121. Slavery Ancient and Modern—How and why slave labor becomes important in some societies; the relationships between slavery, serfdom, and free labor; the violent domination of slaves; slave resistance and rebellions; and the collapse of servile economies. Emphasis is on comparative approaches; case studies taken from ancient Greece and Rome and modern Africa and America.

3-4 units, not given 1997-98

CLASSICS, ART/ARCHAEOLOGY

Courses in Classical Art and Archaeology have department prefix 372.

20. Introduction to Classical Archaeology—Hands-on approach to Minoan and Mycenaean, Greek, Etruscan, Roman, and related Mediterranean cultures, introducing cross-disciplinary archaeology by its material remains, with emphasis on aesthetic and engineering questions. Objects and forms in architecture and stone media, ceramics and glass, metals in jewelry, weapons, tools and coins, frescoes and wall-paintings, and ancient technology through workshops and labs with material objects and slide lectures. Field sessions on archaeological methods and techniques of ancient goldworking, stoneworking, and reconstruction of archaeological sites by stratigraphy, seriation and topography, and conditions of material survival.

GRADUATE SEMINARS

Graduate seminars vary each year. The following are given this year.

ANCIENT HISTORY (371)

388A.B. Roman Social History—Introduces the subject-matter problems and methods of Roman historians. The material of the individual presentations which each student of the group makes (orally and written) is chosen in light of the individual's interests and previous experience in the field. Some focus is on literary texts which form part of the Stanford reading list. Some may work on epigraphic or juristic sources. Emphasis is on 70 B.C.-A.D. 200. Continues for 5 weeks of Spring Quarter.

4-5 units, Win (Treggiari)
2-3 units, Spr (Treggiari)

GREEK (373)

337. Odyssey—Readings from the Odyssey and from contemporary Odyssey criticism, including narratology and feminist theory. Identifies Odyssean poetics and accounts of performance, and interprets the Odyssey's perspective on human agency and relations between mortals and gods. The relationships constructed in the poem between language and gender, poetry, and other types of storytelling, and narrative and nostos "return."

4-5 units, Aut (Mackie)

320A,B. Religion and Society in Classical Greece—The role of religion in Greek society and the nature of the evidence (literary, epigraphic, and archaeological). Focuses on religious practice and thought in 4th-century Athens. Ends after five weeks of Winter Quarter.

4-5 units, Aut (Jameson)
2-3 units, Win (Jameson)

442. Horaces' Literary Satires and Epistles—
The Ars Poetica and its background in Hellenistic literary theories.

4-5 units, Aut (Wigodsky)

LATIN (375)

315. Ovid's Metamorphoses—Seminar on Ovid's Metamorphoses, focusing on the conception of the body and the self against the poem's cultural and literary background. Focus is the poem's representation of violence, suffering, gender, art, and the artist. The influence of the gladiatorial show: Ovid's "baroque" or "counter-classical" aesthetic; Ovid's relation to his literary and cultural tradition, especially Virgil, Lucretius, elegy, and Hellenistic poetry.

4-5 units, Win (Segal)

335. Novel
4-5 units, Spr (Conte)

COMMUNICATION

Emeriti: (Professors) Elie Abel, Richard A. Brody, Lyle M. Nelson; (Professors—Teaching) Ronald Alexander, Marion Lewenstein

Chair: Steven H. Chaffee

Director, Institute for Communication Research: Byron B. Reeves
Director, John S. Knight Fellowships for Professional Journalists: James V. Risser

Director, Film and Video: Kristine Samuelson

Director, Journalism: James V. Risser

Director, Media Studies: Laura Leets

Professors: Henry S. Breitrose, Steven H. Chafee, Jan Krawitz, Byron B. Reeves, Donald F. Roberts (on leave 1997-98), Kristine Samuelson

Associate Professors: Theodore L. Glasser, Clifford I. Nass

Assistant Professors: Francois Bar, Laura Leets

Professor (Teaching): James V. Risser

Consulting Professor: Jon Else

The Department of Communication engages in research in communication and offers curricula leading to the A.B., A.M., and Ph.D. degrees. The A.M. degree prepares students for research on mass media or for careers in journalism or documentary film and video. The Ph.D. degree leads to careers in teaching and research-related specialties.

The Institute for Communication Research offers research experience primarily to advanced Ph.D. students.

The John S. Knight Fellowship Program brings promising mid-career professional journalists to the University to study for nine months in a non-degree program. Twelve U.S. journalists are joined by six International Fellows sponsored by Reuters Foundation, the Knight Foundation, and others.

ADMISSION

Prospective Undergraduate Students—Write to the University’s Office of Undergraduate Admissions, Stanford University, Stanford, California 94305.

Prospective Graduate Students—Write to Graduate Admissions, the Registrar’s Office, Stanford University, Stanford, CA 94305-3005.

The department requires that applicants for graduate admission submit verbal and quantitative scores from the Graduate Record Examination (GRE). Admission to each graduate degree program is competitive based on the pool of applicants each year rather than on standard criteria that can be stated in advance.

UNDERGRADUATE PROGRAMS

BACHELOR OF ARTS

The undergraduate curriculum is intended for liberal arts students who wish to develop a fundamental understanding of communication in society, drawing on the perspective of the social sciences. Undergraduate students majoring or minoring in communication are expected to become acquainted with the fundamental concerns, theoretical approaches, and methods of the field, and to acquire advanced knowledge in one or more of the subareas of communication institutions, processes, and effects.

While the department does not attempt to provide comprehensive practical training at the undergraduate level, the curriculum provides opportunities for professional practice including courses in print and broadcast journalism, visual communication (film/video), and internships.

The department is committed to providing students with the analytical and critical skills that are necessary for future success, be it in graduate programs, professional schools, or immediate career entry.

The major is structured to provide several levels of study: a core curriculum, intended to expose students to a broad-based understanding of communication theory and research, and a number of intermediate-level options and electives. Majors also have the opportunity to do advanced research in the form of senior projects and honors theses.

All undergraduate majors are required to complete a set of core Communication courses which include 1, Introduction to Communication (5 units); 106, Communication Research Methods (4 units); and 108, Communication Process and Effects (4 units).

Students must also complete an introductory course in Statistics (typically Psychology 10 or Statistics 60) in preparation for courses in methodology and advanced courses in communication processes and effects. We recommend that this be done as soon as possible so as not to prevent registration in a course requiring statistical understanding.

In addition to the core courses and the statistics requirement, undergraduate majors and minors select courses from the areas described below. Many of the courses require core courses as prerequisites.

Area I: Communication Processes and Effects—Area I emphasizes ways in which communication scholars conduct research in, and consider the issues of, human communication. These studies aim to provide expert guidance for social policy makers and media professionals. A minimum of three courses must be taken from Communication 137, 155, 157, 160, 166, 169, 170, 172, 173.

Area II: Communication Systems/Institutions—Area II considers the roles and interaction of institutions such as broadcasting, film, journalism, constitutional law, and business within communication and mass communication contexts. A minimum of two courses must be taken from Communication 110, 116, 122A,B, 125, 131, 139, 140, 141A,B, 142, 176, 178.
Area III: Professional Practices—Area III provides experiential opportunities with courses in writing, reporting, broadcasting, and film and video. However, the undergraduate major and minor are not intended as narrow vocational preparation for a professional career in the media. Rather, the curriculum is designed to provide basic knowledge that can be effectively adapted and applied to a professional environment. A minimum of two courses must be taken from Communication 104, 114, 136, 150, 175, 177, 180.

To be recommended for the A.B. degree in Communication, the student must complete at least 50 units (approximately thirteen courses) in the department. No more than 12 units of transfer credit or Summer Session, and no more than 4 units of independent study credit, may be applied to meet department requirements. Communication majors and minors must receive a letter grade for all communication courses unless they are offered only for Satisfactory/No Credit (S/NC).

Students interested in declaring the major or minor should see the peer advisers in the library of the first floor of Building 120, or the Student Services Administrator in room 434.

MINORS
The minor in Communication consists of three introductory courses; Communication courses which include 1, Introduction to Communication (5 units); 106, Communication Research Methods (4 units); and 108, Communication Process and Effects (4 units), successful completion of which is prerequisite for most additional course work in the minor.

In addition to core courses, the minor requires a minimum of four intermediate-level elective courses (minimum of 28 units) in the department. The department also requires completion of one new course in an introductory Statistics course (Statistics 60, 70, or Psychology 10), prior to registration in Communication 106, Communication Research Methods. It is strongly recommended that the course in statistics be taken as early as possible, preferably in the Autumn Quarter of the junior year.

The minor is structured to provide a foundation for advanced course work in communication through a broad-based understanding of communication theory and research.

Students interested in declaring a minor must do so no later than registration in the Autumn Quarter of the junior year. Core courses are offered only once annually, and they constitute a sequence. Students should consult the department’s Student Services Administrator, room 434, Building 120.

Prerequisite: Introductory Statistics Course (for example, Psychology 10)
Core Courses: Communication 1, 106, 108

Area I, Communication Processes and Effects, a minimum of one course from Communication 137, 155, 157, 160, 166, 169, 170, 172, 173

Area II, Communication Systems and Institutions
A minimum of two courses from Communication 110, 116, 122A, B, 125, 131, 139, 140, 141A, B, 142, 176, 178

Some courses are not given every year. Refer to the course listing and the Time Schedule each quarter for details.

HONORS PROGRAM
The honors program provides undergraduates the opportunity to undertake a significant program of research in an individual professor/student mentoring relationship. The aim is to guide students through the process of research, analysis, drafting, rethinking, and redrafting, which is essential to excellence in scholarship. Working one-on-one with a faculty adviser, seniors may earn between 5 and 15 Communication units, culminating in an honors thesis. In order to be eligible for the honors program, interested majors must have: (1) successfully completed both a research methods and statistics course, (2) selected an adviser, and (3) submitted an application to the department by the end of their junior year. Applications may be picked up outside of room 110 in Building 120.

A final copy of the honors thesis must be read and approved by the adviser and submitted to the department by the eighth week of the Spring Quarter (May 22). It becomes part of a permanent record held by the department. Honors work may be used to fulfill communication elective credit but must be completed and a letter grade submitted prior to graduation. A student failing to fulfill all honors requirements may still receive independent study credit for work completed and it may be applied toward fulfilling major requirements.

The designation “graduation with honors” is awarded by the Department of Communication to those graduating seniors who, in addition to having completed all requirements for the Communication major:
1. Complete an honors thesis
2. Maintain a distinguished grade average in all communication course work
3. Are recommended for distinction by the Communication faculty

COTERMINAL PROGRAM
The Department of Communication offers students who are completing an A.B. in another department a coterminal program with an A.M. emphasis in Media Studies; applications can be picked up at Degree Progress, the Registrar’s Office, room 131, Old Union.

Application for coterminal study must be submitted at least four quarters in advance of the expected master’s degree conferral date. Stanford undergraduates may apply as early as the eighth quarter (or upon completion of 105 units) but no later than the eleventh quarter of undergraduate study. Requirements include: Application for Admission to Coterminal Master’s Program, preliminary program proposal, statement of purpose, three letters of recommendation from Stanford professors, and a current Stanford transcript. GRE scores are required; a request must be submitted to Graduate Admissions, Registrar’s Office. Coterminal applications are submitted directly to the department. Review procedures and criteria are determined by the Graduate Admissions Committee.

GRADUATE PROGRAMS
MASTER OF ARTS

The department awards terminal A.M. degrees in three fields: Documentary Film and Video Production; Journalism; and Media Studies. Applicants for each program, and for doctoral work, are evaluated for admission on different criteria. (Students who complete an A.M. degree and who desire entry into the Ph.D. program must file a new application for admission and are considered alongside all other doctoral applicants.) A student may complete more than one A.M. degree in the department, but course work applied to the requirements for one A.M. degree may not be applied to a second. All work to fulfill graduate degree requirements must be in courses numbered 100 or above.

DOCUMENTARY FILM AND VIDEO

The graduate program in documentary film and video is a master’s program designed to train students in the conceptual and craft skills for the production of nonfiction film and video.

RESIDENCY

The program requires continuous enrollment for a period of two academic years, with a completion date of June in the second year.

Students proceed through the program as a cohort. The degree requires three full terms of registration in the first year. In the second year, fulltime registration is required in the Autumn Quarter, with half-time registration the remaining two quarters. Full-time registration consists of a minimum of 11 units; half-time registration consists of 9 units. The residency requirement is calculated on the basis of terms of registration and not on the basis of total number of units earned. The program does not allow for leaves of absence.

CURRICULUM

The curriculum is intended to teach an array of technical and conceptual skills as well as relevant historical and theoretical knowledge.

First-Year Curriculum

Autumn Quarter

- 202A. Graduate Colloquium in Film and Television
- 222A. Documentary Film
- 223A. Documentary Film/Video Directing I
- 224A. Film Production I

Winter Quarter

- 202B. Graduate Colloquium in Film and Television
- 223B. Documentary Film/Video Directing II
- 224B. Film Production II
- Elective (3-4 units)

Spring Quarter

- 202C. Graduate Colloquium in Film and Television
- 223C. Documentary Film/Video Directing III
- 224C. Film Production III
- Elective (3-4 units)

Second-Year Curriculum

Autumn Quarter

- 202A. Graduate Colloquium in Film and Television
- 222B. Documentary Film
- 292A. Documentary Film/Video A.M. Project Seminar I

Winter Quarter

- 202B. Graduate Colloquium in Film and Television
- 292B. Documentary Film/Video A.M. Project Seminar II

Spring Quarter

- 202C. Graduate Colloquium in Film and Television
- 292C. Documentary Film/Video A.M. Project Seminar III

ELECTIVES

Up to three electives may be from Department of Communication courses, including the required two-course sequence of documentary history classes taken in the Autumn Quarter of the first and second year. Some elective courses are not offered every year, and there may be time conflicts with core courses. Students should consult the University Time Schedule each quarter for current information.

Each term, courses that are relevant to the curriculum may be offered by other departments at Stanford. We require that at least one elective be taken outside the department. A list of approved electives, both within and outside the department, is provided each quarter. Other electives relevant to the subject matter of the A.M. project may be substituted, with permission of your adviser.

EQUIPMENT AND SUPPLIES

The department maintains film and video production facilities for teaching and research purposes. However, the costs of supplies and processing services are the responsibility of the students.

In the first year, students purchase a “course kit” at the beginning of each quarter which includes sufficient materials to complete the assignments. Once students have depleted the supplies in the course kit, subsequent purchases are made at outside vendors. The expense for normal film processing is included in the course kit fee during the Autumn and Winter Quarters, but each student sets up an account directly with a film lab.
during the Spring Quarter. In the second year, students are responsible for purchasing all materials and setting up their own accounts for necessary services during the production of the A.M. project. Students are given a partial list of vendors, on-line facilities, and motion picture laboratories.

Material costs are approximately $1,800 for the first year of residence. In the second year, costs vary depending on subject, format/length and logistics, but $5,000 is typically the minimum average cost of an A.M. project.

A.M. PROJECT

In the second year of the program, each student produces an A.M. project, which consists of a 15-20 minute film or video documentary. In order for students to have sufficient time to complete their own A.M. projects and gain the experience of assisting others, shooting must begin prior to Thanksgiving break, and shooting days are limited to a total of ten.

Students own their own work, but the department reserves the right to use student projects for non-profit University-related purposes.

In order to graduate, students must deposit with the faculty adviser a Beta SP copy of their film or video project and a revised final budget that reflects the projected and actual cost of their production. In the case of film, the Beta SP copy must be made once the film is printed and in the case of video, the Beta SP copy must be made from the on-line master. Students must contact the department’s Student Services Administrator during the quarter in which they expect to graduate in order to determine what needs to be done to file for graduation. Students working in film may not have completed their final printing work prior to the end of the Spring Quarter. It is therefore possible for a student to officially graduate in the Summer Quarter immediately following their enrollment in Communication 292C, although they will not have access to facilities during this period. No extensions or leaves of absence are granted.

All A.M. projects must be completed by the end of the Spring Quarter of the second year. In the case of video, the student must have completed on-line editing, and in the case of film, the student must have completed the final sound mix. The A.M. projects are screened for the public during Commencement weekend.

JOURNALISM

The graduate program in Journalism is designed for students with an interest in the news-editorial area of journalism. Applicants are not required to have previous education or experience in journalism.

The master’s degree requires a minimum of 47 units, including 4 units dedicated to a master’s project. All courses must be selected in consultation with (and approved in writing by) an academic adviser. Amendments to, or deviations from, the approved Program Proposal must be approved in writing by an adviser. To remain in good standing, students must maintain a grade point average (GPA) of ‘B.’ Students who do not remain in good standing may not be able to complete the program. The students share a core of communication courses as follows:

- 204. Writing and Reporting the News
- 207. Editing the News
- 216. Media Law
- 217. Journalism and the Internet
- 225. Perspectives on American Journalism
- 275. Reporting of Public Affairs
- 290. A.M. Project
- 291. Graduate Journalism Seminar

Students are required to take a minimum of four additional courses, two in specialized writing and two in communication. The two specialized writing courses must be chosen from the following:

- 236. Broadcast Journalism
- 250. Magazine Writing
- 277A. Opinion Writing
- 277C. Social Issues Reporting
- 277. Specialized Workshop (to be announced)

Two communication courses must be chosen from the following:

- 201. Film Aesthetics
- 206. Communication Research Methods
- 208. Communication Process and Effects
- 222A. Documentary Film
- 231. Media Ethics and Responsibility
- 233. Communication and Culture
- 237. The National Information Infrastructure
- 241. History of Film
- 255. Intercultural Communication
- 266. Communication Policy in Comparative Perspectives
- 269. Communication, Technology, and Society
- 272. Psychological Processing of Media
- 283. Media Economics

Two additional courses from within or outside the department are selected in consultation with an academic adviser. In addition to course work, the journalism program requires satisfactory completion of a master’s project.

MEDIA STUDIES

The Media Studies master’s program provides a broad introduction to scholarly literature in mass communication. This one-year program is designed primarily for students without prior academic work in communication, experienced media professionals who wish academic preparation for teaching, or coterminal students at Stanford.

Media Studies students must complete 42 units in Communication and related areas in the social sciences and humanities, maintaining high academic standing throughout. In consultation with professors, students must also complete extensive projects in two of the required communication courses listed below.

Required core courses:
206. Communication Research Methods
208. Communication Process and Effects
Stat. 160. Introduction to Statistical Methods

A minimum of six additional courses must be taken in the department from:
201. Film Aesthetics
216. Media Law
217. Journalism and the Internet
225. Perspectives on American Journalism
231. Media Ethics and Responsibility
233. Communication and Culture
236. Broadcast Journalism
237. The National Information Infrastructure
241. History of Film
255. Interethnic Communication
260. Political Communication
266. Communication Policy in Comparative Perspectives
269. Computers and Interfaces: Psychological and Social Issues
272. Psychological Processing of Media
283. Media Economics
318. Doctoral Research Methods II
319. Doctoral Research Methods III

Not all of these courses are offered every year. Additional courses are selected in consultation with an academic adviser. A course in statistical methods is strongly recommended.

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY

The department offers the Ph.D. in Communication Theory and Research. First-year students are required to complete introductory courses in communication theory and research, research methods, and statistics. These core courses are grounded in the social science literature emphasizing how people respond to communication and media and how media institutions function. In addition, Ph.D. students must complete a minimum of three literature survey courses and three advanced seminars in communication and related departments. Each student builds a research specialty relating communication to current faculty interests in such areas as information processing, ethnic identity, law, human-computer interactions, politics and voting, ethics, and information technology. Regardless of the area of specialization, the Ph.D. program is designed primarily for students interested in teaching and research careers or policy formation positions.

The Ph.D. program encompasses four years of graduate study (subsequent to completion of the A.B. degree) during which, in addition to fulfilling University residency requirements, Ph.D. candidates are required to:

1. Complete all departmental course requirements with above average graduate grades, normally defined as a minimum grade point average (GPA) of 3.5. Currently these courses include Communication 206, 208, 311, 317, 318, 319, and a sequence in statistics (for example Statistics 160) that includes multiple regression and complex analysis of variables.
2. Pass the general qualifying examinations by the end of the second academic year of study and pass a specialized area examination by the end of the third academic year of study.
3. Demonstrate proficiency in tools required in the area of research specialization. Chosen with the advice of the faculty, such tools may include advanced statistical methods, computer programming, a foreign language, or other technical skills.
4. Complete two predissertation research projects.
5. Teach or assist in teaching at least two courses, including Communication 1.
6. Complete a dissertation satisfactory to an advisory committee of three or more faculty members.
7. Pass the University oral examination, which is a defense of the dissertation.

Because the multifaceted nature of the department makes it possible for the Ph.D. student to emphasize several areas of communication study, there tend to be several “typical” programs of course work followed by students, depending on their specialties. Variation in course programs worth occurs after the first year of graduate study; the first year is devoted primarily to the “core” courses required of all doctoral students. In addition, students must complete other advanced Communication theory and research courses preparatory to their particular specializations. Specification of these courses depends on (1) individual student needs to prepare for preliminary and area examination, and (2) the requirements of the particular area of emphasis chosen by the student.

Ph.D. candidacy is valid for five years. Extensions of candidacy are rarely granted and require reexamination.

Ph.D. MINOR

Candidates for the Ph.D. degree in other departments who elect a minor in Communication are required to complete a minimum of 20 units of graduate courses in the Department of Communication, including a total of three theory or research methods courses, and are examined by a representative of the department. The particular communication theory and methods courses are determined by a department adviser in consultation with the individual student.
THE INSTITUTE FOR COMMUNICATION RESEARCH

The Institute is an office of project research for the faculty of the Department of Communication and operates under grants to faculty from foundations, communication media, and other agencies. Research assistantships are often available to qualified Ph.D. students in communication.

COURSES

(WIM) indicates that the course meets the Writing in the Major requirements.

PRIMARILY FOR UNDERGRADUATES

1. Mass Communication and Society: Media Technologies, People, and Society—Open to non-majors. Fundamental concepts and contexts of communication introduced. A topics-structured orientation emphasizing the field and the scholarly endeavors represented in the department. Lectures plus one-hour weekly discussion sections. GER:3b (DR:9)
   4 units, Aut (Nass, Reeves)

101. Film Aesthetics—(Graduate students register for 201.) Theoretical, historical examination of the nature of the film medium. Emphasis is on the problems of aesthetics and communication from the viewpoints of practitioner, critic, and audience.
   4 units, Spr (Breitrose)

104. Reporting and Writing the News—Reporting and writing, emphasizing various forms of journalism: news, interpretation, features, opinion. Detailed criticism of writing. Prerequisite: typing speed of 35 wpm. (WIM)
   4 units, Aut, Win, Spr, Sum (Staff)

106. Communication Research Methods—(Graduate students register for 206.) Conceptual and practical concerns underlying commonly used quantitative approaches (experimental, survey, content analysis, and field research) in communication. Students become acquainted with the techniques of research so they may become intelligent consumers and practitioners of research. Lectures plus one-hour weekly discussion sections. GER:3b (DR:9)
   4 units, Aut (Leets)

108. Communication Process and Effects—(Graduate students register for 208.) Discussion of the process of communication theory construction, including a survey of social science paradigms and major theories of communication. Lectures plus one-hour weekly discussion sections. GER:3b (DR:9)
   4 units, Aut (Staff)

110. Communication and Law—(Graduate students register for 210.) The interactions among freedom of expression, communication, and American law. Issues such as pornography and campus speech codes introduce the application of communication research to law and policy formation. Students consider assumptions about communication in law and the effects of law and communication on each other.
   4 units (Staff) not given 1997-98

114. Introduction to the Moving Image—For junior or senior Communication majors only. Students acquire the basic practical and conceptual skills to write, shoot, direct, and edit. Prerequisites: 1, consent of instructor.
   5 units, Aut (Krawitz)
   Spr (Samuelson)

116. Media Law—(Graduate students register for 216.) Law and government regulation impacting on journalists. Topics: libel, privacy, news gathering, protection of sources, fair trial and free press, theories of the First Amendment, broadcast regulation, etc.
   5 units, Win (Staff)

122A. Documentary Film—(Graduate students register for 222A.) Analysis of the techniques and strategies of films designed to effect attitudinal and behavioral change. Prerequisite: consent of instructor.
   4 unit, Aut (Breitrose)

122B. Documentary Film—(Graduate students register for 222B.) Issues in contemporary documentary film/video including objectivity/subjectivity, ethics, censorship, representation, reflexivity, responsibility to the audience and authorial voice. Viewing and analysis of films has parallel focus on form and content. Prerequisite: consent of instructor.
   4 units (Krawitz) alternate years, given 1998-99

125. Perspectives on American Journalism—(Graduate students register for 225.) Survey of issues, ideas, and concepts in the development of American journalism, emphasizing the role of the press in society, meaning and nature of news, and professional norms that influence conduct in and outside of the newsroom. Prerequisite: 1 or junior standing. GER:3b (DR:9)
   4 units, Aut (Glasser)

131. Media Ethics and Responsibility—(Graduate students register for 231.) The development of professionalism among American journalists, emphasizing the emergence of objectivity as a professional and epistemological norm. An applied ethics course where questions of power, freedom, and truth autonomy are treated normatively so as to foster critical thinking about the origins and implications of commonly accepted standards of responsible journalism.
   4 units, Spr (Glasser)
133. Communication and Culture—(Graduate students register for 233.) The relationship between communication and culture, emphasizing the mass media and their symbolic import. GER:3b (DR:9) 4 units, Win (Glasser)

136. Broadcast Journalism—(Graduate students register for 236.) Survey of broadcast journalism, focusing on commercial and public broadcast news outlets. Students are introduced to broadcast news-writing and prepare tapes for radio news broadcast. Lab. Prerequisite: 104. 4 units, Win (Staff)

137. The National Information Infrastructure; The U.S. Policy Debate—(Graduate students register for 237.) Policy issues surrounding the emergence of a National Information Infrastructure (NII) in the U.S. Adopting a pluri-disciplinary approach, examines the historical context of the policy debate, the technical and business aspects of the networking transformation underway, and its economic and social dimensions. GER:3b (DR:9) 4 units, Aut (Bar)

140. History of American Journalism—(Graduate students register for 240.) Evolution of the democratic mass media in its social, political, economic, technological, and professional aspects. 4 units (Staff) not given 1997-98

141A. History of Film: The First 50 Years—(Graduate students register for 241A.) Studies in the development of the motion picture as an art form and cultural industry. Lab. Screenings of films announced in class. 4 units (Breitrose) alternate years, given 1998-99

141B. History of Film: The Second 50 Years—(Graduate students register for 241B.) The evolution of the motion picture as an art form and culture industry in the U.S. and other nations from 1941.
