

Deadly Pills in the Northland: Parents, It's Time to Take Action!

Fentanyl-laced pills seized by the Kansas City Police Department

Law enforcement in our area is seeing overdoses and deaths among Northland teens and young adults linked to pills that appear to be prescription pills. Often referred to as “Percs” or “M-30’s,” these illegal pills are laced with the deadly drug fentanyl and it’s impossible to tell which ones are counterfeit. Fentanyl is a synthetic opioid that is up to 50 times stronger than heroin and 100 times stronger than morphine. Just traces of the drug fentanyl can be fatal. These pills are being sold on the black market and there is no regulation of any kind.

Parents, Guardians, and Caring Adults, here’s what you can do:

- Emphasize to your kids to never take a pill from anyone or anywhere that isn’t prescribed to them by a doctor and out of its original container. Too many teens have the false perception that “medicine is safe, medicine can’t hurt me.” Let your kids know the dangers. Say something like this: “You have to assume that any pill that isn’t prescribed to you and in the original container could be fake, and very possibly deadly. NO RANDOM PILLS!” and “Never take any prescription pill unless it is prescribed to you by a doctor. Never share pills with anyone else.”
- Let teens know you will help them if they are seeking relief from feelings of anxiety or depression. Discuss the steps to legally and safely obtain appropriate medications from a doctor, if needed.
- Assure your child that their mental wellbeing is a priority and then make a plan to get help together. The reasons kids turn to pills (i.e. feelings of depression, anxiety, boredom, restlessness, etc.) are very real. They need to hear from caring adults that they have options for relief other than taking matters into their own hands.
- Practice scenarios and talk through what to say if the teen is offered something. These roleplays let the child know you support them and help give them confidence if a situation arises where they need to say “no.” You can also work with your teen to come up with a code word to text you if they feel like they need your help to get out of an unsafe situation.

Here’s some other resources that might be helpful too:

- Learn how to Parent Up to help prevent any substance use in your kids at www.ParentUpKC.com.
- Read the warnings, tips and pictures about Fentanyl straight from the DEA at www.DEA.gov.
- Song for Charlie has great Real Talk videos for youth at www.SongForCharlie.org.

2 mg of fentanyl, a fatal dose
for most adults

Parent Up is a program of Tri-County Mental Health Services and the Northland Coalition Prevention Network that empowers and equips KC Northland parents to care, connect, communicate, and pay careful attention to their child in order to prevent teen substance use. Get tips and tools at www.ParentUpKC.com or on Facebook @ParentUp.