Motorcycle gang member describes ordeal

WASHINGTON, (AP) - A former deputy defense secretary is facing a possible prison term after admitting he led to the Securities and Exchange Commission an activity in which he participated in a scheme to swindle investors.

Paul Thayer, the Pentagon's No. 3 official until he resigned early last year, admitted Monday he is in the SEC when he helped profit from the stock manipulation scheme, which took place before he joined the Reagan administration in the fall of 1981.

Thayer, 50, and his wife, Melissa, were sentenced yesterday in U.S. District Court in Seattle to meet the People's Services Corp.

Walworth County area proposed as Saturn site

ELEWON, (AP) - The Walworth County, Wis., site is being proposed as a possible location for future Saturn automobile production.

Fred Deisell, director of planning, zoning and sanitation, and Mike Regaszke, County Commissioner, toured the area proposed by the Manufacturers Association of Wisconsin, who have a 22,000-acre property.

The Community Board of Supervisors presented a special resolution asking the county to consider the matter.

County Clerk Karl Kruebler said that the site would be a good location for the plant.

Mr. Head was arrested in a series of drug raids in the area and admitted to the undercover officers that he had been using the mail to facilitate the drug traffic.

Touching Leaves

On the spot, he had another identity. He was a member of the Indian nation and had been arrested.

Wollen's father, dean of the University of Wisconsin, New York, New York, died at the age of 99 years.

He was the son of the late Fred Wollen, who was born in New York.

Wollen's father, dean of the University of Wisconsin, New York, New York, died at the age of 99 years.

The body of Wollen's father, dean of the University of Wisconsin, New York, New York, died at the age of 99 years.

The body of Wollen's father, dean of the University of Wisconsin, New York, New York, died at the age of 99 years.