

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH & HUMAN SERVICES

ADMINISTRATION FOR CHILDREN AND FAMILIES

Mary E. Switzer Building
330 C ST, S.W.
Washington, D.C. 20201

Case No: 19-F-0248
Civil Action 19-cv-461 (D.D.C.)

August 16, 2019

Ms. Mary Alice Carter
Executive Director
Equity Forward 85
Broad Street
New York, NY 10004

Dear Ms. Carter:

This is the first interim response of the Administration for Children and Families to your November 13, 2018, Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request for records reflecting correspondence between the following HHS officials and any employees or representatives of the following organizations:

1. HHS Officials:

Scott Lloyd
Steven Wagner
Mary Powers

2. Organizations:

Americans United for Life (email addresses ending in @aul.org)
American Association of Pro-Life Obstetricians & Gynecologists (@aaplog.org)
Ascend (@weascend.org)
Charlotte Lozier Institute (@lozierinstitute.org)
Family Research Council (@frc.org)
Focus on the Family (@focusonthefamily.com or @fotf.org)
Knights of Columbus (@kofc.org)
National Institute of Family and Life Advocates (@nifla.org)
National Right to Life (@nrlc.org)
Susan B. Anthony List (@sba-list.org)
US Conference of Catholic Bishops (@usccb.org)
The Heritage Foundation AKA "Heritage (@heritage.org)

Following negotiations between the parties, it was agreed that ACF would exclude the organization "Ascend" and the email account "@weascend.org" from the search results.

Your request was sent to the Office of the Chief Information Officer for a search for responsive records. Accordingly, please find enclosed 495 pages of responsive records. Two (2) additional pages were forwarded to the Office of the Secretary (OS), Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) for consultation on those pages that originated within those offices. Some of the information on the disclosed pages has been withheld under the FOIA exemptions (b)(5) and (b)(6).

The FOIA exemption (b)(5) protects inter-agency or intra-agency memoranda or letters which would not be available by law to a party other than an agency in litigation with the agency. The exemption protects agency deliberations, both internal and with agency contractors and consultants, attorney-client privileged records and attorney work product.

Exemption (b)(6) permits the withholding of records which, if released, would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy.

Sincerely yours,

Carla C.

Tim,

Julie told me she believed all paperwork would be finished today, and to plan to arrive Monday.

I could do that if you're ready for me. I'm sure it's been busy today.

Just let me know.

Thank you,
Scott

Mrs. Stirrup,

I heard that you attended the St. Katharine Drexel Mardi Gras Ball on Saturday and spoke with (b)(6). She said it was great to catch up with you - (b)(6) (b)(6).

I believe (b)(6) told you that I applied for an internship at the Susan B. Anthony List and that you may have some contacts there. I'd truly appreciate it if you could put in a good word for me. Through my time at (b)(6) and (b)(6) (b)(6) I have been passionate about furthering the prolife movement and believe that I would be an excellent candidate for an internship. I graduate from (b)(6) on (b)(6) and would be able to start on (b)(6) or anytime after.

Thank you so much for your help!

Sincerely,

The Health Consequences of Sex Trafficking and Their Implications for Identifying Victims in Healthcare Facilities

Laura J. Lederer and Christopher A. Wetzel

INTRODUCTION

[W]hen I turned 13 I'd had enough of the abuse in home and I ran away. I didn't know where to go so I went to the center of town and stood by the town hall. A man saw me hanging around there and he said that he was looking for a 'protégé.' I didn't know what it was but it sounded fine to me. He said that I could stay at his house if I didn't have a place to stay. . . . When we got to his house he pulled out a bottle of gin and had me drink and drink. The next thing I remember is waking up drunk in his bed all wet and hurt. He took me out on the street and told me what to do . . . During that time I saw 10 to 20 men a day. I did what he said because he got violent when I sassed him. I took all kinds of drugs—even though I didn't really like most of them . . . Over the years I had pimps and customers who hit me, punched me, kicked me, beat me, slashed me with a razor. I had forced unprotected sex and got pregnant three times and had two abortions at [a clinic]. Afterward, I was back out on the street again. I have so many scars all over my body and so many injuries and so many illnesses. I have hepatitis C and stomach and back pain and a lot of psychological issues. I tried to commit suicide several times.

in the United States. Experiences like the ones she describes were reported by trafficking survivors who answered questions about their trafficking experience in a series of focus groups. Her story represents not the worst that occurs in sex trafficking, but rather, the common experience of women and girls trafficked into commercial sex by a criminal industry that generates an estimated $33.9 billion per year worldwide.²

This paper explores the health consequences and healthcare experiences of women and girls trafficked in the United States for commercial sex. The paper is based on an original study of over one hundred domestic sex trafficking victims and survivors. It provides evidence that women and children who are trafficked into prostitution are physically, mentally, and emotionally devastated by the crime, and this devastation is lasting – with injuries, illnesses, and impairments continuing for decades. It illustrates how our healthcare system is failing trafficked women and children. It makes the case that health care providers of all kinds – in emergency wards, healthcare clinics, and private practices – are seeing trafficking victims but failing to identify them, thereby unwittingly contributing to continuing criminal activity and exacerbating both public and private physical and mental health problems for this segment of the population. It offers recommendations on ways that public policy and healthcare practice can combat sex trafficking by more readily identifying victims and catalyzing rescues. Finally, it argues that law, policy, and protocols must change in order to adequately address the health consequences of sex trafficking.

Section I briefly summarizes previous studies on health and human trafficking and puts the current study in context. Section II describes the current study, including methodology used to collect information from survivors. Section III presents the results of the study, detailing findings on survivors' physical and mental health issues. In addition, it describes victims' contact with healthcare providers during the time they were trafficked. Section IV summarizes critical issues in the provision of health care for sex trafficking victims, with particular attention to reproductive health care. Finally, Section V sets forth recommendations for legislators, policymakers, and healthcare professionals.

I. PREVIOUS LITERATURE AND CONTEXT

The current study fills a gap in the growing body of literature on health and violence in the context of sex trafficking. A majority of trafficking-related studies have focused on trafficking outside of the United States. These studies have often concentrated narrowly on one or two aspects of sex trafficking, such as the prevalence of sexually transmitted diseases/infections (STDs/STIs)³ or mental health issues,⁴ though a few took a more comprehensive approach to examining the health and violence-related experiences of women in the commercial sex industry.⁵ International studies established that trafficking victims are subject to a myriad of physical and psychological symptoms stemming from extensive abuse.⁶

Recently, some researchers have undertaken domestic studies on sex trafficking as well.⁷ Three early studies surveyed 100 or more women and touched on the problems that the instant study examines, but were each limited to a single city and examined a comparatively small number of health consequences.⁸ The most comprehensive early study interviewed victims in five U.S. regions and discussed violence at length while touching on both physical and mental health consequences.⁹ However, it was small and somewhat narrow in focus.¹⁰

These studies saw high rates of participation and asked respondents about their overall health condition but did not discuss specific physical health symptoms and limited participation to victims who were current drug users and still active in the commercial sex trade. See, e.g., Surratt et al., supra, at 46; Kurtz et al., Barriers, supra, at 346. Another 2004 study made unique contributions to the literature, revealing disturbing mortality rates among women in prostitution in Colorado and concluding that "[w]omen engaged in prostitution face the most dangerous occupational environment in the United States." are especially relevant. A 2010 survey of 117 Minneapolis women examined the impact of victims' age of entry into commercial sex on substance abuse and HIV risk.¹² Because of these emphases, however, it discussed physical and emotional health consequences only at a high level of generality, such as whether participants "ever had an STD" or "ever experienced emotional violence."¹³ Another 2011 study of 105 Native American women engaged in commercial sex in Minnesota¹⁴ covered a substantial range of violent experiences, physical and health symptoms, and drugs, as well as Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD).¹⁵ The study contains some discussion of other mental health symptoms, but primarily in the context of determining whether the victims suffered from PTSD.

These studies set the stage for our current, more expansive study, which looks at over 200 health issues in more detail and across a broader geographic and ethnic spectrum. As far as can be determined, our study is the first to examine many of the reproductive health issues experienced by sex trafficking victims, including birth control usage, pregnancies, miscarriages, and forced and elective abortions. In addition, it analyzes health care access and interactions and collects data on symptoms experienced both during and after trafficking.

II. METHODS

This study collected data from female sex trafficking survivors.¹⁶ The study used a mixed-methods approach, combining qualitative data collection from focus groups and structured interviews with quantitative analysis. An initial feasibility study using a single focus group was conducted in November of 2011. Following this initial focus group, a series of eleven similar focus groups were conducted in cities across the United States from January 2012 to December 2012.¹⁷ Local leaders in the anti-trafficking movement, often survivor-led service providers, were asked to assist in locating survivors in their cities who wished to participate in the study. The focus groups included 107 participants, all domestic survivors of sex trafficking, ranging in age from fourteen to sixty. During these focus groups, participants commented on and discussed a range of topics, including subjects such as any early childhood trauma, the age at which they were trafficked, how they were recruited, how long they were held in captivity, and the overarching health issues they experienced. Following the focus group sessions, survivors completed an extensive health survey.¹⁸

16. The terms "survivor" and "trafficking survivor" will be used throughout to refer to the individuals interviewed in this study. "Victim" and "trafficking victim" will refer generally to individuals who are victims of trafficking as defined by the Trafficking Victims Protection Act of 2000. 22 U.S.C.A. § 7102(15) (West, WestlawNext through P.L. 106-386). The statute defines "sex trafficking" as "the recruitment, harboring, transportation, provision, or obtaining of a person for the purpose of a commercial sex act." § 7102(10).

The health survey included three components. In the first component, survivors reported on more than one hundred discrete health conditions drawn primarily from the World Health Organization's Statistical Classification of Diseases and Related Health Problems.¹⁹ These health problems ranged from neurological and gastrointestinal symptoms to respiratory, cardiovascular, and dermatological conditions. Survivors answered questions about conditions in categories including, general health, communicable and non-communicable diseases, dental health, substance abuse, as well as nearly thirty psychological symptoms and disorders. The first component also asked about a range of sexually transmitted infections, gynecological and urinary tract conditions, birth control usage, pregnancy, and pregnancy outcomes.

Because of the ubiquity of violence in sex trafficking,²⁰ the first component also sought information about violence that the trafficking victim endured. The questionnaire asked whether the victim had been subjected to physical abuse, such as being beaten, punched, kicked, raped, penetrated with foreign objects, threatened with a weapon, burned with cigarettes, strangled, stabbed, slashed, or forced to have unprotected sex. In addition to physical violence, victims indicated whether they were violated in other ways, such as being asked to participate in pornography, recreate a scene from pornographic material, or submit to abuse by a person in authority.

The second component of the survey consisted of a series of open-ended questions about health care. It asked such questions as whether and how long the victim used birth control during the time she was trafficked, where the birth control was obtained, who escorted the victim to the facility where birth control was obtained, and the type of birth control used. Because previous studies have identified health care providers as critical potential identifiers of trafficking victims,²¹ the second component also asked what types of facilities survivors had visited to receive medical treatment and whether the healthcare provider asked or knew about their situations. Each victim also answered more detailed reproductive health questions, including her history of pregnancies, miscarriages, abortions and live births, where the abortions and/or births occurred, and whether she maintained custody of any children she had. With respect to abortion, the victim indicated how many abortions she had undergone, at what stage of pregnancy, and whether the abortion was coerced.

The final component of the questionnaire asked victims about the symptoms they experienced after escaping trafficking. This component covered the same range of physical and psychological symptoms as the first component. A full copy of a completed questionnaire is included in this article's Appendix.

Answers from the questionnaires were coded and entered in a spreadsheet. For questions in the first and third components where survivors circled symptoms to indicate that they had experienced them, a binary coding system (1 if circled, 0 if not) was used. For the open-ended second component, common answers were assigned a number and for questions where survivors gave an unwieldy variety of answers, the least common answers were grouped into a single "other" category.²² When

22. Coded data came almost exclusively from the questionnaires. Survivors' focus survivors did not answer a question, the response was coded as “N/A.”

This coding system allowed the spreadsheet program to count how many survivors gave each response by counting how many cells in a column were filled with a given number. The totals were then calculated as percentages both of all survivors and of those who answered the particular question. The results section analyzes the frequency with which individual symptoms and experiences were reported by the survivors in this study as well as the percentages of victims who reported at least one symptom or experience in a given category.

III. RESULTS

A. Physical Health Symptoms

I am telling you that you have to not be in your sober mind to run these tricks—you just can't do it straight so everyone on the street is hooked on some drug. I've done drugs so long I have really hurt my body. I have kidney disease, liver problems, hepatitis C, high blood pressure, polymyositis [an inflammatory muscular disease], and fibroid tumors.

–Taylor, survivor

Survivors suffered tremendously, virtually without exception. Out of 106 survivors,²³ 105 (99.1%) reported at least one physical health problem during trafficking. The most frequently reported physical problems were neurological—91.5% of respondents²⁴ reported at least one neurological symptom and 82.1% specifically reporting memory problems, insomnia, or poor concentration. Headaches or migraines (53.8%) and dizziness (34.0%) were also common symptoms. The trafficking experience ravaged the general health of victims as well, with 85.7% reporting at least one symptom in the general health category. In particular, the respondents' dietary health was often poor. Severe weight loss (42.9%), malnutrition (35.2%), loss of appetite (46.7%), and eating disorders (36.2%) were especially common; 71.4% of respondents reporting at least one of these diet-related symptoms.

The toll of constant commercial sexual exploitation and physical abuse on the victims led to a range of additional conditions. Physical injuries group statements were consulted only in the few instances where a questionnaire answer was unambiguous and the survivor's statements clarified it.

23. One participant did not fill out the first component of the survey.

24. Because many interviewees did not answer every question, percentages given are of respondents who answered the particular question, not necessarily of all 107 interviewees.

were rampant, with nearly 70% of victims reported physical injuries, most commonly to the head or face. Symptoms not conventionally associated with sexual abuse were only slightly less common: 67.9% of respondents experienced some type of cardiovascular or respiratory difficulty and 61.3% suffered from gastrointestinal symptoms while being trafficked. More than half of the survivors (54.3%) reported dental problems, with tooth loss the most common problem (42.9%). The only major health category in which less than half of respondents reported a symptom was dermatological issues, which were nonetheless reported by 27.4% of respondents. This study's findings of widespread physical health consequences are generally consistent with the results of previous domestic studies and build on their findings by revealing a more comprehensive picture of the health issues that plague trafficking victims.²⁵ times. I don't think anyone is out on the street without having these long lasting effects."

26. The small differences in the number of respondents are due to some subjects electing to fill out some portions of the questionnaire but not others. Judgment occasionally had to be exercised by coders as to whether a given victim had not answered a section or had indicated not experiencing any of the symptoms. However, such judgment was required on only a small minority of surveys and was made with a presumption against selective completion of the questionnaire.

—Amanda, survivor

Survivors were overwhelmingly traumatized not only physically, but also mentally. The brutal treatment they endured created ongoing psychological and mental conditions in many of these victims and exploited existing mental instability in others. All but two of those who responded to the survey (104/106, 98.1%) reported at least one psychological issue during their captivity and survivors noted an average of more than a dozen (12.11). The most frequently reported problems included depression (88.7%), anxiety (76.4%), nightmares (73.6%), flashbacks (68.0%), low self-esteem (81.1%), and feelings of shame or guilt (82.1%). The picture painted by these surveys and the personal interviews that accompanied many of them is one of complete mental devastation. A substantial number of survivors suffered from other psychological disorders, including acute stress (38.7%), bipolar (30.2%), depersonalization (19.8%), multiple personality (13.2%), and borderline personality (13.2%) disorders.

Two additional and particularly chilling reporting rates confirm the extent of mental trauma that survivors suffered: 41.5% had attempted suicide (one victim reported 9 such attempts) and 54.7% suffered from Post Traumatic Stress Disorder. The psychological consequences that the trafficking victims in these focus groups reported were wide-ranging, severe, and in some cases nearly universal. As with physical symptoms, the findings on the psychological consequences of trafficking are consistent with other studies.²⁷

Even the escape from their trafficking circumstances was far from a remedy for the psychological suffering of survivors. When reporting on their health experiences after trafficking, 96.4% of survivors reported at least one psychological symptom and an average of 10.5. As the table below indicates, there were only minor improvements in the number of psychological problems experienced when the victims escaped from their trafficking situations. Sex trafficking took a lasting mental and emotional as well as physical toll on nearly every survivor in the study.

C. Reproductive Issues

If I hadn't had my children when I was young, I wouldn't be able to have them because I have had so many STDs and gynecological problems—including pelvic inflammatory disease, cervical infections, gonorrhea, herpes, chlamydia—I can't have children now.

–Megan, survivor

Not surprisingly, survivors also reported significant numbers of reproductive health problems while they were being trafficked. Most notably, more than two-thirds of these women (67.3%) contracted some form of sexually-transmitted disease or infection (STD/STI). Survivors reported significantly higher rates of chlamydia (39.4%) and gonorrhea

28. Some respondents answered only the questions about symptoms experienced during trafficking, accounting for the difference in number of respondents for during and post-trafficking questions.

(26.9%) than the next most common disease (Hepatitis C, 15.4%). Well over half of survivors (63.8%) reported at least one gynecological symptom other than STDs/STIs, with pain during sex (46.2%), urinary tract infections (43.8%), and vaginal discharge (33.3%) among the most common such symptoms. The extent of reproductive health issues that survivors reported is hardly surprising due to the extreme levels of sexual abuse these women endured. On average, the respondents reported being used for sex by approximately thirteen buyers per day,²⁹ with a median response of ten. Some respondents reported typical days of as many as thirty to fifty buyers.

Reporting problems complicated the data regarding pregnancies and their results, with some respondents answering related questions inconsistently.³⁰ While these reporting issues make precision impossible, the data merits concluding with confidence that pregnancy, miscarriage, and abortion were all common experiences for survivors in the study. Even without accounting for possible underreporting, forty-seven of the sixty-six women (71.2%) who gave an answer for the number of pregnancies they had during trafficking reported at least one pregnancy while being trafficked; fourteen of these (21.2% of respondents) reported five or more pregnancies. Of the

29. Where victims gave a range for the number of buyers per day, the answer was coded as the median of that range, using the lower median where the range contained an even number of possibilities. For example, an answer of 5-7 was coded as 6 and an answer of 10-15 was coded as 12.

30. For example, thirty-four respondents circled "pregnancy" as something they experienced during trafficking in the survey's first component, but an additional nineteen women gave a number of one or greater to the open-ended question "How many pregnancies did you have while being trafficked?" in the second component of the survey despite not having circled "pregnancy" earlier, bringing the total to fifty-three. There is reason to believe, however, that even the combined total of fifty-three women may underreport the number who experienced a pregnancy because many of the victims may have had different standards for what counted as a pregnancy. In some cases, the victims appeared not to count pregnancies that ended in abortion or miscarriage, reporting for example, two pregnancies, two live births, two miscarriages, and one abortion. Thus, women whose pregnancies all ended in miscarriage or abortion may not be reflected even in the combined total of fifty-three. Similar discrepancies occurred on a smaller scale with regard to miscarriages (thirty-two subjects circled, ten more did not circle but reported one or more, and two subjects who had circled nonetheless reported zero as the number they had) and abortions (thirty-nine subjects circled, three additional subjects did not circle but reported having one or more). There were additional inconsistent sequences of answers about pregnancies and pregnancy outcomes. Thirty-nine subjects reported numbers of births, miscarriages, and abortions that totaled a different number than the subject reported as her total number of pregnancies or gave otherwise conflicting answers. In most of these cases, there was no obvious explanation that accounted for the difference. Possible explanations include varying standards of what counts as a pregnancy, multiple-child births (twins, triplets, etc.), and answering different questions with reference to different periods of time (i.e., counting only pregnancies occurring during trafficking but counting all miscarriages, births, or abortions whether before, during, or after trafficking).

sixty-four respondents who gave an answer for the number of miscarriages they experienced, thirty-five (54.7%) had at least one miscarriage and nineteen (29.7%) had more than one.³¹ Similarly, more than half (55.2%) of the sixty-seven respondents who answered reported at least one abortion, with twenty respondents (29.9%) reporting multiple abortions. Without accounting for possible underreporting, this subset of responding survivors reported a total of 114 abortions.

The prevalence of forced abortions is an especially disturbing trend in sex trafficking. Prior research noted that forced abortions were a reality for many victims of sex trafficking outside the United States³² and at least one study noted forced abortions in domestic trafficking.³³ The survivors in this study similarly reported that they often did not freely choose the abortions they had while being trafficked. While only thirty-four respondents answered the question whether their abortions were of their own volition or forced upon them, more than half (eighteen) of that group indicated that one or more of their abortions was at least partly forced upon them.³⁴ One victim noted that “in most of [my six abortions,] I was under serious pressure from my pimps to abort the babies.” Another survivor, whose abuse at the hands of her traffickers³⁵ was particularly brutal, reported seventeen abortions and indicated that at least some of them were forced on her. Notably, the phenomenon of forced abortion as it occurs in sex trafficking transcends the political boundaries of the abortion debate, violating both the pro-life belief that abortion takes innocent life and the pro-choice ideal of women's freedom to make their own reproductive choices.

D. Violence, Abuse, and Humiliation

I've had a hard life during this time—16 years on the street, 10 to 20 customers per day. I've been hit, punched, kicked, beaten, whipped with a belt, forced to have sex, threatened with a weapon, shot at, and had my head split open. . . . One of my regulars got together with some friends and kidnapped me. They held me against my will, put a belt around my neck, and forced me to do all kinds of horrible things. When I said I didn't want to they said they would kill my family.

—Nicole, survivor

The survey asked survivors if they had experienced violence or abuse, listing twelve possible forms.³⁶ These included being threatened with a weapon, shot, strangled, burned, kicked, punched, beaten, stabbed, raped, or penetrated with a foreign object. The survey also asked about other kinds of abuse such as threats, intimidation, verbal abuse and humiliation. Nearly all the survivors (92.2%) reported being the victim of at least one form of physical violence. Many survivors had suffered more than half of these experiences. Respondents reported an average of 6.25 of the 12 forms of violence. Likewise, most of these abuses were the rule rather than the exception—eight of the twelve were reported by half or more of the respondents, including behaviors as extreme as strangulation. In their interviews, survivors described additional ways they were abused. One survivor was whipped and had bleach poured on her, while another was forced to eat feces and was hung by her arms in a closet. As another survivor describes, “[my pimp] had his girls out on the streets every night. It was either you made the [money] for him or you got beat.” In addition to the abuses detailed below, almost all survivors reported serious verbal involvement in sex trafficking near Washington, D.C., see Laura J. Lederer & Justin Davis, Street Gangs and Human Trafficking in the Greater Washington, D.C. Area (Aug. 1, 2013) (unpublished manuscript) (on file with authors).

36. The specific forms on the survey were being threatened with a weapon, strangulation, burning with cigarettes, being kicked, punched, beaten, or beaten with an object, stabbing/slashing, rape (vaginal, oral, or anal), penetration with foreign objects, forced unprotected sex, and abuse by a person of authority.

abuse, including repeatedly being called derogatory names, treated as less than human, and being deprived of basic physical and emotional needs such as food, sleep, and a caring environment.

Common Forms of Violence/Abuse	% Reporting (N=103)
Some form of violence/abuse	95.1%
Forced sex	81.6%
Punched	73.8%
Beaten	68.9%
Kicked	68.0%
Forced unprotected sex	68.0%

Abused by person of authority	50.5%

In addition to physical mistreatment, some victims were subjected to other forms of degradation, such as recreating scenes from pornography (29.3%) or being forcibly recorded for pornographic purposes (17.1%). Other studies confirm the prevalence of violence against trafficking victims.³⁷

E. Substance Abuse

I started doing drugs, specifically cocaine down at the local go-go bar, and eventually I tried heroin. I was a mess, wrecked my life, wasted it on drugs because I'd been raped and I didn't think I mattered to anyone. When I was 31 years old I started dating a . . . guy who was a drug dealer. We dealt together, did crack together, and he started prostituting me to close drug deals.

Many survivors were dependent on drugs or alcohol while they were trafficked either because the substances were forced on them as a control mechanism by their traffickers³⁸ or because substance use was a means of coping with the immense abuse they suffered. 84.3% used alcohol, drugs, or both during their captivity and more than a quarter (27.9%) said that forced substance use was a part of their trafficking experience. More than a quarter of victims reported injected drugs and overdoses (27.2% and 26.0% respectively). As the following table indicates, alcohol, marijuana, and cocaine were the most common substances but others were prevalent as well.

Table 5. Substance Abuse in Sex Trafficking

Overwhelmingly, survivors were the objects of repeated and extreme violence and were frequently driven to substance abuse either by force or by their dire circumstances.

IV. CRITICAL ISSUES IN PROVISION OF HEALTH CARE FOR VICTIMS OF SEX TRAFFICKING

During the time I was on the street, I went to hospitals, urgent care clinics, women's health clinics, and private doctors. No one ever asked me anything anytime I ever went to a clinic. . . . I was on birth control during the 10 years I was on the streets—mostly Depo-Provera shots which I got at the Planned Parenthood and other neighborhood clinics. I also got the morning-after pill from them. I was young and so I had to have a waiver signed in order to get these—one of the doctors (a private doctor I think) signed this waiver when my uncle took me to see him.

—Lauren, survivor

Despite their abusive situations, most survivors did receive medical treatment at some point during their trafficking. Of those who answered the questions about their contact with healthcare (N=98), 87.8% had contact with a healthcare provider while they were being trafficked. By far the most frequently reported treatment site was a hospital/emergency room, with 63.3% being treated at such a facility. Survivors also had significant contact with clinical treatment facilities, most commonly Planned Parenthood clinics, which more than a quarter of survivors (29.6%) visited. More than half (57.1%) of respondents had received treatment at some type of clinic (urgent care, women’s health, neighborhood, or Planned Parenthood).

their victims,⁴¹ these points of contact with healthcare represent rare opportunities for victim identification and intervention.⁴² In addition, because of the hearsay exception in the Federal Rules of Evidence for statements made for medical treatment (regardless of whether the declarant testifies),⁴³ statements by victims to healthcare professionals should usually be admissible in a trafficking prosecution.⁴⁴

These opportunities have largely been missed as even those healthcare professionals who recognized that victims might have been “on the street” rarely understood that they had a pimp/trafficker. Just over half (51.9%) of respondents who answered (N=81) said that at least some of the time the doctor knew they were “on the street,” while the remaining respondents did not believe doctors were aware of their situations. Almost half of survivors (43.1%) (N=58) said the doctor asked them something about their lives,⁴⁵ but only 19.5% of those who answered (N=41) reported that the doctor knew they had a pimp.⁴⁶ At least two prior studies have demonstrated that medical care providers are woefully unprepared to identify trafficking

OXFORD DICTIONARIES, <http://oxforddictionaries.com/definition/english/pimp?q=pimp> (last visited Nov. 26, 2013). These actions fall within the TVPA’s definition of sex trafficking, 22 U.S.C. § 7102(10) (West, WestlawNext through P.L. 106-386) (defining sex trafficking as “the recruitment, harboring, transportation, provision, or obtaining of a person for the purpose of a commercial sex act.”). Pimps are, therefore, one subset of traffickers.

43. FED. R. EVID. 803(4). The exception permits the admission of statements that are “made for—and [are] reasonably pertinent to—medical diagnosis or treatment” and describe “past or present symptoms or sensations; their inception; or their general cause.” Id.

44. While such statements must be “made for . . . medical diagnosis or treatment” purposes, courts have construed this requirement in a manner favorable to sexual assault and rape victims, generally permitting the admission of statements that identify an abuser because the identity of an abuser is pertinent to diagnosis and treatment in sexually abusive contexts. See, e.g., Morgan v. Foretich, 846 F.2d 941, 948-50 (4th Cir. 1988); U.S. v. Renville, 779 F.2d 430, 435-39 (8th Cir. 1988); U.S. v. George, 960 F.2d 97, 99-100 (9th Cir. 1992); U.S. v. Tome, 61 F.3d 1446, 1450 (10th Cir. 1995); U.S. v. Chaco, 801 F. Supp. 2d 1217, 1227 (D.N.M. 2011). This rationale would logically extend to the sex trafficking context as well, especially where the victim is a minor.

45. Several survivors noted in the margins of their surveys that they were unable to answer questions about their lives or situations honestly either because their pimp/trafficker was present or because they feared reprisal from their pimp.

46. Even these numbers may overstate trafficking awareness on the part of medical personnel. One respondent indicated that the physician who treated them had an established relationship with the pimp. If other survivors said their doctors were aware they had a pimp because of similar situations, the awareness statistic would be skewed.

As noted above, pregnancy, miscarriage, and abortion were all experienced by half or more of survivors who answered questions about them. Several other survivors said that they had hysterectomies or tubal ligations either during or after trafficking and another two survivors were sold specifically for sodomy in order to avoid pregnancy. Healthcare providers who specialize in these types of care are therefore particularly likely to have opportunities for identification and intervention. Clinics that perform abortions must be especially vigilant in efforts to recognize possible trafficking victims. Roughly two-thirds (67.6%) of survivors who specified a location (N=37) identified a clinic as the site of their abortion(s), far outpacing hospitals (16.2%) and other sites (13.5%). One survivor described her situation:

I got pregnant six times and had six abortions during this time. Several of them were from a doctor who was a client—he did them ‘back door’—I came in the back door after hours and paid him off the books. This kept my name off any records.... I think he felt like he was helping. At least one of my abortions was from Planned Parenthood because they didn’t ask any questions. But they were expensive and on the street you didn’t want to pay $250, $300, or more. So you went ‘back door’ where the charge was more like $150. I had so much scar tissue from these abortions because there was no follow-up and in a couple of cases I had bad infections, so bad that I eventually lost my fallopian tubes [and had to have a hysterectomy].⁴⁸

49. Those who specified the “other” site of their abortion mentioned an abortionist’s home, doctor’s offices (including an OB/GYN), and an Arkansas back alley.

Survivors also interacted with medical professionals for purposes of obtaining birth control. A large majority (80.9%) of those who answered the question (N=73) indicated that they had used some form of birth control for some portion of their time being trafficked. Of those who specified where they obtained the birth control (N=59), approximately half (51.7%) said they had obtained it from a doctor or clinic. More than half (65.2%) of respondents said that they went alone to the doctor or other source where they obtained birth control. Together, these responses indicate that a significant number of trafficking victims see healthcare providers (especially clinics and doctors) to obtain birth control without trafficker supervision, suggesting that medical staff have a rare opportunity to communicate one-on-one with victims.⁵⁰

VI. RECOMMENDATIONS

A. General Awareness: Common Symptoms and Warning Signs

Medical professionals must be made aware of critical signals for identifying trafficking victims. An important part of this training should be to help the health care professional understand the coercive dynamic of trafficking, especially the extreme degree of control exercised by traffickers, and the prevalence of this criminal exploitation of women and girls. Setting up internal protocols, procedures and regulations can further

50. While condoms (readily available in non-medical settings) were the most common form of birth control, nearly half of survivors (47.5%) used another type of birth control instead of or in addition to condoms. Thus, requests for birth control by noticeably young girls who also show signs of injury or abuse could be viable warning signals of a possible trafficking situation for medical professionals.

51. In addition to the contraceptive forms of birth control listed here, 25% of survivors who answered (N=60) reported use of the “morning-after pill.”

these goals and assist medical care providers in their vital role as identifiers of trafficking victims.

Based on the reported symptoms of survivors, a number of particularly widespread health-related consequences of trafficking should serve as warning signs to medical professionals. The most suggestive physical symptoms are injuries from physical violence, since this was a nearly universal experience for the survivors in the study. Signs of being kicked, punched, or beaten, all of which at least two thirds of respondents reported, should be a major “red flag” along with any signs of forced sex (reported by 81.6%), and head or facial injuries (each reported by more than half of survivors). While these may also be signals of domestic violence, their presence in patients seeking multiple abortions or treatment for sexually transmitted or serious communicable diseases may help healthcare providers to distinguish possible sex trafficking situations. Indications of extreme forms of violence (such as strangulation, stabbing, cigarette burns or gunshot wounds) also may be important clues for identification since these would have far fewer alternate explanations. One researcher notes that tattoos identifying the victim as the “property” of a particular trafficker could also alert care providers,⁵² though these may be difficult to recognize.

In addition, those psychological symptoms that were particularly common among trafficking victims should be useful warning signs. Depression was the most common symptom for survivors (88.7%) and anxiety, irritability, nightmares, low self-esteem, and feelings of shame/guilt were all reported by more than 70% of survivors as well. The combination of these symptoms should therefore arouse suspicion when displayed by patients who repeatedly require reproductive health services, when an older or controlling male figure is present with the patient, and when the patient also presents signs of physical abuse. The well-documented rates of PTSD in trafficking victims,⁵³ (54.7% of survivors in this study) make it another important clue to identifying trafficking victims. Indications of attempted or repeated self-harm would likewise be a reason for considering trafficking as a possibility in these context, since 46.2% of respondents reported suicide ideation and 41.5% had attempted suicide.

The presence of sexually transmitted diseases or infections is another major identifier because nearly two-thirds (67.3%) of survivors reported having at least one such disease. Multiple or serial cases of such diseases or infections is a particularly strong signal that should immediately raise the possibility of a trafficking situation in the minds of healthcare providers. Because of the overwhelming rate of substance abuse (84.3%) that survivors reported, signs of alcohol and/or drug abuse could also be a significant warning sign when observed in patients who require reproductive health services at a young age, appear to be controlled by another person, or also exhibit the physical and psychological symptoms detailed above.

Clinics and other abortion providers should be especially attentive to warning signs particularly with regard to younger patients. Multiple abortions and evidence of coercion (such as the presence of a significantly older or controlling “boyfriend,” or the physical and psychological symptoms discussed above) in these patients should prompt the healthcare provider to seek more information about the patient’s situation. More than half (52.9%) of survivors (N=34) indicated that at least one abortion was partly or wholly forced on them, making this concern especially grave.

These warning signs are not intended to be exhaustive or authoritative, but they build on and refine the suggestions of prior research.⁵⁴ To be sure, there are myriad other physical and psychological symptoms that could alert medical staff to the possibility that a patient is a victim of trafficking and many other contexts in which victims seek medical services. Nonetheless, the symptoms and service contexts most mentioned by survivors should prove particularly relevant to the problem of victim identification by medical professionals and may also lead to conversations that could later assist prosecutors because of their likely admissibility under the Federal Rules of Evidence.

B. Protocols for Identifying Victims and Catalyzing Rescues

Interaction between medical care providers and victims is an extraordinarily delicate situation. Because some victims may come alone, the health provider has an opportunity, if trust level and other considerations allow, to ask questions about the possible victim’s situation and to provide her with resources like contact information for rescue and other services. Existing literature and this study both provide some guidance for carefully making the most of these opportunities.

54. See, e.g., Isaac et al., supra note 52, at 9-10; T.K. Logan et al., Understanding Human Trafficking in the United States, 10 VIOLENCE, TRAUMA, & ABUSE 3, 19-20 (2009); Jeffrey Barrows & Reginald Finger, Human Trafficking and the Healthcare Professional, 101 S. MED. J., 521, 522-23 (2008); Cole, supra note 21, at 468; Patricia A. Crane & Melissa Moreno, Human Trafficking: What is the Role of Health Care Provider?, 2 J. APPLIED RES. ON CHILD 1, 6-7 (2011).

Building trust with possible victims is a critical first step and requires patience and cultural sensitivity on the part of medical professionals:

Building trust with trafficking victims may be a slow process and requires patience and determination. Taking the time to build rapport is critical. . . . The [health care provider] must have the humility to accept and acknowledge that there may be much about the victim's culture they do not understand, and that the impact of such taboos may be significant in that culture. Many small steps are needed to build trust, such as open-ended questions, few interruptions, and a private area to talk. Often more than one visit is needed, and the victim may need to be told to return to the clinic to reevaluate a health care issue when the HCP strongly suspects trafficking and further assessment and questioning is desired to get a patient to open up. Messages for the HCP to convey in private with a suspected victim include a focus on safety, getting healthy, and that the victim's welfare is the highest priority.⁵⁵

Because traffickers often accompany victims to treatment and their presence may prevent truthful answers, victims should be interviewed in private if at all possible.⁵⁶ Separation should be done discreetly,⁵⁷ perhaps by requesting that the male figure assist with paperwork or remain in the waiting room while staff obtain specimens.⁵⁸

Asking directly whether the patient is a victim of trafficking may be meaningless and directly asking about the most traumatic aspects of trafficking is also "ill-advised."⁵⁹ Rather, a series of "sensitive probing questions" can help uncover or unpack the underlying trafficking situation. For example, the health care sector can borrow from the law profession. Legal aid attorneys working on custody cases noted that when gathering the facts about an abusive husband or boyfriend to help a client gain custody of her child, facts patterns emerged that made it clear that the client was a victim of sex trafficking. The victim did not come through the door self-identifying as a trafficking victim, but slowly over the course of conversation, understood her victimization and was able to seek help from law enforcement to emerge from the trafficking situation. Gradually working with the victim's identifiable health problems to elicit important facts about their over-arching situation is likely to be most effective and least intrusive.⁶⁰

Additionally, where a translator is needed, care needs to be taken to identify someone the right translator to avoid the possibility of complicity with a trafficker.⁶¹ Especially in tight-knit communities, that someone unconnected translates is critical. In addition, other language considerations are key to creating trust and communication. Using informal language (sometimes even slang) rather than formal or clinical terminology may improve communication with victims, bridging conceptual or definitional gaps about trafficking generally, as well as with specific issues like violence and rape. Specific suggested questions include asking about the patient's freedom to contact family and friends, her eating and sleeping conditions (whether basic needs are being met), her ability to come and go freely, who lives with her, and whether she feels happy and cared for.⁶² Sometimes it is possible for the provider to ask direct and specific questions about whether the patient has been drugged, raped, coerced, or hurt and get honest answers.

Regardless of the patient's comfort level and degree of cooperation, if a provider strongly suspects the patient is a victim of sex trafficking, he (or she) should call the National Trafficking Hotline.⁶³ Calls can be made anonymously if necessary. Providers need to have strategies and preparation for how to address potential sex trafficking cases, including coordination with law enforcement and with local NGO service providers.⁶⁴ Healthcare providers can play a crucial role in the trafficking rescue process by identifying possible victims and following up on those suspicions with careful, strategic questions, and actions that catalyze rescues or help create exit strategies.

B. Regulations: Training for Healthcare Professionals and Hotline Posting Requirements

Legislators and policymakers also have an important role to play in increasing health care providers' recognition and identification of trafficking victims. State legislators should draft and pass laws that require healthcare providers to undergo training on trafficking generally, including the basic warning signs and indicators for victim identification, techniques for communicating effectively with possible victims to assess their situations and determine victim status, and appropriate actions to take when a victim is identified. The Obama administration has recognized the need for additional trafficking-related training for federal social service employees and law enforcement.⁶⁵ Likewise, medical professionals need training to recognize and appropriately respond to trafficking victims.

New Jersey recently adopted a statute that may serve as a baseline model for such training requirements. Under the new law, the New Jersey Department of Health will “develop, approve, and provide for a one-time training course on the handling and response procedures of suspected human trafficking activities for employees of every licensed health care facility.”⁶⁶ In order to maintain their licenses, health care facilities must verify completion of the course by a subset of its employees to be defined by regulation.⁶⁷ Other states should follow New Jersey’s lead by making trafficking-related training a requirement for licensing with a comprehensive definition of the facilities affected.⁶⁸ Additionally, other states can build on the New Jersey statute by providing for ongoing trainings,⁶⁹ expanding the scope of training to include recognition of victims as well as protocols for handling and response of potential victims, and by requiring that all employees participate in the training course.

Another measure that can be instituted is to require that medical facilities post information about the National Human Trafficking Resource Center

66. N.J. STAT. ANN. § 2C:13-12(c)(1) (West, WestlawNext through L.2013, c. 169 and J.R. No. 13). Alternatively, the statute permits the state to approve an existing training course provided by a statewide nonprofit group with experience administering similar trainings. Id.

69. One option in states that require Continuing Medical Education (CME) courses would be to institute a trafficking-related CME requirement. For example, the Florida Medical Association offers a CME course comparing domestic violence with human trafficking and training employees to recognize and respond to both. See Fla. Med. Ass’n, Domestic Violence with a Special Focus on Human Trafficking, <http://flmedical.inreachce.com/> (follow “public health” hyperlink; then follow “Domestic Violence with a Special Focus on Human Trafficking” hyperlink) (last visited Nov. 26, 2013).

Hotline, a toll-free phone number that connects callers to law enforcement as well as other services⁷⁰ An earlier proposed version of the 2013 TVPRA would have required the Secretary of Health and Human Services and the Attorney General to “make reasonable efforts to encourage [s]tates to adopt legislation” that requires posting of information about the hotline at a variety of establishments, including hospitals and urgent care centers.⁷¹ Measures like this in future federal legislation could be a catalyst to state-level posting requirements. Posting laws improve victim access to the hotline and could even spur otherwise hesitant victims to share their situation with medical staff. In fact, California⁷² and Georgia⁷³ have already adopted posting laws. Other states should follow suit and expand the range of medical facilities covered by the statutes to include abortion and women’s health clinics.⁷⁴ Some survivors have that while posting laws and brochures are important, even better (or in addition) is a small business card with the hotline number as well as shelter and rescue information on it. A business card can be slipped into a handbag or even a shoe and concealed for use later on.

Finally, both federal and state governments must commit to providing resources to aid survivors of sex trafficking regardless of age. Although the Violence Against Women Reauthorization Act of 2013 provided significant resources for the care of trafficking victims, it only targeted these resources at victims who are minors.⁷⁵ These resources need to be extended to cover adult trafficking victims and adult survivors, as their physical and mental health needs are just as great as those of minor sex trafficking victims. Federal and state funding of medical care and other related survivor needs should recognize this reality by eliminating age-based restrictions on funding.

70. Posting the National Human Trafficking Resource Center Hotline, POLARIS PROJECT, <http://www.polarisproject.org/what-we-do/policy-advocacy/capacity-building/posting-the-national-human-trafficking-resource-center-hotline> (last visited Nov. 26, 2013). This page of the Polaris Project website also provides model language for state-level posting legislation.

73. GA. CODE ANN. § 16-5-47 (West, WestlawNext through the end of the 2013 Regular Session).

74. For additional public policy recommendations and more detail on state training and posting requirements, see Laura J. Lederer & Ashley Johnson, Healthcare Professionals’ Role in Combating Human Trafficking (Aug. 2, 2013) (unpublished manuscript) (on file with authors).

VII. CONCLUSION

Victims of sex trafficking suffer severe physical and psychological health consequences as a result of their trafficking. Victims frequently have contact with medical professionals in a variety of health care settings, including hospital emergency wards, neighborhood clinics, women's health clinics, and Planned Parenthood clinics, as well as private practices. Violence-related injuries, serious illness or disease, pregnancy, birth control, and abortion, substance abuse, addiction and overdose, as well as serious psychological problems, are all reasons why substantial numbers of victims seek treatment.

Because they are "first responders" health care providers have unique opportunities to intervene on behalf of trafficking victims. Health care institutions must develop protocols for training, identifying, and treating sex trafficking victims. Medical personnel must increase efforts to understand the nature and scope of the problem of sex trafficking in the United States in order to improve their capacity to identify victims. This is especially true when they have the ability to speak privately with victims in a context where their statements may be admissible in a later prosecution of their traffickers. To this end, medical staff, particularly in hospital emergency rooms and local clinics should be alert for the most common physical and psychological conditions and symptoms these victims experience, especially in the context of reproductive health. By doing so, the medical community can play a vital role in the ongoing fight to eliminate modern-day slavery.

Mary,

We'd love for you to attend our Spring Happy Hour celebrating our new weekly EWTN TV show.

It is taking place this Wednesday, May 10th from 5:30 PM to 7:30 PM at Spire's Sightline Rooftop, a block from Union Station. Should be a nice evening – low 70s and sunny!

Please note that this event is being paid for by the Charlotte Lozier Institute, our education & research arm (501c3).

I've copied Natalie who is tracking attendance. Also, feel free to pass along the invitation to anyone at HHS who you think would benefit, especially anyone in communications and coalitions.

Thanks!!

Dear Mary,

Nina suggested that I reach out to you for some more information about the relationship between opioid addiction and children entering foster care.

We came across two analyses that found correlations between higher rates of opioid prescriptions, deaths, and higher rates of children in foster care, one from the AP
<https://www.nbcnews.com/storyline/americas-heroin-epidemic/opioid-crisis-strains-foster-system-kids-pried-homes-n828831>

and the other from University of South Florida <https://www.healthaffairs.org/doi/abs/10.1377/hlthaff.2017.1023>.

We noted that ACF provided information about how general drug abuse by a parent had increased to 34 percent in FY 2016 leading to approximately 92,000 children being removed from their home in FY 2016 because of one parent had a drug abuse issue.

Do you have any suggestions for further research?

Many thanks and best regards, Emilie

Hi Amanda and Mary,

I hope you had a nice 4th of July celebrating our Nation's Birthday and Independence!

A Medicaid question has come up and I was wondering if you had any insight or knew of some expert I could contact. As I'm sure you've seen, there's been lots of frustration circulating about Medicaid funding in the Senate bill would cut monies to low-income and special needs students. Someone mentioned that special education has been reclassified to qualify for Medicaid under Medicaid's open-ended match. This is particularly interesting for several reasons, including that the number of students being classified as "special education" as dramatically increased over the years.

Is this something you or your team has looked into? I'm trying to get a good handle on this and to see if schools are claiming more and more services as being health-related in order to qualify for Medicaid reimbursements.

Many, many thanks for your help and expertise!

Hi Chuck,

I am emailing this morning to confirm that next Thursday from 3-4pm works on our end. We've reserved a conference room here (4026A).

Please send the names of those attending with you early next week so Security is ready for you.

Looking forward to seeing you then.

Have a great weekend,
Mary

Subject: [MARKETING EMAIL]2018 State Legislative Report

Dear Mary, I am excited to let you know that 2018 saw significant movement forward in protecting individuals from conception to natural death. I want to personally thank you for all of the work you put into moving life-affirming legislation forward and for the many victories you produced throughout the country. It is our privilege at Americans United for Life to partner with you.

In a year in which the U.S. Congress merely held serve on pro-life policies, you and your colleagues proved that protections for prenatal children and their mothers should, and must, reside with the states.

Here's a quick glance into the states. Legislatures across the country continued to press forward to ensure that mothers are well informed about the risks of abortion, that the public has valuable statistics on the realities of abortion and its complications, and that public resources are no longer flowing to the abortion industry.

In 2018, AUL and AUL Action worked with you to realize 21 significant victories for Life, providing the language for or helping to enact 19 new pro-life laws, providing the language for 2 pro-life resolutions, and working to defeat 8 anti-life measures. Overall, there were 45 life-affirming, abortifacient related measures passed in 2018, and AUL actively engaged in more than 45 percent of these – to date the highest percentage of successful pro-life bills AUL has been actively involved in.

We are proud of the important gains that were made this year, but there is still much work to be done. Americans United for Life is here to support life-affirming measures in legislatures across the country. We work with you and other policymakers to craft quality, life-affirming legislation that can stand up to judicial scrutiny. We've been doing this for almost fifty years and are ready with model legislation that can be tailored to your specific efforts in the upcoming 2019 legislative session.

Please do not hesitate to contact me personally to get a head start before the new year.

Find our 2018 State Legislative Report here.

Hi Billy– In case you missed it Friday night, I wanted to make sure you saw Marjorie’s reaction to the outrageous ruling made by an Obama-appointed judge to force the federal government to inform unaccompanied minor children that they have a so-called “right to abortion.”

As Marjorie explains below, “Abortion extremists at the ACLU are on a mission to force their radical agenda on vulnerable children at all costs – whether they are pregnant or not, and even if they are boys, to underscore the absurdity of the order. This is the polar opposite of President Trump’s pro-life Protecting Life in Global Health Assistance policy; it makes American taxpayers complicit in promoting abortion over all alternatives.”

Please let me know if you are writing about this today.

Thanks!

SBA List Slams Court Order Forcing the Gov’t to Push Abortion on Demand to Undocumented Children

Washington, D.C. – On Friday U.S. District Court Judge Tanya Chutkan ordered the government to distribute notices that include the contact information of American Civil Liberties Union attorneys to all unaccompanied children in federal custody, in their primary spoken language, stating that they have a right to abortion on demand. The order was effective immediately.

The national pro-life group Susan B. Anthony List (SBA List) released the following statement in response:

“This outrageous order from a pro-abortion Obama appointee is an overreach that flies in the face of American laws and values,” said SBA List President Marjorie Dannenfelser. “Abortion extremists at the ACLU are on a mission to force their radical agenda on vulnerable children at all costs – whether they are pregnant or not, and even if they are boys, to underscore the absurdity of the order. This is the polar opposite of President Trump’s pro-life Protecting Life in Global Health Assistance policy; it makes American taxpayers complicit in promoting abortion over all alternatives.

“We are grateful that these young people have a strong champion in Scott Lloyd and encourage HHS to stand strong and protect the innocents, born and unborn, in their care. It is also of the utmost importance for President Trump and his administration to continue reforming the courts and reining in out-of-control, activist judges like Tanya Chutkan, who insert their will in place of the overwhelming American consensus and insist on creating a ‘sanctuary nation’ for abortion. We hope to see the administration swiftly appeal.”

Earlier this year “Jane Doe,” an immigrant teen in federal custody, stated she was forced to sign a form requesting representation by pro-abortion attorneys, and said she did not want to have an abortion.

Susan B. Anthony List and its partner super PAC, Women Speak Out spent more than $18 million in the 2016 election cycle, knocking on more than 1.1 million doors in battleground states to defeat Hillary Clinton and maintain a pro-life Senate. SBA List is dedicated to pursuing policies and electing candidates who will reduce and ultimately end abortion. To that end, the SBA List emphasizes the education, promotion, mobilization, and election of pro-life women. The SBA List is a network of more than 630,000 pro-life Americans nationwide.

We came across two analyses that found correlations between higher rates of opioid prescriptions, deaths, and higher rates of children in foster care, one from the AP <https://www.nbcnews.com/storyline/americas-heroin-epidemic/opioid-crisis-strains-foster-system-kids-pried-homes-n828831> and the other from University of South Florida <https://www.healthaffairs.org/doi/abs/10.1377/hlthaff.2017.1023>.

We noted that ACF provided information about how general drug abuse by a parent had increased to 34 percent in FY 2016 leading to approximately 92,000 children being removed from their home in FY 2016 because of one parent had a drug abuse issue.

Do you have any suggestions for further research?

Subject: Medicaid question

Hi Amanda and Mary,

I hope you had a nice 4th of July celebrating our Nation's Birthday and Independence!

A Medicaid question has come up and I was wondering if you had any insight or knew of some expert I could contact. As I'm sure you've seen, there's been lots of frustration circulating about Medicaid funding in the Senate bill would cut monies to low-income and special needs students. Someone mentioned that special education has been reclassified to qualify for Medicaid under Medicaid's open-ended match. This is particularly interesting for several reasons, including that the number of students being classified as "special education" as dramatically increased over the years.

Is this something you or your team has looked into? I'm trying to get a good handle on this and to see if schools are claiming more and more services as being health-related in order to qualify for Medicaid reimbursements.

Many, many thanks for your help and expertise!

Subject: RE: Request for Information in Response to House Report 114-195
Attachments: TVAP data_OMB approved.pdf

Dear TVAP Grantees:

ACF will be providing a formal response to the letter that you submitted on September 29. In the meantime, we reiterate that the information provided in past reports is incomplete and, therefore, not fully responsive to the grant requirements.

The information collection required for the grantees includes the following specific information:

- Names of the entities providing medical services; and
- Amount of money expended on each type of medical service provided, by entity.

The “entity” is the health care institution directly providing the medical service. A grantee or sub-recipient is not the “entity” unless the grantee or sub-recipient is directly providing the medical service.

Also, there must be sufficient detail in the grantees’ categorization of “medical service” to allow for a full understanding of the specific medical services received by victims, potential victims, and family members served by the program. The report language requires the collection of “specific information regarding the types of services provided or referred.”

The information should not be aggregated. If a client received multiple medical services, or more than one client received services from one entity, report each service received by each client, including the name of the entity and the amount of money expended per instance of service. Personally identifiable information should not be submitted.

This information collection has a current and valid OMB number and is included in the requirements for the grant in the FOA and cooperative agreement. The collection is required to ensure compliance with appropriation funding restrictions and requirements and to report information to Congress.

Please continue collecting the information that was approved in the attached OMB collection tool and report the information in your next quarterly report.

Katherine

Program Performance

Trafficking Victim Assistance Program grantees must provide data or information to ACF on the following items on a monthly, quarterly, or annual basis, as directed by the Project Officer, in an Excel spreadsheet:

Participant Demographics

- Adult or minor
- Male or female
- Country of origin

Type of Trafficking

- Sex, labor, or both

Immigration Status

- Continued Presence, T nonimmigrant status or both

Services Provided or Referred

- Types of health screening provided or referred
- Types of medical services provided or referred
- Names of the entities providing medical services
- Amount of money expended on each type of medical service provided, by entity

Public reporting burden for this collection of information is estimated to average .25 hours per response, including the time for reviewing instructions, gathering and maintaining the data needed, and reviewing the collection of information.

An agency may not conduct or sponsor, and a person is not required to respond to, a collection of information unless it displays a currently valid OMB control number.

Hi,

In case you missed it, I wanted to be sure you saw this release regarding eight Obamacare insurance issuers that have failed to disclose whether they cover abortion in their Summary of Benefits documents. These eight issuers offer over 150 plans in five states. SBA and CLI are urging the Inspector General to investigate and asking HHS to bring the plans into compliance.

Pro-life Group Blasts Insurance Companies for Not Disclosing Abortion Coverage

With Deadline Looming, Eight Carriers in Five States Still Provide No Information About Whether Their Obamacare Plans Cover Abortion

Washington, D.C. –

Today the national pro-life group Susan B. Anthony List (SBA List) and its research arm the Charlotte Lozier Institute (CLI) sent letters to U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Acting Secretary Eric Hargan and Inspector General Daniel Levinson to share their findings on health insurance carriers who, less than two weeks before the December 15 enrollment deadline, have not complied with Affordable Care Act (“Obamacare”) regulations requiring disclosure of abortion coverage in their Summary of Benefits and Coverage (SBC) plan documents.

The letters ask HHS to review the carriers and take steps to bring them into compliance, ensure that current enrollees of these plans are informed when updates are made, and provide an extended enrollment deadline to consumers in the affected states.

Since open enrollment began on November 1, CLI and Family Research Council (FRC) research staff have been performing an ongoing examination of healthcare.gov and state-based exchanges, looking for information on abortion coverage and the accessibility of that information.

The lack of transparency on abortion coverage affects at least 151 exchange plans in five states. The noncompliant carriers are:

- Bright Health in Colorado (6 plans)
- Elevate by Denver Health Medical in Colorado (6 plans)
- Health Alliance Medical Plans, Inc. in Illinois (61 plans)
- Independent Health in New York (21 plans)
- Fidelis Care in New York (9 plans)
- Sendero Health Plans, Inc. in Texas (4 plans)
- Boston Medical Center HealthNet Plan in Massachusetts (5 plans)
- MVP Health Plan in New York (39 plans)

Since October of 2013, CLI has reported on the lack of transparency and generally confusing nature of the exchange plans. In 2014, after the non-partisan Government Accountability Office (GAO) released a report identifying 1,036 taxpayer-subsidized Obamacare plans that covered elective abortion, CLI and FRC launched Obamacareabortion.com to inform consumers about which Obamacare plans include elective abortion coverage. The groups’ 2018 fact sheet with detailed information and an interactive map are available online at Obamacareabortion.com.

SBA List President Marjorie Dannenfelser and CLI President Chuck Donovan commented:

“Abortion is not health care – it is the deliberate destruction of innocent human life, to which millions of Americans deeply object. Consumers deserve to know which health plans include abortion coverage before they decide on plans for themselves or their families. Shamefully, some insurance companies have made this information impossible to find or forced prospective applicants to hunt for it in an unnecessarily opaque and confusing system. That’s why we established Obamacareabortion.com and thoroughly update it each year: to serve consumers looking for plans they can purchase in good conscience, and to continually remind the public and policymakers that Obamacare forces taxpayers to fund elective abortion, something most Americans oppose.”

Susan B. Anthony List and its partner super PAC, Women Speak Out spent more than $18 million in the 2016 election cycle, knocking on more than 1.1 million doors in battleground states to defeat Hillary Clinton and maintain a pro-life Senate. SBA List is dedicated to pursuing policies and electing candidates who will reduce and ultimately end abortion. To that end, the SBA List emphasizes the education, promotion, mobilization, and election of pro-life women. The SBA List is a network of more than 600,000 pro-life Americans nationwide.

Charlotte Lozier Institute was launched in 2011 as the education and research arm of Susan B. Anthony List. CLI is a hub for research and public policy analysis on some of the most pressing issues facing the United States and nations around the world. The Institute is named for a feminist physician known for her commitment to the sanctity of human life and equal career and educational opportunities for women.

Today is unlikely as we have had some delays due to another element in the diocese.

I have asked archbishop Gomez and bishop Vasquez for their availability next Monday -Wednesday.

I know you are time sensitive and am trying to get this together as soon as possible. Once I have their availability and yours I will then invite other pertinent bishops like I did for CBP call but those two Prelates are the lead.

Does Monday-Wednesday work next week? Hopefully yes. A particular day is better for you?

If you want a quick program talk on the possibility of care for released reunited families -USCCB staff can get on with you on Thursday or Friday of this week and then still plan for early next week with bishops.

I am sorry not sooner -holiday week is difficult.

The Mass was lovely. Thank you very much. Archbishop Gomez celebrated. They were able to do confessions as well with Bishop Mario and Padre Jorge.

I will see what I can do for a call tomorrow. It will likely be in the afternoon if possible. We moved things around based on not having the roundtable.

Can you please give me an idea of what you would like to speak about?

I am available at (b) (6) if you would prefer to speak.

Scott,
Thank you for the notice and for all of the assistance.
I will relay the message back and I will work to set up a meeting the next DC opportunity.

Particular thanks on the Mass. There are an estimated 300 children to attend. I think it is very important and it also hopefully will be an excellent opportunity to promote greater pastoral accompaniment with the Bishops as we have discussed.
Additionally, I am sure you know but Archbishop Wenski will be celebrating Mass at

Scott,
Thank you very much for your generous offer. I have received permission to move forward with the July 2nd date. The only request is that we start in the morning- no later than 10am if at all possible.

I recognize how busy you and your staff are especially now and very much thank you for the attention to this issue.

As for the off the record discussion, the Bishops are able to participate and will welcome a discussion. I am happy to follow up with you or your policy staff on the details if that is acceptable to you or you feel that there should be further follow up in terms of desired topics of conversation.

Amanda,
My apologies for missing your call. I sent you a follow up email that I think crossed in time with your email. Thank you for reaching out. Can you please let me know next steps in terms of who to speak with to ensure access, coordinate time, ensure preparation for the Mass, and also any other particulars? I will follow up with the list of those who are attending.

Thank you very much.

Dear Mr. Christensen,

I am writing to you because we desire your engagement on the question of the proper housing and care of Unaccompanied Alien Children in the United States. My name is Shannon Royce, and I serve as Director of the Center for Faith and Opportunity Initiatives at the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services. On behalf of the Department, I am pleased to invite you to participate in a day-long engagement focused on the Department's Unaccompanied Alien Children (UAC) program, with tours of UAC grantee facilities to follow.

We at the Partnership Center seek to further engage the faith community in an ongoing discussion regarding the UAC program. Our aim is to educate our nation's faith leaders and engage them in a constructive dialog concerning how the government and the faith-based community can better cooperate to serve these children and our nation.

To that end, the Partnership Center, in collaboration with the Administration for Children and Families (ACF), will host an all-day engagement with appointed leadership from the Department and senior staff of the Unaccompanied Alien Children program on February 12, 2019, here in Washington, DC. Participants in this engagement will receive a primer on the fundamentals of the UAC program, including legal requirements, demographics, levels of care, and services provided to UAC, from the officials who administer it. The program will include time to discuss some of the topics that have made headlines over the past year, including the use of temporary housing facilities in Texas and Florida, the use of psychotropic medication in the program, and gang involvement among the UAC population. Finally, Department officials will discuss with faith leaders how they could engage in meaningful contributions to the program and the lives of the children it serves.

This engagement will be followed by two opportunities for faith leaders to visit shelters for Unaccompanied Alien Children. The first opportunity will be the on February 13th at Youth for Tomorrow in Bristow, Virginia, about an hour outside of Washington, DC. The second engagement will be Tuesday, March 5, near Miami, FL, where participants will have the opportunity to visit permanent and temporary shelters for Unaccompanied Alien Children. More details will follow for those who indicate their availability for either or both events.

Please RSVP to Katelyn Walls at Katelyn.Walls@hhs.gov, or (202) 358-3595. If you have any questions or suggestions, please forward them to her as well. We hope that you will be able to join us.

Sincerely,

Scott

Attachments: Government Panel Invite Letter_JFI Conference HHS ORR Director Lloyd.pdf

Dear Director Lloyd,

The U.S. Catholic Bishops' Justice for Immigrants campaign is convening a national conference at the Hyatt Regency Hotel – Crystal City in Arlington, VA, on December 5th-7th, 2018. The conference will cover various issues related to policy and programming for immigrants, refugees, asylum-seekers, and human trafficking survivors. Our last national conference was three years ago and we feel it's time to convene nationally again in what will be an important moment.

For the 2018 gathering, we are hopeful to have approximately 250 attendees at the conference, which will include a Capitol Hill advocacy day on December 7th. On behalf of the conference organizers, I respectfully extend an invitation to you to present as part of a panel entitled Looking to Next Year – A Conversation with Government Agencies About Their Migration Policy Priorities, which will take place on Thursday December 6th from 8:30 – 10:00 AM. We will be inviting other representatives from the federal government to speak on the panel as well. The U.S. Catholic Bishops have long worked closely with various government agencies on migration-related issues and value our partnership at the federal and state and local level.

Given the important role that you and your organization play in setting migration policy for the Administration, we would like to continue this spirit of collaboration and hear from you regarding the Administration's priorities going into next year. I am confident that attendees would appreciate the opportunity to gain insights from you on this important topic and also discuss how faith-based and particularly Catholic entities can further work in collaboration with the federal government.

It is my sincere hope that you accept the invitation and join us. If possible, please inform me of your availability to participate by October 15, 2018 so that we may include your name and biographical information in the conference program.

Sincerely,
Bill

Dear Mr. Lloyd,

I hope you are well. Attached is the USCCB/MRS and LIRS report, Serving Separated and Reunited Families: Lessons Learned and the Way Forward to Promote Family Unity. The report documents the work undertaken by Catholic and Lutheran partners on the ground and at the national level to work with the Administration to assist in the care of the reunited and released families subject to the Ms L litigation during the month of July. The report will be released publicly tomorrow.

We are proud to have had the opportunity to work with HHS and serve these families. We are thankful for your willingness to work with us as your partner in this important effort. We hope that you will consider our recommendations going forward to ensure that family unity and child protection are primary considerations for all custody decisions and that family separations are monitored in the future.

I am happy to answer any follow up questions that you may have and both LIRS and USCCB staff are willing to meet your team in person to discuss the report and its findings.

Thank you again for your partnership and cooperation.

I. Introduction

The purpose of this report is to share insights and information on the social services provided by the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops/Migration and Refugee Services (USCCB/MRS) and the Lutheran Immigration and Refugee Service (LIRS) in response to the family separation crisis. USCCB/MRS and LIRS provided services on a charitable basis to assist the U.S. federal government in its reunification and release of 1,112 families who had been separated at the U.S./Mexico border due to the implementation of the Department of Justice's (DOJ) April 6, 2018 "Zero Tolerance" memorandum and were initially eligible for reunification.¹

From July 2nd through July 29th, LIRS and USCCB/MRS worked in partnership to assist both the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) and the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) in their work reunifying separated families. This report provides additional information about the reunited and released families who endured separation. It includes new and original data points collected by LIRS and USCCB/MRS, through their on-the-ground Catholic Charities and Lutheran service providers, regarding where the reunited families came from (countries of origin), where the reunited families were headed (destination cities), and where they were processed for reunification.

Further, this report highlights the ongoing work of USCCB/MRS in partnership with Catholic Charities USA (CCUSA) and Catholic Charities members, and LIRS to provide, on a charitable basis, post-release services for every reunited and released family that was served by USCCB/MRS and Catholic Charities partners and LIRS. Finally, this report provides recommendations for policymakers, elected officials, and child welfare experts. In part, these recommendations aim to: (i) ensure that family unity and safety is a primary consideration in future immigration policy decisions impacting migrant families; (ii) prevent and mitigate future large-scale family separation; (iii) encourage use of alternatives to detention, namely post-release services and case management services, as these are vital policy tools to address asylum-seeking families arriving at the U.S./Mexico border; and (iv) ensure asylum-seeking families understand and comply with their immigration requirements and responsibilities.

II. Origins of Family Separation at the U.S./Mexico Border

majority of adult males, often from Mexico and seeking seasonal employment, to families and unaccompanied children, primarily from Central America, fleeing to seek protection in the United States.² While this change in the composition of those crossing the U.S./Mexico border can be attributed to many different factors, including the improved economic conditions of the Mexican economy,³ a primary factor is the endemic violence that the residents of Northern Triangle countries of El Salvador, Guatemala, and Honduras are facing due to gang infiltration and corruption. Increasingly, families and children in poorer neighborhoods throughout the Northern Triangle are being targeted, threatened, and extorted by gangs and armed criminal groups. This is occurring more frequently as gangs expand their reach and control over neighborhoods, moving from solely urban and suburban communities to rural and agrarian communities as well.⁴ Additionally, situations of domestic and family violence pervade many homes and often are met with impunity and inaction due to the corruption within the law enforcement system and the weak civil protection scheme. As a result of these conditions, many of the families and children who arrive at the U.S./Mexico border have often been internally displaced in their own country several times in search of protection and have migrated north as a last resort.⁵

Due to the extensive protection issues in the Northern Triangle, the known dangers of the migration journey north, as well as the vulnerable nature of children traveling unaccompanied and family units traveling with children, the arriving families and unaccompanied children are often deeply traumatized and at increased risk of exploitation. These families and children consequently present a unique challenge to the U.S. government and the departments that are tasked to apprehend, maintain custody, and adjudicate their cases.

In recent years,⁶ several Administrations have attempted to address the increasing number of arriving family units with a variety of responses,⁷ including family detention,⁸ alternatives to detention,⁹ and in some instances, family separation. Indeed, the practice of separating families arriving at the U.S./Mexico border is not a new one.¹⁰ During the George W. Bush and the Obama Administrations, DHS separated families, both nuclear and extended, at the U.S./Mexico border. Yet, while separation of families did occur, a majority of these separations were due to child welfare concerns that had been flagged by DHS officers.¹¹ The end of the Obama Administration and into the beginning of the Trump Administration marked a significant increase in the number of families separated at the U.S./Mexico border by DHS's Customs and Border Protection (CBP). Between October 2016 and February 2018, DHS separated an estimated 1,768 children from their parents, rendering them "unaccompanied."¹² Both LIRS and USCCB/MRS, who are national providers of residential care and family reunification services for unaccompanied children, observed increased reports of family separation by the children they served during this same time period, particularly in late 2017 and into 2018.¹³ It was later learned that part of the increase in separation cases seen during this time was due to a pilot of the zero-tolerance policy, operated by the Trump Administrations in the El Paso border sector between July and October 2017.¹⁴

A. Zero-Tolerance Policy

The number of separated families continued to increase in the spring and early summer of 2018 after implementation of the "zero-tolerance policy" by the DOJ. In April 2018, U.S. Attorney General Jeff Sessions notified all U.S. Attorneys' offices along the Southwest Border via memo of a new zero-tolerance policy for prosecution of those entering the U.S. without authorization.¹⁵ On May 4, 2018, DHS noted its cooperation with the DOJ in relation to the policy, stating that it would refer all individuals who cross the U.S. border without authorization for criminal prosecution, including adult members of family units.¹⁶

The zero-tolerance policy relates to crimes of illegal entry under 8 U.S.C. § 1325(a), or an individual's act of crossing the border between official ports of entry without authorization.¹⁷ For first-time offenders, illegal entry is a federal misdemeanor punishable by up to six months in prison or fines (or both).¹⁸ Under the new policy, the DOJ has sought to prosecute all individuals who cross the U.S. border without authorization, to the extent feasible. The policy does not make exceptions, even for families who willingly turn themselves over to CBP's Border Patrol seeking protection.¹⁹ Further, in its review of the policy, the DHS Office of Inspector General (DHS-OIG) noted: "[W]hile the Government encouraged all asylum-seekers to come to ports of entry to make their asylum claims, CBP managed the flow of people who could enter at those ports of entry through metering, which may have led to additional illegal border crossings."²⁰

DHS's facilitation of the zero-tolerance policy, specifically its referral for prosecution of adult members of arriving family units, resulted in large-scale family separation. After encountering a family between ports of entry at the U.S./Mexico border, Border Patrol officers would typically either transfer individuals over age 18, in this case parents, into the custody of the DOJ's U.S. Marshals Service or keep them in DHS custody to await prosecution; it would then designate any accompanying children who were traveling as part of the family unit as "unaccompanied." As a result, the newly separated children would then be transferred to the custody of HHS's Office of Refugee Resettlement (ORR). Accordingly, as a result of the zero-tolerance policy, family units arriving to the U.S./Mexico border were separated and placed into two different department's care and custody: HHS/ORR for the children and typically DHS or DOJ for the parents. In large part due to this separation, the year-to-date FY 2018

number of referrals of children to ORR custody grew by 76% from March to May 2018.²¹

B. Executive Order on “Affording Congress an Opportunity to Address Family Separation” and the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of California’s Preliminary Injunction

After extensive national and international opposition to the implementation of the zero-tolerance policy, on June 20, 2018, President Trump issued an Executive Order (EO) on family separation, entitled “Affording Congress an Opportunity to Address Family Separation.”²² The EO limits the widespread separation of families at the U.S./Mexico border. It does so by instructing DHS to, where possible, keep families detained together through the pendency of any criminal entry or immigration case.²³ In conjunction, it instructs the Department of Defense and other agencies to provide or construct facilities that can be used for expanded family detention.²⁴ It also instructs DOJ to seek exceptions to the temporal limitations placed on detention of children in unlicensed facilities, such as the existing family detention centers, as set forth in the Flores Settlement Agreement of 1997 and subsequent litigation.²⁵ The EO does not halt prosecutions under the zero-tolerance policy; DHS, however, subsequently noted that it would suspend referrals of families until it has capacity to detain families together.²⁶

The EO is also silent as to the 2,654 children²⁷ who had already been separated from their parents under the zero-tolerance policy.²⁸ It provides no requirement or method for their reunification. Days later, however, on June 26th, the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of California in Ms. L., et al. v. U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement, et al. issued a class-wide preliminary injunction halting the practice of family separation and requiring that separated families be reunified, absent certain extenuating circumstances.²⁹ The court defined the applicable class as all adult parents who enter the U.S. at or between official ports of entry, have been or are detained in immigration custody, and have a minor child who was

“This has been one of the most emotional work experiences I have ever had. One of the parents told me that he had not seen his child in over five months. When the children and parents were finally reunited, it was beautiful. We were blessed to be part of this reunification process.”

- Antonio Fernandez, President and CEO of Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of San Antonio or will be separated from them and detained in DHS or ORR custody, absent a determination that the parent is unfit.³⁰

The court directed the government to reunify all parents within the class unless there was a determination that the parent is unfit or the parent voluntarily declined to be reunited with the child.³¹ Parents with children under the age of 5 were required to be reunified by July 10th (Phase 1), and parents with children ages 5-17 had to be reunified by July 26th (Phase 2).³²

III. Overview of the Reunifications

As of September 27, an estimated 2,296 families had been reunited.³³ Some of the reunified families remained in family detention facilities after reunification, some were reunited in their countries of origin after a parent’s deportation, and some were released after their reunification

Father and Daughter Reunite and Work to Recover and Integrate in Los Angeles

Cristina, a 12-year old girl from El Salvador fled her country with her father to the United States in early 2018 to escape violence and seek safety and protection.. With the “zero-tolerance” policy in effect, she and her father experience the trauma of separation at the U.S./Mexico border upon apprehension by U.S. Border Patrol. Cristina experienced an 88-day period of separation from her father before she could establish initial contact with her father in detention. Cristina reported that she was told her father would be deported to El Salvador, and her father reports that he was encouraged to sign deportation paperwork, being told that his daughter would be adopted and there was no possibility of reunification. Ultimately, father and daughter were able to reunite and passed through one of USCCB/MRS’ reception sites. Currently, they reside with family in the Los Angeles area and are receiving social service support through Catholic Charities of Los Angeles. Cristina’s social worker reports that Cristina continues to experience trauma and separation anxiety, and that she was initially fearful of going to school as she did not want to be separated from her father again. In addition, Cristina’s father has exhibited physical symptoms, including back and neck pain, believed to be a result of his own trauma experience. Catholic Charities is working to support the family in connecting with counseling services to address this issue. Currently, Cristina and her father are doing well with the support of Catholic Charities. Cristina is enrolled in school and doing well academically. and allowed to reunite with family and friends in final destinations throughout the United States. As discussed below, USCCB/MRS and LIRS served a combined 1,112 families that were reunified and released in July 2018.

A. Reuniting “Phase 1” Children Under Age Five: July 2nd - July 12th

On July 2nd, HHS contacted USCCB/MRS about possible assistance for separated families with children under age five that the government planned to reunite by the court’s July 10th deadline. HHS leadership at the Office of the Secretary and ORR expressed concern about the well-being of the families upon release and noted a desire to ensure that the families would have access to social services. These families were believed by HHS to number approximately 100 at the time; it was later determined that the Phase 1 class was comprised of 103 of the children separated and in ORR care, although not all of these children were immediately eligible for reunification.³⁴

On July 5th, DHS contacted both LIRS and USCCB/MRS to similarly discuss reunification operations for the Phase 1 families. While neither DHS nor HHS had a clearly developed plan for reunification at the time, both departments wanted to ensure that families had support upon release.

As a follow up to the conversations with both departments, LIRS and USCCB/MRS began to engage their extensive national networks of primarily Catholic Charities and Lutheran service providers to ensure capacity and readiness to assist the families.³⁵ Planning for post-release services was not without its challenges. During subsequent conversations between LIRS and USCCB/MRS and both HHS and DHS, it appeared that there were some inter-agency miscommunications on how to oversee the first steps of family reunification for the Phase 1 families. Namely, it seemed unclear which agency was in charge of deciding how and where the family reunifications would occur. Further, as reported by the DHS Office of Inspector General, “lack of integration between CBP’s, ICE’s, and HHS’s respective information technology systems hindered efforts to identify, track, and reunify parents and children.”³⁶

Finally, on July 9th, DHS conducted a call with LIRS and USCCB/MRS during which it informed the two service providers that the reunification of the separated families from Phase 1 would take place at 15 sites³⁷ across the country (see map below). DHS explained that the children were already located at these 15 sites and that DHS’s Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) would transport the separated parents who were eligible for release to these sites for the reunifications beginning the morning of July 10th. The departments also informed LIRS and USCCB/MRS that there were 55-60 children who would be reunified and released with their parents and would be needing assistance.³⁸

partners, stood ready to provide direct services to these reunified families. USCCB/MRS set up 13 Catholic Charities reception sites, and LIRS set up two reception sites. Initial services available included immediate shelter, a hot meal, change of clothes, shower, and assistance with making travel arrangements from the designated family reunification site to the reunified family's intended destination in the United States.³⁹ The reunifications and reception operations began early in the morning of July 10th and were ongoing into July 12th. After being reunified, the families were provided with a list of the 15 sites where they could go to receive post-release services. Of the 57 children initially reunified, USCCB/MRS, Catholic Charities, Bethany Christian Services,⁴⁰ and LIRS served a combined 18 families. USCCB/MRS served nine families at two of its 13 available reception sites, and LIRS served nine families between its two reception sites. USCCB/MRS and LIRS surmise that some of the families reunified did not seek services due to confusion or uncertainty over what services were being offered and whether the provision of services required additional engagement with law enforcement. It is also unclear as to the extent to which DHS verbally communicated this information about services to those parents who were illiterate or did not read English or Spanish.

In addition to the relatively low number of families seeking services during this phase, the reception centers faced the consistent challenge of having families dropped off at the centers very late in the evening. These late drop offs made it difficult for the centers to secure sufficient staff capacity; they also were very taxing on children, who had to then stay up to hours well past their bed times.

Despite the challenges, both LIRS and USCCB/MRS welcomed the opportunity to provide for the immediate service needs for the 18 families. LIRS and USCCB/MRS have also committed to providing social services and case management to these families for up to three months in their final destination cities.

B. Reuniting “Phase 2” Children Ages 5-17: July 12th - July 30th

On July 12th, DHS called USCCB/MRS and LIRS to discuss the possibility of their charitable engagement and assistance with the reunification of Phase 2 families (those with children ages 5-17). The estimated number of children for this phase was originally 2,551, although it was anticipated that not all would be immediately eligible for reunification.⁴¹

For Phase 2, ICE had pre-determined the mechanism for reunification and release prior to speaking to LIRS and USCCB/MRS; it conveyed those plans on the July 12th call. For those families deemed eligible for reunification, the government decided that the children in ORR custody would be transported by ORR to certain adult immigrant detention facilities operated by ICE. These facilities, located primarily along the U.S./Mexico border in Texas and Arizona, were the sites at which identified separated parents who were eligible for reunification and release were detained. Once ORR transported a separated child to the immigrant detention facility where his or her parent was detained, ORR officials would conduct an interview with the parent; pending a positive interview result, the child would then be reunited with his or her parent at the detention facility and formally released from ICE custody. From that point of reunification, the family would board a bus operated by MVM. Inc., a transport company and contractor with ICE, that would take them to one of five reception centers operated by Lutheran and Catholic partners in nearby communities.

Table 1 shows the detention centers from which families were reunited at and released, as well as the corresponding Catholic and Lutheran service providers assisting the families.

Beginning the evening of July 13th, MVM Inc. dropped off the first eight reunified and released families to Catholic Charities of the Rio Grande Valley in McAllen, Texas. Over the next 17 days, Catholic Charities and Lutheran reception sites coordinated with DHS leadership in

Reflections on Phase 1 from Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of San Antonio

On the morning of July 10th, Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of San Antonio received notification that several children under age five would be reunified and released in the area that day. Catholic Charities secured food, clothing, and housing for the families. It was not until 11:00 PM, however, that the reception center received the official count – five families would be released and in need of services. Even then, the families did not arrive to the hotel until approximately 2:00 AM the next day. They were personally received by Catholic Charities - San Antonio's CEO and several staff members. After the families had an opportunity to rest, Catholic Charities staff helped them to contact family members and secure travel arrangements to their final destinations.

Washington, DC, USCCB/MRS and LIRS, as well as local ICE field offices to serve 1,112 reunited and released families. As with Phase 1 families, USCCB/MRS and LIRS partners provided families with immediate shelter, a hot meal, change of clothes, shower, and assistance with making travel arrangements to the reunified family's intended destination in the United States.

The Phase 2 process was not without its challenges. For example, one obstacle faced by some of the families related to their travel documents. In certain airports, the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) officers refused to initially accept the families' identification documents provided by ICE. Ultimately, some families missed flights due the confusion surrounding these papers.

Another challenge faced by all of the reception sites was that many of the newly reunited and released families arrived at the reception centers with their immigration paperwork, such as the Notice to Appear (NTA) and the ICE check-in information, completed with the wrong address. Rather than listing their final destination, the documents would list the address of the particular reception site or the immigrant detention facility itself. Upon elevating this issue, ICE attempted to change the addresses of those families who were to be reunited and released prospectively. Some of the reception centers, however, received NTAs for families that had already moved on to their final destinations in other cities. Efforts are ongoing to ensure that when such NTAs are incorrectly sent to the initial reception site, the information is subsequently sent on to the families' service providers in their final destination cities.

While the experience was a chaotic and fast moving, it was also a positive one. Local groups assisted the Catholic and Lutheran reception sites, and LIRS and USCCB/MRS worked in close coordination, to the extent possible, with the DHS Washington office and the local ICE field offices in El Paso, San Antonio, and Phoenix.

Lupe's Experience

Lupe and her daughter, recently reunified and served by a USCCB/MRS affiliate during Phase 2, had an exceptionally difficult travel experience due to questions with their DHS-supplied documentation. Lupe was stopped by TSA agents in the Columbus, Ohio airport and told that she could not board her connecting flight due to questions about her identification documents. After having to spend the night in the airport due to the misunderstanding, Catholic Social Services Columbus offered to step in and care for the family until alternative arrangements could be made. Lupe ended up calling family members in her final destination city and asking them to make the long journey to Columbus to come get her and her daughter. Lupe and her family were accompanied by Catholic Charities staff while they waited for their family to arrive (*Name changed to protect confidentiality. IV. LIRS and USCCB/MRS Family Reunification Services and the Catholic and Lutheran Direct Service Providers

LIRS and USCCB/MRS are proud to assist the federal government in aiding the reunified and released families. Both organizations have expertise in this area, developed through years of service and partnership with the federal government in family reunification and child protection services for unaccompanied children. Additionally, the national character of the Catholic and Lutheran networks allow for service provision in most areas of the United States.

A. USCCB's & LIRS's Long Tradition of Serving Immigrant Children and Families

USCCB/MRS's Programs. USCCB/MRS has operated programs, working in a public/private partnership with the U.S. government, to help protect unaccompanied children from all over the world for nearly 40 years. Since 1994, USCCB/MRS has operated the "Safe Passages" program. This program serves undocumented immigrant children apprehended by DHS and placed in the custody and care of ORR. Through cooperative agreements with ORR, and in collaboration with community-based social service agencies, the Safe Passages program provides community-based residential care (foster care and small-scale shelter placements) to unaccompanied children in ORR custody, as well as family reunification services (pre-release placement screening and post-release social services for families). In fiscal year 2017, the USCCB/MRS Safe Passages program served 1,294 youth who arrived as unaccompanied children—1,042 through the family reunification program and 252 through the residential care programs.

Additionally, the Catholic Church in the United States has long worked to support immigrant families who have experienced immigrant detention, providing legal assistance and pastoral accompaniment and visitation within immigrant detention facilities, as well as social assistance upon release.

LIRS's Programs. For more than 40 years, LIRS has provided child welfare services to refugee and migrant children who are unaccompanied or separated from family. These children have typically fled war, civil conflict, persecution, trafficking, extreme poverty, or maltreatment. Some children come to join family, while others know only that they must leave their homes in order to survive.

LIRS began providing family reunification services including post release services in the 1990's as a protective measure for children at risk of trafficking, extortion and abuse by smugglers connected to organized criminal groups. Today, LIRS's family reunification services provide screening, assessment, and support services to ensure safe and healthy reunifications for migrant children with relatives in the U.S. LIRS's local partners screen and assist parents and relatives prior to reunification, and then provide follow-up services and monitoring after reunification (helping with school enrollment, legal service referrals, medical and mental health referrals, etc.). LIRS and its local partners help to ensure children's safety, support family unity, and develop connections that promote community integration and family well-being. Through risk assessment, action-planning with families around areas of need and concern, systems advocacy with community providers, and culturally-appropriate services and community referrals, post-release services strengthen families and protect children.

B. Phase II Catholic and Lutheran Reception Sites.

Catholic Charities of the Rio Grande Valley (CCRGV). CCRGV is the charitable branch of the Diocese of Brownsville, with projects that provide assistance to the most vulnerable in the community. The mission of CCRGV is to help improve the quality of life for those in its community by providing help and creating hope to individuals and families experiencing an emergency crisis in their lives. In the summer of 2014, CCRGV responded to the influx of immigrants arriving at the U.S./Mexico border by establishing the Humanitarian Respite Center at which immigrant families are provided with food, clothing, medicine, a phone call, and any other basic need they might have. Through the Humanitarian Respite Center, CCRGV has significant experience working with newly arrived families. Since opening the Humanitarian Respite Center, it has welcomed and served more than 100,000 individuals. During Phase 2, CCRGV partnered with the USCCB/MRS to serve the largest number of families, those who were reunited in the Port Isabel Detention Center. Led by Executive Director Sister Norma Pimentel, the recently reunited and released families were warmly welcomed.

Annunciation House. Annunciation House is an organization that, for the past 40 years, has been providing hospitality to arriving refugees and immigrants on the U.S./Mexico border in El Paso, Texas. The work of hospitality at Annunciation House includes shelter, meals, legal assessment and orientation, reunification with families in the U.S., and border advocacy. In addition to its three houses of hospitality, Annunciation House partners with local churches to increase capacity whenever the flow of arriving refugees requires it. Annunciation House is an adamant advocate for the non-detention of refugees and asylum seekers. For the past several years, Annunciation House has been arranging hospitality for over 20,000 asylum seekers annually, most of whom come from the Northern Triangle and Mexico. Rooted in the Catholic social justice Gospel tradition, Annunciation House is an independent organization staffed primarily with volunteers who live and work in the houses of hospitality. Led by Founder/Director Ruben Garcia, Annunciation House partnered with USCCB/MRS during Phase 2 to serve families who were reunified and released from the El Paso Processing Center, Otero County Processing Center, and the West Texas Detention Center.

Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of San Antonio. Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of San Antonio's mission is to provide for the needs of the San Antonio community through selfless service under the sign of love. Helping people in need since 1941, Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of San Antonio is the largest Catholic social services agency in San Antonio, serving over 297,000 people last year from birth to natural death. The agency preserves families and promotes self-sufficiency through 45 programs and five agencies that include: Family and Children's Services, Family Self-Sufficiency Programs, Refugee Resettlement, Caritas Legal Services, Senior Services, and Housing Services. Led by Executive Director J. Antonio Fernandez, Catholic Charities San Antonio partnered with USCCB/MRS during Phase 1 and Phase 2 to serve families who were reunified and released in the San Antonio area and from the South Texas Detention Center.

"Catholic Charities of the Rio Grande Valley had the privilege of serving 600 families under the family reunification program. On the first night we welcomed families, I recall walking a mother and daughter to their room. The little girl, who was about seven years old, turned around and told me: 'Hoy no voy a llorar' (Tonight I am not going to cry). 'Why,' I asked. She said: 'I have been crying every night for the past month, but tonight I sleep with mom.'"

Lutheran Social Services of the Southwest (LSS-SW). Since 1970, LSS-SW has responded to Arizona's changing needs by offering quality services and resources that contribute to a stronger and healthier Arizona for all people. Today, a staff of almost 500 work in 10 Arizona counties and serve 1 out of 90 Arizonans. LSS-SW partners with other nonprofit organizations (such as Lutheran Immigration and Refugee Service) and government agencies to ensure that their cumulative efforts are maximized. Led by Director for Refugee and Immigration Services Dragan Subotic, LSS-SW operated a response based out of its Phoenix office to welcome reunified and released families from the Eloy Detention Facility during Phase 2.

Lutheran Family Services Rocky Mountains, Albuquerque. Founded in 1948 to provide adoptive placement for babies, over time Lutheran Family Services Rocky Mountains has grown to provide programs to meet new community needs, including: birth parent counseling, foster care, aging services, international adoptions, services to refugees, aid following disasters, and parent education. With offices located in Denver, Colorado Springs, Fort Collins, Coker/Evans and Fort Morgan, CO, and Albuquerque, NM, as well as services provided in Wyoming, Montana and Western Nebraska, Lutheran Family Services Rocky Mountains responds to critical social and emotional needs of approximately 30,000 people annually. Led by Vice President of Refugee & Community Services, James Horan, Lutheran Family Services Rocky Mountains organized a team out of its Albuquerque office to serve reunified and released families from the El Paso Processing Center, Otero County Processing Center, and the West Texas Detention Center during Phase 2.

V. Data on the Reunited and Released Families Served by LIRS and USCCB/MRS

During the Phase 1 and 2 reunifications, USCCB/MRS and LIRS requested that the local Catholic Charities and Lutheran partners conduct intakes of every family served by the reception sites. These intakes, or “needs assessments,” were comprised of a series of questions that included the family’s initial biographical information, final destination in the U.S., social service and medical needs, and, where possible, immigration status information. LIRS and USCCB/MRS collected this information for two reasons: (1) to ensure that the two organizations could refer the families served at the Catholic and Lutheran reception centers for social services and limited legal assistance in their final destination cities, if the families so desired; and (2) to help gather data and get a better snapshot of the reunified and released families.

Catholic and Lutheran reception sites worked quickly to efficiently manage the high volume of families arriving daily in need of immediate services and support. Given the urgent needs of the families, staff and volunteers collected what information they could without further burdening the families. Below are some of the key findings and statistics from the data that USCCB/MRS and LIRS collected.

A. Countries of Origin

The vast majority of separated and reunified families that USCCB/MRS and LIRS served in Phases 1 and 2 were from the Northern Triangle. Of the Phase 1 families served by USCCB/MRS and LIRS, the majority (56%) were from Honduras. The next largest population served was from Guatemala (33%), and the smallest population was from El Salvador (11%).

Figure 2.1 – Countries of Origin for Reunified and Released Families Served by USCCB/MRS and LIRS During Phases 1

In comparison, the majority of Phase 2 families served by USCCB/MRS and LIRS were from Guatemala (51%). The next largest Phase 2 populations were from Honduras (34%) and El Salvador (8%). Phase 2 was also comprised of a small number of families from countries in North and South America, Asia, and Europe.

B. Gender of Parents and Children

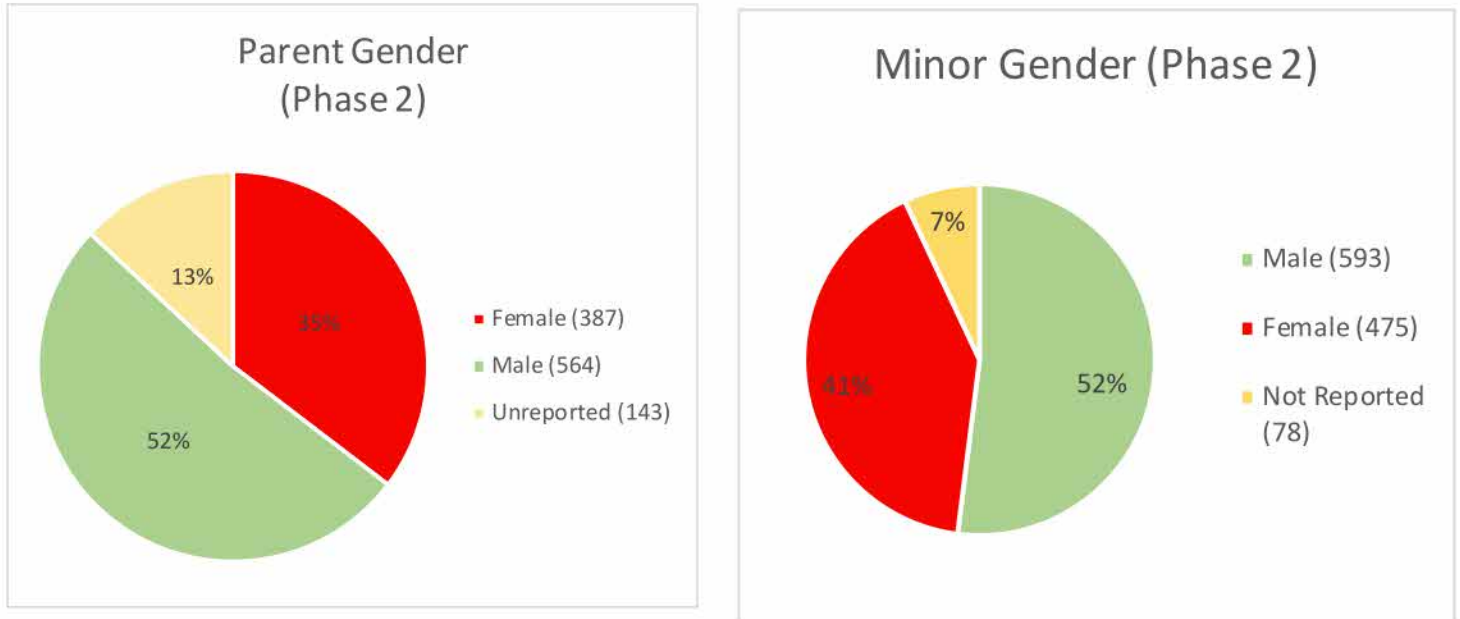

USCCB/MRS and LIRS data shows that the majority of Phase 1 reunified and released families were composed of male parents and male children. Of these parents, 61% were male and 39% were female. Similarly, of Phase 1 children, 67% were male and 33% were female.

Figures 3.1 & 3.2 – Gender of Parents and Children Served by USCCB/MRS and LIRS Reception Centers During Phase 1

Data on the gender of Phase 2 parents and children were similar to the findings on gender in Phase 1. The data collected indicates that, during Phase 2, a majority of the families were composed of male parents and male children. Of these parents, approximately 52% were male, while 35% were female. A small percentage (13%) did not report their gender. Of the Phase 2 children separated from their parents at the border, approximately 52% were male and 41% were female. Gender was not reported for 7% of Phase 2 children.⁴³

Figures 3.3 & 3.4 - Gender of Parents and Children Served by USCCB/MRS and LIRS Reception Centers During Phase 2

C. Where Families Were Processed

As discussed in Section III, USCCB/MRS and LIRS worked with several different reception centers during Phases 1 and 2. While all 15 sites stood ready to assist, not all of the sites received families during Phase 1. Amongst the Phase 1 families served, 39% were processed through the reception center in New York City; 33% were processed in San Antonio, Texas; 16% were processed in Grand Rapids, Michigan; and 11% were processed in Baltimore, Maryland.

The greatest number of Phase 2 families were received and processed through CCRGV. CCRGV received 50 % of Phase 2 families. Annunciation House and LSS-SW also received large numbers of families, serving 24% and 16% of Phase 2 families, respectively. Catholic Charities of the Archdiocese of San Antonio received 7% of Phase 2 families, and Lutheran Family Services Rocky Mountains, Albuquerque received 3% of Phase 2 families.

D. Final Destinations in the U.S.

Lastly, the data compiled from USCCB/MRS and LIRS for both Phase 1 and Phase 2 families indicate that the top five final destination states were: Florida (14%), Texas (13%), California (12%), New Jersey (5%), and New York and Virginia (4.41%).

Figure 5 – Final Destination States for Reunified and Released Families Served by USCCB/MRS and LIRS During Phases 1 and 2

VI. Ongoing Needs and Addressing Trauma

As a result of their previous separation, the reunified families served by USCCB/MRS (in collaboration with Catholic Charities) and LIRS demonstrate an acute need for ongoing support services. Little is yet known about the extent of the traumatic impact of the recent forcible separation of children from their parents at the border. Initial reports from local service providers indicate that families are experiencing symptoms of trauma, including separation anxiety.

Existing literature provides insights on assessing and understanding the unique experiences and needs of separated children and their families. There has been extensive study exploring the short- and long-term effects of trauma and toxic stress on children, including analyses of the effects of Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACEs) over time.⁴⁴ Researchers have found that the impact of trauma can be compounded and that children can experience the effects of trauma long-term, across various domains in their lives (education, physical health, mental health, relationally, etc.).⁴⁵ There have been additional explorations of the impact of trauma on recently arrived unaccompanied immigrant children, and recent studies indicate that detention by DHS of immigrant children is a potential threat to their health and well-being.⁴⁶

Current tools used to identify and categorize traumatic experiences in children are often inadequate in capturing immigrant children's experiences of trauma,⁴⁷ and this will be no different in assessing the traumatic experiences of separated children. As such, when assessing the traumatic events that can negatively affect migrant children's well-being, all four stages in the arc of migration (pre-migration, migration, detention, and post-release) must be considered.⁴⁸ In the case of separated children, their experiences during the period of time after apprehension and before release might deviate markedly from their recent migrant peers. Further, aside from the voluntary programming being provided by USCCB/MRS in partnership with Catholic Charities and LIRS, there are no post-release services available to the most vulnerable and highest-needs separated and reunified families.⁴⁹

A further key distinction may be made between separated children and unaccompanied immigrant children - while these separated children were treated as unaccompanied after their apprehension and separation, they did not arrive to the United States unaccompanied. These children arrived to the U.S. believing that they would continue to remain under their parents' care, which made their forced separation even more jarring. Literature has found that

"While Catholic Charities is very much saddened by this whole situation of breaking up families, we are willing to do whatever we can to heal the families that have been broken." Sister Donna Markham OP, PhD, President and CEO, Catholic Charities USA on her visit to Catholic Community Services of Southern Arizona relational trauma negatively affects brain development and the mental health of infants,⁵⁰ which is even more relevant given that 103 of the separated children were under the age of five. Young children are at heightened risk of experiencing negative outcomes when separated from an incarcerated caregiver⁵¹ or when separated from caregivers in the context of foster care.⁵² Moreover, researchers contend that immigrant children who have experienced prolonged separation from their parents experience layered post-reunification challenges⁵³ and that unaccompanied immigrant children experience a myriad post-reunification integration challenges.⁵⁴

Consequently, services and support are critical to ensure these children's and families well-being after reunification and release. USCCB/MRS and LIRS recognize the trauma caused by the unexpected rupture of attachment and will take this into account in addressing challenges that arise when families are back together. Given the trauma that children have experienced, extended post-release services for children provided by the government and implemented by child welfare experts would help mitigate some of the difficulties that families are encountering in integrating into their final destination cities and also complying with their immigration proceedings. For example, providing post-release services in these months subsequent to family reunification can ensure that families are informed of their immigration obligations and ensure that no family breakdowns occur.

VII. Looking Forward: Alternatives to Detention and Asylum-Seeking Families

As the reunification efforts for separated families in the U.S. winds down, LIRS and USCCB/MRS, as well as other legal- and social-service providers, pivot to identifying future needs of formerly separated families and presenting programmatic and policy-based solutions that ensure these and future arriving families' humane treatment, as well as their compliance with our immigration laws. One such solution is alternatives to detention (ATDs). A spectrum of ATDs have long existed as an option the government can use in place of mass detention.⁵⁵ Such alternatives are often preferable as they avoid inflicting unnecessary and long-lasting trauma on children and families.⁵⁶ Additionally, detaining families that do not present a flight or safety risk is an unnecessary use of limited DHS resources.⁵⁷ As demonstrated by the data in Section V above, many of the reunited families have intended destinations in U.S., with family and friends at those destinations. These strong community ties, as well as credible asylum claims,⁵⁸ create strong incentives for compliance with immigrant requirements and make many Jose was one of the thousands of parents who had to watch their children being taken from them as a result of the zero-tolerance policy. He stated it was the worst experience of his life and described the heart break of seeing his son crying and scared. After the family's eventual reunification, Jose remained worried that his son would be taken from him again. In addition, he faced the challenges of adjusting to life in a new community, buying basic necessities, finding an attorney, and enrolling his son in school. Thankfully, LIRS and its affiliates were able to assist Jose and his son with these concerns. LIRS provided provide the family with school supplies, including a backpack, folders, and other materials. They also gathered donated clothing for the family, which was essential since Jose's son only owned one change of clothes. The family was also thankful to receive referrals to community resources and a legal services provider, as well as assistance with the school enrollment process. The staff member providing these post-release services noted of the experience: "I saw the smiles and happiness in their eyes; it just made the visits so worthwhile." (Name changed to protect confidentiality. Story provided by LIRS affiliate).

arriving families viable candidates for alternatives to detention.

Both LIRS and USCCB/MRS have experience with ATD programming. Religious groups have long been involved in hospitality, accompaniment, and hosting immigrants.⁵⁹ Most recently, from 2013- 2015, both USCCB/MRS and LIRS operated ATD pilot programs in partnership with ICE. The USCCB/MRS pilot program operated in Baton Rouge, Louisiana and Boston, Massachusetts, while LIRS's program operated in Chicago, Illinois and San Antonio, Texas. Building from this work, in FY 2016 and FY 2017, ICE used several ATD programs that went beyond traditional forms of release (such as parole, bond, or order of supervision), to include case management in the Family Case Management pilot program.⁶⁰ This program, which ran from late 2015 until it was canceled in June 2017, focused solely on families and operated in five cities. The Family Case Management pilot program had compliance rates of 99% with immigration court hearings and cost only $36 per day/ per family.⁶¹ Approximately 994 families were served in the program. Catholic Charities and LIRS community service providers participated in the Family Case Management Program (FCMP) within the five cities.

Critics of alternatives to detention have suggested that the FCMP was not effective in terms of removal rates and long-term costs.⁶² These arguments, however, are unsupported by comprehensive data due to the government's decision to end the FCMP in June 2017, only approximately a year and half into what was supposed to be a five-year program cycle. It is no surprise that removal rates were low during the period of operation given that most of the enrolled families' cases were still ongoing at the time of program closure. A full data set is required in order to fully understand the long-term effectiveness and cost of the FCMP.

From USCCB/MRS's and LIRS's varied experiences with ATDs, as well as with family reunification, the organizations believe that alternatives to detention for arriving asylum-seeking families would be both an effective and humane option. Consequently, LIRS and USCCB/MRS have made the commitment to provide to each of the reunified families they have served, in their final destination city, with up to three months of post-release services, which includes social services, a legal orientation, and a referral to a qualified and trustworthy low or pro bono legal services provider. These services will also help ensure families are educated on DHS and immigration court requirements. They further will provide families with referrals for their immediate needs, as well as support to help ensure they will be self-sufficient after the service period ends. USCCB/MRS and LIRS are driven to provide such services by the belief that they will help support the separated families, reduce their ongoing trauma, and help ensure positive compliance outcomes.

VIII. Recommendations

Generally, absent child protection concerns, the U.S. government should not be separating children from their parents.

- A. To Administrative Departments of the Federal Government (DHS and HHS) on Oversight, Data Collection, Information Sharing, and Provider Training

1. Delineate Administrative Responsibility on Family Unity and Separations. An official "Family Unity" Ombudsman should be appointed to lead coordination of the remaining family reunifications and monitor future incidences of family separation. This position should be within DHS as it is the agency with the greatest visibility at the point of separation.

2. Create a Standing Interagency Task Force. The Family Unity Ombudsman should lead the creation of an interagency task force on family separation that meets quarterly with NGO and government stakeholders. The task force should be required to provide DHS-OIG, DHS-CRCL, and Congress with annual reports on family separation. It should also be responsible for monitoring monthly reports by DHS and ORR on family separation rates and cases. In the event that that the monthly number of family separation cases increases by more than 20% from the previous month, the Family Unity Ombudsman should be required to issue a report to Congress, as well as a corresponding public press release, within 30 days. This report and press release should discuss the increase in separated families, suspected causes, and any remedial actions being taken. Finally, the task force should issue a one-time report to Congress on: (i) the number of separated children released from ORR's care during FY 2017 and FY 2018 prior to the court's preliminary injunction during; (ii) the percent of such children released to category one, two, and three sponsors, respectively; and (iii) the percent of these children that are receiving government-funded post-release services.

3. Increase Data Collection. DHS should ensure that it documents family relationships for all individuals traveling with family, including extended family. In addition, DHS should issue guidance on family tracing for all pertinent staff.

Similarly, both ICE and ORR should have ready access to CBP's data on family separations to track parents and children referred to their care that may have been newly subject to family separation. ORR should also add another data requirement in the ORR UAC ("unaccompanied alien child") portal. Data on family separation needs to be updated every week and be accessible to ORR UAC care providers. ORR's tracking of separated children in its care should be electronically available and searchable by facility.

4. Document Justification for Separation.

Every incidence of family separation should be clearly recorded and the explanation for separation, including specific criminal charges (whether the crime was immigration-related, child abuse-related, etc.) should also be documented. This information needs to be readily shared and accessible to all component agencies of DHS, as well as ORR. Additionally, DHS policy guidance should denote that even if family relationships are questioned, the alleged relationship must be documented.

5. Streamline Information Sharing. There should be a secure database that family members and their attorneys and advocates can access that has information (location of members, reason for separation, etc.) about individual cases of family separation. This should be information that DHS is collecting that has been scrubbed of any DHS-proprietary/national security information.

6. Improve Training for Care Providers. ORR should create training material for UC providers that addresses family separation and train them on how to review paperwork, and record and report incidences of family separation to ORR and to the Family Unity Ombudsman.

B. To Administrative Departments of the Federal Government (DHS and HHS) on Any Future Operations Relating to Family Reunification

1. Release Reunited Families During Business Hours. Families should not be delivered to service providers or reception centers outside of agreed upon business hours. Reuniting families during the night can increase their stress and add to children's confusion; it is also very difficult for providers to adequately staff facilities during off-hours. Future operations should make an effort to drop children off during normal but extended business hours, with 6am and 8pm being the outliers with which families can safely and humanely be transported.

2. Ensure Travel Document Guidance and Notification. DHS needs to pay special attention to the issuance of travel documentation, and it should educate all CBP and TSA officers about individuals who may be traveling during reunification operations. If there are questions with a family member's travel documents, DHS officials should ensure that the family member has an opportunity to explain his or her special circumstances and also to call any family/friends in his or her final destination, as well as contact any NGO advocates and legal counsel who may be able to assist them.

3. Ensure Immigration Paperwork Reflects Families' Final Destination Cities. As a general practice, DHS should issue NTAs and other discharging immigration paperwork with a family's final destination address, rather than the address of the reception site or the site of the immigration detention facility court. Failing to put the correct address on immigration paperwork makes it difficult for families to attempt to comply with their proceedings. In the family detention context, ICE already lists the final destination address of the individual that they release. We urge ICE ensure the appropriate address is listed for all arriving families.

B. To Administrative Departments of the Federal Government (DHS and DOJ) on Access to Justice, Immigration Compliance, and Legal Education

1. Improve and Expand Discharge Guidance. DHS should augment its existing detention and processing center discharge guidance to include: (i) a clear explanation of how ICE and the Executive Office for Immigration Review (EOIR) are two separate agencies with distinct sets of procedures for address updates, communications, and hearings; (ii) instructions on how to update an address with ICE and with EOIR, including a blank standardized form for each; (iii) the 800 number for the EOIR immigration court hotline and guidance on how to use the hotline to obtain information about an individual's case; and (iv) instructions on requirements and responsibilities of being released on bond or parole, on an alternatives to detention program, or on one's own recognizance. This information should also be provided verbally for individuals who are illiterate, in a language they can fully understand.
2. Streamline Change of Address and Venue Procedure. DOJ should streamline the process for non-citizens to change their address and move to change their venue for immigration hearings. EOIR should collaborate with DHS to formulate a single unified change of address form (available in Spanish and other languages) that, when submitted physically or electronically to EOIR or any ICE office or contractor, would automatically trigger an update of a noncitizens address with all relevant immigration agencies and EOIR. This unified form would streamline the process, reducing the burden for not only the noncitizen but also for DHS and EOIR.

D. To Administrative Departments of the Federal Government (DHS, DOS, and DOJ) on Future Policy-Making for Asylum-Seeking Families Arriving to the U.S. Border

1. Reinstate the Family Case Management Program. DHS should reinstate the Family Case Management Program for the duration of the five years initially contemplated by the pilot program. This would allow a more accurate analysis of the program's cost effectiveness, immigration compliance rates, and ability to effectuate removals.
2. Expand Programs Addressing Root Causes of Migration. The Department of State should work to expand and further implement gang and internal displacement prevention programming that looks to address the increased targeting not just of youth but of entire family units by gangs.

3. Rescind the Zero-Tolerance Policy. DOJ should formally rescind its April 6th memorandum on "Zero-Tolerance for Offenses Under 8 U.S.C. § 1325(a)." This is not to suggest that prosecutions could not be brought for such offenses, but it would restore federal prosecutors' ability to utilize their discretion and balance various factors when determining whether it is appropriate to bring such a case forward. At a minimum, exceptions should be explicitly made to the memorandum to address families seeking protection.

E. To Congress on Existing Protections, Oversight, Post-Release Services, and ATDs

1. Invest Robustly in All Forms of Alternatives to Detention. Congress should fund more robustly alternatives to detention in the DHS budget. Congress should also ensure that DHS is working to undertake and pilot diverse alternatives to detention programming - in the form of the Intensive Supervision Appearance Program (ISAP) as well as alternative to detention programming that utilize case management and, in some cases, NGO participation.
2. Require Reporting on ATD Outcomes and Costs. Congress should instruct DHS to publicly report on the outcomes of ATD programs and ensure that a continual pilot period is undertaken to secure transparent and viable data on the effectiveness of such programs. It should also mandate reporting by DHS about the costs of family detention compared to alternatives to detention, including the Family Case Management Program.
3. Maintain Existing Protections for Unaccompanied and Accompanied Children. Given the long-lasting physical and mental consequences of detention on children, proposals seeking to alter existing safeguards relating to such detention (such as those in the Flores Settlement Agreement of 1997) must be firmly rejected. Immigrant children should be viewed as children first and foremost.
4. Ensure Oversight of Continued Reunification Efforts and Detention. Congress should utilize its oversight power to ensure the remaining eligible families are promptly reunified and that DHS is able to articulate clear and individualized justification for its decision to place certain reunified families in detention.
5. Support Robust Funding for Post-Release Services. Congress should also ensure, through the appropriations process, that separated children released to non-parent sponsors receive post-release services from ORR to address their trauma. It should also ensure that federal funding is dedicated to providing additional support services to the reunified and released families.

6. Create Greater Capacity for Effectuating Legal Outcomes for Asylum-Seeking Families. Congress should further invest in augmenting the capacity of the immigration courts by hiring more judges and providing additional funding for new courtroom facilities. Additionally, Congress should ensure robust funding for legal information programs such as the Legal Orientation Program and the Information Help Desk, which do not fund immigration counsel but help provide information to detained and released immigrants to ensure that they know more about compliance requirements.

F. To the Northern Triangle Governments on Collaboration and Communication

1. Increase Communication with Direct Service Providers and Local Consular Offices. The Northern Triangle country governments should increase their communication with UC service providers (including residential care, social service, and legal service providers) and local consular offices to ensure more direct communication on separation cases. Such engagement can lead to easier identification of separated children, technical assistance in family tracing and family reunification, and a more expeditious way for the foreign governments' respective child welfare agencies to become involved in individual cases.
2. Map Existing Consular and Legal Services. The Northern Triangle governments should create a tool to map the existing consular and legal services that each respective government operates in the United States. This tool should then be shared that with immigration social and legal service providers to facilitate coordination with the consulates.

G. To NGOs on Coordination of Service

1. Improve Coordination to Serve Separated Families. Numerous NGOs have generously expressed interest in and many have initiated services for reunited families in various locations across the U.S. Improved coordination and national communication among legal and social services providers would facilitate NGOs ability to address families' ongoing needs and fill geographic gaps to ensure all families are covered. NGOs should coordinate to develop a centralized location to share pro bono resources available to reunited families - legal, medical, mental health, trauma, etc. This coordination is also important to avoid duplicating services – both to ensure NGO resources are most effectively being utilized and to avoid overwhelming the released families.

IX. Conclusion

USCCB/MRS and LIRS urge the Administration to ensure that family unity remains a primary concern during all future immigration enforcement operations at the U.S./Mexico border. USCCB/MRS and LIRS further encourage the Administration to commit to immigration policies that are humane and uphold each individual's human dignity. Such policies should also ensure compliance with immigration requirements and be fair to the U.S. taxpayer. As always, USCCB/MRS and LIRS stand ready to work with the Administration to help develop policies that meet these goals.

X. Acknowledgements

In addition to all our Catholic and Lutheran partners named in this report and providing post-release services, USCCB/MRS would like to thank CCUSA for its significant contributions. In support of local Catholic Charities agencies receiving reunited families, both at the point of reunification and final destination, CCUSA provided funding to several Catholic Charities agencies and Catholic related organizations. Through this support, local agencies were able to assist families with food, shelter, transportation and legal support. In addition, CCUSA supported local agency efforts by deploying staff from around the country to provide additional assistance to border agencies.

USCCB/MRS and LIRS further express their sincere

If children had qualified for the TVPA-mandated PRS, such services would still be in place to ensure that children could receive these basic child welfare tools. Currently, reunified and released children are reliant on social service providers such as LIRS and USCCB/MRS's ad hoc ability to provide such services.

While the program was terminated well before the conclusion of the envisioned 5-year pilot, it was quite successful during the time in which it ran. In fact, it had a 99% success rate in enrollees appearing for their immigration court proceedings. GEO CARE, FAMILY CASE MANAGEMENT PROGRAM, 2 (2017).

Tim Goeglein Biography

Tim Goeglein is Vice President of External Relations for Focus on the Family. Formerly, he served as a special assistant to President George W. Bush and as a deputy director of the White House Office of Public Liaison. In addition, Goeglein served as a communications director for Gary Bauer at the Campaign for Working Families, and also for U.S. Senator Dan Coats of Indiana. Goeglein and his wife, Jenny, reside in the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area and have two sons.

ABOUT FOTF

Focus on the Family is a global Christian ministry dedicated to helping families thrive. We provide help and resources for couples to build healthy marriages that reflect God's design, and for parents to raise their children according to morals and values grounded in biblical principles.

We're here to come alongside families with relevance and grace at each stage of their journey. We support families as they seek to teach their children about God and His beautiful design for the family, protect themselves from the harmful influences of culture and equip themselves to make a greater difference in the lives of those around them.

No matter who you are, what you're going through or what challenges your family may be facing, we're here to help. With practical resources - like our 1-800 Family Help line, counseling and websites – we're committed to providing trustworthy, biblical guidance and support.

Scott,

Thank you for your email. I spoke to Archbishop Wenski and he will likely try and make it for the afternoon part of the session- he has an obligation in the morning. He was interested and requested that his Detention Ministries Director Deacon Edgardo Farias and Vocation Director, Fr. Elvis Gonzalez, be included if at all possible as representatives of the Archdiocese of Miami. Both individuals are currently serving children in Homestead.

I am not certain that I will be able to attend due to a new possible scheduling conflict but I would appreciate if you could include my name if possible and I will likely know more by earlier next week. I would certainly like to attend as it sounds very interesting and a great opportunity and I have never visited Homestead.

If you let me know who is the POC (not sure if that is you or your staff) and I will then connect the Archdiocese to help facilitate the last minute details for their attendance.

Thank you again. I will be in touch early next week with follow up on my attendance.

Sincerely,
Ashley

Tim,

Forgive me—I am recused from discussing this matter (or any official matter) with you as a former Knights employee for two years after employment. As I am settling in to my new role, I am getting used to how this works with the Partnership Center's outreach and coordination efforts, and had this wrong in my mind. I re-reviewed the relevant ethical guidelines with our ethics department and realized the email below is out-of-bounds. Please do not respond.

I will discuss with Shannon and our ethics team how to properly coordinate situations where the Knights might be involved in something that I am working on. Until you hear from the Partnership Center on the proper channel, anything that you'd like to bring before the Department should be through Shannon or Laura.

Many thanks,
Scott

Tim,

Good to see you yesterday. Shannon is heading to Puerto Rico (San Juan) next week and was looking for some recommendations for meetings. I was thinking of 1) the State Deputy and / or 2) Archbishop Nieves and / or his staff.

Do you think it would be worthwhile to try to set something up with the State Deputy? Also, apart from a cold call, do you have any suggestions for getting in contact with the Archbishop's office there? We can probably talk to our regional reps as well.

Thanks!
Scott

Understood, Ashley, and thank you.

I'm very happy to hear that Mass went well and that the children received the opportunity for confession. Thanks to you and the Bishops for the offer.

We can certainly find some time in the Monday / Wednesday timeframe, with my preference being Monday.

Today is unlikely as we have had some delays due to another element in the diocese. I have asked archbishop Gomez and bishop Vasquez for their availability next Monday - Wednesday.

I know you are time sensitive and am trying to get this together as soon as possible. Once I have their availability and yours I will then invite other pertinent bishops like I did for CBP call but those two Prelates are the lead.

Does Monday-Wednesday work next week? Hopefully yes. A particular day is better for you?

If you want a quick program talk on the possibility of care for released reunited families - USCCB staff can get on with you on Thursday or Friday of this week and then still plan for early next week with bishops.

I am sorry not sooner -holiday week is difficult.

The Mass was lovely. Thank you very much. Archbishop Gomez celebrated. They were able to do confessions as well with Bishop Mario and Padre Jorge.

Sincerely,
Ashley

Scott and Amanda,
Sorry to interrupt your Sunday but I have an opportunity to meet with the bishops in about an hour. I need to have an idea of what you would like to speak about when I bring up the meeting.
Happy to take a call or given your busy schedule email might be better for you. I defer to you.

Scott,
Thank you for the notice and for all of the assistance. I will relay the message back and I will work to set up a meeting the next DC opportunity.

Particular thanks on the Mass. There are an estimated 300 children to attend. I think it is very important and it also hopefully will be an excellent opportunity to promote greater pastoral accompaniment with the Bishops as we have discussed.

Additionally, I am sure you know but Archbishop Wenski will be celebrating Mass at Homestead this weekend.

Thank you.

Have a lovely weekend.

I will follow up with Amanda on scheduling later on in the summer.

Thank you very much for your generous offer. I have received permission to move forward with the July 2nd date. The only request is that we start in the morning- no later than 10am if at all possible.

I recognize how busy you and your staff are especially now and very much thank you for the attention to this issue.

As for the off the record discussion, the Bishops are able to participate and will welcome a discussion. I am happy to follow up with you or your policy staff on the details if that is acceptable to you or you feel that there should be further follow up in terms of desired topics of conversation.

Amanda,

My apologies for missing your call. I sent you a follow up email that I think crossed in time with your email. Thank you for reaching out. Can you please let me know next steps in terms of who to speak with to ensure access, coordinate time, ensure preparation for the Mass, and also any other particulars? I will follow up with the list of those who are attending.

Thank you very much.

Good morning.

I have a time of 10:30am on Monday that seems it will work for Archbishop Gomez and Bishop Vasquez.

Please let me know ASAP if you can make that time.

Also we can still do a staff call this week. My preference would be Thursday or Friday but we could do early this evening if necessary.

Thanks again for the tour and the ability to have the Mass.

Sincerely,
Ashley

Understood, Ashley, and thank you.

I'm very happy to hear that Mass went well and that the children received the opportunity for confession. Thanks to you and the Bishops for the offer.

We can certainly find some time in the Monday / Wednesday timeframe, with my preference being Monday.

Later this week with staff is a good idea as well. I'm copying Amanda Dukes to facilitate.

Today is unlikely as we have had some delays due to another element in the diocese.
I have asked archbishop Gomez and bishop Vasquez for their availability next Monday -Wednesday.
I know you are time sensitive and am trying to get this together as soon as possible. Once I have their availability and yours I will then invite other pertinent bishops like I did for CBP call but those two Prelates are the lead.
Does Monday-Wednesday work next week? Hopefully yes. A particular day is better for you?

If you want a quick program talk on the possibility of care for released reunited families -USCCB staff can get on with you on Thursday or Friday of this week and then still plan for early next week with bishops.

I am sorry not sooner -holiday week is difficult.

The Mass was lovely. Thank you very much. Archbishop Gomez celebrated. They were able to do confessions as well with Bishop Mario and Padre Jorge.

Sincerely,
Ashley

I recognize how busy you and your staff are especially now and very much thank you for the attention to this issue.

As for the off the record discussion, the Bishops are able to participate and will welcome a discussion. I am happy to follow up with you or your policy staff on the details if that is acceptable to you or you feel that there should be further follow up in terms of desired topics of conversation.

Amanda,

My apologies for missing your call. I sent you a follow up email that I think crossed in time with your email. Thank you for reaching out. Can you please let me know next steps in terms of who to speak with to ensure access, coordinate time, ensure preparation for the Mass, and also any other particulars? I will follow up with the list of those who are attending.

Thank you very much.

My name is Amanda Dukes, Special Assistant to Scott Lloyd. I will be helping to coordinate. Please proceed with contacting SW Key Casa Padre to begin organizing the Mass. July 1st is preferred but either day will work. Scott would also like a roundtable to be held. Are you able to coordinate that as well? Elsie Bellevue and April Young are both able to assist with information regarding the SW Key Casa Padre site.

Can you provide me with the dates or arrival for the Bishops?

Do you have any ideas on how best to contact the Archdiocese of Santa Fe? I am asking because our Director, Shannon Royce, will be out there on January 24 and 25, and is looking for good people to meet while there. I think it would be good if she could meet with someone from the local Catholic Conference or the Archbishop's office. We would be open to subject matter, but have been focused on opioids, mental health, and Unaccompanied Alien Children (UAC) issues.

Scott,

Thank you very much for your generous offer. I have received permission to move forward with the July 2nd date. The only request is that we start in the morning- no later than 10am if at all possible.

I recognize how busy you and your staff are especially now and very much thank you for the attention to this issue.

As for the off the record discussion, the Bishops are able to participate and will welcome a discussion. I am happy to follow up with you or your policy staff on the details if that is acceptable to you or you feel that there should be further follow up in terms of desired topics of conversation.

Amanda,

My apologies for missing your call. I sent you a follow up email that I think crossed in time with your email. Thank you for reaching out. Can you please let me know next steps in terms of who to speak with to ensure access, coordinate time, ensure preparation for the Mass, and also any other particulars? I will follow up with the list of those who are attending.

Thank you very much.

Sincerely,
Ashley

Hi Ashely,

My name is Amanda Dukes, Special Assistant to Scott Lloyd. I will be helping to coordinate. Please proceed with contacting SW Key Casa Padre to begin organizing the Mass. July 1st is preferred but either day will work. Scott would also like a roundtable to be held. Are you able to coordinate that as well? Elsie Bellevue and April Young are both able to assist with information regarding the SW Key Casa Padre site.

Can you provide me with the dates or arrival for the Bishops?

Thanks!

Michelle,

It was great to catch up with you last week!

I have a quick question:

Do you have any ideas on how best to contact the Archdiocese of Santa Fe? I am asking because our Director, Shannon Royce, will be out there on January 24 and 25, and is looking for good people to meet while there. I think it would be good if she could meet with someone from the local Catholic Conference or the Archbishop's office. We would be open to subject matter, but have been focused on opioids, mental health, and Unaccompanied Alien Children (UAC) issues.

Let me know your thoughts.

Thank you for the update. We are open to all suggestions on participation—thank you for sending these along. If you have a good contact for us to send invites, that would help.

We are currently looking at February 28th or March 1st for a visit to Miami to see Homestead and Boystown, but this is tentative.

On a separate note, would it be possible to do a follow-up call to discuss pastoral care for UACs? I think that's a topic that deserves its own conversation, apart from the broader discussion that will occur on the 12th.

Thank you,

I recognize how busy you and your staff are especially now and very much thank you for the attention to this issue.

As for the off the record discussion, the Bishops are able to participate and will welcome a discussion. I am happy to follow up with you or your policy staff on the details if that is acceptable to you or you feel that there should be further follow up in terms of desired topics of conversation.

Amanda,

My apologies for missing your call. I sent you a follow up email that I think crossed in time with your email. Thank you for reaching out. Can you please let me know next steps in terms of who to speak with to ensure access, coordinate time, ensure preparation for the Mass, and also any other particulars? I will follow up with the list of those who are attending.

Thank you very much.

Hi Ashely,

My name is Amanda Dukes, Special Assistant to Scott Lloyd. I will be helping to coordinate. Please proceed with contacting SW Key Casa Padre to begin organizing the Mass. July 1st is preferred but either day will work. Scott would also like a roundtable to be held. Are you able to coordinate that as well? Elsie Bellevue and April Young are both able to assist with information regarding the SW Key Casa Padre site.

Can you provide me with the dates or arrival for the Bishops?

Thanks!

RE: Thank You

Dear Director Lloyd:

I write on behalf of the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops' (USCCB) Committee on Migration to express gratitude to you and your staff for the continued commitment you have shown to the welfare of unaccompanied children in long-term foster care (LTFC). As you know, the Catholic Church holds a strong and pervasive pastoral interest in the welfare and humane treatment of migrant children, whom Pope Francis has rightly called the "most vulnerable" among migrants.

We were pleased to learn that you reviewed and approved ^{(b) (6)} application for placement into the unaccompanied refugee minors (URM) program. Even though he is from ^{(b) (6)} ^{(b) (6)} he is truly alone here in the U.S. We are deeply grateful for your timely review of his application and the opportunity to provide him with the continued care and support he needs.

As well, we are thankful for your attention to ^{(b) (5)}

^{(b) (5)} The staff of the Office of Migration and Refugee Services (MRS) of the USCCB look forward to receiving further guidance from you on this matter in the coming weeks ^{(b) (5)}

Our partnership with the Office of Refugee Resettlement and shared commitment to protecting and caring for vulnerable children is one we greatly value. We look forward to continued engagement with you on these issues and others. Specifically, the MRS staff hopes to be to privately share with you our suggestions for increased access to pastoral care and additional integration measures for unaccompanied children.

Sincerely,

Mr. Lloyd,

Hello. I am sending this request for permission for USCCB to tour ORR facilities in Brownsville for July 1 or 2. We are requesting access to Case Padre and Casa El Presidente. We have put both days to try and be as flexible as possible to you.

The delegation will be led by Cardinal DiNardo, Archbishop of Galveston Houston and President of the USCCB as well as Archbishop Jose Gomez, Archbishop of Los Angeles, and Vice President of the USCCB.

The Bishops are interested in the trip for pastoral and educational reasons and if possible would like to hold a Mass.

My apologies for the short notice for the request, it has been very difficult with schedules. Please know that the Bishops are very interested in seeing these facilities and also we would be interested in you personally escorting them if you have time in your schedule.

I think it would be a good opportunity to speak about the work that you have been doing at ORR and also meet our leadership, and also discuss ways to bolster pastoral access.

I welcome your response and again apologize for the delay.

Please feel free to contact me at (b) (6) at your convenience. I have also left you a message at 202 401 7269- that is the number I had for you.

Thank you again in advance for your willingness to consider this request.

Ashley

CARE PROVIDER FACILITY TOUR REQUEST

Please complete Section 1 of this form and submit it to your point of contact within HHS. All requests must be submitted no later than TWO WEEKS before the requested visit date. Unscheduled visits will not be accommodated.

Times and dates of visits will be confirmed based on shelter availability, taking into account operational and privacy concerns at site locations. Media is prohibited from accompanying visitors. You will receive notification of the visit approval as soon as it is processed. Questions regarding your request can be directed to your initial point of contact or UCTourRequests@acf.hhs.gov.

SECTION 1 (to be completed by the requester)

A. REQUESTER POINT OF CONTACT

Name: Ashley Feasley Organization: U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops
Email: afeasley@uscgb.org Phone: 202 541 3260

B. REQUESTED DATE AND LOCATION

Date and Time Requested: July 1 or July 2

Are the date and time requested flexible? Yes No

Location Requested (city, region, or specific care provider facility):

We respectfully request access to two facilities if possible.
Southwest Key Program- Casa Padre
~~8449~~, 7480 Padre Island Hwy, Brownsville, TX 78521 and
Southwest Key Program- Casa El Presidente
~~106~~ Red Hunt Blvd, Brownsville, TX 78521
~~956~~ 831-6365

Depending on the capacity of the requested location, are you able and willing to visit a different care provider facility to accommodate your requested visit date? Yes No

Purpose of Visit: An educational and pastoral visit by the Bishops to learn about the situation and to also pastorally accompany the children in the facility.

C. ADDITIONAL NOTES OR ACCOMADATION REQUESTS

We are aware of ORR protocols regarding media- there will be no effort to hold press conferences or take pictures within the facility. Additionally, if possible we would welcome Director Lloyd's presence to accompany the Bishops on the tour. The purpose of the trip is educational and pastoral.

Good morning.

I have a time of 10:30am on Monday that seems it will work for Archbishop Gomez and Bishop Vasquez.

Please let me know ASAP if you can make that time.

Also we can still do a staff call this week. My preference would be Thursday or Friday but we could do early this evening if necessary.

Thanks again for the tour and the ability to have the Mass.

Sincerely,
Ashley

Understood, Ashley, and thank you.

I'm very happy to hear that Mass went well and that the children received the opportunity for confession. Thanks to you and the Bishops for the offer.

We can certainly find some time in the Monday / Wednesday timeframe, with my preference being Monday.

Later this week with staff is a good idea as well. I'm copying Amanda Dukes to facilitate.

Today is unlikely as we have had some delays due to another element in the diocese.

I have asked archbishop Gomez and bishop Vasquez for their availability next Monday -Wednesday.

I know you are time sensitive and am trying to get this together as soon as possible. Once I have their availability and yours I will then invite other pertinent bishops like I did for CBP call but those two Prelates are the lead.

Does Monday-Wednesday work next week? Hopefully yes. A particular day is better for you?

If you want a quick program talk on the possibility of care for released reunited families -USCCB staff can get on with you on Thursday or Friday of this week and then still plan for early next week with bishops.

I am sorry not sooner -holiday week is difficult.

The Mass was lovely. Thank you very much. Archbishop Gomez celebrated. They were able to do confessions as well with Bishop Mario and Padre Jorge.

Sincerely,
Ashley

Particular thanks on the Mass. There are an estimated 300 children to attend. I think it is very important and it also hopefully will be an excellent opportunity to promote greater pastoral accompaniment with the Bishops as we have discussed.
Additionally, I am sure you know but

Scott,

Thank you very much for your generous offer. I have received permission to move forward with the July 2nd date. The only request is that we start in the morning- no later than 10am if at all possible.

I recognize how busy you and your staff are especially now and very much thank you for the attention to this issue.

As for the off the record discussion, the Bishops are able to participate and will welcome a discussion. I am happy to follow up with you or your policy staff on the details if that is acceptable to you or you feel that there should be further follow up in terms of desired topics of conversation.

Amanda,

My apologies for missing your call. I sent you a follow up email that I think crossed in time with your email. Thank you for reaching out. Can you please let me know next steps in terms of who to speak with to ensure access, coordinate time, ensure preparation for the Mass, and also any other particulars? I will follow up with the list of those who are attending.

Thank you very much.

Re: Tour of ORR's Influx Facility in Homestead, Florida

Dear Director Lloyd:

On behalf of the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops' Migration and Refugee Services (USCCB/MRS), the U.S. Committee for Refugees and Immigrants (USCRI), and the Women's Refugee Commission (WRC), we write regarding the May 14, 2018 stakeholder tour of the Office of Refugee Resettlement's (ORR) influx facility for unaccompanied children (UC) in Homestead, Florida. We sincerely appreciated the opportunity to tour the facility and ORR's continued willingness to work collaboratively with NGO stakeholders.

We acknowledge the efforts ORR has made to address the recommendations we provided following our previous tour of the Homestead facility on June 22, 2016, during its last UC influx operation. As observed during this most recent tour, these include efforts to ensure adequate staffing ratios to improve supervision as well as case management and clinician services for children in care. In addition, we are encouraged by ORR's recent release of a new Funding Opportunity Announcement to expand bed capacity at all levels of care, including least-restrictive care placements for children.

Our organizations understand the challenges ORR faces in addressing the increase of UC referrals it is receiving, and we appreciate the agency's continued efforts to improve care for children in its custody. We welcome the opportunity for continued engagement and to discuss these recommendations and questions further.

Good morning.

I have a time of 10:30am on Monday that seems it will work for Archbishop Gomez and Bishop Vasquez.

Please let me know ASAP if you can make that time.

Also we can still do a staff call this week. My preference would be Thursday or Friday but we could do early this evening if necessary.

Thanks again for the tour and the ability to have the Mass.

Today is unlikely as we have had some delays due to another element in the diocese.

I have asked archbishop Gomez and bishop Vasquez for their availability next Monday -Wednesday.

I know you are time sensitive and am trying to get this together as soon as possible. Once I have their availability and yours I will then invite other pertinent bishops like I did for CBP call but those two Prelates are the lead.

Does Monday-Wednesday work next week? Hopefully yes. A particular day is better for you?

If you want a quick program talk on the possibility of care for released reunited families -USCCB staff can get on with you on Thursday or Friday of this week and then still plan for early next week with bishops.

I am sorry not sooner -holiday week is difficult.

The Mass was lovely. Thank you very much. Archbishop Gomez celebrated. They were able to do confessions as well with Bishop Mario and Padre Jorge.

I recognize how busy you and your staff are especially now and very much thank you for the attention to this issue.
As for the off the record discussion, the Bishops are able to participate and will welcome a discussion. I am happy to follow up with you or your policy staff on the details if that is acceptable to you or you feel that there should be further follow up in terms of desired topics of conversation.

Amanda,

Keep immigrant families together, bishops plead at border

July 2, 2018 CNA Daily News Print

McAllen, Texas, Jul 2, 2018 / 06:27 pm (CNA).- Immigration reform requires seeing the faces of immigrants, and hearing their stories, according to five U.S. bishops who have completed a two-day pastoral visit to the U.S. border with Mexico in Texas' Rio Grande Valley.

The bishops spoke at a press conference Monday night, reflecting on their experiences with immigrants, among them children separated from their parents and held in federal custody, during their pastoral visit.

“Our faith is not just a system of concepts,” said Cardinal Daniel DiNardo of Houston, president of the US bishops’ conference, during the July 2 press conference. “Our faith is in a person, the person of Jesus Christ.”

DiNardo told the story of a Honduran man he met during a visit to a Catholic-run respite center for immigrants. The man told the cardinal that he entered the United States illegally in order to protect his family, after receiving death threats from gangs in their home country.

“He had his son with him,” the cardinal said. “Did he cross the border? He did. That part is illegal. But I am not looking at an abstraction when I look at him. I am looking at a person. And that person is shaken.”

“These are all human beings here,” DiNardo added.

Bishop Joseph Bambera of Scranton, Pa., affirmed the cardinal’s sentiment. Bambera said that talking with immigrant families reshapes perceptions about illegal immigration, and challenges political preconceptions.

“When you have the opportunity to sit down with a family...labels melt away,” Bambera said.

“When you talk to somebody whose deepest desire is not to exploit a country and take everything they can, but to provide for their children, and keep their children safe, then labels melt away.”

Archbishop Jose Gomez of Los Angeles, vice-president of the bishops conference, told reporters that immigration is “not just a matter of politics. It’s a matter of humanity.”

The immigration discussion, he said, “is really talking about men and women, parents and children, brothers and sisters.”

“It’s a global reality...we all are participating in the same humanity and we are together trying to find the solution to this situation,” Gomez added.

The bishops called Catholics to advocate for immigration reform. DiNardo said that call should begin with prayer.

“I certainly think that praying is more sufficient than people even imagine,” DiNardo said.

“Prayer is important. But in addition to prayer, we have to petition Congress. We have to talk to them, we have to make it really intense. Not nasty, but really intense. My hope would be to write, to call, to include Congress, in calling for an integral immigration reform.”

Gomez said that families should be prioritized in legislative efforts.

“If we want something from the administration and from congress, it’s family unity. Because that’s essential for the human person. And we are willing to do whatever we can to help make it happen.”

“The way they came here-we can address the legal requirements of our country to make the decisions that are correct- but with family unity,” he added.

DiNardo was grateful that policies separating children from their parents at the border have come to an end, but said the bishops “have some concerns about family detention.”

The cardinal called for the use of case-management programs as a “cost-effective alternative” to family detention, and said that Catholic-run charities would be glad to assist the government in case-management initiatives.

Undocumented immigrants waiting legal proceedings “need to be accounted for,” he said.

Through case-management programs, families, many of whom want to find employment quickly, are “able to live with a little more. I call it hope. When you go through this kind of thing, whether you’re a family or an unaccompanied minor, there’s an element of real trauma that happens to you, and you can see it on their faces.”

DiNardo said that he doesn’t believe U.S. officials intend to traumatize immigrants, but said that “case management gives them some chance to breathe, and some hope.”

The delegation of bishops visiting the border, which also included Bishop Robert Brennan, auxiliary bishop of Rockville Centre, toured two federal facilities, along with the Humanitarian Respite Center in McAllen, Texas, run by Catholic Charities of the Rio Grande Valley.

DiNardo said the visit was a prayerful and pastoral visit.

“We have had a full 2 days and they have been a very beautiful 2 days,” DiNardo said.

“Some parts painful, but very beautiful.”

DiNardo praised the hospitality of federal officials and local Church leaders, especially singling out Bishop Daniel Flores of Brownsville, a member of the delegation and its local host, along with Sister Norma Pimentel, executive director of Catholic Charities of the Rio Grande Valley.

“There are lots of challenges here, there are lots of things we found, but we have found is that we have received incredible cooperation at every site we visited,” DiNardo said.

“All of the people who are involved in this were incredibly helpful. I want to make sure everyone knows that,” he added.

DiNardo said that the bishops are especially calling for the reunification of families separated at the border.

“The children who were separated from their parents need to be reunited- that’s already begun, but it’s not finished yet. It must be done, and it’s urgent,” he said.

Gomez reiterated that point.

“I think it is so important that these children be reunited with their parents,” he said. “I think it is important [for the Church] to really help in that process of reunification. To make sure that we are there and to participate as much as possible in that process.”

For his part, Flores emphasized the gravity of situations that motivate Central American to flee to the United States.

“We have spoken to mothers in Guatemala or in Honduras who have told me ‘my son will be killed here, they will shoot him. He’s 16. What am I supposed to do?’”

“Many people would much prefer to stay home if they didn’t feel that their children’s lives were at stake,” he said.

I don't think we have gotten the message out how dire it is in certain parts of Central America...and a wider conversation to address the hemispheric situation is part of our responsibility, as a Church and as a nation.”

Gomez, who said that he asked children to pray for his native Mexico's squad in the World Cup, said that comprehensive immigration reform, addressing the complexity of the situation, is possible.

“What we all need to understand- our government and administration officials- is that it's possible to address the needs of immigration reform. You just need to make the decision that we can do it. Once we do that, with everyone working together—we can find a solution...that the borders be protected, and that the people who are already here become very productive.”

“There are ways to move people around and respect the border and the laws of every country,” he added.

“Our country is a country of immigrants,” Gomez said. “It's a great country.”

Katelyn,

My apologies for the delay I have been traveling. I do not have the email addresses of all three individuals interested in participating but I am including the Archbishop's assistant Sister (b) (6) to facilitate those details.

Here are the names of the individuals that are interested in joining:

Archbishop of Miami, Archbishop Thomas Wenski (likely part of the day)

Detention Ministries Director Archdiocese of Miami, Deacon Edgardo Farias

Archdiocese of Miami Vocation Director, Fr. Elvis Gonzalez.

Please send any further details to myself and Sister (b) (6) who is cc'ed.

Sincerely,
Ashley

Dear friends,

For those of you who were able to join us for our meeting and site visit on February 12-13, we thank you again for your time and engagement.

Regardless of whether or not you were able to attend, we would love to see you in Florida on March 5th for visits to three more UAC sites—Homestead Temporary Housing Facility, Boys Town of Florida, and His House Children’s Shelter. A proposed agenda is attached for your consideration (though it is still subject to change).

Transportation is being arranged to carry guests from the Courtyard Marriot Miami Airport to Homestead, Boys Town, His House, and then back again to the Courtyard Marriot. If you anticipate needing transportation, please let us know when you RSVP. The group will leave from the hotel at 8:30 a.m., the tour is set to begin at Homestead at 9:30 a.m., and wrap up at His House is set for 4:00 p.m. The hotel’s address is 1201 NW 42nd Avenue, Miami, FL 33126.

As the trip is quickly approaching, we will need your RSVP by Thursday of next week (February 28th), along with a “yes” or a “no” regarding transportation to and from the sites. Please let me know if you have any further questions.

I look forward to hearing from you!

Warmly,

Katelyn

Scott,

Thank you for your email. I spoke to Archbishop Wenski and he will likely try and make it for the afternoon part of the session- he has an obligation in the morning. He was interested and requested that his Detention Ministries Director Deacon Edgardo Farias and Vocation Director, Fr. Elvis Gonzalez, be included if at all possible as representatives of the Archdiocese of Miami. Both individuals are currently serving children in Homestead.

I am not certain that I will be able to attend due to a new possible scheduling conflict but I would appreciate if you could include my name if possible and I will likely know more by earlier next week. I would certainly like to attend as it sounds very interesting and a great opportunity and I have never visited Homestead.

If you let me know who is the POC (not sure if that is you or your staff) and I will then connect the Archdiocese to help facilitate the last minute details for their attendance.

Thank you again. I will be in touch early next week with follow up on my attendance.

Ashley

We would be delighted to have the participation of Archbishop Wenski and any of his brethren or other clergy / personnel, and we'd be happy to have your presence as well.

As things develop, please let me know if you need any more information.

I am attaching a tentative schedule for the 5th (a few pages down).

Scott,
Hope you are doing well.
We just had a great meeting with Jonathan Hayes at ORR and he mentioned that you will be hosting the faith-based trip down to Miami on March 4th and 5th. I am happy to reach out to Archbishop Wenski to see if he can participate if contact has not already been made. I also will happen to be in Miami at that time. I would greatly appreciate the chance to be included in the tour if at all possible as well.

Thank you.

It was great to catch up with you last week!

I have a quick question:

Do you have any ideas on how best to contact the Archdiocese of Santa Fe? I am asking because our Director, Shannon Royce, will be out there on January 24 and 25, and is looking for good people to meet while there. I think it would be good if she could meet with someone from the local Catholic Conference or the Archbishop's office. We would be open to subject matter, but have been focused on opioids, mental health, and Unaccompanied Alien Children (UAC) issues.

Let me know your thoughts.

Thank you for taking the time yesterday to speak with the Bishops. Greatly appreciate your time during this busy period.

I wanted to follow up on two items:

(1) Point of Contact for TRafficking Victims Assistance Program (TVAP). I think you mentioned the Assistant Sec or Deputy assistant sec for ACF?

(2) Procedure for engagement on pastoral access-we are going to look at the diocese and ORR uac shelters and housing and do a little mapping and then come back with some initial thoughts. In the meanwhile-is there a point person who handles this in ORR who might be able to give a snapshot of facilities with the most need? We have done this with ICE and it was helpful to get things started.

Thank you again.

Katelyn,
My apologies for the delay I have been traveling. I do not have the email addresses of all three individuals interested in participating but I am including the Archbishop's assistant Sister (b) (6) to facilitate those details.

Here are the names of the individuals that are interested in joining:

Archbishop of Miami, Archbishop Thomas Wenski (likely part of the day)

Detention Ministries Director Archdiocese of Miami, Deacon Edgardo Farias

Archdiocese of Miami Vocation Director, Fr. Elvis Gonzalez.

Please send any further details to myself and Sister (b) (6) who is cc'ed.

All the best,

Dear friends,

For those of you who were able to join us for our meeting and site visit on February 12-13, we thank you again for your time and engagement.

Regardless of whether or not you were able to attend, we would love to see you in Florida on March 5th for visits to three more UAC sites— Homestead Temporary Housing Facility, Boys Town of Florida, and His House Children's Shelter. A proposed agenda is attached for your consideration (though it is still subject to change).

Transportation is being arranged to carry guests from the Courtyard Marriot Miami Airport to Homestead, Boys Town, His House, and then back again to the Courtyard Marriot. If you anticipate needing transportation, please let us know when you RSVP. The group will leave from the hotel at 8:30 a.m., the tour is set to begin at Homestead at 9:30 a.m., and wrap up at His House is set for 4:00 p.m. The hotel's address is 1201 NW 42nd Avenue, Miami, FL 33126.

As the trip is quickly approaching, we will need your RSVP by Thursday of next week (February 28th), along with a "yes" or a "no" regarding transportation to and from the sites. Please let me know if you have any further questions.

I look forward to hearing from you!

Warmly,

Katelyn

Scott,

Thank you for your email. I spoke to Archbishop Wenski and he will likely try and make it for the afternoon part of the session- he has an obligation in the morning. He was interested and requested that his Detention Ministries Director Deacon Edgardo Farias and Vocation Director, Fr. Elvis Gonzalez, be included if at all possible as representatives of the Archdiocese of Miami. Both individuals are currently serving children in Homestead.

I am not certain that I will be able to attend due to a new possible scheduling conflict but I would appreciate if you could include my name if possible and I will likely know more by earlier next week. I would certainly like to attend as it sounds very interesting and a great opportunity and I have never visited Homestead.

If you let me know who is the POC (not sure if that is you or your staff) and I will then connect the Archdiocese to help facilitate the last minute details for their attendance.

Thank you again. I will be in touch early next week with follow up on my attendance.

Thank you for the email. I just received word actually that the drawdown went much quicker than anticipated and the kids are out, so I think it's best to focus on February 12.

Have a great weekend,

Today is unlikely as we have had some delays due to another element in the diocese. I have asked archbishop Gomez and bishop Vasquez for their availability next Monday - Wednesday.

I know you are time sensitive and am trying to get this together as soon as possible. Once I have their availability and yours I will then invite other pertinent bishops like I did for CBP call but those two Prelates are the lead.

Does Monday-Wednesday work next week? Hopefully yes. A particular day is better for you?

If you want a quick program talk on the possibility of care for released reunited families - USCCB staff can get on with you on Thursday or Friday of this week and then still plan for early next week with bishops.

I am sorry not sooner -holiday week is difficult.

The Mass was lovely. Thank you very much. Archbishop Gomez celebrated. They were able to do confessions as well with Bishop Mario and Padre Jorge.

Sincerely,
Ashley

Thank you for the notice and for all of the assistance. I will relay the message back and I will work to set up a meeting the next DC opportunity.

Particular thanks on the Mass. There are an estimated 300 children to attend. I think it is very important and it also hopefully will be an excellent opportunity to promote greater pastoral accompaniment with the Bishops as we have discussed.

Additionally, I am sure you know but Archbishop Wenski will be celebrating Mass at Homestead this weekend. Thank you.

Have a lovely weekend.

Thank you very much for your generous offer. I have received permission to move forward with the July 2nd date. The only request is that we start in the morning- no later than 10am if at all possible. I recognize how busy you and your staff are especially now and very much thank you for the attention to this issue. As for the off the record discussion, the Bishops are able to participate and will welcome a discussion. I am happy to follow up with you or your policy staff on the details if that is acceptable to you or you feel that there should be further follow up in terms of desired topics of conversation.

Amanda,

My apologies for missing your call. I sent you a follow up email that I think crossed in time with your email. Thank you for reaching out. Can you please let me know next steps in terms of who to speak with to ensure access, coordinate time, ensure preparation for the Mass, and also any other particulars? I will follow up with the list of those who are attending.

Thank you very much.

My name is Amanda Dukes, Special Assistant to Scott Lloyd. I will be helping to coordinate. Please proceed with contacting SW Key Casa Padre to begin organizing the Mass. July 1st is preferred but either day will work. Scott would also like a roundtable to be held. Are you able to coordinate that as well? Dear Bill and Ashley,

I hope you are well. I am sure you've heard by now that I've moved to HHS' Center for Faith and Opportunity Initiatives where I am settling in nicely.

I wonder if either of you, or both, would be available for a quick call sometime tomorrow? I have a brief matter I'd like to discuss related to the UAC program. The best time for me is in the morning—could 10 a.m. work?

Thank you,
Scott

Trump's top Medicaid official departs for Florida

By Rachana Pradhan and Alexandra Glorioso

01/04/2019 02:09 PM EDT

The senior Trump administration official overseeing Medicaid is leaving the federal government to become the incoming Florida governor's health secretary after less than three months on the job.

Mary Mayhew, who previously ran Maine Gov. Paul LePage's health department and oversaw major cuts to the state's safety net, will lead the Florida Agency for Health Care Administration under Gov.-elect Ron DeSantis, an ally of President Donald Trump and critic of the Affordable Care Act.

DeSantis campaigned on opposing Medicaid expansion while promising to strengthen the state's safety net to protect the most vulnerable. His decision to hire Mayhew signals he could pursue tighter eligibility standards for Medicaid and other social benefits.

"With decades of experience and service throughout various leadership roles in both the private and public sectors, Mary Mayhew is a proven innovator and an effective leader in the field of health care," DeSantis said in a statement to POLITICO. "Mary will be an outstanding secretary who will bring bold and tested leadership to the agency."

During six years as Maine health commissioner, Mayhew helped lead the crusade against Medicaid expansion. She also led efforts to add work requirements to the food stamp program and tighten the state's eligibility standards.

In her failed bid for the Republican nomination in Maine's gubernatorial race last year, she touted a 70 percent decrease in enrollment in the state's food stamp program and a 24 percent decrease in Medicaid enrollment.

Mayhew joined the Trump administration in mid-October. CMS Administrator Seema Verma announced Mayhew's resignation in an email Friday afternoon.

"I've enjoyed working with Administrator Verma and the entire team at CMS," Mayhew said in a statement posted by CMS. "It is this vision for state flexibility that excites me about returning to the state level to help Governor-elect DeSantis partner with Administrator Verma to serve the citizens of Florida."

Hi Steve! Hope you can make it to this lunch.

A strong need exists to advance reforms that promote opportunity for all. The Administration is doing much to advance the goal in the near-term. And many members of the policy community and Congress are reflecting on longer-term goals. I am pulling together a small group of policy leaders to discuss this important work over lunch. We'll hear from an update from the Administration. Your participation in this conversation would be invaluable.

If you are interested in joining, please send Meridian Paulton your availability for lunch at noon on Tuesday 1/29, Friday 2/1, Tuesday 2/5, Monday 2/11, or Tuesday 2/12. We will follow-up with a final date and invitation once we have a date that works for everyone.

I hope to see you soon!

As the opioid crisis is driving thousands of children into the foster care system, some states are ill-equipped to even provide a bed for these new foster children, let alone find them a “forever family.”

It is at this critical moment that legal activist groups are seeking to leverage the power of government to impose their sexual orthodoxy upon faith-based adoption agencies. As a result, faith-based providers in Massachusetts, Illinois, Washington, D.C., and California have had to close their doors, leading to the displacement of thousands of children. Now the ACLU and Lambda Legal are filing lawsuits to try to force faith-based agencies in Michigan and Texas to violate their beliefs or shut their doors.

The overburdened adoption and foster care systems cannot afford to lose faith-based agencies. Join us for a conversation on this pressing issue.

Subject: Monthly OGE 278-T Transaction Report Reminder
Importance: High

This is your reminder that if you, your spouse, or your dependent children made any purchase, sale, or exchange of stocks, bonds (including municipal bonds), commodity futures, or other securities in an amount greater than $1000 within the last 30 days, you must file an OGE 278-T no later than the 15th of the month. (If the 15th falls on a weekend or holiday, your report is due the following work day.)

You are not required to report transactions involving the following types of holdings:

- Mutual Funds
- Treasury Securities
- Real Property
- Life Insurance and Annuities

Negative reports are not required.

As a result of the DOMA ruling, same sex spouse's financial transactions that meet the reporting requirements for the OGE 278-T are required to be reported.

You may e-file your monthly OGE 278-T using OGE's Integrity Program by clicking <https://integrity.gov>. If you have not logged onto Integrity or OMB MAX before, please review the attached startup guidance to obtain an OMB MAX account. After logging into Integrity and to self-start your monthly OGE 278-T, click the '278-T' link found under your 'My Tools' section on your 'My Tasks' menu.

On the landing page, <https://integrity.gov>, click on “Login to Integrity.”

On the login screen, you may have several options:

1. Enter your MAX.gov user ID and password (note: if you have never logged in to MAX.gov, click on the “Forgot, set, or change your password?” link and follow the on-screen prompts to create a password on MAX.gov);

2. Choose to login with your CAC/PIN; or,

3. If your agency is listed as a "MAX Agency Federated Partner," login by clicking on the button for your agency. MAX will route you through your agency authenticator. If you are already logged in at your agency, you will be connected directly to MAX without further prompt. Consider checking the "Use this Agency Login every time I log into MAX." If you exclusively use this feature for MAX login, you no longer need to periodically update your MAX password.

INTEGRITY uses MAX authentication service so your agency doesn't have to manage user IDs and passwords.

Mention login to INTEGRITY. MAX Support: 202.395.6860, maxsupport@omb.eop.gov. Available weekdays 8:30 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. and weekends 9:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.

Troubleshooting login. Try one or more of these tips if you see an "access denied" error message.

1. Are you registered as an Integrity user? Check with your agency ethics official.
2. Never logged in to MAX.gov? Activate the MAX.gov account when starting to login to INTEGRITY. Here is how: Click "Login to Integrity" on the landing page, <https://integrity.gov>, to open the ID/password dialog box. Above the password field, click on the "Forgot, set, or change your password?" link. This will open a dialog box where you enter your email address to receive MAX.gov account activation instructions and to create a password that you will use to access INTEGRITY.
3. What Internet browser? Must be Internet Explorer (IE) 10 or greater, Google Chrome 36 or greater, Firefox 31 or greater, or Safari 6 or greater. Also works with IE 9 if Adobe flash player installed. Check with your IT Help Desk.
4. Clear your cache.
 - a. Your Internet browser's cache stores various information from web pages you visit. Occasionally, the cache can prevent you from seeing updated content or cause functional problems. You can fix many browser problems by simply clearing your cache. To clear your browser's cache (temporary internet files), visit <http://www.wikihow.com/Clear-Your-Browser's-Cache>, for instructions.
 - b. Close your Internet browser window(s) completely, then in a new browser window go to <https://integrity.gov>, and click "Login to Integrity".

5. Determine which Internet browser you are using at <http://www.whatsmybrowser.org/>. You may need to provide that information for support.

Contact MAX Support for login assistance. Mention login to INTEGRITY. MAX Support: 202.395.6860, maxsupport@omb.eop.gov. Available weekdays 8:30 a.m. to 9:00 p.m. and weekends 9:00 a.m. to 6:00 p.m.

Executive Branch Personnel PUBLIC FINANCIAL DISCLOSURE REPORT: Periodic Transaction Report

Instructions for Completing the OGE Form 278-T

Who Must File

You must file a periodic transaction report if:

- you are in a position that requires you to file an annual or termination public financial disclosure report (OGE Form 278), and
- you have a reportable transaction as discussed below.

You are not required to file a negative report if you have no reportable transactions.

What to Report

Report any purchase, sale, or exchange by you, your spouse, or dependent child of stocks, bonds, commodity futures, and other securities if the amount of the transaction exceeded $1,000. You do not need to report: (1) mutual funds and other excepted investment funds; (2) certificates of deposit, savings or checking accounts, and money market accounts; (3) U.S. Treasury bills, notes, and bonds; (4) Thrift Savings Plan accounts; (5) real property; and (6) transactions that are solely by and between you, your spouse, or dependent child.

For each reported transaction:

- Identify the security (e.g., "Central Airlines Co.").
- Mark a column to indicate the type of transaction.
- Provide the date that the transaction occurred.
- If you received notification of the transaction more than 30 days ago, mark the column labeled "Notification Received More Than 30 Days Ago." (Extensions of the due date should be noted in the "Notice of Extension" section.)
- Mark a column to indicate the amount of the transaction.

Voluntary Reporting of Annual/Termination Information

You do not need to report a transaction in an annual or termination report (OGE Form 278) if you have already reported the transaction in a periodic transaction report (OGE Form 278-T). Annual and termination reports, however, also require you to report purchases, sales, or exchanges of: (1) mutual funds and other excepted investment funds; and (2) real property (excluding your personal residence).

If you prefer to report such transactions in your periodic transaction report(s) rather than in an annual or termination report, you may do so, unless your agency requires duplicate reporting.

When to File

Periodic transaction reporting is subject to two different deadlines. Under the Ethics in Government Act, you need to file a report:

- within 30 days of receiving notification of a transaction, but
- not later than 45 days after the transaction.

Which deadline applies depends on when you receive notification of the transaction. Normally, you need to disclose a transaction within 30 days of receiving the notification. For example, if you receive online confirmation of a transaction that you ordered earlier today, you will file your report within 30 days.

Sometimes, you might not receive notification right away. In that case, the 45-day deadline can shorten the period for filing your report. For example, if today you receive notification of a transaction that occurred early last month, you will need to be sure to file your report no later than 45 days after the transaction occurred. The 45-day period might end sooner than 30 days from today.

Example 1: You purchase a stock on July 1 and receive notification the same day. You need to report the purchase on or before July 31.

Example 2: You receive a statement on August 10 regarding a purchase that occurred on July 31. You need to report the purchase on or before September 9 because September 9 is 30 days after you received notification of the transaction.

Example 3: You receive a statement on August 10 regarding a purchase that occurred on July 1. You need to report the purchase on or before August 15. Although the 30-day period from notification ends September 9, the 45-day period from the date of the transaction ends earlier.

Note: These deadlines do not apply to any voluntary disclosures of annual and termination report information that you choose to make.

Extensions and Late Filing Fees

Your agency may grant an extension of up to 45 days for good cause shown with the possibility of one additional extension of up to 45 days. If your report is filed more than 30 days after the date the report is required to be filed, or, if an extension was granted, more than 30 days after the last day of the filing extension period, you shall be subject to a $200 late filing fee. A report is considered to be filed when it is received by your agency. Unless waived by your agency, your agency will collect the fee for deposit with the U.S. Treasury.

We are pleased to host you this Friday, February 1, at NOON for a policy luncheon at The Heritage Foundation. Please email Meridian Paulton at meridian.paulton@heritage.org if you need parking.

A strong need exists to advance reforms that promote opportunity for all. The Administration is doing much to advance the goal in the near-term. And many members of the policy community and Congress are reflecting on longer-term goals. We are pulling together a small group of policy leaders to discuss this important work over lunch. We'll hear from an update from the Administration. Your participation in this conversation would be invaluable.

We look forward to seeing you soon!

Subject: Invitation

Mr. Secretary:

All of us with Youth For Tomorrow remain deeply grateful for your timely, gracious and thoughtful resolution to our dilemma last June by adroitly addressing our issue on bed capacity for the immigrant children directed to YFT by ORR. As became very evident later in the year, without your leadership, the problem would only have been exacerbated in short order by a shortage of beds around the nation for ORR children.

Steve, I saw our mutual friend, Congresswoman Barbara Comstock, a couple evenings ago at a fundraiser for her re-election. Your responsiveness to our plight came up in our conversation. Which also reminded me of your involvement with vulnerable children in New York.

Please accept this note as a complementary invitation to join Wayne & Susan LaPierre, Barbara & Chip Comstock and other prominent personages and YFT donors at our Saturday, February 10th fundraiser featuring Grammy Award winning Country music entertainer Brad Paisley. Susan LaPierre is Co-Chair of this annual Heart 2 Heart Gala and, as always, Wayne is strategically instrumental in securing a top flight performer for the evening.

The evening begins with a reception at 6 pm and dinner at 7 pm at the Ritz-Carlton, Tysons Corner. We will provide further details in a timely manner as the evening approaches.

We truly hope you and your spouse are able to join us.

Best regards,

Gary

Dear Colleagues,

As the year draws to a close, I wanted to express my deep appreciation for the privilege of working with you. As many of you have heard me say, leading HHS in accomplishing its vital mission is my dream job, and the chance to work with all of you this year has exceeded even my highest hopes.

As is HHS tradition, I invite you and your families to join us at our Holiday Open House on the 6th floor of the Humphrey Building, on Thursday, December 20, from 2 to 4:30 PM.

HHS employees' commitment to and passion for public service makes this department a special place for me, and, I hope, for all of you. But with the daily pace of work around here, we don't often get to step back and appreciate the special work we get to do. I look forward to getting a chance to do that and celebrate this year's accomplishments.

I wish everyone a wonderful Christmas and holiday season, and hope you and your families will be able to join us next Thursday.

LECTURES AND SEMINARS

Featuring author Tim Carney

The suffering of America's working class is real. Immobility, inequality, a retreat from marriage, and deaths of despair are the symptoms. In short, for much of the country, the American Dream is dead. The root cause is the collapse of local community for the working-class. The institutions of civil society that are still strong in some parts of America, specifically among the elites, are fading away as America secularizes and the classes drift apart. Join Tim Carney as he discusses his new book, Alienated America, documenting these tragic realities, and what we can do to combat them.

Tim Carney is the commentary editor at the Washington Examiner and a visiting fellow at the American Enterprise Institute. He is the author of The Big Ripoff: How Big Business and Big Government Steal Your Money and Obamanomics: How Barack Obama is Bankrupting You and Enriching His Wall Street Friends, Corporate Lobbyists, and Union Bosses.

Trump seeks to reorganize the federal government

By Helena Bottemiller Evich and Andrew Restuccia

06/06/2018 03:22 PM EDT

The Trump administration is preparing to release a sweeping plan for reorganizing the federal government that includes a major consolidation of welfare programs — and a renaming of the Health and Human Services Department.

The report, set to be released in the coming weeks by the White House OMB, seeks to move safety-net programs, including food stamps, into HHS, two sources with knowledge of the plan told POLITICO. The plan would also propose changing the name of the sprawling department, while separately seeking cuts at USAID and the State Department.

The $70 billion food stamp program, formally known as the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program, is run by USDA and makes up the vast majority of the department's budget. The program helps more than 40 million low-income Americans buy groceries each month.

"You have low-income assistance in a bunch of different shops without one point of oversight and without a whole lot of communication," said one of the people with knowledge of the plan. "Why not have one federal agency responsible for execution?"

The report, which is expected to recommend big changes at many federal agencies, is almost complete and is expected to be introduced this month, according to one administration official. Sources in and outside the government have been told the rollout will happen in late June. The plan is still being finalized and some of the details could change, but one of the people familiar with the report said the proposal to reorganize HHS has widespread buy-in at OMB.

OMB spokesman Jacob Wood declined to comment on the plan.

The biggest changes outlined by the White House are unlikely to be implemented because moving multibillion-dollar programs and renaming federal departments generally require congressional action. But the plan, like the president's annual budget, demonstrates the administration's thinking on a range of domestic policy issues. It also offers a strong political selling point for the Trump White House as it tries to burnish an image of an administration dedicated to conservative principles and smaller government.

"The administration already put a lot of stuff out in this year's budget related to cuts, but that was the easy stuff," the administration official said. "This [report] is the harder stuff."

It's unclear exactly how HHS would be reshuffled, but sources said its new name would emphasize programs that provide assistance to low-income Americans, potentially by adding the term "welfare" to the title of the department. HHS — a sprawling Cabinet-level agency that spends roughly $1 trillion annually — already oversees the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families program, which provides cash assistance to low-income people, as well as Medicaid, the health coverage program for the poor that insures more than 70 million Americans.

Although "welfare" is often used to describe many programs that provide aid to low-income people, the vast majority of services provided by HHS are technically considered entitlement programs, such as Medicare and Medicaid, which serve broad swaths of the public. TANF, however, is a welfare program providing cash assistance to some 1.6 million households.

HHS and USDA referred press inquiries to OMB.

White House officials have been working on their bid to reorganize the government for months — all while keeping an unusually tight lid on the plan. The effort stems from an executive order President Donald Trump signed in March of last year directing OMB to come up with a plan to overhaul the government to make it more efficient. Only recently have some of the ideas begun to circulate outside of OMB.

The plan appears to draw, at least in part, from recommendations made last year by The Heritage Foundation, the conservative think tank that has deeply influenced Trump's agenda in his first year and a half in office.

Heritage recommended that all nutrition functions at USDA — including food stamps, nutrition education and school meal programs that serve some 30 million children each day — be transferred over to HHS.

"[T]he USDA has veered off of its mission by working extensively on issues unrelated to agriculture. This is mostly due to the nutrition programs," Heritage wrote in last year's report about reorganizing the government. "By moving this welfare function to HHS, the USDA will be better able to work on agricultural issues impacting all Americans."

Moving nutrition out of USDA, where it makes up roughly three-quarters of the department's budget, would be regarded as a big blow to the profile of the department.

Conservatives are likely to support moving food stamps over to HHS, in part because HHS has been out front on instituting first-ever work requirements in the Medicaid program. Already, HHS has approved work requirements for Medicaid enrollees in four states.

"Generally speaking, we're in favor of the idea," said Kristina Rasmussen, vice president of federal affairs at the Foundation for Government Accountability, a conservative group that's grown increasingly influential among GOP leaders seeking to spend less on welfare programs. "HHS has been doing some pretty exciting things on the work requirements front for able-bodied adults."

Nancy Cook, Rachana Pradhan and Lorraine Woellert contributed to this report.

Hi Steve! Hope you can make it to this lunch.

A strong need exists to advance reforms that promote opportunity for all. The Administration is doing much to advance the goal in the near-term. And many members of the policy community and Congress are reflecting on longer-term goals. I am pulling together a small group of policy leaders to discuss this important work over lunch. We'll hear from an update from the Administration. Your participation in this conversation would be invaluable.

If you are interested in joining, please send Meridian Paulton your availability for lunch at noon on Tuesday 1/29, Friday 2/1, Tuesday 2/5, Monday 2/11, or Tuesday 2/12. We will follow-up with a final date and invitation once we have a date that works for everyone.

I hope to see you soon!

As the opioid crisis is driving thousands of children into the foster care system, some states are ill-equipped to even provide a bed for these new foster children, let alone find them a “forever family.”

It is at this critical moment that legal activist groups are seeking to leverage the power of government to impose their sexual orthodoxy upon faith-based adoption agencies. As a result, faith-based providers in Massachusetts, Illinois, Washington, D.C., and California have had to close their doors, leading to the displacement of thousands of children. Now the ACLU and Lambda Legal are filing lawsuits to try to force faith-based agencies in Michigan and Texas to violate their beliefs or shut their doors.

The overburdened adoption and foster care systems cannot afford to lose faith-based agencies. Join us for a conversation on this pressing issue.

It is at this critical moment that legal activist groups are seeking to leverage the power of government to impose their sexual orthodoxy upon faith-based adoption agencies. As a result, faith-based providers in Massachusetts, Illinois, Washington, D.C., and California have had to close their doors, leading to the displacement of thousands of children. Now the ACLU and Lambda Legal are filing lawsuits to try to force faith-based agencies in Michigan and Texas to violate their beliefs or shut their doors.

Subject: Policy Luncheon at Heritage This Friday

We are pleased to host you this Friday, February 1, at NOON for a policy luncheon at The Heritage Foundation. Please email Meridian Paulton at meridian.paulton@heritage.org if you need parking.

A strong need exists to advance reforms that promote opportunity for all. The Administration is doing much to advance the goal in the near-term. And many members of the policy community and Congress are reflecting on longer-term goals. We are pulling together a small group of policy leaders to discuss this important work over lunch. We'll hear from an update from the Administration. Your participation in this conversation would be invaluable.

We look forward to seeing you soon!

Special Announcement:
Tier 1 Teen Pregnancy Prevention
Awards Denied; Tier 2 Awards Released

$19.4 million dollars that would have gone to organizations ready to implement evidenced-based programs designed to prevent pregnancy and sexual risk behaviors among youth, have been halted because of court decisions that vacated the original opportunity for such funding.

In all, 41 organizations with successful applications will be denied funding. These programs represented a broad demographic region that included 36 states and were designed to enhance the protective factors needed to help adolescents avoid sexual risk and improve healthy outcomes.

$5.2 million in awards were announced for 14 groups not involved in the court orders and representing diverse organizations that will implement a variety of innovative strategies addressing teen sexual health. Read the announcement here.

Ascend champions youth to make healthy decisions in relationships and life by promoting well-being through a primary prevention strategy, and as a national membership and advocacy organization that serves, leads, represents and equips the Sexual Risk Avoidance field.

Subject: Confirming your participation in our Exclusive Conversation with Dr. Jordan Peterson on Wednesday

We are so thrilled you will be joining us this week for our Conversation and Strategic Discussion with Dr. Jordan Peterson on Wednesday at Hillsdale's Kirby Center, 227 Mass Ave, NE in Washington, D.C. It will be closed to press and off the record, BTW. I can promise you that we are each fortunate, as many others wished to join us, but, to facilitate the best discussion with the open table holding 50 participants, you made the cut, and we are thrilled!!

Many of you are also able to join us at a reception tomorrow evening at The Heritage Foundation from 6 - 7:30 to get acquainted.

Dr. Peterson has been provided the Participant Directory attached, and we are making last minute changes to the agenda to enable us to best accomplish our goal with the time we have with this special man:

A primary goal of this meeting is to determine specific action steps/solutions for winning back the next generation.

We appreciate your expertise and work in this area and hope this session helps us all better succeed! We are asking if he has time for one group photo in our action packed time with him too. Stay tuned.

Cheers, Ginni Thomas, Bridgett Wagner and Bill Dallas (your hosts)

Subject: RE: Request for Information in Response to House Report 114-195
Attachments: TVAP data_OMB approved.pdf

Dear TVAP Grantees:

ACF will be providing a formal response to the letter that you submitted on September 29. In the meantime, we reiterate that the information provided in past reports is incomplete and, therefore, not fully responsive to the grant requirements.

The information collection required for the grantees includes the following specific information:

- Names of the entities providing medical services; and
- Amount of money expended on each type of medical service provided, by entity.

The “entity” is the health care institution directly providing the medical service. A grantee or sub-recipient is not the “entity” unless the grantee or sub-recipient is directly providing the medical service.

Also, there must be sufficient detail in the grantees’ categorization of “medical service” to allow for a full understanding of the specific medical services received by victims, potential victims, and family members served by the program. The report language requires the collection of “specific information regarding the types of services provided or referred.”

The information should not be aggregated. If a client received multiple medical services, or more than one client received services from one entity, report each service received by each client, including the name of the entity and the amount of money expended per instance of service. Personally identifiable information should not be submitted.

This information collection has a current and valid OMB number and is included in the requirements for the grant in the FOA and cooperative agreement. The collection is required to ensure compliance with appropriation funding restrictions and requirements and to report information to Congress.

Please continue collecting the information that was approved in the attached OMB collection tool and report the information in your next quarterly report.

Katherine

Program Performance

Trafficking Victim Assistance Program grantees must provide data or information to ACF on the following items on a monthly, quarterly, or annual basis, as directed by the Project Officer, in an Excel spreadsheet:

Participant Demographics

- Adult or minor
- Male or female
- Country of origin

Type of Trafficking

- Sex, labor, or both

Immigration Status

- Continued Presence, T nonimmigrant status or both

Services Provided or Referred

- Types of health screening provided or referred
- Types of medical services provided or referred
- Names of the entities providing medical services
- Amount of money expended on each type of medical service provided, by entity

Public reporting burden for this collection of information is estimated to average .25 hours per response, including the time for reviewing instructions, gathering and maintaining the data needed, and reviewing the collection of information.

An agency may not conduct or sponsor, and a person is not required to respond to, a collection of information unless it displays a currently valid OMB control number.

EVENT HOSTS

Ginni Thomas – President, Liberty Consulting (Washington, DC area)

Virginia "Ginni" Thomas is president of Liberty Consulting, Inc. and has a passion for activating informed American patriots who are seeking knowledge of the core founding principles to preserve freedom and liberty. Annually, Mrs. Thomas helps provide "Impact Awards" to highly effective and influential conservative leaders. For nearly 8 years, Mrs. Thomas produced weekly video interviews of "leaders" for The Daily Caller News Foundation. Surveying her roles, she has been the first director of operations for Hillsdale College's Kirby Center in Washington, a senior official at The Heritage Foundation, a leadership staffer for House Majority Leader Dick Armey, a senior political appointee at the U.S. Department of Labor, a labor counsel at the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, and legislative director for her Nebraska Congressman following graduation from law school. Today, in coalitions, speaking or her work, she advises many conservatives on how to maximize their impact.

Bridgett Wagner – Vice President, Policy Promotion, The Heritage Foundation (Washington, DC)

Bridgett Wagner serves as Vice President for Policy Promotion at The Heritage Foundation – the nation's largest, most broadly-supported conservative research and educational institution, dedicated to advancing free markets, limited government, individual freedom, traditional American values and a strong national defense. In this role, Wagner leads the outreach and leadership development teams focused on advancing our principles and policies among allies, public audiences, interns and young professionals. Outside Heritage, Wagner serves as a trustee at the University of Dallas and the Intercollegiate Studies Institute. She is a director of the State Policy Network, the Foundation for Government Accountability, The Fund for American Studies, and the Steamboat Institute.

Bill Dallas - CEO, United in Purpose & Bettina Dallas (Los Altos, CA)

Bill Dallas is Chief Executive Officer of United in Purpose, a nonprofit organization whose mission is to unite and equip like-minded conservative organizations to increase their reach, impact, and influence for the purpose of bringing cultural transformation in America based on Judeo-Christian principles. Mr. Dallas's gift for strategic visioning consistently takes partner organizations to the next level and the levels beyond that. He is talented at developing solutions that are innovative, effective, and often unexpected. Mr. Dallas was formerly the founder and CEO of Church Communication Network (CCN), a satellite and Internet communications company serving over 7,000 churches across North America for more than 10 years.

EVENT PARTICIPANTS

Helen Alvaré – Professor of Law - Scalia Law School, George Mason University (Fairfax, VA)

Helen Alvaré is a Professor of Law at Antonin Scalia Law School, George Mason University, where she teaches Family Law, Law and Religion, and Property Law. She publishes on matters concerning marriage, parenting, non-marital households, and the First Amendment religion clauses. She is faculty advisor to the law school's Civil Rights Law Journal, and the Latino/a Law Student Association, a consultant for the Pontifical Council of the Laity (Vatican City), an advisor to the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops (Washington, D.C.), founder of WomenSpeakforThemselves.com, and an ABC news consultant. She cooperates with the Permanent Observer Mission of the Holy See to the United Nations as a speaker and a delegate to various United Nations conferences concerning women and the family.

Ryan Anderson – William E. Simon Senior Research Fellow, The Heritage Foundation (Washington, DC)

Ryan T. Anderson, Ph.D., is the William E. Simon Senior Research Fellow at The Heritage Foundation, and the founder and editor of Public Discourse, the online journal of the Witherspoon Institute of Princeton, New Jersey. He is the author of "When Harry Became Sally: Responding to the Transgender Moment" and "Truth Overruled: The Future of Marriage and Religious Freedom," and he is the co-author of "What Is Marriage? Man and Woman: A Defense" and "Debating Religious Liberty and Discrimination." Anderson received his bachelor of arts degree from Princeton University, graduating Phi Beta Kappa and magna cum laude, and he received his doctoral degree in political philosophy from the University of Notre Dame. His dissertation was titled: "Neither Liberal Nor Libertarian: A Natural Law Approach to Social Justice and Economic Rights." His research has been cited by two U.S. Supreme Court justices in two Supreme Court cases, and his work has appeared in the New York Times, the Washington Post, the Wall Street Journal, the Harvard Journal of Law and Public Policy, the Harvard Health Policy Review, the Georgetown Journal of Law and Public Policy, the Weekly Standard, and National Review.

Adam Andrzejewski – CEO & Founder, OpenTheBooks.com (Chicago, IL)

Adam Andrzejewski is the CEO/founder of OpenTheBooks.com – the largest private repository of U.S. public-sector spending. Mission: post "every dime, online, in real time." OpenTheBooks.com files 60,000 FOIA requests annually and has captured 5 billion government-spending records: all disclosed federal government spending since 2000; 48 of 50 state checkbooks; and 21.7 million public employee salary and pension records. The group's aggressive transparency and forensic auditing of government spending has led to the assembly of grand juries, indictments, successful prosecutions, congressional briefings and hearings, subpoenas, and Government Accountability Office (GAO) audits, administrative policy changes, federal legislation, and more. His works have been featured on C-SPAN, Good Morning America, ABC World News Tonight, The Wall Street Journal, USA Today, FOX News, and others. Before dedicating his life to public service, Adam co-founded HomePages Directories, a $20 million publishing company (1997-2007).

David Azerrad - Director, B. Kenneth Simon Center for Principles and Politics and AWC Family Foundation Fellow, The Heritage Foundation (Washington, DC)

David Azerrad devotes his time and research at The Heritage Foundation to increasing public understanding of America's founding principles. Azerrad teaches the tenets of the American political tradition to policymakers, political leaders and the public, while connecting the nation's first principles to the thorny questions of the day. A popular speaker, Azerrad gives talks around the country on topics related to the American Founding, constitutionalism, modern liberalism and conservatism, and the American Dream. He has spoken on many college campuses and addressed audiences in more than 25 states.

Evan Baehr – Founder and CEO, Teneo (Austin, TX)

Evan Baehr is the Founder and CEO of Teneo, a nonprofit 501(c)(3) membership organization on a mission to recruit, connect, and accelerate America's most promising leaders to advance modern conservatism in every sphere of society. In its 10th year, Teneo has over 700 fellows and is widely considered the most influential network of its kind. Teneo recently launched Daring Labs, an accelerator and startup studio to develop and accelerate new ventures that will help reinvent our movement for the next generation (think of it as YC for liberty). We launched this because we think the movement lacks innovation--and our timeless ideas need new strategies. He is a serial founder of technology companies, selling his last in 2017, a best-selling author on entrepreneurship, and an honors graduate of Princeton, Yale, and Harvard Business School.

Gary Bauer – President, American Values (Washington, DC area)

Gary Bauer served in President Ronald Reagan's administration for eight years, as Under Secretary of Education and White House Chief Domestic Policy Advisor. After leaving the Reagan administration, Bauer became President of the Family Research Council and a Senior Vice President of Focus on the Family. Bauer took his pro-family, pro-life message across the country during the 2000 Republican presidential primaries and debates. Today, Bauer serves as Chairman of Campaign for Working Families PAC, dedicated to electing conservative candidates to Congress, and as President of American Values, an educational non-profit organization. Bauer also was appointed by President Trump to the U.S. Commission on International Religious Freedom in June of 2018.

Bryan Bernys – Vice President of Campus Programs, The Leadership Institute (Washington, DC area)

Bryan Bernys is the Leadership Institute's Vice President of Campus Programs. He is responsible for all the Institute's student training programs, its national field team and a nationwide network of more than 1,800 conservative student organizations. Bryan also helped create and still oversees the daily operations of Leadership Institute's campus news site CampusReform.org. Under his leadership, the site has exposed countless examples of liberal abuse in America higher education, is frequently cited by conservative news outlets like Fox News and The Drudge Report, and has led to dozens of victories for conservative students and university policy changes.

Tommy Binion – Vice President of Congressional and Executive Branch Relations, The Heritage Foundation (Washington, DC)

As Vice President of Government Relations, Tommy Binion is responsible for the think tank's many programs on Capitol Hill and its engagement with the administration. Each year, the Government Relations department hosts over 400 briefings and other such events on Capitol Hill and within the executive branch. Binion was previously a legislative strategist for Heritage Action for America, the lobbying affiliate of The Heritage Foundation. His job was to advance Heritage Action's conservative policy agenda. He also served as legislative director for a prominent conservative member of the House of Representatives.

Brian Burch – President, CatholicVote.org (Chicago, IL)

Brian Burch is the President of CatholicVote.org. CatholicVote seeks to inform, persuade, and guide Catholic voters in American politics. Many Catholics voters are now rethinking their historic attachment to the Democratic Party that has now abandoned them. Our research suggests no single issue is decisive, but instead a basket of issues/sentiments we have termed "social anxiety." We're very interested in developing this thesis further, and understanding the psychological undercurrents behind "social anxiety voters" as it relates to political decision making.

Lea Carawan – Executive Director, Congressional Prayer Caucus Foundation (Chesapeake, VA)

The CPCF and the Faith Impact Network have built and mobilized a network of nearly 1,000 federal and state government leaders who are committed to standing for faith. They focus on formulating and articulating strategy, creating operation plans and equipping people with specific tactics utilizing how-to guides. They employ top-down and bottom-up methods, and work with a number of allied organizations and individuals to accomplish their mission of fighting for faith in our individual lives and for our nation.

Alejandro A. Chafuen, Acton Institute (Washington, DC area)

Alejandro "Alex" Antonio Chafuen is Managing Director, International, of the Acton Institute. He is former president of the Atlas Network. A U.S. citizen, born in Argentina in 1954, and a graduate of the Argentine Catholic University and Grove City College, Chafuen received his Doctorate under Dr. Hans F. Sennholz, a disciple of Ludwig von Mises and an honorary doctorate from the Universidad Francisco Marroquín. His book Faith and Liberty has been translated into Chinese, Polish, Czech, Italian, Slovenian and Spanish. He has been a member of the Mont Pelerin Society since 1980 and immediate past President of the Philadelphia Society. In 2014, he received the Walter Judd Freedom Award from the Fund for American Studies, in 2017 the Mengzi–Marco Polo Award from ASECIC (Italy), and in 2018 the Juan de Mariana Award from the Instituto Juan de Mariana. Chafuen is trustee of Grove City College, the Fraser Institute, Fundación Internacional para La Libertad (Madrid), The Awakening Foundation, CEDICE US (Venezuela), HACER.org, the International Freedom Educational Foundation, and the Chase Foundation of Virginia. He is also a member of the John Templeton Foundation, the Templeton Religion Trust, and the World Charity Foundation.

Crystal Clanton, Liberty Consulting (Washington, DC)

Crystal Clanton is Project Manager for Liberty Consulting where she helps manage data, assists clients with strategies and tactics, helps build coalitions, and enhances the impact of non-profits. Prior to joining Liberty Consulting, Crystal worked for five years as the Director of Operations and National Field Director at Turning Point USA where she managed a network of over 1,000 student groups on college campuses across the country. We started with 5 local friends who agreed to be chapter leaders, and in a few years we had 500+ chapters across all 50 states.

Katie Clinebell – Project Manager, United in Purpose (Nashville, TN)

Katie Clinebell is a Project Manager at United in Purpose. She graduated from Liberty University with majors in both Journalism and Advertising/Public Relations after serving as the Creative Director for award winning marketing campaigns in the National Student Advertising Competition for Snapple and Tai Pei Frozen Asian Food. After graduating, she worked with the CEO of LifeWay Christian Resources, Dr. Thom Rainer, conducting in-depth evangelism research to launch the Evangelism Renewal initiative before moving on to launch a new special business unit, Generosity by LifeWay, where she served as the Platform Coordinator. Katie's works have been published on RelevantMagazine.com and LifeWaySocial.com and range from spiritual and cultural life to marketing strategy.

Karen Conrad – VP, 7M Ventures (Colorado Springs, CO)

Karen Conrad is VP of 7M Ventures, Inc. which is a vertical within the Andrew Wommack family of ministries and includes Truth and Liberty Coalition. Andrew has a reach of more than 3.4 billion people globally through his daily television program, and an extensive social media audience of 1.4 million followers. The group does a Truth and Liberty Livecast every Monday evening with guests that influence the 7 mountains of culture (Dr. Lance Wallnau helped birth Truth and Liberty). Guests include David Barton, Dr. Lance Wallnau, Tony Perkins, Steve Green, William Federer, and more. Karen was first introduced to Jordan Peterson through her son, who started watching Jordan on podcasts and read his book, "12 Rules for Life". She knows first hand that the message Jordan has for millennials and young people is incredibly impactful, and empowers people to be successful, a victor and not a victim. It gives young men confidence to be who God created them to be, despite the culture, academia, and liberal agenda's opposition.

Michael Farris, - President, CEO, and General Counsel, Alliance Defending Freedom (Washington, DC area)

Michael P. Farris is president, CEO, and general counsel of Alliance Defending Freedom. As the second CEO of ADF, he brings to the role a diverse background as an effective litigator, educator, public advocate, and communicator, and is widely recognized for his successful work on both the national and international stage. Farris was founding president of both the Home School Legal Defense Association (1983) and Patrick Henry College (2000) and continues to serve as chairman of the board of HSLDA and chancellor emeritus of PHC.

Beth Feeley – Writer/Editor (Chicago, IL)

Beth Feeley is a free-lance writer and editor for various non-profit organizations, including The Policy Circle and The Woodson Center, and is co-founder of New Trier Neighbors, a grassroots neighborhood organization that promotes the ideas of common sense, free enterprise and the Golden Rule in and around her community. The organization sponsors special events, including speakers and film screenings, weekly email blasts and targeted issue campaigns to keep residents informed of issues in local government and schools -- particularly related to curriculum -- and inspire them to take action. Beth founded New Trier Neighbors after an incident two years ago when her daughter's public high school scheduled a "Seminar Day" dedicated to left-wing discussions on race. She co-led a parent group, Parents of New Trier, that challenged the school to bring balance to its curriculum. The situation received local and national news coverage, including The Wall Street Journal. Previously Beth worked in consulting and public relations for Hill and Knowlton and Arthur Andersen for Fortune 500 clients, where she oversaw change management programs designed to improve employee engagement and performance. She is graduate of Miami University of Ohio (BA) and Northwestern University (MS). Her work recently has been published in National Review.

Devin Foley – President, The Charlemagne Institute (Nicollet, MN)

Devin is the co-founder and CEO of The Charlemagne Institute, a non-profit organization. In his role as CEO, Devin leads and oversees all activities of The Charlemagne Institute, including the popular digital media website Intellectual Takeout, the 10-week, future leader training program Alcuin Fellowship, and monthly Alcuin seminars. As a graduate of Hillsdale College where he studied history and political science, he is dedicated to the renewal of Western Civilization. Devin is a contributor to local and national newspapers, a frequent guest on a variety of talk shows, such as Minneapolis' KTLK and NPR's Talk of the Nation, and regularly shares culture and education insights by giving presentations to civic groups, schools, and other organizations. In 2011, he was named a Young Leader by the American Swiss Foundation. Devin and his wife have been married for seventeen years and have six children. When he's not working, Devin enjoys time with family while also relaxing through reading, horticulture, home projects, and skiing and snowboarding.

Tim Gibson – President, The King's College (New York, NY)

Tim Gibson is president of The King's College in New York City. Gibson brings considerable experience in the U.S. military to this role, as well as a profound investment in the mission of the College. Gibson's career in the United States Air Force involved extensive command responsibilities of organizations at multiple levels, including installation commander of the USAF Academy in Colorado Springs, CO and as vice commander of the U.S. Air Force Expeditionary Center, Joint Base McGuire-Dix-Lakehurst, NJ, which is the Air Force's Center of Excellence for advanced expeditionary combat support training and education. He retired from the Air Force with the rank of brigadier general in 2016 to become executive vice president of The King's College.

Hon. Joel Grewe – Director, Generation Joshua (Purcellville, VA)

Joel Grewe is the Director of Generation Joshua, and an elected councilman in his town. Generation Joshua seeks to teach and inspire the next generation of Christian leaders and citizens, equipped to positively influence the political processes of today and tomorrow. Generation Joshua teaches leadership, ethics, and policy in a hands on way, emphasizing the importance of both principles and the practical outworking.

Kristan Hawkins – President, Students for Life (Pittsburgh, PA)

Kristan Hawkins is a Christian, wife, mother, grassroots activist, author, speaker, and a human rights advocate. President of Students for Life of America, she was recruited in 2006 to launch Students for Life of America's full-time operation. Since then, she has built up a small organization made up of a few dozen student groups scattered around the country to a coordinated national team serving more than 1,200 Students for Life chapters in all fifty states. Under her leadership, Students for Life exists to abolish abortion by transforming our culture by recruiting, training, and mobilizing this pro-life generation, who are the direct targets of today's abortion industry. A frequent speaker and media analyst, Kristan's expertise includes abortion, feminism, disability advocacy and healthcare, as she navigates the social conditions and public policy that impacts the human rights issue of our day.

Donna Hearne – President, Constitutional Coalition & Mark Hearne (St. Louis, MO)

Constitutional Coalition is dedicated to changing what is happening inside the schools, especially in what is being taught. They host an annual conference where they focus on the bad, the good and what is needed. All issues being fought by Conservatives are lost in the schoolroom. They are interested in networking and strategizing with others on the best way forward for a free, Biblical based, rule of law centered America. Mark is former Head of History (Chair), Westminster Christian Academy, St. Louis where he led the department and taught for 30 years. He has worked with his wife Donna in many capacities as she has led the Constitutional Coalition since 1979 - advisor, copy editor, and co-cordinator of events. He is a former Deacon at their church and a discussion leader in Bible Study Fellowship.

Randy Hicks – President and CEO, Georgia Center for Opportunity (Atlanta, GA)

Randy Hicks is president and CEO of the Georgia Center for Opportunity, an independent, nonpartisan, solutions-focused organization that helps people flourish through the power of work, education, and healthy relationships. Randy and GCO work through policy research, legislative advocacy, and community-based initiatives to promote access to quality education for low-income students, create stronger families, and increase work opportunities for underemployed individuals. These three rungs of the success sequence— education, family, and work—are crucial to truly reducing poverty and helping all Georgians thrive. In addition to Randy's state-level work in Georgia, he and GCO are national leaders on finding and implementing solutions to poverty, including welfare-reform proposals and community-based collaborations that increase employment opportunities for vulnerable populations. Randy is interested in attending the event with Dr. Peterson to further GCO's national collaborations with other thought leaders, with the ultimate goal of renewing America's culture and workforce.

Emilie Kao – Director, Richard and Helen DeVos Center for Religion & Civil Society, The Heritage Foundation (Washington, DC)

Emilie Kao is director of the Richard and Helen DeVos Center for Religion & Civil Society at The Heritage Foundation. She is an attorney who has defended religious freedom for the last 14 years. She has worked on behalf of victims of religious freedom violations in East Asia, the Middle East, Europe and South Asia at the State Department's Office of International Religious Freedom and Becket Law. Previously she worked at the United Nations and Latham and Watkins. Kao also taught international human rights law at George Mason University Law School as an adjunct law professor.

Jimmy Kemp – Jack Kemp Foundation (Washington, DC)

The Jack Kemp Foundation's mission is to develop, recognize and engage exceptional leaders who champion the American Idea. Their primary program is to engage these leaders through the Kemp Forum, a debate and discussion series providing a platform for the civil competition of ideas. They prioritize policy discussions focused on equality of opportunity (opportunity zones are a specific focus right now), economic policy and foreign policy. They also have an annual Kemp Leadership Award dinner. Recent awardees and participants include Sean Parker, Tim Scott, Kay Coles James, Nikki Haley, Ben Sasse, Mike Pence, Ivanka Trump, James Lankford, Hugh Hewitt, Paul Ryan, Jeb Bush, Marco Rubio and Cathy McMorris Rogers.

Charlie Kirk – Founder and President, Turning Point USA (Chicago, IL)

Charlie Kirk is the Founder and President of Turning Point USA, a national student movement dedicated to identifying, organizing, and empowering young people to promote the principles of free markets and limited government.

Zach Lahn – Co-Founder, Wonder (Wichita, KS)

Zach Lahn is the co-founder of Wonder - a learner driven K-12 school in Wichita, KS launched this year with the Koch family. The school is dedicated to helping students find their unique calling and preparing them for the rapidly changing future ahead. Along with the school, Zach has founded and partnered in multiple organizations from a new media and content creation firm based in New York City to a real estate holding company with property the midwest and rocky mountain regions. Prior work has been as Director of Member relations for Charles Koch's Seminar Network and management of multiple U.S. Congressional and Senatorial campaigns.

Fr. Dominic Legge, OP – Director, Thomistic Institute (Washington, DC area)

As Director of the Thomistic Institute, Fr. Dominic Legge runs a fast-growing new outreach to secular universities, with 40+ student chapters on elite secular campuses, including most of the Ivy League. TI chapters empower students to bring top-notch intellectuals to campuses to speak on classic questions from the perspective of the Catholic intellectual tradition. (Typical campus lectures include, e.g., Does God exist? Is faith compatible with science? What is truth? Does neuroscience mean you don't have a soul?) The TI also sponsors longer conferences, intellectual retreats, and several summer programs for graduate students. Fr. Legge formerly practiced constitutional law as a trial attorney for the U.S. Department of Justice, holds a law degree from Yale, and is presently professor of theology at the Pontifical Faculty of the Immaculate Conception.

Jennifer Marshall – Vice President, Institute for Family, Community, and Opportunity, The Heritage Foundation (Washington, DC)

Jennifer A. Marshall is a vice president at The Heritage Foundation, directing the Institute for Family, Community, and Opportunity. She oversees a team of researchers analyzing issues that determine the strength and character of American society, including health care, education, welfare, marriage, life, and religious liberty. Marshall also collaborates with Heritage colleagues across the Foundation to explore how moral values and civil society relate to issues such as limited government, a strong national economy and foreign policy. She is pursuing a doctoral degree at the Catholic University of America and teaches at Reformed Theological Seminary (Washington, D.C.).

Bill Mattox – Director, J. Stanley Marshall Center for Educational Options, James Madison Institute (Tallahassee, FL)

Bill Mattox currently serves as the Director of the J. Stanley Marshall Center for Educational Options at The James Madison Institute. In this role, he works with a wide variety of researchers, policymakers, educators, and parents to promote innovative reforms designed to make it possible for all K-12 students to obtain a high-quality education tailored to their unique needs, interests, aptitudes, and learning styles.

Stella Morabito – Senior Contributor, The Federalist (Washington, DC area)

Stella Morabito is a Senior Contributor at The Federalist where she writes about the critical importance of free thought in a free society. She tries to expose and dissect forces that psychologically manipulate people into exploitative thought reform. These include political correctness, propaganda, agitation, group think, and other forms of manipulative persuasion. They bring great harm to individuals, families, and all personal relationships. Stella is currently writing a book on the subject. She draws her expertise from her study of Russian and Soviet history (M.A.) as well as her work as an intelligence analyst with a focus on Soviet propaganda and media.

Star Parker – Founder and President, Center for Urban Renewal and Education (California/Washington, DC)

Star Parker is the founder and president of the Center for Urban Renewal and Education, a Washington D.C. based Public Policy Institute that fights poverty and restores dignity through messages of faith, freedom and personal responsibility. Star consulted on federal Welfare Reform in the mid-90s and then founded UrbanCure to bring new ideas to policy discussions on how to transition America's poor from government dependency. In 1996, she was a featured speaker at the Republican National Convention. Today, Star regularly consults with both federal and state legislators on market-based strategies to fight poverty. Her organization UrbanCure has three programs: A Policy Program that works directly with the White House and the Congress on Welfare Policy ideas; A Media Program that includes rapid response and the daily news blog, blackcommunitynews.com; And a Clergy Program that umbrellas a national network of more than 850 clergy who serve in various hard-hit zip codes around the country.

Jacob Reses, J.D. Vance, author of Hillbilly Elegy (Washington, DC)

Jacob Reses advises Mr. Vance regarding his efforts to draw public attention to the social crisis facing the American working class and its political and economic implications.

Helena Ramirez Richardson – Director, Young Leaders Program, The Heritage Foundation (Washington, DC)

As the director of the Young Leaders Program, Helena leads the Heritage Foundation's efforts to develop college campus outreach, young professional engagement, and the Heritage internship to equip the next generation of conservative leaders. The Young Leaders Program at Heritage offers a paid internship to 200 students, campus speakers, and young professional engagement.

Sandy Rios – Director of Governmental Affairs, American Family Association

Sandy Rios is an award winning spokesperson for the pro-family movement and the Christian worldview. The Director of Governmental Affairs for the American Family Association and host of "Sandy Rios in the Morning on AFR Talk," she's heard nationwide each week day morning interviewing politicians, newsmakers and international experts with a spectrum of worldviews. Sandy was a long-time FOX News Contributor, an opinion writer to Townhall.com, The Hill, Breitbart, RealClear Politics and a commentator for Salem Radio Network and Moody Broadcasting. She has hosted Crossfire on CNN, appeared on ABC, NBC, CBS, CNN, MSNBC and PBS and been featured in Newsweek and Time Magazine. She has received the Angel Award and seven Silver Microphone awards from TESLA. Sandy formerly was President of Concerned Women for America and Chairman of the North Korea Freedom Coalition.

Dr. Kevin Roberts – Executive Director, Texas Public Policy Foundation (Austin, TX)

As a former college president and now head of the largest state-based think tank in the country, Kevin oversees a range of policies—campus free speech, education reform, and criminal justice reform, to name a few. What overarches all of that work, according to Kevin, is the dire need to develop a better vocabulary for our work, rooted in the proper ends of the human person. Consequently, he spends a lot of time trying to cohere the fractured conservative movement, as well as cultivating allies who are left of center.

Lila Rose – President, Live Action (San Francisco, CA)

Lila Rose is a speaker, writer and human rights activist. Lila founded and serves as president of Live Action, a media and news nonprofit dedicated to ending abortion and inspiring a culture that respects all human life, with the largest online reach in the pro-life movement. Live Action's news coverage and compelling videos reach several million people weekly across Facebook, Twitter, YouTube and Instagram. Lila was recently featured by the Atlantic in a segment titled: "The Face of the Millennial Anti-Abortion Movement." Lila speaks internationally on family and cultural issues, and has addressed members of the European Parliament and spoken at the United Nation's Commission on the Status of Women. Lila has been named among Red Alert's "30 under 30," National Journal's "25 Most Influential Washington Women Under 35," and Christianity Today's "33 under Thirty-Three." Her website can be found at www.liveaction.org.

Reid Rutherford – Director and Chief Financial Officer, United in Purpose (Los Altos, CA)

Reid Rutherford currently serves as a Director and Chief Financial Officer of United in Purpose. United in Purpose educates and encourages faith-oriented individuals and organizations to advocate for and advance positive outcomes in the social welfare and public policy arenas across a broad spectrum of national issues.

Dr. Jonathan J. Sanford – Provost, University of Dallas (Dallas, TX)

Dr. Jonathan Sanford is the Provost at the University of Dallas, a Catholic liberal arts university known for its core curriculum and efforts to take Catholic identity seriously. The school's tagline is "the Catholic University for Independent Thinkers," which is meant in the Augustinian sense, rather than in that of Buchner's Freidenkerbund. The school has a deserved reputation for conservatism in a broad sense. In its Mission, the University of Dallas dedicates itself to an education in wisdom, truth, and virtue, and to the renewal of Western Civilization. As Provost, Dr. Sanford is over not just academics, but all student affairs, including campus ministry and athletics, and is seeking ways to integrate more fully intellectual with spiritual and human formation. Dr. Sanford is also a Professor of Philosophy, and focuses on the intersection of ethics and metaphysics, especially as applied to virtue theory.

Marion Smith – Executive Director, Victims of Communism Memorial Foundation (Washington, DC)

Marion Smith is a civil society leader and expert in international affairs, and has been executive director of the Victims of Communism Memorial Foundation since March 2014. As executive director, he provides strategic leadership for VOC and spearheads its educational initiatives. The Victims of Communism Memorial Foundation is dedicated to educating new generations about the ideology, history, and legacy of communism and ensuring that the millions who suffered underneath communist regimes are not forgotten.

Veso Sobot – Canadian Businessman and Culture Observer (Oakville, Ontario, Canada)

Veso Sobot is a conservative Canadian activist businessman and engineer dedicated to preserving and expanding freedom in the Canada and the US and beyond by propogating free and fair market concepts through reciprocal trade and capitalism.

Dr. Matthew Spalding – Associate Vice President and Dean of Educational Programs, Hillsdale College (Washington, DC)

Dr. Matthew Spalding is associate vice president and dean for Hillsdale College in Washington, D.C., where he oversees the operations of the Allan P. Kirby Center for Constitutional Studies and Citizenship as well as Hillsdale’s academic and educational programs in the nation’s capital. Hillsdale is a selective, coeducational liberal arts college of approximately 1,400 students based in Hillsdale, Michigan, which also maintains 17 charter schools, extensive on-line course offerings, and publications that reach 3.7 million readers each month. A nonsectarian Christian institution, Hillsdale College maintains its independence by refusing to count students by race or bring any taxpayer money to Hillsdale College.

Jeffrey S. Trimbath – Executive Director, Center for Vision & Values, Grove City College (Grove City, PA)

Jeffrey S. Trimbath is the executive director of the Center for Vision and Values at Grove City College. In this capacity, Trimbath strengthens the tradition of faith and freedom of Grove City College by leading the Center’s fundraising, administrative and communications strategies. Prior to this, he was senior advisor to the President at The Heritage Foundation. He previously served as a regional major gifts officer, a senior major gifts officer, team leader, and advisor to the Heritage Legacy Society. In recognition of his leadership, Trimbath was named Heritage’s John Von Kannon Fellow in Philanthropy in 2018. Prior to Heritage, Trimbath served at the Department of Health and Human Services (where he administered over $200 million in state and federal grants helping youth make positive decisions for their lives), served as vice president of development at a youth leadership training nonprofit, and served as executive director of an education reform organization in his home state of Pennsylvania.

Steven Wagner – Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary, U.S. Department of Health & Human Services’ Administration for Children and Families (Washington, DC)

Steven Wagner is the principal deputy assistant secretary at HHS’ Administration for Children and Families. Before joining the Administration, Wagner was the president of QEV Analytics, a public opinion and data analysis firm he founded in 1996. During his tenure at QEV, he collaborated for 17 years with Joseph Califano, the former president of the National Center on Addiction and Substance Abuse at Columbia University (and former Secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare) on identifying strategies to keep kids from abusing illegal drugs, tobacco and alcohol. Wagner also worked with clients to develop and implement messaging to help at-risk populations avoid poverty. Wagner was the founder and president of Solidarity with the Persecuted Church, the 501(c)(3) organization which supports Christians in places of persecution, such as Iraq, Syria and Nigeria.

Lance Wallnau – President, Lance Wallnau Ministries (Dallas, TX)

Dr. Wallnau has shared platforms with best-selling authors Ken Blanchard and John Maxwell, and lectured at universities from Harvard and M.I.T. to the London School of Theology. Merging a thirty-year background consulting in business and the non-profit sector, Lance inspires visions of tomorrow with the clarity of today—connecting ideas to action. His students represent a tapestry spanning nations and spheres: from politicians, to CEO’s, entertainers and entrepreneurs. He currently directs the Lance Learning Group, a strategic teaching and consulting company based in Dallas, Texas. USA Today reports that he is one of only three evangelical leaders to have accurately predicted Donald Trump’s Presidency while running against 15 opponents. Dr. Wallnau’s Best Selling book, “God’s Chaos Candidate” explains the global shift that accompanies President Trump’s unexpected electoral upset. God is working in new and unprecedented ways among the nations.

Scott Walter – President, Capital Research Center (Washington, DC area)

Scott Walter is president of the Capital Research Center. The Capital Research Center was established in 1984 to examine how foundations, charities, and other nonprofits spend money and get involved in politics and advocacy, often in ways that donors never intended and would find abhorrent. He served in the George W. Bush administration as Special Assistant to the President for Domestic Policy and was vice president for publications and research at the Philanthropy Roundtable. There he edited Philanthropy magazine and also produced donor guidebooks on public policy research, school choice, and assistance to the poor. Walter writes regularly for PhilanthropyDaily.com and previously served as a senior fellow at the Becket Fund for Religious Liberty and as senior editor of the American Enterprise Institute's flagship publication. We're excited to speak to Dr. Peterson because our films and videos are largely aimed at young people, who are Peterson's top followers. We'd value his wisdom on the best ways to reach them.

Conversation & Strategic Discussion with Dr. Jordan Peterson

Hillsdale College Kirby Center

227 Massachusetts Ave NE, Washington, DC 20002

December 12th, 2018 | 9:00am-12:00pm and lunch following

SPECIAL GUEST – DR. JORDAN PETERSON

Dr. Jordan B. Peterson is a professor of psychology at the University of Toronto, a clinical psychologist and the author of the multi-million copy bestseller 12 Rules for Life: An Antidote to Chaos, #1 for nonfiction in 2018 in the US, Canada, the UK, Australia, New Zealand, Sweden, the Netherlands, Brazil and Norway, and now slated for translation into 45 languages.

Raised and toughened in the frigid wastelands of Northern Alberta, Dr. Peterson has flown a hammer-head roll in a carbon-fiber stuntplane, piloted a mahogany racing sailboat around Alcatraz Island, explored an Arizona meteorite crater with a group of astronauts, built a Native American Long-House on the upper floor of his Toronto home, and been inducted into a Pacific Kwakwaka'wakw family (see charlesjoseph.ca). He's been a dishwasher, gas jockey, bartender, short-order cook, beekeeper, oil derrick bit re-tipper, plywood mill laborer and railway line worker. He's taught mythology to physicians, lawyers, and businessmen; worked with Jim Balsillie, former CEO of Blackberry's Research in Motion, on Resilient People, Resilient Planet, the report of the UN Secretary General's High Level Panel on Global Sustainability; helped his clinical clients manage the triumphs and catastrophes of life; served as an advisor to senior partners of major Canadian law firms; penned the forward for the forthcoming 50th anniversary edition of Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn's The Gulag Archipelago; lectured to more than 200,000 people across North America, Europe and Australia in one of the most-well attended book tours ever mounted; and, for The Founder Institute, identified thousands of promising entrepreneurs, in 60 different countries.

With his students and colleagues, Dr. Peterson has published more than a hundred scientific papers, advancing the modern understanding of creativity, competence and personality, while his now-classic book, Maps of Meaning: The Architecture of Belief (released in June 2018 as an author-read audiobook) transformed the psychology of religion. He was nominated for five consecutive years as one of Ontario's Best University Lecturers, and is one of only three profs rated as "life changing" in the U of T's underground student handbook of course ratings.

In 2016, shortly before the publication of 12 Rules, several of Dr. Peterson's online lectures, videos and interviews went viral, launching him into unprecedented international prominence as a public intellectual and educator. His work, public postings and discussions are featured at:

- Jordan Peterson Videos, on YouTube, features Dr. Peterson's university and public lectures (including the most recent 15-part biblical series, slated to continue with the Exodus stories in September 2019), responses to the polarizing political crises of today, and interviews with people such as Camille Paglia, Jonathan Haidt and Ayaan Hirsi Ali, has 1.5 million subscribers, with 70 million views; videos derived from his online content by others have been viewed more than 400 million times (growing 70,000 per month).
- The Jordan B Peterson Podcast, with more than 50 episodes, has attracted 750,000 listeners per episode, with 60,000,000 downloads (plans to expand this dramatically with professional development are underway). It is reliably #1 in the Higher Education category on iTunes (often occupying all ten of the top ten episode slots), and in the top five, consistently in the Education category overall;

- jordanbpeterson.com, his home website, contains his blog and influential recommended reading list, attracts 20,000 views a day, for a total of more than 10,000,000 page hits to date;
- selfauthoring.com and understandmyself.com, his online self-improvement and self-understanding systems, respectively, attracts 25000 users per month, and were the focus of two Dr. Oz TV episodes and three podcasts, to be aired in October 2018;
- His public lecture tour, The 12 Rules for Life Tour, has now covered more than 70 cities, drawing 200,000 ticketed attendees, with another 100,000 tickets purchased in 40 more cities in Australia, NZ and throughout Europe;
- @jordanbpeterson on Twitter, has 800,000 followers (growing 30,000/month);
- Dr. Jordan B. Peterson, on Facebook, has 350,000 followers and an equivalent number of likes (growing 20,000/month);
- jordan.b.peterson on Instagram, has 350,000 followers (growing 24,000/month);
- Jordan Peterson on Reddit has 83,000 followers;
- Jordan B Peterson on Quora has 20,000 followers and 5.8 million answer views;
- jordanbpeterson on Patreon, has 10,000 active subscribers supporting Dr. Peterson's YouTube productions (which are freely available and ad-free), making it the 2nd most-highly funded, the 6th most-subscribed for video providers, and the 10th most-widely-subscribed of all Patreon accounts.
- Dr. Peterson's classroom lectures on mythology and the psychology of religion, based on Maps of Meaning, were turned into a popular 13-part TV series on Canadian public television's TVO. Malcolm Gladwell discussed psychology with him while researching his books; Norman Doidge, author of The Brain that Changes Itself, wrote the forward to 12 Rules; and bestselling thriller writer Gregg Hurwitz employed several of his "valuable things" as a plot feature in his #1 international bestseller, Orphan X.

With his colleagues, Dr. Daniel M. Higgins and Dr. Robert O. Pihl, Dr. Peterson has also produced two online programs to help people understand themselves better and to improve their psychological and practical functioning. The newest of these, UnderstandMyself, provides its users with detailed information about their personalities, based on work he published with his students. Tens of thousands of people now know themselves better, as a consequence of completing this 15-minute program. His original self-analysis program, the Self Authoring Suite, (featured in O: The Oprah Magazine, CBC radio, and NPR's national website), has helped over 200,000 people resolve the problems of their past, rectify their personality faults and enhance their virtues, and radically improve their future.

Dr. Peterson has appeared on many popular podcasts and shows, including the Joe Rogan Experience (#877, #958, #1006), The Rubin Report (12 Rules for Life: An Antidote to Chaos, Free Speech, Psychology, Gender Pronouns), H3H3 (#37), and many more. He is currently working on a new book, tentatively titled 12 More Rules for Life: Beyond Mere Order, slated for publication in early 2020, and starting a company devoted to producing a universal online adaptive education system.

Subject: NEW DETAILS for our meeting with Dr. Peterson tomorrow - PLEASE REVIEW BEFORE DEPARTING for meeting....

Friends,

Thank you for your time tomorrow; we know many of you have made extraordinary efforts to join this special 3 hour meeting tomorrow. Many have flown in special from far away, or cancelled important other conflicting meetings.

We have a new start time tomorrow -- 8:15 am the continental breakfast will be available at the Hillsdale Kirby Center, 227 Mass Ave, NE (across from Heritage). [remember NorthEast is the quadrant, out of towners]

The program will start at 9:00 am sharp. See packed agenda below, as we have less time with Dr. Peterson than we originally hoped. He cannot stay with us for lunch now due to a new schedule conflict.

AGENDA - tentative

Conversation & Strategic Discussion with Dr. Jordan B. Peterson

Hillsdale College Kirby Center

227 Massachusetts Ave NE, Washington, DC 20002

December 12th, 2018 | 9:00am-12:00pm; lunch available afterwards through 1:30 for participants.

MEETING AGENDA

The primary goal of this meeting is to determine specific action steps and solutions for winning back the next generation.

Continental Breakfast available starting at 8:15 a.m.

9:00am – 9:15am	Welcome, ground rules, and 10-second intros
9:15am – 10:30am	Remarks by Dr. Jordan Peterson Note cards will be provided to capture questions for the Q&A.
10:30am – 10:40am	Coffee break Questions to be collected
10:40 am – 11:15am	Q&A with Dr. Peterson, Bill Mattox will facilitate.
11:15am – 11:45am	Discussion

Ginni Thomas will facilitate conversation around the topic:

"If there is one thing you could do differently to have a bigger impact after hearing Dr. Peterson this morning, what would it be?"

11:45am – 12:00pm

Closing thoughts from Dr. Peterson

Lunch will then be available for attendees through 1:30.

Thanks to Heritage for all our food and drink tomorrow! (Bridgett Wagner!)

Thanks to Hillsdale's Kirby Center for their great facility! (Matthew Spalding!)

Cheers, Ginni

Subject: [MARKETING EMAIL]Registration Now Open For California and Colorado SRAS Trainings!

We are excited to announce that registration is now open for SRAS trainings at the following locations!

Newport Beach, CA - February 20-21, 2019

Denver, CO - June 3-5, 2019

NOTE: CO residents have priority registration on this training until April 23, but you can click here to be placed on a waitlist.

Click on any of the locations to find out more information, including how to register!

~ "This program is information packed!"

~ "I feel that the SRAS certification has given me the tools and the skills I need to articulate the SRA concepts not only to students, but to parents and the community in a clear, concise and professional way."

~ "In-depth, relevant, shocking, empowering."

~ "The training is a challenging, serious, and rigorous preparation for some of the most important work we can be doing to help our youth have the most optimal health outcomes."

~ "Concrete speaking points and strategies for speaking to school boards, administrators, teachers and parents."

Ascend provides this professional expertise by offering the only Sexual Risk Avoidance Specialist (SRAS) certification available. Please note that the SRAS credential is not a curriculum training, but is a certification in the SRA educational approach. An overview of the topics discussed in this training may be accessed here. We are eager to help you become an expert in the SRA educational approach!

SAVE THE DATE: June 13-14, 2019

Ascend is proud to introduce our first

Leadership & SRA Advocacy

Youth Summit!

What is the Leadership & SRA Advocacy Youth Summit?

It's an interactive 2-day event in Washington DC. In this very hands-on program utilizing live presentations and video, youth will learn from leaders in the SRA field as well as top leadership executives.

Day 1 - All SRA Supporters (adults and youth alike) are invited to our Day on the Hill! This event will include a communication training, meeting with your Members of Congress, and a Practicum to put your new skills to work!

Day 2 - Youth Leadership and SRA Advocacy training

This day is designed for interactive group sessions, and hands-on application of skills learned from professionals in the SRA field.

Ascend will provide dinner for everyone on Day 1 and other special events through out. (There will be a small fee of no more than $25 per person.)

Space is limited, so don't miss out! Circle the dates, June 13-14, 2019 and let Christine (CEckley@WeAscend.org) know that you're interested.

We look forward to seeing you in June!

2017 Youth Risk Behavior Survey

(YRBS) Released by CDC

For Immediate Release:

June 14, 2018

2017 Youth Risk Behavior Survey (YRBS) Released by CDC:

Behavioral Trends Among Teens Show Promise and Concern

Minority Youth Show Highest Positive Change

(Washington, D.C.)

The Centers for Disease Control (CDC) released a Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report Surveillance Summary on the 2017 National Youth Risk Behavior Survey (YRBS). This valuable national survey is conducted every two years by the CDC and offers important indicators regarding risk behaviors among youth. The new 2017 survey report reveals both encouraging and concerning trends among youth. The CDC's National Center for HIV/AIDS, Viral Hepatitis, STD, and TB Prevention used the data to focus on the following priority areas: sexual behavior, high-risk substance use, violence victimization, and mental health and suicide-related behaviors. Summarized data on key areas shows the following:

- “The percentage of youth who have ever had sex decreased (48% in 2007 to 40% 2017), as did the percentage of youth who reported having four or more sexual partners (15% in 2007 to 10% in 2017), reducing the risk for HIV and STDs.
- Condom use among sexually active high school students decreased (62% in 2007 54% in 2017) putting more youth at risk for HIV and STDs.
- Injection drug use and use of select illicit drugs declined (23% in 2007 to 14% in 2017); however, 14% of high school students (nearly 1 in 7) reported non-prescription use of opioids, which has been directly linked to increased risk for injection drug use and HIV.
- Students who reported they were physically forced to have sex has not improved (11% in 2007 to 7% in 2017), with females reporting the highest rates (11% in 2007 and 2017) putting them at increased risk for HIV and STDs.”

Overall decreases in “ever had sex” and “number of partners” shows an encouraging trend with minority youth showing the largest percentage change decrease in both areas. Ascend is committed to using the most up-to-date data to inform Sexual Risk Avoidance education order to enhance the protective factors that all youth need to thrive. Access the new YRBS (here).

Ascend champions youth to make healthy decisions in relationships and life by promoting we being through a primary prevention strategy, and as a national membership and advocacy organization that serves, leads, represents and equips the Sexual Risk Avoidance field.

THANK YOU!!

Your support has allowed us to champion our nation's youth to make smart, forward-thinking choices about their sexual behavior and relationships. And, it's working! Teens are having less sex now than 25 years ago. Supporting this remarkable trend is so important because their decisions about sex now can have a significant impact on their physical and emotional health, their relationships, and their futures. In fact, sexual delay is linked to a number of positive life outcomes from poverty prevention to healthy family formation to the health of society as a whole. We are so thankful for your partnership as we advocate for optimal health for all youth.

Your partnership has allowed us to advocate for youth from Capitol Hill to classrooms across the nation. We have petitioned for the continued support and funding of Sexual Risk Avoidance (SRA) programs including:

- The reauthorization of Title V
- A $10 million increase in the SRAE grant program now at $25 million
- Expanded grant opportunities for SRA programs

We have worked tirelessly to elevate sex education instruction by providing an elite professional development training for the SRA field. Through our Sexual Risk Avoidance Specialist (SRAS) program we have certified over 1,400 individuals across the nation.

2018 has been a great year and we are excited for 2019! We have big plans that we can't wait to share! But, we need your partnership to make them happen!

Will you join us in championing America's youth and walking with them along the path of adolescence to a healthy and bright future? Every donation from $5 to a monthly pledge is valuable and needed. Every gift counts. Give today!

Linking arms with us through membership is really what allows us to serve, lead, represent and equip the SRA field. It's one gift you can give that will give back to you all year! Will you join us in 2019?

Warm Wishes,

Mary Anne Mosack

Featuring author Tim Carney

The suffering of America's working class is real. Immobility, inequality, a retreat from marriage, and deaths of despair are the symptoms. In short, for much of the country, the American Dream is dead. The root cause is the collapse of local community for the working-class. The institutions of civil society that are still strong in some parts of America, specifically among the elites, are fading away as America secularizes and the classes drift apart. Join Tim Carney as he discusses his new book, Alienated America, documenting these tragic realities, and what we can do to combat them.

Tim Carney is the commentary editor at the Washington Examiner and a visiting fellow at the American Enterprise Institute. He is the author of The Big Ripoff: How Big Business and Big Government Steal Your Money and Obamanomics: How Barack Obama is Bankrupting You and Enriching His Wall Street Friends, Corporate Lobbyists, and Union Bosses.

Why Aren't Evangelicals Turning On Trump? | Opinion

By Peter Roff On 5/31/18 at 5:55 AM

The news today may be full of Roseanne Barr, but sooner or later things are going to inevitably turn back to the matter of the president and the porn star. Stormy Daniels (aka Stephanie Clifford), whom Barr's tweets about former Obama aide Valerie Jarrett may have pushed off the front pages for a while, is a story too juicy not to come back.

She's become, oddly enough given her chosen line of work, a symbol of the left's resistance to Trump. On May 24 the city fathers in West Hollywood, one of the seedier parts of the City of Angels, gave her the key to the city in recognition of her efforts to help bring down Trump with whom, she says, she engaged in an illicit and adulterous encounter.

Why Aren't Evangelicals Turning On Trump? | Opinion

By Peter Roff On 5/31/18 at 5:55 AM

The news today may be full of Roseanne Barr, but sooner or later things are going to inevitably turn back to the matter of the president and the porn star. Stormy Daniels (aka Stephanie Clifford), whom Barr's tweets about former Obama aide Valerie Jarrett may have pushed off the front pages for a while, is a story too juicy not to come back.

She's become, oddly enough given her chosen line of work, a symbol of the left's resistance to Trump. On May 24 the city fathers in West Hollywood, one of the seedier parts of the City of Angels, gave her the key to the city in recognition of her efforts to help bring down Trump with whom, she says, she engaged in an illicit and adulterous encounter.

Subject: Reminder: Lunch at Heritage Friday April 5th noon

Hi folks! I'm looking forward to hosting you at a Domestic Policy working group lunch Friday April 5th at noon. Please let Leslie, cc-ed on this email, know if you CAN'T attend.

Our agenda:

- We'll start by hearing from Scott Winship of the Joint Economic Committee. He'll speak on their Social Capital project, his vision for it and why it's important. This is a good opportunity to hear about their groundbreaking research, which has far ranging implications and touches on topics of interest to many in the group.
- We'll also get updates on TANF work, EITC work, food stamps regulations – as well as learn about recent research by Lindsey Burke on the failure of war on poverty education programs.
- If you have additional ideas to add to the agenda, send them along!

CDC Trend Data on Teens and Sex Shows the Value of Sexual Risk Avoidance Education

Washington D.C. - The CDC's new trend data from the 2017 Youth Risk Behavior Survey (YRBS) offers encouraging news regarding teens and sex and the value of Sexual Risk Avoidance(SRA)education. "According to the results of this survey, more teens are waiting for sex and defying the often-repeated premise that teens are going to have sex anyway. Sexual Risk Avoidance education is a primary prevention approach that seeks to normalize sexual delay among youth and, as survey data indicates, more youth are embracing that message than ever before. Now is the time for SRA educators to continue their work in reinforcing the good decisions teens are making," stated Mary Anne Mosack, President/CE of Ascend.

While overall, teen sex has decreased from 47.8% in 2007 to 39.5% in 2017, the most significant decreases are seen among minority youth with black students who ever had sex decreasing from 66.5% in 2007 to 45.8% in 2017 and Hispanic students showing a decrease from 52.0% in 2007 to 41.1% in 2017. In addition, among sexually active teens, the percentage of students who had sex with four or more partners decreased significantly from 14.9% in 2007 to 9.7% in 2017 with equally significant decreases among White, Black and Hispanic youth. Number of partners is an important predictor of the likelihood of contracting an STD. So, while gains in this area are extremely encouraging, there is more work to do as half of the 20 million new STDs reported each year are among young people, between the ages of 15 and 24. Read the trend report here.

The survey also underscores the importance of a consistent theme typical in SRA education programs of tying the consequences of sexual and other risk behaviors to academic achievement and thus broader life, health and financial impacts into adulthood. Sexual Risk Avoidance programs routinely share the benefits of following the Success Sequence as a strong poverty prevention approach that advises a young person to a) graduate b) get a fulltime job and c) wait to be married before having children. Research shows that following this sequence decreases the likelihood of living in poverty to only 2%.^[1]

~~Ascend is extremely gratified~~ to see sexual activity among high school age students continuing to fall. We want to thank so many Ascend quality SRA programs and SRA certified instructors for their efforts in contributing to this decline. And we thank, especially, the young people in America who have taken our message to heart since it creates the opportunity for happier, healthier, and more productive lives.

New Funding Opportunity For Sexual Risk Avoidance (SRA) Education Now Available

Washington D.C. - The Title V Competitive Sexual Risk Avoidance grant has now been released by the Administration on Children, Youth and Families - Family and Youth Service Bureau. If your state or US territory did not accept Title V funds, organizations and entities are now eligible to apply directly for the funding. Groups in the following states/territories may now apply: Alaska, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Hawaii, Idaho, Kansas, Maine, New Hampshire, New York, North Dakota, Rhode Island, Vermont, Washington, Wyoming, American Samoa, District of Columbia, Guam, Marshall Islands, Northern Mariana Islands, Palau, and Virgin Islands.

“We are encouraged that new changes to the Title V SRA Education grant now permits all states and territories to access funding for Sexual Risk Avoidance education. This opportunity permits a wider distribution of funding that will allow more youth throughout the country to be empowered to avoid sexual risk, finish school and realize a path for future life success,” stated Mary Anne Mosack, President/CEO of Ascend.

With trend data showing a steady decline in teen sex, it is important that all youth are provided with the knowledge and skills that will reinforce this positive trend. See the details of this funding opportunity here.

Members Only Call on

There's still time to join the call. Make sure you register by close of business today!

Want to PROVE your program's worth? You need useful evaluation!!

We are excited to announce a Members Only call tomorrow, Tuesday, June 19th featuring guest speaker, Dr. Stan Weed of the Institute of Research and Evaluation.

Dr. Weed will share tips for design and planning to get the most useful results from your program evaluation. The recently posted funding opportunities require evaluation and this presentation will illuminate your path as you plan your strategy.

How do you know what questions to ask on pre and post surveys? How can you demonstrate that your program changes adolescents behavior? What kind of evaluation is needed to show effectiveness of your program? Dr. Stan Weed will share what you need to know to confidently evaluate your program and have results to prove your program's worth! The presentation will be followed by a Q&A session.

We hope you will join us! Please RSVP by close of business today, 6/18, and we'll send you the call-in information.

Since this is a Members Only call, make sure that your Ascend membership is up to date. Not sure if you're a current Ascend member? Contact us and we can easily check for you. If you aren't a member, take just a minute to join so that you can participate in next week's call!

New 2019 Appropriations Bill Includes $10 Million Increase for Sexual Risk Avoidance Education

On Sept 28th, the President signed an Appropriations “minibus” funding bill that includes the Dept. of Defense, the Labor, Health and Human Services (LHHS) and Education Appropriations bill for 2019. Building on the 2018 appropriations bill that increased SRA education to $25 million, the new bill added an additional $10 million bringing the total for SRA education programs to $35 million for 2019.

SRAE grant funding began in 2012 at $5 million, was increased in 2015 to $10 million then again in 2017 to $25 million. “This steady increase in funding for the important sexual risk avoidance approach demonstrates the growing success of SRA programs and the recognition and support from congressional members for such programs,” noted Mary Ann Mosack, President/CEO of Ascend. In addition, the Title V SRA state block grant was increased in 2015 from $50 million to $75 million bringing the total funding available for SRA programs in 2018-19 to $110 million.

Ascend is deeply grateful to Senator Roy Blunt (R-MO), Chairman of the Appropriations Subcommittee on Labor, Health and Human Services in the Senate and Chairman Tom Cotten (R-OK) in the House who worked to secure this increase for SRA education in the 2019 Appropriations bill. “As funding increases, more and more students throughout the country are able to receive SRA’s optimal sexual health message- a message every young person America deserves to hear,” added Mary Anne Mosack, President/CEO of Ascend.
