RE: Digging through the Bull Shit

DATE: April 2, 2016

So this week the Media and the Washington Establishment bashed the campaign with energy yet ever seen against a Republican candidate. You name the medium and it was dominated with Trump Attacks. The media themselves couldn't wait to label the week, "THE WORST WEEK EVER".

DC Pundits scurried to the networks to proclaim the end was at hand for Donald Trump.

Yet another pathetic display by the so called experts who line their pockets at the expense of our candidates and causes.

So what is the result of their efforts this week? Here it is

The Reuters Tracking Poll keeps track every night of what is happening among the voters. Each day they publish a sum of the last five days combined result. Their poll is the only true tracking poll publicly available.

Five days ago Mr. Trump led Mr. Cruz 39% to 33%. Each day all week long we continued to gain support contrary to what the Washington Establishment would have you believe. This morning we lead Cruz by a margin of 45 to 31. Cruz lost 2 points and we gained 6. Kasich also lost a point.

During the media labeled "Worst Week Ever" we increased our support by over 15 percent rising 6 points to a total of 45.

Why is the question they cannot grasp. America is sick of them. Their idiotic attacks just remind voters why they hate the Washington Establishment.
