Would it be possible to come in this afternoon instead? She's trying to finalize a few chapters for me to bring to give to John for clearance. Let me know if that is at all possible.

Thanks,

I probably won't stay long today again, but do have one additional chapter to share for review.

Thanks and see you soon,

Hello All,

Ethan dropped off a chapter of Clinton's manuscript to Mr. Hackett today. This chapter might be problematic as far as clearances go, but Mr. Hackett was looking through it and it seemed okay about 4 pages in.

Ethan will check Clinton's schedule to see when he will arrive in IPS next week (he wants to come in twice). He will also send us items to pull either today or tomorrow.

Sincerely,

Chaniqua D. Nelson

Hi John,

I hope you recovered from the snow. I wanted to check on the progress of the five chapters submitted thus far, as follows:

- Pivot (submitted 2/24)
- Back to Beijing (submitted 2/24)
- Green Light (submitted 2/24)
- Opening (submitted 2/24)
- Pressure (submitted 2/26)

If you could provide an update on the status of the reviews and when you expect them to be completed, I would greatly appreciate it. More chapters to come soon.

Thanks,
Ethan

Per conversation with David Wisner, I am delivering to your office(s) shortly a draft chapter of Secretary Clinton's memoirs, submitted to this office for pre-publication security review. At a minimum there appear to be equities for NEA/IR and NEA/ARP.

There will be more to come, and we hope that under your coordination NEA can turn these around as quickly as possible to meet the hopes and expectations of the author. Please address your responses or questions to me. Thank you for your cooperation.

Since I won't be here tomorrow, please direct any reactions you have to the draft to Charles Daris, a senior FOIA reviewer. All your email addresses are above.

Re what I wrote re my reaction to the draft: Please convey your views to Charles Daris. As I indicated, since these issues do not involve U.S. national security questions, at least by one interpretation, it may only be possible to convey these or similar views "informally" to Clinton. B5

Pete/Greg/Sean,

Since only the first 20 pages involve questions of U.S.-China-Japan relations, I recommend that EAP/J consult with EAP/CM and give a unified response re any questions re these pages to Charles Daris.

The last 30 pages is all yours re two or three major human rights and "asylum" issues in bilateral relations.

Greg and Sean – As I just mentioned to Sean, I will be happy to receive, by phone or this channel, suggestions from EAP regarding the points Neil Silver raised in his memo to you yesterday.

Although our manuscript review specialists do not normally concern themselves with spelling or “factual” (i.e., not policy-related) errors, I’ll be happy to pass along any changes you suggest.

As for the questions about our [redacted] policy that Neil raised, I suspect you may be able to propose text that would adequately fill out the picture. I would think that adding within page 73 of the manuscript [redacted] would do the trick.

I look forward to hearing back from you, this afternoon if possible.

Thanks and regards,
Paul

Alden/Behar,

I have read the Benghazi chapter ("Under Attack"). On Friday can you please prepare a memo for NEA staff aides (use the one we sent to them on Tuesday as a model) and get it over to them asap. Ask for response by COB Tuesday.

It also needs to go to the CIA but Gelber said not to send it to anyone outside the building before he gets back to us.

I'll pick up on this first thing Monday. Thanks. Chuck

Hello All,

In regards to Ethan's visit, I just want to let you know the status of everything.

- Ethan will come in on Thursday. Exact time unknown as of right now.
- He would like the memo declassified as soon as possible (if possible, by morning. He wants the memo scanned and sent via email will be ideal). If this is not possible, he would like the notes by tomorrow morning (scanned and sent via email).
 - As Ethan pointed out, (even though we both think this is an error), the declassified date is 6/14/2012. The memo is dated 6/15/2012).
- Ethan turned in some chapters to John today and will have some more ready by Thursday.
- Also the deadline to have everything done is coming up in a few weeks.
- Also if I am not mistaken he will follow up the Pat Kennedy discussion.

Sincerely,

Chaniqua D. Nelson

Hillary Clinton describes her book-writing process: Plenty of paper and advice

By Philip Rucker, Updated: Wednesday, March 19, 2:26 PM

NEW YORK — Hillary Rodham Clinton on Wednesday described her study at home as an episode of “Hoarders,” with book notes and chapter drafts piled up all over.

As the former secretary of state finishes her memoir, which she said would cover challenges in the 21st century from Crimea to climate change — “Just another light summer read,” she quipped — Clinton said her advisers, family and friends are vigorously debating the merits of her paragraphs.

Clinton is still mulling a title — although she joked that she was considering “The Scrunchie Chronicles: 112 Countries and It’s Still All About My Hair,” a winner from a reader contest last year in The Washington Post’s “In the Loop” column.

With the political world watching her every move for a signal about her intentions in the 2016 presidential contest, Clinton offered her most intimate look yet at her book-writing process during a speech Wednesday to the Association of American Publishers.

In her book, expected to be released sometime this summer, Clinton will frame her State Department legacy and lay out her views on a range of important policy matters ahead of a potential presidential campaign.

Clinton said the book would be “about my experiences at the State Department, our rapidly changing and increasingly interdependent world, and the challenges facing us in the 21st century.

The book will be Clinton’s fourth, she said, although she noted, “It hasn’t gotten any easier, at least for me, in producing a compelling personal narrative that tries to both captivate and educate along with inspire all at once.”

When Clinton wrote her first memoir, “Living History,” she was a senator and worked on the book in her spare time. After a full day’s work in the Capitol, she said, she would come home and “stay up all hours in the night writing, editing and arguing” with her advisers and friends.

Hillary Clinton describes her book-writing process: Plenty of paper and advice - The Washington Post

“This time I promised myself that it would be different,” Clinton said. “I was leaving the State Department, stepping off that high wire of American diplomacy. There’d be no more interview requests, no frantic media speculation about my plans — just peace and quiet in our little old Chappaqua farmhouse, up in the attic where I hang out.”

Then she deadpanned, “It has not exactly worked out that way.”

Clinton’s book has been hotly anticipated, and political groups have begun battling to define her tenure before she even finishes the manuscript.

Clinton said she is not writing on a computer — “I still write longhand” — and has produced “barrels and barrels of old drafts.”

“In fact, if you see my study at home, you would think it was an episode from ‘The Hoarders’ — the notes, the pages, the drafts. It is amazing,” Clinton said.

The reason she keeps her drafts, she said, is because when she wrote “It Takes a Village” as first lady, some reporters “claimed I never wrote anything in the book.” To prove them wrong, she said, she had to reveal her paper drafts.

Clinton said that she has been relying heavily on her husband, former president Bill Clinton, and daughter, Chelsea, for editing and motivation. “The biggest challenge is deciphering my husband’s writing when he decides to put his two cents in,” she joked.

She also is getting help from editor Jonathan Karp, as well as Carolyn Reidy, president and chief executive of Simon & Schuster, which published her three previous titles.

Reidy, who chairs the Association of American Publishers, introduced Clinton at Wednesday’s meeting before a couple hundred publishing executives.

“She writes her own books,” Reidy said. “And, like all good authors, she works hard on each and every draft of her manuscript as she revises and then revises again, absorbing editorial suggestions.”

As she mulls a title, Clinton joked, she has turned to the “In the Loop” reader contest in The Post for some suggestions.

“One possibility was ‘It Takes a World,’ a fitting sequel to ‘It Takes a Village,’” Clinton said. “Another plays off my love of all things Tina Fey: ‘Bossypantsuit,’ although we can no longer say one of those words” (a reference Fey’s 2011 book “Bossypants” — and Facebook executive Sheryl Sandberg’s recent campaign to ban the word ‘bossy’).

Of the contest winner, “The Scrunchie Chronicles,” Clinton said: “That actually is a keeper. That’s on the short list.”

No, we are totally frozen and losing time. We could have sent the Benghazi chapter to NEA last Friday, and the others needing internal State clearance could have gone on Tuesday.

As to outside clearances, so far the only obligatory ones so far are CIA, and John feels he could work something out so that CIA reviewers would come to us to do it.

As I told you, if more chapters are delivered today I can work on them between now and Monday. c

Alden,

We are instructed to retrieve all/all copies of Clinton manuscript material sent to Department Bureaus. To my knowledge the following material has been sent:

- "Pressure," on Iran. The entire chapter went to the NEA front office and to the Deputy Secretary's office (Mustapha Popal). I'll try to handle the Deputy Secretary's office. Can you follow up with David Wisner in the NEA front office to try to retrieve any copies he shared (Iran desk, possibly NEA/ARP)
- "Back to Beijing" and "Green Light," was sent to China/Japan desks by Paul Blackburn/Neil Silver, probably in their entirety.

You may explain that the texts are being re-written and that we request the return of all/all copies. If some of this material has been sent by email there may be little to be done, but try to get back all paper. I have sent emails to Blackburn and Silver and to Wisner.

Let's talk in the morning. You can reach me at home [redacted] or cell [redacted] I can come in if necessary. Thanks, Chuck

I know I had spoken to Alden yesterday about coming by this afternoon with the remaining chapters. Unfortunately, they're still not quite ready. So I'll hold off on coming in this afternoon. Apologies. Let me see when she finalized the remaining chapters and I will be in touch about getting them to you this week.

Thanks,
Ethan

<< File: Clinton.pdf >> Mustapha,

Per conversation, attached please find the draft chapter on Iran. NEA/IR asked that you pay particular attention to certain details described on pages 12 and 16. NEA raised no other national security concerns, but did flag some factual issues. I am also enclosing the paper with their comments.

Could you kindly let me know as soon as possible whether your office poses any national security objections to the chapter.

The former Secretary's aides are feeding chapters to us as they are ready. So far we have 5 chapters.

Many thanks for your cooperation.

Regards, Chuck

RELEASE IN PART B5

I trust by now, John has relayed the substance of our conversation regarding the session with Ethan this afternoon. I want to be absolutely, positively, totally sure that everyone is in agreement that this is an appropriate and responsible approach...

The three of you will meet with Ethan and convey the results of your review:

You have identified no national security/foreign relations issues in ¹⁴~~fifteen~~ chapters (giving him the numbers).

B5

John will prepare an email to Ethan memorializing the conversation, requesting confirmation and assurance of the requested actions vis a vis the pertinent parts of the three and five chapters.

What do you all think?

With many thanks for all your efforts, Peggy

P.S. I have had a call into the U/S, but have not yet heard from him.

Meeting with Ethan Gelber (notes)
April 3, 2014
3:30 PM

RELEASE IN PART
B1,1.4(D),1.4(C)

In attendance: John Hackett, Charles Daris, Behar Godani and Chaniqua Nelson

Gelber: Stated that they were handing over the manuscript to the copy-editor on Friday (4/4), however revisions would continue to be accepted in the coming weeks.

Hackett: Discussed the status of the Clinton chapters in detail:

- 14 chapters cleared in full
- 3 chapters need minor changes
- 1 chapter is pending review (Iran)
- 5 chapters include presidential communications that would normally go to the White House due to national security interests.

1.4(C)
1.4(D)

Daris: Mentioned that he didn't feel he could make a judgment on the 5 chapters due to national security concerns and largely because the President is still in office. Daris then hands Ethan a list with the status of each chapter.

Discussion follows about the status of the 5 chapters and if/how it will be sent to the White House. Gelber mentions that Denis McDonough has already read the book and that he will also identify someone else in the White to read the book, very likely in its entirety. Gelber agrees to follow up with John after speaking with Sheryl Mills about the best course of action regarding the White House chapters.

In addition, Gelber expressed his gratitude a number of times regarding the expedited review process. He mentioned speaking highly of IPS and the EO team to the Secretary and she in turn had also mentioned her confidence and trust in Pat Kennedy and our team's ability to complete the review of her book.

Finally, Gelber mentioned submitting additional portions of the book including the author's note, epilogue and two personal chapters in the beginning of the book in the coming days. Gelber also mentioned the possibility of coming in a few more times for fact checking.

Eric, Would you pls print the message to Pat below on a white page so it can be delivered to Keith to give to M with the chapter at his 1x1.

April 5, 2013

Pat,

The following is the status of our review of the HRC manuscript - in short, we are done. I had hoped that you'd have a chance to share the substance of your follow-up conversation with Cheryl to confirm that we are on the right track. Absent that, we have proceeded on course to implement our agreed direction to the best of our understanding.

There are a total of 25 chapters in the book, two of which we don't expect to see as they relate to HRC's pre-State period (although there is some indication that they may share the Introduction).

As of Tuesday, the review of ALL 23 chapters given to us (including the 6 chapters delivered last Friday) had been completed.

15 chapters have no national security concerns.

3 chapters have small portions for which we would recommend minor changes.

5 chapters contain White House equities, requiring WH/NSC review.

In view of the need to move forward, I did not want to hold up further action pending consultation with you, so I requested that John Hackett, Chuck Daris, and Nick Murphy meet yesterday with Ethan Gelber (our liaison with the HRC team).

The timing of the meeting was much appreciated as they are supposed to deliver at least something to the publisher today.

The following is what was shared with Ethan (with an email memorializing the transaction to be transmitted by John today):

14 chapters can be published as-is since we found no national security concerns. (Note below regarding the single "cleared" chapter not addressed yesterday)

Pertinent pages from 3 chapters were provided with the recommendation that those highlighted minor portions be edited (with discussion about how to make the "tweaks")

Ethan was advised that we would normally share the remaining 5 chapters with our counterparts at the NSC for review, given the presidential equities (eg., POTUS and VP discussions with HRC and heads of foreign governments, candid comments, etc). In view of the representation that Cheryl Mills herself was coordinating a review of the book by the White House, we made it clear that we deferred to her actions. Ethan indicated that she had shared (or was sharing) the manuscript with the VP's national security advisor and possibly with the COS. Our team emphasized our reliance on her commitment/obligation to ensure this review was undertaken (especially for national security interests) and that we be provided with written confirmation of the effort and results.

At your request, we pulled back all the chapters that had been shared with bureaus. The chapter covering Iran was shared with NEA (the desk cleared it) and with D, especially given his prominence in the chapter. When he surrendered the chapter, it was with the understanding that it would be returned. It was confirmed yesterday that he still wants it back (we're unsure what his expectation is - whether he thinks he can clear it or not). In view of the foregoing lingering uncertainty vis a vis D, this chapter was not included in the meeting with those that could be published as-is. To complete the circle, attached is a copy of the Iran chapter for your decision to provide to D or not - and to do so with whatever explanation you choose to give him. I would propose that we advise Ethan on Monday that we have no national security concerns regarding this chapter and that it can be published as-is.

That completes the State Department review of the HRC manuscript consistent with your direction. We will follow-up with a formal letter conveying our decisions and recommendations.

I trust our actions reflect your direction and agreement with Cheryl.

Best,
Peggy

Ethan,

This note summarizes our discussions of last week regarding the status of the review of the Clinton Book manuscript.

At last week's meeting we passed you a list which indicates the status of our review of each chapter of Secretary Clinton's manuscript. We have identified no national security/foreign relations issues in fourteen chapters. One chapter, relating to Iran, is pending.

We have also identified national security/foreign relations concerns in sections of three chapters. Based on our telephone conversation of Friday, we understand that you have already made the changes to the text that we have asked for; and that these Chapters no longer contain national security/foreign relation issues. When you have a chance, please provide for our records, copies of the pages where the text has been changed.

IPS identified five chapters containing sections with national security/foreign relations concerns insofar as they relate to Presidential communications. We have contacted Mary Ronan, Director, NSC Information Access Branch and will provide her copies of these chapters. We have provided Mary with your contact information and she will communicate with you directly with any recommended text changes. We understand that the entire manuscript will be forward shortly to the NSC/WH, (possibly to Ben Rhodes).

Please let us know if you have any additions/corrections to this summary.

Our best to Secretary Clinton and the Team as you head towards the finish line.

Chuck,

Many thanks for the details on this - and more importantly, for your wise leadership in this entire process.

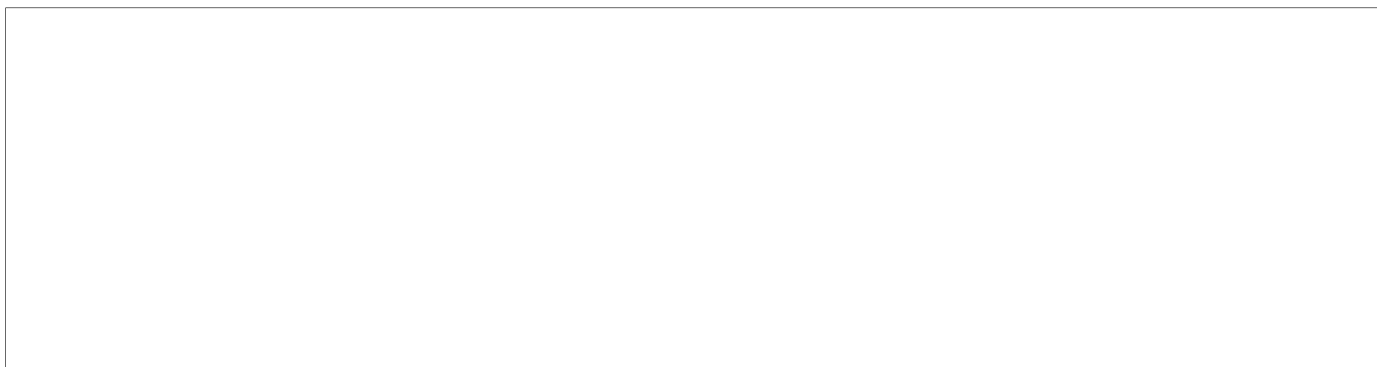

On Friday, I delivered a package (including a copy of the Iran chapter) to Pat with a report on the current state-of-play. My message included our intent to provide Ethan with Chapter 14 today and that I deferred to him whether to return the copy to D or not (with an explanation either way). So, the proverbial ball is in his court vis a vis D, leaving us off the hook.

John, Chuck, and Nick,

Many thanks to you all for working through this exercise in a way that meets HRC's expectations without compromising our obligations to safeguard national security! Sounds like real progress with which the HRC team should be ecstatic.

John, I think you should do the email to memorialize everyone's understanding of what transpired at the meeting. First, to cover the 14 chapters. Then, to cover what was said and our expectations regarding the pertinent portions of the 3 chapters.

It seems that there isn't uncertainty regarding Cheryl's intent - that Ethan (and she) understand the requirement to protect the national security, and that she will ensure that the WH has an opportunity to review the book and meet their obligations in that area. I think that is worth memorializing - and allowing Ethan (and/or Cheryl) to correct the fact that it is our understanding that she has made the commitment and assumed the responsibility for going directly to the right people in the WH for clearance vis a vis the excerpts covering the POTUS/VP and national security - and will so advise us of the results.

So, John, please do the email with input and agreement from Chuck and Nick to ensure that everyone (they and we) walked away from the table with precisely the same understanding. We'll have it for the record - as will they - and there will be no misunderstandings.

Best,

Peggy

Peggy,

A quick note...

We had a good meeting with Ethan Gelber. This conversation came at a perfect time because the Clinton team is required to send "something" to the publisher by tomorrow.

Ethan seemed to be on board with our approach. We told him we had 14 chapters ready to go; 3 that needed tweaking--Chuck walked him through the issues; and one pending [redacted] and the five relating to the WH. B5

Regarding the WH chapters, Ethan understands the Presidential communication and National Security issues relating to these chapters but he was going to defer to Cheryl Mills as to the process of getting the manuscript cleared by the WH. Apparently, Cheryl has already been in touch with the WH; and a copy has been shared with the National Security Advisor for the VP. Ethan suspects that Cheryl will contact the WH Chief of Staff and it will be him or his representative who will review the book. I asked Ethan to let us know when all of this happens and what is the outcome of the WH review. B5

[redacted]

Another loose end is that they still may send us material to review, the introduction, and the two first chapters that do not relate to the Department.

Chuck, please feel free to chime in with any additions if I missed something.

The three of you will meet with Ethan and convey the results of your review:

You have identified no national security/foreign relations issues in fifteen chapters (giving him the numbers). B5

John will prepare an email to Ethan memorializing the conversation, requesting confirmation and assurance of the requested actions vis a vis the pertinent parts of the three and five chapters.

Peggy, Chuck and Alden gave me a verbal status on the Clinton Book yesterday. I then asked Chuck to put a status report together so I could forward something to you. Below is what he came up with.

We still may see the last two chapters, 24 and 25 (the pre-State years) but the Clinton Team wants to start sending materials to their publisher by 4/7 so I am not sure on the timing. We also heard that they will contact the WH on their own. John

Total chapters received: 23

Total chapters cleared by IPS: 13* (15, if Paul Hilburn agrees)

Chapters with important WH equities: 5

- SURGE (Afghanistan)
- GO OR NO GO (Bin Laden raid)
- ANATOMY OF A CEASEFIRE (Isr/Pal)
- GETTING TO THE TABLE (Isr/Pal)
- RESET AND REACTION (Russia/Putin)

Chapters pending minor fixes for possible resolution at working level: 3

*Chapter on Iran, PRESSURE, was withdrawn from Deputy Secretary Burns' office; his office signaled that he may want it back.

Hi Alec – Quick/informal from A/GIS/IPS:

“The State Department completed a pre-publication review of the manuscript that was provided.”

If you need more detail such as timeframe/dates of review, how the review was performed, etc. please let me know so that we can prepare for requisite clearances.

Thanks,
Renee

Hi Renee, Do you know if the Office of Information Programs and Services reviewed/cleared that Clinton book?

And, what does that process entail? Just a check for class info?

Jonathan,

I trust if you have not already received for clearance a letter to Secretary Clinton regarding the review of her manuscript, you will have it early this morning. The review was completed over a week ago (including coordination with the NSC). I would like to get the letter confirming our completed review to her today, if at all possible. For ease of review, it follows the same template we use for informing authors of the results of our pre-publication review, with the exception of my signing it since John is in an acting capacity.

I realize what a crazy busy week this has been for all, but I think it's in the Department's best interest to confirm the results of our review asap.

With thanks and regards,
Peggy

All,

The FOIA office is under pressure to react quickly to a draft memoir by former SecState Clinton. See my review below here.

The questions are (1) do you share my concerns and how they are put? And (2) do you have the capability to quickly read the portions from here book to second-guess me (50 double-spaced and easy to read pages).

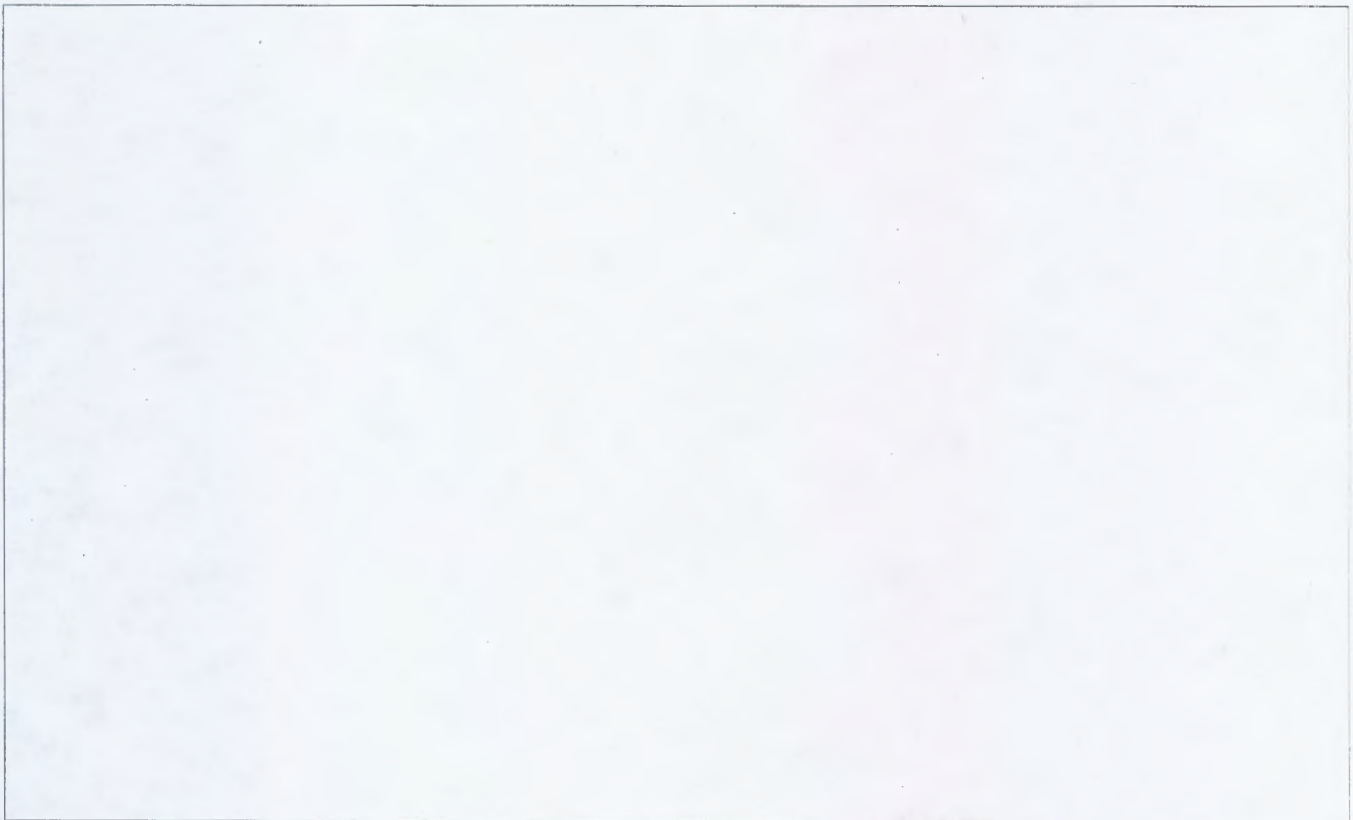

Our general guidance is to look only for compromises of security information, and not to second-guess opinions of former officials in reviewing memoirs. However, if you agree, at a minimum we could recommend that our suggestions be taken into account.

I'd appreciate a quick reaction. Neil Silver ext. 48308

RELEASE IN PART
B6

April 25, 2014

The Honorable
Hillary Rodham Clinton

B6

Dear Mrs. Clinton,

I am pleased to inform you that the State Department has completed our pre-publication review of the draft manuscript for your untitled book and we have determined that, with the minor changes requested, it does not contain national security information. I would like to note with appreciation the collaboration between our respective staffs in furthering this research and review effort, in particular the excellent cooperation from Ethan Gelber in representing your interests.

We understand that your staff has already made the revisions to the text that we requested, including the revision requested by our counterpart at the National Security Council. Ethan has provided copies of the revised text for our records.

Finally, we request that you use the following standard disclaimer, or similar language, in your book:

The opinions and characterizations in this book are those of the author and do not necessarily represent official positions of the United States Government.

With thanks and best regards to you and your team, I remain

Respectfully,

SUBJECT: Referral for Consultation - Former Secretary Clinton
Memoirs

As you are aware, former Secretary of State Hillary Clinton is in the process of submitting her memoirs to the Department for pre-publication security review. She is providing chapters incrementally, as they become ready. You have agreed on an exceptional basis to receive these as they are submitted.

Please review the attached material and advise whether you pose any objections on national security grounds.

Please address your reply to Senior Reviewer Charles Daris,
