SEC Reopens Comment Periods for Several Rulemaking Releases Due to Technological Error in Receiving Certain Comments

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

2022 186

Washington D C , Oct 7, 2022 The Securities and Exchange Commission today reopened the public comment periods for 11 Commission rulemaking releases and one request for comment due to a technological error that resulted in a number of public comments submitted through the Commission's internet comment form not being received by the Commission. The majority of the affected comments were submitted in August 2022; however, the technological error is known to have occurred as early as June 2021.

To ensure that interested persons, including any affected commenter, have the opportunity to comment on the affected release or to resubmit comment, the Commission is reopening the comment period for the affected releases until 14 days following publication of the reopening release in the Federal Register.

As further described in the reopening release, all commenters who submitted a public comment to one of the affected comment files through the internet comment form between June 2021 and August 2022 are advised to check the relevant comment file on SEC.gov to determine whether their comment was received and posted. If a comment has not been posted, commenters should resubmit that comment.

Commenters may submit a comment by following the instructions provided in the reopening release. The affected Commission releases are listed below.

The technological error also may have affected certain comments with respect to self-regulatory organization matters listed in the reopening release. The Commission will evaluate any comments resubmitted with respect to these matters and consider whether further action is warranted.
