Leo:

Apologies for the delayed reply, but I just wanted to close the loop on this. I talked to Rich and gave the green light for website content. I know this needs to happen now because of the Opioid Commission reporting requirements.

Apologies again for holding up the line. Thank you for your patience.

Hi, John.

Hope you're doing well.

I wanted to follow-up on this. I can appreciate how many demands that must be made of your time, but we are now getting to a bit of a critical point with this issue. Our General Counsel, the Designated Federal Official for the Commission on Combating Drug Addiction and the Opioid Crisis, tells us that (b)(5)

Although I realize that the primary issue here is most likely time, if there's a substantive issue at play here that we can help resolve, feel free to reach out.

Thanks again.

Good morning John,

Are you free to connect in the coming days to discuss the ONDCP website? Our policy shop and Acting Director have reviewed and cleared some content material to be published to the website.

Also, this coming Saturday is DEA's National Prescription Drug Take-Back Day, which is a key public initiative that is important to ONDCP. We'd like to promote it on social media, primarily Twitter. Could we get an account up and running this week as well?

Thanks,

Eddie

Just letting you know that this is out there. When you go to the site (blocked from our computers), you basically go to a countdown of the time that the ONDCP website has been down, and that it is the time that this Administration has been denying access to important drug policy information.

The copy is moving through bluecast. But the biggest obstacle has been across the street, zadrozny sat on our original copy for a few months and he also mentioned that our twitter feed will be shut down until we have a nominee.

ONDCP web site should be promoting the WH event and spotlighting the two people in recovery and the mom who spoke at the event on our website. It's time. Also, if they are going to put me on the road we need to report on those activities, blog and twitter. Let's get back in business.

We are currently awaiting DPC to approve the language and give us the green light to begin the technical process of uploading that content (as well as actually launch/re-open the website). As of now, DPC has not given us any status updates as to when they will review and approve the content we have prepared or allow us to go live.
