This is a follow up to a previous request:

Dear Ms. McAllister and/or Mr. Karlinsey,

My request was submitted via e-mail to rkarlinsey@kenmorewa.gov on September 13, 2017, at 10:56 p.m., with subject "Public Records Request: Joshua Freed e-mail with mayors/managers since 2016-09-01 (Kenmore)" and message ID <20170914055639.21165.58985@68e0aa9a-a628-4712-a492-3592d2bff9d0.prvt.dyno.rt.heroku.>. In that message I clearly identified the records to which I request access and electronic copies of. I provided e-mail address, fax number, and postal address for delivery of the records. I then requested status updates on September 21, September 16, October 2, and October 9.

Despite the law requiring action on your part within five business days of receipt of such a request, your acknowledgement of my request came via e-mail almost four weeks later, on October 9. You neither provided the requested records, nor directed me to the specific URLs where those records are located on your agency's website, nor informed me that the records do not exist or are exempt from disclosure under the PRA. Nor did you inform me that you require more time in order to complete processing of my request.

Please provide the records I requested, in their native electronic format, by e-mail attachment if feasible or on CDROM if not.

Cordially,
Phil Mocek

To whom it may concern:

Background

On September 15, 2016, Seattle's, Auburn's, Renton's and King County's [Heroin and Prescription Opiate Addiction Task Force][1] issued a set of [recommendations][2] comprising a strategy for confronting the region's growing heroin and opioid epidemic. The recommendations focused on prevention, increasing access to treatment on demand, and reducing the number of fatal overdoses. Among those recommendations was that a pilot project be initiated with the establishment of two supervised consumption spaces--public health facilities also known by several other names, including community health engagement locations, in which people living with substance use disorder would be allowed to use otherwise-prohibited drugs in a clean environment that provides supervision, medical assistance, and connections to health care and long-term treatment. The task force recommended that for the pilot program, one of these facilities be located in Seattle and the other be located elsewhere in King County. About four months later, Seattle Mayor Ed Murray and King County Executive Dow Constantine formally [accepted all recommendations][3] issued by the task force.

On May 11, 2017, a public initiative to ban supervised consumption sites in King County was [announced][4]. Chief sponsor of the proposed initiative (I-27) is Bothell City Council member Joshua Freed. The campaign formed a political action committee called Impaction, and Freed was later [reported][5] as the top donor to the PAC, having contributed $40,000 to it.

In an e-mail dated August 18, 2017, Andy Rheame, mayor of Bothell, Washington, wrote to Joshua Freed, former mayor and current member of Bothell City Council, reporting that Mr. Freed had previously sent both inaccurate and misleading information about supervised consumption sites to unspecified mayors in multiple King County cities:

Request

Pursuant to RCW Ch. 42.56 (Public Records Act), I request all e-mail correspondence between Joshua Freed and your city's mayor and/or city manager since September 1, 2016. This should include messages to or from any e-mail address used by Mr. Freed, either public or private (e.g., joshua.freed@ci.bothell.wa.us, joshua.freed@bothellwa.gov, joshuafreed@mac.com, info@impacwa.com, etc.) This should include but not be limited to any of the messages cited by Bothell mayor Andy Rheume when he wrote of Mr. Freed's messages to various King County mayors that reportedly contained both inaccurate information and misleading information pertaining to plans for supervised drug consumption sites or to the potential banning thereof.

The requested documents will be made available to the general public, and this request is not being made for commercial purposes.

In the event that there are fees, I would be grateful if you would inform me of the total charges in advance of fulfilling my request. I would prefer the request filled electronically, by e-mail attachment if available or CD-ROM if not.

Thank you in advance for your anticipated cooperation in this matter. I look forward to receiving your response to this request within 5 business days, as the statute requires.

Sincerely,

Phil Mocek
