My dear Senator:

I was delighted to hear from you. I would have called you up last night, but I misread the message left by my secretary. I certainly hope to see you either here or in Washington.

I would like to know what you will say in your proposed speech. Maybe I can be of some help to you with material.

The two books to which you refer are: "Spreading Germs of Hate", published in 1930 by Horace Liveright, which also appeared serially in the Saturday Evening Post, and "The Strangest Friendship in History", published in 1932 by the same firm. This appeared serially in Liberty magazine.

These books may be found in the Congressional Library, also no doubt files of the "Fatherland" and "The American Monthly".

If you like these books of mine, I shall be delighted to send you copies with a personal inscription.

I remember your brave fight in those days, and I am glad that you are in the Senate where you may be able to vote against the next war.

I enclose an article which appeared in Liberty, which may be of interest to you.

I would like to interview you for Liberty magazine, or write an article in collaboration with you, either for Liberty or some other magazine, on some of these problems. After all your experience you might be able to tell America how to keep out of the next War.

Cordially yours,

George Sylvester Viereck

Dear Senator Lundeen:

I would be interested in getting the Congressional Record with the debate on the neutrality legislation. I understand from the newspapers that you made a bitter attack, but I did not find extracts from your criticism. I also would like to read the other important speeches.

I am going through my material now and shall try to retrieve the article on the "Gentleman's Agreement" between Roosevelt, the English and the French representatives. It appeared in a newspaper correspondence for editors, published by Reinhold Wulle in Berlin. I have just found it and shall ask my secretary to copy it for you. It is in German. The article is entitled: "Blockade-politik". It appears in "Informationsbrief # 339 of February 28th, 1937. Wulle is a former member of the Reichstag, Thinking it over, it seems to me that it is probably more valuable for you to secure the original. I am therefore sending you the original, and shall be grateful to you, if you will have a photostat copy of the article made. It is on pages 3 and 4.

My dear Senator:

Here is the first rough draft of the Liberty article. I have not used all the material at my disposal, but shall utilize it elsewhere when the opportunity offers.

Will you be good enough to go over the article, strengthen it where it needs strengthening, tone it down where it needs toning down, add what is necessary and eliminate anything that could possibly be embarrassing to you. Make all the changes on the manuscript, which will have to be recopied in any event.

All the quotations from newspapers are correct. I have the originals here, and I have given the dates merely for your benefit, if you wish to have them looked up in the Library of Congress. The dates will, of course, not be printed in the article itself; they are only for your information.

After you have corrected the article, will you please put your initials in the left-hand corner, or drop me a note, authorizing its publication and authorizing me to make the financial arrangements at Liberty along the lines discussed.

I hope that in spite of your many burdens you will be able to return the article to me very shortly, since it will probably take at least 6 weeks before it can be published in Liberty. Moreover, I am rather short of funds and would welcome a check from them without too much delay.

May I not repeat my delight that I had the honor of collaborating with you and the hope that this will be only the first of many such ventures. Your vibrant personality appeals to me powerfully. I admire both your courage and your statesmanlike qualities.

Mrs. Viereck as well as I were happy to have the opportunity to meet your charming wife and to be privileged to spend a few hours with both of you. We hope that we shall be able to reciprocate your courtesy in New York before long.

SPECIAL DELIVERY.

Hon. Ernest Lundeen,
3135 Ellicott,
Washington, D.C.

My dear Senator:

I hope you have received the draft of the article "Will Secret Commitments Drag America Into The Next World War?" which I sent you on Saturday.

John Elliot of the Herald-Tribune of last Sunday says: "The vision of American cooperation in the next war is seldom absent from the argument about the urgency of fostering the goodwill with the United States. . . To an American observer here it is astounding how widely it is assumed by the English that the United States will be in the next World War as it was in the last. (And, of course, on the same side as before)."

If you have no objection, I shall quote this passage too in the article.

The Cosmopolitan Magazine is interested in an article by you "Why I sent my boy to a Military Academy". They would like me to send them a synopsis of a page or two. This gives you a splendid opportunity to stress once more both your hatred of war and your patriotism. I can prepare such a synopsis from our conversation, but I would welcome some additional suggestions from you.

I think the two articles will do much to strengthen your leadership in the cause of peace and Americanism.

If you are too busy to write, send me a telegram or telephone me, but do let me know that you have received this letter, and also by when I may expect the revised article. I must leave town by the end of this week, and would like to get the article recopied with your corrections before I leave.

With cordial regards from house to house,

My dear Senator:

After playing around with it for a month, Liberty suddenly returned the article. I suspect they are afraid. This is probably true, but it is not the whole truth. On reading the article over, I realized that it was too hastily put together. Your material was excellent, but I failed in my task. I have now revamped the article completely, and shall submit it to Liberty once more. If they do not accept it, I shall dispose of it elsewhere.

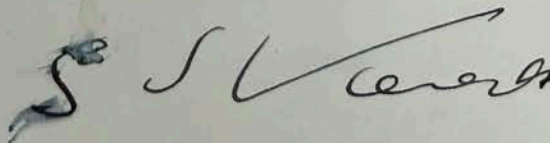

The Cosmopolitan has changed its mind about the Military Academy. Physical Culture desires to print it, but they do not pay more than $150. Before I accept their offer, I shall try to find a more advantageous market.

I wonder if their rejection has something to do with your vote on the Supreme Court?

Dear Mr. Palmer:

I am sending you herewith the Lundeen article, revised, brought up to date and shortened by the Senator. The situation changes every day and the issues involved are so delicate that it is absolutely essential for you to send a set of proofs to Senator Ernest Lundeen, 3135 Ellicott, Washington, D.C. and a set of proofs to me before publishing the article. That is one of the Senator's conditions. I believe the article will make a sensation.

Senator Lundeen will speak this coming Saturday, December 4th, in connection with the foreign policy of the "Harvard Guardian" over a nation-wide broadcast on "Neutrality".

There is no doubt in my mind that the article will crystallize the suspicion of many, and will re-echo in Washington.

I have not been able to do a stroke of work for the last 3 or 4 weeks, because I was busy acknowledging correspondence received in connection with my new book. Now I am having a breathing spell and hope shortly to have the Russian article ready for you.

I regret exceedingly that my crowded days have not permitted me the pleasure of reading your book. I am now entangled in this "Foreign Affairs" question, but at the first opportunity will do so and will be glad to send you some comment.

With reference to the article, "Why I send my Boy to Military Academy", that article seems to have been very satisfactory. It was reprinted in the regular, "The Army Service" magazine; and I understand that it was also reprinted in the "National Tribune", the "All Veteran's Paper"; and these articles created much favorable comment. By the way, due to the world situation, it, perhaps, was very timely. It seems to me that press and magazines ought to be very receptive to our other articles on foreign affairs. I will write you further about that at a later date.

With best wishes to you and yours for health, happiness and success throughout the year.

I am glad the article was received so well.

The Mercury has changed its mind again. The Editor has written me a long letter, saying that the article (on secret agreements) was that of a politician, not of an intellectual, and that after reading it three times, he made up his mind that it could not be adapted to the Mercury. I have, therefore, returned it to my agent, Mr. William Lengel, who thinks it is an extraordinary good story. It was, of course, an even better story several months ago, when it was first written and when it was a solemn warning of the events that are now transpiring.

I am sure we can find ways and means for further literary cooperation.

Dear Senator Lundeen:

I was intensely interested in the Johnson Resolution and in Hull's diplomatic denial, which is still unconvincing to me, owing to some confidential information, concerning which I shall tell you more when we meet.

You certainly show that you were more wide-awake than Johnson when you wrote the article on "Gentlemen's Agreements". Much to my distress this article was rejected everywhere. However, today, my new Agent, Bill Lengel, formerly Associate Editor of the "Cosmopolitan", succeeded in selling it to the Hearst papers. They claim that they are poor, and are unwilling to pay more than $100. for it. This would leave only $45. for each of us, after deducting the agent's commission. $45. does not cover my actual expenses, which included two trips to Washington, several long-distance telephone calls, telegrams and repeated copying of the manuscript. In addition to that the article will appear under your name, not mine.

The Hearst people do not want more than 1500 words in all. They propose to cut down the manuscript to that size. Inasmuch as many things have happened since it was first written, I shall tell them, that they must submit proofs of the article to you before publication. This will make it possible for you to make whatever changes are needed. The article will appear in all Sunday papers of the Hearst group, and should be helpful to you as a sounding board of your ideas.

I think we better accept their proposition, since there seems to be no hope of placing the article elsewhere. Moreover they say that they may be able to pay more in the future.

The Hearst people also would like an article, signed by you, of not less than 1500, and not more than 2000 words, on: "Can Democracy Prevail?" They feel that the United States and England are the last strongholds of democracy. Can we save democracy at home and abroad by separate or joint action, or is democracy doomed?

They will pay $100. for this article which, after deducting the agent's commission, leaves $90. If you will send me a page or two with your ideas on the subject, I shall be glad to write the article. However, since I get neither publicity nor credit on articles of this type, don't you think a fair division would be one-third to you and two-thirds to me ?

If you write a series of articles along these lines for the Hearst papers, you will certainly build up your prestige and fortify your position.

Of course I shall look you up if I come to Washington, and trust that you will come to see us when you are in New York.

Faithfully yours,

Dear Senator Lundeen:

Thanks for your statement, which is of course excellent, but it does not quite cover the ground. The question was: "Can Democracy be saved, or is Democracy doomed?"

Your answer is: "Yes, it can be saved, if we keep out of war." Is that really quite enough? Is it not necessary for us not to duplicate the machinery of Fascism or Communism to maintain the Constitution, etc.?

I wish you could give me a thought or two along these lines, so that I can embody it into the article.

Maybe, we can make some arrangement eventually with the Hearst papers for a weekly or monthly article, which would give you a national sounding-board. If they pay more than $100. I am, of course, willing to make it a 50-50 division. When they pay only one hundred, there is really nothing in it for either of us. But you, at least, reach an enormous public and spread your ideas;
but I am only a silent partner.

What do you think of European developments?

Some months ago you were good enough to give me a statement for publication in the Hearst papers on our naval policy. I submitted it without change together with a statement from Senator Tydings. The Hearst papers must have had a brain storm, because they refused to print the two articles. The "Forum" has no money and will pay only $50. for both articles. No ans.

Dear Senator Lundeen:

Thanks for your letter and the notes which I shall whip into shape.

In the meantime you have no doubt received the proof of your article from the Hearst people. Of course the financial arrangement is not satisfactory; they must eventually pay more. If you wish to write to them directly and make a different arrangement, that is of course entirely a matter for you to decide, but I think in the long run you will find collaboration with me, especially if we can regularize it, more profitable both politically and financially than anything that you yourself can do, loaded down as you are with work. I am, after all, right here on the spot. I know the editors and I have some journalistic skill in preparing material in a manner suitable to their needs.

I hope to see you soon. With kindest regards, I

The Hon. Ernest Lundeen
6221 29th Street, NW
Washington, D.C.

My dear Senator Lundeen:

The enclosed circular explains itself. It is the intention of the American Fellowship Forum to provide a dignified platform for points of view which do not generally find a voice in the controlled press, the controlled lecture hall, and the controlled air.

In connection with the Forum, we propose to publish a monthly magazine, "Challenge", which will debate diverse issues which challenge the attention of the American people at home and abroad. It will be a challenge to intolerance, complacency, hypocrisy, and every "Ism" except Americanism.

We expect to publish a few experimental issues (5 to 10,000) during the summer paid for by voluntary contributions from individual members and sympathizers. We propose to send copies to all members of Congress and to a selected list of newspapers, periodicals, and news commentators. If the magazine succeeds, we shall publish it on a large scale in the Fall. It will stress emphatically its Americanism and will attempt to present conflicting points of view dispassionately. However, while propaganda emanating from foreign capitals and from "pressure groups" within the United States, monopolizes most channels of publicity, "Challenge" will emphasize more strongly those points of view which are ignored or slighted elsewhere.

In the first issue we shall print contributions by Hon. Hamilton Fish, the Hon. William R. Castle, former Under-Secretary of State, Dr. Friederich Auhagen, formerly of Columbia University, Lawrence Dennis, whose name is known to you as a contributor to the American Mercury, Captain Sheridan, naval expert, Henry S. Adams, author and editor, and others. I, too, shall contribute an article on an important problem.

Since we are only financing the magazine from hand to mouth, I cannot promise any payment for contributions at this time. Nevertheless, I would like to have you among our contributors, if possible, in the first issue

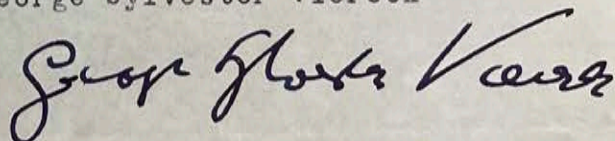

I was very much interested in all the speeches which you were good enough to send me. I cannot under the circumstances ask you to write something new for us, but perhaps you could write an introduction, however brief, to one of your speeches, which will enable me to print it as an article. I am particularly interested in your suggestion that we should take over the islands of some of our European debtors in payment of their debt and as a guarantee of our own security. It would be easy enough for me to turn that material into an article with a few slight stylistic changes and elisions.

I see that the Record, in the issue of April 25th, reprinted Boake Carter's story. I wonder if you could have the Record sent to me regularly if you have not exhausted your quota? I could use it both in "Challenge" and in other publications to popularize your ideas and to advance the cause of peace, in which we are both interested.

With all good wishes from house to house,

Faithfully yours

George Sylvester Viereck

Hon. Ernest Lundeen,

Dear Senator:

Your speech made a profound impression. In fact I may say that your eloquence combined with Mrs. Lundeen's charm were the hit of the evening, completely outshining the Prince.

I expect to leave for Washington on Thursday afternoon and to spend the week-end with Mrs. Viereck at the "Raleigh" in the capital. I told Mrs. Viereck about our little dinner at the Raleigh some months ago, and she would like to have such a dinner when she is present, since she was unfortunately absent the last time. Can you make it possible to be my guest with Mrs. Lundeen? We will have a private room. I may also invite a friend of mine, who greatly admired your speech, but who for some reason or another was not presented to you. The affair will be entirely informal. I leave it to you to set the time. I presume you would prefer 7:30.

Friday
evening

I shall be very much interested to get your reaction to various recent events.

Have you any copies of your speech? The Board of Trade would like to reprint it in its publication and some of your admirers would like to send out an enormous quantity, if it should be reprinted in the Congressional Record.

Dear Senator Lundeen:

All the information which I have received leads me to believe that you are right in your assumption that the Allies are planning some coup to extend the theatre of the war. a) to divert attention from their failure in Norway; b) to saddle the blame upon the Germans with the object of regaining ~~the~~ sympathy in neutral countries. c) The attempt will be accompanied by an intensified propaganda campaign to enlist American aid even before the Election. If direct military aid is not possible, every effort will be made to destroy the Johnson Act and to draw the wool over the eyes of the American taxpayer.

I think your idea of warning the American people under the circumstances is excellent.

The various other matters we discussed are proceeding smoothly. It was a pleasure and an inspiration to see you. It seems that I forgot the issue of the Congressional Record of May 1st with your excellent speech which, if you will give me some additional information should make the basis for an article. Can you send me the material, as well as another copy of your speech?

If by any chance you should make the brief speech which you were contemplating, would you be good enough to let me have a few copies from the Record?

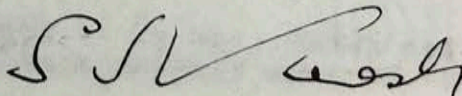

What do you think of the startling telephone conversation between Reynaud and Chamberlain? I wonder if the Germans have some new invention which enables them to tap such messages?

Did you see the two interesting articles in this week's issue of the Saturday Evening Post? One by Demaree Bess, the other by Captain Voska whom, by the way, I shall meet at lunch today.

Dear Senator Lundeen:

Let me congratulate you on your success in converting the Scripps-Howard papers to your view about annexing all foreign possessions in the Western hemisphere in order to make America impregnable against any foreign attack. I note that Hamilton Fish voiced similar sentiments in his speech the other day. The more the European war spreads, the more I realize the necessity for fortifying the Western hemisphere against any and all possible enemies.

I am a little embarrassed by the fact that you have not yet written to Professor Barnes and sent him the little check mentioned, as well as the various provocative utterances which you had collected. He has prepared a very able brief, from what I have seen of it, but he is awaiting final instructions from you as well as the additional material.

It seems to me, and I presume I am voicing your opinion, that the money that is now being appropriated should be devoted solely to the defense of America, not for any aggressive action in Asia or Europe. That I think is a platform on which all patriotic Americans can stand.

If you have not already written to Professor Barnes, will you not call him up? His telephone number is: 21 F 3 COOPERSTOWN, or send him a wire. He has already written about 60 pages. I told him to go ahead on your assurance that you wanted the material without delay. Of course your own eloquence will have to give life to the facts and quotations which he has collected.

I presume you are working under terrific pressure.

With all good wishes to yourself and to Mrs. Lundeen, believe me,

PERSONAL.

My dear Senator Lundeen:

Thanks for the copy of the Congressional Record with that remarkable speech.

At your request I looked over the quotations of Lothian's speech, which tell that he took an entirely different point of view of the world situation before it became his duty to lie for his Government. I found that ~~the~~ selections were too long for introduction into the Record. I therefore selected some and omitted others; however the entire selection is at your service, should you so desire. *

I have also looked carefully over the brief of your speech. I ventured to make a few slight suggestions in accordance with your remarks to me, but on the whole I have followed the brief, except that I have shortened it considerably. I have marked the passages in the brief which I have selected. There is still much good material, which you may wish to use at some future occasion.

If the time had not been so limited, I could have done a much better job, but in any case it is your eloquence that must flow over the manuscript, not mine, - it is your passion for the truth, it is your patriotism which must give the final form to what is only a feeble attempt to think along your lines and to aid you in view of the terrific pressure of time and legislative duties, which would overwhelm a weaker man.

July 7, 1940.

Hon. Ernest Lundeen,
United States Senate,
Washington, D.C.

Dear Senator:

1) When I sent you the telegram, I had read only the first 20 pages of the manuscript. Now that I have read all of it I can understand your chagrin. It is not badly written, but it lacks point. The author rides his hobby horses at the expense of his subject. I do not think that more than 16 or 20 pages can be salvaged. It may therefore take me a few days longer, to give you something in presentable shape, than I originally anticipated.

I shall avoid invective, but I shall not be able to resist the temptation of including your statement that Benedict Arnold was not the German-American, and that the Benedict Arnolds of today, who want us to exchange the Declaration of Independence for a Declaration of Interdependence are not German-Americans.

I may also include your observation that in all your long years in Congress, no German-American and no German sympathizer ever had the impudence to ask you to sacrifice our cruisers, our airplanes, our life and our treasure to aid Germany.

But above all we need facts. I think from that point of view the original Schrader manuscript, which you showed me, was much better. Can you not send it to me by air mail, as it may be useful in editing your speech and in adding facts now missing.

I cannot do the entire job myself, but I shall keep an eye on it and put in a little pep.

2) I received a letter from Mr. Hill, which I do not understand. I pointed out to him that I merely acted as an intermediary to save your valuable time, but that he must look to you for the payment of the expenses incurred in addressing the envelopes. It is of course absurd for him to send a bill to me. I have, as you know, unfortunately no financial resources whatsoever.

324 West 103rd Street, Apt. 12B

I have no intention of coming to Washington just now, but I may come within a week when the revision of the speech is completed. In the meantime I beg of you to straighten out the tangle with Mr. Hill.

3) I have little hope for a Third Party. It is too late to organize the peace sentiment. It is too late to have presidential tickets in the various states, and the diverse elements opposed to war are not likely to coalesce. They would dissolve after the war peril is over. There is nothing to hold them together, unless you have a brilliant idea.- I may be mistaken, but such is my first reaction. There is growing evidence of a deliberate reign of terror, planned by those in authority and by the friends of Great Britain; notice for instance the witch-hunt inaugurated against Dr. Westrick.

Cordially yours,

Sylvester

Dear Senator Lundeen:

Has your "Six men speech" been printed?
If not, I suggest that you qualify the statement referring to Isvolski as the French Ambassador in Moscow with the word " one-time", because in 1914 he was Foreign Minister. One thinks of him, however, as the Russian Ambassador, because it was in that capacity that he accomplished his life's work - to prepare the war. He was, shall we say, the Bullit of France.

If the speech is printed, would you be good

I and some of my collaborators are working hard in no easy task for a variety of reasons.

I do not expect to be in Washington for a week, unless something of importance happens, and my duties to my newspaper compel me to visit the capital.

Cordially yours,

Senator Ernest Lundeen
United States Senate
Washington, D.C.

Dear Senator:

Two of my collaborators are working on the manuscript. I expect to lick it into shape over the weekend or at the latest by Monday. It will then have to be re-copied, which may take another day or two, but I shall expedite the matter as much as possible. In addition to that I have some editorial work which must be done Monday morning. Under those circumstances it is practically impossible for me to come to Washington Saturday or Monday morning. I could be at your disposal and meet your friend from Minnesota Monday night or Tuesday.

If it is essential for him to see me before that, it would be better for him to come to New York. If, however, for any reason whatsoever you consider it imperative for me to see you Saturday or Monday morning, give me a ring or send me a telegram and I shall set aside my personal convenience and my work to meet your wishes in any way possible. However, it seems to me that anything that can wait until Monday morning, can also wait until Monday night.

The brief which I prepared for you will deal with the German-Americans and will be prepared along the lines indicated by you. You and your Minnesota adviser can insert the local appeal in accordance with your own intimate knowledge of the situation.

With corcial regards from house to house,

Ever yours,

George Sylvester Viereck

Senator Ernest Lundeen

Washington, D.C.

Dear Senator Lundeen:

The work on the brief for the speech on the German-Americans is proceeding satisfactorily. It is almost completed now in rough, but it still needs considerable editing. Nevertheless, it should be in your hands by the end of this week or early next week.

As you will notice from the enclosure, (P.M.) the witch-hunt is on. So far the other newspapers in New York have paid no attention to P.M.'s "revelations", which are a curious mixture of falsehood interspersed with a few facts. The alleged charges made against me by Deputy Attorney General Becker are based upon material collected by the ex-convict and crook Phillip Musica, who recently, after looting a great company, McKesson & Robbins, in which he was President, committed suicide.

You may be interested in the following statement, which appeared in Propaganda Analysis in August 1938:

"A high sounding name, however, is not enough. A high-sounding board of directors is also needed; leaders in public life, well-known business men, educators, scientists. These can always be found. Some will lend their names from sincere conviction. George Sylvester Viereck, for example, has often let not only his name but even his time and talents and money to pro-German organizations, for Mr. Viereck has been intensely pro-German since his college days, and even during the World War hysteria, when pro-German sympathies meant persecution. Similarly, Carl Crow and Theodore Roosevelt Jr., who are helping Carl Byoir & Associates, Inc. with its pro-China campaign, could hardly be suspected of acting from any but the highest motives."...

S T A T E M E N T

of George Sylvester Viereck.

The attack on me is part of the witch-hunt against every advocate of peace and fair play and against all who abide by the doctrine enunciated by every patriotic American from George Washington to Col. Charles Lindbergh.

The writer of the article in P.M. has borrowed most of his "information" from the garbage pails of the past, especially from the curious mixture of falsehood and fact dished out by Phillip Musica, ex-convict and crook, who acted at one time as an "investigator" for a Deputy Attorney General Becker. He has added to this collection some garbage of his own.

I am engaged in no activity of which the American Government is not fully apprized. There is nothing in my record, past or present, that is not compatible with my rights and duties as an American citizen, nothing that is not in accordance with the best interests of the United States. If anyone doubts my statements I challenge him to publish in full my contract with the Muenchener Neueste Nachrichten, chief of a great chain of newspapers, and with the German Library of Information, an institute founded several years ago for the purpose of strengthening the ancient cultural ties between the United States and Germany. Beyond this I have no statement to make.

I take pleasure, however, in quoting a brief excerpt from an article on "The Public Relations Counsel and Propaganda" in the issue of August 1938 of "Propaganda Analysis":

"Some will lend their names from sincere conviction. George Sylvester Viereck, for example, has often lent not only his name but even his time and talents and money to pro-German organizations, for Mr. Viereck has been intensely pro-German since his college days, and even during the World War hysteria, when pro-German sympathies meant persecution. Similarly, Carl Crow and Theodore Roosevelt Jr., who are helping Carl Byoir & Associates, Inc., with its pro-China campaign, could hardly be suspected of acting from any but the highest motives ..."

Dear Senator Lundeen:

I take liberty in sending you my contract with the German Library of Information. It seems to me that it is unimpeachable from the point of view of my rights and duties as an American citizen.

I also enclose a statement, which I may issue now or later.

AIRMAIL.

Dear Senator :

The work on the ^{German} American brief is much greater than I anticipated, because I wanted to use conscientiously much of the valuable material which you were good enough to send me.

I am still revising the manuscript, which will be at least 100 pages. I am afraid it cannot possibly be completed until Monday.

I shall send it to you in Washington, or shall I send it by airmail to Minnesota ? If so, will you give me the address where it should be sent.

I am sorry that I am not better than my word, but it seems to me most important to give you a really satisfactory survey.

Incidentally, another college professor is preparing the valuable bibliography, which you requested, and which I will send you together with the manuscript.

I am surprised that you are able to leave Washington at this critical time, and hope to see you immediately after your return.

With all good wishes, from house to house,

ever your friend and admirer

Glenn V. Kora

Mr. Sylvester Viereck,

New York, New York

Dear Friend Viereck:

Many months have now passed since I first began my research on German-American contributions to our national life. A few days more or less, I presume, will make no difference. I do want the research to be thorough and scholarly, and I will take some time to do some revising of the manuscript. I hope it will not be too long delayed. I also hope that the bibliography will be thorough-going, for of course, the literature is so immense that the selection must be carefully made of books, pamphlets and articles.

When I made my speaking engagements in Minnesota, we surely thought the conscription debate would be over. I have now cancelled all engagements until September 1 and will remain here throughout the next week, that is, until three o'clock Saturday afternoon, or thereabouts, when I take a plane for Minneapolis.

It will be appreciated if you will bring the manuscript here and go over the same with me, and I may then be able to discuss with you other research which I have in mind.

With sincere best wishes, I am

Very truly yours,

Dear Senator:

I am going over the manuscript once more carefully and shall certainly mail it to-morrow. Naturally it will be necessary for you to go over it again.

I shall try to get to Washington sometime this week and go over the manuscript with you; in any event I shall try to get there before September 1st.

Dear Senator Lundeen:

I wonder whether you have seen the vicious attack on me in PM? I wrote a reply which, however, I did not publish for reasons explained in my letter to Congressman Dies, copy of which I enclose herewith for your information. I also enclose the material which I submitted to Mr. Dies:

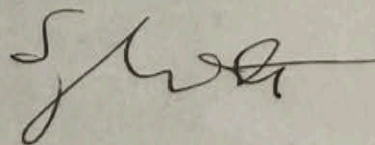

- 1). Statement on PM article (already mentioned)
- 2). Contract between GSV and the German Library of Information (on file in State Department)
- 3). Article in PM.
- 4). Booklet on the German Library of Information.

I expect to be in Washington to-morrow and shall give you a ring immediately on my arrival.

Dear Senator:

I am sending you herewith another copy of the manuscript of your speech. In this copy the few pencil suggestions for changes which I ventured to make do not appear, nor, of course, the changes which you yourself made the other night. Otherwise it is a true copy.

With all good wishes,

Sincerely yours,
