The image shows a screenshot of a social media thread on the left and a promotional poster on the right. The thread consists of five posts from different users, all expressing support for the 'Remain' side of the EU referendum. Each post includes a profile picture, the user's name and handle, a 'Follow' button, and the text of the post. The posts are:

- Amina Mussa Wehelie (@AminaWehelie): "I am voting Remain in EU Referendum. Vote Remain #EUReferendum" (2 likes)
- Urpochan (@Urpochan): "Vote remain #EUreferendum"
- Rhia Adwa (@rhia_adwa): "VOTE REMAIN #EUreferendum"
- Nikita (@blackbird): "Vote REMAIN #EUreferendum" (2 likes)
- Iman (@iman_ksano): "Vote remain #EUreferendum"

The promotional poster on the right is red and white. It features the text: "SAVE YOURSELF A TRIP YOU CAN NOW VOTE ONLINE VIA SOCIAL MEDIA". Below this, it says: "Simply post 'Vote Remain' on your Facebook or Twitter account with the following Hashtag #EUReferendum on the 23rd June between 7am and 10pm". There are icons for Facebook and Twitter. At the bottom, it says "VOTE X REMAIN 23 JUNE" with a box around the 'X'. At the very bottom, it says "#Labour" and "labourforbritain.org.uk".

"We are proud to announce a partnership between the FEC and social media companies Twitter and Facebook, which will finally allow voting online.

All you have to do is post ClintonKaine, no spaces, with the hashtag #PresidentialElection on November 8th, between 8AM and 6PM. That's it!"

You have to use old twitter accounts when doing edgy shit

1080p 1:33pm

Old ones don't get suspended easily

1080p 1:34pm

Mines from May 2007 i can say whatever i want

1080p 1:34pm

Aren't follower numbers also a factor?

PaulTown_ 2:47pm

That might explain why it took Ricky Vaughn so long to be axed by Jack

GranTorinoDSA 2:49pm

Shocked he lasted as long as he did

Twitter Finally Blocks Attempt To Disenfranchise Voters

The company initially told a user the tweets did not violate company rules. After this story's publication, Twitter deleted the offending tweets. "Not sure how this slipped past us, but now it's fixed," Twitter CEO Jack Dorsey told BuzzFeed News.
