I hope the FCC will fine M. I. A. for flipping the bird and swearing during halftime show of the Super Bowl. If the FCC lets this go, other people will feel they can flip us all off - the millions who watched- and I personally resent it. THROW THE BOOK AT HER. You will hear a cheer go up across the country. Good luck!

I will not include a large amount of details because I'm sure that you've been bombarded with complaints regarding this issue. I'm filing a complaint in regard to the the Super Bowl half-time show. After the "wardrobe malfunction" of a few years ago, I felt assured that we(the public) would be protected from this type of garbage and offensive imagery from entering our homes via network tv broadcast. I have no idea how the word SHIT and a middle finger can both make it through censors. As a parent of young children, I try to protect them from much of the cesspool that is today's tv programming.

To have this occur during one of the biggest tv events of the year is unfathomable. I sincerely hope that the censors will do a better job in the future, and I trust that the FCC will see to it that it is taken care of.

Thank you,

I am writing to complain about the obscene, profane, and indecent "performance" of Nicki Minaj on the CBS airing of the Grammy awards. If the FCC deems fit to fine M.I.A. and the Superbowl producers for an obscene gesture, I would urge you to impose far larger fines for the egregious mocking of the Catholic Church over the public airwaves. To depict "altar boys" simulating sexual acts with their heads in the crotches of dancers draped around them, while skewering the beliefs of the Catholic Church, defies any standards of decency. Had any other religion been depicted on public airwaves in such a fashion, the outcry of intolerance would be long and loud. I hope that the FCC will take action to stop allowing the notion that, when it comes to the Catholic Church, anything, no matter how depraved, is allowed.

I am writing to express my concern regarding Dannon's recent Oikos Greek Yogurt Super Bowl Ad. I feel that this ad clearly employs graphic domestic violence to promote and sell Dannon's yogurt and is unacceptable and offensive to all victims of domestic violence, men, women & children included. Domestic violence is a critical national problem that affects us all and depicting it in this manner, especially in a commercial, during the Super Bowl with 150 million people watching, is highly irresponsible. As far as I know, Dannon continues to run this ad, which I feel should be pulled from the air immediately. I have young daughters who saw this ad and I'm more concerned about the impact this ad had on them than when M.I.A. showed her middle finger.

I am disturbed by the MIA singer flipping off the camera as she said "I don't give a sh" during the half time ritual. These people are unfortunately role models for our children. This is very inappropriate for a Super Bowl program that is viewed by children and one of the most watched programs. Disgusting.

I don't typically watch SNL because of it's offensive material. In this instance, we had company over and it happened to be on. Unfortunatley, our 2 children were also in the room. They had a spoof of Clint Eastwood's Superbowl commercial for Chrysler. In the spoof the 'Clint Eastwood' character was talking about the presidential candidates and clearly said the word 'pus*y' in the clip. I was taken aback at the crude and offensive remark especially on REGULAR TV, not cable. I hope the FCC can start taking back the airwaves and bring back just plain common decency.

I am writing to add my complaint to any you may have already received about the lewd gesture by M. I. A. during the halftime show of the Super Bowl. I found it obscene and beneath contempt. After the Janet Jackson incident a few years ago, I and others of like mind thought such obscene actions as this would be prevented in future broadcasts. Apparently we were wrong. I would appreciate it if you would please do something to 1) be sure such things do not happen again and 2) punish the guilty parties.

I was shocked, and disgusted that the performer M.I.A. presented her middle finger towards the camera during the SB halftime show. I don't blame NBC, I blame her and I hope your agency takes appropriate action (fine) against her. No action on your part may signal to other performers that making similar gestures on live tv is ok. EB/IHD Exported Case : 2/21/2012

Once again the NFL has allowed R rated programing into the families of the country. First it was nudity with Janet Jackson flashing millions of people her breast. Now we have some raper giving millions of people the finger. What happened to the cuontry I grew up in that we would allow ths type of action on the air waves of the USA. The NFL should be held accoutable, NBC should have have a fine that clearly shows America is fed up with this kind of behavior to infiltrate our homes and nation. Shame on you for letting this happen again.

Plans were to avoid half time show anyways because of Madonna's reputation... but as we tuned back we got to see the middle finger gesture. I guess if the Superbowl started after 11:00pm this would have prompted less reaction from me - but the Superbowl is now a family event in primetime supposed to be a special event for all where I'd expect more discretion should be used.

I've written sponsors to join in protest over this with its network provider and hopefully work to remove these self-indulgent celebrities who expect that flipping off over a 100million viewers and all those sponsors is good for business.

Dear Sir or Madame

I was offended by what occurred during the Superbowl half-time show when one of the principal singers (MIA?) flipped off the TV audience. NBC tried to masked it, failed, then blamed the football league, and then apologized as if it was no big thing. The singer obviously didn't even care.

I am becoming more offended by the excessive vulgar language on TV. The Golden Globes bleeping, the 2 year-old girl's expletive in the TV series Modern Family, etc. I realized I don't have to watch it, and I wouldn't if knew when to expect it. But I don't. Sadly, TV producers are so enamored of being "culturally edgy" they no longer have any decency standards that I can rely upon.

Sincerely,

Denver, CO

In the halftime show of the Superbowl, the singer named "M.I.A." flips "the bird". It was not only obscene, but an outrage that she can do that with no accountability, and no fear of punishment. I wish she was fined heavily, because people like that only understand monetary consequences. She at the least should NOT BE PAID for doing the show. You guys have got to get junk like this under control. I hate that my children saw the thing. Live performers must be controlled!

SUPER BOWL HALF-TIME SHOW - "Give Me All Your Luvin"

 Subject: Super Bowl XLVI Half-time show 2/5/2012

Ms. Smith

My wife and I were appalled and upset by the obscene gesture during tonight's Super Bowl half-time show where MIA purposefully 'flipped off' America on national TV - showing her middle finger to the camera and to the 11 million viewers watching the show.

We believe whomever is responsible for putting this show on should be held accountable for these actions and the most severe penalty should be imposed to NBC, Madonna, MIA, the NFL and whomever else 'sanctioned' this indecent display.

Feel free to contact me if you have any further questions regarding this matter.

Best Regards,

Please tell me that the FCC will fine various people for yet another vulgar display on national television. Yes I am talking about the "So called singer" MIA who was wrapped up in the moment when she shot the finger at America. I believe that the NFL, the halftime coordinators, promoters, as well as the singer should be fined out of their socks for that display. We have certainly come a long way since Gone With The Wind was almost scrapped because Clark Gable said the word Damn. It is a sad situation when vulgar & obscene jesters are so slowly introduced that it becomes common place and accepted in the American family. And people wonder why our children are growing up the way they are. I remember when Johnny Cash "A Boy Named Sue" came out & my parents changed the radio channel when he said Hell. This truly & seriously needs to stop. Our children & young adults are constantly being bombarded with this kind of filth on prime time television & radio because I feel the FCC is failing to do their job censoring this type of garbage.

MIA obscene hand gesture during appearance on superbowl half time show. Mia is a performer and she gave the "middle finger" or "flipped the bird" on live television with over 100 million viewers watching. This is absolutely the fault of the network NBC and the network should be fined or worse. Is this the example we should be setting for young viewers? Shame on NBC for putting a 50+ year old woman named Madonna in such a provocative and obscene Illuminati style halftime show complete with Ancient Egyptian symbolism and a Baphomet headdress.

During the super bowl Half, My family along with my 8 yearold and my 6 year old witnessed the a Co singer (A.K.A. M.I.A.) in the Super Bowl half time show Flip off the cameras, essentially Flipping off America, and Flipping off my family.

Who allowed that trash to perform, isnt there any type of contract that keeps personalities at bay, regardless of whom they are, or what they do, the measures taken to prevent the viewing where to late.

She should be fined for her action, she tried twice to get her meassage of FS#@ you out, and got though a 100% on her other try.

I find this distasteful and I should think that after all of the talk and Interviews with Madonna that nothing like this was to happen. This program was meant for every one to watch. Regardless of Race, location, sex, or age.

I was very upset with the half time show that was aired. It should not be nbc's responsibility to monitor an "entertainer", Evidently, the performer, MIA, was under the impression that using her middle finger would be acceptable to the general public - I don't. Please, please do something to prevent this from happening again. It isn't free speech or freedom of expression it is however a flagrant attempt to flaunt traditional morals and values. Send a message - this behavior is unacceptable.

Great story line unfortunately too much porno. Shows female and male nudity for one, but actually show sexual intercourse, and use of dildo's etc. This show and others from HBO, run in the midwest at 9pm. This weekend ran the complete 1st season during the day. From 11 am until aprox 5pm.

These programs are just getting too pornographic for primetime viewing. They need to get rid of the sexual intercourse. HBO has Boardwalk and Luck with the same type of pornography.

You can't be offended of someone during Super Bowl half time shows flip off the camera or show a breast, and be okay with pornography on other channels. Have to draw a line somewhere. Thank you for your attention.

M.I.A. flips bird during Super Bowl halftime show. I would like to know what action is being taken to help subvert future show upstaging (pornographic/lewd/obscene/vulgar, displayed or spoken). If actions such as was displayed by M.I.A. (whomever she is) is allowed to go without being challenged/fined hugely will be a gross mistake. Thus encouraging other performers to do likewise without regards to the normal decency of our society and encouraging our youth to perform the same acts. We have enough rebellion in our society without condoning it in a major broadcast. I find neither the NFL or NBC culpable. it was totally an act of M.I.A. and should be held Liable and accountable.

The obscene gesture (i.e. middle finger) made during the half-time show by one of the performers needs to be ACTED upon. NBC is ultimately responsible and should be severely fined in the millions for this incident. To denigrate the most watch event on US television with a offensive act and flipping the American people off is unacceptable, unpatriotic, and needs to be addressed so this never happens again. The only way to do this is impose such a high fine to the network that they force their client, in this case the NFL, who produced the half-time show, to ensure their performers do not either have a wardrobe malfunction, perform lewd acts, or obscene gestures.

I appreciate that the NFL quickly apologized for M.I.A.'s actions. Unfortunately, both the NFL and the NBC network have failed to protect the millions of children and families from being exposed to the offense.

The FCC need to fine both NBC and the entertainer or their is no need for the FCC.

I am writing to express my outrage at the half-time broadcast of M.I.A.'s obscene gesture with her middle finger and her obvious expletive by mouth. Young children in my house should not be exposed to this kind of trash on TV. I have learned that a previous super bowl half-time show involving Janet Jackson's so-called wardrobe malfunction had a fine issued to the network, but the fine was never enforced. If there are no consequences to obscene behavior on TV just because you have a lot of money, then what is the use having laws against such behavior ??? I demand that you fine the network in such an amount that they will make sure this doesn't happen again. In other words, MAKE IT HURT, financially - not just a slap on the wrist !!!!! I have had enough of this garbage, and I'm mad enough to take this to court.

M.I.A., while performing with Madonna during the halftime show, flashing her middle finger and her line, "I don't give a shit" are obscene, profane and/or indecent. I am tired of the lame excuses of groups who "edit" the halftime shows of the Super Bowl not "catching" the offensive acts that happen during this widely viewed sports event. This is an event watched by many families but it's not really a safe environment to have children viewing and these are things that I, as an adult, do not care to view or hear either.

Super Bowl Halftime when performer Flipped off America by middle finger gesture in prime time TV in front of Millions of children. The NFL and NBC has a history of edgy performances during halftime and the FCC should come down on them hard with their prior history and reprimands and fines. During the super bowl halftime show, the performer MIA flipped the middle finger to the television cameras. The middle finger, as I'm sure you know, stands for "Fuck you." The FCC needs to impose fines, so she has to pay them. It was completely innapropriate, and foolish, not too mention vulgar to the viewers at home. The obscene gesture and swearing by M.I.A. during the super bowl half time was not appropriate for my five and 9 year-old children to have witnessed. I believe that such displays by these poor role models needs to stop happening. M.I.A displayed a contempt for America during our country's premier sporting event that is broadcast across the world. Such behavior must be punished severely so that this never happens again.

Clearly the FCC is not doing enough as these disgusting, unpatriotic, and obscene displays continue to occur. Janet Jackson, Prince, and now M.I.A.

I would like to file a complaint against the NBC Television Network regarding the halftime entertainment broadcast. There were multiple incidents of lewd, sexually-oriented gestures during the halftime show. At least one incident was directed specifically to the camera for television viewing. There were children present in our household and I am very upset that the public airwaves were the avenue for these obscene and lewd activities. The NBC Television network needs to be held accountable for these activities and consequences need to be realized by NBC. Thank you for giving me the opportunity to lodge this complaint.

These are offensive and should not have a place on a network show that is designed to appeal to all age groups at what used to be considered a family safe viewing time.

On a very positive note~ thumbs up to Skechers who chose a cute dog to feature their shoes versus the 2011 ad with Kim Kardashian on the floor in a sexual position with her trainer. I wrote to the company and told them.

Email Subject: Super Bowl Disgrace

Dear Sir or Madam -

I was appalled at the Super Bowl half-time show. I have a 12 year old son and a 13 year old son. And let me tell you, they quickly pointed out to me what I saw with my own eyes: a singer flipping off the Super Bowl viewers. It was not lost on my sons, or my wife. It is very disheartening to watch a show we thought (especially after the Janet Jackson episode) would be clean, fun family entertainment. Boy were we wrong! And we should not have to be put in a situation to have to explain to 12 and 13 year old boys why that person made that gesture and what it means.

The FCC needs to get serious. If an entertainer pulls such a stunt they need to be banned from national TV and fined so hard that it hurts them for a long, long time. Fool us once, shame on the FCC. Fool us twice and now we show you that we mean business. If not, this nonsense will never end and family viewers can just turn the set off and go to DVDs. Please HELP. Enough is enough....

Please keep this communication confidential. Thank you.

Email Subject: Superbowl
 To Whom it May Concern,

I would like to see the FCC fine the 'willie-be-jeebers' out of that idiot, (wanna be star) M.I.A. Her little stunt was not cute, nor was it appropriate. If she wants to challenge authority, than show her some authority FCC-dudes.

The city of Indianapolis did a great job, as did the NFL, NBC, Madonna (and her other guests who had class). But, this wannabe star that none of us have heard of has the gall, to come to our home and enjoy the celebrity of being a "star" at Superbowl, just to flip the bird. What a disrespectful wench!

Please show this woman that her stunt was not appreciated. Either BAN her, or FINE her?

 Rushville, Indiana

During the halftime show, rapper M.I.A. Flipped out the camera, putting up her middle figure to show an obscene gesture. After the Janet Jackson incident, one would expect better judgement and/or better reactions to changing cameras on the delay. The Superbowl is a family function to watch together, and it was tainted by M.I.A. Inappropriate and rude gesture. She should be fined. It's one thing to have a wardrobe malfunction, but to purposely make a rude gesture should be equally punished...if not more.

Mathangi "Maya" Arulpragasam aka M.I.A. deliberately used an obscene finger gesture during the Super Bowl half time show. This type of sick and twisted activity is absolutely unacceptable during family viewing venues. This woman basically flipped off over 100 million people on national television. A publicity stunt is one thing, but this is entirely different. This blatant show of disrespect may actually be some sort of world record. Please take the strongest legal action possible against those responsible for allowing this demented and disrespectful activity to occur.

Sincerely

Our large extended family and friends, including children ranging from 7 - 17 have a tradition of watching the Super Bowl. Starting with the Janet Jackson wardrobe "malfunction" it appears that this broadcast is becoming increasingly lewd and unsuitable for children. The Teleflora ad, using a scantily clad model, encourages paying for sex with flowers. The David Beckham ad showed him clad only in brief underwear. There was no warning so that we could send the children out of the room. Is it too much to ask that for one day, families can watch a broadcast without sex being shoved in our children's faces?

I saw a replay of the obscene hand gesture by the Female Performer known as M.I.A. How could someone do that on a national FAMILY tv show? I hope you find a way to level an EXTREME fine against her. This was another of many indecent items allowed on TV. During the halftime show a singer gave an indecent hand gesture to all watching. This seems to be a popular stage for doing the indecent in front of all. Myself, my wife, children and grandchildren were watching the program it is billed as a family event. This program has allowed this to occur several times. Please review not only the content of the Halftime Show but also the sponsor's adds. Some of them are not what a family wants to watch. We want some decent programming. Not something where you have to be on guard to cover eyes or turn away from such trash.

I'm not a prude by any means, but giving a vulgar gesture and using an obscene word in a program watched by over 100 million people sends out the wrong message to society as a whole. I am writing to complain about the Audi automotive ad that aired during the Super Bowl. The ad featured vampires being vaporized by the car's headlights. My four year old daughter was very frightened by this ad. She is only beginning to understand the concept of death and cannot easily differentiate between fantasy and reality when actual actors (i.e. non-cartoons) are involved. I had to deflect several questions about the commercial, many of which were centered on "where the people went."

This commercial aired before 7pm EST, and NBC and Audi should have used better judgment over the content displayed and when it displayed. The graphic fictionalized deaths of over ten people was inappropriate when such a broad audience is expected to watch a program and exhibits one of the many issues in this country: A woman's exposed breast is viewed as appalling, but violence is perfectly acceptable.

Dear Sir/Madam

I am VERY concerned about the erosion of morals on television shows these days. I was not impressed with the "entertainer" who flashed the vulgar sign during her act at half-time. I was further dismayed that a candy company would decide that it was appropriate to make an ad where their candy characters are portrayed as stripping and dancing in a suggestive way! There were children watching that game and, thus, exposed to the ads that went with it. We need sensors like we had back a few decades ago. My son is 21. When he was younger, we had to be constantly vigilant about what came across the television when he was around because there is no real protection from vulgarity. Two and a half men, 30 Rock and many others seem to press up against the boundary a little harder each week. For those who say that the child will hear those things at school anyway my comment is - what is said in school is not being piped into our homes. When it comes in on the television screen, it is like it has been approved by the parents. I have NOT approved that filth and I don't appreciate having to be wary of an attack of it at any moment when I watch TV. I hope to some day have grandchildren and I would like to have some TV which is still decent for them to watch.

Thank you,

During the Madonna Super Bowl halftime show, I was absolutely disgusted with the words, actions and symbolism used to "entertain". Nick Minaj "raps" about her "vajay" or vagina, MIA says a line "I dont give a sh-" and actually used her middle finger on camera on live national tv with millions watching. I was also uncomfortable with the weird ritualistic symbolism throughout the entire performance. I mean who on the entertainment committee decided that would all be great for the show? A few years ago a big deal was made about Janet Jackson. I find it hard to believe that people are saying on social media that the whole family could watch last night. I beg to differ.

I couldn't make out the words, but the extended middle finger was unmistakable during MIA's indecent performance. I can record and screen movies for my family on a delay, why can't broadcast television. I'm working with a DVDR from Comcast, so I know the broadcast networks have access to better equipment. If an 8 second or whatever delay is insufficient, how about 2 minutes? Or 10 minutes. By the way, this wasn't a emotional transitory phenomenon, it was a deliberate poke in the eye of millions of US broadcast television viewers and as such unexcusable. At the very least, MIAs ability to enter the country and/or be on our electronic entertainment should be removed.

The Super Bowl program included a "bird flippin" gesture by the artist MIA which was very offensive and was broadcast to my home for children to see. I am a directv subscriber.

In my opinion, this broadcaster should be sanctioned or fined to deture future recurances of such inappropriate behavior. The responsible party for the offensive content must be held accountable. Thanks for you attention to this matter.

This appears to violate the FCC rules: The FCC has defined profanity as ?including language so grossly offensive to members of the public who actually hear it as to amount to a nuisance.?

Like indecency, profane speech is prohibited on broadcast radio and television between the hours of 6 a.m. and 10 p.m.

The finger from singer MIA is beyond "I am Sorry". The FCC needs to Fine her Directly in the 5 or 6 figures and Suspend her from the US Media for one to two years. No News shows, No guest shots on any TV or Radio for that period of time. This will solve the problem.

The rapper MIA extended her middle finger in the half-time performance of the Super Bowl. Ahe also appeared to move a very nasty word. NBC failed to blur the images, showing both to the audience.

As is all over the news, Singer M.I.A. flipped the bird and it sounds as though she said the word "shit" during her part of the song during the Super Bowl Half Time show. Since things like this have been happening regularly during Super Bowl events NBC should have had enough of a delay to catch this. NBC should be fined, and fined enough that they will never do this again. They are using the taxpayer owned frequencies to broadcast filth and it needs to stop now!

The word "shit" was said during the halftime show and the middle finger was clearly shown. Further, Bridgestone sponsored a widely-viewed uncensored replay video on YouTube that was accessible to anyone as a follow-up. (Clearly advertising revenue from the follow-up will outstrip any fines that the FCC imposes. This is NOT right, and criminal charges should be brought against all parties involved.)

During the halftime show of the superbowl an artist by the name of M.I.A. gave the public the middle finger and said a profanity. I think more precautions can be taken by all parties, ie. the NFL and NBC, to ensure that people watching the program at home either with their children, or adults to do not agree with the behavior are not subjected to it. I think all parties involved should be held responsible, however, I believe the artist by the name of M.I.A. should be punished if not criminally, then should be given a hefty fine to help future performers know how serious we take these actions.

During the Madonna half-time show of the Superbowl, while singing "Give Me All Your Luvin", there was another female singer, whom I believe was M.I.A., singing and she did the following: She clearly gestured with her middle finger and then clearly sang the words "I don't give a shit". This could clearly be seen and heard. There were others in the room with me that confirmed that is exactly what she sang and gestured. I find this completely inappropriate at any time, but especially during the "family hour" and during an event watched by so many persons. I thought the delay had been "fixed" after the problems in years past with the Superbowl half-time shows. There needs to be better censorship and punishment for these events. Thank-you, [REDACTED]

I found the act during Madonna's half-time show where one of the dancers I believe her stage name is MIA made a gesture with her middle finger extended towards the camera also known commonly as "flipping the bird" and clearing stating so my children could understand "I don't give a shit" to be extremely offensive and clearly out of bounds put on during the highest rated family program of the year. The NFL owes it's viewers an apology and should be forced to pay fines for violating the standards and practices of a family rated show. I am severely disappointed that a family cannot enjoy something as simple a football game anymore on Television without being subjected to lewd and immoral conduct. If the FCC doesn't do anything about this matter I will look into a class action lawsuit against the NFL.

I think it was a complete lack of taste for rapper MIA(sp?) to flip the viewing audience the middle finger and to say "I don't give a sh*t" during the halftime show. I am not crying for censorship as I fully disagree with censorship but I do believe in morals and common sense. For her to do what she did showed for a complete lack of concern for her younger viewing audience. These people need to realize who might be watching there ignorant display. Thank you.

During the half time show there was a black girl signing (I THINK SHE GOES BY THE NAME M.I.A.) when I heard my 6 year old nephew say-she just flipped her middle finger at me. Upon replaying the part after half time sure enough she flipped her middle finger at the camera. I think the time is now to start fining these spoiled brat performers that think they are cute when they do things like this. To get up in front of 100 million people and do this is uncalled for and the time is now to do something about it. Thank you

Yes I believe the super bowl halftime show was very inappropriate. In between all of madonnas sexual gestures there was a girl who was singing and then she said the word 'shit' and flipped off the camera with her middle finger. I thought you guys were in charge of regulating this stuff so its okay for kids. I am appalled at the FCCs lack of regulation on these types of big events. Last year was horrible with the black eyed peas and the year before with Justin Timberlake ripping that womans breast covering off. You guys are doing a horrible job.

Superbowl halftime show is GARBAGE!!! Pure and simple! During M.I.A's halftime superbowl performance she put up her middle finger after repeating the line "I don't give a sh-!" Madonna did a flip after placing her head on a male dancers genitals. Nicki Minaj proceeded to oppen her legs as if waiting for a male partner to "mount" her for a sex act! This was done in front of children and families. If it's not okay to show your nipple during a performance, why does "Queen of The World" Madonna get to emulate sex acts along with other artists? This is irresponsible and reprehensible! I prefer you not air the superbowl or any other sporting event if you can't have class acts. Do GOSPEL ARTISTS ever get invited or are you part of the satanic agenda to corrupt children and families too?!!! Get some class please!!!!

I would like to issue a formal complaint to the FCC over the half-time show at the NFL Super Bowl last night on NBC. As you are well aware, the Super Bowl is watched by millions of people, including children. I would like action to be taken by the FCC on the half-time performers, especially M.I.A. for her line "I don't give a s*" which was said directly into the camera for the world to see, while she put her middle finger up, essentially flipping off the entire United States of America, including men, women, seniors, children, etc. This should not be tolerated. America needs to clean up what is being shown on a national scale on television. This was not a cable program & this was not something only people of mature age were watching. The NFL Super Bowl was a program for all to see. Therefore, the level of censorship should have been higher and more strict. I would also like to complain about the symbolism surrounding the performance and the sexuality being pushed in the face of the American children. Madonna wore a Baphomet headdress shoving Satanism right down the throats of the public. She, Nicki Minaj and M.I.A. all danced extremely sexually for our children's eyes, with Madonna putting her head in a man's crotch and Nicki Minaj and M.I.A. squatting low, focusing their crotches front and center for the camera. Please clean this disgusting material up FCC and stop allowing the Super Bowl half-time show to continue being a complete joke with no morality whatsoever. Thank you.

I find it deplorable that NBC aired a half time show during the Super Bowl that included a obscene gesture by one of the performers. There are children that watch this broadcast and I expected that kind of filth to be edited out. I am offended and demand that the FCC take action against NBC and ensure this doesn't happen again. Please keep me informed as to the progress of my complaint. I will also be contacting my United States Senator and Congressman to express my sentiments as well. Thank you.

A performer named M. I. A., unclear what that stands for, during the super bowl halftime show made an obscene gesture (middle finger) to the audience during her performance. Here is one more example of a major broadcast network scheduling trash acts during what should be a family viewing opportunity. The network should receive the largest possible fine for their failure to control the production and if there are individual penalties available they should be applied to the performer as well.

Rapper MIA flipping off the camera as she said "I don't give a sh" during the half time

Plenty of Illuminati references which degrade our nation as a Republic, like Ancient Egyptian view given from this show.

Since this was a football game, you need to know, Walter Camp, the "Father of American Football" was a Skull and Bones member. Skull and Bones was a secret society where power elites met to perform evil rituals ala Bohemian Grove.

TV should NOT BE USED TO PUSH EVIL SOCIETIES LIKE THIS!

Dear Sir:

M.I.A. - "I don't give a ?, and giving the middle finger.

As a parent of young children who would like to enjoy the Super Bowl with my children, I am utterly disgusted by the actions and language used by M.I.A.

The NFL lied last week when it promised that the halftime show would be suitable for all audiences.

NBC and the NFL must be taught a lesson, and that this and future presentations will be severely punished and not condoned or tolerated!

Drop the hammer on them this time, please. Such actions cannot be allowed to continue.

We (my family and some friends) were watching the half time show at the super bowl, the middle finger was not what i wanted my 7 year old to see, after the Janet Jackson malfunction we thought there would be something in place to bleep/cover things out. We were wrong. we don't watch a lot of football but the super bowl we do, and this is the last one we are going watch. Everyone they say knew MIA was going to do something stupid and she did. The fine should be very very large (to get NBC and the NFL eyes open) maybe $2.50 per person who was watching. Not the usual "we promise to do better" thanks [REDACTED]

"Artist" MIA flips off the camera while singing "I dont give a shit". I was watching the show with my sons and I was in complete disgust after my sons saw this. Is this the kind of show that the FCC and NBC promote? Are these the kind of adults they want our kids to be? DISGUSTING! I am in complete DISGUST for this programming!

Good afternoon FCC operative:

I would like to file a formal complaint in regards to the airing of indecent content and irresponsible behavior shown at the 2012 SuperBowl aired on 5 February 2012. While I am certainly a proponent of free speech, I believe that the performer M.I.A.'s hand-gesture and obvious mouthing of offensive language was grossly distasteful and unfit for airing keeping in mind that many children were watching this program. I believe that the National Football League, the National Broadcast Company and the performer M.I.A. should be held responsible for this malicious behavior. I encourage the FCC to seek to apply the maximum penalties to all responsible parties allowed under current legal framework so that the public will be less likely exposed to such abhorrent behavior in the future. Thank you for your attention to this matter.

With sincere regards,

 Tullahoma, Tennessee

I was offended by the obscene gesture displayed by one of the singers during the Super Bowl half time show broadcast by NBC yesterday. Frankly, I am getting tired of being assaulted by vulgar language and gestures on broadcast television including a sporting event that should be devoid of such behavior. America has become too tolerant of such boorish inappropriate behavior and it is time to make it cease and desist. Thank you for hearing my complaint.

Many people are outraged over MIA's obscene gesture during the halftime show. While I find that in appropriate, I would rather explain to my children why that is bad verses why a woman shouldn't seduce a man on the side of the street. The highlight for many people, myself included, is the commercials during the SuperBowl. Many of the commercials were creative and funny, however there were several commercials that were totally inappropriate. If NBC and the NFL are trying to promote the Super Bowl as a family friendly show, the rules should be consistent. The FIAT commercial, the Go Daddy commercials, to name a few honestly were bordering pornography. To have everyone in an outrage during Janet Jackson's wardrobe malfunction or MIA's obscene gesture but to allow oversexualized images is a ridiculous double standard. You freak out over an accidental flashing of a nipple, yet allow a long drawn out look at the cleavage of a model (FIAT). A second of time verses, 30 seconds to two minutes of inappropriate footage.

Thank you for your time. I hope we can expect you to raise the standard of what is allowed on screen, perhaps if the restrictions were tighter, it would cause the creative minds making commercials and shows to be actually creative, not just rush to sexual content.

I am so sick of people using profanity during the superbowl. Why can't the FCC stop this! A fine of $500,000 is nothing to NBC. The fine needs to include a ban on bidding on future superbowls, or be very large. NBC did not take its responsibility seriously because the FCC has not enforced the rules vigorously. NBC gets away with more profanity over the airwaves. I expect profanity from rock stars. I expect my government to be tougher with them and the networks on our behalf.

I am a parent of two boys (age 8 & 12) and was watching the Superbowl on NBC with them and my wife. The incident happened during Madonna's halftime show. I thought the show was excellent until the singer (or punk) MIA decided that she would swear and flash her middle finger to all of America during her routine. I immediately jumped up from the couch and screamed "I can't believe she just did that." Admittedly my wife and children didn't see the gesture and asked me what she did. I am still appalled that the FCC didn't do it's job in arresting Janet Jackson for her flashing of her body parts, years ago. I demand that MIA be prosecuted to the fullest extent, this time. I do not hold NBC accountable for this and feel it is time for self responsibility and MIA is the one who should pay. This was a purposeful act done in front of 100 plus million Americans, many of which were children. I will not be satisfied until this spoiled punk artist is reprimanded. Thanks for your time and please do not overlook this obscene act.

Once again, my family and I are totally appalled and disgusted with the committee that selects entertainment for the super bowl. Who are these poindexters anyway? Are they that far out of touch? Come on people.....too many years have gone by with crap for half-time.....between wardrobe issues, lewd moves from the entertainers (if that is what you call them), vulgar gestures, sexual innuendoes, and just plain poor selections for any real entertainment value that is fit for the WHOLE FAMILY, including the commercials. I think it is time again for the FCC to step up to bat and help ensure that family comes first during the prime time hours, or you need to put warnings out that content may not be suitable for some viewers. And maybe its time someone actually screened the entertainers and gave them strict warning about content, and introduce heavy fines to THEM as well as the NFL and Network that airs them. Maybe if all of them are impacted by fines and injunctions, we can all enjoy the game again.

Well, apparently you haven't improved your monitoring the super bowl half time show since the Janet Jackson incident! This MIA, Sri Lankan native, decided she had a message for the 111 million persons viewing that entertainment broadcast. She explicitly gave the middle finger to everyone watching, incl. many underage viewers. Thanks again FCC, for letting this slide before our very eyes.

During the halftime show one of the performers by the stage name MIA said "I don't give a shit" as she gave the middle finger (a universal sign to mean fuck you) to millions of children tuning in to the show. NBC did not censor the gesture, and I was extremely offended. There were children in the room ranging from 2 years old to 13 who were exposed to this content. The rest of the performance had women that were dressed like strippers, spreading their legs and squatting like hookers. Absolutely inappropriate for family LIVE television

I think that the half time performance performed by 'Nicki Minaj, Maddona, and M.I.A' was inappropriate. I dont think it would be such a big deal if it was a program watched by a mostly adult audience. However, obviously the Super Bowl is a program watched by people of all ages all around the world. Not only does is make America look trashy, But it ruins the traditional experience for alot of familys. M.I.A put her middle finger up to the camera, and used the S word. They claim the S word was bleeped out. But, was it really? You could defiantly hear what the word was. Also adding, that the performers were being more than overly sexually provocative. I think that familys should feel comfortable that they can watch the Super Bowl with their children and such. I dont really feel like going into further detail because I'm sure the FCC has already gotten plenty of complaints about this. I would like to hear back to see what is being done about this. I understand that since it is live tv, it is hard to censor everything accuratly but the performers know exactly what their doing and I dont think its something that they should just be getting away with. Thank you for your time.

The Super Bowl halftime show during Madonna's performance of the song "Give Me All Your Luvin" a performer by the name of M.I.A., at the end of her solo part of the performance, appeared to sing "I don't give a shit" and simultaneously extended her middle finger in an effort to "flip the bird" or "flip off" the television audience. These were two obvious acts of profanity that were neither edited or blocked by NBC.

Thank you for your consideration of this complaint. I would be happy to provide additional details or a copy of the performance to the FCC.

During the halftime show, as I am sure you already know, a guest star named M.I.A. gave the finger to the camera. This is a well known hand sign for a very disgusting statement. I don't need to go into the facts as to what it means. You know the phrase. The Super bowl was watched by over 110,000 million viewers with a substantial % of them being children. This cannot go unpunished. You must make a statement and impose a substantial fine on the Network for not controlling the show or at least having a suitable delay system in place. I believe that NBC knew something would happen. M.I.A. signed a contract with the NFL for the halftime performance, and in that contract M.I.A. agreed to indemnify the NFL for any money it might be forced to pay if the FCC comes down on the Peacock Network. Therefore, NBC knew that when something happened, they would get all of the associated publicity for the next week and the fine would be passed on to M.I.A.. This is not fail.

Do your job. Punish NBC.

I was watching the Superbowl with my grandfather and my grandmother came to watch the halftime show with us. During Madonnas performance one of her co performers gave the middle finger to the camera. You know I understand it is 2012 and the world is changing but I find it deeply upsetting that on a family program like the Superbowl halftime show things like that occur. I was trying to enjoy some television with my family only to have some hollywood type flip us off. I strongly hope the FCC can take some action against this and keep family programing clean .

flipping the bird at the audience is not what i wanted to see. Where is the respect for the game and the people watching. there are kids as well as adults. why cant "entertainers" and use this lossly, understand there is some decorum required when dealing with general audiences. this is not a paid concert where they can do as they wish. i do not see this as restricting their (the "entertainer")rights or freedom of speech, but when are we going to stop. if someone has this in their history, dont put them on air. an why are we paying to see this on open TV? other entertainment can control themselves. the opening songs were great. PLEASE do something. i can do my part in turning off the TV or watching cable stations that i know are safe.

M.I.A., while performing with Madonna during the halftime show, flashing her middle finger and her line, "I don't give a shit" are obscene, profane and/or indecent. I am tired of the lame excuses of groups who "edit" the halftime shows of the Super Bowl not "catching" the offensive acts that happen during this widely viewed sports event. This is an event watched by many families but it's not really a safe environment to have children viewing and these are things that I, as an adult, do not care to view or hear either.

Depictions of aborted fetuses.....

<http://www.davidlewisforcongress.com/>

From news site.CINCINNATI - A political advertisement aired on WLWT Sunday afternoon that some viewers may have found disturbing. The ad from congressional candidate David Lewis showed graphic depictions of aborted fetuses. WLWT is not responsible for the content of Lewis' ad.

Federal Communications Commission regulations require that TV stations give federal candidates unrestricted access to the airwaves in the weeks before an election.

Lewis is an official candidate in the March 6 Republican primary, challenging Speaker John Boehner in the 8th Congressional District.

The ad aired during NBC's pre-game coverage of the Superbowl. Lewis' campaign reports that it plans to air the ad on numerous stations in Cincinnati and Dayton Sunday.

During the third song (cheerleading) of the halftime show, a rapper singing with Madonna used the word shit. It seems that the word may have been partially masked but it sounded just like the word. I was watching this program with my child and I do not appreciate having her hear that word on TV. Even if that word was masked, it sounded too close to the actual word to be acceptable.

The word sh@t was broadcast during the Madonna halftime show, which was being watched by my kids.. I am fully supportive of the FCC and it's efforts to prevent this kind of thing from happening, and would welcome investigation/ action against the networks involved.

During Madonna's Halftime show, the female rapper in the blonde wig flipped the bird to the camera. I'll be happy to forward a still shot/vid clip if you are unable to locate it, but I'm guessing there will be thousands of complaints on this. Better question is why don't you have an option to attach the MPG/MOV file???

I expect and will insist that she be denied access to network TV or radio EVER again. The airwaves are by law the property of the people, and you people flat out fail to keep it G-Rated, as it should be. If I want my kids to see that kind of garbage, I'd have them watch Spike TV on Cable. I'm sickened by your lack of interest in protecting our children.

During the Super Bowl 46 Halftime show, an artist called M.I.A. deliberately extended her middle finger towards the camera that was currently filming her. This was completely uncalled for. Madonna promised to provide a clean show, and she did however this other singer was not forced to make such a promise and her tasteless, blatant disregard for our public broadcasting standards needs to be dealt with. I don't blame NBC, they tried to blur it out, but they were not fast enough. I blame this singer. She should be fined and dealt with.

We are absolutely sickened by the Superbowl halftime performance. During the performace by Madonna of "Give me all your love" singer M.I.A sang "I dont give a Sh*t"! with the bird middle finger jesture. Our 7 year old and 10 year old was watching the game. We cant even watch and enjoy a family football game without this crass behavior. Our hope is that the FCC stop this from ever happening again. This is not something we should be approving for viewing for our children. Thank You.

During the half-time show, one of the performers used the word "shit" and made an obscene hand gesture when the camera was focused on her.

Parents should be able to assume that the network hosting the Superbowl will use common sense and decency in choosing advertisers and performers - and that a delay will actually be USED during the half-time show. Apparently, nothing was learned from the 2004 issues with Janet Jackson.

During the Super Bowl this evening, there was a political commercial showing graphic, offensive images of aborted fetuses during prime time hours.

I was watching the Super Bowl with my children. I understand and support freedom of speech, but this was an abuse. There was absolutely NO reason to expose children to this. It was incredibly graphic, and now I get to explain to my eight year old daughter what she saw.

During the Half Time Show of the 46th Super Bowl broadcast on NBC stations across the nation, the "singer" M.I.A. intentionally extended her middle finger to the camera, effectively giving "the bird" to EVERYONE watching. It was close up enough to be seen clearly on my television. This is MUCH WORSE than the Janet Jackson "incident" when she was practically RAPED on stage by Justin Timberlake as this was INTENTIONAL on the part of the performer.

RE: complaint 11-WB14858833

This is the number of the complaint I filed in Nov. of 2011. The only letter I received from you, dated 11/10/11. You informed me that a violation may have occurred and the enforcement bureau will start an investigation. Since then I have called FCC, and finally they told me it was turned over to enforcement. I was given their phone number, to no avail.

Now the same thing happens at the super bowl. The NFL and NBC offer up an apology. Where is the apology from Fox news, Fox and friends, News Group, the Factor, and above all from bob beckel -- the fiend that committed such a act. If this violates Fed. law where is the punishment? Why is bob beckel still on the air. Is he above the law?

Please respond
