I'm sitting here on a fucking island by myself. Trying to beat the devil out of me. And I'm doing it alone no matter how many people say my being alone is my fault I'm still fucking alone. And the realization that I've built a life that makes it impossible for others to be with me is a sickening weight that sinks in with every day I don't completely anesthetize myself. I can be sober but I'll always be an addict. And the addict is as much me as the me you love to hate.
