1 met the filing requirements to proceed with arbitration.

2 7. In response to AAA’s determination, Intuit objected to the merits and form of 3 Petitioners’ demands, AAA’s ability to handle Petitioners’ arbitrations, and Intuit’s arbitration fee
4 obligations, and it argued that under the terms of the arbitration agreement and AAA’s rules it may 5 elect to force Petitioners’ demands out of arbitration and into small-claims court.

6 8. AAA rejected each of Intuit’s objections, determining that they raise questions of 7 arbitrability that must be resolved by the individual arbitrator assigned to each Petitioner’s
8 arbitration.

9 9. Rather than accepting AAA’s determinations and proceeding with Petitioners’
10 arbitrations, Intuit sued Petitioners—its own customers—in California state court, seeking: (i) a 11 declaration and injunction that Petitioners may not proceed in arbitration and must proceed in court,
12 and (ii) a declaration that Petitioners seek “de facto” class or representative arbitration barred by 13 the agreement. Intuit also seeks a declaration that California Senate Bill 707, which imposes
14 sanctions on a “drafting party” that fails to pay the fees necessary for arbitration to proceed under 15 a consumer arbitration agreement, is preempted by the Federal Arbitration Act (“FAA”). Intuit
16 only has standing to seek such a declaration if it plans to refuse to pay the fees necessary to proceed
17 with Petitioners’ arbitrations.

18 10. Intuit has used its lawsuit to extract from AAA a 30-day stay of Petitioners’
19 arbitrations, and it has asked AAA for an additional two-month stay.

20 11. Petitioners request that this court order Intuit to abide by the arbitration agreement
21 it drafted, as required by the FAA, 9 U.S.C. § 4.

22 PARTIES

23 12. Each Petitioner’s name, city, and state are listed on Exhibit A.

24 13. Defendant Intuit Inc. is a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business
25 in Mountain View, California.

26 JURISDICTION AND VENUE

27 14. This Court has jurisdiction over this action pursuant to 9 U.S.C. § 4 and 28 U.S.C.
28 §§ 1331 and 1367 because each Petitioner’s underlying controversy involves claims arising under

1 federal law—the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. §1 et seq.

2 15. This Court has personal jurisdiction over Intuit because Intuit’s principal place of 3 business is within this district, and Intuit has sufficient minimum contacts in California to render 4 the exercise of jurisdiction by this Court proper and necessary.

5 16. Venue is proper in this district pursuant to 9 U.S.C. § 4 and 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b)
6 because Intuit’s principal place of business is in this district, and thus a substantial part of the 7 conduct at issue in this case originated in this district.

8 INTRADISTRICT ASSIGNMENT

9 17. A substantial part of the events and omissions that gave rise to Petitioners’ claims
10 occurred in Santa Clara County, which is served by the San Jose Division.

11 BACKGROUND

12 18. Petitioners paid to file their taxes using TurboTax Online, an Intuit product, in at 13 least one year between tax years 2014 and 2018.

14 19. When Petitioners filed their taxes using TurboTax Online, they were eligible for free
15 tax filing services through the IRS’s Free File Program. Intuit and a consortium of other private 16 tax preparation companies had agreed to give Petitioners and other U.S. taxpayers access to the 17 IRS’s program, in return for the IRS agreeing to not develop its own tax filing software to compete
18 with the private companies. However, Intuit failed to adequately disclose the IRS’s Free File
19 Program to Petitioners or provide a path for them to utilize the program.

20 20. Instead, Intuit steered Petitioners to its own “Free Edition” tax filing program which,
21 despite its title, required Petitioners to pay fees that they would not have paid under the IRS’s
22 program. Intuit heavily marketed its own “free” program and promoted it as free to Petitioners and 23 other consumers, ensuring that internet searches for “free” tax filing services prioritized
24 TurboTax’s “Free Edition,” rather than TurboTax’s version of the IRS’s Free File Program. Intuit’s
25 scheme was designed to, and did, convince Petitioners and Intuit’s other customers that the only 26 available free filing option was Intuit’s own “free” program, for which very few consumers were 27 eligible.

28 21. Even after a Petitioner using a TurboTax commercial product provided enough

1 information for Intuit to determine that the Petitioner was eligible for the IRS’s Free File Program,
2 Intuit did not inform that Petitioner of his or her eligibility for the Free File Program, nor did it
3 direct the Petitioner to TurboTax’s version of the Free File Program.

4 22. Intuit also actively concealed the existence of the Free File Program from 5 Petitioners. For instance, Intuit added code to TurboTax’s website that directed Google and other
6 search engines to not list TurboTax’s version of the Free File Program in search results. Intuit also 7 omitted all references to the Free File Program from TurboTax’s commercial website.

8 23. Intuit’s conduct was illegally anticompetitive. Through its deception, Intuit 9 preserved its dominant market position by preventing a formidable potential competitor—the 10 United States government—from entering the market for online tax preparation and filing services.
11 And Intuit colluded with the other members of the taxing filing consortium to steer taxpayers away
12 from free filing products and to the members’ respective paid products, thereby preserving their 13 profits.

14 24. Petitioners were harmed by Intuit’s deceptive and anticompetitive conduct because 15 Intuit’s misrepresentations and material omissions caused Petitioners to pay for tax filing services
16 that they otherwise would have received for free.

17 25. Petitioners seek relief for those practices under dozens of state consumer protection
18 laws targeting unfair and deceptive acts and practices, and under the federal Sherman Act,
19 15 U.S.C. §§ 1, 2, which prohibits Intuit’s anticompetitive conduct.

20 26. Before using TurboTax’s tax filing services, each Petitioner was required to click a
21 button acknowledging that he or she accepted an arbitration agreement, attached as Exhibit B.²

22 27. The arbitration agreement provides that “[a]ny dispute or claim relating in any way
23 to the services or this agreement will be resolved by binding arbitration, rather than in court, except 24 that you may assert claims in small claims court if your claims qualify.” Ex. B § 14. The agreement
25 further states that the arbitration shall be administered by AAA, in accordance with AAA’s
26 Consumer Arbitration Rules. See id.

27 ² The agreements governing Petitioners’ claims were materially similar across all relevant tax years.
28 For convenience, Petitioners will cite and quote the agreement applicable to tax year 2018.

1 28. AAA’s Consumer Rules dictate that before an individual arbitrator has been
2 appointed, or where a rule does not involve the “arbitrator’s powers and duties,” the rules “shall be
3 interpreted and applied by the AAA.” Consumer Rule 53.³ The rules also include a delegation
4 clause, which states that an “arbitrator shall have the power to rule on his or her own jurisdiction,
5 including any objections with respect to the existence, scope, or validity of the arbitration
6 agreement or to the arbitrability of any claim or counterclaim.” Consumer Rule 14(a).

7 29. On October 1, 2019 and February 22, 2020, each Petitioner filed a demand for 8 arbitration with AAA against Intuit, invoking Intuit’s arbitration agreement and seeking to arbitrate
9 the claims at issue in this action.⁴ Each demand was submitted on AAA’s official form, contained
10 each Petitioner’s individual information, described each Petitioner’s individual claims, and 11 requested individual relief. An example of one Petitioner’s demand is attached as Exhibit C.

12 30. AAA reviewed the arbitration agreement, applied its rules, and determined that each
13 Petitioner’s demand for arbitration met the filing requirements to proceed with arbitration.

14 31. Intuit did not dispute that each Petitioner could invoke the arbitration agreement in 15 asserting his or her claims. But rather than proceed with Petitioners’ arbitrations, Intuit waged a 16 months-long campaign to avoid arbitration. It objected to the merits of Petitioners’ claims, the 17 form of Petitioners’ demands, the method by which Petitioners filed their demands, AAA’s ability
18 to neutrally administer the arbitrations, and the amount of fees Intuit is required to pay under the 19 terms of its agreement. Intuit also repeatedly argued that under the terms of the arbitration
20 agreement and AAA’s rules, it may elect to force Petitioners’ demands out of arbitration and into 21 small-claims court.

22 32. AAA rejected each of Intuit’s arguments, determining that the arguments must be 23 decided by individual arbitrators. AAA began initiating each Petitioner’s individual arbitration, 24 the first step towards assigning individual arbitrators.

25 33. Rather than accepting AAA’s determinations and proceeding with Petitioners’

27 ⁴ Petitioners initially asserted only consumer fraud claims. On July 15, 2020, Petitioners amended 28 their arbitration demands to add federal antitrust claims under the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. §§ 1, 2.

1 arbitrations, Intuit sued Petitioners in California state court, seeking declaratory relief on questions
2 that Intuit’s agreement says only an arbitrator may answer. Intuit’s lawsuit seeks: (i) a declaration
3 and injunction that under the terms of the arbitration agreement and AAA’s rules, Petitioners may 4 not proceed in arbitration and must proceed in court, and (ii) a declaration that Petitioners seek “de
5 facto” class or representative arbitration barred by the agreement. Intuit also seeks a declaration
6 that California Senate Bill 707, which imposes sanctions on a “drafting party” that fails to pay the 7 fees necessary for arbitration to proceed under a consumer arbitration agreement, is preempted by 8 the Federal Arbitration Act (“FAA”). Intuit only has standing to seek such a declaration if it plans
9 to refuse to pay the fees necessary to proceed with Petitioners’ arbitrations. Intuit’s complaint is 10 attached as Exhibit D.

11 34. Intuit used this lawsuit to extract from AAA a 30-day stay of Petitioners’
12 arbitrations, invoking AAA Consumer Rule 1(f). Intuit has asked AAA for an additional two-
13 month stay. And it has asked the state court to hold that Petitioners can never pursue their claims 14 in arbitration, and must instead pursue their claims in court.

15 CONCLUSION

16 35. Each Petitioner and Intuit entered into an agreement requiring them to individually
17 arbitrate the Petitioner’s consumer fraud and antitrust claims.

18 36. Intuit has breached that agreement and has “fail[ed], neglect[ed], or refus[ed]” to 19 arbitrate under the agreement, 9 U.S.C. § 4, by refusing to comply with AAA’s administrative 20 determinations, by seeking to prevent Petitioners from proceeding with arbitration, and by asking 21 a court to resolve disputes that the agreement requires must be decided by individual arbitrators.

22 37. Accordingly, this Court should compel Intuit to individually arbitrate each
23 Petitioner’s claims in accordance with the parties’ arbitration agreement, as required by the FAA,
24 9 U.S.C. § 4.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Petitioners respectfully request that this Court:

38. Order that Intuit must arbitrate each Petitioner’s claims in accordance with Intuit’s arbitration agreement, making clear that Intuit must raise any arbitrability arguments—including its argument that the agreement allows it to unilaterally elect to litigate Petitioners’ claims in small claims court rather than in arbitration—before individual arbitrators, and must therefore comply with AAA’s administrative determinations so that individual arbitrators may be appointed.

You agree to reasonably cooperate as requested by Intuit in the defense of any Claims.

10. CHANGES. We reserve the right to modify this Agreement, in our sole discretion, at any time, and the modifications will be effective when posted through the Services or on our website for the Services or when we notify you by other means. We may also change or discontinue the Services, in whole or in part. It is important that you review this Agreement whenever we modify it because your continued use of the Services indicates your agreement to the modifications.

11. TERMINATION. Intuit may, in its sole discretion and without notice, restrict, deny, terminate this Agreement or suspend the Services, related or other Services, effective immediately, in whole or in part, if we determine that your use of the Services violates the Agreement, is improper or substantially exceeds or differs from normal use by other users, raises suspicion of fraud, misuse, security concern, illegal activity or unauthorized access issues, to protect the integrity or availability of the Services or systems and comply with applicable Intuit policy, if you no longer agree to receive electronic communications, or if your use of the Services conflicts with Intuit's interests or those of another user of the Services. Upon Intuit notice that your use of the Services has been terminated you must immediately stop using the Services and any outstanding payments will become due. Any termination of this Agreement shall not affect Intuit's rights to any payments due to it. Intuit may terminate a free account at any time. Sections 2.2, 3 through 15 will survive and remain in effect even if the Agreement is terminated.

12. EXPORT RESTRICTIONS. You acknowledge that the Services, its related website, online services, and other Intuit Services, including the mobile application, delivered by Intuit are subject to restrictions under applicable US export control laws, including US trade embargoes and sanctions and security requirements, and applicable country or local laws to the extent compatible with US laws. You agree that you will comply with these laws and regulations and will not export, re-export, import or otherwise make available products and/or technical data in violation of these laws and regulations, directly or indirectly.

13. GOVERNING LAW. California state law governs this Agreement without regard to its conflict of laws provisions.

14. DISPUTES. ANY DISPUTE OR CLAIM RELATING IN ANY WAY TO THE SERVICES OR THIS AGREEMENT WILL BE RESOLVED BY BINDING ARBITRATION, RATHER THAN IN COURT, except that you may assert claims in small claims court if your claims qualify. The Federal Arbitration Act governs the interpretation and enforcement of this provision; the arbitrator shall apply California law to all other matters. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary, any party to the arbitration may at any time seek injunctions or other forms of equitable relief from any court of competent jurisdiction. WE EACH AGREE THAT ANY AND ALL DISPUTES MUST BE BROUGHT IN THE PARTIES' INDIVIDUAL CAPACITY AND NOT AS A PLAINTIFF OR CLASS MEMBER IN ANY PURPORTED CLASS OR REPRESENTATIVE PROCEEDING. BY ENTERING INTO THIS AGREEMENT AND AGREEING TO ARBITRATION, YOU AGREE THAT YOU AND INTUIT ARE EACH WAIVING THE RIGHT TO FILE A LAWSUIT AND THE RIGHT TO A TRIAL BY JURY. IN ADDITION, YOU AGREE TO WAIVE THE RIGHT TO PARTICIPATE IN A CLASS ACTION OR LITIGATE ON A CLASS-WIDE BASIS. YOU AGREE THAT YOU HAVE EXPRESSLY AND KNOWINGLY WAIVED THESE RIGHTS.

To begin an arbitration proceeding, send a letter requesting arbitration and describing your claim to Intuit Inc., in care of our registered agent Corporation Service Company, 2711 Centerville Road, Wilmington, DE 19808. Arbitration will be conducted by the American Arbitration Association (AAA) before a single AAA arbitrator under the AAA's rules, which are available at www.adr.org or by calling 1-800-778-7879. Payment of all filing, administration and arbitrator fees and costs will be governed by the AAA's rules, but if you are unable to pay any of them, Intuit will pay them for you. In addition, Intuit will reimburse all such fees and costs for claims totaling less than $75,000 unless the arbitrator determines the claims are frivolous. Likewise, Intuit will not seek its attorneys' fees or costs in arbitration unless the arbitrator determines your claims or defenses are frivolous. You may choose to have the arbitration conducted by telephone, based on written submissions, or in person in the county where you live or at another mutually agreed location. The decision of the arbitrator shall be final and not appealable, and judgment on the arbitration award may be entered in any court having jurisdiction thereof. This Section 14 shall survive expiration, termination or rescission of this Agreement.

15. GENERAL. This Agreement, including the Additional Terms below, is the entire agreement between you and Intuit regarding its subject matter and replaces all prior understandings, communications and agreements, oral or written, regarding its subject matter. If any court of law, having the jurisdiction, rules that any part of this Agreement is invalid, that section will be removed without affecting the remainder of the Agreement. The remaining terms will be valid and enforceable. The United Nations Convention on Contracts for the International Sale of Goods does not apply to this Agreement. You may not assign or transfer this Agreement to anyone without written approval of Intuit. However, Intuit may assign or transfer this Agreement without your consent to (a) an affiliate, (b) a company through a sale of assets by Intuit or (c) a successor by merger. Any assignment in violation of this Section shall be void. If you want to request a transfer of this Agreement, contact Intuit via an email to: transfer_license@intuit.com.

B. ADDITIONAL TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR THE TURBOTAX ONLINE TAX PREPARATION SERVICES

Your use of the Services provided by Intuit are subject to the General Terms of Service above including these Additional Terms and Conditions which govern your use of the Services indicated below. These Additional Terms and Conditions shall prevail over any conflict or inconsistency with the General Terms of Service above.

1. License Grant and Restrictions

- 1.1. Number of Returns. You may use the Services solely to prepare valid federal and/or state tax return(s) for which you have paid the applicable fee(s), and after proper registration and any applicable payment, to file electronically and/or print such federal and/or state tax return.
- 1.2. Number of Returns. You may use the Services to prepare and file federal and/or state returns. After proper registration and payment is made, you may file such returns electronically or by printing and mailing them to the IRS and/or appropriate state agency. No more than five (5) federal and/or state tax returns may be filed from the Services or from any one email address entered within the Services.
- 1.3. Additional Examples of Restrictions on Use. You may not use the services to prepare tax returns, schedules or worksheets on a professional or commercial basis (i.e., for a preparer's or other fee).

1. SERVICES

- 2.1. State Services. The term "Services" includes any state version of TurboTax Online software made available through this website, which may be subject to additional fees as described on the website.
- 2.2. Electronic Filing Services.
 - a. If you choose to file your return electronically, the tax return will be forwarded to Intuit's Electronic Filing Center, where it will be converted to and stored in a standardized format, and then transmitted to the applicable federal and/or state taxing authority. You are responsible for verifying the status of your return to confirm that it has been received and accepted by the applicable taxing authority and, if necessary, for filing it manually in the event that the taxing authority rejects your electronically filed return (e.g., taxpayer name and SSN don't match). You agree to review your tax return for indications of obvious errors before electronically filing or mailing it. To the extent required by applicable law and regulation, Intuit stores and maintains information that you provide to Intuit. Intuit is not required or obligated to provide you with a copy of your tax return if you are using a free version of TurboTax or at any time after October 15 of the applicable tax filing season. In the event it is not accessible from Intuit you must contact the IRS.
 - b. The Internal Revenue Service ("IRS") will begin accepting electronically filed returns on approximately January 15 of the applicable tax filing season. If you complete a federal tax return prior to that date and want to file it electronically, you will need to sign back in to TurboTax Online anytime on or after the date the IRS first accepts filings to complete the electronic filing process. You can file a late tax return for tax year 2016, through the Services, up to October 15 of the applicable tax filing season or as otherwise permitted by the IRS and supported by Intuit. The IRS requires Intuit to notify it, in connection with the electronic filing of your tax return, of the Internet Protocol ("IP") address of the computer from which the return originated and whether the email address of the person electronically filing the return has been collected. By using this Service to prepare and submit your tax return, you consent to the disclosure to the IRS and any other tax or revenue authority of all information relating to your use of the Electronic Filing Services.
 - c. If you are filing one or more State tax returns, then by using a computer system and software to prepare and transmit return(s) electronically, you consent to the disclosure of all information pertaining to your use of the system and software to the States in which you are filing the returns, as applicable by law, and to the transmission of your tax return(s).
- 2.3. Pricing. Prices are ultimately determined at time of print or e-file and are subject to change without notice. You should confirm that the pricing for your use of the Services has not changed, particularly if some time has passed between the date you start your tax return and the date you finish and are ready to file or print and pay for it. The price for your use of the Service is established at the time you pay for it. Your price will not change once you pay for your Service.
- 2.4. Import Services. The Services includes a feature that allows you to import, where applicable, certain information from participating financial institutions (including those offering a TurboTax for Online Banking interface), payroll processors, personal financial software, business financial software such as QuickBooks and charitable deduction information from ItsDeductible branded service. You are responsible for verifying the accuracy of the information that is imported.

The Services also include functionality designed to read data from images (for example, W-2s, other tax forms, or credit cards used for payment) photographed using a mobile device. This functionality is limited to those forms or items that the Services can read. If the form or other item you photograph and submit through the Services is not supported, you may need to manually enter your data.

You may be offered the ability to import data from other sources in addition to those above. You may provide us with your authorization and information to allow us to obtain your data from third parties on your behalf to use the Services or any third party service that you select. You represent that you have the necessary rights to grant us access to your accounts with third parties. Third parties are not affiliated with or endorsed or sponsored by us.

2.5 TurboTax Live. The TurboTax Online Services include the optional "TurboTax Live" service for add-on assistance with your tax return. Fees may apply. With TurboTax Live, Intuit will provide you with a designated Tax Expert (i.e., Certified Public Accountant or Enrolled Agent) who will review your U.S. Federal and/or State tax returns and answer questions you may have about your tax return. Some tax topics or situations may not be included as part of this Service, which shall be determined in the Tax Expert's sole discretion. The tax assistance provided to you by the Tax Expert will be based on information you provide. You understand and agree that if you provide incorrect or incomplete information, the advice provided to you may not be accurate.

You are responsible for the overall accuracy of the data in your final tax return.

If the assistance with your tax return requires significant oversight and actual preparation, the Tax Expert, in their sole discretion, may be obligated to sign your return as the preparer and will then have primary responsibility for the preparation of your return. You are still responsible for reviewing your return before it is filed to verify its overall completeness and accuracy. You also understand and agree that once you delegate preparation of your tax return to the Tax Expert, you will no longer be able to make changes to your tax return within the TurboTax Online Services. You will be required to provide your Tax Expert with access to all necessary supporting tax documentation (W-2, 1099, etc.) as may be requested by the Tax Expert. If your Tax Expert provides you with the option to mail or email your supporting documentation, you are responsible for maintaining copies of all such documentation. You agree that the Tax Expert is not responsible for any items lost or destroyed during mailing. Additionally, you should maintain a copy of your final tax return and all supporting documentation, as Intuit has no obligation to retain such copies.

TurboTax Live does not include any legal or investment advice, tax, estate or investment planning, or other areas of advice.

2.6 Amended Returns. You can file an amended tax return for the applicable tax year through the Services, up to October 15 of applicable tax filing season or as otherwise permitted by the IRS and supported by Intuit. If you need to file an amended tax return for either of two prior tax years, you will be provided a link to a downloadable version of TurboTax and your tax information will be transferred via your tax data file, at no additional cost. Your amended return may need to be completed in the downloadable version of TurboTax and not TurboTax Online. You agree to this process for amended tax returns and the downloadable TurboTax End User License Agreement where applicable.

3. HELP AND SUPPORT

Intuit may use a variety of methods (e.g., in-product, widgets, Internet, remote access, online community, chat, e-mail, video, and phone) to provide technical support and customer service in connection with the Services. The terms and conditions governing the offering of this support, which may require the payment of an additional fee, are subject to change as announced by Intuit from time to time. If you choose to allow an Intuit agent to have remote access to your computer via the Internet to provide help, you should close other browsers or applications or follow other instructions to enable such access. Consult the TurboTax Online Help and Support web site for the most up-to-date information relating to this support and any associated charges. The Services are not accessible after October 15 of each applicable tax year and shall not be supported beyond that date.

4. GUARANTEES

(a) TurboTax Accurate Calculation Guarantee. Intuit works to ensure the accuracy of the calculations on every form prepared using the TurboTax Online tax preparation Services.

(i) If you are a registered user and you pay an IRS or state penalty and/or interest solely because of a calculation error on a form prepared for you using TurboTax Online, and not as a result of, among other things, your failure to enter all required information accurately, willful or fraudulent omission or inclusion of information on your tax return, misclassification of information on the tax return, or failure to file an amended return to avoid or reduce an applicable penalty/interest after Intuit announced updates or corrections to the TurboTax Online software in time for you to file an amended return, then Intuit will pay you in the amount of the IRS or state penalty and/or interest paid by you to the IRS or state. In this regard, you are responsible for keeping Intuit apprised promptly of any change in your email address, mailing address and/or phone number so that you can be notified of such updates or corrections. The Accurate Calculations Guarantee does not apply to tax forms completed in which the data is entered directly by you, rather than through the use of the in-product TurboTax interview guidance. You are responsible for paying any additional tax liability you may owe and providing any other information Intuit reasonably requests to validate your claim. A "registered user" is a user from whom Intuit has received the information necessary to permit such person to print or electronically file a tax return prepared using the TurboTax Online Services and who complies with the terms and conditions of this Agreement.

(ii) If you believe such a calculation error occurred, you must notify Intuit as soon as you learn of the mistake (and in no event later than 30 days after the penalty or interest is assessed and within the applicable federal and/or state tax filing statute of limitation). For the most current information go to <https://support.turbotax.intuit.com/redirect/accurate-calculation-guarantee> (<https://support.turbotax.intuit.com/redirect/accurate-calculation-guarantee>) or send by mail at Intuit Inc. (b) Maximum Refund (or Tax Savings) Guarantee or Your Money Back.

(i) If you are a registered user of TurboTax and you receive a larger refund amount or pay a smaller tax due amount using another tax preparation method other than TurboTax, then Intuit will refund to you the applicable purchase price paid by you for the federal and/or state TurboTax product you purchased. TurboTax Federal Free Edition customers are entitled to payment of $14.95. Claims must be submitted within sixty (60) days of the date you filed your tax return using TurboTax, but no later than December 15 of the applicable tax filing season. All other fees are excluded including, electronic filing fees, Audit Defense, Refund Processing Service and technical support fees. This guarantee cannot be combined with the Satisfaction Guarantee below.

(ii) To qualify, the larger refund or smaller tax due cannot be attributed to variations in data you provided for tax preparation or for positions taken by you or your preparer that are contrary to the law. If you received a larger refund amount or pay a smaller tax due using another tax preparation method other than TurboTax, you must notify Intuit within sixty days of the date you filed your tax return by submitting a claim with the following documents (1) Maximum Refund Guarantee Claim Request Summary, (2) copy of your TurboTax store sales receipt or shipment packing slip, (3) copy of your proof of payment for another tax preparation method (if applicable), (4) copy of your TurboTax data file, (5) copy of the printed return from the other tax preparation method, and (6) letter stating your refund or tax due amount using TurboTax and your refund or tax due amount using another tax preparation method. (c) Satisfaction Guaranteed (or Guaranteed Easy).

You may use the TurboTax Online software without charge up to the point you decide to print or electronically file your tax return. Printing or electronically filing your return reflects your satisfaction with software, at which time you will be required to pay or register for the Services.

(d) Audit Support Guarantee.

If you received an audit letter based on your TurboTax return and are not satisfied with how we responded to your inquiry, we'll refund the applicable TurboTax federal 1040 and/or state purchase price you paid.

If you are a registered user of TurboTax and you receive an audit letter from the IRS or State Department of Revenue relating to your current year TurboTax return, then Intuit will provide free year round audit guidance (what to expect and how to prepare) from a tax professional available year round, to help answer your audit questions until December 31 three years following the applicable tax filing season. Please use a traceable mailing method and maintain copies of submitted items for your records. Claims of non-payment will require photocopy substantiation of all required items. Please allow up to 6 weeks for processing and delivery. If after 8 weeks you have not received your check, contact us. (e) TurboTax 100% Accurate, Expert Approved Guarantee. The following guarantee shall apply only to the TurboTax Live Services.

(i) If you are a registered user of TurboTax Live and you pay an IRS or state penalty and/or interest solely because of an error the Tax Expert made while providing topic-specific tax advice, a section review, or on a form signed by the Tax Expert, and not as a result of, among other things, your failure to provide all required information accurately, willful or fraudulent omission or inclusion of information for your tax return, misrepresentation of your tax information, or failure to file your tax return on time or to take other action requested by the Tax Expert, then Intuit will pay you the amount of the IRS or state penalty and/or interest paid by you to the IRS or state. If applicable, in Intuit's reasonable sole discretion, we may also provide you with an amended tax return with no additional fee. Note that the Refund Processing Service fee is payable to the bank whether or not your refund is large enough to cover your TurboTax fees. You should evaluate all Third Party Services based on your own assessment and review of their terms and conditions.

SERVICE DESCRIPTION. Under the ACA, most individuals must have health insurance coverage or pay a tax penalty (also known as an "individual shared responsibility payment"). If you did not have qualifying health care coverage or insurance (or "minimal essential coverage"), you can use the Exemption Check Service to determine whether you preliminarily qualify for an exemption ("ACA Exemption") from the ACA tax penalty. Please note that the US Department of Health and Human Services, Center for Medicare and Medicaid Services ("CMS") solely determines whether or not you qualify for an ACA Exemption. Intuit is not responsible for any CMS determination that results in an increased tax liability for you.

1. COMPLETING AND FILING A CMS "HARDSHIP EXEMPTION" APPLICATION. Under the ACA, you can claim certain ACA Exemptions directly on your tax return. However, other categories of exemptions, known as "Hardship Exemptions," require that you submit a Hardship Exemption Application to CMS. You may use this Service to prepare the CMS Hardship Exemption application, however to qualify and be approved, you will need to print and submit the CMS Hardship Exemption Application directly to CMS. All CMS Hardship Exemption Applications prepared using this Service must be submitted or mailed by you to: Health Insurance Marketplace – Exemption Processing; 465 Industrial Blvd.; London, KY 40741. You are solely responsible for ensuring that your CMS Hardship Exemption is properly mailed and submitted to CMS for their review and approval. This Service DOES NOT file, mail, or otherwise submit your CMS Hardship Application for you to CMS. If your CMS Hardship Exemption Application has been approved, you will be notified by CMS. If you have not been contacted by CMS regarding the status of your Hardship Exemption Application and whether your application has been approved by CMS, please contact CMS directly at 1-800-318-2596. For more information on hardship exemptions, see <https://www.healthcare.gov/fees-exemptions/hardship-exemptions/>.

Statement of Claim

TurboTax is the nation’s leading provider of online tax preparation and filing services.¹ It occupies as much as two-thirds of the online tax filing market, and it generated over $2.2 billion in revenue in fiscal year 2019. But that success did not result purely from a superior product or business strategy. Rather, TurboTax acquired and maintained its dominant position through a “free to fee” scheme, falsely promising low-income taxpayers free tax filing, and then deceiving them into buying its paid products. TurboTax also profited by boxing out a significant potential competitor, the United States Internal Revenue Service, from the market for online tax preparation and filing services. Both schemes were illegal.

TurboTax is a member of the Free File Alliance (now called Free File, Inc.), a consortium of private tax preparation and filing companies. In 2002, the Alliance promised to provide free online tax filing to low-income taxpayers—at least 60% of the population—and in return extracted the IRS’s agreement not to provide competing online tax filing services. The Free File Alliance memorialized this arrangement in the Free File Agreement (the “Agreement”), which remains in force today. The Agreement includes a non-compete provision that prohibits the IRS from creating its own free online filing product and entering the market for tax preparation.

Under the Agreement, each Free File Alliance member must serve a share of the total eligible population, so that all qualifying taxpayers have access to at least one member’s free filing platform. For its part, TurboTax created free tax preparation and filing software that gave consumers free access to more than 100 tax forms, allowing eligible consumers to file even complex returns electronically for no charge, so long as they met one of three criteria: an adjusted gross income (“AGI”) of around $34,000 or less; eligibility for the Earned Income Tax Credit; or status as an active military member with an AGI of around $66,000 or less. Taxpayers who qualified for this free option could also prepare and file their state tax returns for free, using the same website.

While TurboTax created free filing software to satisfy its commitments under the Agreement, it did not truly offer that software to its customers. Instead, TurboTax leveraged its participation in the Free File Alliance to entice low-income earners, like Claimant, with the promise of free tax preparation, only to trick them into paying for TurboTax’s commercial tax filing products. In other words, TurboTax used the prospect of free filing as bait to lure consumers to pay it money.

Intuit implemented this scheme by first muddying the waters, introducing a decoy “free” product, separate from the Free File Alliance program, that few people were qualified to use. Specifically, TurboTax called the Free File Alliance program the “Freedom Edition.” TurboTax then called its decoy “free” filing product the “Free Edition.” The “Freedom Edition” (the IRS-required free option) and the “Free Edition” (the decoy “free” option) were both nominally free, but the Free Edition’s eligibility requirements were significantly more narrow than the Freedom Edition’s eligibility requirements. The Free Edition was free for only truly simple tax returns. Consumers could not file for free using the Free Edition if they were self-employed; lacked health insurance; received unemployment; had business income, expenses, or losses; claimed a student loan deduction; had capital gains or losses; lived in one state but worked in another; paid or received alimony; had income from rental real estate; received royalties; had farm income or losses; or claimed a health savings account contribution deduction, deductible educator expenses, education credits, retirement savings contribution credits, or credits for child and dependent care expenses. On the other hand, consumers with these tax situations would still be eligible for the Freedom Edition, so long as they had met the basic eligibility requirements.

If this is confusing, that is by design. Having created a decoy “Free Edition” that few consumers could use, TurboTax drowned out any thought of the “Freedom Edition” by dialing up its promotion of the “Free Edition.” For instance, for tax year 2018, TurboTax issued a thirty-second television advertisement depicting a game show in which the answer to every question was “free.”² The advertisement ended with a voiceover stating, “That’s right, TurboTax Free is free. Free, free, free, free.” TurboTax also used direct email campaigns urging consumers to sign into their TurboTax accounts to receive a “max refund” that was “FREE guaranteed,” but directing them to TurboTax’s commercial site, not the Freedom Edition free site. TurboTax paid for Google “AdWords”—advertisements that appear above Google search results—to direct taxpayers to its Free Edition commercial site when they searched for free tax filing. And once on TurboTax’s commercial site, consumers were inundated with offers of “free” filing.³

TurboTax aggressively advertised its Free Edition in this manner for tax years 2014, 2015, 2016, 2017, and 2018, to convey to taxpayers that its Free Edition was the free filing option.

Not only did TurboTax aggressively market its restrictive Free Edition, it also actively concealed its Freedom Edition, for which many more taxpayers were eligible. For instance, TurboTax “de-indexed” the Freedom Edition website, adding code directing search engines to not list the website in online search results. As a result, consumers searching for free tax filing, even specifically for “IRS free tax filing,” would be directed to TurboTax’s Free Edition commercial site rather than the Freedom Edition site. And even if a consumer managed to locate TurboTax’s Freedom Edition through an internet search, that consumer was first directed to a landing page containing a button advertising “free” filing on TurboTax’s commercial website.⁴ TurboTax also omitted all references to the Freedom Edition website from its commercial website, and it removed all links from the commercial website to the Freedom Edition website.

Once on TurboTax’s commercial website, consumers were presented only with TurboTax’s “Free Edition” and TurboTax’s paid products. They were never made aware of the Freedom Edition, and were shown a menu of options that would cause any reasonable consumer to conclude that the Free Edition was the only free option available. Because the “Free Edition” is so restrictive, many taxpayers who qualified for the Freedom Edition ended up on TurboTax’s commercial website and were led to believe that their only option was a TurboTax paid product.

In short, TurboTax aggressively advertised “free” filing through its commercial website and a product designed to appear identical to the truly free product, while actively concealing the truly free product, intending that taxpayers would be drawn to TurboTax for “free” filing, but then would be unlikely to find the actual free filing product and would instead purchase TurboTax’s paid products. This process was no accident. As explained in an exposé last year by ProPublica, internal whistleblowers have confirmed that Intuit carefully designed TurboTax’s advertising and website for the specific purpose of causing consumers to think they had to pay Intuit money for something Intuit had promised to provide for free:

Steering customers away from TurboTax’s truly free option [wa]s a “purposeful strategy,” said a former midlevel Intuit employee. For people who find TurboTax through a search engine or an online ad, “the landing page would direct you through a product flow that the company wanted to ensure would not make you aware of Free File.”

“The entire strategy is make sure people read the word ‘free’ and click our site and never use” an actually free product, the former midlevel employee said. In reality, TurboTax’s Free Edition guides many people to a product that costs them money. It’s only free for people with the simplest tax situations. The “vast majority of people who click that will not pay $0,” the former employee said.

One former marketing employee recalled a May 2017 meeting of a marketing team at TurboTax’s San Diego headquarters. The tax filing season had just ended, and a dozen or so staffers up to the senior manager level were brainstorming. A new employee proposed that customers going through TurboTax’s interview-style filing process who were found to be eligible for Free File get a “hard recommendation” — essentially a pop-up window — to be routed to the truly free product.

The response? Laughter, according to the former employee. The meeting quickly moved on.

“They have ways of detecting if you’re paying too much, but they just don’t do it,” the former staffer said.

Dozens of taxpayers have contacted ProPublica to tell their stories of being charged by TurboTax despite the fact that they earned under $34,000 a year, qualifying them for TurboTax’s Free File product. An 87-year-old retiree with a gross income of $11,000, for example, was charged $124.98 to file with TurboTax.

On LinkedIn, Heather Samarin, who was a TurboTax vice president of product management a decade ago, said that she had been “charged with addressing the threat posed by IRS free efile program” and had “revamped TurboTax marketing strategy for low-end tax filers,” driving a “100% increase in revenues.” She did not respond to requests for comment.

Last summer, according to a former marketing employee, the then-head of TurboTax, Dan Wernikoff, attended a meeting about customers who had unnecessarily selected costlier products like TurboTax Deluxe. These customers had tax situations that qualified them for a cheaper or even free product, and the slides shown at the meeting referred to them as having been “overcharged.” According to the former employee, Wernikoff instructed that going forward, employees should never use the word “overcharged.” Instead, they should say that these customers’ use of products intended for higher-earning customers was “aspirational.” Wernikoff didn’t respond to a request for comment.

See Justin Elliott & Paul Kiel, The TurboTax Trap: TurboTax and H&R Block Saw Free Tax Filing as a Threat — and Gutted It, ProPublica (May 2, 2019) available at <https://kl.link/3fibSsO>.

Claimant AALIYAH JOLLY was eligible for free filing through TurboTax’s IRS-required Free File product. But despite being eligible for free tax filing, Claimant paid TurboTax to file taxes. Claimant paid TurboTax because Claimant was drawn by the prospect of “free” tax filing through TurboTax’s commercial website, but TurboTax implicitly represented that its Free Edition, rather than the truly free Freedom Edition, was the only free filing product available. Because Claimant was ineligible for the Free Edition, TurboTax represented that Claimant would have to file Claimant’s taxes using a paid TurboTax product, which Claimant did. Even after Claimant provided sufficient information to allow TurboTax to determine that Claimant was eligible for the Free File program, TurboTax did not make Claimant aware of that program or direct Claimant to the Free File website. And TurboTax made it impossible for Claimant to access the truly free, Free File website from its commercial website. Had Claimant known of the truly free option (TurboTax’s Free File Program), Claimant would not have paid TurboTax to file Claimant’s taxes. Accordingly, TurboTax knowingly, intentionally, and willfully misled Claimant, causing Claimant to pay for services that Claimant would otherwise have not paid for. TurboTax’s fraud was particularly egregious because it was part of a willful pattern in which the company repeatedly took advantage of millions of low-income taxpayers like Claimant, in violation of the commitment TurboTax made to the IRS to prevent the IRS from offering its own, competing product. TurboTax's conduct constitutes fraud and unjust enrichment at common law. Its conduct also constitutes unfair, unconscionable, deceptive, and fraudulent business practices, in violation of 815 Ill. Comp. Stat. 505/2 et seq.

Intuit's conduct also violates the Sherman Act, which makes illegal certain types of anticompetitive conduct.⁵ While businesses may lawfully act to expand their market share and increase profits, they cannot pursue or maintain a monopoly by unfairly harming the competitive process.⁶ Thus a company like TurboTax, with monopoly power, cannot engage in deceptive or unlawful conduct to avoid competition.⁷ And it cannot collude with competitors to increase prices.⁸ Under either theory, the ultimate question is whether the anticompetitive conduct harmed consumers. TurboTax's scheme impeded competition and harmed consumers in two ways.

First, TurboTax deceived a formidable potential competitor, the United States government, from entering the market for online tax preparation and filing services. TurboTax has conceded that it "face[s] competitive challenges from government entities that offer publicly funded electronic tax preparation and filing services with no fees to individual taxpayers."⁹ To combat that threat, TurboTax—through the Free File Alliance—promised to offer free tax filing to at least 60% of United States taxpayers, in return for the IRS's agreement to not offer its own free product.

Black & Decker (U.S.) Inc.*, 801 F.3d 412, 426–33 (4th Cir. 2015); Evergreen Partnering Group, Inc. v. Pactiv Corp., 720 F.3d 33, 47–51 (1st Cir. 2013) (reversing dismissal of a Sherman Act claim when the plaintiff alleged "facts concerning when agreement occurred" and conduct by the market participants "which is difficult to explain outside the context of a conspiracy").

⁹ See Intuit Inc., Fiscal Year 2018 Form 10-K at 9, available at <https://kl.link/2W2iRhM>.

With the non-compete agreement in place, TurboTax implemented the deceptive bait-and-switch scheme described above. TurboTax hurt consumers by depriving them of a truly widely available free-file option, and instead steering them into TurboTax's paid options. And TurboTax maintained its significant market power by shielding its paid products from competition from a free or far less expensive option.

Second, TurboTax colluded with the other members of the Free File Alliance to conceal the Free File program from the entire market, and thus to reduce competition. Instead of competing for Free-File taxpayers to promote their brands and to retain those consumers as fee-generating customers once their incomes outgrew the Free File Program, the members of the Alliance coordinated to suppress competition. They not only collectively extracted a non-compete agreement from the IRS, but they also collectively concealed the Free File product it had promised to provide, to maximize the number of consumers who paid for tax filing services. TurboTax's scheme, while egregious, was mirrored by H&R Block and others; and while other members of the Free File Alliance should have competed for the free-filing taxpayers who fell for TurboTax's scheme (i.e., potential brand ambassadors and future fee-paying customers), the Alliance members all colluded to hide the Free File program and to steer the taxpayers into their respective paid products.¹⁰ By collectively suppressing the number of free-filers, the Alliance members all profited from the fees they received from those would-be-free-filers. And their collusion was wildly successful: In 2019, only 2.4% of taxpayers eligible for the Free File program filed taxes using the program, and the Department of Treasury estimates that more than 14 million taxpayers who were eligible for the Free File program paid to use an Alliance member's commercial product instead.¹¹

TurboTax's anticompetitive conduct violates Sections 1 and 2 of the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. §§ 1, 2. See also 15 U.S.C. § 15.

3 their attorneys’ investigation, by and through their attorneys, allege as follows:

4 INTRODUCTION

5 1. Intuit brings this action to enforce its contractual right to have Defendants’ arbitration
6 demands decided in accordance with the plain text of the parties’ arbitration agreement and the 7 Consumer Arbitration Rules of the American Arbitration Association (“AAA”). Defendants, as 8 purported consumers of Intuit’s TurboTax product, “EXPRESSLY AND KNOWINGLY” agreed to 9 resolve any disputes with Intuit in either arbitration under the AAA Consumer Arbitration Rules or in 10 small claims court. Defendants likewise agreed that they would not pursue any class or representative
11 action to resolve their disputes. Disregarding those clear contractual requirements, Defendants and tens
12 of thousands of additional individuals represented by the same law firm, Keller Lenkner LLC, filed
13 substantively identical, generic arbitration demands arising from their purported use of TurboTax. After 14 collectively filing these identical demands in clear disregard of the bar on class or representative actions,
15 Defendants objected to Intuit’s invocation of its right under the AAA rules to have qualifying claims like 16 theirs decided in small claims court—even though that is unquestionably the cheaper, lower-risk, and 17 more cost-effective way to resolve the merits of these individual claims and can provide all the same
18 relief Defendants seek in the arbitrations. More importantly, upon Intuit’s election under Rule 9(b), the 19 AAA was required to administratively close Defendants’ cases before any arbitrator is appointed. By 20 instead leaving that issue to be resolved by thousands of arbitrators, the AAA has rendered Rule 9(b) a 21 nullity. Intuit seeks this Court’s intervention to restore its contractual right and enforce the parties’
22 arbitration agreements according to their terms, so as to ensure a more reasonable and efficient forum
23 for individualized resolution of Defendants’ claims.

24 2. The goal of these mass arbitration filings is not to vindicate Defendants’ rights, but to 25 leverage the threat of hundreds of millions of dollars in arbitration fees to coerce a settlement that would 26 vastly exceed the amounts Defendants paid to use TurboTax, and where nearly all of that settlement will 27 go to Defendants’ counsel, not Defendants themselves. Defendants generally spent less than $100 to use
28 TurboTax in any given year—indeed, many spent nothing at all—but the fees that Intuit is charged for

1 each individual arbitration are at least $3,200. Intuit has already paid, under protest, nearly $3 million in
2 filing fees for claims that, if successful, would be worth a fraction of that. Many of these claims, which
3 appear to have been solicited through an indiscriminate social media campaign, are so meritless as to be 4 patently frivolous—thereby exposing the claimants to the prospect that they will be required to 5 reimburse Intuit thousands of dollars in arbitration fees. See AAA Consumer Arb. R-44(c). And 6 whereas, in a class action, class counsel would be entitled to no more than 33% of the recovery, under 7 the terms of its online retention arrangement, Keller Lenkner would be entitled to keep much more.

8 3. Of course, if the parties had contracted for such a regime, Intuit would be bound by the 9 terms of its contract. But they did not. To the contrary, the parties agreed to arbitrate their disputes
10 under the AAA rules, which grant to any party the right to take or remove a dispute to small claims 11 court—before an arbitrator is appointed—where the party deems that court a better venue for the 12 dispute. Intuit did not elect small claims court for 564 claims, which will be proceeding in arbitration
13 over the next year. Intuit elected small claims court for Defendants’ 9,933 claims. At least 34,754
14 additional demands have been submitted to the AAA, although Keller Lenkner has not yet remitted the 15 filing fees on behalf of those claimants.

16 4. By providing the safety valve of adjudication in small claims court, the parties’
17 arbitration agreements ensure that the “lower costs, greater efficiency and speed” realized through 18 arbitration, Lamps Plus, Inc. v. Varela, 139 S. Ct. 1407, 1416 (2019) (quotation marks omitted), are not 19 corrupted by a scheme that “would take much time and effort, and introduce new risks and costs for both 20 sides,” Defendants included, Epic Sys. Corp. v. Lewis, 138 S. Ct. 1612, 1623 (2018). Small claims court
21 represents the more efficient, less expensive, and least risky venue to resolve Defendants’ claims, while 22 affording Defendants the same opportunity to obtain full relief for any meritorious claim.

23 5. The stakes of this dispute are magnified by the passage of California Senate Bill 707
24 (“SB 707”), which puts Intuit in the untenable position of choosing between paying tens or even 25 hundreds of millions of dollars in improper administrative fees and facing severe, one-sided penalties,
26 including evidentiary, case-terminating, and contempt sanctions. This lose-lose proposition runs afoul
27 of the Federal Arbitration Act (“FAA”), 9 U.S.C. §§ 1-16, which “specifically direct[s] [courts] to 28 respect and enforce the parties’ chosen arbitration procedures,” including “terms providing for

1 and compliance products and services, including the nation’s leading online tax-preparation and filing
2 service, TurboTax.

3 9. Intuit Consumer Group LLC is a limited liability company organized under the laws of 4 the State of California with its principal place of business in San Diego, California. Intuit Consumer
5 Group is a wholly owned subsidiary of Intuit Inc.

6 10. Defendants are 9,933 individuals who allege that they purchased a TurboTax product to 7 prepare and file their tax returns through Intuit’s commercial TurboTax website, and that their claims
8 fall within the scope of the arbitration clause set forth in the Terms of Service. Each Defendant is 9 purportedly represented by Keller Lenkner LLC, who filed claims on their behalf en masse with the 10 AAA. Invoking AAA Consumer Arbitration Rule 9(b), Intuit elected to have each of these 9,933 claims
11 heard in small claims court. Defendants’ names are listed in Exhibit A to this Complaint as they appear
12 on the underlying arbitration demands.¹

13 11. Defendants are properly joined in this action because Intuit asserts against them a right to 14 relief “arising out of the same transaction, occurrence, or series of transactions or occurrences,” and 15 because Intuit’s claims raise “question[s] of law or fact common to all” Defendants. Cal. Civ. Proc.
16 Code § 379(a)(1).

17 JURISDICTION AND VENUE

18 12. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction pursuant to Article VI, Section 10 of the 19 California Constitution.

20 13. The amount in controversy exceeds the sum or value of $25,000 required for this
21 Court’s unlimited civil jurisdiction.

22 14. The Court may grant declaratory relief pursuant to Cal. Civ. Proc. Code § 1060 because 23 this case presents a real, substantial, and immediate controversy regarding the rights, duties, and 24 liabilities of the parties.

26 _____
27 ¹ There appear to be several errors in the arbitration demands, such as names of individual claimants
28 containing an email address, the same last name repeated twice, or a married couple. Intuit has not altered those names except by omitting from Exhibit A in two instances what appears to be a date of birth that was erroneously included in the claimant’s name. See Cal. Rule of Court 1.201(a).

1 II. INTUIT AND USERS OF TURBOTAX AGREE TO ARBITRATE THEIR DISPUTES IN BINDING
2 INDIVIDUAL ARBITRATION OR, WHEN PERMISSIBLE, IN SMALL CLAIMS COURT

3 19. As the nation’s leading online tax-preparation and filing service, TurboTax allows
4 millions of Americans to file their taxes for free each year. In 2019, more than 12 million taxpayers
5 used Intuit’s no-cost commercial product, TurboTax Free Edition, which may be used for free by any 6 taxpayer of any income level who files a “simple tax return” as defined by the IRS. For taxpayers with 7 more complex tax situations, Intuit offers a range of paid TurboTax products.

8 20. In addition to its commercial TurboTax offerings, Intuit participates in the IRS Free File
9 program—a voluntary, public-private partnership between the IRS and a consortium of online tax-
10 preparation companies. Intuit and the other participants in the IRS Free File program donate online tax-
11 preparation services that Americans below a certain income threshold may use for free. In 2019, 12 approximately 1.2 million taxpayers making less than $66,000 prepared and filed their taxes using 13 TurboTax services donated by Intuit, over 50 percent of those who used the program as a whole.

14 21. Consumers who choose to use Intuit’s commercial TurboTax services to prepare and file
15 their taxes agree to the “Intuit Terms of Service for TurboTax Online Tax Preparation Services” (the 16 “Terms” or “Terms of Service”) when signing into those services online. The Terms of Service for tax
17 year 2018 are attached as Exhibit B to this Complaint.²

18 22. Section 14 of the Terms of Service sets forth an alternative dispute resolution (“ADR”)
19 mechanism, the “interpretation and enforcement” of which is governed by the FAA. Terms of Service
20 § 14. Under that provision, Intuit and users of TurboTax mutually agree to resolve disputes in binding
21 arbitration or, when permissible, in small claims court. The Terms provide that “[a]rbitration will be 22 conducted by the [AAA] ... under the AAA’s rules,” which are thereby expressly incorporated into the 23 parties’ arbitration agreements.

24 23. The AAA has promulgated both Consumer Arbitration Rules and a Consumer Due
25 Process Protocol, attached respectively as Exhibits C and D to this Complaint. The AAA Consumer
26 Arbitration Rules and Due Process Protocol govern arbitration by the AAA of disputes involving

27 _____
28 ² By accessing the TurboTax commercial website, users of TurboTax also agree to the TurboTax
Website Terms of Use, <https://turbotax.intuit.com/corp/terms-of-use>.

1 consumer agreements like the Terms of Service that consumers execute with businesses for personal or
2 household use of services like TurboTax.

3 24. Under the Consumer Due Process Protocol, “[a]ll parties are entitled to a fundamentally-
4 fair ADR,” including “minimum due process standards” such as “access to small claims court” as well
5 as “reasonable costs” and “availability of court remedies.” AAA Consumer Due Process Protocol,
6 Principle 1 & Reporter’s Comments. The purported waiver by a consumer agreement of any of the 7 governing principles in the Consumer Due Process Protocol is “subject to scrutiny” to ensure that such a
8 waiver would conform to “the reasonable expectations of the parties and other judicial standards
9 governing the enforceability of such contracts.” Id., Reporter’s Comments. “The AAA administers 10 consumer disputes that meet the[se] due process standards,” AAA Consumer Arb. R-1(d), and “will 11 exercise its authority to decline administration of arbitration demands where an arbitration clause
12 contains material violations of the AAA Consumer Due Process Protocol,” e.g., AAA, Practice Areas:
13 Consumer, <https://adr.org/consumer> (last visited June 12, 2020) (emphasis in original). As the AAA has 14 confirmed based on its own review, the Terms of Service comply with these due process standards.

15 25. Where—as in the Terms of Service—the parties have provided for arbitration by the 16 AAA in a consumer agreement, they “shall have made the[] Consumer Arbitration Rules ... a part of 17 their arbitration agreement,” and “the application of the AAA’s rules ... shall be an essential term of 18 their consumer agreement.” AAA Consumer Arb. R-1.

19 26. AAA Consumer Arbitration Rule 9 provides:

20 If a party’s claim is within the jurisdiction of a small claims court, either 21 party may choose to take the claim to that court instead of arbitration as 22 follows:

23 (a) The parties may take their claims to small claims court without first 24 filing with the AAA.

25 (b) After a case is filed with the AAA, but before the arbitrator is formally 26 appointed to the case by the AAA, a party can send a written notice to 27 the opposing party and the AAA that it wants the case decided by a small 28 claims court. After receiving this notice, the AAA will administratively close the case.

 (c) After the arbitrator is appointed, if a party wants to take the case to small claims court and notifies the opposing party and the AAA, it is up to the

1 arbitrator to determine if the case should be decided in arbitration or if 2 the arbitration case should be closed and the dispute decided in small claims court.

3 AAA Consumer Arb. R-9.

4 27. The Consumer Due Process Protocol further makes clear that “all parties retain the right
5 to seek relief in a small claims court for disputes or claims within the scope of its jurisdiction,”
6 explaining that such courts are “the least expensive and most efficient” judicial means for resolving 7 “claims for minor amounts,” and “typically provide a convenient, less formal and relatively expeditious
8 judicial forum for handling such disputes,” with “the benefit, where necessary, of the coercive powers of 9 the judicial system.” AAA Consumer Due Process Protocol, Principle 5 & Reporter’s Comments.

10 28. Consumer Arbitration Rule 9 effectuates that due process principle by providing three 11 distinct ways—corresponding to different points in the arbitration—that parties to consumer arbitration
12 agreements may avail themselves of the option to have a dispute resolved in small claims court: First,
13 Rule 9(a) allows a party to bring its claim in small claims court instead of filing it with the AAA.
14 Second, where the claimant has chosen to file the case with the AAA, Rule 9(b) empowers either
15 party—unilaterally—to elect to remove the case to small claims court before the AAA has appointed an 16 arbitrator to the case. The AAA must close the case upon receipt of a party’s notice of election. Finally,
17 where the AAA has already appointed an arbitrator, either party may request to remove the case to small 18 claims court under Rule 9(c), but at that point, the AAA itself does not administratively close the case.
19 Rather, the appointed arbitrator has the power to decide whether to close the arbitration or allow it to 20 proceed.

21 29. Under the Consumer Due Process Protocol, arbitration agreements like § 14 of the Terms
22 of Service should give consumers “notice of the option to make use of applicable small claims court
23 procedures as an alternative to binding arbitration in appropriate cases.” AAA Consumer Due Process 24 Protocol, Principle 11. The Protocol gives the following “example of a possible notice”: “You thus
25 GIVE UP YOUR RIGHT TO GO TO COURT to assert or defend your rights under this contract
26 (EXCEPT for matters that may be taken to SMALL CLAIMS COURT).” Id., Practical Suggestions.

27 30. Consistent with that principle of notifying consumers of their right under Rule 9 to take 28 claims to small claims courts in lieu of arbitration, Intuit’s Terms of Service for TurboTax users provide

1 that “ANY DISPUTE OR CLAIM RELATING IN ANY WAY TO THE SERVICES OR THIS 2 AGREEMENT WILL BE RESOLVED BY BINDING ARBITRATION, RATHER THAN IN COURT,
3 except that you may assert claims in small claims court if your claims qualify.” Terms of Service § 14.
4 That provision does not reference—let alone expressly waive—any other right by either party.

5 31. In contrast, the Terms do require that consumers “EXPRESSLY AND KNOWINGLY”
6 “WAIVE THE RIGHT TO PARTICIPATE IN A CLASS ACTION OR LITIGATE ON A CLASS-
7 WIDE BASIS,” and “AGREE THAT ANY AND ALL DISPUTES MUST BE BROUGHT IN THE 8 PARTIES’ INDIVIDUAL CAPACITY AND NOT AS A PLAINTIFF OR CLASS MEMBER IN ANY 9 PURPORTED CLASS OR REPRESENTATIVE PROCEEDING.” Terms of Service § 14.

10 32. In exchange, Intuit agrees to pay the AAA’s filing fees for consumers who are unable to 11 pay them and to “reimburse all such fees and costs for claims totaling less than $75,000 unless the 12 arbitrator determines the claims are frivolous.” Terms of Service § 14. Under the AAA’s fee schedule, 13 consumers pay $200 to file a case absent a fee waiver, and Intuit pays a $300 filing fee, plus an 14 additional $1,400 case management fee, as well as a minimum of $1,500 in arbitrator compensation.
15 See AAA Consumer Arb. R-4, 5, Costs of Arbitration. Intuit agrees not to seek its own attorney’s fees
16 and costs unless the consumer’s claims or defenses are found to be frivolous. Terms of Service § 14.
17 Upon determining that either party’s claim is “patently frivolous,” the arbitrator may require that party
18 to pay compensation, expenses, and fees associated with the arbitration. AAA Consumer Arb. R-44(c).

19 33. In addition to the fail-safe under Rule 9 that enables parties to take qualifying claims to 20 small claims court, the Terms of Service provide that “[n]otwithstanding anything to the contrary, any
21 party to the arbitration may at any time seek injunctions or other forms of equitable relief from any court
22 of competent jurisdiction.” Terms of Service § 14.

23 III. CALIFORNIA ENACTS SENATE BILL 707

24 34. Following the execution of the arbitration agreements at issue in this case, the State of 25 California enacted Senate Bill 707 into law. See 2019 Cal. Legis. Serv. Ch. 870 (S.B. 707) (West). The 26 law took effect on January 1, 2020.

27 35. SB 707 purports to ensure that employees and consumers who are subject to arbitration
28 agreements have judicial remedies when certain fees are not paid by the “[d]rafting party,” defined as

1 “the company or business that included a predispute arbitration provision in a contract with a consumer
2 or employee.” Cal. Civ. Proc. Code § 1280(e).

3 36. In reality, SB 707 on its face discriminates against valid arbitration agreements and 4 interferes with the enforcement of those agreements as written.

5 37. To start, SB 707 applies only to arbitration agreements and establishes severe, one-sided
6 sanctions for a company’s non-payment of arbitration fees. If a “drafting party” fails to pay its fees “to 7 initiate an arbitration proceeding” within 30 days of the due date, by operation of state law, that party “is 8 in material breach of the arbitration agreement, is in default of the arbitration, and waives its right to 9 compel arbitration”—regardless of the company’s reason for not paying the fees. Cal. Civ. Proc. Code
10 § 1281.97(a). The party’s “breach,” in turn, triggers statutory rights and remedies for the consumer, 11 including the right to withdraw from arbitration and proceed in court, or to “[c]ompel arbitration in 12 which the drafting party shall pay reasonable attorney’s fees and costs related to the arbitration.” Id.
13 § 1281.97(b).

14 38. If the consumer chooses to go to court, SB 707 likewise requires the court to “impose a 15 monetary sanction ... by ordering the drafting party to pay the reasonable expenses, including attorney’s 16 fees and costs, incurred ... as a result of the material breach.” Cal. Civ. Proc. Code § 1281.99(a). The 17 court may also impose evidentiary, case-terminating, or even contempt sanctions, unless it finds that the 18 company “acted with substantial justification or that other circumstances make the imposition of the 19 sanction unjust.” Id. § 1281.99(b).

20 39. If a company later fails to pay fees “to continue the arbitration,” that failure again results 21 in material breach, default, and waiver, creating similar statutory rights and remedies for the 22 consumer—again, without regard to the reason for non-payment. Cal. Civ. Proc. Code § 1281.98. If the 23 consumer chooses to withdraw from the arbitration and go to court, SB 707 not only requires the same 24 monetary sanctions above, but also allows the consumer “to recover all attorney’s fees and all costs
25 associated with the abandoned arbitration,” regardless of “the merits in the underlying action or 26 arbitration.” Id. § 1281.98(c)(1).

27 40. SB 707 places companies in a Hobson’s choice in situations where a party manufactures
28 a dispute as to whether arbitration fees are owed, as is the case in these proceedings. Here, Defendants’

1 position (which the AAA has accepted) is that fees must first be forfeited for these 9,933 cases in order
2 for arbitrators to be appointed to decide, in each case, whether the fees were owed to initiate the cases
3 and appoint those arbitrators in the first place. Backed by the threat of draconian sanctions, Intuit is left
4 with little option other than to forfeit those substantial fees without any semblance of a fair, impartial, or 5 orderly adjudication. Indeed, faced with that very choice, Intuit paid nearly $3 million in fees that are 6 not owed.

7 41. In contrast, SB 707 imposes no sanction on consumers who fail to pay arbitration fees—
8 much less the type of sweeping sanctions imposed on companies.

9 42. SB 707 thus displaces generally applicable contract law regarding what constitutes a 10 material breach, and the remedies for breach, with an arbitration-specific regime that heaps harsh and 11 asymmetric penalties on companies like Intuit that include arbitration provisions in consumer contracts
12 like the Terms of Service. On its face, the law singles out arbitration agreements for discriminatory
13 treatment, in contravention of the FAA’s directive that such agreements be placed “on equal footing
14 with all other contracts.” Cardagna, 546 U.S. at 443. Such a punitive regime will have “a likely 15 deterrent effect on the use of such agreements” in the first place, Chamber of Commerce of U.S. v.
16 Becerra, 2020 WL 605877, at *13 (E.D. Cal. Feb. 7, 2020), thereby erecting a substantial obstacle to the 17 FAA’s “liberal federal policy favoring arbitration,” Concepcion, 563 U.S. at 339 (quotation marks 18 omitted).

19 43. SB 707’s mandatory fee-shifting regime would also displace the AAA rules governing
20 remedies for non-payment and fee-shifting, see AAA Consumer Arb. R-44(c), 54—rules incorporated 21 into many consumer arbitration agreements like the Terms of Service.

22 IV. KELLER LENKNER FILES TENS OF THOUSANDS OF MASS ARBITRATION DEMANDS AGAINST 23 INTUIT

24 44. Defendants are among the tens of thousands of individuals whom a single law firm,
25 Keller Lenkner, purports to represent in successive waves of mass arbitrations filed against Intuit with 26 the AAA. In addition to approximately 125,000 Intuit customers this firm claims to represent 27 individually in connection with Intuit, Keller Lenkner has filed separate mass arbitrations involving 28

1 thousands of other individuals against companies like CenturyLink, FanDuel, DraftKings, Postmates,
2 Lyft, and DoorDash.³

3 45. In each case, Keller Lenkner’s business model is the same. Through online advertising
4 and social media posts, the firm solicits clients supposedly bound by individual arbitration agreements,
5 conducting minimal (if any) diligence on the merits of claims. In at least some cases, Keller Lenkner
6 has partnered with Troxel Law LLP, a purported law firm that does not appear to work on the cases, but 7 instead solicits clients through websites advertising generic allegations against companies and promising
8 that the firm “will start working” on a client’s potential claim as soon as she answers “a couple
9 questions” that “only require 2 minutes of [her] time.”⁴

10 46. Once Keller Lenkner has amassed a list of clients with purported claims against one of its 11 corporate targets, it approaches the company and threatens to file thousands of arbitration demands
12 simultaneously—which, under the Consumer Arbitration Rules, trigger at least $3,200 in fees the 13 company is responsible for paying the AAA to administer each arbitration regardless of the merits.
14 Keller Lenkner then makes clear through its communications with the company that the only way to 15 avoid those fees is for the company to agree to a massive settlement well in excess of the underlying

16 ³ Based solely on publicly available court filings, Keller Lenkner has brought at least 28,000 arbitration
17 demands against these other companies. See First Am. Compl. ¶ 8, Postmates Inc. v. 10,356

AAA, which administered fewer than 6,000 consumer cases altogether in 2018. See AAA, 2018 Annual Report 11 (May 2019), https://adr.org/sites/default/files/document_repository/AAA_2018_Annual_Report_and_Financial_Statements.pdf.

1 liabilities. The fact that it is the “nuisance” value, rather than the merits of the claims, driving the 2 settlement demand is made plain. If the company refuses, Keller Lenkner submits successive waves of 3 generic arbitration demands to maximize its leverage, which thus depends entirely on the firm’s ability
4 to aggregate an increasingly large number of related demands rather than the likelihood of success in 5 arbitrating any individual case.

6 47. Keller Lenkner has followed the same playbook against Intuit. On information and 7 belief, prior to contacting Intuit on behalf of tens of thousands of individuals the firm now claims to 8 represent, Keller Lenkner partnered with Troxel Law to induce Defendants and other prospective clients
9 to sign up through a website that asked a single screening question: “Select the companies you paid to 10 file your taxes.” See <https://signup.turbotaxclaims.com/free-filing-claim> (last visited June 12, 2020).
11 The website prompted users to select one or both of two options, TurboTax and H&R Block, when 12 entering their contact information. Consumers who sign up through the website are emailed “a couple 13 questions about when [they] paid TurboTax or H&R Block.” Id. The website touts that the entire 14 process “take[s] about 2 minutes to finish.” Id.

15 48. The $200 filing fee associated with initiating an arbitration appears to be financed by the 16 law firm or its investors. The client-recruitment website promises that “[s]igning up is straightforward
17 and costs nothing,” and that claimants need only fill out a form and “[t]hat’s it.” Id. While the claimant
18 needs to pay nothing, he or she also stands to gain nothing. If Keller Lenkner employed a retention 19 agreement here similar to that used in its other cases, the firm stands to take roughly $750 off the top of 20 any arbitral award—a sum well in excess of any likely recovery on any claim here. See Unthank Decl.
21 ¶ 26.

22 49. On October 1, 2019, Keller Lenkner filed 1,000 arbitration demands against Intuit with 23 the AAA, invoking the individual arbitration provision in the Terms of Service for tax returns prepared
24 using TurboTax in 2019. All of those demands, as well as the thousands of additional demands Keller
25 Lenkner has subsequently filed, are premised on identical generic allegations that Intuit, in offering its 26
27
28

1 commercial TurboTax services to consumers, failed to disclose to qualifying taxpayers the availability
2 of TurboTax services donated by Intuit to the IRS-administered Free File program.⁵

3 50. Shortly after filing its first 1,000 demands, Keller Lenkner contacted Intuit, claiming to 4 represent approximately 42,000 clients with claims against Intuit and proposing to mediate those claims
5 to reach a global settlement. Intuit agreed to attempt to mediate the dispute, and a mediation session was 6 scheduled for February 6, 2020.

7 51. After receiving the names and contact information from Keller Lenkner for its 8 approximately 42,000 clients, Intuit carefully reviewed each individual's TurboTax history and 9 determined that the overwhelming majority of the claims were frivolous. Intuit informed Keller
10 Lenkner that it was unable to identify 1,349 as TurboTax users and that, for tax year 2018, 6,710 filed
11 their taxes for free despite alleging that they were deceived into paying to use TurboTax last year;
12 another 402 used the Free File offering, the very product they allege they were steered away from; and 13 7,310 were not eligible to use the Free File offering last year. In addition, Intuit found that 13,895
14 others used TurboTax in a way belying any intention to use the Free File offering, either because they
15 used TurboTax after having used a Free File offering in a prior year or because they voluntarily
16

17 ⁵ Specifically, each demand contains the following boilerplate description of the claim:

18 TurboTax is the nation's leading provider of online tax filing services.
19 Since 2002, TurboTax has committed to the IRS to provide free online tax
20 filing for low-earning taxpayers in exchange for the IRS agreeing not to 21 provide competing online tax filing services. Claimant was eligible for free
22 filing through TurboTax's Free File Program. Although TurboTax knew 23 that Claimant was eligible for the Free File program, TurboTax did not 24 make Claimant aware of that program. Instead, TurboTax channeled
25 Claimant into its paid products by offering those products to Claimant while 26 omitting any reference on its website to the Free File program.
27 Furthermore, TurboTax knowingly, intentionally, and willfully misled 28 Claimant by fraudulently representing that Claimant was not eligible for free online tax filing through TurboTax. TurboTax's fraud was particularly egregious because TurboTax repeatedly took advantage of millions of low-income taxpayers like Claimant, in violation of the commitment TurboTax made to the IRS in order to prevent the IRS from offering its own free service. TurboTax's conduct constitutes fraud and unjust enrichment at common law.

The only variation in that description—beyond the claimant's name—is that each asserts that Intuit's “conduct also violates” the consumer protection law of the claimant's home state.

2 Edition.⁶

3 52. In anticipation of the scheduled mediation, Intuit shared its analysis with Keller Lenkner.
4 Intuit explained that based on the tax-filing histories of the firm’s clients, less than 20% had non-
5 frivolous claims and that even those lacked merit.

6 53. On January 28, 2020, within days of receiving that analysis, Keller Lenkner withdrew
7 from the scheduled mediation and simultaneously filed a second wave of 9,497 new arbitration demands
8 against Intuit with the same boilerplate allegations.

9 54. On March 10, Keller Lenkner submitted a third wave of 34,754 generic individual
10 demands—bringing the total number of such demands to 45,251.⁷

11 55. Keller Lenkner has subsequently informed Intuit that it claims to represent approximately 12 125,000 clients altogether. Were all 125,000 cases to proceed in arbitration, Intuit would face at a 13 minimum $400 million in fees, including $37.5 million in initial filing fees before arbitrators are even
14 appointed to hear those cases and long before any applicable fee-shifting based on an arbitrator’s
15 determination that a party’s claim is patently frivolous.

16 V. DESPITE INTUIT’S ELECTION TO HAVE DEFENDANTS’ CASES DECIDED IN SMALL CLAIMS
17 COURT, THE AAA HAS REFUSED TO ENFORCE THE TERMS OF THE PARTIES’ AGREEMENT

18 56. In response to the first two waves of generic and identical arbitration demands, Intuit
19 exercised its contractual right to have Defendants’ individual arbitration demands decided in small 20 claims court. Under Rule 9(b), which is incorporated into the Terms of Service, the parties may 21 unilaterally bypass arbitration in favor of small claims court by serving a written notice of election
22 “[a]fter a case is filed with the AAA, but before the arbitrator is formally appointed.” AAA Consumer

23 ⁶ More recently, on further review of the roughly 45,000 clients now identified by Keller Lenkner, Intuit
24 has been unable to identify 4,498 as TurboTax customers. Of those who have been identified, 9,596 are 25 asserting patently frivolous claims because they used Intuit’s Free File offering, were ineligible to use
26 that product, or used a commercial TurboTax product but filed their federal and state returns entirely for 27 free. An additional group of approximately 18,000 clients had tax situations or preferences that make it
28 highly unlikely they would have used Intuit’s Free File offering, as they now claim.

⁷ Unlike with its first two waves of arbitration demands, Keller Lenkner has not paid its initial filing fees for its third-wave demands, which are not “considered properly filed” until those fees are paid. AAA Consumer Arb. R-2.

1 Arb. R-9(b). Intuit served notice of its election as to 943 first-wave demands on February 10, serving a
2 similar notice as to 8,990 second-wave demands on March 13. Intuit then paid its filing fees as to the 3 remaining 564 cases proceeding in arbitration.

4 57. The AAA, however, has not “administratively close[d]” Defendants’ cases—as Rule 9(b)
5 mandates. AAA Consumer Arb. R-9(b) (“After receiving this notice, the AAA will administratively
6 close the case.”). To the contrary, despite having no discretion to allow these cases to proceed in 7 arbitration, the AAA invited Keller Lenkner to address Intuit’s notice.

8 58. Less than 48 hours after Intuit notified the AAA and Defendants of its election, Keller
9 Lenkner—whose business model is based entirely on leveraging fees triggered by filing large numbers
10 of arbitration demands—objected on behalf of all its clients collectively. It did not disagree that Rule
11 9(b) directs the AAA to administratively close cases when properly invoked, but the Terms of Service, it
12 asserted, “eliminat[ed] Intuit’s right to invoke Rule 9(b)” by providing that ““ANY DISPUTE OR 13 CLAIM ... WILL BE RESOLVED BY BINDING ARBITRATION, RATHER THAN IN COURT,
14 except that you may assert claims in small claims court if your claims qualify.”” According to Keller
15 Lenkner, that language “departs from the default Rules” by converting rights afforded equally to both 16 parties under Rule 9 into a special privilege available only to one party: the consumer.

17 59. Alternatively, Keller Lenkner argued that this language was at least ambiguous and 18 therefore raised an issue of arbitrability to be decided by the arbitrator.

19 60. In several responsive submissions, Intuit explained the numerous defects in Keller
20 Lenkner’s reading of this language.

21 61. First, as Intuit explained, the clear purpose of the language seized on by Keller Lenkner
22 is to notify consumers of their rights, not to abrogate Intuit’s rights. Indeed, far from displacing default
23 rules or indicating any express waiver of a right, the language effectuates the Consumer Due Process
24 Protocol, which directs that “[c]onsumers should be given ... notice of the option to make use of 25 applicable small claims court procedures as an alternative to binding arbitration.” AAA Consumer Due 26 Process Protocol, Principle 11(c).

1 62. Second, Intuit explained that if Keller Lenkner were correct that this notice to consumers
2 somehow abrogated one party’s access to small claims court under Rule 9, the agreement itself would
3 violate the AAA’s Consumer Due Process Protocol, requiring the AAA to decline to administer the 4 cases altogether because “a ‘[k]ey [p]rovision[] of the Due Process Protocol’ is that ‘[a]ll parties retain
5 the right to seek relief in small claims court’” (quoting AAA Consumer Arbitration Fact Sheet, attached
6 as Exhibit E to this Complaint). The remedy for such material violations of the Consumer Due Process
7 Protocol, Intuit underscored, would not be to reject Intuit’s election under Rule 9(b) but to close all of 8 Keller Lenkner’s cases, including those that Intuit has allowed to proceed in arbitration without 9 objection.

10 63. Third, Intuit argued that the application of Rule 9(b) cannot be an issue of arbitrability
11 because, by its terms, that rule governs “before the arbitrator is formally appointed” and mandates that 12 the AAA itself “will administratively close the case[s].” By contrast, Intuit noted, removal to small 13 claims court “[a]fter the arbitrator is appointed” is governed by a separate provision—Rule 9(c)—which 14 leaves “it ... up to the arbitrator to determine if the case should be decided in arbitration or if the 15 arbitration case should be closed and the dispute decided in small claims court.” Rule 9(b) affords the 16 AAA no such discretion.

17 64. Without addressing any of Intuit’s arguments, the AAA declined to close Defendants’
18 cases. On March 6, the AAA informed the parties that it had “determined that the issues presented are 19 arbitrability disputes that must be resolved by an arbitrator(s),” and that it would “proceed with 20 administration of each individual case under the Consumer Rules.” In other words, Intuit must forfeit
21 the fees for each of Defendants’ 9,933 cases before the question of whether those fees were owed can be 22 determined. The AAA provided no further reasoning for its decision.

23 65. Intuit repeatedly sought reconsideration by the Administrative Review Council or other 24 senior AAA leadership. The Administrative Review Council is charged with resolving “administrative 25 issues that arise in the AAA’s large, complex domestic cases,” including “whether the filing
26 requirements contained in the AAA Rules have been met.” Administrative Review Council, 27 <https://www.adr.org/arc> (last visited June 12, 2020).

1 66. On April 9, the AAA reiterated its March 6 decision that the Rule 9(b) issue is a question
2 of arbitrability for appointed arbitrators to decide—after Intuit pays its fees—and rejected Intuit’s
3 request for review by the Administrative Review Council, making clear that further review is 4 unavailable within the AAA administrative process.

5 67. Moreover, the AAA’s efforts to chart a middle course have been blocked by Keller
6 Lenkner. “In the interest of providing the parties with an efficient process” that avoids thousands of 7 arbitrators deciding the Rule 9(b) issue in thousands of individual arbitrations, the AAA proposed in its 8 March 6 letter “the appointment of a single arbitrator to determine this issue for all the disputes,” but 9 only “if [the] parties agree[d]” to that proposal. During an April 3 administrative teleconference, the 10 AAA again asked whether the parties were willing to have a special master decide the Rule 9(b) issue
11 for all the pending arbitrations.

12 68. Although the appointment of a special master would unquestionably be a quicker and 13 more cost-effective means to resolve the Rule 9(b) issue once, rather than have the same issue decided
14 tens of thousands of times—with potentially inconsistent results—Keller Lenkner rejected that proposal
15 on behalf of all its clients without explanation.

16 69. The AAA notified Intuit on March 6 that its payment of over $3 million in initial filing
17 fees for Keller Lenkner’s first- and second-wave demands was due on March 20, and would need to be 18 received by April 19, with no extensions, to comply with SB 707 and avoid having the cases closed.

19 70. On April 17, having exhausted all opportunities for internal review within the AAA,
20 Intuit paid its outstanding balance in initial filing fees for Defendants’ cases under protest.

21 71. On April 24, the AAA advised that it would “abide by any court order directed to the 22 parties specifying the manner in which the underlying arbitrations should, or should not, proceed.” The 23 AAA also underscored that it “did conduct an administrative review of the parties’ arbitration agreement
24 at the time of filing and determined that it substantially and materially complies with the due process
25 standards of the Consumer Due Process Protocol,” thereby further corroborating Intuit’s position that the 26 arbitration agreement did not waive any party’s right to elect small claims court before the appointment
27 of an arbitrator.

1 72. On May 27, the AAA notified the parties that it would initiate all 10,467 cases currently
2 pending over six weeks starting the week of June 1—with 100 cases in the initial wave, followed by
3 waves of 900, 1,500, 2,000, 2,500, and 3,467 cases. The AAA stated that it would bill Intuit for each
4 wave on a single invoice requiring payment of all case management fees for that wave ($1,400 per case)
5 within 60 days of the initiation letter, and that it would appoint arbitrators in batches of 1,000 cases, with 6 the initial deposit for each batch ($1,500 per case) due within 15 days of the appointment. Thus,
7 although the AAA has given no assurances that it has the administrative capacity to resolve the 8 thousands of cases here in a timely fashion, Intuit will be required to pay over $30 million in case-
9 initiation fees by the beginning of November—including over $28 million in fees for Defendants’ 9,933
10 cases, which Intuit elected to have resolved in small claims court.

11 73. By refusing to enforce the plain terms of the parties’ arbitration agreements and Rule
12 9(b), the AAA has set Intuit on an inexorable path that will require it to pay hundreds of millions of 13 dollars in arbitration fees just to initiate arbitral proceedings for the 125,000 individuals Keller Lenkner
14 claims to represent. And Intuit will, once again, be coerced into paying those fees under threat of 15 severe, one-sided sanctions imposed by an invalid state law.

16 VI. DEFENDANTS’ ARBITRATION DEMANDS ARE PART OF A DE FACTO REPRESENTATIVE
17 PROCEEDING PROHIBITED BY THE TERMS OF SERVICE

18 74. Regardless of whether the parties’ disputes are resolved in binding arbitration or small 19 claims court, Defendants, in agreeing to the Terms of Service, “EXPRESSLY AND KNOWINGLY”
20 waived the right to participate “IN ANY PURPORTED CLASS OR REPRESENTATIVE
21 PROCEEDING,” and agreed that “ALL DISPUTES MUST BE BROUGHT IN THE PARTIES’
22 INDIVIDUAL CAPACITY.” Terms of Service § 14. A “basic precept” of the FAA is “that arbitration
23 is a matter of consent, not coercion.” Stolt-Nielsen S.A. v. AnimalFeeds Int’l Corp., 559 U.S. 662, 681
24 (2010) (quotation marks omitted). Thus, in “construing an arbitration clause,” courts “must give effect
25 to the ... expectations of the parties.” Id. at 682 (quotation marks omitted). Intuit has not consented to 26 arbitrate disputes in any representative proceeding, and the parties’ expectations were that disputes
27 would be resolved bilaterally on an individualized, not a class-wide, basis.
28

1 75. As courts have recognized, purportedly individual arbitrations may constitute de facto
2 class arbitration prohibited by the parties' agreement where the chief virtue of bilateral arbitration—"its
3 informality"—has been displaced by the vices characteristic of class litigation and arbitration, including
4 added procedural complexity, time, and cost, as well as the pressure to "sett[le] questionable claims"
5 based on "even a small chance of a devastating loss." AT&T Mobility LLC v. Bernardi, 2011 WL
6 5079549, at *6-7 (N.D. Cal. Oct. 26, 2011) (quoting Concepcion, 563 U.S. at 348, 350). The test is one
7 of "substance and function," not form. AT&T Mobility LLC v. Smith, 2011 WL 5924460, at *5 (E.D. Pa.
8 Oct. 7, 2011). Defendants' arbitration demands, although "nominally filed" as individual demands,
9 "bear all the critical hallmarks of ... representative actions." Bernardi, 2011 WL 5079549, at *6.

10 76. The demands belong to a well-defined class of generic arbitration demands filed by a
11 single law firm purporting to act on behalf of thousands of similarly situated individuals. Each demand
12 is substantively identical, devoid of any individualized allegations or information about the claimant.
13 And each advances the same theory of liability, seeking the same types of relief across the entire class.
14 The term "representative," by "common usage," extends precisely to situations like this in which 15 "functionally identical arbitrations" are pursued in concert. Smith, 2011 WL 5924460, at *6-7.

16 77. The practical effect of such mass arbitrations is also to abandon the "streamlined,
17 efficient and less expensive dispute resolution mechanism" of bilateral arbitration, Securitas Sec. Servs.
18 USA, Inc. v. Superior Court, 234 Cal. App. 4th 1109, 1118 (2015), in favor of what promises to be a
19 years-long "procedural morass," Concepcion, 563 U.S. at 348. The AAA originally indicated to Intuit
20 that it could open about 50 cases per week—a rate at which it would take well over 17 years for the 21 AAA merely to initiate (i.e., to compose initiation letters for and assign case numbers and internal AAA
22 administrators to) the first three waves of arbitration demands that Keller Lenkner has filed. The AAA
23 subsequently stated that it could double its administrative capacity and initiate 100 new cases per week
24 by assigning multiple cases to the same arbitrators. Even at that projected rate, it would be the better
25 part of a decade before many cases are opened, let alone decided. More recently, the AAA has notified 26 the parties of its intent to "open" all of the 10,467 cases currently pending over six weeks, thus
27 triggering Intuit's obligation to pay the AAA immediately, but providing no assurances that those cases
28 will be resolved any more expeditiously.

1 78. Until very recently, the AAA, for its part, has largely administered these cases as a single
2 consolidated action—assessing the fees Intuit owes as a lump sum on a non-itemized invoice and
3 assigning a single administrator who has resolved all administrative disputes globally under a single case
4 number. Intuit has objected to the AAA’s consolidated fee assessment as inconsistent with the parties’
5 agreement to arbitrate on an individualized basis. But under threat of SB 707’s penalties for non-
6 payment, Intuit has no choice but to pay those fees for cases that will take years to be resolved.

7 79. Here, as in class actions generally, the “small stake[s]” for each individual claimant mean
8 that the lawyers are the ones effectively “in charge.” Blue Cross Blue Shield of Mass., Inc. v. BCS Ins.
9 Co., 671 F.3d 635, 640 (7th Cir. 2011). Under the standardized retainer agreement used by Keller
10 Lenkner in mass arbitrations against CenturyLink, clients agreed to pay a $750 flat-rate fee from any 11 settlement in exchange for the firm’s agreement to file individual arbitrations asserting generic
12 allegations against the company. See Unthank Decl. ¶ 26. The agreement also authorized Keller
13 Lenkner “to pursue resolution of ... claims outside of or before initiating arbitration,” and further
14 “instruct[ed]” the firm to accept any “full-value” settlement above a specified threshold amount—$100
15 there—“without further direction or authorization.” *Id.*⁸

16 80. On information and belief, Keller Lenkner has used substantially the same type of 17 standardized retainer agreement for Defendants here. Under such an agreement, any settlement
18 agreement would almost certainly go entirely to cover Keller Lenkner’s fees, with little or nothing going 19 to Defendants themselves.

20 81. By filing thousands of generic arbitration demands—with the threat to file tens of 21 thousands more—Keller Lenkner has opted entirely for a collective strategy whose single individualized
22 feature is that each demand triggers hundreds or thousands of dollars in arbitration fees that Intuit must 23 pay to the AAA. But only by purporting to speak for the entire class of claimants in those nominally
24 individual arbitrations is Keller Lenkner then able to aggregate the fees as leverage to demand a global 25 settlement. That type of aggregation leads to what the Supreme Court has described as “the risk of ‘in 26 terrorem’ settlements” typical of class actions and class arbitration. Concepcion, 563 U.S. at 350. In

27 _____
28 ⁸ The agreement defined “full-value” settlement also to require the release of specified claims against the company and non-disclosure of the settlement terms. Unthank Decl. ¶ 26.

1 this case, however, the pressure to settle is intensified by the certainty of massive arbitration fees that the
2 company will owe once the arbitration demands are filed, rather than the mere risk of massive liability if
3 the company loses on the merits.

4 82. Indeed, the fact that the vast majority of Defendants' claims are frivolous—for example,
5 because the taxpayer filed her taxes for free—only underscores the de facto representative nature of the 6 proceeding here. The risk of fee-shifting where the arbitrator determines that a party's claim is “patently
7 frivolous” makes it irrational for Defendants to have filed their claims in arbitration rather than small
8 claims court—unless the merit of any individual arbitration demand is irrelevant to the settlement
9 strategy being pursued by counsel on behalf of the entire class. Although Defendants' arbitration
10 demands are formally individual, they thereby function as part of a concerted effort by de facto class
11 counsel to threaten costs sufficient to force Intuit into a global settlement, without any actual individual
12 arbitration. “The ‘function over form’ principle” that courts have applied in other cases serves the same
13 “important purpose” here to prevent “undesirable strategic behavior” that exploits “‘questionable
14 claims’” to extort large settlements. Smith, 2011 WL 5924460, at *5, 7; see Concepcion, 563 U.S. at 15 350.

16 83. Although Keller Lenkner is, of course, free to pursue any strategy it wishes consistent
17 with ethical rules governing attorney-client relationships, Defendants as purported users of TurboTax
18 have “EXPRESSLY AND KNOWINGLY” agreed that they would not participate in “ANY ...
19 REPRESENTATIVE PROCEEDING.” Terms of Service § 14.

20 84. If Defendants' mass arbitrations are allowed to proceed in this manner, those proceedings
21 will share none of the features—“lower costs, greater efficiency[,] and speed,” Concepcion, 563 U.S. at 22 348 (quotation marks omitted)—that the parties bargained for, and expected, when they opted to have 23 their disputes resolved in binding individual arbitration or small claims court. Instead, they will have the 24 paradigmatic (and least desirable) features of a de facto class action.

25 COUNT I

26 INTUIT'S INVOCATION OF RULE 9(B) REQUIRES DEFENDANTS' ARBITRATION CASES TO BE 27 ADMINISTRATIVELY CLOSED IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE PARTIES' ARBITRATION AGREEMENTS

28 85. Intuit incorporates the allegations of the preceding paragraphs by reference.

1 86. There is an “actual controversy relating to the legal rights and duties of the respective
2 parties” under their arbitration agreements. Cal. Civ. Proc. Code § 1060.

3 87. Intuit and Defendants contractually agreed that individual arbitration would be conducted
4 pursuant to the AAA Consumer Rules, including Rule 9, the “Small Claims Option,” which permits
5 either party to take the claim to small claims court.

6 88. Under the Terms of Service and the plain text of AAA Consumer Rule 9(b), Intuit has a
7 right to provide written notice that it wants Defendants’ claims decided by a small claims court. Intuit
8 exercised that contractual right by service of written notice on Defendants’ counsel and the AAA on 9 February 10 and March 13, 2020, but the AAA has refused to “close the case[s],” as required by the 10 Terms of Service and Rule 9(b).

11 89. Intuit is entitled under the Terms of Service to request judicial relief against Defendants
12 to enforce the Terms as written. See Terms of Service § 14 (“Notwithstanding anything to the contrary,
13 any party to the arbitration may at any time seek injunctions or other forms of equitable relief from any 14 court of competent jurisdiction.”); AAA Consumer Arb. R-37(d); see also Comedy Club, Inc. v. Improv
15 W. Assocs., 553 F.3d 1277, 1286 (9th Cir. 2009) (construing similar contractual provision to permit
16 parties to “pursue equitable remedies in courts in aid of the arbitration”); Zhenhua Logistics (Hong
17 Kong) Co., Ltd. v. Metamining, Inc., 2013 WL 4777202, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Sept. 6, 2013) (judicial relief
18 in aid of arbitration is appropriate where, “despite diligent attempts to exhaust arbitral remedies,”
19 arbitral tribunal refuses to issue relief on “ground[s] unrelated to the merits” of the underlying claims 20 (quotation marks omitted)).

21 90. Absent a declaration by this Court that Intuit is entitled to invoke Rule 9(b) to have 22 Defendants’ claims heard in small claims court, and to have the corresponding arbitrations
23 administratively closed, Intuit will be deprived of its ability to exercise that core due process guarantee
24 under the parties’ consumer arbitration agreements. And once Keller Lenkner has paid filing fees for its 25 third wave of 34,754 demands, Intuit will imminently be required to pay over $10 million in additional 26 filing fees even if it again elects to have the vast majority of those cases heard in small claims court
27 before arbitrators are appointed—exactly as Rule 9(b) allows. The AAA, by its own representation, will 28

1 “abide by” this Court’s order “specifying the manner in which the underlying arbitrations should, or 2 should not, proceed.”

3 COUNT II

4 SB 707 IS PREEMPTED BY THE FEDERAL ARBITRATION ACT

5 91. Intuit incorporates the allegations of the preceding paragraphs by reference.

6 92. There is an “actual controversy relating to the legal rights and duties of the respective 7 parties” under their arbitration agreements and SB 707. Cal. Civ. Proc. Code § 1060.

8 93. Under the Supremacy Clause of the U.S. Constitution, the laws of the United States,
9 including the FAA, “shall be the supreme Law of the Land; and the Judges in every State shall be bound 10 thereby, any Thing in the ... Laws of any State to the Contrary notwithstanding.” U.S. Const. art. VI, cl.
11 2. Section 2 of the FAA provides that arbitration agreements “shall be valid, irrevocable, and 12 enforceable, save upon such grounds as exist at law or in equity for the revocation of any contract.” 9
13 U.S.C. § 2. The FAA therefore preempts state laws that “flout[]” its “command to place [arbitration]
14 agreements on an equal footing with all other contracts.” Kindred, 137 S. Ct. at 1429.

15 94. A state-law rule can be preempted by the FAA in either of two ways. First, a state-law
16 rule is preempted if it disfavors arbitration by not “appl[ying] equally to arbitration and non-arbitration
17 agreements.” Blair v. Rent-A-Center, Inc., 928 F.3d 819, 825 (9th Cir. 2019) (quotation marks omitted).
18 Second, a state-law rule is preempted if it “stands as an obstacle to the accomplishment of the FAA’s 19 objectives.” Id. (quotation marks and alteration omitted).

20 95. SB 707 is invalid because it “singles out arbitration agreements for disfavored treatment.”
21 Kindred, 137 S. Ct. at 1425. “[O]n its face,” id. at 1426, SB 707 applies only to arbitration agreements,
22 and it imposes on them a definition of “material breach” that is distinct from, and at odds with, generally
23 applicable state contract law. “Normally the question of whether a breach of an obligation is a material
24 breach, so as to excuse performance by the other party, is a question of fact.” Brown v. Grimes, 192 Cal.
25 App. 4th 265, 277 (2011). Under SB 707, “the drafting party is in material breach of the arbitration
26 agreement, is in default of the arbitration, and waives its right to compel arbitration” if it fails to pay
27 certain fees “within 30 days after the due date”—regardless of the amount unpaid or the reason for non-
28 payment. Cal. Civ. Proc. Code § 1281.97(a). Moreover, the statute requires that a drafting party

1 continue to perform its obligations (the payment of fees) even if the non-drafting party materially
2 breaches the arbitration agreement, whereas ordinarily one party’s material breach would “discharge[]
3 [the other party] from its duty to perform under the contract.” Brown, 192 Cal. App. 4th at 277.

4 96. SB 707 is also preempted because it stands as an obstacle to the accomplishment of the 5 FAA’s objectives. “[T]he FAA was designed to promote arbitration,” Concepcion, 563 U.S. at 345, but 6 SB 707 will deter companies from including pre-dispute arbitration provisions in consumer and 7 employment agreements by singling out companies that do so for severe, one-sided penalties. SB 707
8 not only mandates “monetary sanction[s]” against drafting parties that fail to pay certain fees, but also 9 permits additional evidentiary, case-terminating, and even contempt sanctions. Cal. Civ. Proc. Code 10 § 1281.99.

11 97. In addition, SB 707 stands as an obstacle to the FAA’s “principal purpose” of “ensur[ing]
12 that private arbitration agreements are enforced according to their terms.” Concepcion, 563 U.S. at 344
13 (quotation marks omitted). The Terms of Service already incorporate AAA rules regarding fee-shifting
14 and the consequences of non-payment. See AAA Consumer Arb. R-44(c), 54. SB 707 purports to 15 displace that contractual framework for arbitrating disputes under the AAA rules, impeding the 16 enforcement of the arbitration agreement according to the parties’ agreed-upon terms.

17 98. Absent a declaration by this Court that SB 707 is preempted on its face and as applied to 18 the Terms of Service, Intuit and other companies will be deterred from including arbitration provisions
19 in their agreements with consumers, and Intuit will face the same no-win choice: pay millions of dollars
20 in unlawful arbitration fees for claims it elected to have resolved in small claims court, or risk coercive
21 sanctions under an invalid state law.

22 COUNT III

23 INTUIT CANNOT BE COMPELLED TO ARBITRATE DEFENDANTS’ 24 DE FACTO REPRESENTATIVE ACTION

25 99. Intuit incorporates the allegations of the preceding paragraphs by reference.

26 100. There is an “actual controversy relating to the legal rights and duties of the respective 27 parties” under their arbitration agreements. Cal. Civ. Proc. Code § 1060.
28

1 101. Intuit and Defendants contractually agreed to resolve disputes in binding individual
2 arbitration, except where Rule 9 permits resolution in small claims court. Defendants expressly waived
3 the right to participate in a class action or to litigate on a class-wide basis.

4 102. In violation of the parties' agreements, Defendants have commenced a de facto
5 representative action. Although brought as ostensibly individual demands, Defendants' claims bear the 6 traditional hallmarks of a representative action: Defendants' demands and the tens of thousands of 7 others Keller Lenkner has filed are identical in all material respects. Each sets forth the same generic
8 allegations of wrongdoing by Intuit. Each has been filed by the same counsel purporting to act on behalf
9 of all Defendants in its communications with Intuit and the AAA. Here, as in a representative action,
10 the resolution of Defendants' claims are thus, as a practical matter, tied to the global resolution of an 11 entire class of similarly situated claims. Keller Lenkner has acted as de facto class counsel and, as in a 12 class action, has evidently controlled decisions for the entire class with little or no decision-making input 13 from individual clients, executing a strategy that is designed solely to obtain class-wide rather than 14 individualized relief. And there is accordingly the same heightened risk of in terrorem settlement that 15 characterizes traditional class actions—due to the additive effect of the sheer number of claims
16 independent of their individual merits.

17 103. Individual arbitration is intended to reduce the costs and burdens of dispute resolution.
18 But the mass arbitrations filed by Defendants, through their counsel, are designed solely to extract a
19 large settlement from Intuit by applying maximum pressure through the aggregation of arbitration fees
20 associated with thousands of claims, regardless of the claims' underlying merit. See Concepcion, 563
21 U.S. at 350 (“class arbitration greatly increases risks to defendants” because, “[f]aced with even a small 22 chance of a devastating loss, defendants will be pressured into settling questionable claims”).

23 104. Individual arbitration is intended to expedite dispute resolution. Defendants' filing of 24 thousands of identical demands simultaneously, however, ensures that individual claims for relief will 25 not be heard for years, if ever.

26 105. Intuit has not consented to any class or representative proceedings under the parties'
27 arbitration agreements. The mass arbitrations filed by counsel purporting to represent Defendants and 28 thousands of other similarly situated individuals thus displace the “efficient, streamlined procedures” the

1 parties bargained for with a process that will involve substantial cost, inefficiency, and delay.
2 Concepcion, 563 U.S. at 344. Because the parties’ agreements prohibit such de facto representative
3 actions, neither the AAA nor a court may compel Intuit to arbitrate in this manner. See Cal. Civ. Proc.
4 Code § 1281.2; see also 9 U.S.C. § 4.

5 106. This Court should accordingly declare that Intuit cannot be compelled to arbitrate
6 Defendants’ claims on a de facto representative basis, and that individuals who wish to bring claims
7 must do so in accordance with the parties’ agreements.

8 107. In addition, the Court should enjoin Defendants’ de facto representative action before the 9 AAA. See Cal. Civ. Proc. Code § 526(a). Under California law, a court has authority to compel
10 arbitration only “if it determines that an agreement to arbitrate the controversy exists.” Id. § 1281.2; see
11 9 U.S.C. § 4 (providing authority to issue orders “directing that ... arbitration proceed in the manner
12 provided for in [the parties’] agreement”). Further proceedings before the AAA will violate the parties’
13 agreement due to both the de facto representative nature of those proceedings and Defendants’ refusal to 14 adhere to Rule 9(b). Although the AAA has likewise refused to apply Rule 9(b), “[t]he appropriate
15 remedy for an administrative mistake by the AAA” is “for the wronged party to seek injunctive relief
16 against the party initiating the arbitration in an appropriate court.” Int’l Med. Grp., Inc. v. Am.
17 Arbitration Ass’n, Inc., 312 F.3d 833, 844 (7th Cir. 2002). Indeed, the Terms of Service expressly 18 permit Intuit to do just that. See Terms of Service § 14 (“Notwithstanding anything to the contrary, any
19 party to the arbitration may at any time seek injunctions or other forms of equitable relief from any court
20 of competent jurisdiction.”).

21 108. Such an injunction is necessary to prevent further violations of Intuit’s contractual rights.
22 Absent injunctive relief, Intuit will suffer irreparable harm by being forced to pay millions of dollars in 23 fees to proceed with a de facto representative arbitration to which Intuit never consented—or face the 24 severe penalties imposed by an unconstitutional statute.

25 109. By contrast, Defendants will suffer no cognizable harm by being held to the terms of their 26 agreements, which provide for disputes to be resolved in binding individual arbitration or, when 27 permissible, small claims court—not in any class or representative proceeding.
28

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

For the reasons above, Intuit respectfully requests that the Court:

1. Declare that Intuit’s notice of election under AAA Consumer Arbitration Rule 9(b) required Defendants’ cases to be administratively closed;
2. Declare that SB 707 is preempted by the FAA and may not be enforced against Intuit;
3. Declare that Intuit cannot be compelled to arbitrate Defendants’ claims on a de facto representative basis, and that individuals who wish to bring claims against Intuit must do so in individualized arbitrations or, where appropriate, small claims court, in accordance with the Terms of Service;
4. Enjoin Defendants from proceeding further with their de facto representative action before the AAA; and
5. Grant such other relief as may be just and proper.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR ATTORNEYS COMPLETING CIVIL COVER SHEET FORM JS-CAND 44

Authority For Civil Cover Sheet. The JS-CAND 44 civil cover sheet and the information contained herein neither replaces nor supplements the filings and service of pleading or other papers as required by law, except as provided by local rules of court. This form, approved in its original form by the Judicial Conference of the United States in September 1974, is required for the Clerk of Court to initiate the civil docket sheet. Consequently, a civil cover sheet is submitted to the Clerk of Court for each civil complaint filed. The attorney filing a case should complete the form as follows:

- I. a) Plaintiffs-Defendants. Enter names (last, first, middle initial) of plaintiff and defendant. If the plaintiff or defendant is a government agency, use only the full name or standard abbreviations. If the plaintiff or defendant is an official within a government agency, identify first the agency and then the official, giving both name and title.
- b) County of Residence. For each civil case filed, except U.S. plaintiff cases, enter the name of the county where the first listed plaintiff resides at the time of filing. In U.S. plaintiff cases, enter the name of the county in which the first listed defendant resides at the time of filing. (NOTE: In land condemnation cases, the county of residence of the “defendant” is the location of the tract of land involved.)
- c) Attorneys. Enter the firm name, address, telephone number, and attorney of record. If there are several attorneys, list them on an attachment, noting in this section “(see attachment).”
- II. Jurisdiction. The basis of jurisdiction is set forth under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 8(a), which requires that jurisdictions be shown in pleadings. Place an “X” in one of the boxes. If there is more than one basis of jurisdiction, precedence is given in the order shown below.
- (1) United States plaintiff. Jurisdiction based on 28 USC §§ 1345 and 1348. Suits by agencies and officers of the United States are included here.
 - (2) United States defendant. When the plaintiff is suing the United States, its officers or agencies, place an “X” in this box.
 - (3) Federal question. This refers to suits under 28 USC § 1331, where jurisdiction arises under the Constitution of the United States, an amendment to the Constitution, an act of Congress or a treaty of the United States. In cases where the U.S. is a party, the U.S. plaintiff or defendant code takes precedence, and box 1 or 2 should be marked.
 - (4) Diversity of citizenship. This refers to suits under 28 USC § 1332, where parties are citizens of different states. When Box 4 is checked, the citizenship of the different parties must be checked. (See Section III below; NOTE: federal question actions take precedence over diversity cases.)
- III. Residence (citizenship) of Principal Parties. This section of the JS-CAND 44 is to be completed if diversity of citizenship was indicated above. Mark this section for each principal party.
- IV. Nature of Suit. Place an “X” in the appropriate box. If the nature of suit cannot be determined, be sure the cause of action, in Section VI below, is sufficient to enable the deputy clerk or the statistical clerk(s) in the Administrative Office to determine the nature of suit. If the cause fits more than one nature of suit, select the most definitive.
- V. Origin. Place an “X” in one of the six boxes.
- (1) Original Proceedings. Cases originating in the United States district courts.
 - (2) Removed from State Court. Proceedings initiated in state courts may be removed to the district courts under Title 28 USC § 1441. When the petition for removal is granted, check this box.
 - (3) Remanded from Appellate Court. Check this box for cases remanded to the district court for further action. Use the date of remand as the filing date.
 - (4) Reinstated or Reopened. Check this box for cases reinstated or reopened in the district court. Use the reopening date as the filing date.
 - (5) Transferred from Another District. For cases transferred under Title 28 USC § 1404(a). Do not use this for within district transfers or multidistrict litigation transfers.
 - (6) Multidistrict Litigation Transfer. Check this box when a multidistrict case is transferred into the district under authority of Title 28 USC § 1407. When this box is checked, do not check (5) above.
 - (8) Multidistrict Litigation Direct File. Check this box when a multidistrict litigation case is filed in the same district as the Master MDL docket. Please note that there is no Origin Code 7. Origin Code 7 was used for historical records and is no longer relevant due to changes in statute.
- VI. Cause of Action. Report the civil statute directly related to the cause of action and give a brief description of the cause. Do not cite jurisdictional statutes unless diversity. Example: U.S. Civil Statute: 47 USC § 553. Brief Description: Unauthorized reception of cable service.
- VII. Requested in Complaint. Class Action. Place an “X” in this box if you are filing a class action under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23. Demand. In this space enter the actual dollar amount being demanded or indicate other demand, such as a preliminary injunction. Jury Demand. Check the appropriate box to indicate whether or not a jury is being demanded.
- VIII. Related Cases. This section of the JS-CAND 44 is used to identify related pending cases, if any. If there are related pending cases, insert the docket numbers and the corresponding judge names for such cases.
- IX. Divisional Assignment. If the Nature of Suit is under Property Rights or Prisoner Petitions or the matter is a Securities Class Action, leave this section blank. For all other cases, identify the divisional venue according to Civil Local Rule 3-2: “the county in which a substantial part of the events or omissions which give rise to the claim occurred or in which a substantial part of the property that is the subject of the action is situated.”
- Date and Attorney Signature. Date and sign the civil cover sheet.
