I met with Bob at his office in West Chester PA. My purpose in meeting was to do several things - to deliver a CD and book by a recent Heritage lecturer, Patrick Soohkdeo, to give him an update on the LFA campaign, and to simply cultivate our relationship.

At lunch, Bob was characteristically passionate, but this time not so much against Muslims, but against liberals and socialists. He said that everytime he meets a liberal/leftist person, he says "well, I guess you're a mass murderer in training, because that's where your ideology leads."

I updated Bob on the LFA campaign, and the membership. He said "you guys have 320K members, right?" I gave him the new figure, but was impressed that he remembered the old one.

I walked him through the business plans, and gave him a copy. He was happy and impressed with the plans.

I invited Bob Ellis to come to Baltimore this evening to attend a lecture entitled "Islam - A Religion of Peace?" The lecture was sponsored by The Harbour League, and given Bob's interest in islam, I thought he would enjoy the evening.

We then walked over to the debate and it was very good. Bob was very much engaged in the subject, and even asked a question. He went up and spoke to the debaters (Frank Gaffney and Suhail Kahn), and took information from the tables in the back. He really enjoyed the subject.

The following day Bob and David came to the Petraeus event. Although I saw them from across the room, unfortunately I was unable to greet them - they left before I was able to make it over to them after the speech.

Next Move: thank for dinner

Next Move: need to have HLS conversation with Bob.

RE: Visit to Heritage
DA: January 14, 2009

Heritage Associate and former Founder Bob Ellis came to Heritage today to attend the lecture and luncheon with Anglican Bishop Michael Nazir-Ali. I invited Bob just on Tuesday afternoon - less than 24 hours before the event - and to my surprise he said that he was able to come. He took the train from Wilmington and was in a seat in Van Andel at 9:55AM.

Bob was characteristically aggressive with the Bishop, but not inappropriate. He represented the "hard line" position of not negotiating or even talking to Muslims. He was able to ask two questions, and interject 2 or so comments in the meeting. He said that the Bishop should forget interfaith dialogue because it just gives credibility to the Muslims. He sat in the front of the room, and wrote 5 pages of notes in very neat handwriting. He purchased one of the Bishop's books, and met Jennifer Marshall.

I met with our good friend Bob Ellis today during this very snowy Wednesday in Pennsylvania. We had originally planned to get together for breakfast the following morning. But, when I found out that the Sharpe training was cancelled today, I called Bob to see if he would be available to meet this morning. Gratefully Bob said that he was.

I shook his hand as I left, and he held it tight, with his other hand on my elbow - as if to suggest that he was with us.

RE: Phone Call
DA: April 3, 2009

Bob Ellis called me today and we had a good 20 minute conversation over the phone. Bob called me to let me know that he would be attending the Resource Bank meeting, as well as the Atlas meeting. But, as with previous calls and conversations with Bob, it took awhile to get to this purpose. We had to go through quite a bit of passion to get to the destination.

He asked if we knew about a conference on climate change recently hosted by the Heartland Institute in NYC at which there were over 800 attendees. I told him that I had not heard of it, but I'm sure our energy folks had. Ellis said that none of the mainstream media covered the meeting, but that it was filled with real scientists claiming that global warming was a myth. He said that the GOP should be using this, and should totally oppose the global warming myth.

Bob told me that he attended the Patrick Sookdheo presentation on Sharia Law here on March 24th. I had sent him the invite, but didn't receive a response and didn't know that he had planned to attend. He said that the presentation was good, and Bob made reference to the event we attended in Maryland last fall. Of course, this subject unleashed the typical torrent of passion that we've come to know in Bob and his views about Islam. "You can't kill 'em as fast as they're making 'em" was a quote that I hadn't yet heard. We're the moderates in light of this view, but that is ok.

Remembering something from a previous conversation, I asked Bob about his membership in the Philadelphia Chapter of the Foreign Policy Research Institute. He said that he was a member. I asked him if he would want to host a screening of 33 Minutes at the Institute, and he said that he would think about it. He wanted me to send him a copy of the film, and I said that I would.

We ended by scheduling dinner for next Tuesday evening in West Chester. He will get back to me regarding the venue. Good check in call w/ Bob.
