UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF NEW YORK

JOHN ANTHONY WHITE p/k/a JACK WHITE and MEGAN MARTHA WHITE p/k/a MEG WHITE, individually and collectively p/k/a the WHITE STRIPES,

Plaintiffs,

COMPLAINT

Jury Trial Demanded

DONALD JOHN TRUMP, DONALD J. TRUMP FOR PRESIDENT 2024, INC., and MARGO MCATEE MARTIN, Defendants.

John Anthony White p/k/a Jack White ("Jack White") and Megan Martha White p/k/a Meg White ("Meg White), individually and collectively p/k/a the White Stripes (collectively, "Plaintiffs"), by their attorneys, Manatt, Phelps & Phillips, LLP, allege the following in support of their claims and causes of action against Donald John Trump ("Defendant Trump"), Donald J. Trump for President 2024, Inc. (the "Campaign"), and Margo Mcatee Martin (collectively, "Defendants").

INTRODUCTION

- 1. This lawsuit seeks redress for a presidential candidate's flagrant misappropriation of the musical composition and sound recording Seven Nation Army (collectively, the "7NA Works") by the White Stripes, which are among the most well-known and influential musical works of all time.
- 2. Without Plaintiffs' knowledge or consent, Defendant Trump and the other Defendants prepared and published on X f/k/a Twitter, Instagram, and, possibly, other social media platforms videos of Defendant Trump boarding an aircraft with the tag line "President @realDonaldTrump departs for Michigan and Wisconsin!" and a soundtrack containing nothing more than the 7NA Works' highly-distinctive and immediately recognizable introductory riff (the "Infringing Trump Videos").

- 3. The Infringing Trump Videos incorporate the 7NA Works, on information and belief, to burnish Defendant Trump's public image, and generate financial and other support for his campaign and candidacy on the backs of Plaintiffs, whose permission and endorsement he neither sought nor obtained in violation of their rights under federal copyright law.
- 4. As a self-professed sophisticated and successful businessman with decades-long experience in the entertainment industry (not to mention being on the receiving end of numerous copyright claims by musical artists whose work he used without permission), Defendant Trump and the other Defendants, his agents, knew or should have known that the use of the 7NA Works in the Infringing Trump Videos was unauthorized, and, therefore, violated Plaintiffs' rights under the Copyright Act.
- 5. Defendant Trump and the other Defendants, his agents, also knew or should have known the use was unauthorized and a violation of Plaintiffs' rights under the Copyright Act because Plaintiffs publicly denounced on various social media platforms in 2016 the unauthorized use of the 7NA Works in a pro-Trump campaign video for his first presidential run, stating in no uncertain terms that they were "disgusted by that association."
- 6. The new association with Defendant Trump that Defendants have foisted upon Plaintiffs through the Infringing Trump Videos is even more offensive to Plaintiffs because Plaintiffs vehemently oppose the policies adopted and actions taken by Defendant Trump when he was President and those he has proposed for the second term he seeks.

- 7. Adding insult to injury, Defendants chose to ignore and not respond to Plaintiffs' pre-litigation efforts to resolve the matters at issue in this action, leaving Plaintiffs with no choice but to seek judicial recourse in order to hold Defendants accountable.
- 8. Defendants' actions belie their attempts to portray Defendant Trump as a champion of rights for musical artists. To the contrary, as demonstrated by his and the other Defendants' actions, Defendant Trump has indiscriminately trampled on Plaintiffs' legal rights.
- 9. Defendants are liable to Plaintiffs for significant monetary damages, attorney's fees, and costs.

FACTUAL BACKGROUND

A. The 7NA Works

- 22. Plaintiffs wrote and recorded the 7NA Works in 2003, and released them on the White Stripes iconic fourth studio album, Elephant, winner of that year's Grammy for Best Alternative Music Album.
- 23. The riff in the introduction and elsewhere in the 7NA Works is one of the most memorable and widely recognized pieces of modern-day music.
- 24. Plaintiffs take a great deal of care in deciding whether, to whom, and on what terms they will license third-party uses of their music, including, especially, the 7NA Works. Defendants did not seek a license from Plaintiffs to use the 7NA Works, but, even if they had, Plaintiffs would not have given them one because Plaintiffs do not endorse, and do not want to be associated with Defendants in any manner. Defendants knew or should have known this based on Plaintiffs' very public statements in 2016 (noted above) making as much abundantly clear.
- 25. In total disregard of these considerations and Plaintiffs' rights under federal law, Defendants decided that they would rather ask for forgiveness than seek permission, and incorporated the famous riff from the 7NA Works in the Infringing Trump Videos without asking for authorization to do so. When Plaintiffs wrote Defendants the week before last about their wrongdoing, rather than ask for forgiveness, Defendants chose not to respond at all, ignoring Plaintiffs altogether.

B. The Infringing Trump Videos

- 26. On or around August 29, 2024, Defendants prepared and published on X, Instagram and, possibly, other social platforms one or more videos comprised of footage of Defendant Trump boarding an aircraft for campaign stops in Michigan and Wisconsin with the riff from the 7NA Works playing for the duration of the video with no other sound whatsoever. Defendants impermissibly synchronized the riff from the 7NA Works with that footage in the Infringing Trump Videos, on information and belief, for the purpose of, among other things, (i) enhancing Defendant Trump's public image; (ii) infusing energy into and excitement around Defendant Trump's campaign and his upcoming visits to Michigan and Wisconsin; and (iii) attracting engagement, financial, and other support from current and prospective supporters.
- 27. On information and belief, the Infringing Trump Videos accomplished Defendants' goals, resulting in at least 65,000 views and 700 reposts in a matter of just a few hours after first appearing on X. Through discovery, Plaintiffs will determine the amount of financial contributions that are attributable to the Infringing Trump Videos.
- 28. By preparing and publishing the Infringing Trump Videos without authorization, Defendants infringed several of Plaintiffs' exclusive rights under the Copyright Act, including their exclusive rights to (i) prepare derivative works based on each of the 7NA Works; (ii) mechanically reproduce the 7NA Composition and otherwise reproduce the 7NA Works; (iii) publicly perform the 7NA Composition; and (iv) publicly perform the 7NA Recording by means of digital audio transmission. For the reasons set forth above, Defendants' infringement is willful.
