Imagine. Share. Impact.

In our new series from Imagine. Share. Impact., the Heritage Foundation's Stephen Moore discusses revitalizing the American economy.

In the second video, Moore discusses the negative effects of central planning by the federal government:

"Everybody said let's have the federal government invest all of this money in green energy because that's the future. So while the federal government was spending a $150 billion in windmills and solar paneling, meanwhile, this [hydraulic fracturing] technology came along that wasn't nurtured at all by government. The oil and gas industry took off, and the renewable energy industry is basically in bankruptcy right now."
