

Disclosure on 2014 Letter to the Editor of the New England Journal of Medicine

Initial disclosure:

O. Howard Frazier, M.D.

Texas Heart Institute
Houston, TX
lschwenke@heart.thi.tmc.edu

No potential conflict of interest relevant to this letter was reported.

DOI: 10.1056/NEJMc1401768

Disclosure updated on July 31, 2018

O. Howard Frazier, M.D.

Texas Heart Institute
Houston, TX
lschwenke@heart.thi.tmc.edu

Dr. Frazier reports receiving consulting fees, lecture fees, and travel support from Thoratec, lecture fees and travel support from HeartWare, and grant support from Thoratec and HeartWare; and being a medical advisory board member for HeartWare. In addition, Dr. Frazier holds patent US8226712, entitled "Total Artificial Heart System for Auto-regulating Flow and Pressure," licensed to Newheart Medical Devices. No other potential conflict of interest relevant to this letter was reported.

This letter was updated on July 31, 2018, at NEJM.org.

DOI: 10.1056/NEJMc1401768