Transcript: U.S. Ambassador to the U.N. Nikki Haley
Monday March 5, 2018

Thank you so much. Thank you. Thank you. Thank you so much. You guys are amazing. Thank you so much.

It's so good to see so many friends and I'm honored to be able to say that when I come to AIPAC I am with friends. You know, at the United Nations we sometimes don't have many friends.

I remember last year when we had the vote about America's principled opposition to the Castro dictatorship in Cuba. The vote went against us 191 to 2. The only two 'no' votes – you guessed it – were the United States and Israel. But I always say quality is more than quantity.

Shortly after the 2016 election, President-elect Trump called me to talk about serving in his administration. We had a meeting at Trump Tower and we had some good discussions about a variety of issues. Long story short, his team called me a couple of days later and said he liked me to serve as Ambassador to the United Nations.

I said I'm a governor; I don't know anything about the United Nations. We went back and forth on a few things and the clincher was when I told the president, you know I won't be a wallflower or a talking head. I have to be able to say what I think. Without any hesitation, President Trump said, Nikki, that's exactly why I want you to do this.

President Trump has been true to his word and I think I have too. Some of you might've seen that the top Palestinian negotiator, Saeb Erekat, recently had some advice for me. He told me to shut up. Mr. Erekat, I will always be respectful, but I will never shut up.

When I spoke here last year I had only been on the job a couple of months. Now it's a year later and I know a lot more than I knew a year ago. But as I've learned more about how the U.N. operates, something else has become really clear: it is important to know as much as possible about every country's needs and views. But that's not the most important part of the job. The most important thing is to not be afraid to stick with the fundamental principles, even when they go against entrenched customs.

Some of those outdated customs have gone unquestioned for years. Long before I got to the U.N., I knew a few things that have served me well in this last year. One of those principles is that standing up for your friends is critical.

So on my first day on the job I chose to reach out to ambassadors from four countries. I called the British and French ambassadors because there are our closest allies on the Security Council, I called the ambassador from Ukraine because I wanted to reassure him that America would not waiver in standing up for Ukraine against Russian aggression; and my fourth call on that first day was to Danny Danon, the Israeli ambassador.

Just about a month before I arrived, the United States allowed Resolution 2334 to pass. It was a shameful day for America. We refused to stand up for our friend when it was singled out for terrible mistreatment. On my first day I assured the Israeli ambassador that on my watch that would never happen again. And I'm proud to say it has not happened again.

Unknown: We love you, Nikki.

Amb. Nikki Haley: I love you too.

Standing up for your friends is very important in the United Nations. Another one of the principles I took with me into the job was that I have absolutely no patience for bullying.

When I grew up, we were the only Indian family in a small southern town in South Carolina. On the whole, it was a great community. My parents and my brother and sister and I were always grateful for the support that surrounded us, but that didn't mean every day was great. My parents were immigrants. My father wore a turban, my mother wore a sari. There were times that we got bullied.

When I was governor I did something about it. I started an anti-bullying program. Every month I went to schools throughout the state to talk about bullying. For me, it was just so fundamental. You don't pick on someone just because they look different than you; you don't pick on someone just because they think differently than you or because you can.

This idea has always been with me since I was a child, but I didn't think it'd come to play in the United Nations. It turns out bullying is a common practice in the United Nations.

In the real world, Israel is a strong country with a vibrant economy and a first-class military. On the battlefield, Israel does not get bullied. The Iranians and Syrians can vouch for that.

But the U.N. is a different story. At the U.N. and throughout the U.N. agencies, Israel does get bullied. It gets bullied because the countries that don't like Israel are used to being able to get away with it. Well, just like when I was that little girl in South Carolina, that just doesn't sit well with me.

As many of you know, one of the U.N. agencies with the worst track record of Israel bias is UNESCO. Among many other ridiculous things, UNESCO has the outrageous distinction of attempting to change ancient history. UNESCO recently declared one of Judaism's holiest sites, the Tomb of the Patriarchs, as a Palestinian heritage site in need of protection from Israel. That was enough. Ten months into this administration, the United States withdrew from UNESCO.

There are lots of other things that we do, big and small, week after week, to fight back against the U.N.'s Israel bullying. Every month at the Security Council we have a session devoted to the Middle East, and every month this session becomes an Israel-bashing session. This has gone on month after month for decades. This was news to me when I arrived. It was actually shocking.

I came out of the first session and publicly said if we want to talk about security in the Middle East, we should talk about Iran or Syria or Hezbollah, Hamas, ISIS, the famine in Yemen. There are probably 10 major problems facing the Middle East and Israel doesn't have anything to do with any of them. Just about every month since then in the Middle East session I have spoken about something other than Israel.

I can't say that we've solved the problem, but I can say that several other countries have followed our lead. What used to be a monthly Israel-bashing session, now at least has more balance, but we're never going to put up with bullying.

There's one more principle I knew before I arrived at the U.N. Like most Americans, I knew what the capital of Israel was. To be more clear, I knew that Jerusalem was, is, and will always be the capital of Israel. This is not something that was –

Unknown: I love you, Nikki.

Amb. Nikki Haley: I love you too. This was not something that was created by the location of an embassy. This is not something that was created by an American decision. America did not make Jerusalem Israel's capital. What President Trump did, to his great credit, was recognize a reality that American presidents had denied for too long.

Jerusalem is the capital of Israel, that's a fact, and President Trump had the courage to recognize that fact when others would not. Sometime in the future, the day will come when the whole world recognizes that fact. In the meantime, I hope to be there and join our great Ambassador David Friedman on the day when we open our brand-new American embassy in Jerusalem.

You know, our embassy decision caused a little bit of a stir at the United Nations. In the Security Council, almost exactly one year after the United States shamefully abstained when the Council attacked Israel with Resolution 2334, I had the great honor of casting my first American veto. When I was governor, I used my veto power dozens of times. At the U.N., I never got to do it until the Jerusalem vote. I got to say, it felt pretty good.

The next week, the Jerusalem issue was brought before the U.N. General Assembly. We lost that vote, but to many people surprise, 65 countries refused to go against us. In the long history of U.N.'s mistreatment of Israel, that's quite a record. And we're not forgetting that vote. Like I said at that time, on that vote we were "taking names."

Last week I took a trip to Guatemala and Honduras and I thanked them both for voting with us. God bless Guatemala. They even joined us in moving their embassy to Jerusalem.

And President Trump and I are pushing to draw a closer connection between U.S. foreign aid and how countries vote at the U.N. U.N. votes should never be the only factor in our foreign aid decisions. We have many interests that go beyond the U.N. But they should be one of the factors, and we are determined to start making that connection.

Some people accuse us of favoritism towards Israel. First of all, there's nothing wrong with showing favoritism toward an ally. That's what being an ally is all about.

But this is really not about favoritism. In all that we're doing, whether it's the embassy decision or UNESCO, or what we're doing with UNWRA – don't even get me started on that one – our approach on Israel is tied together by one major idea, the idea that runs through all of it is the simple concept that Israel must be treated like any other normal country.

We will continue to demand that Israel not be treated like some sort of temporary, provisional entity. It cannot be the case that only one country in the world doesn't get to choose its capital city. It cannot be the case that the U.N. Human Rights Council has a standing agenda item for only one country.

It cannot be the case that only one set of refugees throughout the world is counted in a way that causes the number to grow forever. It cannot be the case that in an organization with 193 countries, the United Nations spends half of its time attacking only one country. We will not accept it any longer.

And you know what? That demand is actually a demand for peace. The U.N.'s bias against Israel has long undermined peace by encouraging an illusion that Israel will just simply go away. Israel's not going away. When the world recognizes that, then peace becomes possible.

It becomes possible because all sides will be dealing with realities, not fantasies, and when we deal with realities, then reasonable negotiated compromises can prevail over absolutist demands.

Thank you so much for the support that you have continued to show me. There is nothing better than Americans who use the power of their voices for good causes. That's what AIPAC is all about. It's been great being with all of you.

God bless you. Thank you very much.

Dear Ms. Sloan:

As we noted in our letter dated July 16, 2020, we are processing your request for material under the Freedom of Information Act (“FOIA”), 5 U.S.C. § 552. The Department has identified an additional two responsive records subject to the FOIA. We have determined that both records may be released in part.

We will keep you informed as your case progresses. If you have any questions, your attorney may contact Assistant United States Attorney, Sian Jones, at sian.jones@usdoj.gov. Please refer to the case number, F-2019-06668/FL-2020-00059, and the civil action number, 19-cv-03759, in all correspondence about this case.

Sincerely,

Dear Ms. Sloan:

As we noted in our letter dated September 23, 2020, we are processing your request for material under the Freedom of Information Act (“FOIA”), 5 U.S.C. § 552. The Department has identified three additional responsive records subject to the FOIA. We have determined that all three records may be released in part.

An enclosure explains the FOIA exemptions and other grounds for withholding material. Where we have made redactions, the applicable FOIA exemptions are marked on each document. All non-exempt material that is reasonably segregable from the exempt material has been released, and is enclosed.

We will keep you informed as your case progresses. If you have any questions, your attorney may contact Assistant United States Attorney, Sian Jones, at sian.jones@usdoj.gov. Please refer to the case number, FL-2020-00059, and the civil action number, 19-cv-03759, in all correspondence about this case.

Sincerely,

Subject: Visit By President Trump To Turkey
Attachments: VisitByPresidentTrumpToTurkey2019.pdf
Importance: Normal

First Published 8 July 2019 <https://www.cubatrade.org/blog/2019/7/7/president-trump-wants-to-visit-turkey-and-theres-a-trump-tower-in-istanbul?rq=Turkey>

The Honorable Donald J. Trump, President of the United States, continues to plan for a visit to the Republic of Turkey. Will he visit Trump Towers in Istanbul? Cuba will be a topic.

A goal for a two-night visit to Turkey remains for July 2019 or August 2019 (prior or subsequent to the 45th G7 Summit in Biarritz, Nouvelle-Aquitaine, France) or September 2019 prior to the United Nations General Assembly in New York City.

During the United Nations General Assembly, President Trump anticipates high-profile bilateral meetings (formal and sideline) with leadership of Cuba, Iran, North Korea, Syria, and Venezuela (unified or bifurcated) among others.

H.E. Recep Tayyip Erdogan, President of the Republic of Turkey since 2014, was Prime Minister from 2003 to 2014, and Mayor of Istanbul from 1994 to 1998. President Erdogan leads the Justice and Development Party (AKP). Primary opposition party is Republican People's Party (CHP). Despite current commercial, economic and political challenges for President Erdogan, he and the 82.9 million population of Turkey remain indispensable to the multilateral interests of the United States.

The Trump Administration remains concerned by a re-alignment of Turkey with China, Russia, India, Iran, Iraq and Syria (where Ankara will have a substantive role in the management and rebuilding of the country).

The delay by the Brussels, Belgium-based European Union (EU) in its efforts to include Turkey as its 29th member is no longer considered by Turkey to be of immediate importance; membership has ceased to be an enticement to influence behavior.

Turkey withdrawing from the 29-member Brussels, Belgium-based North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) should not be discounted as a genuine option; Turkey could affiliate with the 125-member and 25 observer countries of the New York, New York-based Non-Aligned Movement (NAM)- Turkey would immediately have a leadership role and revitalize its global influence.

A goal of the visit to Turkey is to project President Trump as not anti-Muslim in a country where an existing narrative is that he is anti-Muslim; with a perception by some that he separates Muslims into two groups- those who are “ civilized ” defined as wealthy, purchase products (particularly defense-related) from the United States, and support United States policies and those who are “ uncivilized ” defined as poor, do not purchase products (particularly defense-related) from the United States, and do not support United States policies.

Venues in Turkey of interest to staff at The White House- National Security Council (NSC) and Office of Scheduling and Advance, United States Department of State, and United States Secret Service (USSS) include the capital Ankara (population approximately 5 million), the largest city Istanbul (population approximately 15 million), and Izmir (population approximately 4 million), located on the Aegean Sea coast and location of substantive photogenic archaeological sites.

In Istanbul, the preferred primary location, President and Mrs. Trump with President and Mrs. Erdogan would visit the Blue Mosque, Hagia Sophia Museum and Basilica Cistern. President Trump and President Erdogan might visit the Suleymaniye Hamam. Mrs. Trump and Mrs. Erdogan may visit Topkapi Palace Museum, Suleymaniye Mosque and Grand Bazaar. There may also be a cruise on the Bosphorus and photo opportunity at the Maiden's Tower; and potentially a visit to one of the Prince's Islands located in the Sea of Marmara to the southeast of Istanbul.

The government of Turkey advocates for Air Force One to arrive at US$8 billion Istanbul Airport (IST) which commenced full operation in 2019 and is located approximately expressway 22 miles from Istanbul. Once completed, expected to be one of the largest airports in the world with eight runways and annual capacity approaching 200 million travelers. Turkish Airlines is reported as the largest airline in the world by number of destinations, currently 304. Turkish Airlines is an “Airborne Embassy” and Turkish Cargo is an “Airborne Chamber of Commerce.”

If bilateral and multilateral defense-related issues are resolved or near resolution, President Trump would have an interest in visiting a military base to reinforce the relationship of Turkey with the United States and NATO (F-35 aircraft manufactured by Fort Worth, Texas-based Lockheed Martin with components manufactured in Turkey). If there are Patriot surface-to-air (SAM) systems manufactured by Waltham, Massachusetts-based Raytheon Company available for viewing, they would be included in any tour. If Turkey accepts delivery of the S-400 SAM from Moscow, Russia-based VKO Almaz-Antey, a visit by President Trump to an installation site should not be discounted as it would provide an opportunity for the President to present reasons the Patriot is superior to the S-400.

Venue concerns are primarily focused upon (though unlikely) demonstrations- in support of the AKP and against the AKP and in support of the CHP and against the CHP. The recently-elected mayors of Ankara (the capital) and Istanbul (the largest city in the country) are members of the CHP and each will welcome President Trump when he arrives to their respective cities. Expect Turkey to consider temporarily closing its overland borders with Syria, Iraq, Iran, Armenia and Georgia as security precautions. President Erdogan will desire to be perceived as a muscular democrat- tolerant to opposition yet unquestioned as to his leadership of the country.

A most significant optical challenge for the Trump Administration is how to manage the desire of President Trump to visit the two-building Trump Towers located in the Sisli District of Istanbul.

According to the required 2018 filing to the U.S. Office of Government Ethics, President Trump certified: “TRUMP MARKS ISTANBUL II LLC NIA 342. Value: None (or less than $1,001). Income Type: royalties. Income Amount: $100,001-$1,000,000. Value reported reflects bank account holding only. Additional Underlying Asset: license deal with ORTADOGU OTOMOTIV TICARET AS - value not readily ascertainable. License holder, New York, NY. Trump Marks Istanbul II LLC shareholders: 1% Trump Marks Istanbul II Corp (role- managing shareholder) and 99%- DTTM Operations LLC (role-member).”

The property is near previously-outlined secure motorcade routes from Ataturk International Airport to the listed hotels (United States government preferred brands include Hilton, Hyatt, Marriott). The Trump Towers are viewable from most rooms in the United States-branded properties in Istanbul.

President Trump has been criticized for visiting properties in the United States and other countries owned/managed/licensed by The Trump Organization as the visits are perceived as a United States-taxpayer funded opportunity to provide marketing value for the personal interests of the President and his family. Thus far, the President has not indicated that he considers such criticism to be justified; and has continued to visit properties even when there is substantial cost to United States taxpayers- golf course in Scotland, for example and no identifiable official purpose.

Opened in 2010, Trump Towers Istanbul (<http://www.trumpistanbul.com.tr/en/default.aspx>) was reported as the first to be constructed on the European Continent.

Trump Towers (Wikipedia):

“Trump Towers, Istanbul, Sisli is a landmark in the historic city of Istanbul. With two towers rising in Mecidiyekoy, one of the city's most vibrant areas, the property captures the utmost in luxury. The residential tower, just under 40 stories, consists of over 200 residences, and will feature the expansive layouts, meticulous eye for design and lavish finishes synonymous with the Trump name. Forest, city and Bosphorus views will be extraordinary through the vista of floor-to-ceiling windows.

In addition, residents will enjoy a full-service spa and fitness center, an indoor pool, a 24-hour doorman, a business center, and a vast range of additional amenities. The office tower, also 40 stories, will offer commercial luxury at its finest, with a private entrance, a beauty center, fitness area and pool for those working in the building. A luxury retail component of over 400,000-square-feet rests at the base of both towers, offering residents and visitors the best in retail and dining with personalized service incomparable to anything in Istanbul.

A prominent tenant in the building has been: Reza Zarrab (Persian: رضا ضراب, Turkish: Rıza Sarraf; born 12 September 1983 in Tabriz, Iran) is a Turkey-based businessman. He has quadruple Iranian, Azerbaijani, Turkish and Macedonian citizenship.

On 19 March 2016 he was arrested in the United States, and is accused of being a member of international criminal organization. He was charged with evading the US economic sanctions on Iran and money laundering in an alleged racket scheme to help Iran bypass the sanctions, involving ministers of the Turkish government of then prime minister and now president of Turkey, Recep Tayyip Erdoğan. His father, Hossein Zarrab, had a close relationship with Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, who served as the President of Iran between 2005 and 2013. The U.S. Department of Treasury accused Hossein Zarrab of violating U.S. sanctions on Iran and slapped a $9.1 million fine against him. His fine reduced to $2.3 million following his collaboration with the U.S. officials.

Zarrab was arrested by the FBI in Miami in the US on March 19, 2016 and was accused of bank fraud, money laundering and helping the Iranian government in evading the US economic sanctions on Iran to hinder its nuclear-weapons program. His charges; conspiracy to defraud, violating the International Emergency Economic Powers Act, money laundering, and bank fraud; could bring up to 70 years in prison if found guilty in the U.S. Federal Court.”

A goal for a two-night visit to Turkey remains for July 2019 or August 2019 (prior or subsequent to the 45th G7 Summit in Biarritz, Nouvelle-Aquitaine, France) or September 2019 prior to the United Nations General Assembly in New York City.

During the United Nations General Assembly, President Trump anticipates high-profile bilateral meetings (formal and sideline) with leadership of Cuba, Iran, North Korea, Syria, and Venezuela (unified or bifurcated) among others.

H.E. Recep Tayyip Erdogan, President of the Republic of Turkey since 2014, was Prime Minister from 2003 to 2014, and Mayor of Istanbul from 1994 to 1998. President Erdogan leads the Justice and Development Party (AKP). Primary opposition party is Republican People's Party (CHP).

Despite current commercial, economic and political challenges for President Erdogan, he and the 82.9 million population of Turkey remain indispensable to the multilateral interests of the United States.

The Trump Administration remains concerned by a re-alignment of Turkey with China, Russia, India, Iran, Iraq and Syria (where Ankara will have a substantive role in the management and rebuilding of the country).

The delay by the Brussels, Belgium-based European Union (EU) in its efforts to include Turkey as its 29th member is no longer considered by Turkey to be of immediate importance; membership has ceased to be an enticement to influence behavior.

Turkey withdrawing from the 29-member Brussels, Belgium-based North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) should not be discounted as a genuine option; Turkey could affiliate with the 125-member and 25 observer countries of the New York, New York-based Non-Aligned Movement (NAM)- Turkey would immediately have a leadership role and revitalize its global influence.

A goal of the visit to Turkey is to project President Trump as not anti-Muslim in a country where an existing narrative is that he is anti-Muslim; with a perception by some that he separates Muslims into two groups—those who are “civilized” defined as wealthy, purchase products (particularly defense-related) from the United States, and support United States policies and those who are “uncivilized” defined as poor, do not purchase products (particularly defense-related) from the United States, and do not support United States policies.

Venues in Turkey of interest to staff at The White House- National Security Council (NSC) and Office of Scheduling and Advance, United States Department of State, and United States Secret Service (USSS) include the capital Ankara (population approximately 5 million), the largest city Istanbul (population approximately 15 million), and Izmir (population approximately 4 million), located on the Aegean Sea coast and location of substantive photogenic archaeological sites.

In Istanbul, the preferred primary location, President and Mrs. Trump with President and Mrs. Erdogan would visit the Blue Mosque, Hagia Sophia Museum and Basilica Cistern. President Trump and President Erdogan might visit the Suleymaniye Hamam. Mrs. Trump and Mrs. Erdogan may visit Topkapi Palace Museum, Suleymaniye Mosque and Grand Bazaar. There may also be a cruise on the Bosphorus and photo opportunity at the Maiden's Tower; and potentially a visit to one of the Prince's Islands located in the Sea of Marmara to the southeast of Istanbul.

U.S.-Cuba Trade and Economic Council, Inc.

The government of Turkey advocates for Air Force One to arrive at US$8 billion Istanbul Airport (IST) which commenced full operation in 2019 and is located approximately expressway 22 miles from Istanbul. Once completed, expected to be one of the largest airports in the world with eight runways and annual capacity approaching 200 million travelers. Turkish Airlines is reported as the largest airline in the world by number of destinations, currently 304. Turkish Airlines is an “Airborne Embassy” and Turkish Cargo is an “Airborne Chamber of Commerce.”

If bilateral and multilateral defense-related issues are resolved or near resolution, President Trump would have an interest in visiting a military base to reinforce the relationship of Turkey with the United States and NATO (F-35 aircraft manufactured by Fort Worth, Texas-based Lockheed Martin with components manufactured in Turkey). If there are Patriot surface-to-air (SAM) systems manufactured by Waltham, Massachusetts-based Raytheon Company available for viewing, they would be included in any tour.

If Turkey accepts delivery of the S-400 SAM from Moscow, Russia-based VKO Almaz-Antey, a visit by President Trump to an installation site should not be discounted as it would provide an opportunity for the President to present reasons the Patriot is superior to the S-400.

Venue concerns are primarily focused upon (though unlikely) demonstrations- in support of the AKP and against the AKP and in support of the CHP and against the CHP. The recently-elected mayors of Ankara (the capital) and Istanbul (the largest city in the country) are members of the CHP and each will welcome President Trump when he arrives to their respective cities. Expect Turkey to consider temporarily closing its overland borders with Syria, Iraq, Iran, Armenia and Georgia as security precautions. President Erdogan will desire to be perceived as a muscular democrat- tolerant to opposition yet unquestioned as to his leadership of the country.

A most significant optical challenge for the Trump Administration is how to manage the desire of President Trump to visit the two-building Trump Towers located in the Sisli District of Istanbul.

According to the required 2018 filing to the U.S. Office of Government Ethics, President Trump certified: “TRUMP MARKS ISTANBUL II LLC NIA 342. Value: None (or less than $1,001). Income Type: royalties. Income Amount: $100,001-$1,000,000. Value reported reflects bank account holding only. Additional Underlying Asset: license deal with ORTADOGU OTOMOTIV TICARET AS - value not readily ascertainable. License holder, New York, NY. Trump Marks Istanbul II LLC shareholders: 1% Trump Marks Istanbul II Corp (role- managing shareholder) and 99%- DTTM Operations LLC (role-member).”

The property is near previously-outlined secure motorcade routes from Ataturk International Airport to the listed hotels (United States government preferred brands include Hilton, Hyatt, Marriott). The Trump Towers are viewable from most rooms in the United States-branded properties in Istanbul.

President Trump has been criticized for visiting properties in the United States and other countries owned/managed/licensed by The Trump Organization as the visits are perceived as a United States-taxpayer funded opportunity to provide marketing value for the personal interests of the President and his family. Thus far, the President has not indicated that he considers such criticism to be justified; and has continued to visit properties even when there is substantial cost to United States taxpayers- golf course in Scotland, for example and no identifiable official purpose.

Opened in 2010, Trump Towers Istanbul (<http://www.trumpistanbul.com.tr/en/default.aspx>) was reported as the first to be constructed on the European Continent.

Trump Towers (Wikipedia):

“Trump Towers, Istanbul, Sisli is a landmark in the historic city of Istanbul. With two towers rising in Mecidiyekoy, one of the city's most vibrant areas, the property captures the utmost in luxury. The residential tower, just under 40 stories, consists of over 200 residences, and will feature the expansive layouts, meticulous eye for design and lavish finishes synonymous with the Trump name. Forest, city and Bosphorus views will be extraordinary through the vista of floor-to-ceiling windows.

In addition, residents will enjoy a full-service spa and fitness center, an indoor pool, a 24-hour doorman, a business center, and a vast range of additional amenities. The office tower, also 40 stories, will offer commercial luxury at its finest, with a private entrance, a beauty center, fitness area and pool for those working in the building. A luxury retail component of over 400,000-square-feet rests at the base of both towers, offering residents and visitors the best in retail and dining with personalized service incomparable to anything in Istanbul.

A prominent tenant in the building has been: Reza Zarrab (Persian: رضا ضراب, Turkish: Rıza Sarraf; born 12 September 1983 in Tabriz, Iran) is a Turkey-based businessman. He has quadruple Iranian, Azerbaijani, Turkish and Macedonian citizenship.

On 19 March 2016 he was arrested in the United States, and is accused of being a member of international criminal organization. He was charged with evading the US economic sanctions on Iran and money laundering in an alleged racket scheme to help Iran bypass the sanctions, involving ministers of the Turkish government of then prime minister and now president of Turkey, Recep Tayyip Erdoğan.

His father, Hossein Zarrab, had a close relationship with Mahmoud Ahmadinejad, who served as the President of Iran between 2005 and 2013. The U.S. Department of Treasury accused Hossein Zarrab of violating U.S. sanctions on Iran and slapped a $9.1 million fine against him. His fine reduced to $2.3 million following his collaboration with the U.S. officials.

Zarrab was arrested by the FBI in Miami in the US on March 19, 2016 and was accused of bank fraud, money laundering and helping the Iranian government in evading the US economic sanctions on Iran to hinder its nuclear-weapons program. His charges; conspiracy to defraud, violating the International Emergency Economic Powers Act, money laundering, and bank fraud; could bring up to 70 years in prison if found guilty in the U.S. Federal Court.”

 A New Form Of "Shock-And-Awe"

I will Extend My Hand. Will You Extend Your Hand?
 The "21" Club For A Hamburger With Chairman Kim?

The annual United Nations General Assembly (UNGA) in New York City will commence on 17 September 2019, with The Honorable Donald J. Trump, President of the United States, expected to deliver his remarks on 24 September 2019.

What is known- President Trump gravitates towards rupturing tradition and re-engineering decisions of Oval Office predecessors. Less certain is the impact by those surrounding him- and those to whom he reaches outward and those who reach him through television.

President Trump will use the speech at the UNGA to discuss reductions in United States military deployments (Afghanistan, Syria), advertise new/revised bilateral and multilateral trade agreements/efforts (South Korea, Japan, USMCA, China, EU, United Kingdom); express concern about a renewal of a global arms race, but reconfirm a commitment by the United States to counter any threat; lament problems with and offer solutions for the United Nations, WTO, EU, and NATO (accepting credit for increasing burden-sharing among members); list countries where the UN should focus attention; mention the efforts of this daughter relating to women's issues; laud United States military prowess and equipment exports; and describe how and recommend that other countries follow the commercial, economic and political lead of the United States so that their countries may be as muscular and respected as the United States has become since his inauguration on 20 January 2017- he will name the successes and name the failures, which will include both friend and foe.

The President's September 2019 speech to the UNGA will be the set-up for his September 2020 speech to the UNGA- which will be less than six weeks prior to the 3 November 2020 election.

The September 2020 speech will be his list of accomplishments delivered on a global stage unavailable to his opponent. He will take personal credit for the positives and reject personal responsibility for the failures. He will project that the United States is again respected; while some in the audience will receive that message as the United States has since 20 January 2017 become more bullying, more threatening, more menacing, and more feared rather than respected. The event will assuredly not be boring.

G7 Meeting

Prior to arriving in New York City in September 2019, the President will steadily increase meetings at The White House with heads of state and heads of government.

The President will have been energized from attending the 45th G7 Summit held in Biarritz, Nouvelle-Aquitaine, France, from 24 August 2019 to 26 August 2019.

There are reports that the United States is evaluating a proposal to expand the G7 (Canada, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, United Kingdom and United States, and leadership of the EU). There are officials who believe the G7 has become an anachronism by not including China and India, the second-largest GDP (China) and fifth-largest GDP (India) and the largest (China) and second largest (India) by population. It should be the G9. And, the argument by the Trump Administration that China should no longer be considered a developing country by the WTO is strengthened by including China within an expanded G7. One perspective for China in the G9: more difficult for China to misbehave on the global stage.

UNGA In September 2019

The President wants to be perceived as the global leader who can be a catalyst to bring together parties with disagreements- regardless of whether the United States has a direct or indirect interest in an issue: North Korea (South Korea and Japan), Syria (Iran, Russia and Turkey), Ukraine (Russia), Afghanistan (Pakistan), Kashmir (India, Pakistan), Venezuela (Brazil, China, Colombia, Cuba, Russia, Turkey) among others.

President Trump has demonstrated an insatiable energy to engage with leadership of other countries.

This September, his schedule and time spent in New York City may be one of the most robust of any occupant of the Oval Office.

He may use his three-story penthouse in Trump Tower as he has used his Mar-a-Lago Club in Palm Beach, Florida: For high-profile intimate meetings and meals. Trump Tower is preferred to a suite or meeting room at the [South Korea-owned] Lotte New York Palace Hotel located less than five blocks from Trump Tower.

Is there a better optic for the President than welcoming world leaders to the lobby of Trump Tower- from where he announced his campaign in 2015? He would be in his comfort zone- and that's important.

The President accepts criticism that meetings may be photo opportunities, but he believes that once a photograph is taken, it's permanent and provides a better foundation from which to move forward than lack of that moment.

This White House staff may object, members of his Cabinet may demure, careerists at departments and agencies may urge caution, members of the United States Congress may deride, allies across the borders and across the seas and oceans may feel exasperated... yet all will energize him.

The President continues to believe that there are elements within the permanent-class of the United States government who work energetically to undermine his policies; and he believes that other heads of state and heads of government with whom he believes to have personal relationships, or could have, are also undermined by the permanent-class within their respective governments which is a reason commercial, economic and political agreements have been delayed. Those governments include China, Cuba, Iran, North Korea, Russia, Syria, Turkey, and Venezuela among others.

From the perspective of President Trump, a strong leader has no fear in meeting with those with whom there are disagreements; a weak leader recoils from a challenge. Would President Trump chase-down at the United Nations a head of government or head of state for a conversation? He might well. The President is a disciple of the school of dexterity.

President Trump will also continue to remind heads of state and heads of government that predictive modeling analysis was wrong in 2016... and could be wrong again in 2020. And, whomever takes of oath of office on 20 January 2021 will likely have a United States Senate controlled by the Republican Party and a United States House of Representatives controlled by the Democratic Party and an national electorate nearly evening divided. So, a country embracing a “wait-him-out” strategy might be catastrophically wrong; and imagine his mood to be accommodative during his second, and final term in office?

The UNGA will be approximately thirteen (13) months- 407 days until the 2020 Presidential Election, so the Trump Administration will want to demonstrate a global mastery of events- and try to craft solutions to be announced. The President will continue to, when necessary, separate his relationship with a head of government or head of state with that of actions by the United States government. President Trump’s schedule may include, among others, individual high-profile meetings with:

H.E. Miguel Diaz-Canel, President of the Republic of Cuba; H.E. Hassan Rouhani, President of Iran; H.E. Kim Jong-Un, Chairman of the Presidium, North Korea; H.E. Bashar al-Assad, President of Syria; H.E. Vladimir Putin, President of Russia; H.E. Xi Jinping, President of China; H.E. Recep Tayyip Erdogan, President of Turkey; H.E. Volodymyr Zelensky, President of Ukraine; H.E. Nicolas Maduro, President of Venezuela; Mr. Juan Guaido, Interim President of Venezuela

Venezuela- A meeting with President Maduro and self-declared Interim President Guaido to resolve the commercial, economic and political issues impacting Venezuela. An expanded gathering might include H.E. Jair Bolsonaro, President of Brazil, H.E. Ivan Duque, President of Colombia, President Putin, President Diaz-Canel, and President Xi.

Cuba- A meeting with President Diaz-Canel to discuss bilateral relations and commercial, economic and political issues impacting Cuba and Venezuela.

Syria- A meeting with President al-Assad, President Putin, President Rouhani, and President Erdogan to resolve the commercial, economic and political issues impacting Syria.

Iran- Despite statements to the contrary, efforts are continuing for a meeting with President Trump and President Rouhani.

Kashmir- A meeting with H.E. Imran Khan, Prime Minister of Pakistan, and H.E. Narendra Modi, Prime Minister of India.

Afghanistan- A meeting with H.E. Imran Khan, Prime Minister of Pakistan, and H.E. Ashraf Ghani, President of Afghanistan. The President would enthusiastically support using his speech at the UNGA to announce the signing of a formal withdrawal of most United States military forces from Afghanistan.

Russia- A meeting with President Putin to discuss renewal of the Intermediate-Range Nuclear Forces (INF) Treaty.

Reunification Of Ireland- A meeting with The Honorable Boris Johnson, Prime Minister of the United Kingdom, and The Honorable Leo Varadkar, Taoiseach of Ireland to discuss the reunification Ireland with UK-controlled Northern Ireland.

United Kingdom/United States Trade Agreement- Prime Minister Boris Johnson has an interest in a United States-United Kingdom bilateral trade agreement ready to be implemented at 12:01 am on 31 October 2019. President Trump would seek to support Prime Minister Johnson. At minimum, the United States and the United Kingdom would adopt a medium-term bilateral trade agreement that mimics existing EU-based terms.

USMCA- A meeting with H.E. Andres Manuel Lopez Obrador, President of Mexico, and The Honorable Justin Trudeau, Prime Minister of Canada, to reiterate their support for enacting the United States-Mexico-Canada Agreement (USMCA).

China- A meeting with President Xi to discuss the bilateral trade agreement and issues relating to the WTO. A goal of President Trump is for the United States to be perceived as seeking a resolution rather than as an obstacle to a resolution. President Trump will continue to separate his relationship with President Xi from the United States relationship with China.

Ukraine- A meeting with President Zelensky and President Putin to seek a resolution to some Russia-Ukraine bilateral issues- prisoner exchanges, return of vessels, border integrity.

Turkey- A meeting with President Erdogan to discuss military issues, regional issues, and bilateral issues including NATO, Syria and Venezuela. President Trump wants to determine a means to retain the financial and employment benefits from the export of the F-35 aircraft to Turkey and opportunities for the export of the Patriot missile system.

North Korea- The United States continues to identify means of transporting Chairman Kim from North Korea to the United States to attend the UNGA. Two options considered include the use of a United States government aircraft C-32 (military version of the commercial version of the Boeing 757) with seating for fifty-five passengers or an aircraft chartered by the United States government- perhaps an Air China Boeing 747-400 combo aircraft or Singapore Airlines Airbus A350-900 aircraft. The C-32 would require a refueling stop as its range is approximately 5,500 nautical miles and the distance from Pyongyang to John F. Kennedy International Airport (JFK) is 6,002 nautical miles. The Boeing 747-400 and Airbus A350-900 can travel nonstop from Pyongyang to JFK (or Joint Base Andrews in Maryland near Washington DC where the Boeing VC-25 is stored- when the President is aboard, the Boeing 747-200 aircraft has the call-sign Air Force One). President Trump could invite Chairman Kim to Trump Tower on Fifth Avenue and to have a (well-done) hamburger at The “21” Club Restaurant.
