Jason,

What happened? And please don't lie to me and say that you just snapped. People don't wake up one day and decide to hurt other people. Especially people that have done nothing to them. You seem to have a chip on your shoulder and I'm not sure why. Jason we all had the same start in life and as we grew we made different choices. So what happened?

Jasmine told me that someone abused you sexually when you were a child and was first placed in foster care. Is that true? Why didn't you ever say anything? We could have done something about it. The state was suppose to protect you. Did you ever tell anyone? We could have sued them and got you to kind of help you would have needed. I'm so sorry that happened to you and it makes me very mad and pissed off. I really wish you would have told me.

The things that are coming out in the news is crazy. What made you hurt these people? You set 2 people on fire! What made you do that? That's horrible. The guy said you tied him + his girlfriend up and raped his girlfriend multiple times and you enjoyed that. Who is this person?

That person sounds like a monster. I am afraid of that person. I think I still picture you as a kid and I can't picture you as the person you've become. What the fuck happened???

The police was tracking you on the phone that you took from the guy you assaulted. You lied to me and said the phone was hacked and showing zero's and one's. They were using track my iPhone. Why lie about something so simple?

The entire time you were in jail previously you said you would come home, get a job, work out and go back home.

what happened to those plans? You were out for almost 10 months.

Was it too much for you? Why fuck up your second chance? You had a job, you had a place to live, what was the issue? You should have sought out some type of Therapy as soon as you were released.

I've never been to jail but I can imagine how disorienting it can be to just be thrown back into the real world after being in jail for

My heart shattered hearing and seeing you on the news. Do you know how crazy that was? People asking was that my brother and asking me questions that I did not have answers to. I do not like being thrown into a bunch of bullshit drama and that's why I choose to live the way I do. I only wish you made better choices and that poor woman, Pava. Why Jason? You did not even know her. She was living her life and thriving, you took that away from her for no reason. She was only 26 years old. Jason you are a handsome guy and I'm sure you've had your choice of women so why do you hurt them? Women should be protected not hunted and hurt. I have two daughters and would completely fall apart if something happened to them. Janiya is growing and has her own views and opinions so what she didn't give you a hug. She doesn't really know you. When you were arrested she was 3 years old, she forgot about you. That's normal, you should have given her time and not let that ruin your life. Was that what started your downfall? My brother killed someone and set 2 people on fire. That's a horrible thing to say.

I know you said you didn't want anyone to write you or phone calls, etc so I won't write

You again. I'm sad for you. My heart breaks for you. You are now in a situation where you are not even a human being anymore, you're a number. Human beings shouldn't live like that. You'll die in there, never seeing your family or friends growing up, never getting to experience the good things life has to offer. Why Jason? What happened? What changed? And stop lying, it does you no good, it's worthless. I hope you learn that lesson.
