

1 information. As discussed below, the Court GRANTS IN PART and DENIES IN PART Washington's 2 motion for summary judgment. Consequently, the Court DENIES Washington's request for a 3 status conference as moot.

4 I. BACKGROUND

5 This is Washington's second round of FOIA litigation arising from requests for records 6 related to the Federal National Archives in Seattle.

7 A. FOIA Litigation: Round 1

8 In February 2020, after learning of a proposed plan to sell the Seattle National Archives
9 building, Washington requested records about the federal government's plans from four different 10 federal agencies involved in the planning, including Defendant. In August and September 2020, 11 Washington filed similar FOIA lawsuits against each agency alleging the agencies failed to 12 promptly respond. See State of Washington v. Office of Management and Budget, 2:20-cv-1231-
13 RSL (W.D. Wash. 2020); State of Washington v. U.S. National Archives and Records
14 Administration, 2:20-cv-1232-RSL (W.D. Wash. 2020); State of Washington v. U.S. General
15 Services Administration, 2:20-cv-1233-RSL (W.D. Wash. 2020); State of Washington v. Public
16 Buildings Reform Board, 2:20-cv-1364-RSL (W.D. Wash. 2020). In December 2020—4 months
17 after filing the lawsuit and 10 months after its original FOIA requests—Washington was granted 18 summary judgment in its case against the Public Buildings Reform Board. See State of 19 Washington v. Public Buildings Reform Board, 2:20-cv-1364-RSL at Dkt. No. 18. There, the 20 Court ordered the agency to produce all remaining responsive documents on an expedited 21 timeline. Id. All four cases subsequently resolved through cooperation of the parties without the 22 need for further judicial intervention by December 2021.

1 B. FOIA Litigation: Round 2

2 This case arises from a new set of FOIA requests for additional records related to the 3 National Archives building that Washington made on February 25, 2021. Dkt. No. 8 at 6. On 4 March 10, PBRB acknowledged receipt of the request and provided a tracking number. Dkt.
5 No. 14 at 3. Washington did not request expedited processing. Id. at 2. Due to PBRB's staffing 6 limitations and the anticipated scope of the required search, the Agency determined that it would 7 need to hire federal contractors to process Washington's FOIA request. Id. at 2-3. While that 8 process was underway, this lawsuit was filed in April 2021.¹ Dkt. No. 1. Like the Round 1 cases, 9 Washington alleges the Agency has failed to meet its FOIA obligations in responding to the new 10 February 2021 request.

11 After the lawsuit was initiated, counsel for the Agency began communicating with 12 counsel for Washington regarding the Agency's progress. Washington acknowledges that it has 13 had regular communication with the Agency regarding its progress and that the Agency had 14 identified the scope of potentially responsive documents that it was reviewing. Dkt. No. 8 at 7.
15 The Parties communicated about the Agency's need to hire contractors, worked cooperatively to 16 identify appropriate search parameters to make the process more efficient and started to negotiate 17 a stipulated production schedule. Dkt. No. 14 at 4-5. Despite these communications, by 18 August 2021 (six months after making the new FOIA requests and four months after filing the 19 lawsuit), Washington had only received a single production representing a fraction of the 20 anticipated documents, many of which were withheld or redacted. Dkt. No. 8 at 7.

21
23 ¹ Plaintiff has also asserted similar claims against the other three agencies from the Round 1 litigation in separate 24 lawsuits. See State of Washington v. Office of Management and Budget, No. 2:21-cv-00564-TL (filed Apr. 27, 2021); State of Washington v. U.S. National Archives and Records Administration, No. 2:21-cv-00565-TL (filed
Apr. 27, 2021); State of Washington v. U.S. General Services Administration, No. 2:21-cv-00794-TL (filed Jun. 11, 2021).

1 Washington moved for summary judgment, requesting injunctive relief in the form of an 2 expedited production schedule and preliminary determinations on the appropriateness of certain 3 exemptions invoked in the Agency’s initial productions. Dkt. No. 8. The motion, originally noted 4 for September 10, 2021, was voluntarily re-noted for October 1 by Washington (see Dkt.
5 No. 11), and the briefing schedule was adjusted accordingly by stipulation of the parties. See 6 Dkt. Nos. 12, 13.

7 In late November 2021, the Parties further stipulated to continuing the previously adopted 8 dispositive motion briefing schedule and revisiting the need for additional dispositive motions 9 after Washington’s then pending motion for summary judgment was resolved. Dkt. Nos. 21, 22.
10 On February 16, 2022, Washington filed an opposed motion requesting a status conference with 11 the Court. Dkt. Nos. 25, 28, 29.

12 II. SUMMARY JUDGMENT STANDARD

13 Most FOIA cases resolve on summary judgment. Animal Legal Def. Fund v. U.S. Food & 14 Drug Admin., 836 F.3d 987, 989 (9th Cir. 2016) (en banc) (per curiam). Summary judgment is 15 appropriate where, viewing “the evidence in the light most favorable to the nonmoving party,” 16 the court determines that there is no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving 17 party is entitled to judgment as a matter of law. Id. (citing Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c)). Material facts 18 are those which might affect the outcome of the suit under governing law. Moujtahid v. United 19 States Citizenship & Immigr. Servs., 2020 WL 4000980, at *3 (W.D. Wash. July 15, 2020)
20 (citing Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248 (1986)). To survive summary 21 judgment “the nonmoving party must make a ‘sufficient showing on an essential element of her 22 case with respect to which she has the burden of proof.’” Id. (quoting Celotex Corp. v. Catrett, 23 477 U.S. 317, 323 (1986)).

III. DISCUSSION

1
2 FOIA establishes a “judicially enforceable public right” of access to federal agency
3 records. Elec. Frontier Found. v. Off. of the Dir. of Nat. Intel., 639 F.3d 876, 882 (9th Cir. 2010), 4 abrogated on other grounds by Animal Legal Def. Fund, 836 F.3d at 989. In doing so, it imposes 5 certain requirements upon any federal agency presented with a valid records request, including a 6 duty to: (1) determine within 20 days—or 30 days in unusual circumstances—whether to comply
7 with the request (see 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(6)(A), (B)); and (2) make all appropriately requested 8 records promptly available to the requestor (5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(3)(A)). An agency may withhold 9 or redact otherwise responsive records by invoking any of nine narrowly construed statutory 10 exceptions. 5 U.S.C. § 552(b). However, “FOIA’s strong presumption in favor of disclosure 11 means that an agency that invokes one of the statutory exemptions to justify the withholding of 12 any requested documents or portions of documents bears the burden of demonstrating that the 13 exemption properly applies to the documents.” Elec. Frontier Found., 639 F.3d at 883 (internal 14 quotations and citations omitted).

15 Plaintiff seeks summary judgment on its FOIA claims by arguing that Defendant has 16 failed to meet its FOIA obligations in three ways: (1) it has failed to provide an initial 17 determination; (2) it has failed to promptly produce responsive records; and (3) it has invoked 18 exemptions to withhold and redact records without sufficient justification.

19 A. FOIA’s Determination Requirement

20 FOIA requires an agency to make its initial determination within 20 days of receiving a 21 request or within 30 days under unusual circumstances. 5 § 552(a)(6)(A)(i), (a)(6)(B)(i); see also 22 Aguirre v. United States Nuclear Regul. Comm’n, 11 F.4th 719, 725 (9th Cir. 2021); Citizens for 23 Resp. & Ethics in Washington v. Fed. Election Comm’n (CREW), 711 F.3d 180, 182 (D.C.
24 Cir. 2013). The agency’s determination must include “the scope of the documents that the

1 agency will produce, as well as the scope of the documents that the agency plans to withhold
2 under any FOIA exemptions.” CREW, 711 F.3d at 186; accord Aguirre, 11 F.4th at 726 n.1 3 (citing to CREW as “delineating the requirements for a proper response”). Defendant appears to 4 concede that it missed its statutory deadline but argues that it eventually met its determination 5 obligations by informing Plaintiff of the scope of potentially responsive documents, the scope of 6 exemptions invoked in its initial productions, and its expectation that similar exemptions would 7 be required for future productions. Dkt. No. 14 at 8-11. Plaintiff argues that the information 8 Defendant has provided is not specific enough to communicate the scope of documents it will 9 produce or withhold, sufficient to meet its FOIA obligations. Dkt. No. 19 at 2-3. Although 10 undeniably untimely, the Court finds that Defendant has nonetheless met its obligation to provide 11 a substantive determination.

12 An agency’s substantive determination obligations are met once the requestor has “actual 13 notice” of the information required for a determination. Jud. Watch, Inc. v. U.S. Dep’t of Just., 14 410 F. Supp. 3d 216, 224 (D.D.C. 2019). The record here indicates that the Parties worked 15 cooperatively, at least until Plaintiff decided to file this motion, to identify the universe of 16 documents that would be reviewed for responsiveness and exemption based on negotiated search 17 priorities and then to determine a mutually agreeable production schedule. Thus, Plaintiff was 18 fully aware of the scope of records involved in its request. Further, having produced a subset of 19 those records upon which exemption determinations were made, Defendant appears to have met 20 its obligations as to the scope of potential exemptions contemplated in CREW. See Cmty. Ass’n
21 for Restoration of the Env’t, Inc. v. U.S. E.P.A., 36 F. Supp. 3d 1039, 1049 (E.D. Wash. 2014) 22 (finding that it was sufficient for the agency to inform the requestor that it would apply similar 23 exemptions to future productions as were applied to a subset of documents previously produced).

1 The “penalty” for an agency missing its determination deadline “is that the agency cannot 2 rely on [FOIA’s] administrative exhaustion requirement to keep cases from getting into court.” 3 CREW, 711 F.3d at 189. PBRB does not challenge Washington’s lawsuit on administrative 4 exhaustion grounds, but instead argues that Washington cannot receive its requested relief on 5 summary judgment due to the Agency’s untimely determination. Dkt. No. 14 at 10-11. On the 6 contrary, Washington argues that injunctive relief is appropriate where there is a demonstrated 7 pattern or practice of violations by the Agency and where the delay in providing a determination 8 is egregious. Dkt. No. 8 at 12; Dkt. No. 19 at 3.

9 1. Washington Fails to Raise an Actionable Pattern or Practice Claim

10 “[P]attern-or-practice claims are viable under FOIA” when adequately alleged. Aguirre, 11 11 F.4th at 728; see also Hajro v. U.S. Citizenship & Immigr. Servs., 811 F.3d 1086, 1107 (9th 12 Cir. 2016) (noting that “FOIA’s prescribed relief is injunctive or declaratory, [so] generally a 13 plaintiff alleging a pattern or practice claim under FOIA must also meet th[e] future harm 14 requirement” to establish standing). Washington argues that it has adequately alleged a pattern or 15 practice claim that warrants injunctive relief. Dkt. No. 8 at 12-14. The Agency responds that no 16 such claim was raised in Washington’s Complaint, nor were sufficient facts alleged in the 17 Complaint to establish standing for a pattern or practice claim. Dkt. No. 14 at 10 n.4.
18 Washington counters by arguing that “it did include allegations regarding PBRB’s prior FOIA 19 violations related to the same subject matter” in its Complaint. Dkt. No. 19 at 3. The only 20 allegations regarding its prior FOIA requests included in Washington’s Complaint are an oblique 21 reference to this being the second round of FOIA requests related to the Seattle National 22 Archives (Dkt. No. 1 at ¶ 1) and a footnote referencing the then still pending litigation stemming 23 from the first round of requests. Id. at 1 n.1. Even if these references were sufficient to imply a 24 pattern or practice claim was being raised, as Washington appears to argue, they are not

1 sufficient to meet the future harm requirement needed to establish standing for such a claim. Nor 2 may Washington amend its Complaint through briefing on summary judgment.

3 2. PBRB's Delay Was Not Egregious

4 Washington argues that the amount of time between its initial request and the Agency's 5 initial production demonstrates an egregious delay. Dkt. No. 8 at 12. Washington relies primarily 6 on P.W. Arms, Inc. v. United States, which found that a 20-month delay before the agency in 7 question even initiated a search was sufficiently egregious to warrant injunctive relief. P.W.
8 Arms, Inc. v. United States, 2017 WL 319250, at *2 (W.D. Wash. Jan. 23, 2017). Similarly, 9 Washington points to Oregon Natural Desert Association v. Gutierrez, where the requestor was 10 left in the dark for eight months without a response from the agency. Oregon Nat. Desert Ass'n v.
11 Gutierrez, 409 F. Supp. 2d 1237, 1248 (D. Or. 2006). Even though length of delay was a 12 consideration in these cases, it was not the sole determinative factor in deciding that the 13 agencies' actions constituted egregious delay. Unlike in P.W. Arms or Gutierrez, here the 14 Agency: (1) actively communicated with Washington about its efforts to hire contractors and 15 identify the universe of potentially responsive documents; (2) worked with Washington to ensure 16 it was prioritizing the most relevant searches; and (3) cooperated with Washington to negotiate a 17 review and production schedule. Dkt. No. 8 at 7; Dkt. No. 14 at 3-6. At no point was Washington 18 left completely in the dark as to whether the Agency would respond to its request. To the 19 contrary, Washington was kept informed of the Agency's progress along the way.

20 While there is no doubt that the Agency failed to meet the statutory deadline for 21 providing a complete determination, its actions do not rise to the level of egregious delay as to 22 warrant injunctive relief. The appropriate "penalty" for the Agency's delay is to relieve 23 Washington of FOIA's administrative exhaustion requirement, but that is not at issue here. This 24 approach preserves the "[statutory] scheme [that] provides an incentive for agencies to move

1 quickly but recognizes that agencies may not always be able to adhere to the timelines that 2 trigger the exhaustion requirement.” CREW, 711 F.3d at 189.

3 Plaintiff is not entitled to its requested relief for Defendant’s untimely determination as a 4 matter of law. The Court therefore DENIES summary judgement on these grounds.

5 B. FOIA’s Prompt Production Requirement

6 Agencies are expected to make requested documents “promptly available” which 7 typically means “within days or a few weeks . . . not months or years.” CREW, 711 F.3d at 188; 8 see also Kinnucan v. Nat’l Sec. Agency, 2021 WL 6125809, at *9 (W.D. Wash. Dec. 28, 2021)
9 (same) (quoting CREW, 711 F.3d at 188). Here, more than six months elapsed before the Agency 10 was prepared to even begin producing documents and, even then, at a relatively constrained 11 pace. Dkt. No. 14 at 5. The Agency proposed rolling productions that would not be completed 12 until the end of November 2021—or nine months after receipt of the request. Id. at 5-6. That this 13 kind of months long delay could result in summary judgement should be no surprise to the 14 Agency. See Public Buildings Reform Board, 2:20-cv-01364-RSL at Dkt. No. 18 (granting 15 summary judgment to the Plaintiff for the Agency’s failure to promptly produce documents in a 16 case involving similar parties, represented by the same counsel, regarding similar requests, under 17 similar circumstances). The Agency argues that its proposed production schedule meets its 18 prompt production obligation and that unusual circumstances warrants excusing the initial 19 six-month production delay. Dkt. No. 14 at 11-13.

20 The Parties appear to agree that such a delay is excusable if the Agency can show that the 21 delay was due to exceptional circumstances and that the Agency was nonetheless acting with due 22 diligence to complete the request. See 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(6)(C). PBRB relies on the fact that it has 23 no dedicated FOIA staff and decided to hire outside contractors to complete Washington’s 24 request. Dkt. No. 14 at 14. Generally, “[p]redictable staffing limitations do not [] constitute

1 ‘exceptional circumstances.’” ACLU of Washington v. U.S. Dep’t of Just., 2010 WL 11692313, 2 at *2 (W.D. Wash. Jan. 19, 2010). PBRB was well aware of its FOIA obligations (see Public 3 Buildings Reform Board, 2:20-cv-01364-RSL at Dkt. No. 18) and provides no explanation for 4 why it could not have predicted the need for sufficient staffing to respond to a request such as 5 Washington’s. Regardless of the “practical difficulties” FOIA presents to federal agencies, 6 “Congress wrote a tough statute on agency delay in FOIA compliance.” Fiduccia v. U.S. Dep’t of 7 Just., 185 F.3d 1035, 1041 (9th Cir. 1999). PBRB’s predictable lack of adequate staffing and 8 decision to hire contractors does not amount to “exceptional circumstances” considering FOIA’s 9 clear mandates. For this reason, the Court need not decide whether PBRB was acting with due 10 diligence, as its delay cannot be excused without a showing of exceptional circumstances.

11 The Agency’s equitable arguments are now essentially moot. PBRB spends much of its 12 opposition arguing that regardless of whether the Court finds that it has violated its FOIA 13 obligations, the Court should exercise its equitable discretion to deny Washington’s request for 14 injunctive relief in the form of expedited production. Dkt. No. 14 at 13-17. Essentially, PBRB 15 argues that the balance of equities tilts in its favor because of the hardships an expedited 16 production schedule would cause to its process, likely increasing the risk of inadvertent 17 disclosure of exempt records. Id. at 15-16. The Court notes that at the time PBRB prepared its 18 opposition briefing, the Agency was projecting being able to complete all productions by 19 November 2021. Id. at 5-6. Thus, whatever the balance of equities may have been at the time, 20 PBRB has now had more than three months beyond its own proposed deadline to complete the 21 records request. Any argument against Washington’s requested injunctive relief based on the 22 balance of equities is no longer availing.

23 For these reasons, the Court GRANTS summary judgment for Washington due to PBRB’s 24 failure to promptly produce requested records. As such, the Court ORDERS PBRB to produce all

1 remaining non-exempt public records responsive to the state’s request within 21 days of the date
2 of this Order.

3 C. The Agency’s Redactions of Documents

4 An agency may withhold or redact records by invoking any of nine narrowly construed 5 statutory exceptions, 5 U.S.C. § 552(b), but the agency “bears the burden of demonstrating that 6 the exemption properly applies to the documents.” Elec. Frontier Found., 639 F.3d at 883 7 (internal quotations and citations omitted). Washington challenges some of the exemptions that 8 the Agency invoked in the limited production it had received at the time of filing its motion for 9 summary judgment, arguing that the Agency’s conclusory justifications are insufficient.
10 Specifically, Washington argues that the Agency failed to produce a Vaughn index, or the 11 equivalent, with its initial productions. Dkt. No. 8 at 18. PBRB responds by noting that a Vaughn
12 index is typically the product of litigation and is not a requirement under the statute. Dkt. No. 14 13 at 17-18. While the Court generally agrees with the Agency on this point, the Court is 14 nonetheless concerned about Washington’s allegations regarding the lack of information 15 provided by the Agency to support its invocation of exemptions. That said, the Court recognizes 16 that the Agency had produced only a fraction of the documents involved in this litigation at the 17 time Washington filed its motion and does not intend to make exemption determinations on a 18 piecemeal basis, as that would be extremely inefficient.

19 Therefore, the Court DENIES as premature Washington’s challenges to the Agency’s 20 exemption claims in its limited production set. However, the Court notes that “PBRB does not 21 object to providing the State with sufficient time to respond to a future Vaughn index.” Dkt.
22 No. 14 at 18-19 n.9. In line with the Court’s order regarding expedited completion of all 23 remaining productions and PBRB’s suggestion, the Court ORDERS PBRB to provide Washington 24 with a complete and comprehensive Vaughn index within ten (10) days of completing its

1 production (or within ten (10) days of the date of this order, if the production has already been 2 completed). The Parties are further ORDERED to meet and confer regarding the exemptions and to 3 prepare a joint status report regarding the scope of any remaining exemption issues and a 4 proposed briefing schedule regarding unresolved exemption challenges by no later than 5 April 25, 2022. The Court anticipates the Parties will be able to narrow the scope of remaining 6 exemption challenges requiring Court intervention through this process.

7 D. Plaintiff's Request for a Status Conference

8 The Court DENIES the request for a status conference as moot per this Order. The Parties 9 may request a status conference if warranted on alternate grounds.

10 IV. ORDER

11 Therefore, the Court GRANTS IN PART and DENIES IN PART Washington's motion for 12 summary judgement (Dkt. No. 8) and DENIES Washington's request for a status conference (Dkt.
13 No. 25). The Court further ORDERS that

14 1. PBRB will produce to Washington all remaining non-exempt responsive records 15 within twenty-one (21) days of the date of this Order;

16 2. PBRB will produce to Washington a complete and comprehensive Vaughn index 17 within ten (10) days of the completion of all remaining productions (or within ten (10) days of 18 the date of this Order if all productions have already been completed);

19 3. The Parties shall meet and confer to narrow the scope of any remaining exemption 20 challenges and shall prepare a joint status report and proposed dispositive motion briefing 21 schedule to be filed no later than April 25, 2022.

22 The Clerk is directed to send uncertified copies of this Order to all counsel of record and 23 to any party appearing pro se at said party's last known address.

1 Dated this 18th day of March 2022.
