INDICTMENT

THE GRAND JURY CHARGES:

At times relevant to this Indictment:

COUNT ONE

BACKGROUND

1. [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a "Bentley," [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a "MAKSIM RUDENSKY," a/k/a "Buza," [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH TSAREV, a/k/a "Mango," [4] ANDREY YURYEVICH ZHUYKOV, a/k/a "ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV," a/k/a "Defender," and other persons known and unknown to the grand jury, conspired to attack businesses, nonprofits, and governments in the United States and around the world using malicious software known as “Conti,” a type of ransomware.

2. In furtherance of the scheme, the conspirators hacked into victims’ computer networks and copied the victims’ data to the conspirators’ own computers. The conspirators then encrypted the victims’ data, which prevented the victims from accessing their own files. The conspirators typically then demanded a ransom to restore the victims’ access to their files and to prevent the conspirators from publicly disclosing the hack and releasing the victims’ stolen data to the internet.

3. Different conspirators had different roles in the conspiracy, including: (1) developing Conti ransomware; (2) “crypting” Conti ransomware so that it would evade detection by anti-virus programs; (3) managing teams of hackers; (4) gaining initial access to victims’ networks; (5) deploying Conti ransomware on victims’ networks; and (6) negotiating with victims.

4. [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a “Bentley,” [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a “MAKSIM RUDENSKY,” a/k/a “Buza,” [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH TSAREV, a/k/a “Mango,” [4] ANDREY YURYEVICH ZHUYKOV, a/k/a “ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV,” a/k/a “Defender,” and their co-conspirators have accessed without authorization and damaged the computers of more than nine hundred victims worldwide. Victims in approximately forty-seven states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and approximately thirty-one foreign countries reported Conti ransomware attacks. In particular, [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a “Bentley,” [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a “MAKSIM RUDENSKY,” a/k/a “Buza,” [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH TSAREV, a/k/a “Mango,” [4] ANDREY YURYEVICH ZHUYKOV, a/k/a “ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV,” a/k/a “Defender,” and their co-conspirators have attacked:

- a. Victim 1: a government entity located in the Middle District of Tennessee;
- b. Victim 2: a business located in the Middle District of Tennessee; and
- c. Victim 3: a business located in the Middle District of Tennessee.

5. [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a “Bentley,” was a so-called “crypter” who also managed other crypters. In that role, he scanned Conti’s ransomware executable (i.e., a file cause a computer to perform tasks or launch a software program when executed) to determine whether it would be detected by anti-virus programs and, if so, he modified the executable to ensure that it would evade detection. During his tenure in the Conti conspiracy, [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a “Bentley,” used the moniker “bentley,” among others.

6. For example, in or about July 2020, [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a “Bentley,” discussed with another Conti conspirator whether certain antivirus services would detect Conti ransomware. Similarly, in or about February 2022, a different Conti conspirator requested, and [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a “Bentley,” provided, a crypted Conti ransomware executable which was deployed on the network of a business located in New York shortly thereafter.

7. [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a “MAKSIM RUDENSKY,” a/ka “Buza,” was a senior developer who managed other developers within the Conti conspiracy and routinely communicated with other senior Conti conspirators. During his tenure in the Conti conspiracy, [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a “MAKSIM RUDENSKY,” a/ka “Buza,” used the moniker “buza,” among others.

8. For example, in or about September 2020, [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a “MAKSIM RUDENSKY,” a/ka “Buza,” discussed with another senior Conti conspirator the best method to create backdoors (i.e., a way to access computer systems or data in a manner which bypasses normal security mechanisms) for Conti ransomware. In or about September 2020, in response to speculation that he was leaving the conspiracy, [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a “MAKSIM RUDENSKY,” a/ka “Buza,” wrote to a different senior Conti conspirator, “I don’t know where he gets it from. This is my favorite job. I will never leave . . . for the rest of my life.”

9. [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH TSAREV, a/k/a “Mango,” managed other Conti conspirators. During his tenure in the Conti conspiracy, [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH TSAREV, a/k/a “Mango,” used the moniker “mango,” among others.

10. In or about July 2021, [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH TSAREV, a/k/a “Mango,” told another senior Conti conspirator, “Buddy, I want to make money with you and become a rich dude, and most importantly, that the result was visible . . . I’m all for a ruckus, but if I’m going to jail, it should be for something really important and interesting.”

11. [4] ANDREY YURYEVICH ZUYKOV, a/k/a “ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV,” a/k/a “Defender,” was a systems administrator who managed various users of Conti infrastructure, organized and paid for infrastructure and tools, and assisted in problem solving infrastructure-related issues. During his tenure in the Conti conspiracy, [4] ANDREY YURYEVICH ZUYKOV, a/k/a “ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV,” a/k/a “Defender,” used the moniker “defender,” among others.

12. For example, in or about June 2020, [4] ANDREY YURYEVICH ZUYKOV, a/k/a “ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV,” a/k/a “Defender,” mass-messed more than 100 users of Conti infrastructure, directing them to provide him with a back-up communications platform. At several points during 2020 and 2021, [4] ANDREY YURYEVICH ZUYKOV, a/k/a “ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV,” a/k/a “Defender,” directed other Conti conspirators to take steps to maintain the conspiracy's infrastructure and critiqued those who failed to meet his expectations.

RELEVANT TERMS

13. A "network" was a group of two or more computers linked together.

14. A "server" was a type of computer or device on a network that managed network resources and/or provided services for other computers connected to it via a network or the internet. Servers could be located thousands of miles from other computers on the network.

15. "Encryption" was the translation of data into secret code. To access encrypted data, a user needed to have access to a password (known as a "decryption key" or "decrypter") that enabled the user to decrypt it.

16. "Ransomware" was a type of malicious software which infected a computer or network and encrypted some or all of the data stored there. Ransomware users typically demanded that the owner of the encrypted computer or network pay a ransom for a decryption key, often in digital currency.

17. "Cryptocurrencies," such as Bitcoin, were electronically sourced units of value that existed on the internet. Cryptocurrencies were generated and tracked through computer software in a peer-to-peer network, rather than issued from a government or other entity. Users of cryptocurrencies sent units of value to and from "addresses," which were unique strings of numbers and letters that functioned like a public account number. Cryptocurrency transactions were recorded on a publicly available, distributed ledger, often referred to as a "blockchain." Cryptocurrency transactions generally did not disclose information about the participating parties, as transactions usually required only the addresses and the online usernames of the parties.

18. “Tor” was a computer network designed to facilitate anonymous communication over the internet. Typically, user activities on the internet could be attributed to the user via Internet Protocol (“IP”) addresses assigned by an internet service provider. The Tor network routed a user’s communications through a globally distributed network of relay computers or proxies (the “Tor network”), which typically prevented identification of users by IP address.

THE CONSPIRACY

19. Beginning no later than in or about 2020 and continuing thereafter until in or about June 2022, in the Middle District of Tennessee and elsewhere, [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a “Bentley,” [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a “MAKSIM RUDENSKY,” a/k/a “Buza,” [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH TSAREV, a/k/a “Mango,” [4] ANDREY YURYEVICH ZUYKOV, a/k/a “ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV,” a/k/a “Defender,” and others known and unknown to the grand jury, did knowingly and intentionally conspire, confederate, and agree to commit offenses against the United States, that is:

- a. to intentionally access a computer without authorization, and thereby obtain information from a protected computer, and to commit the offense for purposes of private financial gain, in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Sections 1030(a)(2)(C) and (c)(2)(B)(i);
- b. to knowingly cause the transmission of a program, information, code, and command, and as a result of such conduct, intentionally cause damage without authorization to a protected computer, and cause loss to one or more persons during a 1-year period aggregating at least $5,000.00 in value, and cause damage affecting 10 or more protected computers during a 1-year period, in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Sections 1030(a)(5)(A) and 1030(c)(4)(B); and

- c. to, with intent to extort from any person any money or other thing of value, transmit in interstate and foreign commerce any communication containing a demand and request for money and other thing of value in relation to damage to a protected computer, where such damage was caused to facilitate the extortion, in violation of Title 18, United States Code, Sections 1030(a)(7)(C) and 1030(c)(3)(A).

Objects of the Conspiracy

20. The purpose of the conspiracy was for [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a “Bentley,” [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a “MAKSIM RUDENSKY,” a/k/a “Buza,” [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH TSAREV, a/k/a “Mango,” [4] ANDREY YURYEVICH ZUYKOV, a/k/a “ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV,” a/k/a “Defender,” and their co-conspirators to enrich themselves by:

- a. developing Conti ransomware;
- b. identifying vulnerabilities in victims’ networks;
- c. exploiting those vulnerabilities to access victims’ computers without authorization;
- d. stealing victims’ data;
- e. installing and executing Conti ransomware on victims’ computers, resulting in the encryption of the data on those computers;
- f. extorting victims by demanding a cryptocurrency ransom in exchange for:
 - (i) a decryption key for the encrypted data;

- (ii) a promise not to publicize the breach of victims' networks on a Tor website operated by [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a "Bentley," [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a "MAKSIM RUDENSKY," a/k/a "Buza," [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH TSAREV, a/k/a "Mango," [4] ANDREY YURYEVICH ZHUYKOV, a/k/a "ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV," a/k/a "Defender," and their co-conspirators; and
- (iii) a promise not to publicly release victims' stolen data on the same Tor website; and
- g. collecting ransom payments from victims and dividing those payments among [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a "Bentley," [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a "MAKSIM RUDENSKY," a/k/a "Buza," [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH TSAREV, a/k/a "Mango," [4] ANDREY YURYEVICH ZHUYKOV, a/k/a "ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV," a/k/a "Defender," and their co-conspirators.

Manner and Means of the Conspiracy

21. The manner and means used to accomplish the conspiracy's objectives included the following:

- a. [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a "Bentley," [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a "MAKSIM RUDENSKY," a/k/a "Buza," [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH TSAREV, a/k/a "Mango," [4] ANDREY YURYEVICH ZHUYKOV, a/k/a "ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV," a/k/a "Defender," and their co-conspirators developed Conti ransomware no later than in or about 2020. Since that time, [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a “Bentley,” [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a “MAKSIM RUDENSKY,” a/k/a “Buza,” [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH TSAREV, a/k/a “Mango,” [4] ANDREY YURYEVICH ZHUYKOV, a/k/a “ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV,” a/k/a “Defender,” and their co-conspirators have released at least three different versions of the Conti ransomware.

- b. [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a “Bentley,” [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a “MAKSIM RUDENSKY,” a/k/a “Buza,” [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH TSAREV, a/k/a “Mango,” [4] ANDREY YURYEVICH ZHUYKOV, a/k/a “ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV,” a/k/a “Defender,” and their co-conspirators identified potential victims and searched for vulnerabilities in victims’ networks.
- c. After identifying those vulnerabilities, [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a “Bentley,” [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a “MAKSIM RUDENSKY,” a/k/a “Buza,” [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH TSAREV, a/k/a “Mango,” [4] ANDREY YURYEVICH ZHUYKOV, a/k/a “ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV,” a/k/a “Defender,” and their co-conspirators hacked into (i.e., accessed without authorization) the networks of victims.
- d. Once inside victims’ networks, [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a “Bentley,” [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a “MAKSIM RUDENSKY,” a/k/a “Buza,” [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH

TSAREV, a/k/a “Mango,” [4] ANDREY YURYEVIKH ZHUYKOV, a/k/a “ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV,” a/k/a “Defender,” and their co-conspirators sought to obtain persistent remote access to the networks, move laterally (i.e., access other systems within the computer or network), and escalate privileges (i.e., gain greater authority over the computer or network).

- e. After gaining sufficient privileges to the victims’ networks, [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a “Bentley,” [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a “MAKSIM RUDENSKY,” a/k/a “Buza,” [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH TSAREV, a/k/a “Mango,” [4] ANDREY YURYEVIKH ZHUYKOV, a/k/a “ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV,” a/k/a “Defender,” and their co-conspirators stole victim data and deployed Conti ransomware.
- f. As part of the deployment of Conti ransomware, the victims’ files were encrypted and the ransomware left a ransom note in the form of a text file on the victims’ computers. Many versions of the note stated, in part, “if you don’t [know Conti] – just ‘google it.’” The note typically also demanded that the victims access a Tor website address for “further instructions.”
- g. That Tor website directed victims to upload their ransom note, which permitted them to engage in text negotiations with [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a “Bentley,” [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a “MAKSIM RUDENSKY,” a/k/a “Buza,” [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH TSAREV, a/k/a “Mango,” [4] ANDREY

YURYEVICH ZHUYKOV, a/k/a “ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV,” a/k/a “Defender,” and their co-conspirators. Conti co-conspirators who negotiated with victims typically provided victims with a cryptocurrency address for the payment of the demanded ransom.

- h. During part of the conspiracy, if victims did not quickly engage in ransom negotiations, [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a “Bentley,” [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a “MAKSIM RUDENSKY,” a/k/a “Buza,” [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH TSAREV, a/k/a “Mango,” [4] ANDREY YURYEVICH ZHUYKOV, a/k/a “ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV,” a/k/a “Defender,” and their co-conspirators published portions of the victims’ data to a Tor website, and threatened to publish more if the victims did not pay the ransom.
- i. Victims who paid the ransom typically received a decryption key and their stolen files were not further published. [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a “Bentley,” [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a “MAKSIM RUDENSKY,” a/k/a “Buza,” [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH TSAREV, a/k/a “Mango,” [4] ANDREY YURYEVICH ZHUYKOV, a/k/a “ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV,” a/k/a “Defender,” and their co-conspirators typically published the data of victims who did not pay the ransom.

- a. Beginning no later than in or about 2020, [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a “Bentley,” [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a “MAKSIM RUDENSKY,” a/k/a “Buza,” [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH TSAREV, a/k/a “Mango,” [4] ANDREY YURYEVICH ZHUYKOV, a/k/a “ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV,” a/k/a “Defender,” and their co-conspirators developed Conti ransomware.
- b. On or about July 28, 2020, [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a “Bentley,” [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a “MAKSIM RUDENSKY,” a/k/a “Buza,” [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH TSAREV, a/k/a “Mango,” [4] ANDREY YURYEVICH ZHUYKOV, a/k/a “ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV,” a/k/a “Defender,” and their co-conspirators deployed their ransomware on the network of Victim 1, a government entity in the Middle District of Tennessee, and encrypted its network—including its sheriff’s department’s computers—without authorization.
- c. Shortly after the attack on Victim 1, [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a “Bentley,” [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a “MAKSIM RUDENSKY,” a/k/a “Buza,” [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH TSAREV, a/k/a “Mango,” [4] ANDREY YURYEVICH ZHUYKOV, a/k/a “ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV,” a/k/a “Defender,” and their co-conspirators also moved laterally and encrypted the related systems of local emergency medical services and another local police department.

On or about September 9, 2021, [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a “Bentley,” [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a “MAKSIM RUDENSKY,” a/k/a “Buza,” [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH TSAREV, a/k/a “Mango,” [4] ANDREY YURYEVICH ZHUYKOV, a/k/a “ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV,” a/k/a “Defender,” and their co-conspirators deployed their ransomware on the network of Victim 2, a business located in the Middle District of Tennessee, and encrypted its network, without authorization.
- f. [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a “Bentley,” [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a “MAKSIM RUDENSKY,” a/k/a “Buza,” [3]

- g. On Conti’s Tor website, after Victim 2 wrote, “I’ve done everything I can to collect us [sic] much money as possible . . . I’ve been begging everyone for help,” a Conti conspirator responded, “Stop telling tales, you’re a bad negotiator. You have a choice to pay or be published.”
- h. [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a “Bentley,” [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a “MAKSIM RUDENSKY,” a/k/a “Buza,” [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH TSAREV, a/k/a “Mango,” [4] ANDREY YURYEVICH ZHUYKOV, a/k/a “ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV,” a/k/a “Defender,” and their co-conspirators ultimately extorted Victim 2 into paying a ransom of approximately $460,000 in Bitcoin in exchange for a decryption key and to avoid publication of Victim 2’s data.
- i. On or about January 29, 2022, [1] MAKSIM GALOCHKIN, a/k/a “Bentley,” [2] MAKSIM RUDENSKIY, a/k/a “MAKSIM RUDENSKY,” a/k/a “Buza,” [3] MIKHAIL MIKHAILOVICH TSAREV, a/k/a “Mango,” [4] ANDREY YURYEVICH ZHUYKOV, a/k/a “ANDREI YURYIEVICH ZHUIKOV,” a/k/a “Defender,” and their co-conspirators deployed their ransomware on the network of Victim 3, also a business in the Middle District of Tennessee, and encrypted its network, without authorization.
