon request by PNI and its journalists. Yet, Cyber Ninjas refused to do so. For all these reasons, Defendant Cyber Ninjas, Inc. has failed to perform its duties required under the Arizona Public Records Law, and it therefore has wrongfully denied PNI access to inspect and copy the Records as a matter of law.” (Complaint, paragraphs 66-67, App. at 35-36)

2. Argument

The trial judge has not yet given his reasoning – but given the immediacy of his Order, inter alia, CNI has no time or reason to delay in this appeal. The denial of CNI’s Motion to Dismiss is also a pure issue of law, which is subject to de novo review.

The only claim against CNI in this case is clearly subject to dismissal. And that claim – for wrongful withholding of public records against a public “officer or public body” under A.R.S. § 39-121.02—is the only claim that could possibly entitle PNI to the relief that was granted here. In other words, it is the only claim that could entitle PNI to an order directing CNI to produce documents directly to PNI, i.e., to produce records to “any person” who has requested to inspect CNI’s records. This is, for example, materially different from requiring CNI to produce any Senate public records to the Senate or requiring Senate to obtain them from CNI. This was an order for CNI to produce its own records, whether private or public, directly to a member of the public (PNI).

This distinction is critical, for a number of apparent reasons. Pursuant to the public records statutes, it is clear that only the chief “officer” of a public body is responsible for receiving and responding to records requests. But the trial court’s ruling would subject every private contractor, as well as every state employee – including the members of this court and their staff – to a legal responsibility to receive and respond to records requests from literally any member of the public, under the penalty of being sued and subject to court order if they refuse. The trial court’s order would result in every private contractor for the government having to operate and fund their own public-records departments, in order to receive and respond to public-records requests from literally any member of the public—not to mention new protocols, responsibilities and liabilities for state employees, who are now subject to the responsibility of receiving public records requests, even though they are clearly not the chief administrator of the public body or authorized by the chief administrator to receive such requests on their behalf. Further, if the statute required anyone other than the “officer” of a “public body” to receive and respond to records requests made directly by members of the public, then the actual officer/public body to whom the records belong – in this case, the Arizona Senate – would have no say over how or what/when their own records are produced.

In a nutshell, the trial court completely ignored everything about the public-records statutes – including the plain wording; the public policy inherent in not subjecting every private contractor/state employee to receiving, responding to, and being sued over public-records requests; the public policy of allowing public bodies to exercise control over their own records; and even the statute’s application to the basic undisputed facts of this case, such as that CNI is a private contractor with narrow (and nearly finished) contractual duties to the State—in order to reach a pre-ordained conclusion and simply grant PNI all of the that relief it wanted. The trial-court judge’s order requiring CNI to produce documents directly to PNI must be reversed, and the claim against CNI under the public-records statutes dismissed with prejudice.

Finally – to date, the Senate (to whom any “public records” would belong) has not requested any records from CNI or authorized/directed CNI to make productions to the Senate. All that CNI has received is an illegal public-records request from PNI, which groundlessly alleged that CNI was an officer of a public body and which demanded that CNI produce records directly to PNI—a request that CNI properly denied. What follows is a short memorandum of legal points and authorities in support of this special action.²

² Due to time constraints imposed by the immediacy of the lower court’s order, this memorandum is largely repetitive of CNI’s briefs in support of its Motion to Dismiss and Reply, which were previously filed with the trial court on July 27 and August 17. (App. at 119 and 162, respectively)

a. Only a public body, by and through its chief officer, is responsible for receiving and responding to public-records requests

PNI brought only one claim against CNI, which was under A.R.S. § 39-121.02—claiming wrongful denial of access to public records by a public officer or public body. However, CNI is neither of those things; it is a private contractor that was hired by the President of the Arizona State Senate. PNI’s Complaint alleged that CNI was subject to being sued for public records because it is an “agent” of the Senate (“performing a core government function”), and because it is being paid by the Senate (see Complaint at paragraphs 8, 10, and 50, App. at 21 and 32); but this argument has absolutely no legal or statutory basis whatsoever. Moreover, if PNI were correct then it would subject every single employee or contractor of the State – including hard-working people like the staff of this Court, peace officers, firefighters, etc. – to having to respond to public records requests and being sued for denial of access. This is plainly not how the statutes read. The statutes clearly define the persons or entities subject to a records request – i.e. a “officer” and “public body” – as consisting only of elected or appointed officials or chief administrative officers, chairmen, “head[s],” “director[s],” and “supervisors[s]” of a “public body” (and “public bod[ies]” consist of the State and “public organization[s] or agenc[ies]” that receive taxpayer funds). See A.R.S. § 39-121.01(A)(1), (A)(2), discussed infra. A private contractor like CNI is clearly none of these things; to hold otherwise would be to subject every government contractor to having to form their own public records departments, and/or suffer liability for not “promptly” responding to intensive records requests from literally any member of the public. This is plainly not allowed by the statutes.

The public records statutes are contained at A.R.S. §§ 39-121 et seq. First, A.R.S. § 39-121 provides that “[p]ublic records and other matters in the custody of any officer shall be open to inspection by any person at all times during office hours.” (Emphasis added.) Second, A.R.S. § 39-121.01(A)(1) defines “officer” as: “any person elected or appointed to hold any elective or appointive office of any public body and any chief administrative officer, head, director, superintendent or chairman of any public body.” Again, CNI is none of these things, as PNI admits. PNI merely alleges that CNI is an “agent” of a public body – which is to say, CNI is not even an employee of a public body, and certainly far less than an “officer”/administrator. To quote the Arizona Supreme Court: “[a]n ‘office’ is defined as ‘an employment on behalf of the government in any station of public trust not merely transient, occasional, or incidental.’ It is a ‘special trust or charge created by competent authority.’ The officer is distinguished from the employee in the greater importance, dignity, and independence of his position, in being required to take an official oath, and perhaps to give an official bond, in the liability of being called to account as a public offender for misfeasance or nonfeasance in office and usually, though not necessarily, in the tenure of his position.” Winsor v. Hunt, 29 Ariz. 504, 519, 243 P. 407, 412 (1926). CNI – which again is merely a private contractor, as PNI admits – is not even an employee of the State, much less a tenured, oath-taking “officer.” The public-records request statute clearly does not apply to CNI, and PNI's claim that CNI must respond directly to any member of the public on a request for its records is groundless.

Because A.R.S. § 39-121 only provides that an "officer" must respond to a public records request, and CNI is clearly not an "officer" of a public body within the meaning of the statute, then that ends the analysis. But if for no reason other than academic interest: the definition of "public body" is also contained at A.R.S. § 39 121.01(A)(2), which provides that "public body" means: "this state, any county, city, town, school district, political subdivision or tax-supported district in this state, any branch, department, board, bureau, commission, council or committee of the foregoing, and any public organization or agency, supported in whole or in part by monies from this state or any political subdivision of this state, or expending monies provided by this state or any political subdivision of this state." Part of PNI's argument – specifically, its argument that CNI must honor a public records request because it is getting paid by the State – sort of apes the last phrase in this definition of a "public body" (i.e., the part which says "supported in whole or in part...or expending moneys provided by this state..."). But that phrase plainly applies only to "any public organization or agency" – which again, CNI is not. And public records requests must be directed to an "officer" within the meaning of A.R.S. §§ 39-121, 39-121.01(A)(1), which we have already established that CNI is not. If merely getting paid by the State caused someone to be subject to a public-records request, then literally any employee of the State – not to mention other private contractors, like the Arizona Republic even (which occasionally prints government notices, see below) – would be subject to responding to public records requests and being sued on them.

Finally, A.R.S. § 39-121.02(A),(C) state that “[a]ny person who has requested to examine or copy public records pursuant to this article, and who has been denied access to or the right to copy such records, may appeal the denial through a special action in the superior court, pursuant to the rules of procedure for special actions against the officer or public body.” (Emphasis added.) And “[a]ny person who is wrongfully denied access to public records pursuant to this article has a cause of action against the officer or public body for any damages resulting from the denial.” (Emphasis added.) But again, CNI is not an officer or public body within the meaning of these statutes; nor was PNI’s public-records request to CNI made “pursuant to this article,” since the request was not directed to a public officer within the meaning of these statutes.

PNI has sort of argued that CNI was appointed to be the Senate’s “custodian of records.” PNI does not actually allege anywhere in this record facts to support that CNI has somehow become the Senate’s official custodian of Senate records. But moreover, PNI fails to point to any legal authority which supports the notion that even an official “custodian of records” for a public body may be directly named and sued in a statutory public-records claim. In other words, the statute under which PNI sued –A.R.S. § 39-121.02 – is clear that it only creates a cause of action against an “officer or public body,” and not even against a mere custodian who may be under their supervision. See A.R.S. § 39-121.02(A),(C). And again, CNI is not a public officer or body. In fact, a substantial piece of CNI’s contract work for the Senate is nearly finished. This is a far cry from CNI being a sworn officer of the state, with serious administrative duties and long-term obligations. CNI isn't even one of the state's employees, who may have substantial and/or long-term – but not necessarily administrative – duties. CNI is a private contractor, with short-term and narrowly defined contractual duties, period.

In its briefs, PNI has offered a reading of the statutory definition of “officer” that (1) stretches the definition of a public “office” past any reasonable breaking point (such that it would include, again, literally any government contractor or employee); and (2) shockingly ignores most of the statute’s actual language, namely: “...and any chief administrative officer, head, director, superintendent or chairman of any public body.” A.R.S. § 39-121.01(A)(1). This language is highly significant in demonstrating the meaning of “officer” under A.R.S. § 39-121.01(A)(1), owing to several fundamental canons of statutory interpretation. “The rule of statutory construction, noscitur a sociis, directs our attention to the accompanying words as we undertake to learn the meaning to be given” to particular statutory language. Planned Parenthood Comm. of Phoenix, Inc. v. Maricopa Cty., 92 Ariz. 231, 235, 375 P.2d 719, 722 (1962); see also Est. of Braden ex rel. Gabaldon v. State, 228 Ariz. 323, 326, 266 P.3d 349, 352 (2011)(“noscitur a sociis—a canon closely related to ejusdem generis—dictates that a statutory term is interpreted in context of the accompanying words”). The “chief administrative officer, head, director” etc. language clearly demonstrates the kind of “elective or appointed office of any public body” that the statute is talking about. Further, if the phrase “elective or appointed office of any public body” could be applied to any state employee or contractor, irrespective of their non-administrative and/or temporary role, then it would render superfluous the “chief administrative officer” (etc.) language that is found in the same sentence. This violates another basic rule of statutory interpretation, which is that “[i]nterpreting statutory language requires that we give meaning to each word, phrase, clause, and sentence within a statute so that no part will be superfluous, void, contradictory, or insignificant.” Champlin v. Sargeant In & For Cty. of Maricopa, 192 Ariz. 371, 374, 965 P.2d 763, 766 (1998). Finally, it also violates the doctrine of expressio unius est exclusio alterius — which is that “the expression of one or more items of a class indicates an intent to exclude omitted items of the same class.” Id. By enumerating only the “chief administrative officer, head, director, superintendent,” etc. of a public body, the legislature indicated an obvious intent to exclude lesser roles. Finally, PNI’s argument that the language “any person elected or appointed to hold any elective or appointive office of any public body” was intended to apply to private fictional entities/non-natural persons like CNI is groundless. Suffice to say, Arizona statutes clearly define the requirements for public office, “whether elective or appointive,” as including that a person must be “not less than eighteen years of age, [and must be] a citizen of the United States and a resident of this state,” inter alia. A.R.S. § 38-201.

To further highlight the unreasonableness of PNI’s position on this case: if PNI were correct in its interpretation of the public-records statutes, then it could be argued with equal force that PNI itself – namely, the publisher of the Arizona Republic (and one of its editors) – are subject to public records statutes. The Arizona

Republic has received over four hundred thousand dollars in government funds since 2003,³ on behalf of organizations like the VA, the HHS, DHS, and the DOD. In all cases, PNI was performing “core government functions” (to borrow Plaintiffs’ phraseology) by helping the government to find employees (through want ads) or publishing important government public notices—“core” government functions that the government “lacks the ability to perform...itself” and that are “initiated and funded with public dollars.” (to quote from PNI’s briefs below, pages 10-11 of its Response to the Motion to Dismiss inter alia). PNI argues that CNI’s contract is somehow special because it allegedly offers a service that is “exclusive” to government; but there is nothing more “exclusive” about CNI’s ability to conduct an audit for the government, than about PNI’s ability to write and publish things for the government. (Both entities are capable of providing the “same goods and services to a governmental entity that [they] could provide to a nongovernmental customer,” to quote Plaintiffs—not that any legal authority supports this as being a test anyway.) And eighteen years is certainly a longer period of time (and four hundred grand is a lot more in public funding) than CNI has or ever will receive from the government (especially since CNI is nearly done with a substantial part of its audit, after far less than one year). By PNI’s logic, PNI is an “agent” and “officer” of the government that is performing “government functions”; and therefore it is subject to being named by any citizen, at any time, in a public-records suit (and at risk of paying attorneys’ fees on the claim).

³ See e.g. “usaspending.gov” or “govtribe.com.”

PNI cites a case which it believes supports its position in this case, but which actually supports exactly what CNI is arguing here (if anything): Arpaio v. Citizen Pub. Co., 221 Ariz. 130, 133, 211 P.3d 8, 11 (App. 2008). The case merely addressed whether attorneys’ fees under the public-records statute could be awarded against a public officer (Arpaio) where the underlying public records request was actually sent to another officer (the Pima County Attorney). Arpaio had allegedly “caused” the Pima County Attorney to refuse to honor the records request, by invoking his attorney-client privilege with the county attorney. The Court of Appeals found that because the language in the attorneys’ fees provision of the public-records statute was uniquely not limited to just the public officer or public body responsible for providing records – in contrast to “most of the provisions of Arizona’s public records law,” including the section which “creates the cause of action” – then an award of fees was accordingly not limited to being against just the party to whom the records request was actually sent. “[U]nlike most of the provisions of Arizona’s public records law, § 39–121.02(B) [the fees provision] does not refer to the officer or public body having custody of the requested records. In further contrast, the other subsections of § 39–121.02 specifically refer to that officer or public body. Subsection (C) of § 39–121.02 creates a cause of action by the person requesting the records against ‘the officer or public body’ who ‘wrongfully denied access to [the requested] public records’ for any damages ‘resulting from the denial.’ Subsection (A) permits the person requesting the records to appeal the denial of his or her request by special action ‘against the officer or public body.’” Arpaio, 221 Ariz. at 133, 211 P.3d at 11. (Emphasis added.) In other words, the Arpaio case – while mostly inapposite—actually supports CNI’s contention in this case, by acknowledging that a cause of action under the statute only exists against the “officer or public body” to whom a valid records request was sent.

Finally, PNI points to the Rules of Special Action for the idea that it can simply name CNI as a “Real Party in Interest” and force CNI to pay for attorneys’ fees and costs in defending this suit, when there is no actual legally-cognizable claim asserted against CNI. The Rules of Special Action were not intended to justify naming any person with any kind of articulable connection to a lawsuit as a defendant in it by calling them a “Real Party in Interest”⁴—or else Rule 12(b)(6), which requires that an actual cognizable claim be asserted against every defendant, would be meaningless in such suits. Rule 12(b)(6) means what it says. PNI must assert a legally-cognizable claim against Defendant CNI; and because it does not, then the Complaint against CNI must be dismissed for failure to state a claim for which relief can be granted. Because CNI is clearly not an officer or public body under A.R.S. § 39–121.02, and PNI has only named CNI in a claim under that statute for denial of records access, then PNI’s Complaint fails to state a claim against CNI and it must be dismissed with prejudice. CNI reserves its right to seek attorneys’ fees and costs under ARCAP 21, A.R.S. §§ 12-349, 12-341 inter alia.

⁴ In actuality, the special action rule to which PNI points – which acknowledges that Real Parties in Interest may be named in certain special actions – was intended to address the common legal fiction of naming the judge as the “defendant” or “respondent” in a special-action of a judicial ruling (like this one). The actual defendants are instead named as the “real parties in interest.” The first comment to the Rule makes this abundantly clear.

4 121.01(A)(1).

5 8. Defendant/Real Party in Interest Cyber Ninjas, Inc. (“Cyber Ninjas”), a
6 corporation organized under the laws of the state of Florida, was engaged by the Arizona
7 Senate to conduct the Senate’s audit of ballots cast in Maricopa County in the 2020
8 election. Cyber Ninjas is an “[o]fficer” and/or a “[p]ublic body” within the meaning of 9 A.R.S. § 39-121.01(A), acting as, or as an agent of, the Arizona Senate and/or Defendant
10 President Fann, supported by and/or expending monies provided by the state, to conduct
11 the audit.

12 9. By law, Defendants Arizona Senate, President Karen Fann, Judiciary
13 Committee Chairman Warren Petersen, Secretary Susan Aceves and Cyber Ninjas 14 (together, “Defendants”) “shall maintain all records . . . reasonably necessary or 15 appropriate to maintain an accurate knowledge of their official activities and of any of 16 their activities which are supported by monies from the state or any political subdivision
17 of the state.” A.R.S. § 39-121.01(B).

18 10. Cyber Ninjas, acting as, or as the agent of, the Arizona Senate, has custody
19 and control of certain public records required to be maintained and provided to the public
20 by Defendants. A.R.S. § 39-121.01(B).

21 11. The Court has personal jurisdiction over the parties in this action, and 22 venue is proper in Maricopa County, Arizona.

23 12. This petition seeks inspection and copying of public records in accordance 24 with A.R.S. § 39-121.02(A), which provides that “[a]ny person who has requested to 25 examine or copy public records pursuant to this article, and who has been denied access 26 to or the right to copy such records, may appeal the denial through a special action in the 27 superior court, pursuant to the rules of procedure for special actions against the officer or

1 public body.” By law, “[a]ccess to public records is deemed denied if a custodian [of 2 such records] fails to promptly respond to a request for production of a public record.”
3 A.R.S. § 39-121.01(E).

4 FACTS

5 13. On November 3, 2020, Arizona held a general election, including for 6 federal offices that include President and members of Congress. More than 3.3 million
7 Arizonans cast ballots, including 2 million voters in Maricopa County, who accounted for 8 approximately 60 percent of the statewide total.

9 14. Democrat Joe Biden won a narrow victory over Republican incumbent
10 President Donald Trump in Arizona, with Biden’s slate of electors garnering 10,457 more
11 votes than Trump’s slate. Ward v. Jackson, --- Ariz. --, 2020 Ariz. LEXIS 313, at *1 12 (Ariz. Dec. 8, 2020), cert. denied, 141 S. Ct. 1381 (2021). Although the margin was 13 more than the one-tenth of one percent required for an automatic recount, id., the close 14 vote prompted several recounts and more than a half-dozen lawsuits challenging the 15 results.

16 15. None of those lawsuits was successful. In a suit brought by the head of the 17 state Republican Party challenging the Maricopa County vote count, the Arizona
18 Supreme Court held that the County’s “November 9, 2020 hand count audit revealed no
19 discrepancies in the tabulation of votes,” and an examination of more than 1,600 20 questioned ballots found only a “statistically negligible error” (a net gain of five votes for 21 Trump electors) that would not change the outcome. Id. at *6. Accordingly, the Arizona 22 Supreme Court affirmed dismissal of the lawsuit and “confirm[ed] the election of the 23 Biden Electors.” Id. at *7.

24 16. On December 15, 2020, the Arizona Senate Judiciary Committee served 25 two subpoenas on the Maricopa County Board of Supervisors, seeking access to the 26 County’s election tabulation equipment and all ballots and related records from the 2020

1 general election.¹ The Board of Supervisors and the Senate filed suit in this Court
2 seeking to quash and enforce the subpoenas, respectively.

3 17. On January 12, 2021, President Fann and Chairman Petersen served another
4 set of subpoenas seeking access to the ballots, tabulating equipment and related materials
5 from the 2020 general election on Maricopa County's Board of Supervisors, Recorder
6 and Treasurer.² The Maricopa County officials also challenged this second set of 7 subpoenas in this Court in an action eventually consolidated with their first one seeking 8 to quash the original subpoenas.

9 18. In a news release responding to the second Maricopa County lawsuit, the 10 Arizona Senate Republican Caucus, which President Fann leads, stated that "[a]ny firm
11 hired by the Senate will perform everything we have required in the subpoenas." News

16 19. President Fann and Chairman Petersen asserted in that litigation that their 17 subpoenas sought the ballots and materials for a "manifestly . . . valid legislative 18 purpose" in accordance with "the Arizona Constitution's express directive that the 19 Legislature must enact 'laws to secure the purity of elections and guard against abuses of 20 the elective franchise.' Ariz. Const. art. VII, § 12." Fann & Petersen Mot. for Judgment

1 (Super. Ct. Maricopa Cty. Feb. 22, 2021).³ The senators continued: “The Senate intends 2 to use data and information gleaned through the Subpoenas to evaluate the accuracy and 3 efficacy of existing vote tabulation systems and the competence of county officials in 4 performing their statutory duties, with an eye to enacting potential reforms.” Id. The 5 senators also stated that “[h]ow the Senate chooses to use materials obtained by the 6 Subpoenas and to whom it permits access are, simply put, far above the County’s pay 7 grade,” suggesting that whatever they chose to do with the subpoenaed materials would 8 be “privileged legislative activity.” Id. at 11 (citation omitted).

9 20. On February 25, 2021, Judge Timothy Thomason of this Court ruled that 10 the subpoenas were lawful and valid. The Senate and Maricopa County officials 11 eventually agreed on a protocol to transfer the ballots and other requested materials.

12 21. Rather than performing this “legislative activity” itself, the Senate instead 13 chose to hire a contractor to do the job. Thus, on March 31, 2021, President Fann and the 14 Republican leadership of the Arizona Senate announced that they had “hired a team of 15 independent auditors to complete a comprehensive, full forensic audit of the 2020
16 election in Maricopa County, including a hand recount of all ballots.”⁴ President Fann’s
17 statement said that Defendant Cyber Ninjas would lead that team. The statement said 18 that “[t]he audit will validate every area of the voting process to ensure the integrity of 19 the vote.”

20 22. Although the subpoenas were issued by President Fann and Chairman
21 Petersen in their individual capacities as Senate President and Judiciary Committee
22 Chairman, respectively, Cyber Ninjas’ Master Services Agreement (“MSA”) and

1 Statement of Work (“SOW”; together, the “Contract”) state that the Contract is between 2 Cyber Ninjas and the Arizona State Senate. A true and correct copy of the MSA is 3 attached hereto as Exhibit 1. A true and correct copy of the SOW is attached hereto as
4 Exhibit 2.

5 23. President Fann signed the MSA and SOW on behalf of the Arizona Senate.
6 MSA at 18; SOW at 11.

7 24. The SOW describes Cyber Ninjas’ duties as overseeing “a full and
8 complete audit of 100% of the votes cast within the 2020 November General Election
9 within Maricopa County, Arizona. This audit will attempt to validate every area of the 10 voting process to ensure the integrity of the vote.” SOW at 2.

11 25. The MSA states that the Senate “shall retain continuous and uninterrupted 12 custody of the ballots being tallied.” MSA at 8.

13 26. The MSA also includes a provision stating that its agreement with Cyber 14 Ninjas shall not “result in the breach of any term or provision of . . . any . . . law to 15 which [the Senate] is a Party or which otherwise is applicable to [the Senate].” MSA at 16 10.

17 27. The MSA requires the Senate to indemnify Cyber Ninjas from claims
18 asserting that Cyber Ninjas violated any law “or the rights of any third party” while 19 performing its duties under the agreement. MSA at 13. Further, in the event of such 20 legal action, the agreement requires Cyber Ninjas to “fully cooperate with the [Senate] by 21 providing information or documents requested by the [Senate] that are reasonably 22 necessary to the defense or settlement of the claim.” Id. at 14.

23 28. The Contract obligates the Arizona Senate to pay Cyber Ninjas $150,000,
24 with $50,000 to be paid at the Contract’s execution and the remaining $100,000 due 25 within 30 days of completion of the audit. SOW at 11.

26 29. The MSA states that the ballots and other materials subpoenaed by 27 President Fann and Chairman Petersen “are the sole and exclusive property of the 28

1 [Senate] or of the applicable political subdivision or governmental entity.” MSA at 7.

2 30. President Fann’s statement announcing Cyber Ninjas’ leadership of the 3 audit said the “Senate leadership expects this audit to be done in a transparent manner.”

4 31. That transparency has been lacking, however, as Defendants have refused
5 to provide public records responsive to PNI’s requests that are in the custody or control
6 of Cyber Ninjas.

7 32. The audit began on April 22, 2021, with the ballots’ delivery to the Arizona
8 Veterans Memorial Coliseum, the venue for the by-hand recount. On that day, reporter
9 Andrew Oxford emailed a public records request to President Fann pursuant to A.R.S. §§
10 39-121, et seq. (“Senate Request A”). A true and correct copy of Senate Request A, 11 along with an initial response, is attached hereto as Exhibit 3.

12 33. As pertinent here, Senate Request A sought all emails and text messages 13 between Ken Bennett, the Senate-appointed “liaison” for the audit, and Doug Logan,⁵ the 14 CEO of Cyber Ninjas, during 2021.

15 34. Senate Request A also requested audit-related emails and text messages
16 between President Fann and Mr. Bennett or Christina Bobb⁶ and all emails and text
17 messages between Mr. Bennett and Ms. Bobb or Sen. Sonny Borrelli.

18 35. On May 19, PNI wrote to President Fann and Norm Moore, then the 19 Senate’s public records counsel, noting that PNI had not received any response to Senate
20 Request A and that PNI considered that failure to amount to a constructive denial of the 21 request. A true and correct copy of that correspondence is attached hereto as Exhibit 4.

22 36. Later that day, President Fann and the Senate provided 27 pages of records

24 ⁵ Senate Request A erroneously refers to Mr. Logan as “Doug Jones,” an error counsel 25 for PNI have corrected in response to questions from counsel for President Fann and the Arizona Senate.

26 ⁶ Ms. Bobb is a reporter for One America News Network (“OANN”), the entity which 27 owned and operated the video cameras providing a live feed from inside the coliseum 28 during the ballot count. Ms. Bobb also has solicited donations for a private entity she heads that she said was assisting with funding the audit.

1 in partial response to Senate Request A.

2 37. On May 24, 2021, undersigned counsel for PNI wrote to President Fann
3 and Mr. Moore seeking “prompt and full compliance” with Senate Request A, noting that 4 PNI had not received any additional responsive records. A true and correct copy of that 5 correspondence is attached hereto as Exhibit 5.

6 38. Three days later, on May 27, 2021, President Fann and the Senate provided
7 another nine pages of records in partial response to Senate Request A.

8 39. In an email accompanying that production, Mr. Moore explained that the 9 nine pages had been inadvertently left out of the May 19 production. He stated that the 10 Senate did not have a system in place to capture public records stored on senators’
11 personal mobile phones, but that President Fann had agreed to collect and provide all 12 “non-privileged,” responsive public records from her phone. Mr. Moore said that the 13 Senate’s position was that it is not “legally obligated” to maintain or produce records
14 from Mr. Bennett, but that the Senate had agreed to collect and provide responsive public 15 records from him. A true and correct copy of that email is attached hereto as Exhibit 6.

16 40. That afternoon, counsel for PNI spoke with Mr. Moore and Kory
17 Langhofer, counsel for President Fann.

18 41. Messrs. Langhofer and Moore stated that neither the Senate nor President 19 Fann would produce any records in the possession of Cyber Ninjas because they took the 20 position that such documents were not public records. Noting that the Senate and 21 President Fann were in litigation with another requester regarding records in Cyber 22 Ninjas’ possession – and that the Maricopa County Board of Supervisors had sent the 23 Senate a litigation hold notice – Mr. Langhofer said that he had provided the supervisors’
24 notice to Cyber Ninjas and assumed that it would preserve any potentially responsive
25 records.

26 42. Messrs. Langhofer and Moore stated that the Senate would provide 27 responsive, non-privileged records from Mr. Bennett but did not waive their position that 28

1 Mr. Bennett was not subject to the public records statute.

2 43. Also on May 27, 2021, four PNI journalists, including Ms. Tulumello, sent
3 a follow-up public records request to President Fann and Mr. Moore (“Senate Request
4 B”). A true and correct copy of Senate Request B is attached hereto as Exhibit 7.

5 44. Senate Request B sought the following records:

- 6 a. All invoices involving Cyber Ninjas, Wake Technology Services,
7 CyFIR, LLC., and any other unnamed contractors/subcontractors
8 from Jan. 1, 2021 to present;
- 9 b. All audit related invoices in the possession of Cyber Ninjas, Wake
10 Technology Services, CyFIR, LLC and any other unnamed
11 contractors/subcontractors from Jan. 1, 2021 to present;
- 12 c. All financial documents involving Cyber Ninjas, Wake Technology
13 Services and CyFIR, LLC, and any other unnamed
14 contractors/subcontractors from Jan. 1, 2021 to present;
- 15 d. All audit-related correspondence (texts, emails, other) to/from Cyber 16 Ninjas, Wake Technology Services, CyFIR, LLC and any other

 - 14 ii. Any agent or member of Cyber Ninjas
 - 15 iii. Any agent or member of Wake Technology Services
 - 16 iv. Any agent or member of CyFIR, LLC and any other unnamed
 - 17 contractors/subcontractors
- 18 m. All resumes and CVs for employees/ agents of Cyber Ninjas, Wake
- 19 Technology Services, CyFIR, LLC and any other unnamed
- 20 contractors/subcontractors.

21 45. On June 2, 2021, counsel for PNI transmitted to Mr. Bennett and Randy
22 Pullen, a Senate-appointed spokesman regarding the audit, requests for public records
23 pursuant to A.R.S. §§ 39-121, et seq. (the “Bennett Request” and “Pullen Request,” 24 respectively). True and correct copies of the Bennett Request and Pullen Request are 25 attached hereto as Exhibits 8 and 9, respectively.

26 46. Each of the Bennett and Pullen Requests sought from its recipient audit-
27 related communications, invoices and financial documents, and all other records
28

1 regarding the performance of any audit-related duties.

2 47. Counsel for the Senate has represented to undersigned counsel for PNI that,
3 although the Senate has not waived its argument that Messrs. Bennett and Pullen are not 4 subject to the Arizona Public Records Law, each has provided all responsive records to 5 the Senate, which has posted all responsive, non-privileged records to its online "reading
6 room" collection of audit-related public records.

7 48. Also on June 2, 2021, counsel for PNI transmitted to Cyber Ninjas a
8 request for public records pursuant to A.R.S. §§ 39-121, et seq. (the "Cyber Ninjas 9 Request"). A true and correct copy of the Cyber Ninjas Request is attached hereto as 10 Exhibit 10.

11 49. The Cyber Ninjas Request sought the following records:

12 a. all financial records related to the Audit, including without limitation
13 all bids, requests for bids or requests for proposals, contracts,
14 amendments to contracts, invoices, bills, receipts and records of all 15 payments or donations for such Audit-related work;

16 b. all communications regarding the performance, funding and/or 17 staffing of the Audit between or involving any officer, director, 18 employee or agent of Cyber Ninjas and:

19 1. any member of the Arizona Senate or any employee or 20 agent communicating on behalf of any Senator;

21 2. any "liaison" for the Arizona Senate or any Senator,
22 including Ken Bennett and Randy Pullen, or anyone
23 communicating on their behalf;

24 3. any member of the Maricopa County Board of

6. former U.S. President Donald Trump or anyone communicating on his behalf; and
7. Christina Bobb of One America News Network, or anyone communicating on her behalf.⁷

c. all communications regarding the performance, funding and/or staffing of the Audit between any officer, director, employee or agent of Cyber Ninjas and any officer, director, employee or agent of any subcontractor, including without limitation Wake Technology Services, Inc., CyFir LLC and Strat Tech Solutions LLC; and

d. all communications regarding the performance, funding and/or staffing of the Audit between any officer, director, employee or agent of Cyber Ninjas and any officer, director, employee or agent of any contractor engaged by Maricopa County, including without limitation Pro V&V and SLI Compliance.

50. The Cyber Ninjas Request explained that the Arizona Public Records Law applied in this circumstance because Cyber Ninjas “is operating as an instrumentality of the Arizona Senate in performing a core governmental function” partially paid for with

⁷ The Cyber Ninjas Request further stated: “As used here, “communications” should be interpreted in its broadest possible terms to include, without limitation, mail; email; text messages; voicemail messages; and messages using applications such as WhatsApp, Signal, Wickr, Twitter, SnapChat, Facebook, Parler, or Telegram.

2 statute. Exhibit 10 at 3.

3 51. On June 11, 2021, counsel for Cyber Ninjas, John D. Wilenchik, responded
4 to PNI's counsel. A true and correct copy of that correspondence is attached hereto as 5 Exhibit 11.

6 52. Mr. Wilenchik refused to produce any records and stated Cyber Ninjas'
7 position that it is neither a public officer nor a public body, and that the public records
8 statute does not apply to it because it is a "private contractor." Exhibit 11 at 1. Mr.
9 Wilenchik also stated, "[i]n the event that your client files such an action against CNI,
10 then please consider this letter to be my client's advance notice that it deems such an 11 action to be groundless under the statute and will demand that it be withdrawn under Rule
12 11, as well as seek its attorneys' fees and costs as appropriate." Id. at 2.

13 53. Counsel for PNI had further discussions with Messrs. Langhofer and Moore 14 during June 2021. During those discussions, counsel for PNI agreed that PNI would 15 narrow its requests for audit-related communications, and counsel for the Senate agreed
16 that the Senate would process and post to the reading room all responsive, non-privileged 17 communications.

18 54. Upon information and belief, the Senate's processing of responsive emails 19 is ongoing. PNI hereby expressly reserves its right to seek redress from this Court should 20 that process prove to be incomplete or not prompt within the meaning of the Arizona
21 Public Records Law. Assuming the Senate complies with its counsel's commitment to 22 produce the requested emails, this special action is limited to the Senate's, President
23 Fann's and Cyber Ninjas' duty to make available for inspection and copying those 24 records responsive to Senate Requests A and B in the custody or control of Cyber Ninjas, 25 as well as records responsive to the Cyber Ninjas Request (collectively, the "Public 26 Records").

27 55. When counsel for PNI expressed concern regarding whether Cyber Ninjas
28

1 and its subcontractors for the audit were preserving potential public records, Mr.
2 Langhofer requested that PNI provide the suggested text of a records retention request.
3 Counsel for PNI provided such proposed language the next day, and Mr. Langhofer later
4 stated that he had provided the suggested language to Cyber Ninjas and its
5 subcontractors. Correspondence including the suggested language from counsel for PNI
6 to Messrs. Langhofer and Moore is attached hereto as Exhibit 12.

7 56. By their failure to provide access to or copies of all of the requested records
8 promptly, Defendants have “denied” PNI’s public records requests, and they have done
9 so “wrongfully.” See A.R.S. § 39-121.01(E) and §39-121.02(C).

10 COUNT ONE: Violation of A.R.S. §§ 39-121 *et seq.
11 by Defendants Arizona Senate, Karen Fann, Warren Petersen and Susan Aceves

12 57. PNI realleges and incorporates by reference the allegations set forth in 13 paragraphs 1 through 56 of this Complaint.

14 58. The Arizona Public Records Law provides that “[p]ublic records and other 15 matters in the custody of any officer shall be open to inspection by any person at all times
16 during office hours.” A.R.S. § 39-121.

17 59. The Records requested by PNI in Senate Requests A and B are indeed
18 “public records” within the meaning of the Arizona Public Records Law. See A.R.S.
19 § 39-121.01(B); Lake v. City of Phoenix, 222 Ariz. 547, 549, 218 P.3d 1004, 1006 (2009)
20 (“Arizona law defines ‘public records’ broadly and creates a presumption requiring the 21 disclosure of public information.”).

22 60. The Arizona Senate’s audit of Maricopa County ballots is a matter of the 23 most urgent public concern. Nothing is more fundamental to our democracy than the 24 administration of our elections. Defendants themselves have stressed the importance of 25 public confidence in voting and elections as justifications for the audit, and have pledged 26 transparency in performing the audit. But the public cannot properly evaluate the 27 conduct of and findings of the audit without prompt and full access to the very public
28

1 records that Defendants are unlawfully withholding.

2 61. In accordance with A.R.S. §§ 39-121 and -121.01(B), Defendants Arizona
3 Senate, President Fann, Chairman Petersen and Secretary Aceves were required to 4 maintain and make available records responsive to Senate Requests A and B that are in 5 the custody or control of Defendant/Real Party in Interest Cyber Ninjas, but have refused 6 to do so.

7 62. There is a strong public benefit in honoring the public's statutory right to 8 inspect these Public Records, and Defendants Arizona Senate, President Fann, Chairman
9 Petersen and Secretary Aceves have failed to articulate any specific harm that would arise
10 from the release of any portion of the Public Records. There is no such harm, and PNI 11 has given them ample and repeated opportunities to assert any.

12 63. For all these reasons, Defendants Arizona Senate, President Fann, 13 Chairman Petersen and Secretary Aceves have failed to perform their duties required
14 under the Arizona Public Records Law regarding requested records in the custody or 15 control of Cyber Ninjas, and they have wrongfully denied PNI access to inspect and copy
16 these records as a matter of law. See Ariz. R. Special Actions 3.

18 COUNT TWO: Violation of A.R.S. §§ 39-121 et seq.
by Defendant/Real Party in Interest Cyber Ninjas, Inc.

19 64. PNI realleges and incorporates by reference the allegations set forth in 20 paragraphs 1 through 63 of this Complaint.

21 65. The Records requested by PNI in the Cyber Ninjas Request are "public 22 records" within the meaning of the Arizona Public Records Law. See A.R.S. § 39-
23 121.01(B); Lake, 222 Ariz. at 549, 218 P.3d at 1006.

24 66. In accordance with A.R.S. §§ 39-121 and -121.01(B), Defendant Cyber 25 Ninjas Inc., as a "public officer" and/or "public body" by virtue of its performing a core 26 governmental function funded in part by state taxpayer dollars, was required to maintain 27 these Public Records and make them available for inspection and copying promptly upon 28

1 request by PNI and its journalists. Yet, Cyber Ninjas has refused to do so.

2 67. For all these reasons, Defendant Cyber Ninjas, Inc. has failed to perform its
3 duties required under the Arizona Public Records Law, and it therefore has wrongfully
4 denied PNI access to inspect and copy the Records as a matter of law. See Ariz. R.
5 Special Actions 3.

6 PRAYER FOR RELIEF

7 Wherefore, PNI prays for relief from this Court as follows:

8 A. For an order setting an expeditious time for Defendants to produce all of 9 the Public Records to PNI for inspection and copying;

10 B. For an award of PNI's reasonable attorneys' fees and other legal costs
11 pursuant to A.R.S. § 39-121.02(B); and 12 C. For such other and further relief as the Court deems just and proper.

Cyber Ninjas, Inc. Master Services Agreement

This Master Services Agreement (the "Master Agreement") is entered into as of the 31 day of March, 2021 (the "Effective Date"), between Cyber Ninjas, Inc., a Florida Corporation, (the "Contractor"), and the Arizona State Senate (the "Client"). Contractor and Client are referred to herein individually as a "Party" and collectively as the "Parties".

WHEREAS, Client desires to retain Contractor, and Contractor desires to provide to Client the consulting and/or professional services described herein; and

WHEREAS, Client and Contractor desire to establish the terms and conditions that will regulate all relationships between Client and Contractor.

NOW THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual covenants and promises contained herein and other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which is hereby acknowledged, the Parties hereby agree as follows:

1 SCOPE OF AGREEMENT

This Master Agreement establishes a contractual framework for Contractor's consulting and/or professional services as described herein. The Parties agree to the terms and conditions set forth in this Master Agreement and in any Statement of Work executed by the Parties referencing this Master Agreement. Each Statement of Work is incorporated into this Master Agreement, and the applicable portions of this Master Agreement are incorporated into each Statement of Work. The Statement(s) of Work and this Master Agreement are herein collectively referred to as the "Agreement."

2 STRUCTURE OF AGREEMENT.

- 2.1 Components of the Agreement. The Agreement consists of:
- (a) The provisions set forth in this Master Agreement and the Exhibits referenced herein;
 - (b) The Statement(s) of Work attached hereto, and any Schedules referenced therein; and
 - (c) Any additional Statements of Work executed by the Parties pursuant to this Agreement, including the Schedules referenced in each such Statement of Work.
- 2.2 Statement(s) of Work. The Services (as defined in Article 4) that Contractor will provide for Client will be described in and be the subject of (i) one or more Statements of Work executed by the Parties pursuant to this Agreement, and (ii) this Agreement. Each Statement of Work shall be substantially in the form of, and shall include the set of Schedules described in, "Exhibit 1-Form of Statement of Work", with such additions, deletions and modifications as the Parties may agree.
- 2.3 Deviations from Agreement, Priority. In the event of a conflict, the terms of the Statements of Work shall be governed by the terms of this Master Agreement, unless an applicable Statement of Work expressly and specifically notes the deviations from the terms of this Master Agreement for the purposes of such Statement of Work.

3 TERM AND TERMINATION.

- 3.1 Term of Master Agreement. The Term of the Master Agreement will begin as of the Effective Date and shall continue until terminated as provided in Section 3.3 (the "Term").
- 3.2 Term of Statements of Work. Each Statement of Work will have its own term and will continue for the period identified therein unless terminated earlier in accordance with Section 3.4 (the "Service Term"). In the event that the Service Term on any applicable Statement of Work expires and Services continue to be provided by Contractor and received and used by Client, the terms and conditions of the Master Agreement shall apply until the Services have been terminated.
- 3.3 Termination of Master Agreement. Either Party may terminate this Agreement immediately upon written notice to the other Party if there is no Statement of Work in effect.
- 3.4 Termination of Statement of Work by Client. A Statement of Work may be terminated by Client, for any reason other than Contractor's breach, upon fourteen (14) days prior written notice to Contractor. In such event, (i) Contractor shall cease its activities under the terminated Statement of Work on the effective date of termination; and (ii) Client agrees to pay to Contractor all amounts for any amounts due for Services performed through the effective termination date. (iii) In the case of fixed price work whereby the effective date of termination is after Contractor has or will commence the Services, Client agrees to pay Contractor an amount that will be determined on a pro-rata basis computed by dividing the total fee for the Service by the number of days required for completion of the Services and multiplying the result by the number of working days completed at the effective date of termination. (iv) Client agrees to pay to Contractor all costs in full associated with equipment or other non-Service related costs that were incurred before the effective termination date.
- 3.5 Termination for Breach. Either party may terminate the Agreement in the event that the other party materially defaults in performing any obligation under this Agreement (including any Statement of Work) and such default continues un-remedied for a period of seven (7) days following written notice of default. If Client terminates the Agreement and/or any Statement of Work as a result of Contractor's breach, then to the extent that Client has prepaid any fees for Services, Contractor shall refund to Client any prepaid fees on a pro-rata basis to the extent such fees are attributable to the period after such termination date.
- 3.6 Effect of Termination. Upon termination or expiration of this Agreement and/or a Statement of Work: (i) the parties will work together to establish an orderly phase-out of the Services; (ii) Client will pay Contractor for any amounts due under the Agreement, including all Services rendered under the terminated Statement of Work up to the effective date of the termination; and (iii) each Party will promptly cease all use of and destroy or return, as directed by the other Party, all Confidential Information of the other Party except for all audit records (including but not limited to work papers, videotapes, images, tally sheets, draft reports and other documents generated during the audit) which will be held in escrow in a safe approved by the GSA for TS/SCI material for a period of three years and available to the Contractor and Client solely for purposes of addressing any claims, actions or allegations regarding the audit (the "Escrow"), provided that, pursuant to Section 15.4, the Parties shall provide to each other documents and information that are reasonably necessary to the defense of any third party claims arising out of or related to the subject matter of this Agreement.

4 SERVICES.

4.1 Definitions.

4.1.1 "Services" shall mean consulting, training or any other professional services to be provided by Contractor to Client, as more particularly described in a Statement of Work, including any Work Product provided in connection therewith.

4.1.2 "Work Product" shall mean any deliverables which are created, developed or provided by Contractor in connection with the Services pursuant to a Statement of Work, excluding any Contractor's Intellectual Property.

For the avoidance of doubt, the term shall not include (1) the reports prepared by Contractor for Client (other than any standard text used by Contractor in such reports) pursuant to this Agreement or any Statement of Work, which shall be the exclusive property of Client and shall be considered "works made for hire" within the meaning of the Copyright Act of 1976, as amended; and (2) any data or process discovered on or obtained from the Dominion devices that will be the subject of the forensic review.

4.2 Obligation to Provide Services. Starting on the Commencement Date of each Statement of Work and continuing during each Statement of Work Term, Contractor shall provide the Services described in each such Statement of Work to, and perform the Services for, Client in accordance with the applicable Statement of Work and the Agreement.

4.3 Contractor's Performance. Contractor will perform the Services set forth in each Statement of Work using personnel that have the necessary knowledge, training, skills, experience, qualifications and resources to provide and perform the Services in accordance with the Agreement. Contractor shall render such Services in a prompt, professional, diligent, and workmanlike manner, consistent with industry standards applicable to the performance of such Services.

4.4 Client's Obligations. Client acknowledges that Contractor's performance and delivery of the Services are contingent upon: (i) Client providing full access to such information as may be reasonably necessary for Contractor to complete the Services as described in the Statement(s) of Work including access to its personnel, facilities, equipment, hardware, network and information, as applicable; and (ii) Client promptly obtaining and providing to Contractor any required licenses, approvals or consents necessary for Contractor's performance of the Services. Contractor will be excused from its failure to perform its obligations under this Agreement to the extent such failure is caused by Client's delay in performing or failure to perform its responsibilities under this Agreement and/or any Statement of Work.

4.5 Location of Services. Contractor shall provide the Services at the site designated in the applicable Statement of Work.

- 4.6 Status Reports. Contractor shall keep Client informed of the status of the Services and provide Client with such status reports and other reports and information regarding the Services as reasonably requested by Client.
- 4.7 New Services. During the Term, Client may request that Contractor provide New Services for Client. New Services may be activities that are performed on a continuous basis for the remainder of the Term or activities that are performed on a project basis. Any agreement of the Parties with respect to New Services will be in writing and shall also become a "Service" and be reflected in an additional Statement of Work hereto or in an amendment to an existing Statement of Work hereunder.
- 4.8 Change of Services. "Change of Services" means any change to the Services as set forth in the Statement of Work that (i) would modify or alter the delivery of the Services or the composition of the Services, (ii) would alter the cost to Client for the Services, or (iii) is agreed by Client and Contractor in writing to be a Change. From time to time during the Term, Client or Contractor may propose Changes to the Services.
- The following process is required to effectuate a Change of Services by either Party:
- 4.9 A Project Change Request ("PCR") will be the vehicle for communicating change. The PCR must describe the change, the rationale for the change, and the effect the change will have on the Services.
- 4.10 The designated project manager of the requesting Party will review any proposed change prior to submitting the PCR to the other Party.
- 4.11 Contractor and Client will mutually agree upon any additional fees for such investigation, if any. If the investigation is authorized, the Client project manager will sign the PCR, which will constitute approval for the investigation charges. Contractor will invoice Client for any such charges. The investigation will determine the effect that the implementation of the PCR will have on Statement of Work terms and conditions.
- 4.12 Upon completion of the investigation, both parties will review the impact of the proposed change and, if mutually agreed, a written addendum to the Statement of Work must be signed by both Parties to authorize implementation of the investigated changes that specifically identifies the portion of the Statement of Work that is the subject of the modification or amendment and the changed or new provision(s) to the Statement of Work.
- 4.13 End Client Requirements. If Contractor is providing Services for Client that is intended to be for the benefit of a customer of Client ("End Client"), the End Client should be identified in an applicable Statement of Work. The Parties shall mutually agree upon any additional terms related to such End Client which terms shall be set forth in a Schedule to the applicable Statement of Work.
- 4.14 Client Reports; No Reliance by Third Parties. Contractor will provide those reports identified in the applicable Statement of Work ("Client Report"). The Client Report is prepared uniquely and exclusively for Client's sole use. The provision by Client of any Client Report or any information therein to any third party shall not entitle such third party to rely on the Client Report or the contents thereof in any manner or for any purpose whatsoever, and Contractor specifically disclaims all liability for any damages whatsoever (whether foreseen or unforeseen, direct, indirect, consequential, incidental, special, exemplary or punitive) to such third party arising from or related to reliance by such third party on any Client Report or any contents thereof.

4.15 Acceptance Testing. Unless otherwise specified in an Statement of Work, Client shall have a period of fourteen (14) days to perform Acceptance Testing on each deliverable provided by Contractor to determine whether it conforms to the Specifications and any other Acceptance criteria (collectively as the "Acceptance Criteria") stated in the Statement of Work. If Client rejects the deliverable as non-conforming, unless otherwise agreed to by the parties, Contractor shall, at its expense, within fourteen (14) days from the date of notice of rejection, correct the deliverable to cause it to conform to the Acceptance Criteria and resubmit the deliverable for further Acceptance testing in accordance with the process specified in this Section 4.15. In the event that the deliverable does not conform to the Acceptance Criteria after being resubmitted a second time, Client, may at its option, (i) provide Contractor with another fourteen (14) days to correct and resubmit the deliverable or (ii) immediately terminate the Statement of Work and obtain a refund of any amounts paid for the non-conforming Services pursuant to the applicable Statement of Work.

5 FEES AND PAYMENT TERMS.

- 5.1 Fees. Client agrees to pay to Contractor the fees for the Services in the amount as specified in the applicable Statement of Work.

If it becomes necessary to collect past due payments, Client shall be responsible for reasonable attorney fees required in order to collect upon the past-due invoice(s).
- 5.4 Taxes. The applicable Statement of Work shall prescribe the parties' respective responsibilities with respect to the invoicing and payment of state sales, use, gross receipts, or similar taxes, if any, applicable to the Services and deliverables to be provided by Contractor to Client. Client shall have no responsibility with respect to federal, state, or local laws arising out of Contractor's performance of any Statement of Work, including any interest or penalties.

6 PERSONNEL.

- 6.1 Designated Personnel. Contractor shall assign employees that are critical to the provision and delivery of the Services provided (referred to herein as "Designated Personnel") and except as provided in this Article 6, shall not be removed or replaced at any time during the performance of Services in a Statement of Work, except with Client's prior written consent.
- 6.2 Replacement of Designated Personnel by Contractor. Notwithstanding the foregoing, if any Designated Personnel becomes unavailable for reasons beyond Contractor's reasonable control or Designated Personnel's professional relationship with Contractor terminates for any reason,

Contractor shall ensure that all Designated Personnel are bound by the terms and conditions of this Agreement applicable to their performance of the Services and shall be responsible for their compliance therewith.
- 6.4 Background Screening. Contractor shall have performed the background screening described in Exhibit 2 (Background Screening Measures) on all of its agents and personnel who will have access to Client Confidential Information prior to assigning such individuals or entities to provide Services under this Agreement.

7 PROPRIETARY RIGHTS.

- 7.1 Client's Proprietary Rights. Client represents and warrants that it has the necessary rights, power and authority to transmit Client Data (as defined below) to Contractor under this Agreement and that Client has and shall continue to fulfil all obligations with respect to individuals as required to permit Contractor to carry out the terms hereof, including with respect to all applicable laws, regulations and other constraints applicable to Client Data. As between Client and Contractor, Client or a political subdivision or government entity in the State of Arizona owns all right, title and interest in and to (i) any data provided by Client (and/or the End Client, if applicable) to Contractor; (ii) any of Client's (and/or the End Client, if applicable) data accessed or used by Contractor or transmitted by Client to Contractor in connection with Contractor's provision of the Services (Client's data and Client's End User's data, collectively, the "Client Data"); (iii) all intellectual property of Client ("Client's Intellectual Property") that may be made available to Contractor in the course of providing Services under this Agreement.
- 7.2 License to Contractor. This Agreement does not transfer or convey to Contractor any right, title or interest in or to the Client Data or any associated Client's Intellectual Property. Client grants to Contractor a limited, non-exclusive, worldwide, revocable license to use and otherwise process the Client Data and any associated Client's Intellectual Property to perform the Services during the Term hereof. Contractor's permitted license to use the Client Data and Client's Intellectual Property is subject to the confidentiality obligations and requirements for as long as Contractor has possession of such Client Data and Intellectual Property.

7.3 Contractor's Proprietary Rights. As between Client and Contractor, Contractor owns all right, title and interest in and to the Services, including, Contractor's Intellectual Property. Except to the extent specifically provided in the applicable Statement of Work, this Agreement does not transfer or convey to Client or any third party any right, title or interest in or to the Services or any associated Contractor's Intellectual Property rights, but only grants to Client a limited, non-exclusive right and license to use as granted in accordance with the Agreement. Contractor shall retain all proprietary rights to Contractor's Intellectual Property and Client will take no actions which adversely affect Contractor's Intellectual Property rights. For the avoidance of doubt and notwithstanding any other provision in this Section or elsewhere in the Agreement, all documents, information, materials, devices, media, and data relating to or arising out of the administration of the November 3, 2020 general election in Arizona, including but not limited to voted ballots, images of voted ballots, and any other materials prepared by, provided by, or originating from the Client or any political subdivision or governmental entity in the State of Arizona, are the sole and exclusive property of the Client or of the applicable political subdivision or governmental entity, and Contractor shall have no right or interest whatsoever in such documents, information, materials, or data.

8 NONDISCLOSURE.

8.1 Confidential Information. "Confidential Information" refers to any information one party to the Agreement discloses (the "Disclosing Party") to the other (the "Receiving Party"). The confidential, proprietary or trade secret information in the context of the Agreement may include, but is not limited to, business information and concepts, marketing information and concepts, financial statements and other financial information, customer information and records, corporate information and records, sales and operational information and records, and certain other information, papers, documents, studies and/or other materials, technical information, and certain other information, papers, documents, digital files, studies, compilations, forecasts, strategic and marketing plans, budgets, specifications, research information, software, source code, discoveries, ideas, know-how, designs, drawings, flow charts, data, computer programs, market data; digital information, digital media, and any and all electronic data, information, and processes stored on Maricopa County servers, portable storage media and/or cloud storage (remote servers) technologies, and/or other materials, both written and oral. Notwithstanding the foregoing, Confidential Information does not include information that: (i) is in the Receiving Party's possession at the time of disclosure; (ii) is independently developed by the Receiving Party without use of or reference to Confidential Information; (iii) becomes known publicly, before or after disclosure, other than as a result of the Receiving Party's improper action or inaction; or (iv) is approved for release in writing by the Disclosing Party.

- 8.2 Nondisclosure Obligations. The Receiving Party will not use Confidential Information for any purpose other than to facilitate performance of Services pursuant to the Agreement and any applicable Statement of Work. The Receiving Party: (i) will not disclose Confidential Information to any employee or contractor or other agent of the Receiving Party unless such person needs access in order to facilitate the Services and executes a nondisclosure agreement with the Receiving Party, substantially in the form provided in Exhibit 3; and (ii) will not disclose Confidential Information to any other third party without the Disclosing Party's prior written consent. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Receiving Party will protect Confidential Information with the same degree of care it uses to protect its own Confidential Information of similar nature and importance, but with no less than reasonable care. The Receiving Party will promptly notify the Disclosing Party of any misuse or misappropriation of Confidential Information that comes to the Receiving Party's attention. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Receiving Party may disclose Confidential Information as required by applicable law or by proper legal or governmental authority; however, the Receiving Party will give the Disclosing Party prompt notice of any such legal or governmental demand and will reasonably cooperate with the Disclosing Party in any effort to seek a protective order or otherwise to contest such required disclosure, at the Disclosing Party's expense. For the avoidance of doubt, this provision prohibits the Contractor and its agents from providing data, information, reports, or drafts to anyone without the prior written approval of the Client. The Client will determine in its sole and unlimited discretion whether to grant such approval.
- 8.3 Injunction. The Receiving Party agrees that breach of this Article 8 might cause the Disclosing Party irreparable injury, for which monetary damages would not provide adequate compensation, and that in addition to any other remedy, the Disclosing Party will be entitled to injunctive relief against such breach or threatened breach, without proving actual damage or posting a bond or other security.
- 8.4 Return. Upon the Disclosing Party's written request and after the termination of the Escrow, the Receiving Party will return all copies of Confidential Information to the Disclosing Party or upon authorization of Disclosing Party, certify in writing the destruction thereof.
- 8.5 Third Party Hack. Contractor shall not be liable for any breach of this Section 8 resulting from a hack or intrusion by a third party into Client's network or information technology systems unless the hack or intrusion was through endpoints or devices monitored by Contractor and was caused directly by Contractor's gross negligence or wilful misconduct. For avoidance of doubt, Contractor shall not be liable for any breach of this Section 8 resulting from a third-party hack or intrusion into any part of Client's network, or any environment, software, hardware or operational technology, that Contractor is not obligated to monitor pursuant to a Statement of Work executed under this Agreement.
- 8.6 Retained Custody of Ballots. The Client shall retain continuous and uninterrupted custody of the ballots being tallied. For the avoidance of doubt, this provision requires Contractor and each of its agents to leave all ballots at the counting facility at the conclusion of every shift.

- 8.7 Survival. This Section 8 shall survive for three (3) years following any termination or expiration of this Agreement; provided that with respect to any Confidential Information remaining in the Receiving Party's possession following any termination or expiration of this Agreement, the obligations under this Section 8 shall survive for as long as such Confidential Information remains in such party's possession.

9 NO SOLICITATION.

Contractor and Client agree that neither party will, at any time within twelve (24) months after the termination of the Agreement, solicit, attempt to solicit or employ any of the personnel who were employed or otherwise engaged by the other party at any time during which the Agreement was in effect, except with the express written permission of the other party. The Parties agree that the damages for any breach of this Article 9 will be substantial, but difficult to ascertain. Accordingly, the party that breaches this Article 9, shall pay to other party an amount equal to two times (2x) the annual compensation of the employee solicited or hired, which amount shall be paid as liquidated damages, as a good faith effort to estimate the fair, reasonable and actual damages to the aggrieved party and not as a penalty. Nothing in the Agreement shall be construed to prohibit either party from pursuing any other available rights or remedies it may have against the respective employee(s).

10 DATA PROTECTION

- 10.1 Applicability. This Article 10 shall apply when Contractor is providing Services to Client which involves the processing of Personal Data which is subject to Privacy Laws.
- 10.2 Definitions. For purposes of this Article 10:
- (a) "Personal Data" means any information relating to an identified or identifiable natural person which is processed by Contractor, acting as a processor on behalf of the Client, in connection with the provision of the Services and which is subject to Privacy Laws.
 - (b) "Privacy Laws" means any United States and/or European Union data protection and/or privacy related laws, statutes, directives, judicial orders, or regulations (and any amendments or successors thereto) to which a party to the Agreement is subject and which are applicable to the Services.
- 10.3 Contractor's Obligations. Contractor will maintain industry-standard administrative, physical, and technical safeguards for protection of the security, confidentiality, and integrity of Personal Data. Contractor shall process Personal Data only in accordance with Client's reasonable and lawful instructions (unless otherwise required to do so by applicable law). Client hereby instructs Contractor to process any Personal Data to provide the Services and comply with Contractor's rights and obligations under the Agreement and any applicable Statement of Work. The Agreement and any applicable Statement of Work comprise Client's complete instructions to Contractor regarding the processing of Personal Data. Any additional or alternate instructions must be agreed between the parties in writing, including the costs (if any) associated with complying with such instructions. Contractor is not responsible for determining if Client's instructions are compliant with applicable law, however, if Contractor is of the opinion that a Client instruction infringes applicable Privacy Laws, Contractor shall notify Client as soon as reasonably practicable and shall not be required to comply with such infringing instruction.

- 10.4 Disclosures. Contractor may only disclose the Personal Data to third parties for the purpose of: (i) complying with Client's reasonable and lawful instructions; (ii) as required in connection with the Services and as permitted by the Agreement and any applicable Statement of Work; and/or (iii) as required to comply with Privacy Laws, or an order of any court, tribunal, regulator or government agency with competent jurisdiction to which Contractor is subject, provided that Contractor will (to the extent permitted by law) inform the Client in advance of any disclosure of Personal Data and will reasonably co-operate with Client to limit the scope of such disclosure to what is legally required.
- 10.5 Demonstrating Compliance. Contractor shall, upon reasonable prior written request from Client (such request not to be made more frequently than once in any twelve-month period), provide to Client such information as may be reasonably necessary to demonstrate Contractor's compliance with its obligations under this Agreement.

Statement of Work

This Statement of Work (the "Statement of Work") is effective as of as of the 31 day of March, 2021 (the "Effective Date"), between Cyber Ninjas Inc., a Florida Corporation, ("Contractor"), and Arizona State Senate ("Client"), and is deemed to be incorporated into that certain Master Service Agreement dated March 31, 2021 (the "Master Agreement") by and between Contractor and Client (collectively, this Statement of Work and the Master Agreement are referred to as the "Agreement").

1 WHY CYBER NINJAS

Cyber Ninjas is a cyber security company with a focus on application security and ethical hacking. We perform work across the financial services and government sectors. Our expertise allows us to both understand complex technology systems, as well as understand how a malicious attacker could potentially abuse those systems to meet his or her own agenda. This allows us to effectively enumerate the ways a system could be exploited, and with our partners to fully review if that scenario did in fact occur. This is very different from the compliance focused way that election systems are typically evaluated.

Both our company and our partners have extensive experience working specifically with Dominion Voting Systems. In addition, our subcontractors and partners are adept at digital forensic acquisition, and on implementing ballot hand-counting procedures. Two of our team members authored a hand-count ballot process that has been utilized in audits in two states; and has further been perfected for transparency and consistency. This combination of skills, abilities, and experience is what uniquely qualifies our team for the outlined work.

2 OUR TEAM

Cyber Ninjas will serve as the central point-of-contact and organizer of all work conducted over the course of this agreement. However, there are different teams involved in each phase of the outlined work. Each of these teams have specialities and experience within the outlined areas of their coverage. This expertise is highlighted below.

2.1 Registration and Votes Cast Team

The Registration and Votes Cast Team has worked together with a number of individuals to perform non-partisan canvassing within Arizona related to the 2020 General election in order to statistically identify voter registrations that did not make sense, and then knock on doors to confirm if valid voters actually lived at the stated address. This brought forth a number of significant anomalies suggesting significant problems in the voter rolls.

They will be continuing this work as part of this effort to validate that individuals that show as having voted in the 2020 General election match those individuals who believe they have cast a vote.

2.2 Vote Count & Tally Team - Wake Technology Services

Members of the Wake Technology Services group have performed hand-count audits in Fulton County, PA and in New Mexico as part of the 2020 General Election cycle. In addition, team members have been involved in investigating election fraud issues, dating back to 1994. In that particular case in 1994, this team member worked closely with the FBI during the investigation.

As part of these audits in 2020, the Wake Technology Services team has developed an in-depth counting process that reduces opportunities for errors. This counting process has been expanded to make it more robust, and more transparent. As a result, they will be leading all ballot hand-counting processes.

2.3 Electronic Voting System Team – CyFIR, Digital Discovery & Cyber Ninjas, Analysts

Digital Forensic Acquisition will be performed either by CyFIR or Digital Forensics, and the analysis work will be performed by Cyber Ninjas, CyFIR and a number of additional analysts, the identities and qualifications of whom shall be made available to Client upon request.

CyFIR is a digital security and forensics company and a subcontractor on the contract for DHS's Hunt and Incident Response Team (HIRT). As specialists for DHS, they are familiar with responding to nation-state cyber activity including Advanced Persistent Threats (APT).

3 GENERAL PROVISIONS

- 3.1 Introduction. The terms and conditions that are specific to this Statement of Work are set forth herein. Any terms and conditions that deviate from or conflict with the Master Agreement are set forth in the "Deviations from Terms of the Master Agreement" Schedule hereto. In the event of a conflict between the provisions of this Statement of Work and the Master Agreement, the provisions of Section 2.34 of the Master Agreement shall control such conflict.
- 3.2 Services. Contractor will provide to the Client the Services in accordance with the Master Agreement (including the Exhibits thereto) and this Statement of Work (including the Schedules hereto). The scope and composition of the Services and the responsibilities of the Parties with respect to the Services described in this Statement of Work are defined in the Master Agreement, this Statement of Work, and any Schedules attached hereto.

4 SCOPE & SERVICES DESCRIPTION

This Statement of Work outlines the proposed methodology and scope for a full and complete audit of 100% of the votes cast within the 2020 November General Election within Maricopa County, Arizona. This audit will attempt to validate every area of the voting process to ensure the integrity of the vote. This includes auditing the registration and votes cast, the vote counts and tallies, the electronic voting system, as well as auditing the reported results. The final report will attempt to outline all the facts found throughout the investigation and attempt to represent those facts in an unbiased and non-partisan way. The final report will not include factual statements unless the statements can be readily substantiated with evidence, and such substantiation is cited, described, or appended to the report as appropriate.

The following sub-sections provide additional details of what will be conducted at each stage of the audit.

4.1 Registration and Votes Cast Phase

During the Registration and Votes Cast Phase, it will be validated that Maricopa County properly registers who voted during an election, and that this system properly prevents duplicate voting. This will be performed on a minimum of three precincts.

Proposed scope of work:

- Review of Arizona's SiteBook system for checking in and tracking voters;
- Complete audit of a minimum of 3 precincts, based on statistical anomalies and precinct size;
- Analysis of existing research and data validating the legitimacy of voter rolls; and/or
- Comparing results against known lists of invalid voters (e.g. deceased voters, non-citizens, etc.).

This phase may help detect:

- Problems that could result in voters being able to vote more than once;
- Voters that voted but do not show in the list of those who voted;
- Voters who likely did not vote but showed as having voted;
- Potential invalid voters who cast a vote in the 2020 general election; and/or
- Inconsistencies among vote tallies between the various phases.

This phase is NOT expected to detect:

- Individual ballots that are either wrong and/or invalid.

Anticipated artifacts for transparency and/or validation of results for the public:

- Final report outlining the discovered results; and/or
- Redacted spreadsheet of a list of those who voted in the target precincts.

4.2 Vote Count & Tally Phase

During the Vote Count & Tally Phase, the counts and tallies for votes and the voting machines will be validated. This will include a hand-tally and examination of every paper ballot.

Proposed scope of work:

- Physically inspecting and hand-counting of ballots in Maricopa County;
- Counting of the total number of provisional ballots;
- Capture of video footage of the hand-counting of ballots; and/or
- Scanning of ballots in Maricopa County
 - NOTE: Provisional ballots which still have signatures attached to them will be counted to be sure they match the expected numbers but will not be scanned nor will the contents be visible in video.

This phase may help detect:

- Counts that do not match the expected results;
- Ballots that are visually different and possibly fraudulent; and/or
- Inconsistencies among vote tallies between the various phases.

This phase is NOT expected to detect:

- Destroyed or otherwise missing ballots

Anticipated artifacts for transparency and/or validation of results for the public:

- Final report outlining the discovered results;
- Unedited camera footage of the counting of every ballot, provided that, absent express judicial approval, any such footage cannot be streamed, recorded or broadcast in such a manner that the candidate or ballot proposition selections on each ballot is visible or discernible; and/or
- Ballot images of every scanned ballot, provided that, absent express judicial approval, any such images cannot be released or published to any third party.

4.3 Electronic Voting System Phase

During the Electronic Voting System Phase the results from the electronic voting machines will be validated to confirm they were not tampered with. This will be done on all systems related to SiteBook with Maricopa data, as well as all Election Management System related machines besides the Ballot Marking Devices (BMD)'s utilized for accessibility.

Proposed scope of work:

- Forensic Images of Arizona's SiteBook System including the database server, as well as any client machines associated with Maricopa County;
- Forensic images captured of the Election Management System main server, adjudication machines, and other systems related to the Election Management System;
- Forensic images of all Compact Flash, USB drives, and related media;
- Inspection to identify usage of cellular modems, Wi-Fi cards, or other technologies that could be utilized to connect systems to the internet or wider-area-network;
- Review of the Tabulator Paper Tally print-outs;
- Reviewing the exports from the EMS for "Audit File", "Audit Images" and "CVR";
- Reviewing ballot images captured by the tabulators
- Reviewing forensic images for possible altering of results or other issues; and/or
- Reviewing of tabulator and other logs.

This phase may help detect:

- Problems where the tabulator incorrectly tabulated results;
- Problems where the tabulator rejected results;
- Issues where results may have been manipulated in the software;
- Issues with the improper adjudication of ballots; and/or
- Inconsistencies among vote tallies between the various phases.

Anticipated artifacts for transparency and/or validation of results for the public:

- Final report outlining the discovered results;
- Ballot images and AuditMark images showing how the tabulator interpreted the ballot for counting, provided that, absent express judicial approval, such images cannot be released or published to any third party;
- CVR Report as generated from the software; and/or
- Log Files from the Tabulators (Redacted if Dominion Desires).

4.4 Reported Results Phase

During the Reported Results Phase, results from all phases are compared against those expected results and those results which were publicly tallied as the official results to identify any inconsistencies.

Proposed scope of work:

- Results from various phases will be reviewed and tallied; and
- Results will be compared against the official, certified results.

This phase may help detect:

- Issues where result tallies were not properly transmitted to the official results; and/or
- Inconsistencies among vote tallies between the various phases.

Anticipated artifacts for transparency and/or validation of results for the public:

- Final report outlining the discovered results

5 METHODOLOGY

The following section outlines the proposed methodology utilized in the various phases of the audit. When appropriate, these sections may reference more detailed procedures. Such procedures are considered proprietary and the intellectual property of Cyber Ninjas, our subcontractors or our Partners and can be made available for review but are not explicitly part of this agreement.

5.1 Registration and Votes Cast Phase

During the "Registration and Votes Cast Phase", Contractor may utilize precincts that have a high number of anomalies based on publicly available voting data and data from prior canvassing efforts to select a minimum of three precincts to conduct an audit of voting history related to all members of the voter rolls. A combination of phone calls and physical canvassing may be utilized to collect information of whether the individual voted in the election. No voters will be asked to identify any candidate(s) for whom s/he voted. This data will then be compared with data provided from Maricopa County Board of Elections.

5.2 Vote Count & Tally Phase

The goal of the "Vote Count & Tally Phase" is to attempt to, in a transparent and consistent manner, count all ballots to determine the accuracy of all federal races, and to identify any ballots that are suspicious and potentially counterfeit. Ballots will be counted in a manner designed to be accurate, all actions are transparent, and the chain of custody is maintained.

5.2.1 Counting Personnel

Non-partisan counters will be utilized that are drawn from a pool of primarily former law enforcement, veterans, and retired individuals. These individuals will undergo background checks and will be validated to not have worked for any political campaigns nor having worked for any vendor involved in the voting process. These individuals will also be prevented from bringing any objects other than clothing items worn on their persons into the counting area or taking any objects out of the counting area.

5.2.2 Accurate Counting

Counting will be done in groups with three individuals independently counting each batch of ballots, and an individual supervising the table. All counts will be marked on a sheet of paper as they are tallied. If, at the end of the hand count, the discrepancies between counting personnel aggregate to a number that is greater than the margin separating the first and second place candidates for any audited office, the ballots with discrepant total from the Contractor's counting personnel will be re-reviewed until the aggregate discrepancies within the hand count are less than the margin separating the first and second place candidates.

5.2.3 Transparent Counting

All activity in the counting facility will be videotaped 24 hours a day, from the time that Maricopa County delivers ballots and other materials until the time that the hand count is complete and all materials have been returned to the custody of Maricopa County. Such videotaping shall include 24-hour video monitoring of all entrances and exits, as well as activity at the counting tables.

5.2.4 Chain of Custody

All movement with ballots, cutting of seals, application of seals, and similar actions will be appropriately documented and logged, as well as captured under video to be sure the custody of ballots is maintained at all times. Access to the counting area will be restricted to duly authorized and credentialed individuals who have passed a comprehensive background check, with mandatory security searches and ingress/egress logs whenever entering or exiting the counting area.

5.3 Electronic Voting System Phase

The proposed scope of the "Electronic Voting System Phase" is to confirm that the system accurately tallied and reported the votes as they were entered into the system and that remote access was not possible. All systems related to the voting will be forensically imaged, these machines will be booted up and checked for wireless signal usage, and the images will be reviewed to determine the accuracy of results and any indication of tampering.

5.3.1 Forensic Images

A digital forensics capture team will forensically capture all data on in-scope systems, utilizing industry best practices. This will create a digital copy of every single machine, Compact Flash Card, and USB drive in scope without altering the contents of the machines. Chain-of-custody documentation will be created to preserve these images in a manner sufficient to be utilized in a court-of-law.

5.3.2 Physical Analysis

The Election Management System equipment will be turned on and scanned with a wireless spectrum analysis tool to determine if the device is emitting any signals consistent with a known wireless frequency such as cellular, Bluetooth, WiFi or similar. Devices that show signs of emitting signals will be flagged and documented, and when possible without damaging the equipment; they will be physically inspected to determine the source of any detected signals.

5.3.3 Digital Analysis

The forensic images will be reviewed to validate reported totals from the tabulators, results stored within the Election Management System (EMS) Results Tally and Reporting software. These will be compared against the tabulator print-outs; and the machine will be checked for physical or digital tampering and any known ways of remote access to the machines.

5.3.4 Opportunity for Observation

Before commencing the imaging or analysis steps described above (except for the Digital Analysis process), the Contractor will work with Maricopa County to provide at least five (5) days advance notice to any vendors of Maricopa County whose products will be the subject of imaging, inspection, or analysis. Such vendors will be permitted the opportunity to attend and observe the Contractor's imaging or inspection of the vendors' products. The vendor will not be allowed to be present for the analysis of the captured images. Such vendors are third party beneficiaries of this provision and will have standing to challenge and secure injunctive relief against any denial of their right to observe the inspection of their products.

5.4 Reported Results Phase

During the Reported Results phase, results from all phases are compared to find differences between tallies or other anomalies. These results are then compared against data at the Secretary of State and Maricopa Board of Elections layers. Any inconsistencies will be reported and highlighted.

Re; Arizona audit/ denial of records

Mr. Moore/ Ms. Fann:

This notice is to advise you that you have improperly denied The Arizona Republic (PNI) access to public records requested under the provisions of the Arizona Public Records Law (ARS. Sec. 39-121 through 39-121.03).

On April 22, Arizona Republic reporter Andrew Oxford requested records from the Arizona Senate involving the Arizona audit.

Specifically, Oxford asked for:

- 1) All emails and text messages between Senate President Karen Fann and Ken Bennett, the Senate's liaison for the audit from Jan. 1, 2021 to current
- 2) All emails and text messages between Senate President Karen Fann and Christina Bobb from Jan. 1, 2021 to current
- 3) All emails and text messages between Sen. Sonny Borrelli and Ken Bennett, the Senate's liaison for the audit from Jan. 1, 2021 to current
- 4) All emails and text messages between Ken Bennett, the Senate's liaison for the audit, and Doug Logan of Cyber Ninjas from Jan. 1, 2021 to current
- 5) All emails and text messages between Ken Bennett, the Senate's liaison for the audit, and Christina Bobb from Jan. 1, 2021 to current

To date you have not responded to any of these records requests.

We believe your refusal to release the requested records – or even acknowledge PNI's request – is a breach of duty and constitutes a statutory denial.

The failure to turn over these records violates the Arizona Public Records Law, which provides a broad right of public inspection and copying of public records. That statute commands that “[p]ublic records and other matters in the custody of any officer shall be open to inspection by any person at all times during office hours.” A.R.S. § 39-121 (emphasis added).

The statute “evinces a clear policy favoring disclosure.” Carlson v. Pima County, 141 Ariz. 487, 490, 687 P.2d 1242, 1245 (1984). Indeed, “access and disclosure is the strong policy of the law . . .” Id. at 491, 687 P.2d at 1246. Furthermore, “[a]ccess to a public record is deemed denied if a custodian fails to promptly respond to a request for production of a public record.” A.R.S. § 39-121.01(E) (emphasis added).

In view of this strong public policy in favor of disclosure, the Arizona Supreme Court has recognized that “all records required to be kept under A.R.S. § 39-121.01(B) are presumed open to the public for inspection as public records.” Id. (emphasis added). In applying the statute, “[d]oubts should be resolved in favor of disclosure.” Ariz. Op. Att’y Gen. No. R75-781 at 145 (1975-76).

To overcome the heavy presumption in favor of disclosure, the records custodian must produce facts to “specifically demonstrate” that release of the requested records “would violate rights of privacy or confidentiality” or harm the “best interests of the state.” Cox Arizona Publ’ns, Inc. v. Collins, 175 Ariz. 11, 14, 852 P.2d 1194, 1198 (1993).

The custodian cannot meet this burden by speculating or “argu[ing] in global generalities of the possible harm that might result from the release.” Cox, 175 Ariz. at 14, 852 P.2d at 1198; Star Publ’g Co. v. Pima County Attorney’s Office, 181 Ariz. 432, 434, 891 P.2d 899, 901 (Ct. App. 1993) (party opposing disclosure must “demonstrate a factual basis why a particular record ought not be disclosed”) (emphasis added). The custodian also must demonstrate that any such harm outweighs the public’s right of access to public records. Phoenix Newspapers, Inc. v. Keegan, 201 Ariz. 344, 351, 35 P.3d 105, 112 (Ct. App. 2001) (“[t]he public’s right to know any public document is weighty in itself”).

Arizona law subjects government entities to awards of attorneys’ fees and costs where a legal challenge is necessary to combat the wrongful denial of public record requests. Carlson, 141 Ariz. at 491, 687 P.2d at 1246; A.R.S. § 39-121.02(B) (“The court may award attorney fees and other legal costs that are reasonably incurred in any action under this article if the person seeking public records has substantially prevailed.”).

You have advanced no lawful reason for withholding the requested records and PNI is entitled to prompt compliance with its request. A.R.S. § 39-121.01(D)(1) (public officers “shall promptly furnish” public records upon request).

It makes no difference whether the records are kept on public or personal devices. We maintain the law requires you to make these records regarding this public business available to us.

As you are no doubt aware, Arizona courts have ruled that records on a public official’s private device can be considered a public record if those records involve public business.

Arizona Attorney General Mark Brnovich has also advised that “public officials cannot use private devices and accounts for the purpose of concealing official conduct.” (No. I17-004 (R15-026) Re: Whether Arizona’s Public Records Law Extends Beyond its Terms and Applies to Privately Sent Messages, July 7, 2017).

Arizona law provides specific exemptions under which records can be withheld. But simply declining to acknowledge a request does not meet even the minimum threshold requirements under the Arizona Open Records Law.

Exemptions are spelled out in ARS Sec. 39-123 through Sec. 139-128. In general, the only itemized prohibitions pertain to those of law enforcement officers, court officials, certain people involved in criminal justice proceedings, and certain current and former elected officials.

Even in cases where there is a valid state interest, absent any express prohibition, the state may exercise its discretion and choose to release records.

Failure to immediately release the requested records constitute a continued violation of ARS. Sec. 39-121 through 39-121.03 and would leave no alternative but to seek relief from court.

We ask that you respond to this request within the next seven days. Should you have any questions, please feel free to call Robert Anglen at 602-316-8395 or Andrew Oxford at 480-417-8946.

Sincerely,

Robert Anglen

Re: Phoenix Newspapers, Inc./Access: Right to Inspect Public Records Relating to Maricopa County Ballot Audit

Dear Mr. Moore and Sen. Fann:

This firm represents Phoenix Newspapers, Inc., which publishes The Arizona Republic and azcentral.com (“PNI”). On PNI’s behalf, I write to secure your prompt and full compliance with PNI’s request to inspect certain public records – specifically, records related to the Arizona Senate’s audit of Maricopa County ballots. This time-sensitive demand to inspect public records is made for a non-commercial, newsgathering purpose pursuant to A.R.S. § 39-121, et seq. (the “Arizona Public Records Law”).

Factual Background

On April 22, 2021, Arizona Republic reporter Andrew Oxford requested the following records (the “Request”):

1. All emails and text messages between Senate President Karen Fann and Ken Bennett, the Senate’s liaison for the audit, during CY 2021;
2. All emails and text messages between Senate President Karen Fann and Christina Bobb during CY 2021;
3. All emails and text messages between Sen. Sonny Borrelli and Ken Bennett, the Senate’s liaison for the audit, during CY 2021;
4. All emails and text messages between Ken Bennett, the Senate’s liaison for the audit, and Doug Jones, of Cyber Ninjas during CY 2021; and

Karen Fann, Senate President

5. All emails and text messages between Ken Bennett, the Senate's liaison for the audit, and Christina Bobb during CY 2021.

On May 19, 2021, you provided 27 pages of responsive documents consisting of six emails between Senator Fann and Ken Bennett. It is not clear if there are additional records responsive to section 1 of the Request, although both the content of the released records and the context of the events surrounding the audit strongly suggest that more records exist. Even more concerning is the fact that to date, you have not provided any records in response to sections 2-5 of the Request.

PNI is particularly concerned that you have not provided a copy of a March 8, 2021 email exchange between Sen. Fann and Ms. Bobb – which is responsive to section 2 of the Request – that you disclosed to another requester, Carrie Levine of the Center for Public Integrity. The content and tone of that email exchange also indicates that there are likely other responsive emails between Sen. Fann and Ms. Bobb that have not been produced. This discrepancy raises serious questions regarding the thoroughness of the search for responsive records and compliance with the law.

PNI has not received any explanation for why the Senate has failed to respond fully to these requests or made copies of all of the records available for inspection. By this letter, we renew PNI's request for prompt and full access to inspect and secure copies of the Records from the Senate pursuant to A.R.S. §39-121 et seq. (the "Arizona Public Records Law"). We trust you will take this opportunity to comply with PNI's request promptly and fully for the reasons explained more fully below.

The Arizona Public Records Law

The Senate's refusal to provide all of the requested Records violates the Arizona Public Records Law, which provides a broad right of public inspection and copying of public records. The statute commands that "[p]ublic records and other matters in the custody of any officer shall be open to inspection by any person at all times during office hours." A.R.S. § 39-121 (emphasis added). The statute "evinces a clear policy favoring disclosure." Carlson v. Pima County, 141 Ariz. 487, 490 (1984). Indeed, "access and disclosure is the strong policy of the law" Id. at 491. The statute "defines 'public records' broadly and creates a presumption requiring the disclosure of public documents." Griffis v. Pinal County, 215 Ariz. 1, 4 (2007). In view of this strong public policy in favor of disclosure, the Arizona Supreme Court has recognized that "all records required to be kept under A.R.S. § 39-121.01(B) are presumed open to the public for inspections as public records." Carlson, 141 Ariz. at 491 (emphasis added). In applying the statute, "[d]oubts should be resolved in favor of disclosure." Ariz. Op. Att'y Gen. No. R75-781 at 145 (1975-76).

To overcome the presumption in favor of disclosure, the Senate must produce facts to "specifically demonstrate" that release of the requested records "would violate rights of privacy or confidentiality” or harm the “best interests of the state.” Cox Arizona Publ’ns, Inc. v. Collins, 175 Ariz. 11, 14 (1993). See also Lake v. City of Phoenix, 222 Ariz. 547, 549-50 (2009). The Senate cannot meet this burden by speculating or “argu[ing] in global generalities of the possible harm that might result from release.” Cox, 175 Ariz. at 14. Rather, the Senate must provide a specific, concrete factual basis capable of justifying an exception to the usual rule of full disclosure of public records. See, e.g., Star Pub’g Co. v. Pima County Attorney’s Office, 181 Ariz. 432, 434 (App. 1994) (party opposing disclosure must demonstrate a factual basis why a particular record ought not to be disclosed). The Senate also must demonstrate that any such harm outweighs the public’s strong right of access to public records. Phoenix Newspapers, Inc. v. Keegan, 201 Ariz. 344, 351 (App. 2001) (“[t]he public’s right to know any public document is weighty in itself.”).

The requested materials – emails about the audit of Maricopa County ballots involving Senators and the Senate’s liaison to the audit – are unquestionably public records. These records directly involve the official duties of state legislators and the conduct of Senate business, and are therefore subject to disclosure. See Carlson, 141 Ariz. at 490 (noting that Arizona Public Records Law covers those records “reasonably necessary to provide knowledge of all activities they undertake in the furtherance of their duties”); A.R.S. § 39-121.01(B) (“All officers and public bodies shall maintain all records . . . reasonably necessary or appropriate to maintain an accurate knowledge of their official activities and of any of their activities which are supported by monies from the state or any political subdivision of the state.”).

The Senate has failed to specifically demonstrate any ground for not providing copies of all of the requested materials promptly. It has provided no justification for withholding the Records, let alone one that would outweigh the public’s “weighty” interest in access. Keegan, 201 Ariz. at 351. While the Senate may try to justify certain redactions on privacy grounds, it has not done so here. In these circumstances, the requested materials should be released forthwith in accordance with A.R.S. §39-121 et seq.

The Requested Materials Should Be Released Without Further Delay

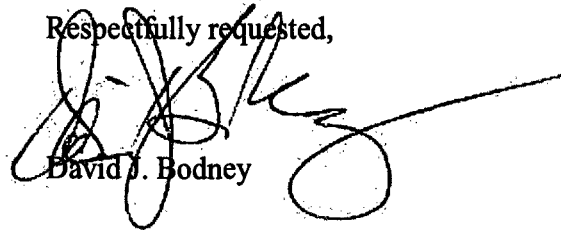

Arizona law subjects the Senate to an award of attorneys’ fees and costs where a legal challenge is necessary to combat a wrongful denial of a public records request. Carlson, 141 Ariz. at 491; A.R.S. § 39-121.02(B) (“The court may award attorney fees and other legal costs that are reasonably incurred in any action under this article if the person seeking public records has substantially prevailed.”). The Senate has not advanced a lawful reason for withholding the requested materials, and PNI is entitled to prompt compliance with its requests. A.R.S. § 39-121.01(E) (access deemed denied where custodian failed to “promptly” respond); Phoenix New Times, LLC v. Arpaio, 217 Ariz. 533, 538-39 (App. 2008) (finding that the burden is on the agency to demonstrate that a response to a public records request is timely).

Karen Fann, Senate President

This letter is intended to give the Senate one further opportunity to release the requested materials as Arizona law requires – promptly. Accordingly, PNI requests that you provide copies of the requested materials by 5:00 p.m. on Friday, May 28, 2021. PNI reserves the right to take any and all further steps it deems appropriate to secure access to the requested materials under the Arizona Public Records Law, including the filing of a special action to secure judicial enforcement of its rights. Of course, we would prefer to resolve this matter amicably and constructively, without resort to litigation.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Respectfully requested,

Subject: Response to letter of 5/24/21 regarding production of records

 EXTERNAL

Mr. Bodney,

I am writing in response to your letter that was forwarded to me by President Fann of May 24, 2021 regarding the right to inspect public records relating to the Maricopa County ballot audit.

On May 19, 2021, as you stated in your letter I did provide 27 pages of responsive documents consisting of emails between President Fann and Ken Bennett. Those emails are the responsive email records regarding paragraph 1.

As you may be aware, the Arizona State Senate (Senate) does not pay for nor provide members of the Senate a cellular phone for use in connection with the transaction of public business as a Senator nor does the Senate reimburse members for the cost of their own private personal cellular phone or the monthly cost charged by the service provider to the member for the use of their private cellular phone. Since the Senate doesn't pay for or provide cellular phones to the members, the Senate has no government managed system in place to search for and produce any records from a member's personal private cellular phone. However, it is my understanding that President Fann has agreed to produce any responsive nonprivileged text messages between herself and Ken Bennett in paragraph 1 and Christina Bobb in paragraph 2.

There was in fact an inadvertent mistake that was made by not including responsive emails between President Fann and Christina Bobb in paragraph #2. The mistake was not an attempt to fail to produce records or to not comply with the law. The mistake was a clerical one for which I apologize and take full responsibility. The attached pdf contains 9 pages of responsive documents concerning emails between President Fann and Christina Bobb during calendar year 2021 as specified in paragraph 2.

In regards to paragraph 3, the only email between Senator Borrelli and Ken Bennett is the very first email that was included in the responsive documents sent to Mr. Oxford on May 19, 2021. That particular email from Ken Bennett was sent to a number of people including both President Fann and Sonny Borrelli. Since that document was already included as a responsive document regarding paragraph #1 it was not produced again and included in the responsive documents in paragraph #3 as it was a duplicative responsive document. Senator Borrelli has indicated he has no responsive text messages to Ken Bennett.

Although the Senate's position is that it is not legally obligated to provide records as requested in paragraphs 4 and 5, the Senate is agreeing to search and produce documents as requested in paragraphs 4 and 5. I do want to ask for a clarification regarding paragraph #4. The request for email and text messages between Ken Bennett specifies "Doug Jones" but I am speculating that it is really intended to specify "Doug Logan", the CEO of Cyber Ninjas. Please advise.

It is my understanding that you and Mr. Langhofer are supposed to communicate in the near future regarding this matter. I would welcome an opportunity to participate in those discussions.

Again, I do apologize for my clerical error made for not originally including the responsive nonprivileged emails between President Fann and Christina Bobb to Andrew Oxford.

Sincerely,

Norm Moore

- All resumes and CVs for employees/ agents of Cyber Ninjas, Wake Technology Services, CyFIR, LLC., and any other unnamed contractors/subcontractors.

Recognizing this is a lengthy list, we are asking you to provide information as soon as it is available rather than waiting until you have collected all of the documents requested.

We do, however, look forward to your complete response within 10 days, a time frame we believe adequately suffices under the “reasonable” requirement evinced by statute.

Should you need to more time, we will happily work with you to create a mutually agreeable timetable for the continued release of documents.

We want to make clear that we believe you are the proper custodian for these records, whether or not you have them in your immediate possession or if they are in the possession of one of your agents, contractors or subcontractors.

The fact is, the Arizona Audit – the so called “people’s audit” as described by Arizona GOP Chair Kelli Ward in livestream interviews with Arizona Senate Audit Liaison Ken Bennett – is a public undertaking using public funds.

Any argument that you are not the proper custodian, or that you simply don’t have the records in your possession, flies in the face of Arizona statutes and previous court rulings.

Arizona laws covering the disposition of private monies make clear that a public entity can only accept such fun for activities it is statutorily authorized to perform.

The statute commands that “Every department, institution, board or commission receiving private monies or contributions available for its support or for the purpose of defraying expenses or work done under its direction, other receipts that are subject to refund or return to the sender or receipts that have not yet accrued to the state shall ... shall keep an accounting of each such fund or contribution.” A.R.S. § 35-149.

The law requires public entities to keep records of: The sources of private monies; the terms and conditions under which and the purpose for which the monies were received; the names of the trustees or administrators of the monies or contributions.

There can be no argument that all the records pertaining to the Arizona Audit are covered here. And the Arizona Public Records makes explicit that any such records are de facto public records.

Arizona’s Public Records Law requires public bodies to maintain records of expenditures, and makes those records open to public inspection.

In view of the strong public policy in favor of disclosure, the Arizona Supreme Court has recognized that “all records required to be kept under A.R.S. § 39-121.01(B) are presumed open to the public for inspection as public records.” Id. (emphasis added). In applying the statute, “[d]oubts should be resolved in favor of disclosure.” Ariz. Op. Att’y Gen. No. R75-781 at 145 (1975-76).

If any part of this request is denied, please cite the specific exemptions under the law that you think justifies your refusal to release the information and inform us of your administrative appeal process.

While the law allows you to charge for the actual cost of copying these documents, we request that you waive any such fee since we are reporters working for a newspaper, which is not considered a commercial enterprise under the law.

azcentral. | THE ARIZONA REPUBLIC

Should you feel the need to charge for this request, we would ask that you inform us of any charge prior to making copies.

Be advised that we are prepared to pursue whatever legal remedy necessary to obtain the requested records.

We again ask that you respond to this request within the next 10 days. Should you have any questions, please call Robert Anglen at 602-316-8395.

Re: Phoenix Newspapers, Inc./Access: Request to Inspect Public Records Relating to Maricopa County Ballot Audit

Dear Mr. Bennett:

This firm represents Phoenix Newspapers, Inc., which publishes The Arizona Republic and azcentral.com (“PNI”). On PNI’s behalf, I write pursuant to A.R.S. § 39-121, et seq. (the “Arizona Public Records Law”) to inspect public records you have received or generated while performing your duties as an appointed public officer in connection with the Arizona Senate’s audit of Maricopa County ballots from the 2020 election. This time-sensitive request to inspect public records is made for a non-commercial, newsgathering purpose.

The requested records include:

- All communications that you received or sent while performing your Senate-appointed duties regarding the audit from January 1, 2021, to the present, including all communications regarding the audit involving you and any member, officer, employee or agent of the Arizona Senate or any person involved in the performance of the audit, including any officer, employee or agent of Cyber Ninjas, Wake Technology Services, CyFIR or any other corporate entity involved. As used here, “communications” should be interpreted in its broadest possible terms to include, without limitation, mail; email; text messages; voicemail messages; and messages using applications such as WhatsApp, Signal, Wickr, Twitter, SnapChat, Facebook, Parler, or Telegram.
- All invoices and financial documents reflecting work performed, services rendered or goods delivered, rented or used in connection with the audit and all records of any payments to any person or corporate entity in connection with the audit.

- All other documents regarding the performance of your duties, or the duties of others, in connection with the audit.

PNI recognizes that this may involve a substantial amount of information. However, I understand that counsel for the Arizona Senate and President Fann have indicated that you have agreed to preserve and produce such records in connection with public records requests to the Senate from PNI and other parties. Accordingly, I look forward to your response to this request within ten (10) days, which should suffice as reasonably prompt under the statute.

The Arizona Public Records Law commands that “[p]ublic records and other matters in the custody of any officer shall be open to inspection by any person at all times during office hours.” A.R.S. § 39-121 (emphasis added). The statute “evinces a clear policy favoring disclosure.” Carlson, 141 Ariz. at 490. The statute “defines ‘public records’ broadly and creates a presumption requiring the disclosure of public documents.” Griffis v. Pinal County, 215 Ariz. 1, 4 (2007).

The Arizona Public Records Law applies in this instance because you are a “public officer” within the meaning of A.R.S. § 39-121.01 as the liaison appointed by the Arizona Senate in connection with the audit. The statute requires public officers to maintain “all records . . . reasonably necessary or appropriate to maintain an accurate knowledge of their official activities and of any of their activities that are supported by monies from this state or any political subdivision of this state.” Id. § 39-121.10(B); see also Carlson v. Pima County, 141 Ariz. 487, 491 (1984) (Arizona Public Records Law “requires the keeping of records sufficient to provide the public with ‘knowledge’ of all of the activities of a public officer and of the manner in which he conducts his office and performs his duty”). In view of the strong public policy in favor of disclosure, the Arizona Supreme Court has recognized that “all records required to be kept under A.R.S. § 39-121.01(B) are presumed open to the public for inspections as public records.” Carlson, 141 Ariz. at 491 (emphasis added).

The audit is a core governmental function being performed on behalf of the Arizona Senate and funded in part by an expenditure of state taxpayer funds. Nothing is more fundamental to the operation of state government than the administration and oversight of elections. Any activity you undertook pursuant to your appointment by the Arizona Senate was, therefore, a governmental duty that must have the greatest possible transparency to the public. If one purpose of the audit is to reinforce public confidence in the elections process, then maximum transparency is not only required by state law, it is also necessary to fulfil the purpose of the entire exercise.

Overcoming the presumption in favor of disclosure requires the production of facts to “specifically demonstrate” that release of the requested records “would violate rights of privacy or confidentiality” or harm the “best interests of the state.” Cox Arizona Publ’ns, Inc. v. Collins, 175 Ariz. 11, 14 (1993). See also Lake v. City of Phoenix, 222 Ariz. 547, 549-50 (2009). The burden cannot be met through speculation or “argu[ing] in global generalities of the possible harm that might result from release.” Cox, 175 Ariz. at 14. Rather, nondisclosure must be supported by a specific, concrete factual basis capable of justifying an exception to the usual rule of full disclosure of public records. See, e.g., Star Pub’g Co. v. Pima County Attorney’s Office, 181 Ariz. 432, 434 (App. 1994) (party opposing disclosure must demonstrate a factual basis why a particular record ought not to be disclosed). Any such harm also must outweigh the public’s strong right of access to public records. Phoenix Newspapers, Inc. v. Keegan, 201 Ariz. 344, 351 (App. 2001) (“[t]he public’s right to know any public document is weighty in itself.”).

Because of the urgent need to inform the public about the operations of the audit, please notify me immediately if you intend to decline this request in whole or in part so that PNI can prepare for litigation. Should litigation ensue, Arizona law provides for an award of attorneys’ fees and costs where a legal challenge is necessary to combat a wrongful denial of a public records request. Carlson, 141 Ariz. at 491; A.R.S. § 39-121.02(B) (“The court may award attorney fees and other legal costs that are reasonably incurred in any action under this article if the person seeking public records has substantially prevailed.”). Of course, PNI hopes that litigation can be avoided by the prompt and complete compliance with the Arizona Public Records Law by the public bodies and officers involved in the audit.

I look forward to hearing from you or your counsel.

Respectfully requested,

Any activity you undertook pursuant to your appointment by the Arizona Senate was, therefore, a governmental duty that must have the greatest possible transparency to the public. If one purpose of the audit is to reinforce public confidence in the elections process, then maximum transparency is not only required by state law, it is also necessary to fulfil the purpose of the entire exercise.

Overcoming the presumption in favor of disclosure requires the production of facts to “specifically demonstrate” that release of the requested records “would violate rights of privacy or confidentiality” or harm the “best interests of the state.” Cox Arizona Publ’ns, Inc. v. Collins, 175 Ariz. 11, 14 (1993). See also Lake v. City of Phoenix, 222 Ariz. 547, 549-50 (2009). The burden cannot be met through speculation or “argu[ing] in global generalities of the possible harm that might result from release.” Cox, 175 Ariz. at 14. Rather, nondisclosure must be supported by a specific, concrete factual basis capable of justifying an exception to the usual rule of full disclosure of public records. See, e.g., Star Pub’g Co. v. Pima County

I look forward to hearing from you or your counsel.

Dear Mr. Logan:

This firm represents Phoenix Newspapers, Inc., which publishes The Arizona Republic and azcentral.com ("PNI"). On PNI's behalf, I write pursuant to A.R.S. § 39-121, et seq. (the "Arizona Public Records Law") to inspect public records Cyber Ninjas Inc. has received or generated while performing its duties in connection with the Arizona Senate's audit of Maricopa County ballots from the 2020 election (the "Audit"). This time-sensitive request to inspect public records is made for a non-commercial, newsgathering purpose.

The requested records include:

- all financial records related to the Audit, including without limitation all bids, requests for bids or requests for proposals, contracts, amendments to contracts, invoices, bills, receipts and records of all payments or donations for such Audit-related work;
- all communications regarding the performance, funding and/or staffing of the Audit between or involving any officer, director, employee or agent of Cyber Ninjas and:
 - any member of the Arizona Senate or any employee or agent communicating on behalf of any Senator;
 - any "liaison" for the Arizona Senate or any Senator, including Ken Bennett and Randy Pullen, or anyone communicating on their behalf;

- any member of the Maricopa County Board of Supervisors, Maricopa County Recorder Steven Richer, Maricopa County Sheriff Paul Penzone or anyone communicating on their behalf;
- member of the Arizona House of Representatives Mark Finchem and former member of the Arizona House of Representatives Anthony Kern, or anyone communicating on their behalf;
- any member of the United States Congress who represents an Arizona congressional district, or anyone communicating on their behalf;
- former U.S. President Donald Trump or anyone communicating on his behalf; and
- Christina Bobb of One America News Network, or anyone communicating on her behalf.

As used here, “communications” should be interpreted in its broadest possible terms to include, without limitation, mail; email; text messages; voicemail messages; and messages using applications such as WhatsApp, Signal, Wickr, Twitter, SnapChat, Facebook, Parler, or Telegram.

- all communications regarding the performance, funding and/or staffing of the Audit between any officer, director, employee or agent of Cyber Ninjas and any officer, director, employee or agent of any subcontractor, including without limitation Wake Technology Services, Inc., CyFir LLC and Strat Tech Solutions LLC; and
- all communications regarding the performance, funding and/or staffing of the Audit between any officer, director, employee or agent of Cyber Ninjas and any officer, director, employee or agent of any contractor engaged by Maricopa County, including without limitation Pro V&V and SLI Compliance.

I look forward to your response within ten (10) days, which should suffice as reasonably prompt under the statute.

The Arizona Public Records Law commands that “[p]ublic records and other matters in the custody of any officer shall be open to inspection by any person at all times during office hours.” A.R.S. § 39-121 (emphasis added). The statute “evinces a clear policy favoring disclosure.” Carlson, 141 Ariz. at 490. The statute “defines ‘public records’ broadly and creates a presumption requiring the disclosure of public documents.” Griffis v. Pinal County, 215 Ariz. 1, 4 (2007).

The Arizona Public Records Law applies to this particular request because Cyber Ninjas is operating as an instrumentality of the Arizona Senate in performing a core governmental function: namely, a review of the ballots cast in Maricopa County for the 2020 election. See A.R.S. § 39-121.01(A). The stated intent by the Senate leaders who commissioned the Audit was that the contractor they hired would “perform everything we have required in the subpoenas.” See <https://www.azsenaterepublicans.com/post/statement-from-senate-republicans-on-court-filing-by-maricopa-county-board-of-supervisors>.

The Audit is a core governmental function being performed on behalf of the Arizona Senate and funded in part by an expenditure of state taxpayer funds. Nothing is more fundamental to the operation of state government than the administration and oversight of elections. Any activity Cyber Ninjas has taken pursuant to its contract with the Arizona Senate is, therefore, a governmental duty that must have the greatest possible transparency to the public. If the Audit is meant to reinforce public confidence in the elections process, then maximum transparency is not only required by state law, it is also necessary to fulfil the Audit’s purpose. Simply put, Cyber Ninjas is subject to this particular request under the Arizona Public Records Law because it is doing government work, directed by government officials, and paid for, at least in substantial part, with government funds.

The Arizona Public Records Law requires public officers and public bodies to maintain “all records . . . reasonably necessary or appropriate to maintain an accurate knowledge of their official activities and of any of their activities that are supported by monies from this state or any political subdivision of this state.” Id. § 39-121.10(B); see also Carlson v. Pima County, 141 Ariz. 487, 491 (1984) (Arizona Public Records Law “requires the keeping of records sufficient to provide the public with ‘knowledge’ of all of the activities of a public officer and of the manner in which he conducts his office and performs his duty”). In view of the strong public policy in favor of disclosure, the Arizona Supreme Court has recognized that “all records required to be kept under A.R.S. § 39-121.01(B) are presumed open to the public for inspections as public records.” Carlson, 141 Ariz. at 491 (emphasis added).

Overcoming the presumption in favor of disclosure requires the production of facts to “specifically demonstrate” that release of the requested records “would violate rights of privacy or confidentiality” or harm the “best interests of the state.” Cox Arizona Publ’ns, Inc. v. Collins, 175 Ariz. 11, 14 (1993). See also Lake v. City of Phoenix, 222 Ariz. 547, 549-50 (2009). The burden cannot be met through speculation or “argu[ing] in global generalities of the possible harm that might result from release.” Cox, 175 Ariz. at 14. Rather, nondisclosure must be supported by a specific, concrete factual basis capable of justifying an exception to the usual rule of full disclosure of public records. See, e.g., Star Pub’g Co. v. Pima County Attorney’s Office. 181 Ariz. 432, 434 (App. 1994) (party opposing disclosure must demonstrate a factual basis why a particular record ought not to be disclosed). Any such harm also must outweigh the public's strong right of access to public records. Phoenix Newspapers, Inc. v. Keegan, 201 Ariz. 344, 351 (App. 2001) (“[t]he public’s right to know any public document is weighty in itself.”).

Because of the urgent need to inform the public about the operations of the Audit, please notify me immediately if you intend to decline this request in whole or in part so that PNI can prepare for litigation. Should litigation ensue, Arizona law provides for an award of attorneys’ fees and costs where a legal challenge is necessary to combat a wrongful denial of a public records request. Carlson, 141 Ariz. at 491; A.R.S. § 39-121.02(B) (“The court may award attorney fees and other legal costs that are reasonably incurred in any action under this article if the person seeking public records has substantially prevailed.”). Of course, PNI hopes that litigation can be avoided by the prompt and complete compliance with the Arizona Public Records Law by the public bodies and officers involved in the Audit, including their agents.

I look forward to hearing from you or your counsel.

Re: Cyber Ninjas

David:

Thank you for your letter dated June 2nd. As you know, this law firm represents Cyber Ninjas, Inc. (hereinafter referred to as "CNI").

Your letter, which was directed to CNI, purports to be a request for inspection of public records under A.R.S. § 39-121 (the "Public Records Law").

However, it is apparent from a reading of A.R.S. §§ 39-121 et seq. that requests for inspection of public records should be directed to an "officer or public body" – and/or, that any action for wrongful denial of access to public records may only be filed against an "officer or public body." A.R.S. § 39.121.02(C)("[a]ny person who is wrongfully denied access to public records pursuant to this article has a cause of action against the officer or public body for any damages resulting from the denial")(emphasis added); see also e.g. A.R.S. § 39-121 ("[p]ublic records and other matters in the custody of any officer shall be open to inspection...")(emphasis added); A.R.S. § 39-121.01(B)("[a]ll officers and public bodies shall maintain all records...")

CNI is not an "officer" within the definition of A.R.S. § 39-121.01(A)(1), nor is it a "public body" within the definition of A.R.S. § 39-121.01(A)(2). The foregoing statute provides that "officer" means "any person elected or appointed to hold any elective or appointive office of any public body and any chief administrative officer, head, director, superintendent or chairman of any public body." CNI is not a person elected or appointed to hold any elective or appointive office of a public body, etc. "Public body" is defined as "this state, any county, city, town, school district, political subdivision or tax-supported district in this state, any branch, department, board, bureau, commission, council or committee of the foregoing, and any public organization or agency, supported in whole or in part by monies from this state or any political subdivision of this state, or expending monies provided by this state or any political subdivision of this state." CNI is clearly not the "state" or a "political subdivision," etc.; nor is it a "public organization or agency..." It is a private contractor.

Therefore, your letter was not properly directed to CNI. Moreover, your client may not file an action against my client under A.R.S. § 39.121.02. In the event that your client files such an action against CNI, then please consider this letter to be my client's advance notice that it deems such an action to be groundless under the statute and will demand that it be withdrawn under Rule 11, as well as seek its attorneys' fees and costs as appropriate.

Finally, in accordance with the above analysis, CNI will not be producing any records in response to the letter. Please feel free to contact my office with any questions.

Sincerely,

Re: Phoenix Newspapers, Inc./Access (Arizona Senate): Right to Inspect Public Records
Relating to Maricopa County Ballot Audit

Dear Kory and Norm:

I write to follow up on our telephone conversation yesterday afternoon regarding the April 22, May 27 and June 2 public records requests by Phoenix Newspapers, Inc., which publishes The Arizona Republic and azcentral.com ("PNI"). Again, thank you both for taking the time to talk with my colleague, Matt Kelley, and me about these issues.

This letter addresses three main topics of our discussion.

First, you had asked me to provide suggested language for a records retention request from the Arizona Senate and Pres. Fann to the audit "vendor" and "sub-vendors" that would encompass what, in our view, are public records. Here is that language:

Please preserve all documents and communications related to the funding, performance, and staffing of the audit, including without limitation all contracts, agreements, invoices, receipts, and other records of payments or donations made or received in connection with the audit; all communications with any current or former elected officials regarding the audit; all records regarding all persons involved in performing any task related to the audit, whether a volunteer, employee, agent or independent contractor, including their tasks assigned or performed; and any documents reflecting performance standards and reviews.

We believe the foregoing document retention directive would provide clear guidance to the vendor and sub-vendors and enable them to maintain and preserve documents that the Senate would be obliged to preserve as part of this governmental activity. We believe such a directive is essential, especially in light of the Senate's current position: namely, its decision not to make responsive records in the possession of its vendor and sub-vendors available for inspection and copying absent a court order.

Second, in our discussion regarding the volume of emails responsive to PNI's records requests, you said that the vast majority of emails to members of the Senate, perhaps numbering in the hundreds of thousands, are from constituents voicing their varying opinions regarding the election audit. You asked if PNI wanted copies of all of those emails, or whether PNI would agree to narrow its requests in some fashion. I appreciate your candor and willingness to assist PNI in prioritizing the records that may be the most newsworthy. To that end, PNI has a few alternative proposals to consider. One, we could prioritize production of audit-related Senate emails to or from any current or former elected officials (or their agents), and to or from any other persons with direct roles in the audit (e.g., Cyber Ninjas employees). Two, as an alternative, the Senate could provide a list of the senders and recipients of each email, so we could identify which emails our client most urgently wants to review. Three – and this could be done regardless of which other options are chosen – you could start processing and producing the outgoing messages from the Senators and circle back to the incoming ones next. All of these proposals come with the caveat that PNI reserves its right to secure access to all responsive records as promptly as possible. Please let us know which of these proposals would be an acceptable way to prioritize the Senate's response to PNI's requests.

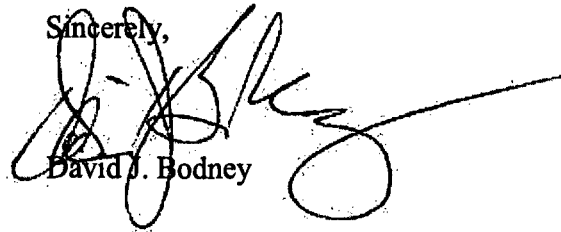

Third, to avoid any confusion down the road, I want to set forth my understanding of the key points of our discussion yesterday. You said that because of the large number of both public records and requests for them, the Senate plans not to respond specifically to those requests but instead to create an online "reading room" where it will post public records regarding the vote audit. You indicated that you would make records available on a rolling basis as they have been reviewed for responsiveness and privilege. You also said that, although you do not concede they are subject to the public records law, you have asked Ken Bennett and Randy Pullen to provide audit-related communications for your review, and you will provide all such responsive, non-privileged records to the reading room. You stated that Mr. Bennett provided two sets of documents, and that you had reviewed the first set but had not had the opportunity to review the second; you said you hoped to have the review of the full complement of Mr. Bennett's documents completed by the end of next week (i.e., June 11). I assume they would then be posted in the reading room, with other records, for inspection and copying.

Kory Langhofer & Norm Moore

I also confirmed with my client that their journalists have received a copy of the lease agreement between the Senate and the State Fairgrounds for use of the Coliseum, the contract between the Senate and Cyber Ninjas and a screenshot evidencing the Senate's payment of the first $50,000 owed to Cyber Ninjas. Thank you for bringing those facts to our attention. You also agreed that you would produce to us – or at least post in the reading room – those documents that the Senate and Cyber Ninjas provided to the Arizona Democrats, Secretary of State Hobbs and other parties in that litigation (e.g., policies and procedures, including a counting policy and, if available, an HR policy). Please let me know when copies of those records will be available to PNI.

I look forward to hearing from you and continuing our dialogue.

Sincerely,

Case No.: LC2021-00180-001

MOTION TO DISMISS

(Oral Argument Requested)

(Assigned to Judge Hannah¹)

¹ Defendant has filed a Notice of Change of Judge and Affidavit of Bias and Prejudice to remove Judge Hannah from this case, which is presently on appeal. By filing this Motion, Defendant does not waive its position that this action must be immediately transferred to another division.

1 Defendant Cyber Ninjas, Inc. (“Defendant,” or “CNI”), by and through undersigned
2 counsel, hereby files this Motion to Dismiss with prejudice the Complaint filed against it by
3 Plaintiffs Phoenix Newspapers, Inc. and Kathy Tulumello (“Plaintiffs,” “PNI” or “The Arizona
4 Republic”).

5 This is an action that The Arizona Republic filed under A.R.S. § 39-121.02, claiming 6 wrongful denial of access to public records by a public officer or public body. However,
7 Defendant is neither of those things; it is a private contractor that was hired by the President of 8 the Arizona State Senate. (See paragraph 8 of the Complaint: “Defendant/Real Party in Interest
9 Cyber Ninjas, Inc., a corporation organized under the laws of the state of Florida, was engaged by 10 the Arizona Senate to conduct the Senate’s audit of ballots in Maricopa County in the 2020
11 election.”) As explained below, there is no good-faith argument under the plain wording of the 12 statutes that Cyber Ninjas is a public “officer” or “public body” that can be sued for wrongful
13 denial of access to public records under A.R.S. § 39-121.02. Plaintiff’s Complaint vaguely argues
14 that Defendant is subject to being sued for public records because it is an “agent” of the Senate
15 (“performing a core government function”) and because it is being paid by the Senate (see 16 Complaint at paragraphs 8, 10, and 50); but this argument has absolutely no legal or statutory 17 basis whatsoever. Further, if Plaintiffs were correct, then it would subject every single employee
18 or contractor of the State – including hard-working people like the staff of this Court, peace 19 officers, firefighters, etc. – to having to respond to public records requests and being sued for 20 denial of access. This is plainly not how the statutes read. As discussed below, the statutes clearly 21 define the persons or entities subject to a records request – i.e. a “officer” and “public body” – as 22 consisting only of elected or appointed officials or chief administrative officers, chairmen, 23 “head[s],” “director[s],” and “supervisors[s]” of a “public body” (and “public bod[ies]” consist of 24 the State and “public organization[s] or agenc[ies]” that receive taxpayer funds). See 25 A.R.S. § 39-121.01(A)(1), (A)(2), discussed infra. A private contractor like Defendant is clearly 26 none of these things; and to hold otherwise would be to subject every government contractor to 27 having to form their own public records departments, and/or suffer liability for not “promptly”
28

1 responding to intensive records requests from literally any member of the public. This is plainly
2 not allowed by the statutes, and Plaintiffs' argument is groundless.

3 As Plaintiffs acknowledge, Defendant expressly warned Plaintiffs about this issue in a
4 letter dated June 11th (to which Plaintiffs did not respond) and told Plaintiffs that if they named
5 Defendant in an action for wrongful denial of access to public records (and did not promptly
6 withdraw the claims), then Defendant would seek its fees and costs. Defendant therefore seeks 7 not only dismissal with prejudice of the claims against it but also reserves the right to seek its
8 attorneys' fees and costs pursuant to Rule 11, A.R.S. §§ 12-349, 12-341, or any other applicable
9 authority, pursuant to Rule 54(g). A short memorandum follows, concerning the legal authorities 10 at issue.

11 The Public Records Statues

12 The public records laws are contained at A.R.S. §§ 39-121 et seq.

13 First, A.R.S. § 39-121 provides that “[p]ublic records and other matters in the custody of 14 any officer shall be open to inspection by any person at all times during office hours.”

15 Second, A.R.S. § 39-121.01(A)(1) defines “officer” as: “any person elected or appointed 16 to hold any elective or appointive office of any public body and any chief administrative officer, 17 head, director, superintendent or chairman of any public body.” Defendant is clearly none of these 18 things, as Plaintiffs admit. Plaintiffs merely allege that Defendant is an “agent” of a public body
19 – which is to say, Defendant is not even an employee of a public body, and certainly far less than 20 an “officer”/administrator. To quote the Arizona Supreme Court: “[a]n ‘office’ is defined as ‘an 21 employment on behalf of the government in any station of public trust not merely transient, 22 occasional, or incidental.’ It is a ‘special trust or charge created by competent authority.’ The 23 officer is distinguished from the employee in the greater importance, dignity, and independence
24 of his position, in being required to take an official oath, and perhaps to give an official bond, in 25 the liability of being called to account as a public offender for misfeasance or nonfeasance in 26 office and usually, though not necessarily, in the tenure of his position.” Winsor v. Hunt, 29 Ariz.
27 504, 519, 243 P. 407, 412 (1926). Defendant – which again is merely a private contractor, as 28 Plaintiffs admit – is not even an employee of the State, much less a tenured, oath-taking “officer.”

1 The public-records request statute therefore clearly does not apply to Defendant, and Plaintiffs'
2 demand that Defendant respond to a public records request is frivolous.

3 Since A.R.S. § 39-121 only provides that an “officer” must respond to a public records
4 request, and Defendant is clearly not an “officer” of a public body within the meaning of the 5 statute, then that ends the analysis. But if for no reason other than academic interest: the definition
6 of “public body” is also contained at A.R.S. § 39-121.01(A)(2), which provides that “public body”
7 means: “this state, any county, city, town, school district, political subdivision or tax-supported 8 district in this state, any branch, department, board, bureau, commission, council or committee of 9 the foregoing, and any public organization or agency, supported in whole or in part by monies
10 from this state or any political subdivision of this state, or expending monies provided by this state
11 or any political subdivision of this state.” Part of the Plaintiffs’ argument – specifically, their 12 argument that Defendant must honor a public records request because it is getting paid by the 13 State – sort of recalls the last phrase in this definition of a “public body” –i.e., the part which says
14 “supported in whole or in part....or expending moneys provided by this state...” But that phrase 15 plainly applies only to “any public organization or agency” – which again, Defendant is not.² And 16 again, public-records requests must be directed to an “officer” within the meaning of 17 A.R.S. §§ 39-121, 39-121.01(A)(1), which we have already established that Defendant is not.

18 Finally, A.R.S. § 39-121.02(A),(C) state that “[a]ny person who has requested to examine 19 or copy public records pursuant to this article, and who has been denied access to or the right to 20 copy such records, may appeal the denial through a special action in the superior court, pursuant 21 to the rules of procedure for special actions against the officer or public body.” And “[a]ny person
22 who is wrongfully denied access to public records pursuant to this article has a cause of action
23 against the officer or public body for any damages resulting from the denial.” But again,
24 Defendant is not an officer or public body within the meaning of these statutes; nor was Plaintiff’s

27 ² The relevant definition for “agency” in Black’s Law is “[a] governmental body with the authority 28 to implement and administer particular legislation. Also termed government agency; administrative agency; public agency; regulatory agency.”

1 public-records request to Defendant made “pursuant to this article,” since the request was not
2 directed to a public officer within the meaning of these statutes.

3 Conclusion

4 For the foregoing reasons, Defendant asks the Court to dismiss the claims against it with 5 prejudice. Pursuant to Rule 54(g)(1), Defendant expressly reserves the right to seek its attorneys’
6 fees and costs against Plaintiffs.

21 Preliminary Statement

22 When the Arizona Senate launched its recount of the nearly 2.1 million ballots cast
23 in Maricopa County last November and hired Cyber Ninjas, Inc. to run the audit, Senate
24 President Karen Fann promised a "transparent" audit that would boost public confidence
25 in the electoral process. But when asked to keep that promise – and comply with the 26 Arizona Public Records Law, A.R.S. § 39-121, et seq. – the response from Senate leaders
27 and Cyber Ninjas has been to deflect, delay and deny. They deflect, saying the records
28 sought by Plaintiffs (the "Records") are in the hands of a "private" company, and therefore

1 are nobody's business but Cyber Ninjas'. They delay, arguing the Senate Defendants have 2 no duty to ask Cyber Ninjas for the Records. They deny, rejecting the public's right to 3 inspect and copy any records held by Cyber Ninjas of (a) communications between Cyber 4 Ninjas and government officials relating to the audit, or (b) financial records about who 5 besides Arizona taxpayers is footing the bill for, or assisting with, this exercise of 6 legislative power. Indeed, these Defendants deny the authority of this Court to adjudicate
7 whether the public is entitled to see these Records under the law.

8 Since Plaintiffs filed this special action, Defendants' briefs and events outside this 9 litigation have clarified the issues before this Court. As for Defendants' briefs, Cyber 10 Ninjas and the Senate Defendants have told this Court:

- 11 • Cyber Ninjas "estimates" it has "around" 60,000 "digital communications" in its 12 "system" that are potentially responsive to Plaintiffs' public records requests, and 13 to the requests of other, unrelated requestors, see Cyber Ninjas' Response to 14 Application for Order to Show Cause ("Cyber Ninjas' Resp.") at 3;
- 15 • Despite requests from Plaintiffs and other parties under the Public Records Law, the 16 four named Senate Defendants ("Senate Defendants") have affirmatively chosen not 17 to ask Cyber Ninjas to turn over potentially responsive records to the Senate – and 18 President Fann, as "steward" of the Senate's interests, will not do so unless ordered 19 by a court, see Senate Defendants' Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings ("Senate 20 Defs.' Mot.") at 9; and
- 21 • Senate Defendants consider Cyber Ninjas and its subcontractors to be their 22 "authorized agents" for the "collection, review and analysis of data and information
23 at the behest and on the behalf of elected Arizona legislators to facilitate the 24 quintessential lawmaking function of crafting legislative proposals," id. at 17.

25 Further, Superior Court Judge Michael Kemp has issued two rulings in a separate
26 case brought by another requestor seeking access to similar audit records. See Minute
27 Entries, American Oversight v. Fann, No. CV 2021-008265 (Ariz. Super. Ct. Maricopa 28 Cty., dated July 14, 2021) (the "July 14 AO Order," attached hereto as Exhibit A); Id. dated
Aug. 2, 2021 (the "August 2 AO Order," attached hereto as Exhibit B). While those rulings are not binding, PNI submits that Judge Kemp's reasoning regarding some of the overlapping issues in favor of public access is persuasive. See Sections I, II and VI, infra.

Defendants' admissions and these other recent developments put into sharp relief one important issue here: namely, whether Cyber Ninjas, which is not a party to the American Oversight litigation, may be compelled by this Court to preserve, protect and

1 ultimately produce public records in its custody for prompt public inspection and copying,
2 as required by the Arizona Public Records Law, where Senate Defendants have abdicated,
3 if not scorned, their legal obligations to do so.

4 All Defendants assert that the Public Records Law does not apply to Cyber Ninjas,
5 which they characterize as “merely a private contractor.” See, e.g., Cyber Ninjas’ Motion
6 to Dismiss (“Cyber Ninjas’ Mot.”) at 2-3. Cyber Ninjas’ arguments begin and end there.
7 Senate Defendants go much further, arguing, first, that no documents in Cyber Ninjas’
8 hands could possibly be public records because the Senate does not have them and will not 9 ask for them. See Senate Mot. at 3-11. Next, Senate Defendants take the remarkable 10 position that they and Cyber Ninjas are “immune” from this special action altogether under 11 the Arizona Constitution’s Speech or Debate clause. See id. at 11-17.

12 Senate Defendants’ Motion should be denied because regardless of whether Cyber 13 Ninjas has physical custody of public records concerning the audit, the Senate has a legal 14 duty under the Public Records Law to maintain, preserve and provide those records for 15 public inspection and copying. See, e.g., A.R.S. §39-121.01(B); Lake v. City of Phoenix, 16 222 Ariz. 547, 550 (2009). Their Motion also fails because “legislative immunity” is 17 inapplicable to this statutory special action, which seeks to hold Senate Defendants to their 18 ministerial, statutory duties to comply with the Arizona Public Records Law. Likewise,
19 Cyber Ninjas’ Motion to Dismiss should be denied because it too is subject to the Public
20 Records law, whether it is seen as the “custodian” of these Records, or as a “public 21 official,” appointed to head up the Senate’s tax-supported audit, or both, according to the 22 statute’s terms. Finally, because none of these Defendants has identified any triable issues
23 of fact, as required by this Court’s July 16, 2021 Order, this Court should grant PNI’s
24 Application and order them to produce the Records¹ forthwith.

25 _____
26 ¹ In their Complaint, Plaintiffs focused on those records in Cyber Ninjas’ possession that 27 are responsive to Senate Requests A and B and the request to Cyber Ninjas. See Compl. ¶
28 54. However, Plaintiffs expressly reserved the right to secure records in the Senate Defendants’ physical possession responsive to Requests A and B if the Senate Defendants did not honor their counsel’s estimate that those records would be disclosed publicly by July 15. Id. Although Senate Defendants have posted some records to their online “reading room,” the number of records provided is a small fraction of the number of documents Senate Defendants’ said were being reviewed. See id. ¶¶ 53-54. (cont.) Accordingly, the

1 I. SENATE DEFENDANTS HAVE A LEGAL DUTY TO MAINTAIN, 2 PRESERVE AND PRODUCE THE PUBLIC RECORDS AT ISSUE.

3 Senate Defendants attempt to wash their hands of any statutory duty to maintain,
4 preserve and provide access to public records regarding the vote audit. They argue: Cyber
5 Ninjas has physical possession of the Records; the Records are not in the Senate's
6 "custody"; and, therefore, Records of their audit exist beyond the reach of the Public
7 Records Law. Their argument fails for many reasons.

8 a. Legal Custody of Public Records Is Not Limited to Physical Custody.

9 Senate Defendants cite no authority that limits Arizona's Public Records Law to 10 only those records in the physical possession of a government entity or official. To the 11 contrary, the Arizona Supreme Court has repeatedly held that "documents with a 12 'substantial nexus' to government activities qualify as public records," and the "nature and 13 purpose" of the documents, not the place where they are kept, determines their status. Lake, 14 222 Ariz. at 549 (internal citations omitted). For example, keeping government records in 15 a database comingled with third-party data does not shield those documents from the Public
16 Records Law. Lake v. City of Phx., 220 Ariz. 472, 481, 207 P.3d 725, 734 (Ct. App. 2009), 17 vacated in part on other grounds, 222 Ariz. 547, 549, 218 P.3d 1004, 1006 (2009) (a public 18 record "does not become immune from production simply by virtue of the method the 19 [government] employs to catalogue the document"). Plainly, the Records bear a 20 substantial nexus to government activities, and their nature and purpose, being a publicly 21 funded audit of the 2020 election, support public disclosure.

22 Further illustrating that physical possession by the government is not necessary for 23 a document to be a public record, the Arizona Court of Appeals held that police officers'
24 personal cell phone records may be public records if they reflect the use of the phone for 25 government purposes. Lunney v. State, 244 Ariz. 170, 179, 418 P.3d 943, 952 (Ct. App.
26 2017). The fact that the individual employees, not the government, would have had 27 physical custody of those records did not factor into the Court of Appeals' analysis. Id.

28 Court should order Senate Defendants to provide all public records responsive to Requests
A and B in their possession as well as all those in Cyber Ninjas' possession that are responsive to Plaintiffs' requests.

1 Senate Defendants try to distinguish Lunney by asserting it means only that government
2 employees, as “officers” under the Public Records Law, “can have their work-related 3 documents commandeered for production by their public body employer” pursuant to the 4 statute. Senate Defs.’ Mot. at 4. But if the Public Records Law applies only to records in 5 the government’s physical possession, as Senate Defendants argue, then an officer’s work-
6 related records cease to be public records once they are removed from government
7 premises. That is not what the Arizona Court of Appeals held in Lunney, and that is not
8 the law. See Griffis v. Pinal Cnty, 215 Ariz. 1, 4 ¶ 10 (2007) (“mere possession” of a 9 document does not determine its public records status). Senate Defendants give no good 10 reason why a government contractor performing an essential government function using 11 public dollars should be treated differently from a government employee performing the 12 same governmental function.

13 Embracing Senate Defendants’ crabbed, illogical view of the Public Records Law
14 would render it a nullity. They contend this law applies only when the government has 15 physical possession of public records. If so, then public bodies could contract with vendors 16 to store all of their electronic documents in the cloud, and all of their hard-copy records in 17 off-site warehouses, and then deny every public records request they get because they lack 18 “physical custody” of the records. Their view of the law would violate both clear statutory 19 commands and the policy behind them. E.g., Carlson v. Pima Cty., 141 Ariz. 487, 490-91, 20 687 P.2d 1242, 1245-46 (1984) (“access and disclosure is the strong policy of the law”).

21 Judge Kemp previously rejected the identical argument made by three of these four 22 Senate Defendants. See Ex. A at 3-4. Noting Senate Defendants’ legal duty to maintain 23 records related to the audit, Judge Kemp held that “actual physical possession of those 24 records is not relevant for purposes of” the Public Records Law. Id. at 3. He continued:

25 Nothing in the statute absolves Senate Defendants’ responsibilities to keep 26 and maintain records for authorities by public monies by merely retaining a 27 third-party contractor who in turn hires subvendors. The plain text makes no 28 such exception to exclude records maintained by these third-party service providers. Allowing the Senate Defendants to circumvent the PRL by retaining private companies to perform valid legislative and/or constitutional functions would be an absurd result and undermine Arizona’s strong policy in favor of permitting access to records reflecting governmental activity.

1 Id. at 3-4. Judge Kemp held that these Senate Defendants “have at least constructive
2 possession of the documents in question.” Id. at 4. PNI respectfully submits that this
3 holding is correct as a matter of law, and this Court should hold the same in this case.

4 b. The Senate’s View of its Contract with Cyber Ninjas Is Plainly Erroneous.

5 Senate Defendants claim that the only way they can be deemed to have custody of 6 the Records is if the Senate is compelled to exercise its indemnity rights under its Master
7 Services Agreement (“MSA”) with Cyber Ninjas and demand that its contractor provide 8 the records to the Senate. See Senate Defs.’ Mot. at 9. This argument, too, fails. Months
9 ago, the Senate could have compelled Cyber Ninjas to provide the Records, but it declined
10 to do so. Instead, working hand in glove with Cyber Ninjas, the Senate has chosen to 11 conceal these public records, making this action against all Defendants necessary.

12 To obfuscate the issue, Senate Defendants falsely argue that the only possible
13 provision in the MSA that PNI could invoke is the indemnification clause in Section 15.4.
14 See Senate Defs.’ Mot. at 9. Senate Defendants claim that provision is not applicable here,
15 because requiring Cyber Ninjas to share the requested records with the Senate for possible
16 public disclosure is not “reasonably necessary to the defense or settlement of the claim[s].”
17 Id. Senate Defendants assert that because Defendant Fann purportedly believes this 18 indemnification provision has not been triggered, she “cannot and will not invoke any 19 discretionary prerogative under Section 15.4 of the MSA.” Id.

20 Senate Defendants, however, ignore a separate provision of the MSA – Section 18.5
21 – that requires Cyber Ninjas to “provide reasonable cooperation . . . in the event that either
22 party is the subject of a claim, action or allegation regarding this Agreement or a party’s 23 actions taken pursuant to this agreement, including, but not limited to providing . . .
24 documents needed for the defense of such claims.” See Compl. Ex. 1 (MSA) § 18.5. This 25 provision is automatically triggered here, because Senate Defendants (and Cyber Ninjas)
26 have been subject to a claim and the requested Records are the very thing that caused this 27 special action to be filed. As such, the Senate can demand that Cyber Ninjas provide the 28 requested records to Plaintiffs, the Senate or this Court, for review and disclosure pursuant

1 to the Arizona Public Records Law. See, e.g., Carlson, 141 Ariz. at 491 (approving 2 redaction and in camera inspection as practical alternatives to wholesale denial).

3 Indeed, Senate Defendants take the remarkable position that they cannot be 4 compelled to invoke Cyber Ninjas' contractual obligation to comply with their duties under 5 the Public Records Law. See Senate Defs.' Mot. at 9-10. This argument is absurd.
6 Compliance with the Public Records Law does not depend on the exercise of discretion to 7 invoke a contractual option: rather, it is a mandatory, "ministerial" act, as Senate
8 Defendants elsewhere admit. See Senate Defs.' Mot. at 10-11. The Senate cannot evade 9 its legal obligations simply by signing a contract with a third party. Cf. Moorehead v.
10 Arnold, 130 Ariz. 503, 505, 637 P.2d 305 (App. 1981) ("The promise of confidentiality
11 standing alone is not sufficient to preclude disclosure. If the promise of confidentiality 12 were to end our inquiry, we would be allowing a [government] official to eliminate the 13 public's rights under A.R.S. [§] 39-121.") (citation omitted).

14 c. Senate Defendants Have an Independent Duty to Maintain and Make 15 Available Their Public Records.

16 Even if Senate Defendants were correct that Records are not public unless they are 17 in the physical custody of an officer or public body (they are not), they still must maintain 18 and release the public records at issue in this special action. The plain language of the 19 Public Records Law states that public officers such as Defendants Fann, Petersen and 20 Aceves, and public bodies such as the State Senate, "shall maintain all records . . .
21 reasonably necessary or appropriate to maintain an accurate knowledge of their official
22 activities and of any of their activities that are supported by monies from this state[.]"
23 A.R.S. § 39-121.01(B) (emphasis added).²

24 Moreover, the Arizona Public Records Law mandates an exacting duty of care:

25 Each public body shall be responsible for the preservation, maintenance and 26 care of that body's public records, and each officer shall be responsible for the preservation, maintenance and care of that officer's public records. It

27 ² In Lake, quoting Carlson, the Arizona Supreme Court reiterated: "For purposes of 28 inspection and access, all records required to be maintained by § 39-121.01(B) and preserved by (C) are to be available for inspection under § 39-121 and copying under § 39-121.01(D), subject to [overriding interests of "privacy, confidentiality, or the best interests of the state . . ."]. 222 Ariz. at 550.

1 shall be the duty of each such body to carefully secure, protect and preserve
2 public records from deterioration, mutilation, loss or destruction, unless disposed of pursuant to [statute].

3 Id. § 39-121.01(C) (emphasis added). If Senate Defendants cannot themselves produce for 4 inspection and copying the Records, their decision to allow Cyber Ninjas to keep and 5 conceal such records violates their statutory duty to “carefully secure, protect and preserve”
6 them, and to make them available to the public. Id. Thus, as one form of relief, Senate
7 Defendants should be ordered to comply with their statutory duties and secure for public
8 disclosure the Records they outsourced to Cyber Ninjas.³ Because Senate Defendants have 9 a clear legal duty to maintain, preserve and provide the public records at issue, their Motion
10 for Judgment on the Pleadings must be denied.

11 II. CYBER NINJAS IS SUBJECT TO THE PUBLIC RECORDS LAW
12 BECAUSE IT IS AN OFFICIAL OF THE SENATE FOR PURPOSES OF 13 THE AUDIT.

14 Both Cyber Ninjas and Senate Defendants assert that the Public Records Law does 15 not apply to Cyber Ninjas because it is not an officer or public body pursuant to statute.
16 See Senate Defs.’ Mot. at 3-6; Cyber Ninjas’ Mot. at 3-5. They are mistaken.

17 The Arizona Public Records Law defines an “officer” as “any person . . . appointed 18 to hold any . . . appointive office of any public body and any chief administrative officer,
19 head, director, superintendent or chairman of any public body.” A.R.S. § 39-121.01(A)(1)
20 (emphasis added). In other words, “officers” are those vested by a public body such as the 21 Senate with supervisory authority over the performance of governmental functions.⁴ The 22 statute does not limit the definition of “officer” to natural persons, meaning that corporate 23 persons such as Cyber Ninjas can be officers subject to the Public Records Law. See A.R.S.

24 ³ Even if Cyber Ninjas were not directly responsible for compliance with the Public
25 Records Law (and it is), this Court has the power to order Cyber Ninjas to provide records to Plaintiffs, and to this Court for in camera review if necessary, because Cyber Ninjas is named as both defendant and real party in interest in this action. See infra Section IV.

26 ⁴ Struggling to remove itself from the law’s command, Cyber Ninjas relies on a nearly 27 century-old Arizona Supreme Court opinion. Cyber Ninjas’ Mot. at 3 (quoting Winsor v.
Hunt, 29 Ariz. 504, 519, 243 P. 407, 412 (1926)). But Winsor is inapposite because it was 28 not interpreting the specific definition of “officer” the Legislature enacted many decades later in the Arizona Public Records Law. As the Supreme Court more recently noted, Winsor “construed a since-replaced constitutional provision and did not purport to adopt a general definition of ‘public office.’” Adams v. Comm’n on Appellate Court Appointments, 227 Ariz. 129, 136, 254 P.3d 367, 375 (2011).

1 § 1-215(28) (a statutory reference to a “person” “includes a corporation, company,
2 partnership, firm, association or society, as well as a natural person”).

3 Here, the Senate has hired Cyber Ninjas to lead the vote audit, and Defendant Fann
4 publicly announced that Cyber Ninjas would be paid with public funds to head up this
5 government activity. See Compl. ¶ 21; Answer ¶ 21. Its contract with the Senate states
6 that Cyber Ninjas “will serve as the central point-of-contact and organizer of all work 7 conducted over the course of” the agreement, which it describes as conducting “a full and
8 complete audit of 100% of the votes cast within the 2020 November General Election
9 within Maricopa County, Arizona.” Compl. Ex. 2 at 1-2 (Statement of Work). Senate
10 Defendants admit that Cyber Ninjas is their “authorized agent[.]” for the “collection, review
11 and analysis of data and information at the behest and on the behalf of elected Arizona 12 legislators to facilitate the quintessential lawmaking function of crafting legislative 13 proposals.” Senate Defs.’ Mot. at 17. In short, the Senate appointed Cyber Ninjas to 14 perform the vote audit on the Senate’s behalf. By definition, it is an “official” under the 15 Public Records Law and therefore has a duty to maintain and provide public records
16 regarding the audit. For this reason alone, Cyber Ninjas’ Motion should be denied.

17 III. CYBER NINJAS IS THE SENATE’S DE FACTO CUSTODIAN OF 18 AUDIT RECORDS.

19 Regardless of whether Cyber Ninjas meets the definition of public body or officer, 20 it is subject to the Arizona Public Records Law, and the jurisdiction of this Court, because 21 it is acting as the Senate’s custodian of public records for the vote audit.

22 By its terms, the Public Records Law applies not only to public bodies and officers
23 but also to “custodians” of public records. See A.R.S. §§ 39-121.01 (D)-(E); 39-121.03(A)-
24 (C). By referring separately to officers, public bodies and custodians, the statute anticipates 25 the possibility that, as a practical matter, the custodian of public records may be either a 26 subordinate government employee, contractor or other person who is not an “officer” as 27 defined by the statute. See Carlson, 141 Ariz. at 491, 687 P.2d at 1246 (an “officer or 28 custodian” may invoke the “countervailing interests of confidentiality, privacy or the best

1 interests of the state” to withhold records) (emphasis added). As mentioned supra, Senate
2 Defendants call Cyber Ninjas their “authorized agent[.]” for conducting the vote audit,
3 Senate Defs.’ Mot. at 17, and they disavow Defendant Aceves’ role as a records custodian,
4 saying she has “no legal authority or control over the records at issue.”⁵ Senate Defendants’
5 Motion to Transfer and Consolidate at 3, fn. 1. By allowing Cyber Ninjas to have physical 6 custody of these essential public records, Senate Defendants have made Cyber Ninjas the 7 de facto custodian of these records. As such, Cyber Ninjas must provide these records in 8 response to PNI’s request. A.R.S. § 39-121.01(D)-(E). Again, Cyber Ninjas’ Motion to 9 Dismiss should be denied.

10 IV. CYBER NINJAS IS A PROPER PARTY TO THIS SPECIAL ACTION.

11 Cyber Ninjas asserts it is not a proper defendant because it is not a public body or 12 official subject to the Public Records Law. Cyber Ninjas’ Mot. at 4-5. Cyber Ninjas is 13 properly before this Court, and subject to its jurisdiction, even apart from its status as an 14 officer, records custodian, or both, as reasonably defined by the Public Records Law.

15 Parties who are not officials, public bodies or custodians may be joined as 16 defendants in special actions pursuant to the Public Records Law. Arpaio v. Citizen Publ’g
17 Co., 221 Ariz. 130, 133 n.4, 211 P.3d 8, 11 n.4 (Ct. App. 2008) (in drafting the statute, 18 “our legislature was aware that persons or organizations other than the requestor and 19 custodian could be parties to an action under our public records law”). Indeed, not only
20 may Cyber Ninjas be joined as a party regardless of its status as an officer or custodian, it
21 can be held liable to pay Plaintiffs’ legal fees should Plaintiffs prevail. The Court of 22 Appeals held in Arpaio that a third party may be subject to the fee-shifting provision “when 23 the third party engendered the dispute over access and is a party to the action.” Id. 221
24 Ariz. at 134, 211 P.3d at 12. Such is the case with Cyber Ninjas here.⁶

26 ⁵ Yet Defendant Aceves, as Senate Secretary, “shall have custody of all . . .
27 “communications, or other measures, instruments and [Senate] papers, and shall be held strictly accountable for the safekeeping of same.” (Senate Rule 3.B, Ex. C. hereto).

28 ⁶ Likewise, private parties may intervene in special actions under the Public Record Law to assert confidentiality. See Phoenix Newspapers, Inc. v. Keegan, 201 Ariz. 344, 351-52 (App. 2001) (developer of AIMS test intervened to raise “trade secrets” argument against disclosure, unsuccessfully).

1 Further, naming Cyber Ninjas as a defendant and real party in interest was necessary
2 to ensure Plaintiffs could obtain complete relief (and to ensure due process to Cyber Ninjas)
3 in this special action. Because Senate Defendants refuse to exercise dominion over public
4 records in Cyber Ninjas' physical possession, and because Cyber Ninjas disavows any duty
5 to follow the Public Records Law, it is necessary to "secure, protect and preserve public
6 records," A.R.S. §39-121.01.C, and to safeguard the public's right to inspect and copy
7 them, A.R.S. §39-121.01.D. As such, this Court must order Cyber Ninjas to preserve, 8 protect and produce these public records, whether to Plaintiffs directly or to this Court for 9 immediate in camera review. The Court has the power to issue such an order – to require
10 Cyber Ninjas to review the records, create a privilege log, if one be needed, and produce 11 them – because Cyber Ninjas is rightly named as a defendant and real party in interest. For 12 this reason as well, Cyber Ninjas' Motion to Dismiss should be denied.

13 V. THE CLAIM THAT DISCLOSURE WOULD SUBJECT "EVERY"
14 CONTRACTOR TO THE PUBLIC RECORDS LAW IS SPECIOUS.

15 Cyber Ninjas and Senate Defendants spin apocalyptic predictions of what would 16 happen should Plaintiffs prevail. "[E]very single employee or contractor of the State,"
17 Cyber Ninjas says, "including hard-working people like the staff of this Court, peace 18 officers, firefighters, etc.," would be required "to respond to public records requests and 19 be[] sued for denial of access." Cyber Ninjas' Mot. at 2. Every government contractor, 20 Cyber Ninjas continues, would have "to form their own public records departments, and/or 21 suffer liability for not 'promptly' responding to intensive records requests from literally 22 any member of the public." Id. at 2-3. Senate Defendants similarly assert that every 23 "vendor of any state, county or local government agency or unit in Arizona will be swept 24 under the auspices of the" Public Records Law, such that all of their documents with a 25 substantial nexus to government activity "will be presumptively subject to indefinite 26 preservation and ultimately disclosure as a public record." Senate Defs.' Mot. at 7.

27 Nonsense. The implications of Plaintiffs' arguments are nowhere near that broad.
28 PNI's position is only that the Public Records Law applies in this circumstance, where

1 Cyber Ninjas is performing an essential and exclusive government function, initiated and 2 funded with public dollars, where the Senate lacks the ability to perform this core
3 government activity itself. Cyber Ninjas is unlike any typical government contractor that 4 provides the same goods or services to a governmental entity that it could provide to a
5 nongovernmental customer. PNI is not contending that the Public Records Law would 6 directly apply to such run-of-the-mill government contractors.

7 On the other hand, accepting Senate Defendants' contentions would permit them to 8 continue to keep Arizonans in the dark about how and by whom the vote audit is being 9 funded and performed, despite their pledges of transparency. And accepting Cyber Ninjas'
10 contentions would allow it and any other corporation to exercise the powers of government 11 without bothering with the statutory responsibilities that come with those powers, such as 12 compliance with the Public Records Law. They cannot have it both ways.

13 VI. NONE OF THE DEFENDANTS HAS LEGISLATIVE IMMUNITY.

14 Senate Defendants make the remarkable assertion that they and Cyber Ninjas have 15 an all-encompassing, constitutional immunity from this (and presumably any other) special
16 action. Senate Defs.' Mot. at 11-17. Whether legislative immunity applies is a question
17 of law for the Court. Mesnard v. Campagnolo, No. CV-20-0209-PR, 2021 Ariz. LEXIS
18 238, at *8 (June 30, 2021). Here, it is clear that legislative immunity does not extend to 19 shield every legislator and legislative body from compliance with non-discretionary,
20 statutory mandates. The immunity claimed by Senate Defendants does not extend to this 21 action, and the Senate's actions in refusing to comply with the Public Records Law are not 22 discretionary legislative activities. Further, because the individual Defendant Senators are 23 not immune, neither are the Senate, its Secretary, nor Cyber Ninjas.

24 a. Legislative Immunity Is Inapplicable in Special Actions.

25 PNI agrees with Senate Defendants that special actions such as this one seeking 26 compliance with the Public Records Law are a contemporary form of what in the past
27 would have been a writ of mandamus. Senate Mot. at 10-11; see also, e.g., Stagecoach
28 Trails MHC, L.L.C. v. City of Benson, 231 Ariz. 366, 370 ¶ 19, 295 P.3d 943 (2013) ("An

1 action is in the nature of mandamus if it seeks to compel a public official to perform a non-
2 discretionary duty imposed by law.”). Because a public records special action like this one
3 seeks a court order requiring the performance of a non-discretionary duty required by 4 statute, legislative immunity is inapplicable.

5 Plaintiffs are unaware of any case in which the Arizona Supreme Court has applied
6 legislative privilege in a mandamus case or its special action equivalent. To the contrary,
7 the Court just last year forcefully rejected the argument Senate Defendants make here.
8 Addressing the Arizona Board of Regents’ claim that legislative immunity barred the 9 Attorney General’s special action against it, the Arizona Supreme Court said:

10 This argument fundamentally misperceives the concept of legislative 11 immunity, which is extended to shield individual officials from personal 12 liability for their legislative acts. It has nothing to do with shielding governmental entities from challenges to claimed illegal actions.

13 State ex rel. Brnovich v. Ariz. Bd. of Regents, 476 P.3d 307, 314 (Ariz. 2020) (emphasis 14 added). That ruling could not have been clearer, and it forecloses Senate Defendants’
15 legislative immunity argument in this special action.

16 By footnote, Senate Defendants strain to distinguish this binding authority, asserting 17 the holding in Brnovich is inapplicable because no individual members of the Board of 18 Regents were defendants in that case. Senate Mot. at 12 n.7. All that means, however, is 19 that the Supreme Court did not address the issue of whether an individual legislator would 20 have immunity from a challenge to an allegedly illegal action. Even if individual 21 legislators would be immune from a special action under the Public Records Law (and 22 there is no reason to believe that is so), that has no practical relevance here. The Arizona
23 Senate is a defendant in this case, and thus under the clear holding of Brnovich is not
24 immune from this challenge to its failure to comply with the Public Records Law.

25 Attempting to dodge this fatal flaw, Senate Defendants misconstrue the Arizona
26 Supreme Court’s holding. Brnovich cannot apply here, they argue, because “confining all 27 claims of legislative immunity or privilege to only disputes involving claims of monetary 28 damages” would contravene “decades of federal and Arizona jurisprudence holding that

1 the immunity encompasses all claims against legislators acting in the course of their 2 duties.” Senate Mot. at 12 n.7. But that is not what the Supreme Court did. Rather, the 3 court held that legislative immunity does not apply in special actions challenging alleged 4 failures to follow the law, not in all actions other than those seeking monetary damages.
5 Brnovich, 476 P.3d at 314.⁷

6 Senate Defendants belatedly made a similar immunity argument in the American
7 Oversight action in opposing entry of an order requiring production of the records at issue
8 there. See Ex. B at 3-5. Judge Kemp rejected Senate Defendants’ claim of blanket
9 immunity, holding that the Speech or Debate clause in the Arizona Constitution did not 10 apply. Id. at 5. He further ruled that Senate Defendants’ “broad interpretation” of the 11 immunity “would render the [Public Records Law] meaningless and unenforceable as to 12 any legislator at any time under any circumstances,” which “is surely not within the 13 legislative intent of” the statute. Id.

14 b. Plaintiffs Do Not Seek to Hold Defendants Liable for Any Legislative Act.

15 The Brnovich holding is no anomaly. It simply reflects the well-defined limits of 16 legislative immunity. As the Arizona Supreme Court recently reiterated, “[n]ot everything 17 done by a legislator ‘in any way related to the legislative process’ is afforded absolute
18 immunity as a legislative function.” Mesnard, 2021 Ariz. LEXIS 238, at *9 (citation
19 omitted). Legislative immunity applies to statements made in committee hearings and floor 20 debate, as well as “to acts that are ‘an integral part of the deliberative and communicative 21 processes’ by which the legislative body carries out its constitutionally authorized 22 functions, “but ‘only when necessary to prevent indirect impairment of such 23 deliberations.’” Id. (citations omitted); see also Ariz. Indep. Redistricting Comm’n v.
24 Fields, 206 Ariz. 130, 137, 75 P.3d 1088, 1095 (Ct. App. 2003) (same). The immunity 25 does not attach to “administrative matters” or “other activities incidentally related to 26 legislative affairs but not a part of the legislative process itself.” Mesnard, 2021 Ariz.

27
28 ⁷ The Arizona Supreme Court’s ruling in Brnovich interpreted Arizona law, and thus controls even if it contradicts earlier precedents. Senate Defendants may disagree with Brnovich, but they cannot escape the fact that it is binding and dispositive precedent.

1 LEXIS 238, at *11 (citations omitted); see also State ex rel. Montgomery v. Mathis, 231
2 Ariz. 103, 122-23, 290 P.3d 1226, 1245-46 (Ct. App. 2012).

3 Here, Senate Defendants themselves acknowledge that producing documents in 4 response to a public records request is a “ministerial” act. Senate Defs.’ Mot. at 11. But 5 they sidestep any discussion of the limitations on legislative immunity, instead declaring 6 that “whether and to what extent to release audit-related documents” is a legislative 7 function for which they are immune. Id. at 13. Not so. The Public Records Law, not the 8 whims of the Senate, individual senators or their agents, controls whether and to what 9 extent these Defendants must release audit-related documents.

10 Plaintiffs agree that the vote audit is a legislative function, as Senate Defendants
11 acknowledge. See Senate Defs.’ Mot. at 13. But Plaintiffs are not challenging Defendants’
12 conduct of the audit. Rather, the issue here is whether Senate Defendants complied with 13 their non-discretionary, statutorily mandated duties to maintain and provide access to 14 public records involving the audit. Legislative immunity plays no role here.

15 Mesnard does not compel a different result. There, an expelled former state
16 representative sued the Speaker of the House for, among other things, allegedly defaming
17 him in an investigative report the Speaker provided to lawmakers and the public. Mesnard,
18 2021 Ariz. LEXIS 238, at *11. The Arizona Supreme Court held that the Speaker’s public
19 release of the report was a legislative act because it was part of the constitutionally
20 authorized expulsion process and because the Public Records Law authorized the report’s
21 release. Id. at *14-15. The Supreme Court noted that it was unclear from the record 22 whether anyone actually requested access to the report under the Public Records Law. Id.
23 at *15. Mesnard is inapposite because it involved a tort claim premised on the allegedly 24 defamatory content of a House report released by the Speaker. It did not involve any claim
25 that the Speaker had unlawfully withheld any records after receiving a public records
26 request or otherwise failed to comply with any statutory obligation. This case involves no
27 tort claim; it is a special action that seeks to compel Senate Defendants to fulfill their 28 mandatory duties under the Public Records Law. Mesnard does not overrule the principle

1 in Brnovich that legislative immunity does not shield governmental entities from 2 challenges, such as this one, to allegedly illegal actions. See Brnovich, 476 P.3d at 314;
3 see also August 2 AO Order at 5 (holding Mesnard inapposite because it involved a tort 4 claim, not a special action).

5 Moreover, adopting Senate Defendants' boundless interpretation of legislative 6 immunity would render legislators and legislatures "super-citizens," immune from 7 responsibility" – a result that legislative immunity does not and was never intended to 8 create. Mesnard, 2021 Ariz. LEXIS 238, at *9 (citation omitted). Senate Defendants'
9 Motion should be denied because they are not "immune" from this special action.

10 C. DEFENDANTS FAILED TO IDENTIFY ANY TRIABLE ISSUE OF 11 FACT.

12 In its July 16, 2021 Minute Entry, this Court ordered:

13 defendants to address, in their responses to the Application, the question
14 whether Application [for Order to Show Cause] raises any triable issues of 15 fact. If a defendant takes the position that the Court will have to resolve 16 factual issues in order to adjudicate this matter fully, that defendant's 17 response shall specifically identify the issue(s) as to which there is a good 18 faith dispute, with citations to the paragraphs of the Complaint in which the 19 plaintiff alleges the disputed facts.

20 Minute Entry at 2 (emphasis added).

21 No Defendant has identified any triable issues of fact. Rather, the Responses of 22 both Cyber Ninjas and Senate Defendants speculate about what objections they might raise 23 if the Court orders them to produce public records, but they do not "specifically identify"
24 the issues as to which there is a good faith dispute, nor do they provide "citations to the 25 paragraphs of the Complaint" for any alleged factual dispute. See Senate Defs.' Resp. at 26 3-4; Cyber Ninjas' Resp. at 3-6. It is too late for them to comply with the Order now.

27 Accordingly, there are no material facts in dispute and the question now before the 28 Court is one of law. See, e.g., Griffis v. Pinal Cty., 215 Ariz. 1, 3, 156 P.3d 418, 420 (2007)
("Whether a document is a public record under Arizona's public records law presents a question of law."). Any disputes premised on the content of the records, including whether any privileges apply or whether any records may be properly withheld, can be resolved in the event the Court enters an order requiring production of public records.

Conclusion

For all of the foregoing reasons, and for all of the reasons set forth in Plaintiffs' Application for Order to Show Cause, this Court should (a) deny Senate Defendants' Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings and Cyber Ninjas' Motion to Dismiss; (b) grant Plaintiffs' Application for Order to Show Cause; (c) order Defendants to produce copies of these public records forthwith; and (d) permit Plaintiffs' to file an application for award of its reasonable attorneys' fees incurred for having to file this action against Defendants to safeguard public records and enforce its statutory rights.

MINUTE ENTRY

The Court has reviewed Defendants' Motion to Dismiss, Plaintiff's Response and Reply in Support of Application for Order to Show Cause, and Defendants' Reply. The Court has also reviewed Plaintiff American Oversight's Complaint. The Court heard oral argument on July 7, 2021.

Plaintiff seeks to obtain access to records relating to an audit of the Maricopa County 2020 elections for the office of the President of the United States and a United States Senate race. No other election results are being audited. Defendants Karen Fann, President of the Arizona Senate, Warren Petersen, Chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, and the Arizona Senate ("Senate Defendants") take the position that records in the physical possession or custody of third-party vendors hired by the Senate to perform the audit (Cyber Ninjas, Inc. ("CNI") and CNI's subvendors) are not subject to disclosure under Arizona's Public Records Law, A.R.S. § 39-121, et seq. ("PRL") since they are private vendors and not "public bodies" within the meaning of the statute. Defendants have agreed to produce any documents in the physical custody of any of the Defendants or of former Secretary of State Ken Bennett that are responsive to the public records requests and not protected by any constitutional, statutory or common law privilege or confidentiality. Defendants also take the position that the question of whether these records are subject to disclosure is a nonjusticiable question and beyond the scope of this Court's power.

Factual Background

The Arizona Senate is conducting an audit of voting equipment used and ballots cast in the November 3, 2020 general election in Maricopa County for the office of President of the United States and a United States Senate seat. The Arizona Senate issued legislative subpoenas to the Maricopa Board of Supervisors requesting custody of tabulation equipment, software, ballots, and other election data. The Senate declared that the audit is the exercise of its legislative constitutional powers and has an important and valid legislative purpose to evaluate whether reforms or changes are needed in the voting laws and voting procedures for the State of Arizona.

The Senate then hired a private company, CNI, to conduct the audit. The Senate also retained Ken Bennett to serve as the Senate's liaison to CNI. CNI in turn hired a number of subvendors. The Senate agreed to pay $150,000 to CNI which appears to be far short of paying for the full cost of the audit. The public does not know who is financing the remaining costs or what compensation is being made to subvendors or any other entity involved in the audit.

Prior to the filing of this Complaint, Plaintiff and Senate Defendants engaged in negotiations regarding the records being sought. Senate Defendants refused to disclose any documents or records related to the audit in the physical possession or physical control of Mr. Bennett, CNI, or CNI's subvendors. Although some records were produced from Mr. Bennett, no privilege log or listing of documents withheld has been offered.

Legal Analysis

Senate Defendants seek to dismiss the Complaint for failure to state a claim upon which relief may be granted. Ariz. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6). In considering such a motion, all material allegations of the complaint are taken as true and read in the light most favorable to the plaintiff. Logan v. Forever Living Products Intern., Inc., 203 Ariz. 191 (2002). A motion to dismiss at the initial pleading stage is not favored. Acker v. CSO Chevira, 188 Ariz. 252 (1997).

SUPERIOR COURT OF ARIZONA
MARICOPA COUNTY

CV 2021-008265

A. PRL and the Records of Private Vendors

There is no dispute that Defendants Fann and Peterson are “officers” who hold an elective office of a public body (the Arizona Senate) under the PRL. A.R.S. § 39-121.01(A)(1). Defendant Arizona Senate is clearly a “public body” under the PRL. As officers of a public body, Senate Defendants must maintain all records reasonably necessary or appropriate to maintain an accurate knowledge of their official activities and of any of their activities which are supported by monies from this state or any political subdivision of this state. A.R.S. § 39-121.01(B). As publicly stated by Defendant Fann, the audit is an important public function being conducted by the Arizona Senate pursuant to the Arizona Constitution.

The Court agrees with Senate Defendants that CNI and its subvendors are not officers or public bodies but rather private companies. Plaintiff does not argue that they are officers or public bodies or de facto public officers or public bodies. However, the Court does not agree with Senate Defendants that this ends the inquiry as to whether the PRL applies to records kept by third-party vendors. CNI and the subvendors are clearly agents of the Senate Defendants. CNI and the subvendors’ records would not be subject to disclosure under the PRL if they had not been hired to conduct the audit on behalf of the Senate Defendants.

Whether a document is a public record under Arizona’s public records law presents a question of law which is reviewed de novo. Cox Ariz. Publ’ns, Inc. v. Collins, 175 Ariz. 11 (1993). Arizona law defines public records broadly and creates a presumption requiring the disclosure of public documents. Carlson v. Pima County, 141 Ariz. 487 (1984). A.R.S. § 39-121 affirms the presumption of openness.

The broad definition of public records is not unlimited, but the law requires public officials to make and maintain records “reasonably necessary to provide knowledge of all activities they undertake in the furtherance of their duties.” Id. at 490 (emphasis added). Only those documents having a “substantial nexus” with a government agency’s activities qualify as public records. Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Community v. Rogers, 168 Ariz. 531 (1991).

The audit is clearly an official activity, an “important” public function. The Senate financed the audit, at least partially, by compensating CNI $150,000 in public funds. One definition of a public record includes records “required to be kept, or necessary to be kept in the discharge of a duty imposed by law to serve as a memorial and evidence of something written, said or done.” Griftis v. Pinal Cty., 215 Ariz. 1 (2007).

Senate Defendants have a duty to keep and maintain all records relating to this audit. The actual physical possession of those records is not relevant for purposes of the PRL. Nothing in the statute absolves Senate Defendants’ responsibilities to keep and maintain records for

MARICOPA COUNTY

CV 2021-008265

authorities supported by public monies by merely retaining a third-party contractor who in turn hires subvendors. The plain text makes no such exception to exclude records maintained by these third-party service providers. Allowing the Senate Defendants to circumvent the PRL by retaining private companies to perform valid legislative and/or constitutional functions would be an absurd result and undermine Arizona's strong policy in favor of permitting access to records reflecting governmental activity. Such a result would set an unsound precedent, chilling future requests from the public to gain access to public records. It would also erode any sense of transparency for conduct on the part of government officials. These documents are no less public records simply because they are in the possession of a third-party. The statute does not require the government body to have physical possession and control of the records.

The Court completely rejects Senate Defendants' argument that since CNI and the subvendors are not "public bodies" they are exempt from the PRL. The "substantial nexus" requirement also narrows the scope of what has to be disclosed which undermines Senate Defendants' concern that requiring the disclosure of these records would result in an overbroad and unduly burdensome public policy to comply with public record requests. The core purpose of the public records law is to allow public access to official records and other government information so that the public may monitor the performance of government officials and their employees. Phoenix Newspapers, Inc. v. Keegan, 201 Ariz. 344 (2001). Arizona Courts have consistently interpreted the PRL as being broadly construed to encourage access to public records and clearly favors the policy of disclosure. Carlson, 141 Ariz. at 490-91.

The Court finds that any and all documents with a substantial nexus to the audit activities are public records. This does not mean that all internal files of all government vendors constitute public records of the officer or public body with whom they contracted their services. The Court further finds that CNI and the subvendors are agents for the Senate Defendants who have at least constructive possession of the documents in question. In Court filings in a related case, Arizona Democratic Party, et al. v. Fann, et al., CV2020-006646, Defendant Fann admitted that CNI and Mr. Bennett were the Senate's authorized agents. All documents and communications relating to the planning and execution of the audit, all policies and procedures being used by the agents of the Senate Defendants, and all records disclosing specifically who is paying for and financing this legislative activity as well as precisely how much is being paid are subject to the PRL. Senate Defendants must demand the records from CNI and the subvendors or invoke the indemnification clause of the contract now that Senate Defendants are engaged in litigation. CNI is contractually obligated, in the event of litigation, to fully cooperate with the Senate by providing information or documents requested by the indemnifying party that are reasonably necessary to the defense or settlement of the claim. The records are, at a minimum, in the constructive possession of Senate Defendants who now find themselves in litigation over records maintained by third-party vendors.

SUPERIOR COURT OF ARIZONA
MARICOPA COUNTY

CV 2021-008265

Nor can the Senate Defendants hide behind the notion that records which could have been obtained need not be disclosed if the Senate Defendants have not in fact obtained the records. It is unknown if the Senate Defendants already have these documents in their actual control. It is also irrelevant since the PRL does not give the Senate Defendants cover to not disclose relevant public documents merely because they were generated by a third-party vendor.

The unpublished Superior Court ruling in Stuart v. City of Scottsdale, 1 CA-CV 18-0154, 2020 WL 7230239 (App. Dec. 8, 2020) is clearly distinguishable. That case involved a vendor of a city-owned golf course who prepared annual financial statements. The citizen plaintiff sought the records based upon the argument that the contract between the vendor and the City obligated the City to keep and maintain those documents. Id. at *9. The Court of Appeals held that the contract established the City's right to receive the records but did not create an obligation for the City to keep and hold those records. Id. (Emphasis in original). The issues of whether the financial statements were necessary to maintain an accurate knowledge of official activities or whether those records related to activities supported by monies from a government entity were not addressed in Stuart.

The 1980 United States Supreme Court case, Forsham v. Harris, 445 U.S. 169 (1980), is also distinguishable. The Court held that the records of a private company, who received federal study grants for medical research, were not agency records within the meaning of FOIA where the granting agency had not received the data. Hiring a private company to perform an important legislative function, an election audit, is substantially different than a grant to do scientific research. The other federal cases cited by the Senate Defendants are likewise distinguishable. One case concerned FOIA's legislative history on the definition of agency records which requires an agency to acquire records to trigger FOIA's requirements, Rocky Mountain Wild, Inc. v. United States Forest Serv., 878 F.3d 1258 (10th Cir. 2018), and the other held that a non-profit organization did not become a federal agency by performing certain services for the Forest Service. State of Missouri ex. rel. Garstang v. U.S. Dep't of Interior, 297 F.3d 745 (8th Cir. 2002). None of the cases cited in the pleadings are on point with this case. This case involves records relating to a county election audit under the Arizona Public Records Law, a statute specific to Arizona and distinct from the requirements of FOIA. This unprecedented audit of voting machines and ballots for only two elective offices in one county is a matter of first impression for this Court, the State of Arizona and the United States of America.

2. The Political Question Doctrine

The Arizona Constitution entrusts some matters solely to the political branches of government, not the judiciary. Ariz. Indep. Comm'n v. Brewer, 229 Ariz. 347 (2012). Based upon the basic principle of separation of powers, a nonjusticiable political question is presented when there is a textually demonstrable constitutional commitment of the issue to a coordinate political department or a lack of judicially discoverable and manageable standards for resolving it. Kromko v. Ariz. Bd. Of Regents, 216 Ariz. 190 (2007). Political questions are decisions that the Constitution commits to one of the political branches of government and raise issues not susceptible to judicial resolution according to discoverable and manageable standards. Forty-seventh Legislature v. Napolitano, 213 Ariz. 482 (2008).

MARICOPA COUNTY

07/14/2021

The Senate Defendants cite Mecham v. Gordon, 156 Ariz. 297 (1988) as authority. In Mecham, the political doctrine applied when former governor Evan Mecham challenged the schedule and procedures used in impeachment proceedings against him. The Arizona Supreme Court upheld the separation of powers doctrine and stated that the courts will not tell the Legislature when to meet, what its agenda should be, what bills it may draft or consider, or how to conduct an impeachment inquiry. Id. at 302. Neither the Constitution nor any body of law provided the judiciary with standards it could enforce and judicial management was specifically excluded from the process. Id. at 301.

Such is not the case here. The PRL has specific mandates that public bodies and public officers are compelled to follow. Impeachment inquiries have no such mandates. The case of Chavez v. Brewer, 222 Ariz. 309 (2009) is instructive. In Chavez, the Court of Appeals rejected the Secretary of State's argument that certification of voting machines for use in Arizona was a nonjusticiable political question. Id. at 316. There is a statutory scheme for complying with the PRL in A.R.S. § 39-121.01. The United States Supreme Court has never applied the political question doctrine in a case involving alleged statutory violations. Cf. El-Shifa Phamm. Indus. Co. v. United States, 607 F.3d 836 (D.C. Cir. 2010).

The PRL does not in any way proscribe how the audit or any other business is to be conducted by the Legislature but merely requires the preservation and disclosure of public records subject to public scrutiny. As a practical matter, the Court cannot dictate how the Legislature is to conduct an audit that is near completion. There is no Arizona precedent to preclude the application and enforcement of a statutory scheme designed and drafted by the Legislature itself that applies to legislative functions. Plaintiff is not seeking judicial oversight that infringes on legislative authority but rather the enforcement of a statute drafted by the Legislature. In fact, the Legislature recently amended A.R.S. § 39-121.01 and chose not to exempt itself from the PRL which supports the conclusion that the Legislature intended to bind itself to comply with the PRL.

The out-of-state cases cited by the Senate Defendants, persuasive authority at best, are not on point. Records sought from the Iowa Senate involved a nonjusticiable issue because the Iowa legislature had specific rules of its own creation for telephone call records which were in conflict with Iowa's public records law. Des Moines Reg. & Trib. Co. v. Dwyer, 542 N.W. 2d 491 (Iowa 1996). An Indiana Appeals Court did find that a public records law issue was justiciable but did not order disclosure because of a specific exemption adopted by the Indiana legislature. Citizens Action Coal. Of Indiana v. Koch, 51 N.E. 3d 236 (Ind. 2016). There is no conflict with the Arizona Public Records Law or any written exemption or specified rules adopted by the Arizona Legislature inconsistent with the PRL. Some of the other cases involve open meeting laws which are clearly distinguishable since open meeting laws have specific legal requirements about notice and procedures which are clearly within the purview of legislative and executive powers.

Finally, there is not a lack of judicially discoverable and manageable standards for resolving this issue. Plaintiff does not seek every record maintained by the third-party vendors and financial backers paying for the audit. The “substantial nexus” standard narrows the scope of the inquiry. Records concerning how the audit was planned and conducted, the identity of third-parties subsidizing the audit, and the source and specifics of the audit procedures are matters of public record subject to disclosure under the PRL.

It is difficult to conceive of a case with a more compelling public interest demanding public disclosure and public scrutiny. The Motion to Dismiss is denied.

MINUTE ENTRY

The Court has reviewed a Notice of Filing Proposed Form of Order Compelling Production of Public Records by Plaintiff American Oversight ("AO"), Senate Defendants' Response to Notice of Filing Proposed Form of Order, and AO's Reply in Support of Notice of Filing Proposed Form of Order Compelling Production of Public Records.

SUPERIOR COURT OF ARIZONA

CV2021008265

AO seeks an Order to produce public records consistent with the Court's Findings and Ruling in a July 15, 2021, Minute Entry. Senate Defendants (Karen Fann, Warren Peterson and the Arizona Senate, collectively "Senate Defendants") object on procedural grounds, that such an order would operate as a final judgment on the merits when the Court denied Senate Defendants' Motion to Dismiss; that the case requires further discovery and pleadings on the merits; and that Senate Defendants have legislative immunity which shields them from disclosing records relative to this audit, an affirmative defense that was not raised in the Motion to Dismiss.

Rule 4(c) of the Arizona Special Actions Rules of Procedure provides that if a show cause procedure is used, the court should set a speedy return date. If that procedure is not used, the usual time periods established by the Rules of Civil Procedure shall apply, but all times may be specially modified by court order to achieve expeditious determination of the cause. The State Bar Committee Note goes on to explain that the object of this Rule is "to retain that potential for speedy justice by establishing what are in effect two tracks for special actions. Special actions which require urgent disposition may be expedited under the show cause procedure established by the Rule, with complete flexibility in the Court to control timing."

Here, AO's Verified Complaint clearly states its reliance on Rule 4(c) by alleging this is a statutory special action and a show cause procedure is being used. (See ¶ 11, Verified Complaint). The Verified Complaint was filed on May 20 and a return hearing conducted on May 27, which set a briefing schedule for the briefing of Senate Defendants' Motion to Dismiss. Oral Argument was heard on July 7 and the Court issued its Findings and a Ruling on July 15. AO then filed a Proposed Order on July 19 and the above referenced Response and Reply were expeditiously filed.

In the July 15 Minute Entry, this Court made a number of significant legal findings outlined as follows:

- (1) Defendants Fann and Peterson are "officers" who hold a public office of a public body (the Arizona Senate) under the Arizona Public Records Law ("PRL") pursuant to A.R.S. § 39-121.01(A)(1).
- (2) Defendant Arizona Senate is a "public body" under the PRL.
- (3) As officers of a public body, Senate Defendants must maintain all records reasonably necessary or appropriate to maintain all accurate knowledge of their official activities or any activities supported by public monies.
- (4) The audit is an important public function being conducted by the Arizona Senate pursuant to the Arizona Constitution and is an official legislative activity.
- (5) Cyber Ninjas, Inc. ("CNI") and its subvendors are not officers or public bodies but rather private companies.
- (6) CNI and its subvendors are clearly agents of the Senate Defendants.

SUPERIOR COURT OF ARIZONA

CV2021008265

- (7) CNI and its subvendors are subject to the disclosure requirements of the PRL.
- (8) Senate Defendants have a duty to keep and maintain all records relating to this audit including all records of CNI and any subvendors.
- (9) Whether these public documents are in the actual physical control or possession of Senate Defendants is irrelevant to their duties and obligations under the PRL.
- (10) All records and documents with a “substantial nexus” to the audit activities are subject to disclosure under the PRL.
- (11) CNI and the subvendors are agents for the Senate Defendants who have at least constructive possession of the records.
- (12) CNI and Ken Bennett are authorized agents on behalf of the Senate. Defendant Fann conceded this fact in related litigation, Arizona Democratic Party, et al. v. Fann, et al., CV2020-006646.
- (13) All documents and communications relating to the planning and execution of the audit, all policies and procedures being used by the agents of the Senate Defendants, and all records disclosing specifically who is paying for and financing this legislative activity as well as precisely how much is being paid are subject to the PRL.
- (14) CNI is contractually obligated to fully cooperate with Senate Defendants when Senate Defendants are engaged in litigation by providing information or documents relating to that litigation.
- (15) The PRL has specific statutory mandates that public bodies and public officers are compelled to follow.
- (16) This case does not present a nonjusticiable political question since the request to preserve and disclose records under the PRL does not in any way interfere with or dictate how the Senate Defendants conduct this audit.
- (17) This case presents a compelling public interest demanding public disclosure and public scrutiny.

After the filing of the Verified Complaint, the parties agreed to a briefing schedule for the Motion to Dismiss. The parties also agreed that the Motion to Dismiss would serve as Senate Defendants response to the Application for Order to Show Cause and in turn resolve AO’s request for relief. Legislative immunity was not raised as an issue or asserted as an affirmative defense in the Motion to Dismiss. This was done pursuant to Ariz. R.P. Spec. Action 4(c) with a clear intent to resolve this case in an expedited manner. The need for an expedited ruling may be even more apparent since Senate Defendants have failed to provide assurances that the public records at issue are in fact being preserved. The parties have clearly chosen to use the fast track provisions of Rule 4(c), Ariz. R.P. Spec. Action.

Senate Defendants’ concern that the Proposed Order would serve as a final disposition on the merits with Rule 56(c) language is misplaced. No such language is in the Proposed Order and claims of constitutional or common law privileges, or valid non-disclosure claims, may still be asserted. There is likewise no Rule 54(b) or (c), Ariz. R. Civ. P. language in the Proposed Order that would result in finality or resolve the case in its entirety. The Proposed Order merely compels Senate Defendants to comply with the legal findings made by this Court on July 15. The Court agrees with Senate Defendants that the denial of a motion to dismiss pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6), Ariz. R. Civ. P., does not dispose of any claims. Nor does the denial of a motion to dismiss provide an appealable order. Sisemore v. Farmers Ins. Co. of Arizona, 161 Ariz. 564 (1989). The Court's adoption of the Proposed Order does not preclude Senate Defendants from challenging the disclosure of any document or communication based upon privilege or any other valid legal objection. Senate Defendants can also seek Special Action relief from the Court of Appeals based upon the Court adopting the Proposed Order.

SUPERIOR COURT OF ARIZONA
MARICOPA COUNTY

Nor does the Court accept Senate Defendants' position that further discovery is warranted. The findings outlined above involve undisputed issues of fact. There are no material issues of fact in dispute and the Court fails to see how further discovery, pleading practice or development of the record could change the findings already made by this Court. Both Rule 4(c) and the PRL demand prompt resolution.

The issue raised in the Verified Complaint, whether the records relating to this audit are subject to the PRL and Senate Defendants' response objecting to the application of the PRL as outlined in the Motion to Dismiss, constitutes purely legal argument. The Courts, rather than government officials, are the final arbiter of what qualifies as a public record. Griffis v. Pinal County, 215 Ariz. 15 (2007). Whether a document is a public record under Arizona's public records law presents a question of law. Cox Ariz. Publ'ns, Inc. v. Collins, 175 Ariz. 11, 14 (1993). Further discovery or more legal briefing will not alter, enhance or diminish the court's findings on this narrow legal issue.

Although the affirmative defense of Legislative Immunity may not have been waived in the context of specific actions, statements, communications, or documents, the Court categorically rejects Senate Defendants' blanket assertion that Legislative Immunity protects Senate Defendants from the mandates of the PRL. None of the cases cited by Senate Defendants supports their legislative immunity position since they are all clearly distinguishable, nor does the case law cited support the broad and sweeping proposition that legislative immunity can be raised "at any time, in any context, and at any procedural juncture."

Legislators are protected from liability for their "words spoken in debate." Ariz. Const. art. IV, pt. 2, § 7. This protection of immunity is much narrower than that contemplated by Senate Defendants. Legislative immunity is extended to shield individual officials from personal liability for their legislative acts and is not applicable when officials are not being sued for personal liability in their individual capacities. State ex rel. Brnovich v. Ariz. Bd. Of Regents,

SUPERIOR COURT OF ARIZONA

CV2021008265

250 Ariz. 127 (2020). The Proposed Order is akin to a Writ of Mandamus compelling Senate Defendants to comply with their duties and obligations under the PRL. The Verified Complaint is in no way a tort claim against any member of the Senate for personal liability in their individual capacities. The Proposed Order and the Court's findings do not, in any way, interfere with or dictate how the legislature conducts its business or its deliberative processes. The Court is not dictating how the audit is conducted nor interfering in the audit process in any way.

Whether legislative immunity applies is a legal question for the court. Green Acres Trust v. London, 141 Ariz. 609(1984). Mesnard v. Campagnolo in and for County of Maricopa, 2021 WL 2678473, does not support Senate Defendants. In that case, a legislator was sued for defamation, a well established claim in tort. The legislature was not protected from maintaining an investigative report about sexual harassment by another legislator under the PRL. The Arizona Supreme Court in Mesnard found that Mesnard performed a legislative function when he released the report. Id. at ¶ 23. Legislative immunity protected Mesnard from the tort claim of defamation but he was required to keep and maintain records of the investigation, which was subject to the PRL.

Here, Senate Defendants are refusing to disclose public records and claim legislative immunity. Again, this is not a tort action for damages sought against legislators engaged in legislative functions. The Verified Complaint merely seeks the preservation and disclosure or records subject to a PRL request.

The audit is being conducted pursuant to the Senate's legislative functions as outlined in the Arizona Constitution. This was confirmed by Defendant Fann herself. The documents in question are clearly subject to the PRL. The preservation and disclosure of these public records pursuant to the PRL are definitely not subsumed within the Speech and Debate immunity clause of the Arizona Constitution. Such a broad interpretation would render the PRL meaningless and unenforceable as to any legislator at any time under any circumstances. This is surely not within the legislative intent of the PRL.

Defendant Fann has the authority, and statutory obligation under the PRL, to compel CNI and its subvendors to produce all internal emails and correspondence outlined in the Proposed Order. Senate Defendants' claim that they have not even seen the documents of CNI and its subvendors does nothing to advance their position. Willful blindness does not relieve Senate Defendants from their duties and obligations under the PRL.

The relief requested by AO is granted. The language in the Proposed Order quotes specific findings from the July 15 Minute Entry. The Court will sign the Proposed Order simultaneously with this Minute Entry. This Order will be effective immediately given the First – Defendant Cyber Ninjas, Inc. (“CNI”) actually agrees with Plaintiff (Phoenix Newspapers Inc., or “PNI”) that at least part of Judge Kemp’s ruling in the related matter (CV2021-008265) should be persuasive here. “[C]ourts take judicial notice of other actions involving similar parties and issues and of the pleadings therein, and...in passing upon the pleadings in one action they may and should consider the record in the other.” Regan v. First Nat. Bank, 55 Ariz. 320, 327, 101 P.2d 214, 217 (1940)(citation omitted).

Judge Kemp ruled: “The Court agrees with Senate Defendants that CNI and its subvendors are not officers or public bodies but rather private companies.” (See p. 3 of the Ruling filed on July 15, 2021 in CV2021-008265.) The public-records statute only provides for claims against public officers or public bodies. Not only would construing the statute in order to allow public-records claims against a private contractor like CNI be utterly groundless, but it would be devastating to the State’s ability to find and hire contractors, much less employees. It would expose all government employee and contractors – including this Court and its staff – to the responsibility of responding to public-records requests, and of being sued under the public records statute, with the associated fees and costs and risk of the court even awarding fees and costs against them.

Contrary to PNI’s argument, CNI has never been appointed the Senate’s official “custodian of records.” Nor does PNI actually allege that CNI has mysteriously become the Senate’s official custodian. But moreover, PNI fails to point to any legal authority which supports the notion that even an official “custodian of records” for a public body may be directly named and sued in a statutory public-records claim. In other words, the statute under which Plaintiffs sued – A.R.S. § 39-121.02 – is clear that it only creates a cause of action against an “officer or public body,” and not even against a mere custodian who may be under their supervision. See A.R.S. § 39-121.02(A),(C). And again, CNI is not a public officer or body. In fact, a substantial piece of CNI’s contract work for the Senate is nearly finished. This is a far cry from CNI being a sworn officer of the state, with serious administrative duties and long-term obligations. CNI isn’t even one of the state’s employees, who may have substantial and/or long-term – but non-

1 administrative – duties. CNI is a private contractor, with short-term and narrowly-defined
 2 contractual duties—period.

3 On page 8 of its brief, PNI offers a reading of the statutory definition of “officer” (1) that 4 stretches the definition of a public “office” past any reasonable breaking point (such that it would
 5 include, again, literally any government contractor or employee); and (2) that shockingly omits
 6 the rest of the actual statutory language, which is: “...and any chief administrative officer, head,
 7 director, superintendent or chairman of any public body.” A.R.S. § 39-121.01(A)(1). This 8 language is highly significant in demonstrating the true meaning of “officer” under 9 A.R.S. § 39-121.01(A)(1), owing to several fundamental canons of statutory interpretation. “The 10 rule of statutory construction, noscitur a sociis, directs our attention to the accompanying words
 11 as we undertake to learn the meaning to be given” to particular statutory language. Planned
 12 Parenthood Comm. of Phoenix, Inc. v. Maricopa Cty., 92 Ariz. 231, 235, 375 P.2d 719, 722
 13 (1962); see also Est. of Braden ex rel. Gabaldon v. State, 228 Ariz. 323, 326, 266 P.3d 349, 352
 14 (2011)(“noscitur a sociis—a canon closely related to eiusdem generis—dictates that a statutory 15 term is interpreted in context of the accompanying words”). The “chief administrative officer, 16 head, director” etc. language clearly demonstrates the kind of “elective or appointed office of any 17 public body” that the statute is talking about. Further, if the phrase “elective or appointed office 18 of any public body” could be applied to any state employee or contractor, irrespective of their 19 non-administrative and/or temporary role, then it would render superfluous the “chief 20 administrative officer” (etc.) language that is found in the same sentence. This violates another 21 basic rule of statutory interpretation, which is that “[i]nterpreting statutory language requires that 22 we give meaning to each word, phrase, clause, and sentence within a statute so that no part will 23 be superfluous, void, contradictory, or insignificant.” Champlin v. Sargeant In & For Cty. of 24 Maricopa, 192 Ariz. 371, 374, 965 P.2d 763, 766 (1998). Finally, it also violates the doctrine of 25 expressio unius est exclusio alterius — which is that “the expression of one or more items of a 26 class indicates an intent to exclude omitted items of the same class.” Id. By enumerating only the 27 “chief administrative officer, head, director, superintendent,” etc. of a public body, the legislature
 28 indicated an obvious intent to exclude lesser roles. Finally, PNI’s argument that the language “any

1 person elected or appointed to hold any elective or appointive office of any public body” was
2 intended to apply to private fictional entities/non-natural persons is hardly deserving of a response.
3 But it should suffice to say that Arizona statutes clearly define the requirements for public office,
4 “whether elective or appointive,” as including that a person must be “not less than eighteen years
5 of age, [must be] a citizen of the United States and a resident of this state.” A.R.S. § 38-201.

6 To further highlight the unreasonableness of the Plaintiffs’ position on this case: if 7 Plaintiffs were correct in their interpretation of the public-records statutes, then it could be argued
8 with equal force that the Plaintiffs themselves – consisting of the owner of the Arizona Republic,
9 and one of its editors– are subject to public records statutes. The Arizona Republic has received
10 over four hundred thousand dollars in government funds since 2003,² on behalf of organizations
11 like the VA, the HHS, DHS, and the DOD. In all cases, PNI was performing “core government
12 functions” (to borrow Plaintiffs’ phraseology) by helping the government find employees
13 (through want ads) or publishing important government public notices—“core” government 14 functions that the government “lacks the ability to perform...itself” and that are “initiated and 15 funded with public dollars.” (Plaintiffs’ brief, pages 10-11 inter alia.) And there is nothing more 16 “exclusive” about CNI’s ability to conduct an audit, than PNI’s ability to write and publish things.
17 (Both entities are capable of providing the “same goods and services to a governmental entity that 18 [they] could provide to a nongovernmental customer,” to quote Plaintiffs—not that any legal 19 authority supports this test anyway.) And eighteen years is certainly a longer period of time (and 20 four hundred grand is a lot more in public funding) than CNI has or ever will receive from the 21 government (especially since CNI is nearly done with a substantial part of its audit, after far less 22 than one year). By Plaintiffs’ logic, the Plaintiffs are “agents” and “officers” of the government
23 who are performing “government functions” and therefore subject to being named by any citizen, 24 at any time, in a public-records suit (and who are further at risk of paying attorneys’ fees on the 25 claim).

28 ² See e.g. “usaspending.gov” or “govtribe.com.”

1 The Arpaio case cited by Plaintiffs actually supports exactly what CNI is arguing here.
2 Arpaio v. Citizen Pub. Co., 221 Ariz. 130, 133, 211 P.3d 8, 11 (Ct. App. 2008). The case addressed
3 whether attorneys’ fees under the public-records statute could be awarded against a public officer
4 (Arpaio), where the underlying public records request was actually sent to another officer (the 5 Pima County Attorney). Arpaio had allegedly “caused” the Pima County Attorney to refuse to 6 honor the records request, by invoking his attorney-client privilege with the county attorney. The 7 Court of Appeals found that because the language in the attorneys’ fees provision of the public-
8 records statute was uniquely not limited to just the public officer or public body responsible for 9 providing records – in contrast to “most of the provisions of Arizona’s public records law,”
10 including the section which “creates the cause of action” – then an award of fees was accordingly
11 not limited to being against the party responsible for providing records. “[U]nlike most of the 12 provisions of Arizona’s public records law, § 39–121.02(B) [the fees provision] does not refer to 13 the officer or public body having custody of the requested records. In further contrast, the other 14 subsections of § 39–121.02 specifically refer to that officer or public body. Subsection (C) of 15 § 39–121.02 creates a cause of action by the person requesting the records against ‘the officer or 16 public body’ who ‘wrongfully denied access to [the requested] public records’ for any damages
17 ‘resulting from the denial.’ Subsection (A) permits the person requesting the records to appeal the 18 denial of his or her request by special action ‘against the officer or public body.’” Arpaio, 221
19 Ariz. at 133, 211 P.3d at 11. (Emphasis added.) In other words, the Arpaio case actually supports
20 that only the “officer or public body” that is responsible for public records can properly be sued 21 in a special action for wrongful denial of a public records request.

22 Finally, Plaintiffs cannot simply invent the idea that CNI is a “Real Party in Interest” that 23 must spend attorneys’ fees and costs defending this suit, when there is no actual legally-cognizable
24 claim asserted against it. The language in the Rules of Special Action regarding allowing “Real 25 Parties in Interest” was not intended to justify naming any person with any kind of articulable
26

1 connection to a lawsuit as a defendant in it³—or else Rule 12(b)(6), which requires that an actual
2 cognizable claim be asserted against every defendant, would be meaningless. Rule 12(b)(6) means
3 what it says. Plaintiffs must assert a legally-cognizable claim against Defendant CNI; and because 4 they do not, then the Complaint against CNI must be dismissed for failure to state a claim for 5 which relief can be granted. Because CNI is clearly not an officer or public body under 6 A.R.S. § 39-121.02, and Plaintiffs have only named CNI in a claim under that statute for denial
7 of records access, then Plaintiffs' Complaint fails to state a claim against CNI and it must be 8 dismissed with prejudice. CNI reserves its right to seek attorneys' fees and costs under 9 A.R.S. §§ 12-349, 12-341 inter alia.

The Court en banc¹ has considered "Petitioners' Emergency Motion for Stay" filed by Petitioners Fann, et al. and "American Oversight's Opposition to Petitioners' Emergency Motion for Stay" filed by real party in interest American Oversight. On August 20, 2021, the Court entered an order temporarily staying the superior court's order to produce public records entered on August 2, 2021 to allow the Court to consider the stay pleadings.

¹Chief Justice Brutinel has recused himself from participating in this matter.

Upon consideration,

IT IS ORDERED extending the stay to enable the Court to fully consider the issues raised in the petition for review. However, this order does not relieve the Petitioners from continuing to review and produce documents Petitioners have already agreed to produce, as noted on pages 2-3 of Petitioners' Petition for Review ("The Senate has produced, or will produce, to American Oversight any documents in the physical possession or physical custody of any of the Senate or of Secretary Bennett that are (1) responsive to American Oversight's public records requests; and (2) not protected from disclosure by any constitutional, statutory or common law privilege or confidentiality.").

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that any amicus briefs are due no later than 4:00 p.m. on Tuesday, August 31, 2021. Any responses to the amicus briefs are due no later than 4:00 p.m. on Tuesday, September 7, 2021.

The Court will conference this matter on the September 14, 2021 regular agenda.

DATED this 24th day of August, 2021.

ORDER TO PRODUCE
PUBLIC RECORDS

1 On June 30, 2021, Plaintiffs Phoenix Newspapers, Inc. and Kathy Tulumello
2 (collectively, "Plaintiffs") filed an Application for Order to Show Cause (the 3 "Application") and a Complaint for Statutory Special Action to Secure Access to Public
4 Records (the "Complaint") against Defendants Arizona State Senate, Karen Fann, Warren
5 Peterson and Susan Aceves (collectively, the "Senate Defendants") and Cyber Ninjas, Inc.,
6 as a Defendant and Real Party in Interest ("Cyber Ninjas"), seeking inspection and copying
7 of the following records from the Senate Defendants and Cyber Ninjas, as described 8 particularly in the following Exhibits to the Complaint:

- 9 (a) Exhibit 3 (requested by email dated April 22, 2021 from Mr. Oxford to Mr
10 Moore) (Senate Request A); 11 (b) Exhibit 7 (requested by letter dated May 27, 2021 from Mr. Oxford, et al. to 12 Mr. Moore and Sen. Pres. Fann) (Senate Request B); and 13 (c) Exhibit 10 (requested by letter dated June 2, 2021 from Mr. Bodney to Mr.
14 Logan) (Cyber Ninjas Request) (collectively, Exhibits 3, 7 and 10, the "Public 15 Records").

16 Plaintiffs also expressly reserved the right by this special action to secure copies of 17 any and all email records listed in Exhibits 3, 7 and 10 to the Complaint that had not been 18 completely or promptly produced by the Senate Defendants (collectively, the "Remaining 19 Emails"). Plaintiffs contend that the Senate Defendants still have not produced copies of 20 all of the Remaining Emails.

21 After the Plaintiffs' Complaint was filed, Senate Defendants filed an Answer and 22 subsequently filed a July 27, 2021 Response to Plaintiffs' Application for Order to Show
23 Cause (the "Senate Response") and a Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings (the "Senate 24 Motion"). On July 27, 2021, Cyber Ninjas filed a Response to Application for Order to 25 Show Cause (the "Cyber Ninjas Response") and a Motion to Dismiss (the "Cyber Ninjas' 26 Motion").

1 On August 10, 2021, Plaintiffs filed their Response in Opposition to (1) Senate
2 Defendants' Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings and (2) Cyber Ninjas' Motion to 3 Dismiss, and (3) Reply in Support of Plaintiffs' Application for Order to Show Cause. On 4 August 17, 2021, Senate Defendants filed their Reply in Support of Motion for Judgment
5 on the Pleadings and Cyber Ninjas filed its Reply in Support of its Motion to Dismiss.

6 This Court also acknowledges a separate case pending in Maricopa County Superior
7 Court in Case No. CV2021-008265, American Oversight v. Karen Fann et al. in which the 8 Honorable Michael W. Kemp issued an August 2, 2021 order (the "First AO Order") that 9 required the Arizona Senate to produce documents responsive to public records requests
10 issued to the Arizona Senate by American Oversight related to the Maricopa County 2020
11 election audit (the "Audit") either directly in the possession of the Arizona Senate or in the 12 possession or control of the privately owned contractors and subcontractors performing the 13 Audit for the Senate. The portion of the First AO Order related to the production of 14 documents in the possession or control of the Arizona Senate's privately owned contractors
15 and subcontractors was temporarily stayed on August 11, 2021 ("the Stay") in the course
16 of a Special Action before the Arizona Court of Appeals. On August 19, 2021, the Arizona
17 Court of Appeals, by Memorandum Decision, accepted jurisdiction over the Senate
18 Defendants' special action, denied relief and lifted the Stay. Then, on August 20, 2021,
19 Justice Kathryn King of the Arizona Supreme Court re-imposed the Stay. On August 24,
20 2021, the full Supreme Court ordered the Stay extended and announced that the Senate
21 Defendants' Petition for Review of the Special Action Decision of the Court of Appeals
22 will be conferenced on September 14, 2021. Meanwhile, on August 18, 2021, Judge Kemp
23 issued another order ("the Second AO Order") directing the Arizona Senate to produce or 24 identify in a privilege log those documents responsive to American Oversight's public
25 records requests that were in the physical possession or custody of the Senate or Secretary
26 Bennett (and therefore not subject to the Stay) by 5:00 p.m. on August 31, 2021. The 27 Second AO order remains in effect.

1 After consideration of the aforementioned pleadings, memoranda and orders, and 2 after oral argument on August 23, 2021 before this Court on Plaintiffs' Application for 3 Order to Show Cause, Senate Defendants' Motion for Judgment on the Pleadings and 4 Cyber Ninjas' Motion to Dismiss,

5 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED AS FOLLOWS:

6 Defendants have failed to show cause why the relief requested by Plaintiffs in this
7 special action should not be granted. ACCORDINGLY:

8 Senate Defendants and Cyber Ninjas are ORDERED to comply with A.R.S. § 39-
9 121 et seq. immediately by causing copies of the Public Records in the possession, custody
10 or control of the Senate Defendants and/or Cyber Ninjas to be produced to Plaintiffs by 11 August 31, 2021 at 5:00 p.m. Cyber Ninjas and the Senate Defendants may confer
12 regarding which Public Records in the possession, custody or control of one Defendant or 13 another should be withheld on the basis of a purported privilege or for any other reason.
14 Any Public Records, whether maintained by Cyber Ninjas or the Senate Defendants, or any 15 one of them, that are withheld on the basis of a purported privilege or for any other reason
16 shall be listed on a log with individual descriptions of each withheld record in sufficient
17 detail to allow Plaintiffs to challenge the basis for withholding the record, if necessary.
18 Descriptions of records on the log shall not be so detailed as to undermine the alleged basis
19 for withholding any record from public inspection. Defendants may produce one privilege
20 log that references the specific Defendant (or Defendants) that calls for a record to be 21 withheld, or Cyber Ninjas and the Senate Defendants may each produce their own separate 22 logs, as required by this Order. Defendant(s)' log(s) shall be produced to Plaintiffs by 23 August 31, 2021 at 5:00 p.m. To the extent that Plaintiffs wish to challenge any of the 24 documents on a log, they shall have fifteen (15) court days to file a motion challenging the 25 designation(s). Documents subject to such a motion shall be turned over to the Court for 26 an in camera inspection and determination of the validity of the designation within two (2)
27 court days of such a motion being filed. The Court will make a final determination as to 28

1 whether the assertion of privilege or any other exemption from disclosure is justified and,
2 to the extent the Court determines there is no such justification for the record(s) being
3 withheld, the Public Records shall be produced to Plaintiffs within two (2) court days.

4 Senate Defendants are further ORDERED to comply with A.R.S. § 39-121 et seq.
5 immediately by causing copies of any and all Remaining Emails to be produced to 6 Plaintiffs by August 31, 2021 at 5:00 p.m. Any Remaining Emails that are withheld on 7 the basis of a purported privilege or for any other reason shall be listed on a log with 8 individual descriptions of each withheld record in sufficient detail to allow Plaintiffs to 9 challenge the basis for withholding the record, if necessary. Descriptions of records on the 10 log shall not be so detailed as to undermine the alleged basis for withholding any record 11 from public inspection. This log shall be produced to Plaintiffs by August 31, 2021 at 12 5:00 p.m. To the extent that Plaintiffs wish to challenge any of the documents on the log,
13 they shall have fifteen (15) court days to file a motion challenging the designation(s).
14 Documents subject to such a motion shall be turned over to the Court for an in camera
15 inspection and determination of the validity of the designation within two (2) court days of 16 such a motion being filed. The Court shall make a final determination as to whether the 17 assertion of privilege or any other exemption from disclosure is justified and, to the extent 18 the Court determines there is no such justification for the record(s) being withheld, the 19 record(s) shall be produced to Plaintiffs within two (2) court days.

20 It is further ORDERED the orders entered herein are stayed to the extent they direct
21 the Senate or the Cyber Ninjas to produce records (or a privilege log describing records)
22 that are subject to the Stay of the First AO Order, but not otherwise. This partial stay will 23 remain in effect until the Arizona Supreme Court lifts the Stay of the First AO Order or the 24 Stay otherwise expires. Defendants shall have 5:00 p.m. on the third business day after the 25 Stay is lifted or expires to comply with all orders previously subject to this partial stay, 26 except to the extent that the Arizona Supreme Court relieves the Senate of the duty to 27 comply in a ruling on the merits of the pending Petition for Review.

28

1 Notwithstanding the foregoing paragraph, all Defendants, including Cyber Ninjas,
2 are ORDERED to carefully secure, protect and preserve from deterioration, mutilation,
3 loss or destruction any and all records in their custody, possession or control that are
4 reasonably necessary or appropriate to maintain an accurate knowledge of their official
5 activities concerning the 2020 Maricopa County election audit, including records of the 6 performance, funding and staffing of said audit.

7 It is further ORDERED that the Senate Defendants' Motion for Judgment on the 8 Pleadings and Cyber Ninjas' Motion to Dismiss are DENIED.

9 LET THE RECORD REFLECT the Court will issue a separate minute entry
10 explaining the reasoning underlying this order.

Introduction

The Arizona Senate’s recount of millions of Maricopa County voter ballots from the November 2020 elections (the “Audit”) was supposed to be both swift and transparent. It has been neither. To shed light on the Audit, Real Parties in Interest Phoenix Newspapers, Inc. and Kathy Tulumello (together, “PNI”) issued public records requests pursuant to A.R.S. § 39-121, et seq. (the “Arizona Public Records Law”), to (1) the Arizona Senate and certain of its members (the “Senate”) and (2) Petitioner Cyber Ninjas, Inc. (“Cyber Ninjas”), the Florida corporation that the Senate hired to conduct the Audit for $150,000.00 in public funds.

In June 2021, after months of the Senate and Cyber Ninjas refusing to review, much less produce, public records concerning the Audit, PNI commenced a statutory special action in the Maricopa County Superior Court, naming the Senate as a defendant and Cyber Ninjas as a defendant and real party in interest. Following motion practice and multiple hearings, the Hon. Judge John Hannah issued an Order to Produce Public Records on August 24, 2021 (the “Superior Court Order”) that called for Cyber Ninjas and the Senate to preserve, review and produce certain public records that PNI had requested and the Senate and Cyber Ninjas had concealed.

The Superior Court Order that is the subject of Cyber Ninja's Petition for Special Action (the "Petition") followed extensive briefing and a lengthy hearing on August 23, 2021. The Superior Court Order contains the trial court's detailed procedures for in camera review of records that are withheld due to a purported privilege or any other basis. At a hearing on September 17, 2021, Judge Hannah and counsel for PNI and the Senate developed a plan for the orderly review of the Senate's privilege log and a select set of 25 records as to which the Senate has asserted privilege. At that hearing, the Senate agreed to dismiss its appellate special action (Case No. 1 CA-SA 21-176) voluntarily. Cyber Ninjas' counsel elected not to participate in the September 17 hearing.

Also on September 17, after the hearing referenced above, the Hon. Judge Hannah issued a five-page Minute Entry (the "Minute Entry") explaining the legal reasoning behind the issuance of the Superior Court Order. A copy of the Minute Entry is attached hereto as Exhibit A (App.

28).¹ The Minute Entry acknowledges the parallel litigation pending between American Oversight and the Senate (the “American Oversight Case”) over access to public records concerning the Audit. The Minute Entry also recognizes the critical facts that Cyber Ninjas is a party to this matter, and not the American Oversight Case, and only in this litigation can Cyber Ninjas be compelled to comply with the Arizona Public Records Law rather than, at best, belatedly coaxed to comply through the Senate.² See Ex. A (App. 33) (“Even if the Senate were to change course, by aggressively demanding compliance from [Cyber Ninjas], the Senate

² The Senate has not been cooperative in securing records from Cyber Ninjas to disclose to the public. In fact, Senate refused to request that Cyber Ninjas provide the Senate access to Audit-related records in Cyber Ninjas’ physical custody for review and disclosure until the denial of the Senate’s Petition for Review on September 14, 2021 (see Pet. at 5; 9/14/2021 Letter from K. Fann attached hereto as Exhibit B (App. 34)). Indeed, it has now become clear, based on emails exchanged just days ago between counsel for Cyber Ninjas and the Senate, that Cyber Ninjas only intends to produce documents to the Senate “out of goodwill” but “does not concede the existence or scope of any involuntary legal obligation to do so.” See 9/17/2021 email exchange attached hereto as Exhibit C (App. 36). In fact, as of the date of this filing, and despite Cyber Ninjas’ assertion that it has approximately 60,000 records that are potentially responsive to PNI’s requests, Cyber Ninjas has provided only four records to the Senate, which placed them in its online “reading room” for Audit records. See <https://statecraftlaw.app.box.com/v/senateauditpublicreadingroom>.

would have no way to enforce its demands without doing what PNI has already done: making [Cyber Ninjas] a party to the litigation. The same goes for any order that the courts might direct to the Senate attempting to secure [Cyber Ninjas'] compliance.”).

The Minute Entry concludes that Cyber Ninjas was subject to suit under the Arizona Public Records Law because “under the unique circumstances of this case, [Cyber Ninjas is] a ‘public officer’ within the meaning of the Public Records Law” and because it has “the obligations that the Public Records Law assigns to a ‘custodian’ of public records.” Ex. A (App. 30-31). As this Response will show, the Superior Court Order and the Minute Entry that explains its reasoning are legally sound, and jurisdiction over Cyber Ninjas’ Special Action should be denied.

However, if this Court does grant jurisdiction, the relief sought by Cyber Ninjas in its Petition should be denied. Cyber Ninjas’ primary argument – that it is a “private” company and therefore any records in its possession are beyond the scope of Arizona’s Public Records Law – was considered and rejected by this Court just a few weeks ago. See Fann et al. v. Hon. Kemp, 2021 Ariz. App. Unpub. LEXIS 834, 2021 WL 3674157 No. 1. CA-SA 21-0141 at *8 (Aug. 19, 2021) (“The requested records are no less public records simply because they are in the possession of a third party, Cyber Ninjas.”).³

The logic of this Court’s Memorandum Decision, as well as the analysis expressed in the Superior Court’s Minute Entry, are solid and dispositive of the relief sought in the Petition. In PNI’s statutory special action in Superior Court, Cyber Ninjas is rightly joined as a party with duties under the Arizona Public Records Law for no less than three reasons: by acting as (1) an “agent” of the Senate, (2) a “public official” as that term is used in the Public Records Law, and (3) a “custodian” of public records within the meaning of that statute, all in performing and overseeing the Audit. Plainly, the Audit represents the performance of a core government function that Cyber Ninjas was contracted to carry out by the Senate using public monies.

In fact, Cyber Ninjas concedes in its Petition that it does have custody of certain public records that are “owned” by the Senate.⁴ See

³ This decision has persuasive value and can be cited under Arizona Supreme Court Rule 111(c)(1). Moreover, the decision will not be overturned by the Arizona Supreme Court, which denied the Petition for Review filed by the Senate on September 14, 2021.

⁴ The fact that Cyber Ninjas concedes it holds documents “owned” by the Senate but simultaneously claims it has no “legal” obligation to

Pet. at 4-5. Thus, by its own admission, Cyber Ninjas is a custodian of those records, which must be disclosed in response to PNI's requests under the plain terms of the Arizona Public Records Law, especially on these facts, where the Senate affirmatively chose not to review, take physical custody of or disclose them itself. See, e.g., A.R.S. §§39-121.01(D)(1) and (3).

To rule otherwise would allow Arizona's Public Records Law to be circumvented by a public body's offloading of public records into private hands, thereby violating the right of public inspection and copying. Id. This result would undermine the purpose of the Arizona Public Records Law – namely, to ensure that Arizona's government is conducted openly and subject to review by the public that it serves. See, e.g., Lake v. City of Phoenix, 222 Ariz. 547, 549 ¶ 7 (2009) (“Arizona's Public Records Law serves to ‘open government activity to public scrutiny.’”) (citing Griffis v.

share those records with the Senate (see Ex. C (App. 37-38)), despite the Superior Court Order and Minute Entry, is troubling. However, by virtue of its status as a party to this litigation and the language of the Superior Court Order, Cyber Ninjas is bound to “carefully secure, protect and preserve” those records (see Superior Court Order at 6), and if Cyber Ninjas' Petition is denied, it will be directly obligated under the Superior Court Order to produce those public records under the review process the trial court is developing with PNI and the Senate.

Pinal County, 215 Ariz. 1, 4 (2007). For ample good reasons, the relief sought in Cyber Ninjas’ Petition – which would slam the door on public scrutiny of government activity – should be denied.

Jurisdictional Statement

Special action jurisdiction is discretionary, “reserved for ‘extraordinary circumstances,’” and unavailable “where there is an equally plain, speedy, and adequate remedy by appeal.” Stapert v. Arizona Bd. of Psych. Examiners, 210 Ariz. 177, 182 ¶ 7 (App. 2005). In deciding whether jurisdiction is proper, courts consider whether a case raises “issues of statewide importance, issues of first impression, pure legal questions, or issues that are likely to arise again.” AEA Fed. Credit Union v. Yuma Funding, Inc., 237 Ariz. 105, 111, ¶ 21 (App. 2015) (citations omitted).

The issue raised in Cyber Ninjas’ Petition – whether Cyber Ninjas is immune from Arizona’s Public Records law because it is a government contractor, even though it is performing a core governmental activity on behalf of the Senate – does not justify special action jurisdiction. This Court has already provided appropriate guidance in its Memorandum Decision issued on August 19, 2021 in the American Oversight Case over public records requests concerning this same Audit. For this reason alone, Cyber Ninjas should never have commenced this special action, and jurisdiction should be denied.

Discussion

I. CYBER NINJAS IS ACTING AS AN AGENT OF THE SENATE FOR PURPOSES OF THE AUDIT AND IS THEREFORE SUBJECT TO THE ARIZONA PUBLIC RECORDS LAW.

Cyber Ninjas' Petition hinges on the assertion that the Public Records Law cannot apply to a government contractor because it is not an "officer" or "public body" within the meaning of the statute. See Pet. at 3-5. This argument fails for many reasons, not the least of which is that, by undertaking the Audit at the direction of the Senate, Cyber Ninjas is acting as an agent of the Senate.

The Senate hired Cyber Ninjas to lead the Audit, and Defendant Fann publicly announced that Cyber Ninjas would be paid with public funds to manage this government activity. See Compl. ¶ 21; Pet. App. p. 24.⁵ Its contract with the Senate states that Cyber Ninjas "will serve as the central point-of-contact and organizer of all work conducted over the course of” the agreement, which it describes as conducting “a full and complete audit of 100% of the votes cast within the 2020 November General Election within Maricopa County, Arizona.” Compl. Ex. 2 at 1-2; Pet. App. pp. 64-65 (Statement of Work).

Even Cyber Ninjas concedes that it was contracted by the Senate to conduct the Senate’s audit of ballots in Maricopa County in the 2020 election. See Pet. at 2. In short, the Senate appointed Cyber Ninjas to perform the Audit on the Senate’s behalf. Therefore, by definition, Cyber Ninjas is an agent of the Senate and has a duty under the Public Records Law to maintain, preserve and disclose public records regarding the Audit. Unfortunately, the Senate refused to demand that Cyber Ninjas make available any of the requested records in Cyber Ninjas’ physical custody for inspection by the Senate until September 14, 2021, after the Arizona Supreme Court dissolved its temporary stay of Judge Kemp’s disclosure order in the American Oversight case.

If the Senate had conducted the Audit directly, its Audit-related records would unquestionably be subject to the Arizona Public Records Law. The Senate cannot thwart the public’s right to monitor a core government activity by outsourcing that activity to companies that may not themselves be “public” entities. See Forum Pub. Co. v. City of Fargo, 391 N.W.2d 169, 172 (N.D. 1986) (“We do not believe the open record law can be circumvented by the delegation of a public duty to a third party, and these documents are not any less a public record simply because they were in the possession of [an independent contractor] . . . [The] purpose of the open-records law would be thwarted if we were to hold that documents so closely connected with public business but in the possession of an agent or independent contractor of the public entity are not public records.”) (cited with approval in Fann et al. v. Hon. Kemp, 2021 Ariz. App. Unpub. LEXIS 834, 2021 WL 3674157 at *8); see also Carlson v. Pima Cnty., 141 Ariz. 487, 490 (1984) (Arizona’s Public Records law evinces “a clear policy favoring disclosure.”). Because Cyber Ninjas has been engaged in a core governmental activity, “supported in whole or part by monies from this state,” A.R.S. § 39-121.01(A)(2), Cyber Ninjas is an agent of the Senate and is obligated to maintain records related to the Audit, which are subject to the Arizona Public Records Law.⁶

⁶ While Cyber Ninjas was found to be an “agent” of the Senate for purposes of this Court’s decision in the American Oversight case, it is important to note that Cyber Ninjas was not named as a party in that case, so whether Cyber Ninjas was subject to direct suit by virtue of its status as a “public official” or “custodian” of public records was not at

In fact, this Court has already reached the conclusion that Cyber Ninjas is functioning as an agent of the Senate. In ruling on a Petition for Special Action filed by the Senate related to the Audit, this Court concluded:

Here, the Senate defendants, as officers and a public body under the [Public Records Law], have a duty to maintain and produce public records related to their official duties. This includes the public records created in connection with the audit of a separate governmental agency, authorized by the legislative branch of state government and performed by the Senate's agents. See A.R.S. § 39-121.01(B). The requested records are no less public records simply because they are in the possession of a third party, Cyber Ninjas.

See Fann et al. v. Hon. Kemp, Ariz. App. Unpub. LEXIS 834, 2021 WL 3674157 at *8 (emphasis added). This Court further observed that “[t]here is no dispute that the audit is being conducted with public funds, and Cyber Ninjas and its sub vendors are agents of the Senate.”⁷ Id. at *7.

The same conclusion is appropriate here. Cyber Ninjas is the Senate’s agent for purposes of the Audit, having undertaken at the issue.

⁷ As this Court observed, the Senate admitted in its answer in the public records-related lawsuit brought by American Oversight that Cyber Ninjas is the Senate’s “authorized agent.” Id. at 7 n. 1.

Senate’s direction what is an official duty of the Senate – an audit of a separate governmental entity – utilizing public dollars. As such, any public records in Cyber Ninjas’ possession are subject to disclosure under the Public Records Law. See Griffis, 215 Ariz. at 4 (recognizing that a document’s content is a content-driven inquiry); Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Cmty v. Rogers, 168 Ariz. 531, 538 (1991) (“It is the nature and purpose of the document, not the place where it is kept, which determines its status”).

II. CYBER NINJAS IS SUBJECT TO THE PUBLIC RECORDS LAW BECAUSE IT FUNCTIONS AS AN “OFFICER” OF THE SENATE FOR PURPOSES OF THE AUDIT.

Even if it were not an agent of the Senate, Cyber Ninjas is functioning as a public officer for purposes of the Audit. The Arizona Public Records Law defines an “officer” as “any person . . . appointed to hold any . . . appointive office of any public body and any chief administrative officer, head, director, superintendent or chairman of any public body.” A.R.S. § 39-121.01(A)(1) (emphases added). In other words, “officers” are those persons vested by a public body such as the Senate with supervisory authority over the performance of governmental functions.

The statute does not limit the definition of “officer” to natural persons, as Cyber Ninjas contends (see Pet. at 11), which means that corporate persons such as Cyber Ninjas can indeed function as officers subject to the Public Records Law. See A.R.S. § 1-215(28) (a statutory reference to a “person” “includes a corporation, company, partnership, firm, association or society, as well as a natural person”); cf. Arizona Bd. of Regents v. Phoenix Newspapers, 167 Ariz. 254, 266 (1991) (leaving undisturbed trial court’s conclusion that each member selected to serve as an Arizona State University presidential search committee consisting entirely of private individuals was “a ‘public officer’ as defined in A.R.S. § 39-121.01(A)(1).”).

The Minute Entry identifies Cyber Ninjas as a public officer because it was appointed by the Senate to perform the Audit, which is being enabled by subpoenas issued by the Senate, and the Senate is paying Cyber Ninjas to perform the Audit using public dollars. See Ex. A (App. 31).

To be sure, officers and public bodies are obligated by law to maintain all records reasonably necessary to maintain an accurate knowledge of their official activities and of any of their activities which are supported by monies from the state.⁸ See A.R.S. § 39-121.01(B). Though it is admittedly a private corporation, Cyber Ninjas agreed to perform a core governmental function in connection with the Audit – a function it could only perform in a management capacity – as an officer at the behest of the Senate.

Cyber Ninjas argues in its Petition that public bodies can only have a single chief officer that is responsible for receiving and responding to public records requests. See Pet. at 6. Because Cyber Ninjas is not the chief officer of the Senate, it claims, it cannot be subject to the Public Records Law. Id. This argument, however, ignores the plain definition of “[o]fficer” in the Public Records Law, which extends to “any person elected or appointed to hold any elective or appointive office of any public body and any chief administrative officer, head, director, superintendent or chairman of any public body.” See A.R.S. § 39-121.01(A)(1) (emphases added). The plain language of this statute makes clear that there can be more than one officer for a public body subject to the Public Records Law.⁹

III. CYBER NINJAS IS SUBJECT TO THE ARIZONA PUBLIC RECORDS LAW AS THE SENATE’S DE FACTO CUSTODIAN OF AUDIT RECORDS.

Regardless of whether Cyber Ninjas meets the definition of an “agent” or “officer” of the Senate, it is subject to the Arizona Public Records Law, and the jurisdiction of this Court, because it is acting as the Senate’s custodian of public records for the vote audit. As the record indisputably shows, the Senate never deigned to request access to inspect any public records relating to the Audit in Cyber Ninjas’ custody for purposes of complying with its duties under the Public Records Law – that is, not until Sen. Fann finally requested their production “immediately” by letter dated September 14, 2021, some five months after PNI first requested copies of them. See Ex. B (App. 34). And, in tandem with the Senate’s position, Cyber Ninjas refused to share any records relating to the Audit in its custody with the Senate or PNI until its counsel agreed to do so during this Court’s telephonic hearing on Cyber Ninjas’ stay motion on September 15.

⁹ Cyber Ninjas cites to nearly century-old Arizona case law distinguishing between officers and employees. See Pet. at 7 (citing Windsor v. Hunt, 29 Ariz. 504, 519 (1926)). This case law cannot displace the statutory definition of “officer” as set forth in Arizona’s Public Records Law. Nor did the Windsor case have anything to do with Arizona’s Public Records Law. Instead, nearly 100 years ago, it addressed a distinction between public employees and “public officers” for compensation purposes. Id.

By Senate Rule, the Secretary of the Senate is the person who “shall have custody of all communications, or other measures, instruments and papers . . . introduced in or submitted by the Senate . . . and shall be held strictly accountable for the safekeeping of the same.” Rule 3, Senate Rules. For that reason, Secretary Aceves was named as a Defendant, in her official capacity, in this action, too. But the Senate has represented in this litigation that “she has no authority or control over the records at issue.” See Exhibit D (App. 42 n.1.).

Therefore, the only party exercising any custodial control over the public records in Cyber Ninjas’ sole custody – from the Senate’s appointment of Cyber Ninjas to oversee the Audit on March 31, 2021 until Sen. Fann’s September 14, 2021 letter requesting access to such records – has been Cyber Ninjas. In fact, the only arguable exception to that statement is the Superior Court Order, by which Judge Hannah ordered Cyber Ninjas on August 24, 2021 to “carefully secure, protect and preserve” such public records from loss or destruction. Superior Court Order at 6.

In brief, Cyber Ninjas is a proper party in this action in its capacity as the sole “custodian” of these public records before, during and after copies were requested. See, e.g., A.R.S. §39-121.01(D) (1) (“The custodian of such records shall promptly furnish such copies [of public records]” (emphasis added). Similarly, “access to a public record is deemed denied if a custodian fails to promptly respond to a request for production of a public record” A.R.S. §39-121.01(E) (emphasis added); see also Minute Entry at 3 (recognizing Cyber Ninjas is a “custodian” of the requested records and a proper party under Arizona’s Rules of Procedure for Special Actions).

By its terms, the Public Records Law applies not only to public bodies and officers but also to “custodians” of public records. See A.R.S. §§ 39-121.01 (D)-(E); §§ 39-121.03(A)-(C). By referring separately to officers, public bodies and custodians, the statute anticipates the possibility that, as a practical matter, the custodian of public records may be either a subordinate government employee, contractor or other person who is not an “officer” as defined by the statute. See Carlson, 141 Ariz.

at 491 (an “officer or custodian” may invoke the “countervailing interests of confidentiality, privacy or the best interests of the state” to withhold records) (emphasis added). By allowing (if not enabling) Cyber Ninjas to have sole physical custody of these essential public records, the Senate has made Cyber Ninjas the de facto custodian of these records. As such, Cyber Ninjas must provide these records in response to PNI’s request. A.R.S. § 39-121.01(D)-(E). Indeed, the Superior Court Order allows Cyber Ninjas to “confer” with the Senate about the documents produced or withheld, and to produce one joint privilege log or “their own separate logs.” See Superior Court Order at 4.

Cyber Ninjas openly concedes that it has custody of certain public records that are, according to Cyber Ninjas, “owned” by the Senate. See Pet. at 4-5 (if the Public Records Law “required anyone other than the ‘officer’ of a ‘public body’ to receive and respond to records requests made directly by members of the public, then the actual officer/public body to whom the records belong – in this case, the Senate – would have no say over how or what/when their own records are produced.”) (emphasis added); id. at 5 (“[T]o date, the Senate (to whom any “public records” would belong) has not requested any records from [Cyber Ninjas] or authorized/directed [Cyber Ninjas] to make productions to the Senate.”).¹⁰

These remarkable concessions demonstrate Cyber Ninjas possesses records of the Senate and that those records indeed qualify as public records. However, according to Cyber Ninjas, by virtue of the fact that those public records are in its sole custody (in no small part because the Senate refused to request that they be turned over until the denial of the Senate’s Petition for Review on September 14, 2021 (see Pet. at 5; Ex. B (App. 34)), they are beyond the reach of the Public Records Law. This “shell game” of technical custody was previously rejected by this Court and should be rejected again in this case.¹¹ See Fann et al. v. Hon. Kemp,

¹⁰ The Master Services Agreement between the Senate and Cyber Ninjas provides that all Client Confidential Information that is contained or embedded within other documents, files, materials data, or media shall be removed from Cyber Ninjas’ controlled systems as soon as it is no longer required to perform Services under the Master Services Agreement. See Master Services Agreement § 11 (Pet. App. 49). This underscores the importance of Cyber Ninjas being a named party subject to the Superior Court Order to prevent the potential destruction of critical public records.

¹¹ The Superior Court Order does allow Cyber Ninjas and the Senate to coordinate regarding what documents they claim are subject to any privilege or otherwise protected from disclosure. See Superior Court Order at 4 (“Cyber Ninjas and the Senate Defendants may confer regarding which Public Records in the possession, custody or control of 2021 Ariz. App. Unpub. LEXIS 834, 2021 WL 3674157 at *8; Arpaio v. Citizens Publ'g Co., 221 Ariz. 130, 134 (App. 2008) (finding public records of Maricopa County Sheriff held by Pima County Attorney, as custodian, were public records subject to disclosure and awarding attorneys' fees against Sheriff's office for improperly attempting to prevent their disclosure).

The fact that records responsive to PNI's requests are in the physical custody of Cyber Ninjas is of no import – they still must be disclosed. Indeed, the Arizona Supreme Court has repeatedly held that “documents with a ‘substantial nexus’ to government activities qualify as public records,” and the “nature and purpose” of the documents, not the place where they are kept, determines their status. Lake 222 Ariz. at 549 (internal citations omitted); see also Lunney v. State, 244 Ariz. 170, 179 (App. 2017) (holding that police officers' personal cell phone records may be public records if they reflect the use of the phone for government one Defendant or another should be withheld on the basis of a purported privilege or any other reason.”) (the Superior Court Order is Exhibit 1 to Appendix 2 to the Petition). Thus, Cyber Ninjas' argument that the Superior Court Order excludes the Senate from weighing in on what should be disclosed by Cyber Ninjas in response to PNI's public records requests (see Pet. at 5) is demonstrably false.

purposes, even though the individual employees or their cellular provider had physical custody); Griffis 215 Ariz. at 4 ¶ 10 (“mere possession” of a document does not determine its public records status).

IV. THE CLAIM THAT DISCLOSURE WOULD SUBJECT “EVERY” GOVERNMENT CONTRACTOR TO THE PUBLIC RECORDS LAW IS SPECIOUS.

Cyber Ninjas spins apocalyptic predictions of what would happen should the Superior Court Order be permitted to stand. “[E]very single employee or contractor of the State,” Cyber Ninjas says, “including hard-working people like the staff of this Court, peace officers, firefighters, etc.,” would be required “to respond to public records requests and be[] sued for denial of access.” Pet. at 6. Every government contractor, Cyber Ninjas continues, would have “to form their own public records departments, and/or suffer liability for not ‘promptly’ responding to intensive records requests from literally any member of the public.” Id. at 6-7.

The implications of the Superior Court Order are nowhere near that broad. The Superior Court Order merely found that the Public Records Law applies in this circumstance and under this set of facts, where Cyber Ninjas is performing an essential and exclusive government function, initiated and funded with public dollars, and where the Senate declined to perform this core government activity itself or exercise dominion over these public records. Cyber Ninjas is unlike any typical government contractor that provides the same goods or services to a governmental entity that it could provide to a nongovernmental customer, such as landscapers that maintain the capitol grounds and vendors that supply coffee that is consumed by government employees. The “parade of horrors” that Cyber Ninjas cites are simply not implicated by the plain terms of the Superior Court Order.

To be sure, a similar argument was raised by the Senate in the previous Audit-related public records case that this Court heard. See Fann et al. v. Hon. Kemp, 2021 Ariz. App. Unpub. LEXIS 834, 2021 WL 3674157 at *9 (“The senate argues that the superior court’s order would open the files of all government vendors to public inspection.”). This Court correctly rejected this argument in light of the unique set of circumstances at issue. Id. at 9-10 (“In this case, the Senate outsourced its important legislative function to Cyber Ninjas and its sub-vendors. However, as noted supra in Paragraph 18, only documents with a substantial nexus to government activities qualify as public records.

There is no reason why vendors providing ordinary services rather than performing core government functions would be subject to the [Public Records Law].”).

An identical conclusion is warranted here. Those documents held by Cyber Ninjas related to the Audit that are the subject of PNI’s requests have a substantial nexus to government activities and should be disclosed “promptly.” See A.R.S. §39-121.01(D)(1) and (E). By requiring these parties to produce these Audit records, the Superior Court Order did not somehow subject every government vendor to disclosure duties under the Public Records Law. To accept Cyber Ninjas’ argument, however, would be tantamount to inviting government to outsource its duties to private parties whose work would be forever hidden from public view.

Rule 21(a) Notice

Under Rule 21(a), Ariz. R. Civ. App. P. and Rule 4(g), Ariz. R. P. Spec. A., PNI requests an award of its attorneys’ fees and costs incurred in responding to the Petition under A.R.S. § 39-121.02(B), A.R.S. § 12-341, A.R.S. § 12-342, the private attorney general doctrine, or any other applicable statute or equitable doctrine.

Conclusion

For the reasons stated above, the Court should decline jurisdiction over this Special Action, which is unwarranted. In the alternative, if this Court accepts special action jurisdiction, it should promptly deny the relief sought by Cyber Ninja because the Superior Court Order and Minute Entry are based on sound legal principles and precedent, which are essential to the enforcement of a person's rights under Arizona's Public Records Law.

The Order to Produce Public Records filed August 24, 2021 (the “Order”) directed the parties to move forward in this case, a special action pursuant to A.R.S. section 39-121 et seq. (the “Public Records Law”) in which petitioner Phoenix Newspapers, Inc., et al. (PNI) seeks access to records in the possession of the Arizona State Senate and its officials (the Senate) and Cyber Ninjas, Inc. (the Ninjas). The Order promised an explanation of the Court’s reasoning. That explanation follows. Because the decision in Fann v. Kemp, No. 1 CA-SA 21-0141, 2021 WL 3674157 (Ariz. App. August 19, 2021) has become final since the issuance of the Order, the explanation will focus on the reasons that the Ninjas are a proper party to the case.

SUPERIOR COURT OF ARIZONA
MARICOPA COUNTY

LC2021-000180-001 DT

The Order was not entirely clear about what has been decided and what may be raised in future proceedings. Though both defendants have special action petitions pending in the Court of Appeals, in Cyber Ninjas v. Hannah, Nos. 1 CA-SA 21-0173 and 1 CA-SA 21-0176 (consolidated), the superior court retains jurisdiction absent an active stay order. Coffee v. Ryan-Touhill, 247 Ariz. 68 ¶¶14-15, 445 P.3d 666 (App. 2019). The only stay that this Court is aware of, at this writing, applies to the provisions of the Order that (1) set deadlines for disclosure of records not in the Senate’s physical possession and (2) require the Cyber Ninjas to produce records directly to PNI. Order Granting Stay in Nos. 1 CA-SA 21-0173 and 1 CA-SA 21-0176 (consolidated), filed Sept. 16, 2021. The Court is willing to entertain requests to modify other provisions of the Order, including provisions that the defendant have challenged for the first time in the Court of Appeals (concerning, for example, in camera review of records).

On the other hand, the Court welcomes guidance from the Court of Appeals that might avert additional delays caused by piecemeal litigation. Though the Court respects the need for careful consideration of the legal rights of all parties, the Court also submits that the “prompt compliance” requirement of A.R.S. section 39-121.01(E) militates against allowing a public records holder to play out its legal arguments and then, if unsuccessful, to begin the process of responding to the substance of a disclosure request. The impending release of the audit report makes prompt compliance even more urgent that it was when the Order was issued. Time is now truly of the essence.

THE LAW ALLOWS PNI TO JOIN THE NINJAS AS A PARTY

Asking to be dismissed from the case, the Ninjas argue that the Public Records Law does not permit a cause of action against them. To the extent that their argument mirrors the Senate’s argument that the Public Records Law does not apply to records not in the Senate’s physical possession, the Court of Appeals has rejected it. The question here is whether PNI has the right to ask the courts to compel the Ninjas to disclose public records in their possession, as opposed to asking for an order that directs the Senate to obtain the records from the Ninjas and then to disclose them. The Court holds, for two separate and independent reasons, that PNI does have that right.

First, under the unique circumstances of this case the Ninjas are a “public officer” within the plain meaning of the Public Records Law. “Officer” means any person . . . appointed to hold any office of any public body and any chief administrative officer, head, director, superintendent or chairman of any public body.” A.R.S. § 39-121.01(A)(1). “Person” includes a corporation, company, partnership, firm, association or society, as well as a natural person.” A.R.S. § 1-215(29). “Public body” means . . . any public organization or agency, supported in whole or in part by monies from this state or any political subdivision of this state, or expending monies provided by this state or any political subdivision of this state.” § 39-121.01(A)(2).

SUPERIOR COURT OF ARIZONA
MARICOPA COUNTY

LC2021-000180-001 DT

The Ninjas have been “appointed” by the Senate as the “head” of the “public organization” conducting what the Ninjas describe as an “ongoing investigation of how [Maricopa County] conducted [the 2020] election.” Response to Application for Order to Show Cause at 4. The Senate is exercising its official powers in support of the audit organization by (among other things) issuing subpoenas to the County. Id. The Senate is also partly funding the audit with public monies, which makes the audit organization a “public body” for purposes of the statute. The Ninjas are a “person” because they are a corporation. The Ninjas are therefore an “officer” with responsibility (alongside the Senate) for maintaining and disclosing public records relating to the audit. It follows that PNI may file an action against the Ninjas, under section 39-121.02(A), appealing the denial of PNI’s request for audit-related public records.

Second, the Ninjas have the obligations that the Public Records Law assigns to a “custodian” of public records. The relevant provision expressly commands persons seeking public records to direct their requests to the “custodian” of the records. A.R.S. § 39-121.02(D). The “custodian” is responsible for collecting the required fees from the requestor, and for screening out requests made for commercial purposes. A.R.S. § 39-121.03. A request is deemed denied if the “custodian” fails to respond promptly. A.R.S. § 39-121.02(E). In the event of a denial, the requesting party has a judicial remedy through a special action like this one. A.R.S. § 39-121.02(A). This Court holds that section 39-121.02(A) permits the requestor -- here, PNI -- to name the custodian -- the Ninjas -- as a defendant in the action.

Section 39-121.02(A) says that a person whose public records request has been denied “may appeal the denial through a special action in the superior court, pursuant to the rules of procedure for special actions against the officer or public body.” The Ninjas argue that the quoted language authorizes a special action against “the officer or public body” only. That reading violates Arizona’s statutory construction rules.

Arizona recognizes the “last antecedent” rule of statutory construction. The “last antecedent” rule requires a court interpreting a statute to apply a qualifying phrase to the word or phrase immediately preceding as long as there is no contrary intent indicated. Pawn 1st, L.L.C. v. City of Phoenix, 231 Ariz. 309 ¶ 16, 294 P.3d 147 (App. 2013). Applying the last antecedent rule here, the phrase “against the officer or public body” must be read to modify “rules of procedure for special actions,” not (as the Ninjas would have it) “special action in the superior court.” Thus the statute requires the requestor to pursue the appeal “pursuant to the rules of procedure for special actions against [an] officer or public body.”

PNI has framed this case in accordance with the rules of procedure for special actions. The special action rules permit the addition of parties as necessary for the plaintiff to obtain complete relief. Arpaio v. Citizen Pub. Co., 221 Ariz. 130 ¶ 10 n. 4, 211 P.3d 8 (App. 2008); see Ariz. R. Special Action Proc, 2(b) (court may order joinder as parties of persons other than the body, officer, or person against whom relief is sought). PNI's complaint alleges that the Ninjas are both "an officer or public body" with a statutory responsibility for maintaining and disclosing public records, and a "custodian" that has effectively denied PNI's request for disclosure of the records at issue. That framing is consistent with the special action rules and, therefore, with section 39-121.02(A).

SUPERIOR COURT OF ARIZONA

Arpaio v. Citizen Pub. Co. supports PNI's position. In Arpaio, as here, the issue was the application of section 39-121.02 to a "third party" to a public records dispute. 221 Ariz. 130 ¶ 12. As here, the "third party" (an intervenor who had objected to the release of the records) argued that the legislature intended to limit the application of section 39-121.02's relevant provision (subsection (B), authorizing an award of attorneys' fees to a prevailing requestor) to "the officer or public body responsible for providing access to the public records." Id., ¶ 10. Based on the text and history of the Public Records Law, the Court of Appeals refused to read that limitation into the statute, and upheld the fee award against the third party intervenor. This Court likewise rejects the Ninjas' attempt to avoid involvement by reading a non-existent limitation into section 39-121.02.

Subsection (C) of section 39-121.02, which creates an action for damages, also supports PNI's interpretation of subsection (A). Subsection (C) says, "[a]ny person who is wrongfully denied access to public records pursuant to this article has a cause of action against the officer or public body for any damages resulting from the denial." In that provision, unlike in subsection (A), the phrase "against the officer or public body" modifies "cause of action." Thus subsection (C) authorizes a cause of action for damages only against the "officer or public body" responsible for deciding whether to allow access to the records, not against a custodian that may simply be following the officer's directions.

Disallowing damages lawsuits against the records custodian makes perfect sense as a matter of policy -- just as it makes sense as a matter of policy, when the action seeks only access to the records, to allow the custodian to be made a party to the action. The Ninjas vehemently argue the other side of this policy question, but nothing in the statute suggests that the policymakers who wrote the statute saw it their way. To put it in terms of the "last antecedent" statutory construction rule, "there is no contrary intent indicated" anywhere in the statute. Pawn Ist, L.L.C. v. City of Phoenix, 231 Ariz. 309 ¶ 16, 294 P.3d 147. The statute therefore must be interpreted, by its terms, to permit PNI to make the Ninjas a party to this action.

Viewed through the public interest end of the policy lens, a construction of the Public Records Law that disallows direct enforcement against a records custodian contradicts the purpose of the law and the Court of Appeals holding in Fann v. Kemp. Fann v. Kemp forecloses the Senate's argument that it has no obligation to ask the Ninjas to cooperate with PNI's public records request, but it may leave open the question whether the Senate can compel the Ninjas to cooperate.

SUPERIOR COURT OF ARIZONA
MARICOPA COUNTY

LC2021-000180-001 DT

The Senate's contractual right to obtain records from the Ninjas has been a subject of debate throughout this case. The Ninjas, in turn, may think they lack authority to obtain records from audit subcontractors. In addition, the Ninjas are likely to disagree with the Senate on questions whether specific documents are public records, since whether a particular document has "a substantial nexus" to the audit depends on "the nature and purpose" of that document. Fann v. Kemp, 2021 WL 3674157 ¶ 18. If the Ninjas are not a party to the litigation, PNI will have no reliable way even to know about issues like those, let alone to bring them to court for resolution in a way that complies with the Public Records Law, unless the Senate chooses to take a position adverse to the Ninjas and asks for judicial intervention.

This will not do. Fann v. Kemp makes clear that the Public Records Law makes the courts, not the legislature, the final arbiters of this public records disclosure dispute. If the Ninjas are beyond the courts' authority, the Senate will effectively remain in a position to decide which of the records in the Ninjas' possession are public records – precisely where Fann v. Kemp says the Senate should not be. Thus far the Senate has not been inclined to disclose audit-related records to the public on any terms other than its own. Even if the Senate were to change course, by aggressively demanding compliance from the Ninjas, the Senate would have no way to enforce its demands without doing what PNI has already done: making the Ninjas a party to the litigation. The same goes for any order that the courts might direct to the Senate attempting to secure the Ninjas' compliance.

The Ninjas' participation as a party does not derogate the Senate's right to oppose disclosure of specific records based on exceptions to the statutory disclosure obligation or privileges like attorney-client privilege. The existing Order to Produce Public Records invites the Senate and the Ninjas to "confer regarding which Public Records in the possession, custody or control of one Defendant or another should be withheld on the basis of a purported privilege or for any other reason." Order at 4. If the parties have a better plan for facilitating cooperation to ensure that all parties are heard, the Court remains open to suggestions. But procedural problems created by multiple record holders are not a reason to compromise the public's right to know what its government is up to.

For all of those reasons, the Order affirms PNI's right to insist on keeping the Ninjas a party to this case.

NOTICE: LC cases are not under the e-file system. As a result, when a party files a document, the system does not generate a courtesy copy for the Judge. Therefore, you will have to deliver to the Judge a conformed courtesy copy of any filings.

Kory – thank you for communicating to our client that the Court in Maricopa County Superior Court Case No. CV2021-008265 (the “American Oversight” case) has requested a status report from the Senate.

First, I must strongly emphasize that my client Cyber Ninjas, Inc. (CNI) is in the final “throes” of completing its work for the Senate. CNI is finishing its long-awaited written report (consisting of over one hundred pages), which will be produced to the Senate on or by next Friday, September 24th. CNI is a small private company, and the Senate’s request for records is causing CNI to take time away from the completion of its report. Just yesterday, the CEO of CNI spent approximately 12 hours dealing with trying to process the Senate’s request, which was time directly taken away from the duties that CNI has actually contracted to perform for the Senate.

I also emphasize that, while CNI intends to produce documents out of goodwill and its commitment to transparency, by sending this communication CNI does not concede the existence or scope of any involuntary legal obligation to do so.

The Senate requested records with “a substantial nexus to the audit,” including certain enumerated items, from CNI and its subcontractors. At this time, CNI has been able to reach out to most of its subcontractors (all but one) to notify them that it has received this request.

The phrase “a substantial nexus to the audit” is not defined, and it is difficult to define. For example, CNI’s internal company emails re: staffing or performance of the contract are not the kind of items that should be subject to production in a public-records request. If the case were otherwise, then it would set an extremely unsettling precedent for all government contractors in this state and make it impossible for the State to do business. For example, if CNI has private internal emails discussing its own contractual relationship with the Senate or its own performance of its contract with the Senate, then such emails would be subject to not only production to the Senate but also to the public. That is not practical, workable, fair or legal.

Attached hereto are copies of CNI’s current policies and procedures, which is one of the items enumerated in the Senate’s request. CNI acknowledges that these have been previously made public and it confirms that these continue to represent its existing policies and procedures. CNI is endeavoring to determine whether its subcontractors have any new or updated policies or procedures at this time and expects to have answers to that in the near future.

With respect to communications, CNI intends to produce copies of its communications with the Senate and its officials that have a substantial nexus to the contract/audit. CNI is unable to make that production at this moment in time because it needs to focus on completing its contractual duty of producing a written report. Once that report has been finished and the report has been produced (by next Friday Sep. 24), then it will promptly focus on the production of such communications (and of course earlier if and as it is able to do so).

With respect to financial disclosures (another item requested) – CNI intends to release full financial statements on the audit either as part of its report or shortly thereafter. With respect to “records...concerning staffing” (another requested item): as with CNI’s internal communications (above), CNI’s private records concerning its own staff are not public records.

The Senate also enumerated a request for “all records that are reasonably necessary or appropriate to maintain an accurate knowledge of activities concerning the 2020 Maricopa County election audit.” This is undefined; but CNI believes that the Senate already has such records as may be reasonably necessary or appropriate to main an accurate knowledge of activities concerning the 2020 audit, with the important exception of our final report (whose release date you already know). The Senate had several liaisons who were present to watch audit operations daily and regular reports were made. There was 24/7 public live-streaming of all audit activities. Those records are already in the Senate’s possession and are public records.

If there are any activities that the Senate would like to request more details or specific records on, then please communicate them to us and my client would be glad to sit down with the Senate or its representatives after the final report is released.

Sincerely – Jack Wilenchik, Esq. on behalf of Cyber Ninjas, Inc.

SENATE DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO TRANSFER AND CONSOLIDATE

Pursuant to Arizona Rule of Civil Procedure 42(a)(2) and Local Rule 3.1(c)(1) and (c)(2), Defendants Karen Fann, in her official capacity as President of the Arizona Senate; Warren Petersen, in his official capacity as the Chairman of the Arizona Senate Judiciary Committee; Susan Aceves, in her official capacity as the Secretary of the Arizona State

1 Senate, and the Arizona Senate (collectively, the “Senate Defendants”) respectfully move
2 that the Court transfer the proceeding captioned Phoenix Newspapers, Inc. v. Arizona State
3 Senate, LC2021-000180-001 and consolidate it with the proceeding captioned American
4 Oversight v. Fann, CV2021-008265.

5 FACTUAL BACKGROUND

6 American Oversight initiated this litigation on May 19, 2021. As set forth in 7 American Oversight’s Complaint and in the parties’ briefing on the Senate Defendants’
8 pending Motion to Dismiss, the question in dispute is whether the Arizona Public Records
9 Act, A.R.S. § 39-121, et seq., entitles American Oversight to a court order requiring the 10 Senate Defendants to obtain and produce the internal records of Cyber Ninjas, a contractor
11 retained by the Senate to assist in its audit of the November 2020 election in Maricopa 12 County. A hearing on the Motion to Dismiss has been set for July 7, 2021.

13 Concomitant with the commencement of the American Oversight proceedings, 14 Phoenix Newspapers sought from the Senate the same universe of records—i.e., the 15 contractor’s internal documents relating to the audit. Counsel for the Senate Defendants
16 apprised counsel for Phoenix Newspapers of the existence of American Oversight’s lawsuit, 17 updated him on the briefing schedule, provided a copy of the Motion to Dismiss, and 18 advised him that the status of the disputed records would be imminently resolved by this 19 Court. Counsel for the Senate Defendants further informed counsel for Phoenix 20 Newspapers that if American Oversight ultimately obtained a final judgment (inclusive of 21 all appeals) in its favor, the Senate would make available to Phoenix Newspapers (and any 22 other third party that requested them) the same records produced to American Oversight.

23 Nevertheless, on June 30, 2021—some six weeks after the initiation of American 24 Oversight’s lawsuit and two days after briefing on the Senate Defendants’ Motion to 25 Dismiss closed—Phoenix Newspapers filed its own action raising substantively identical
26 claims and seeking production of the same documents. A copy of Phoenix Newspapers’
27 Complaint is attached hereto as Exhibit A.

1 ARGUMENT

2 The parallel proceedings do not merely “involve a common question of law or fact.”
3 Ariz. R. Civ. P. 42(a). Phoenix Newspapers’ lawsuit is wholly duplicative of American 4 Oversight’s action. It features the same claims against the same parties,¹ is premised on the 5 same legal theories, and demands the production of the same corpus of disputed records.
6 While Phoenix Newspapers certainly may expend its resources on redundant lawsuits if it
7 so chooses, it is not entitled to inflict on the Senate Defendants the inefficiency, delay,
8 expense, and risk of inconsistent judgments that inevitably ensue from litigating the same
9 claims twice in the two different fora. See Local Rule 3.2(c)(1) (transfer is proper when 10 two cases involve “substantially the same” parties or legal questions, and would “would 11 entail substantial duplication of labor if heard by different judges”).

12 Counsel for Cyber Ninjas has represented to the undersigned that Cyber Ninjas does 13 not object to the relief requested by this Motion.

14 CONCLUSION

15 For the foregoing reasons, the Court should order the transfer of the LC2021-
16 000180-001 action and its consolidation with the CV2021-008265 action.

Attorneys for Petitioner Cyber Ninjas, Inc.

Petitioner Cyber Ninjas Inc. (“CNI”) wants to make one thing very clear: it does not concede that it has custody of any “public records” of any kind, nor does it have any “public records.” (See Response to Petition for Special Action, bottom of page 5; pages 18-19.) Phoenix Newspaper Inc.’s (“PNI”) claim that CNI has “conceded” that it has “essential” records is just something that PNI is very familiar with – “fake news.” The Court need look no further than what PNI claims to be the basis for this contention, at pages 18-19 of its Response, in which PNI merely quotes CNI’s legal arguments in support of the Motion to Dismiss. And this appears to be the biggest point in PNI’s Response: it groundlessly argues that the Court is somehow allowing PNI to hide “essential” “public records,” while at the same time failing to even identify what exactly these “public records” are or why they are “public” under Arizona law. As discussed below, PNI has failed to allege any factual or legal basis for determining that CNI has custody of any “public records,” as that term is actually defined by the caselaw—even if resolving the issue were necessary to dispose of PNI’s claim against CNI, which it is not.

CNI’s case here is very simple: PNI has failed to bring a claim against CNI for which relief can be granted, under the plain wording of the public-records law. It is not for courts to decide what public-records statutes or policy “should be,” or to create special rules for defendants like CNI in derogation of the law, simply because of who that defendant is. Courts are the one forum that parties can turn to and expect a fair and “blind” treatment in accordance with the plain wording of the law, without respect to politics or publicity – but this is clearly not what CNI received from the trial court in hits this case. CNI is a private auditor that is not capable of being sued under the public-records statutes, period; and its Motion to Dismiss must be granted. The Court should accept jurisdiction of this Special Action because there is clearly no equally speed means of relief.

PNI argues that CNI is an “agent” of the Senate, without commenting on the scope of that agency—an agency that was narrowly defined by contract and that consisted only of investigating and preparing an audit report for the Senate. All government employees and contractors are by definition “agents” of the government, in some capacity or another; but the public-records statutes do not provide that mere “agents” have the responsibility to respond to public records requests or to be sued on them, only officers of public bodies. See A.R.S. §§ 39-121 et. seq.

PNI further argues that CNI is an “officer” of the Senate, which is groundless. The only facts that PNI points to are that the Senate hired CNI and paid CNI. Again, these facts apply to every employee or contractor of the Senate. Toward the end of its brief, PNI tries to claim that CNI should be treated differently and that the Court should create special rules just for CNI—in contradiction to the basic idea that justice is blind and that courts serve to neutrally apply laws, not change them based on who is before the court. PNI argues that “Cyber Ninjas is unlike any typical government contractor that provides the same goods or services to a governmental entity that it could provide to a nongovernmental customer, such as landscapers that maintain the capitol grounds and vendors that supply coffee that is consumed by government employees.” (Response, page 22.) While this distinction has no basis in law, it is not even true – CNI provides auditing services which it can do for any governmental or non-governmental entity and merits no fundamentally different treatment under the public-records statutes. It makes no sense to create special rules just for auditors, or even election auditors, where there is zero basis in law. If the legislature wishes to create such special duties for auditors, or even election contractors/employees, then it may do so by passing a law; but the courts cannot make one up. Otherwise, PNI seems to be arguing that every contractor or employee relating to an election must be subject to public records requests (because such persons can only provide their official “election” services to the government). This would mean that every employee or contract involved in an election, from government poll workers on down to the company that makes the ballot-tabulation machines, are suddenly subject to public-records requests and lawsuits, without any basis in law.

PNI asserts that CNI is “performing an essential and exclusive government function, initiated and funded with public dollars, and where the Senate declined to perform this core government activity itself” (and declined to “exercise dominion” over CNI’s records) – but to the extent that this is true, it is true of literally every government contractor. The company that erects light poles on the freeway is “performing an essential and exclusive government function, initiated and funded with public dollars”; and the government “declined to perform this core government activity itself” (or to “exercise dominion over [the company’s records]”), which is precisely why it hired a private contractor. This is perfectly normal and well within the contemplation of the public-records statutes. Simply because PNI – or even other members of the public – have an intense interest in CNI’s company records (which, in PNI’s case, is simply because it believes that it can write more stories and profit off of them) does not render the company’s records any more “public,” or make CNI any more of an “officer” of a “public body” under Arizona law.

Finally, and even though this issue is not strictly needed to dispose of the case: PNI fails to allege or show that CNI actually has “public records” of any kind. In the seminal case of Salt River Pima-Maricopa Indian Cmty. v. Rogers, 168 Ariz. 531, 534, 815 P.2d 900, 903 (1991), the Arizona Supreme Court addressed when records that belong to non-governmental or private bodies may be considered “public records,” relying heavily on federal FOIA law. See also Church of Scientology v. Phoenix Police Dep’t, 122 Ariz. 338, 340, 594 P.2d 1034,1036 (App. 1979)(FOIA offers guidance to Arizona courts in construing Arizona public records statute). The Supreme Court first noted that federal courts have “uniformly held that an agency must control a record before it is subject to disclosure”; and “[t]he control test is helpful in analyzing our statute, which also exempts private information from disclosure even when it is held by a government agency.” Id., 168 Ariz. at 541, 815 P.2d at 910. “An agency has control over the documents when they have come into the agency’s possession in the legitimate conduct of its official duties.” Id., 168 Ariz. at 541-42, 815 P.2d at 910-11 (quoting U.S. Dep’t of Just. v. Tax Analysts, 492 U.S. 136, 145 (1989))(quotation marks omitted). Where documents are not in control of the government, they were not generated by the government, they never entered the government’s files, and they were not used by the government for any purpose, then they are not “public records.” Id., 168 Ariz. at 542, 815 P.2d at 911 (citing Kissinger v. Reps. Comm. for Freedom of the Press, 445 U.S. 136, 157 (1980)).

PNI failed to allege that CNI has exclusive possession of any document that the Senate controls, that the Senate generated, that ever entered the Senate’s files, or that was used by the Senate for any purpose. Under CNI’s contract with the Senate, the only document that the Senate was entitled to have and control is the final audit report that CNI agreed to prepare, which has now been completed and produced to the Senate and is now clearly a public record. But CNI’s own records are not public records simply because they may relate to that audit report, which seems to be PNI’s contention here. Further, in Salt River, the Arizona Supreme Court cited with approval (several times) two FOIA decisions that squarely address the kind of issues at bar: Forsham v. Harris, 445 U.S. 169 (1980) and Ciba-Geigy Corp. v. Mathews, 428 F.Supp. 523, 532 (S.D.N.Y.1977)(discussed immediately below).

In Forsham v. Harris, 445 U.S. 169 (1980), the United States Supreme Court considered a FOIA request for the raw data underlying a study conducted by a private medical research organization. Although a federal agency funded the study, the data was generated and possessed by the private company and it never passed into the hands of the agency. The Supreme Court found the fact that the study was financially supported by a FOIA-covered government agency did not transform the data into “agency records”; nor did the agency’s right of access to the materials under federal regulations change the result. The Supreme Court explained that “FOIA applies to records which have been in fact obtained, and not to records which merely could have been obtained.” Id., 445 U.S. at 186 (emphasis in original). In denying the FOIA claim, the Supreme Court explained that federal funds do not convert a private organization into an “agency” for purposes of the FOIA without “extensive, detailed, and virtually day-to-day supervision” by the agency of the private organization. Id., 445 U.S. at 180. Of course, nothing of the sort has been alleged here; and in general the notion that “Cyber Ninjas Inc.” is so intertwined with the government as to be a “government agency” is meritless. Ultimately, the Supreme Court held that “[w]ith due regard for the policies and language of the FOIA, we conclude that data generated by a privately controlled organization which has received grant funds from an agency ... but which data has not at any time been obtained by the agency, are not ‘agency records’ accessible under the FOIA. Without first establishing that the agency has created or obtained the document, the agency’s reliance on or use of the document is similarly irrelevant.” Id., 445 U.S. at 170. Again, in the case at bar there is no allegation that CNI holds any records that were generated by the Senate, or that CNI exclusively holds any records created by the Senate; and while there has also been no allegation that the Senate “relied on” CNI’s records, such an allegation would be “irrelevant” anyway. Id.

The other closely-related FOIA decision discussed by the Arizona Supreme Court in Salt River (Ciba–Geigy Corp. v. Matthews) concerned a private group of researchers (called the “UGDP”) who applied for and received federal grants to conduct diabetes studies. Ciba, 428 F.Supp. at 532. Under federal regulations, the UGDP was required to submit interim and final reports to the government and to allow the government “access” to their raw data; but the Ciba court noted that the government customarily relied on the UGDP’s reports rather than accessing the underlying data. The plaintiff questioned “the manner in which the UGDP [handled its own] raw data,” as well as “the accuracy of the results reported,” so the plaintiff made a FOIA request for the UGDP’s underlying data and claimed that the data was a public record (or “agency record,” in FOIA parlance). Id., 428 F. Supp. at 526. On a familiar note, the plaintiff made three arguments: first, that the UGDP was a “de facto federal agency and that its records are therefore agency records”; second, that “even if the UGDP is not a federal agency in itself, it nevertheless served as an extension of a federal agency” (essentially an “agent” argument); and third, that even if those arguments failed then the “disclosure of [UGDP’s] records may still be compelled if those records can be characterized as Government agency records.” Id., 428 F. Supp. at 526.

The Ciba court rejected all three arguments. First the court held that even though the UGDP received public funding, it was not an “agency.” Id. To reach this decision the court looked at obvious factors like “whether the organization has the authority in law to perform the decisionmaking functions of a federal agency and whether its organizational structure and daily operations are subject to substantial federal control.” Id., 428 F. Supp. at 527. With respect to the plaintiff’s other two arguments, the court disposed of them by finding that the plaintiff had not proven that “the records were either Government-owned or subject to substantial Government control or use. In other words, it must appear that there was significant

Government involvement with the records themselves in order to deem them agency records.” Id., 428 F. Supp. at 529. The Ciba court held “that federal funding, regardless of amount, [was] not sufficient to vest the underlying raw data of the UGDP research with a public character. To hold otherwise at a time when public monies flow to numerous private endeavors would surely have a chilling effect on [them]...” Id., 428 F. Supp. at 530. The Ciba court also found that “Government access to and reliance upon” the data did not mean that the government owned or “controlled” it. Id. The Ciba court logically explained that “[a]lthough the federal defendants have access to the underlying data, there is no evidence that they have used it to exercise regular dominion and control over the raw data.” Id., 428 F. Supp. at 530–31. “Mere access without ownership and mere reliance without control will not suffice to convert the UGDP data into agency data.” Id. “Just as the Government cannot be compelled to obtain possession of documents not under its control or furnish an opinion when none is written, it should not be compelled to acquire data it neither referred to directly nor relied upon in making decisions.” Id., 428 F. Supp. at 531. “The distinction between direct reliance, in whole or in part, upon a summary report and direct reliance (via usage or control) on supporting documentation is necessary to preserve a salutary balance between the public’s right to be informed of the grounds for Government decisionmaking and the protection of private interests.” Id., 428 F. Supp. at 532.

In other words, while the Senate has received CNI’s report—which is undisputedly a public record—the Senate does not own or control CNI’s company records even though they may relate to the final audit report (and even if, in some sense, the Senate has “relied” on CNI’s records because its records support the final audit report. According to the United States Supreme Court, this is “irrelevant.”) For example, PNI has asked for all of CNI’s internal company records concerning communications about its audit. This would include things like CNI’s internal emails discussing issues with its ability to perform under the contract, discussing its relationship with the Senate, and evaluating the performance of its own subcontractors or issues with their performance, etc. In PNI’s universe, CNI must not only produce such emails to the Senate but must make them public. Not only is this patently unfair, but it runs against common sense and is legally-baseless. The foregoing are not “public records” by any stretch of the imagination, nor do they meet any intellectually-honest legal definition.

The bottom line here is that (even though it is not necessary to dispose of the case), PNI has failed to articulate or allege how CNI has anything that meets the actual definition of a “public record.” PNI failed to allege, much less prove, that CNI has records that were generated or controlled by the Senate, or even that – despite it being “irrelevant,” according to the United States Supreme Court – the Senate has directly relied on CNI’s records. The only thing that CNI agreed for the Senate to own or control is CNI’s final audit report, which has been produced to the Senate and is now public. The Senate did not generate, and does not own/control or even use CNI’s own company records, period, and PNI failed to make allegations to support/prove the contrary.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, the Court should accept jurisdiction over this special action and grant CNI’s requested relief. The only claim that has PNI asserted against CNI must be dismissed for failure to state a claim, and the trial court’s order for CNI produce to produce records must be reversed.

RECORDS REQUEST

Dear Mr. Logan,

Pursuant to the provisions of the Arizona Public Records Law, A.R.S. 39-121, as well as to the Arizona Court of Appeals' Nov. 9, 2021, opinion in Cyber Ninjas v. Hannah, I am requesting an electronic copy of the following public records, or other matters¹:

1. All records of payments to Cyber Ninjas or any of its employees, subcontractors or other people or entities for work performed in relation to the recount and audit of the 2020 general election in Maricopa County, including payments from the Arizona Senate, as well as payments from private individuals, nonprofit organizations or other private entities, and including money that is paid directly from private individuals or entities to the Cyber Ninjas, Doug Logan, or any affiliated entities, and its subcontractors, that doesn't use the Senate as a pass-through.
2. All invoices, bills or other requests for payment submitted to Cyber Ninjas, the Arizona Senate or other individuals or entities for work performed in relation to the recount and audit of the 2020 general election in Maricopa County.
3. Any budgets, cost projections or other documents created by Cyber Ninjas or other entities or individuals related to the audit and recount of the 2020 general election in Maricopa County.
4. All documents, notes, written or electronic communications and other data or materials generated by volunteers or audit team members, or provided by volunteers to the audit team, relating to "voter registrations that did not make sense," as referenced in Section 2.1 of the Cyber Ninjas Statement of Work signed by Karen Fann and Douglas Logan. This request includes the report titled "Summary of 2020 General Election Initial Findings: Maricopa & Pima Counties," dated March 1, 2021 and signed by Elizabeth Harris on March 2, 2021, as well as any related affidavits or other supporting documents.
5. All contracts, subcontracts, memoranda of understanding or other written agreements that Cyber Ninjas has with subcontractors or other entities that have performed work related to the recount and audit of the election in Maricopa County, including, but not limited to, contracts with Wake Technology Services, Inc. (Wake TSI), StratTech Solutions, CyFIR, Digital Discovery, Bobby Pitton, and Jovan Hutton Pulitzer, AKA Jeffrey Jovan Philyaw.
6. All written or electronic communications between employees of Cyber Ninjas and any other individuals or entities that are providing paid or volunteer services for the Arizona Senate's audit of the 2020 general election in Maricopa County. This request excludes communications regarding subjects that are not pertinent to the audit.
7. Copies of any and all visitor logs and sign in sheets to the audit of the Maricopa County 2020 election results.
8. All written or electronic communications pertaining to the audit, including, but not limited to, emails, text messages and social media messages, between contractors, subcontractors or audit employees.

9. Any reports, status updates or other written or electronic communications created by employees or Cyber Ninjas or other audit contractors or subcontractors detailing the findings or progress of the audit.
10. Any other audit-related records provided to other parties in response to public records requests.

This request includes any pertinent records that are in the possession of Cyber Ninjas or other audit contractors, subcontractors or employees, regardless of whether they are in the possession of the Arizona Senate. I submit this request in accordance with the Court of Appeals' decision that "Cyber Ninjas has become the custodian" of various audit-related records under Arizona's public records law.

If challenges arise with this please contact me, as I will likely be able to help find ways to mitigate these perceived barriers to providing access to public records.

If there are ever fees associated with compiling or transmitting these records, please contact me so I can make appropriate arrangements.

If there are any segregable portions of the records responsive to this request available before the entirety, please provide those as they become available.

If you choose to deny this request, 1) please provide a written explanation for the denial, including a reference to the specific statutory exemption(s) upon which you rely. 2) Also please provide all segregable portions of otherwise exempt material. 3) Also please provide a written, itemized log of all records or other matters being denied.

If you are not the person, office or agency who has the authority or ability to comply with this records request, inform me as soon as possible who the proper person, office or agency is.

This request is separate from and in no way nullifies any other outstanding records request.

The Arizona Public Records Law requires that public bodies provide access to public records "promptly." Accordingly, I request that you provide the requested records as soon as possible.

I appreciate your cooperation in this matter.

Sincerely,

Jeremy Duda

Re: Public Records Request

Mr. Logan,

This is a public records request. The Arizona Public Records Law, A.R.S. § 39-121 et seq. (hereafter, the "PRL") applies to custodians of records that are reasonably necessary or important to obtain an accurate knowledge of official governmental activities that are supported with public money. A.R.S. § 39-121.01(B). The PRL allows "any person" to request copies of these public records that are within the custodian's custody. A.R.S. § 39-121.01(D)(1). Upon receiving such a request, the custodian must "promptly respond." A.R.S. § 39-121.01(E).

The Arizona Court of Appeals ruled that Cyber Ninjas is subject to the PRL for records related to its examination of Maricopa County's ballots, tabulation equipment, and other election-related materials. Cyber Ninjas, Inc. v. The Honorable John Hannah et al., No. 1CA-SA 21-0173 (Ariz. Ct. App. Nov. 9, 2021) (hereafter "Cyber Ninjas"). A copy of that decision is included with this request. The Court of Appeals expressly ruled that "documents relating to the audit are public records subject to the PRL even if they are in the possession of Cyber Ninjas rather than the Senate." Id. at 4 ¶9. It also ruled that Cyber Ninjas is the custodian of those records, and anyone wishing to obtain them under the PRL must make their requests to Cyber Ninjas. Id. at 5 ¶15.

The Maricopa County Attorney represents the Maricopa County Board of Supervisors. On behalf of our Client and pursuant to the PRL and the Cyber Ninjas decision, I make the following public records request for the records identified in Appendix A, attached. This request is not made for commercial purposes, but rather to benefit the public by allowing the public to better understand the relevant facts related to Cyber Ninjas' examination of Maricopa County's ballots, tabulation equipment, and other election-related materials. The requested records are also necessary for the Board of Supervisors to fully respond to numerous questions posed to it by the Arizona Attorney General. The Board of Supervisors agrees to pay up to $100 for copying and related charges, if applicable. If the fees will exceed $100, please notify me before incurring any such costs.

If you have already provided any of the requested records to the Arizona Senate and prefer that the Board of Supervisors direct its request to the Senate, please let me know. Otherwise, please promptly provide the records identified in Appendix A. Should you refuse to promptly respond as required by the PRL, the Board of Supervisors may instigate litigation against you to obtain the records. If such litigation ensues, Arizona law provides for an award of attorneys fees and costs where litigation is necessary to obtain records pursuant to the PRL. A.R.S. § 39-121.01(B). Of course, the Board of Supervisors hopes that litigation can be avoided by Cyber Ninjas' prompt and complete compliance with the PRL.

Sincerely,

ALLISTER ADEL
