

Corrections for “In the shadow of Seaport”

1. Original: “Falk returned the papers and the box to Cathy.”

Correction: “Falk returned the papers and the box to Holly.”

2. Original: “I knew there was certainly some animosity there,” he said about his late sister. “But this thing about a box, it’s the first I’ve heard of a box.” He denied any improprieties.

Correction: “I knew there was certainly some animosity there,” he said about Falk. “But this thing about a box, it’s the first I’ve heard of a box.” He denied any improprieties.

Clarification for “In the shadow of Seaport”

1. Original: Either way, Cathy allegedly began gathering evidence that Tom was keeping two sets of books — “what she said was enough evidence to put Tom in jail,” Harris said — and she handed that evidence over to Kelly Falk, a friend and asset manager in the Port of San Diego’s real estate department, in a box. Falk confirmed all of this.

Clarification: Cathy allegedly began gathering evidence that Tom was keeping two sets of books — “what she said was enough evidence to put Tom in jail,” Harris said — and she handed that evidence over to Kelly Falk, a friend and asset manager in the Port of San Diego’s real estate department, in a box. Falk confirmed receiving the box from Cathy.