Hi Marshall,

Thought I had gotten you our statements, etc, from when we connected a few weeks ago, but realize I hadn't. Sorry about that. Wanted to share that below. I have statements generally on our safety plan and then more specifically on our incident response plan. I've also included some background information on our testing approach.

We'd like to stick to the statements when it comes to our directly quoted comments, but feel free to reference the background information and attribute it to the company, if useful.

Statement on safety plan:

"No single policy or operational change is the answer to stopping the spread of the coronavirus, which why we have taken multi-layered approached to safety. We worked closely with experts and regulators on a plan that combines multiple layers of safety measures to guests and employees. Our plan involves everything from physical plexiglass barriers, widespread availability of masks, handwashing stations and digital technologies designed to reduce contact and avoid lines.

We've also implemented employee and guest screening processes and work to keep our physical distancing policy top of mind for both employees and guests. That has meant comprehensive training and reinforcement for employees and reminders for guests from staff and signage throughout our properties."

Statement on incident response:

"We have detailed incident response protocols based on CDC guidelines. If an employee tests positive, we work to identify those who had close contact with the individual and ensure they are notified and require them to be tested. All positive cases are reported to public health officials and we assist with their contact tracing efforts as well.

MGM employees can be tested at no cost to them and are provided up to two work weeks of paid time off if they are found to be positive. Out of respect for the privacy of individual employees, we will confirm a case only when there is an impact on our operations or the public health."
